TEXAN DIES IN TRAIN WRECK

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

THESE candidates keep buzzing around like bees, the wizard of the newspaper press, who is finishing the installation of the Herald's new 16-page rotary machine, that will, beginning in a few days, turn out your local daily newspaper faster and in better form and appearance than ever before.

Big Spring is the best town in West Texas. It ought to have the best in newspaper service and plenty of cash and labor is being spent right here to provide just that.

Installation of this new press, which is as large and as efficient as any you'll find anywhere west of Fort Worth—and the new Linotype that will be installed presently—are, in a manner, the Herald's answer to any person who can figure a way to believe Big Spring will not grow and become a better city.

We hesitate to dignify it by repeating it, but of all the untrue, unfounded stories about any organization we've heard it is this: that the fire alarm which came in during the recent address of James E. Ferguson in Big Spring, was deliberately turned in by the Chamber of Commerce to try to break up the meeting.

Folks who circulate things like that will break their own necks sooner or later. Give 'em rope. That's all they need.

Speaking of the Chamber of Commerce. To those who so gleefully blame the Chamber of Commerce with everything from the baby's crump to the arrest of daddy's bootlegger, we'd drop the reminder that the most active man in the effort to reach an agreement between those opposing parts of the milk ordinance, and the others, was the manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Watson. In fact, we believe it is entirely safe to assert he was the principal reason why the much-cussed $3 "occupation tax" was eliminated.

Still, they blame the Chamber of Commerce with the writing, the passage and the plans to enforce the milk ordinance when any unbiased man knows that organization had not the least thing in the world to do with it.

We'll get up on the other side of the bed in the morning.

Vacation Bible School to Close

The closing program of the Daily Vacation Bible school will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Assembly Hall of the First Presbyterian Church. There will be a splendid program demonstrating the work accomplished during the term. Certificates of honor for attendance and work done by individual pupils will be presented. This concludes the fourth Annual School held by the Presbyterian Church.

ALLISON IS VICTOR IN FIVE SETS

Fr. Worth Boy Nearly Loses Fight To Italy

AUEUIL, France, July 18. (AP)—America had won one match and was leading in the other when darkness interrupted the interzone Davis Cup tennis final between the United States and Italy today.

AUTEUIL, France, July 18. (AP)—Coming back after losing the first two sets and trailing at 1-5 in the fifth, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, scored a dramatic victory for the United States in the interzone Davis Cup tennis final today, defeating Giorgio De Stefani of Italy, 4-6, 7-9, 6-4, 3-6, 10-8.

Allison, a heavy favorite before the match, found himself battling to a standstill in the early stages but rallied with remarkable courage. Time after time he was on the verge of defeat at the hands of the ambidextrous Italian player, but he fought his way out of danger with a dazzling display of courage and skillful tennis.

For three hours the fortunes of war ebbed and flowed and when Allison, on the short end of a 1-5 count in the final set, began his sensational pull-up to even terms, the gallery rose en masse, shouting and applauding. In the long deuced set it was Allison finally who came through to give the United States the opening point in the series of five matches for the right to challenge the French.

The second match got under way immediately and Baron Humbert De Morpurgo, Italian ace, won the first set from George Lott of Chicago, 6-3.

The point score of the De Stefani Allison match:
First set: De Stefani 42424 24835—35—6
Allison 24142 41653—32—4
Second set: De Stefani 45322 16404 14424 4—36—9
Allison 63544 42424 41242 2—53—7
Third set: De Stefani 24413 24244—30—4
Allison 42322 23444 2444—48—8
Fourth set: De Stefani 22474 43212 4211—41—9
Allison 44232 23444 2444—48—8
Fifth set: De Stefani 54414 51120 25500 423—48—8
Allison 31041 34444 43344 245—57—10.

PROGRAM OF REUNION IS FRAMED

Men and women who helped settle Howard county and piloted it from a vast unfenced wilderness into importance as a center of farming, stock-raising, and industries will hold their annual reunion at Cottonwood Park Friday, July 25. The reunion program was announced by T. H. Johnson, president of the Old-Settlers' Association.

Persons who resided in the county 23 or more years ago, and their families, will be admitted to the reunion grounds. The charge, to defray expenses of the reunion itself, will be one dollar for a family.

President Johnson will call the meeting to order at 10:30 a. m. M. H. Morrison will deliver an address, welcoming the old-timers and S. C. Lamar will give the response. Old fiddlers will then entertain the crowd, followed by a song service, led by W. R. Purser. Dinner, picnic will be served at noon. Old settlers are reminded to bring well-filled baskets. Barbecue, bread, pickles and coffee will be furnished. Short talks by old-timers will be heard beginning at 3 o'clock, followed by election of officers at 4 o'clock. There will be more songs and fiddling, followed by an Old-Settlers' dance.

JIM AND MA PLAN RALLY AT DALLAS

Putnam Delivers Only Address Of Campaign

(By The Associated Press)
Former Governors Miriam A. and James E. Ferguson planned a speaking rally Friday night in Dallas, stronghold of Hoover-democratic sentiment, and home city of Thomas H. Love and Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller.

The engagement would be for the second invasion of the North Texas city by a gubernatorial candidate, Ross S. Sterling of Houston having spoken there Wednesday night. That Dallas would be one of the hardest-fought battle grounds was the prediction of many political observers.

In an address last night at Abilene for his wife's candidacy for governor Ferguson centered his attack on Sterling and the proposed $350,000,000 highway bond issue. He mentioned Senator Love and Governor Dan Moody in occasional jibes but held that other gubernatorial candidates were "not worth discussing." He outlined his own plan to build cheaper roads under a gasoline tax plan giving 3,000 miles of roads and no debt.

Love, speaking at Waco, devoted most of his remarks to denial of charges which he said had been made by Jim Young that he was a "carpet bagger" to a defense and outline of his world war service record, and to denial that he had ever been an anti-prohibitionist. His itinerary called for a speech this afternoon at Lampasas and tonight at Waxahachie.

Frank Putnam of Houston, prohibition repeal candidate for governor, made his only address of the campaign in the city hall at Houston last night. He said no man could be both a democrat and a prohibitionist. "Democracy liberates, prohibition enslaves," he said. "The two words, the two ideas, the two political theories, cannot be reconciled."

He claimed to be the only democrat in the race. Sterling, speaking at Greenville, said that many other candidates for governor had attempted to "get on the band wagon" since they found out how popular the county road bond refund proposition was, but none of the others had shown how they would raise the money. He planned to speak at Cumbly at 10 a. m., today, at Sulphur Springs at 2:30 p. m., and at Sherman at 8 p. m.

Barry Miller again argued against the road bond issue in a talk at Bryan. "The people of Texas are not going to be stampeded into mortgaging their homes and farms to build highways, no matter how much is spent in advertising this $350,000,000 bond issue," he said. This afternoon he expected to speak at Groesbeck.

Clint C. Small spoke at Rock Springs, saying that if elected governor he would work to obtain legislation to assist the federal farm board in its co-operative marketing efforts. His program called for an address tonight at Pampa.

Taking his campaign offensive into Harlingen and the Rio Grande Valley, Jim Young last night asserted Thomas H. Love for the ascertained statement that "negro votes in East Texas helped the democratic victory in 1928." He declared that in Kaufman county, which polled 8,000 democratic votes, "only four negroes voted and all were republicans."

JAIL BREAK BARELY THWARTED; SHERIFF PUTS BAN ON VISITORS

VAN, July 17. (AP)—This thriving town of oil got a new thrill today when passenger service was inaugurated over the Texas and Pacific short line with arrival of an excursion train from Dallas and Fort Worth carrying more than 500 persons. The new line extended 14 miles from the main line at Grand Saline. Gov. Moody arrived early from Tyler and former Gov. Pat M. Neff, chairman of the state railroad commission, rode the special. They were to make speeches.

The first train was welcomed by Joel R. Bond and Frank Jensen, general passenger agent for the Texas and Pacific responded. Three bands, from Tyler, Mineola and Grand Saline, made music and the visitors were served a barbecue dinner.

ROAD TOUR DISASTROUS TO GRIFFS

Western Invasion By American Clubs Damaging

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

The current western trip of the eastern clubs of the American League is proving rather painful to the Washington Senators but profitable to the rest. The Senators started west and the result has dropped them clear out of first place and into a somewhat precarious second.

The Senators left home as league leaders and now are 3 1/2 games behind first place and only four ahead of the third place New York Yankees. They split a series with Detroit and so far have dropped two out of three to Cleveland with their rivals have been sweeping through in a steady stream of victories. Washington dropped another close encounter yesterday, going down 4 to 3 before the Indians as Eddie Morgan's batting gave the home team the edge in a mound duel between Willis Hudlin and Sam Jones. Morgan drove in three runs with a home run and a single.

Seven Straight The champions and leaders, the Philadelphia Athletics, made it seven straight wins, six in the west, by plugging out another victory over the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 8. The Sox again had a bit the better of the hitting, getting 15 blows to Philadelphia's 14, but made few serious threats until the ninth, when they scored five runs. The Yankees added themselves and the Boston Red Sox as well by hammering the St. Louis Browns for 21 hits and a 16 to 7 victory, making it four straight wins for the Yanks and seven successive defeats for the Browns.

Besides improving their position, the Yankees shoved St. Louis into last place as Boston trounced the Detroit Tigers, 12 to 2. Hod Lisenbee pitched a fine game to earn the honor of moving Boston out of the cellar and his mates backed him with 18 hits, five by Earl Webb. The Sox now are a full game ahead of St. Louis and only a half game behind Chicago.

Cubs And Robins Chicago and Brooklyn again were the leading lions in the National League's arena and they tore at each other for 13 innings before the Cubs finally gained a 6 to 3 decision that reduced Brooklyn's lead from three to two games. The final blowoff came when Dazzy Vance, essaying the relief hurling role in a great battle, gave four singles, three of them of the scratch variety, and the Cubs converted them into three runs. Guy Bush did a great finishing job, giving the Robins only three hits in 5 2/3 innings after the home runs by Phelps and Finn had enabled Brooklyn to make it an overtime game.

New York and St. Louis, staging their own crucial series with third place at stake, played second division baseball, committing nine errors between them. Clarence Mitchell held the Cards more or less in check through the early innings and the Giants won out, 12 to 9, although they were out-hit, 20 to 5. The victory gave New York a margin of two games.

The first three clubs of the second division drew a bit closer together in their private race as Pittsburgh gained a 6 to 2 decision over the Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds played havoc with Philadelphia pitching for a 14 to 9 victory. The Pirates now are only a half game behind the fifth place Braves with the Reds another one back.

Mexican Charged With Kidnaping 14-Year-Old Girl

John Williams, constable, today is on the trail of a 36-year-old Spring Mexican, charged with kidnaping a 14 year old Mexican girl, in Justice of the Peace Cecil Plings court. The Mexican is alleged to have taken Lila Galindo from her home Wednesday night. Although the mother of the girl believes the girl left with the man of her own accord, the charge of kidnaping was lodged against the Mexican, as the girl is under age. A Mexican, alleged to have taken the girl and the man to Colorado, in jail here and will be held pending outcome of the case. The girl disappeared from her home in Mexican Town Wednesday night. The case was taken over by Sheriff's Department Thursday morning, with Williams being sent for the couple.

Sweetwater Truck Driver Suffered for Six Years

TRIED ALL THAT TIME TO FIND A MEDICINE THAT WOULD END TROUBLES—HE PRAISES ARGOTANE

"A man would have to travel a long way to find a medicine that will equal Argotane," said Horace Hanks, a well known truck driver for the Gulf Refining Co., who lives at 614 Nueces street, Sweetwater, Texas, a few days ago.

"My trouble started about six years ago," continued Mr. Hanks and I have been trying ever since to find a medicine that would overcome it and Argotane is the only thing I have yet found that has been worth a cent. My stomach was in such bad condition that I would just simply suffer agonies. Every time I ate anything my food would sour on my stomach and I would be terribly bloated with gas for two or three hours after meals. I was badly constipated all the time and had to take a laxative of some kind every day nearly and this condition caused me to have sharp pains under my left side and my left arm would ache and almost become lifeless. I finally got to where I had to go several days at a time and eat only cereals and the lightest kinds, too; it was a very rare thing for me to have a good night's sleep. These troubles just kept pulling me down and many a day I've gone to work feeling so worn out and bad I should have been in bed.

"I commenced to feel better by the time I had finished my first bottle of Argotane and I'm now as well and hearty as any man would want to be. I have the best appetite I ever had in my life, and I eat three square meals every day of my life and I never had indigestion or sour stomach any more. Why I actually eat big meals of meats and cabbage and even onions sometimes, something I didn't dare touch for the past four years and top it off with some kind of pastry now and I never suffer a particle afterwards. I go to sleep soon after I hit the bed every night and I am dead to the world for about nine hours and the first thing I think when I wake up is that I am going to eat and enjoy a good hearty breakfast, and then be off to work with as much life and energy as I ever had. I am gaining in weight every day and in fact Argotane has simply made a well, sound man out of me in every way and that is why I say that you will have to travel a mighty long way before you will find another Argotane."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Big Spring at the Collins Bros. Drug Co.—adv.

Divorced Husband Stops Cash, Mother Of Five Stranded

A woman whose divorced husband has quit paying money for the support of five small children, and who is expecting to become the mother of another child within a few weeks, has appealed to the Salvation Army for aid.

According to Salvation Army officials the woman is in dire need of sheets, pillow cases and baby clothing.

A few garments have been made by the mother out of flour sacks and scraps. The woman with her children, the oldest of which is 12 years, is stranded in a local tourist camp. For a few months after the couple was divorced the husband sent money to aid with the children, but none has been received lately.

The bed clothing and clothes for the baby may be brought to Salvation Army headquarters, or if notified they will come after the articles.

$2 OFFERED FOR THE BEST CANDY RECIPE OF THE WEEK; SECOND PRIZE ALSO GIVEN

Mrs. V. M. Yates and Mrs. E. W. Jones Are Winners of Awards for the Best Hot Sandwich Recipes

BY THE MARKET PAGE EDITOR

Let's be real frivolous today and think of candy recipes. From patience to fudge, from divinity to peanut brittle, send your favorite candy recipes to the Herald, win a first prize of $2 or a second prize of $1 for the best recipes submitted.

Every one likes candy and it is a good thing to have if you have children in the house. Sugar replaces burnt out energy and rebuilds the whole constitution.

Prize Winners

Mrs. V. M. Yates is the winner of the first prize of $2 offered for the best list of quickly prepared recipes for hot sandwiches to supplement the evening meal.

Mrs. D. W. Jones of Monahan wins second prize, $1, for her list of recipes which are excellent.

Honorable mention goes to the following women: Miss Clavie Hambriek, Mrs. Ben Kennas and Mrs. R. C. Willis.

HOT SANDWICHES

Mrs. V. M. Yates, 1711 Gregg St.

BAUCON SANDWICH

Bacon seems meant for hot sandwiches. Hot toasted bacon sandwiches with thin slices of Bermuda onion are snappy little things. Seasonings may vary. One may use prepared mustard, pimiento, cheese if you like, and tomato—it adds a nice taste and gives variety.

Chicken Salad Sandwich
Hot chicken salad sandwiches are done by mixing chopped cold chicken sparingly with mayonnaise, spreading on buttered bread and toasting to a turn. These are particularly good garnished with lettuce leaves and Russian dressing, not forgetting a little cheese in dressing.

Sausage Sandwich
We have a good square meal when we make hot sandwiches with sausages, chopped fine and combined with a little fried onion and chopped sweet pickle.

Ham Sandwich
A marvelous hot ham sandwich is made by chopping cold ham fine and seasoning well with prepared mustard. Beat three eggs, add a cup of milk and beat again. Spread

Swap A Recipe And Find New Cooking Joys

Do you swap recipes with your friends? And not only recipes, but little hints to make your cooking easier and more interesting.

Here are some that we have heard recently.

If you use two tablespoons of butter to one and a half cups of flour and MIX very thoroughly your pastry will always turn out flaky and light. The secret is in mixing and in keeping the dough and ingredients very cold.

Cook pork roast as follows: Rub the roast thoroughly with brown sugar, put in pan. Dump a can of pineapple, juice and all, over the roast and cook slowly with a little water to keep from burning.

the ham mixture on slices of bread and dip in the egg and milk and fry until brown on both sides.

Egg Sandwich
If equal parts of hard cooked egg and chicken liver are chopped very fine, mixed with mayonnaise, a little prepared mustard added, spread on whole wheat bread and sautéed, this sandwich will be found to be surprisingly good.

Any of these sandwiches served with hot coffee and fruit makes a

Let Hot Sandwiches Help Keep Friendships Warm

BY JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON

The little suppers we serve when people drop in informally to pass the evening can be made most enjoyable affairs. The food served does not need to be elaborate, but the menu should be carefully planned so it will be attractive without requiring too much preparation.

Hot sandwiches are especially nice to serve on such occasions and they can be made very easily and quickly. Served with Spanish queen olives, pickles and relishes, such sandwiches form a complete party meal, though crisp cups of lettuce filled with chili sauce, sandwich relish or cold slaw, are favored by many hostesses as a delicious accompaniment.

Serve some of these appetizing sandwiches at your next party, for everyone is sure to like them:

OPEN CLUB SANDWICH—Cut bread 1-3 inch thick and toast quickly so it will not be hard and dry. Then butter each slice. On one slice place a lettuce leaf, and then a slice of tomato. Spread with salad cream, and a tart spicy dressing, which is perfect for this type of sandwich. Next add two slices of buttered toast place a slice of chicken or other cold meat—it may be veal or pork, or in an emergency, a layer of deviled ham. Sprinkle with shredded lettuce or watercress, and top with a spoonful of sandwich relish. Arrange the two slices of toast on a plate, and garnish with slices of tomato or fresh cucumber pickles.

TOASTED HAM AND OLIVE SANDWICH—Brown thin slices of boiled or baked ham (or you could substitute bacon for the ham). Then add 1-4 cup stuffed Spanish olives, sliced, and heat in the hot fat. Place the ham or bacon on slices of buttered toast, add the stuffed Spanish olives, cover with additional slices of toast. Cut in half and serve with a tiny crisp lettuce cup filled

Cold Meats Make An Attractive Dish For Summer Meals

Perhaps there is no more attractive main dish for the summer dinner than a tastefully garnished platter of cold cuts. The department of home economics, National Live Stock and Meat Board, offers these ideas for using cold cuts as a means of easy meal preparation.

A boned shoulder of lamb, roasted, is ideal for slicing. To give it a certain piquancy, the lamb may be rubbed with a bruised clove of garlic before putting in the pan.

Cut the lamb in thin slices and serve it on a bed of cool, crisp watercress. Garnish with slices of cucumber, stuffed olives, and radish roses. Cubes of mint jelly will add to the coolness of this attractive platter.

Arrange slices of corned beef—you will find the canned very good for this purpose—between the rows of sliced beets which have been dipped in finely minced parsley. At each end of the platter put a cupped lettuce leaf, filled with Tartare sauce.

Slices of cold tongue may be alternated with slices of ripe tomatoes and slices of green pepper filled with creamed cheese.

Place a mound of potato salad in the center of a round serving dish. Mark off sections of the mound with thin strips of the white of the hard-cooked eggs, cut lengthwise, and sprinkle alternate sections with yolk of the eggs, put through a sieve. The other sections decorate with finely chopped beets. Place thin slices of cold roast pork around the base of the mound.

To give added flavor and color to sliced cold roast beef, serve it with lettuce cups filled with finely diced spiced beets.

The precaution you observe in making hot biscuits is the one observed in

roasting HILLS BROS COFFEE

You don't throw all the ingredients in the bowl at once. You combine them a little at a time and make a perfect, spongy dough. Hills Bros. roast their coffee by a continuous process—a few pounds at a time—never in bulk, and develop a flavor such as no other coffee has.

Ask for the signal vacuum seal. Easily ground with the grinder. Look for the seal on the can.

together. Dip in slightly beaten egg to which has been added 1-2 cup milk, and salt and pepper to season. Brown quickly in a skillet with several tablespoons butter, and drain on unglazed paper. Serve very hot, garnish with watercress, or a tiny lettuce cup filled with Indian relish.

PEANUT BUTTER, BACON, AND CHILI SAUCE SANDWICH—For each sandwich toast two slices of bread on one side only. Spread the untoasted side of one slice with peanut butter blended with chili sauce. Place slices of crisp bacon on the untoasted side of the other slice, and put the two together. Garnish with preserved sweet gherkins.

DOUBLE DECKER SANDWICH—Cut rye, white or whole wheat bread in thin slices, allowing 3 slices for each sandwich. Spread with prepared mustard sauce. Place a leaf of lettuce and a thin piece of American cheese spread with prepared mustard sauce on one slice, and cover with a second piece of bread. On this lay boiled ham or tongue, and spread generously with sandwich relish. Cover with a third piece of bread. Press firmly together and cut in half diagonally. Place a pickle fan on top each half. This may be served with cold slaw.

TO MAKE PICKLE FANS—Using preserved sweet gherkins, cut very thin parallel sections about the length of each pickle. Then carefully spread out the sections like a fan.

Hints For Homemakers By Jane Rogers

The next time you start out on a shopping tour put a few pieces of candy in your handbag. Sugar is one of the world's greatest energy foods, and it's simply marvelous how a couple of pieces of candy in the midst of a long afternoon in the shops will drive away that exhausted feeling, giving you plenty of energy to carry on.

A Turkish towel placed in the bottom of the dishpan or sink will greatly lessen the chances of breaking fragile glass or chinaware while it is being washed. The glass and china should not be placed in the dishpan until it has been filled with as much water, of the desired temperature, as you need.

GET WASTE OUT OF YOUR SYSTEM

Banish Constipation at the Start with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Look out when you wake up tired and stay tired. Beware of headache, unpleasant breath. These are usually the first symptoms of constipation.

The trouble is that your intestinal system is clogged. You've eaten too many bulkless foods. But you can clean your system safely, if you start at once to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a cereal that you can eat naturally. It sweeps the intestines clear of poisonous wastes. Far better than habit-forming pills and drugs.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoons daily—recurring cases with every meal. You'll like its crispness and flavor. Your system will benefit by its rich store of iron and healthful elements as well as by its roughage.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits and honey added. Use it in cooking. Recipes are on the package for muffins and criddle cakes. Sold by all grocers served by hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MRS. STROUD HAS GUEST Mrs. George Stroud has as her guest, her sister, Miss Frances Wilson of San Saba. MISS BEYETTE TO DENTON Miss Margaret Beyette, guest of Mrs. Larson Lloyd, left this morning for her home in Denton.

PROGRAM OF SHORT COURSE IS COMPLETED

COLLEGE STATION, July 16.—Completion of detailed program for the twenty-first annual Farmers Short Course at the A&M College of Texas July 28-Aug. 1, as announced by Extension Service officials, discloses a wide range of discussion in agricultural and home making fields for men and women, boys and girls. Numerous recognized experts, including W. F. Schilling of the federal farm board, Dr. O. E. Baker, bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture, and others will contribute to the general programs, while the group programs will be conducted by specialists of much experience in their respective fields.

All told, the five day gathering promises a series of addresses and talks covering the general field of agricultural endeavor with emphasis on modern methods and particular attention to time phases. Attendance is expected to be around 5,000 with the representation of 4-H club boys and girls equalling last year's record of 1,700.

President T. O. Walton of the College will formally open the short course with an address Monday morning, July 28. Director O. E. Martin of the extension service will preside at the opening session.

Pageant Planned
The program has been so planned as to offer sessions of particular appeal to members of every group. Special group sessions for men, boys, women and girls have been worked out and general entertainment features, including historical and agricultural pageant entitled "Texas, the Magnificent," to be presented Thursday night on the lawn at Guion Hall, will augment the more serious group discussions and talks.

A series of general lectures programs dealing with the farm problem from three aspects—efficient utilization of land, efficient distribution of farm products and cutting the costs of production—will be held in the mornings. These discussions are expected to appeal particularly to farmers and county agents. Dean E. J. Kyle of the school of agriculture, A&M College, will open this series with a discussion of "The Triangle of Agriculture." Other speakers who will appear in the series of farm problem talks will include: Dr. Gus W. Dyer, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. O. E. Baker, senior agricultural economist, bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture; W. F. Schilling, member federal farm board; John C. Burns, manager Texas Livestock Marketing association, Fort Worth; Lawrence Westbrook, organization manager, Texas Cotton Cooperative association, Dallas, and others.

Speakers
Addresses of general interest, for adults, will be given every night except Thursday night when the outdoor pageant with an all-farm cast will be staged. Speakers for these night programs will include Dr. Gus W. Dyer, Nashville, Tenn.; W. F. Schilling, member federal farm board; Mrs. E. E. Davis, Arlington; Hon. Tom Connally, United States senator for Texas.

Group sessions for subject matter consideration will be held in the afternoon for men, and in the mornings and afternoons for women and girls and for boys. Joint meetings will be held every morning by the boys and girls.

The subject matter programs for men will be given over to discussion of poultry, livestock, field crops and farm engineering and horticulture. Homemakers programs for women and girls will feature subjects of special interest to form women and girls. Recognition of Texas Master Farm Homemakers will be accorded at the opening of these group sessions Monday morning, July 28.

For the sake of convenience the groups of boys and girls will be divided into sections, the boys into four sections and the girls into five sections. Each section of the boys group will receive this same program in turn as will be the case with the girls group.

Special Meetings
Special meetings to be held during the period of the short course and in conjunction with it include: County Superintendents conference, direction Prof. W. L. Hughes, department of rural education, A&M College; Texas Beekeepers' association, July 28-29, Dr. S. W. Billing, department of entomology, A&M college, in charge; Agricultural Writers Conference, sessions every afternoon, A. D. Jackson, chief, division, experiment station, in charge; Experiment Station Workers, daily in experiment station administration building; Extension Workers Conference, daily; cooperative marketing session, Monday afternoon, July 28, with W. F. Schilling, member federal farm board and directors of Texas cooperative associations taking the leading roles.

Miners' Agreement Will Be Approved

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—A new agreement in the Anthracite coal industry, governing wages and working conditions until September 1, 1935, and perhaps for seven months longer, was almost ready today for the signatures of miners and operators.

It called for a continuation of the present wage scale; for a modified check-off system by which operators would collect one dollar a month from each miner to pay his union dues, and for a new method of arbitrating disputes. Broader and more applicable than the present arbitration clause.

It is understood the miners surrendered their demand that in slack times the operators work all miners part time instead of operating them full time the most profitable properties, and that the agreement might be extended to a term of five years and seven months to preclude danger of a cessation of anthracite mining at the beginning of autumn or winter.

Miners and operators were in conference this afternoon, ironing out minor details of the agreement, and the expectation of quick ratification was in the air.

The conference began on June 30.

ADA, Okla., July 18 (AP)—Harold Simpson, 7, died here last night from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile near Fitchugh. Murder charges were filed against C. M. Sims of Seminole, alleged driver of the car.

MAY CUT CRUDE

OWENSBORO, Ky., July 17 (AP)—The Ohio Oil company, purchaser of most of the oil produced in the west Kentucky field, has notified operators either production must be curtailed or the price would be cut. The operators will meet Monday to reach a production agreement. Crude oil is selling here at 1.53 a barrel. Last winter west Kentucky operators curtailed production for three months to forestall a price cut.

PROTEST OVERRULED

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—President John A. Heydler of the National League today refused to allow Chicago's protest of the second game of the Cubs-Braves doubleheader played in Boston. The Braves won the game, 3 to 0, after the play had reverted back to the eighth inning to comply with the 6 o'clock Sunday baseball law in Boston.

spoke last night at San Angelo, denouncing the accusation of Cecil Storey, that his staff was composed of "schoolboys." Storey, he said, had often called upon the "schoolboys" to write bills for him when Storey was a legislator. Storey, he remarked, in most of his criticisms was "ignorant of matters he should know."

Storey scathingly denounced Governor Moody in a speech at Wichita Falls and accused Bobbitt of being aligned with political "rings" in Hidalgo and Webb counties.

James V. Alford of Wichita Falls, former district attorney there, in a speech last night at Mexia said if he were elected attorney general it would be through "the untiring efforts of literally hundreds of volunteer friends in every section of the state."

Lamar Bank Bandits Awaiting Execution
CANNON CITY, Colo., July 17 (AP)—Howard L. Royston and George J. Abshier, Lamar bank bandits, are awaited today in cells five feet apart for their execution, expected tonight.

Arrangements being made at the state penitentiary indicated sometime before morning tomorrow they would follow Ralph Fleagle, leader of their gang, who was hanged last night.

Rev. Father Regis Barrett, prison chaplain, spent most of the day with the condemned men. Plans for the execution were kept secret, but it was believed Abshier would be the first to go. Royston, a war veteran, kept up his spirit to-

How Gangs Get Started

SINCE an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, there are several cities in this land which might study the plight of Chicago, look around their own backyards and put clamps on their own underworld gangs before it gets too late.

Chicago's gangs, a portent for the law-abiding, are not peculiar to Chicago, every large city has them in embryo. In every case they will take the path Chicago's gangs took unless they are choked off before they get fully established.

Detroit, St. Louis and Cleveland have all been troubled by gang fights lately. Cleveland's situation is a case in point, worth examining briefly because it illustrates the general rule so perfectly.

The bootleg liquor business in Cleveland, as in every other large city, is controlled by certain lawless gangs. These gangs, since they operate outside the law, cannot go to court over trade disputes and sales agreements. They have only one remedy—the gun. Recently they have been using this remedy in Cleveland very effectively.

Five gangsters have been killed on Cleveland's streets in the last fortnight. The story is the same in each case; rivalries over territorial rights, sales agreements and the like in bootleg business. In each case the police tell how certain "known criminals" are suspected, and how certain "known speakers" are involved in the warfare. In each case the higher-ups are men of considerable wealth, and political influence.

Now the point is that this is precisely the way Chicago's trouble all started. Chicago let it go; its citizens didn't feel that it mattered much if the bootleggers did take pot shots at one another. As a result, Chicago's gangs today are entirely out of control, and the prospect of putting them down is very slim.

In Cleveland it isn't too late. Swift and efficient action by the police and prosecutor could put these gangsters where they belong. And Cleveland is mentioned specifically here only because it is typical of other American cities.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS What's Wrong With The Jury System In Texas Galveston News: IN THEIR disgust with the jury system as it functions in Texas, many laymen and a few lawyers have become persuaded that the uses of justice would be better served by abolishing the ancient Anglo-Saxon institution of trial by jury.

How's your HEALTH

Who invented glasses? Some say the Chinese, others the Romans, still other claim that the great man philosopher, Roger Bacon, deserves the credit.

In all probability, no single person invented spectacles. Eye-glasses are the product of the works of many peoples and many individuals.

In ancient manuscripts, we find records that the elders employed younger men in reading manuscripts.

Roger Bacon, living in the 13th century, proposed the use of a segment of a glass sphere to aid the vision of elderly persons and those with weak eyes.

In the records of the state archives of Venice we find laws forbidding the manufacture of spectacles out of any other but crystal glass.

Dante and Petrarca mention eye-glasses in their writings. The demand for eyeglasses became marked only after the invention of printing.

The ancient eyeglasses were clumsy affairs, consisting of thick convex lenses mounted in heavy frames.

Their employment must have been as bothersome as the defect which they were supposed to correct. Practically all of them were of the type that compensate for far-sightedness.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD — Many film critics commented on the "improvement" noted in John Gilbert's screen voice as heard in "Redemption" over that of "His Glorious Night."

Gilbert probably gets a kick out of that, for "Redemption" was his first talkie, the other his second. "His Glorious Night" was released first, while "Redemption" was temporarily shelved.

But perhaps a token of his studio's confidence in his future performance is the new and lavish dressing-room bungalow which has been completed for him on the lot.

Meanwhile all reports have it that under the tutelage of Dr. Mario Marafeli, the noted voice expert from the Metropolitan Opera House, the Gilbertian voice will surprise even the meanest critic of his next talkie.

Jack, according to the teacher, has a natural voice suited to his personality—and what's more, he can sing!

NOTES ON EVELYN Evelyn Laye, whose blond loveliness captured Broadway and who is now in Hollywood for talkies, carries a black enamel cigarette case with a tiny watch in one corner, but depends on a platinum and diamond wrist watch for the time.

In London, where the girls worship their stage heroines, she is one of the adored. There is one girl who has gone to see her every night when she played there.

BEHIND THE CAMERA Lowell Sherman and Lionel Barrymore are actors who have made acting a training for directing. Both former directors are now acting, all in one picture.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN

By ROBBIN COONS SYNOPSIS: After she ends her temporary engagement with Tony, Mary Lou rebukes herself for having done it. She really loved him, but she hated to continue a make-believe game.

Brynmor, her sweetheart of former days, calls and asks her to go out with him. She accepts without enthusiasm. He is elated to learn that Mary Lou's engagement with Tony is ended, for he likes her himself.

She is working in the gown shop of Jay Jerome, her cousin. Gwendolyn Carruthers comes in to buy a dress, announcing that she is going out with Tony that night. She decides on a green frock, and Mary Lou purposely substitutes a hideous pink dress for it when she gives the package to the delivery boy.

Chapter 27 ABOUT-FACE Mary Lou was miserably uncomfortable that night at the Savoy. Brynmor had been thoughtful about plans for the evening, but Mary Lou tried in vain to be grateful.

Until now the Savoy had belonged exclusively to herself and Tony. It was there that they had brought Jay and Jerry to celebrate their engagement.

Brynmor raised his voice after they had finished dinner. Mary Lou had no idea how long he had been talking.

"You certainly surprised me when you told me about you and Titherington." "Did I?" She managed to divert her mind, momentarily, from her private trend of thought.

"I suppose you found you didn't like him so well after he came back." "Something like that? Why wouldn't he stop talking about that? She was ready to scream.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS Answered By Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Radio Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

New York City. Is not equality, rather than inferiority, the basis of real friendship?

It is exceedingly difficult to measure equality as a basis of friendship. Who can standardize the emotions? Titania, the demurest queen of the fairies, was swept into dotage and gave her heart to Bottom. You will say this was false, transformed by Shakespeare's genius. True. Yet he could have founded his "Midsummer Night's Dream" on fact. Affection once bestowed too often becomes inappreciable.

Pittsburgh, Pa. I hold, as a scientific man, that science has made religion a back number. You maintain the opposite view. What have you to offer in its support?

The eternal needs of the human heart. Your self-satisfied conclusion is nullified by the deepest demands of our common being. This I assert, not as an antagonist of knowledge, but as an enthusiastic adherent of its further organization and progress. Modern science and its applications have produced marvelous changes in the material realm which have reacted bene-

Two persons you know who possess these qualities. They may cleave to each other, and again, they may not. The outcome is entirely too uncertain to warrant assurance beforehand. As an abstract issue, however, kindred sympathies and requirements offer a better approach to friendship than marked disparities between a "superior" and an "inferior."

ble of gauging mental, moral or spiritual equality between the lover and the beloved.

Again, how is inferiority to be determined? Two friends may differ widely in personality, education and achievement. Nevertheless, the one has what the other lacks, and their contacts ameliorate their respective deficiencies. There is frequently no accounting for one's likes and dislikes. They refuse to follow rules or probabilities.

Suppose you carefully prepare a code of friendship, classifying the qualities it demands and naming tionally on the moral and religious realms.

Yet these changes, together with others which are not conducive to the growth of healthy personality, are forever subordinated to that personality. The savage elements in man can be so fostered by what he knows as to render educated people the worst villains who prey on society. To be helpful, knowledge must have the guidance of ethical intelligence. The present problem of war versus peace confirms that position.

Whence comes ethical intelligence? How can the individual, the group, the State, even the Church, rise above themselves to greater things of the spirit? The answer is given by our racial experience. Humanity and its institutions alike depend upon a righteousness they cannot create. Religion is the source of that righteousness; hence, its indispensability. Were its control withdrawn today, civilization would collapse tomorrow.

I recall transformations wrought by faith in God which have made ugly lives lovely, profligate pure, misers generous, liars truthful, rogues honest, pharisees humble and self-lovers sacrificial. The grubby gray of their lives was lifted from above with hallowing radiation. You may not believe this, nor is it necessary that you should. The facts speak for themselves. The point is, they believed it, they knew they had passed from darkness to dawn, and they acted on their belief. The value of existence was reestablished for them by one flash of heavenly illumination. Henceforth they were children of the day, not of the night. Can science do this? If so, more power to its elbow. But religion does it hourly throughout the earth. So your skepticism gives me no concern except for yourself.

Newark, N. J.
What is the meaning of Job's saying, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in Him"? Why should one trust a God who kills His creatures?

The patriarch was confronted by life's inexplicable mysteries. The unanswerable facts of existence surged upon his body and his soul. The cataclysms of nature and the wickedness of men conspired against him. Destruction raged around him without regard to good or evil. The silence of God during these stupendous calamities seemed as strange to Job as it did to millions of our time during the World War.

Where law the solution of the problem? The answer was in the ageless difference between appearance and reality. You recall that in the sequel of this great drama Job was not deserted. The forces of nature brought him additional prosperity. The designs of his enemies collapsed. The patronizing counsels of his friends were rebuked. God broke the awful stillness and commanded His afflicted servant to reflect upon the infinite gulf between the presiding mind of the universe and the human mind. Faith, not sight; trust, not comprehension, were the attributes becom- ing mortal man. Those attributes were finally vindicated and the confession you quote voices the ultimate triumph of the righteous soul over all antagonistic circumstances.

What 50 Texas Newspapers Say Editorially About Sterling

— The Bond Plan in A-B-C —

Houston Chronicle: "Sometimes there arises a fearless man, ready for a fight at any time if he must have it, and yet a man who never gets stopped by strife. With him strife never gets to be the main issue. Somehow he passes by antagonism and goes on to his great accomplishments. We have in R. S. Sterling of Houston such a man. Some said R. S. Sterling could not lay aside his large responsibilities of the present to become Governor of Texas. R. S. Sterling did not say that. By tried and true experience, we know him to be the man to take the helm, and it was like few other men, yet it was like R. S. Sterling to say that he would do it."

Beaumont Enterprise: "The Lone Star State has a wonderful political opportunity before it, an opportunity to elect a man Governor who in integrity, ability and zeal is probably not surpassed by any other citizen of Texas, who stands head and shoulders above most of the field of gubernatorial candidates now scrambling for this important office."

Palacios Beacon: "The Beacon gives its whole-hearted support to the candidacy of R. S. Sterling for Governor. Member of the church, business man, philanthropist, loyal friend, road builder—R. S. Sterling will make the type of Governor Texas needs."

San Benito Light: "We welcome the entry of a business man into the ring. If Ross Sterling can make just half the success of the management of the State's affairs that he has made in the management of his own affairs the result will be so far ahead of anything Texas has seen for years as to be positively astonishing."

Sam Miller, Paraphraser and Editor of the Mineral Wells Index: "What I would like to see in the matter of Governor is R. S. Sterling elected. That would break up the old demagogue that has ruled so long."

Golded Advance Guard: "We had been hoping and expecting for some time that Mr. Sterling would run, but until he so stated, this was but a hope. Now things are different and we expect to see Ross Sterling of Houston, Texas, our next Governor."

Texas Weekly, Dallas: "While we are not supporting any political candidate, Mr. Sterling would suit us as Governor. . . . Mr. Sterling is both an able and a good man. His ability has been amply demonstrated in one of the most important public offices of the State."

Alice News: "If Alice folks think along the same lines as do the rest of Texas folks, then Mr. Sterling will be high man unless somebody drops another bombshell before the July primary."

The Valley Morning Star, Harlingen: "R. S. Sterling should be next Governor of Texas. . . . Texas, a growing state of nearly 6,000,000 people, is entitled to a business administration headed by a business man. The State's business is the biggest in Texas and to run it the taxpayers are entitled to the biggest man they can hire for the measly $4,000 a year salary the office pays."

Williamson County Sun: "R. S. Sterling could easily bring about an administration that would be a credit to the State."

Marfa Sentinel: "The advent of Mr. Sterling into the Governor's race seems to have created a little sensation. . . . He has made a splendid record in his administration of state highway affairs and no doubt would give the State of Texas a business administration as Governor."

Madisonville Meteor: "Sterling is eminently qualified from every standpoint and is one of the outstanding business men of Texas."

Schulenburg Sticker: "We conscientiously feel that no better man in Texas could be chosen to fill the executive chair. Ross Sterling is an able man, a business man, and that is what Texas needs."

Palacios Beacon: "Palacios is practically 100 per cent strong for electing R. S. Sterling as Governor of Texas."

Silbee Bee: "Mr. Sterling is the type of man Texas needs for Governor and has needed for a long time. He is a business man and not a politician."

The Dallas News: "The Houston candidate, in short, bids fair to make his greatest political capital out of what had previously been regarded as the weakest of his assets."

Fredericksburg Standard: "The confusion which existed among the forces of good government in Texas for lack of candid leadership ended with the announcement of R. S. Sterling. His ability as a leader of men and affairs and his honesty of both purpose and accomplishment make him without a peer in the Governor's race."

Huntsville Item: "South and East Texas have lined up solidly behind the candidacy of Mr. Sterling, and will give him a majority over the entire field in the first primary."

Hamilton Herald-Record: "It is not the resignation from the highway commission that the opponents of R. S. Sterling really desire. The real desire of their hearts is that he resign as a candidate for Governor."

Ablene Reporter: "We need Ross Sterling in the Governor's chair. The Reporter hopes to see him elected because it is convinced that he alone among the candidates has the ability, the disinterestedness and the unselfish desire for public service that should characterize the man who occupies that important and exalted office."

The Jewish Herald, Houston: "The Herald is confident that with the election of R. S. Sterling as Governor there will enter into the office a man who will recognize public office as a public trust, and that the constitutional rights of its citizenship will be maintained with dignity and the welfare of the State will go forward and onward."

Ablene Morning News: "Sterling stands apart. He is different. You can figure that, having done a top-notch job on the highways with his co-commissioners, Johnson and Ely, he can be counted on to apply the same successful methods to the other departments of the State."

The Laredo Times: "With such a friend as Ross Sterling on the highway commission, Laredo and this potent section of South Texas have nothing to fear. He has never been solicited to satisfy Laredo's needs. A man of his calibre in the Governor's chair would be an enormous asset to this great, growing State. Voters should turn a deaf ear to the bellowing of Jim Ferguson, who will fly Sterling because he happens to be rich because he advocates a highway bond issue."

The Crockett Courier: "Having read most all the speeches and platforms of the various candidates for Governor of Texas, the Courier editor has decided to give his support to Hon. Ross Sterling of Houston."

The Denison Daily Herald: "The list of Democratic candidates for governor has been reduced by withdrawals to 11, and of these only two or three are outstanding. It is the opinion of the Herald that the most capable of these and the man most likely to give Texas the best and most progressive administration is R. S. Sterling of Houston. We base this conclusion on a number of considerations, but chiefly on the fact that Mr. Sterling is an outstanding business man with a workable platform."

Corpus Christi Times-Caller: "Texas is tired of the tempestuous tirades of truculent tall-twisters and throat thumpers. What Texas needs and wants is a man in his chief executive office who talks little and does much. The career of Ross Sterling has been a career of deeds and not words. Outstanding among all of those who have offered for the office, his is the type of leadership which our present needs appear most urgently to demand."

The Wichita Times, Wichita Falls: "The Times is not supporting Mr. Sterling or anyone else in the gubernatorial contest, but we are glad that the voters who want a man of proven, constructive leadership, will have the chance to vote for such a man."

The Mission Times: "No man can better afford, nor is there a man as eminently qualified to give Texas an economical, business administration as Ross Sterling."

The Grapeland Messenger: "Mr. Sterling has served the people of Texas honestly and efficiently. We believe he would do the same thing as Governor and his candidacy should be enthusiastically received all over the State."

The Alto Herald: "The Alto Herald will support Mr. Sterling in this campaign because we know him; because we sincerely believe that he will make us a successful Governor, and we have assurance that he has shouldered propositions just as big as the governorship of Texas and the Empire State will make no mistake if he is selected to take up the job where Dan Moody leaves off."

— The Bond Plan in A-B-C —

The statewide road bond issue, payable with the gasoline tax, could have a very proper place in the campaigns for members of both houses of the legislature, but it can have no proper place in the campaign for governor. This is so because it must be done, if at all, by a constitutional amendment and, with that, the governor has nothing to do. He can not submit it to the people himself, he can not officially submit it to the legislature and he can not veto or have anything to do otherwise with the action of the legislature upon it. The position, therefore, of the governor of Texas, whoever he may be, with respect to the bond issue is neither more nor less than that of any other citizen.

Because R. S. Sterling has heretofore vigorously advocated the bond plan and, as a citizen of Texas, loses no opportunity now to say that he favors it, some of the opposition to him are misrepresenting that plan to the people of Texas. The circumstances indicate that they misunderstand it themselves, with one single exception, no man who has had recent, responsible experience with the highways can be found in their ranks. In view of the misconceptions which have been placed upon it, a good purpose might be served with a few questions and a few answers.

Question: How are the bonds to be retired?
Answer: Solely with the gasoline tax or, in years to come, with whatever may be substituted for gasoline as the source of power.

Question: Is it in reality a tax?
Answer: No, it is in reality road rent and only a tax at all in the technical sense that it is a revenue collected by the government.

Question: Can there ever be levied a real estate tax to pay these statewide road bonds?
Answer: No, the plan expressly provides to the contrary.

Question: Will it relieve any existing tax on real estate?
Answer: Yes, it will relieve approximately $10,000,000 worth of county and district road bonds now outstanding.

Question: Is it a new venture for the state to go in debt for roads?
Answer: No, the state already is in debt for roads to the extent of the county and district bonds now outstanding.

Question: What has the state to do with those obligations?
Answer: Well, when the Supreme Court held four years ago that the bonds of the Archer County road district were invalid, the entire state rose up to get behind those bonds and the legislature did get behind them right away.

Question: Will the issuance of these bonds give the highway commissioners a huge sum to spend?
Answer: No, the plan expressly provides that not more than $3,000,000 for construction, can be issued in any one year.

A Three-Cent Limit.
Question: Will a 3-cent gasoline tax be sufficient to retire them?
Answer: Yes, because the plan expressly provides that the bonds shall never be issued in excess of such an amount as the current income from a 3-cent gasoline tax will retire.

Question: If a three cent gasoline tax will retire the bonds, why not build the roads with the present four cent gasoline tax, and save the interest on the bonds?
Answer: It will take a number of years to build a connected and co-ordinated highway system best serving the people and yielding the most in highway revenues. This construction is impossible unless stabilized over a period of years. It is impossible to systematize and stabilize the construction without the stabilization of the funds with which to meet it.

Question: But under our present "pay-as-you-go" plan, can there be any danger that the funds will be cut off?
Answer: The so-called "pay-as-you-go" plan is ultimately going to mean "pay-and-not-go" as has been observed by the Dallas News. Less than seven days before the adjournment of the last regular session of the legislature, the highway department was about to be left with not one cent for construction for the entire two years then before them. Hardly a man in Texas informed in highway matters then believed relief could be secured before adjournment. During the last hours of the session, the legislature raised the gasoline tax to four cents, charged, however, with a non-highway use exemption which is making heavier inroads upon it every day.

The Saving in Time.
Question: How long will it take to construct our cardinal highways under the bond issue plan?
Answer: Not more than 12 years.

Question: How long will it take to construct that system with the present income of the highway commission?
Answer: Not less than 35 years; 50 years would be a more conservative figure.

Question: Is there anything fundamentally wrong with present highway operation?
Answer: Yes.

Question: What is it?
Answer: The cost of maintenance of inferior roads.

Question: How much is that cost?
Answer: More than $10,000,000 yearly.

Question: Just how serious is that?
Answer: Under our present plan, it must grow heavier every day. If it continues, it will ultimately break the financial back of the highway department.

Question: How can it be corrected?
Answer: By laying out a system of highway building over a term of years so that, regardless of local aid, the roads best calculated to yield a multiplied gasoline revenue will be built into concrete roads or ones of comparable type, which will greatly reduce the cost of the maintenance of the roads so improved. With the multiplied revenue that these improved roads will bring the remainder of the roads may be in turn improved so that the present total cost of maintenance of the roads of Texas, now climbing above $12,000,000 a year, should, in 10 years time, be reduced to something near $3,000,000 per year.

Question: Will not this gasoline tax after all be paid by the people of Texas?
Answer: Only as they ride. Some for a million people toured in the United States last year. They will come to ride over our cardinal highways when we have them. They, too, will pay as they ride.

How About Other States?
Question: Has this plan been considered in other states?
Answer: Yes, 31 states now have it in operation.

Question: Is it successful?
Answer: Yes, the states which have it in operation are the ones which lead in highway progress.

Question: Is it burdensome to the people of those states?
Answer: On the contrary, their roads are being paid for, to a very substantial extent, by contributions coming from other states, including many thousands from Texas.

Question: How are the states which do not have the bond plan getting along?
Answer: They are the backward states of the Union in highway progress.

Question: Can you compare two Southern states, one with the bond plan and the other with the "pay-as-you-go" plan?
Answer: Yes, North Carolina with about 3500 miles of designated highways, has for some years, had more miles of designated highways. For some years, and until last year, it had the "pay-as-you-go" plan. Little or no progress was made (see also their census figures), although the gas tax gradually climbed to six cents. Last year, they gave up the "pay-as-you-go" plan in despair and followed the example of North Carolina. They are now making fine progress with their roads and in June, 1930, let the most extensive road contract ever let in America.

Question: Have we sufficient highway funds to secure the federal aid allotted to Texas?
Answer: Barely.

Question: Is it true that by far the larger portion of our roads are state highways only and so receive no part of the federal funds?
Answer: Yes.

Question: How can we, then, under the present plan, after matching the federal allotment, have anything left with which to build the state highways?
Answer: Without the aid of local bond issues, we can not. What we really do now is to call on the localities to vote local highway bonds. We are requiring them to put their money with the state highway funds to match federal funds, and with the fund thus put together, we build the federal highways. This leaves the highway department with a balance to put with local bond funds to build a few state highways.

Already Bonded.
Question: Am I to understand, then, that the present highway construction in Texas depends upon the faith and patriotism of localities to vote bonds upon themselves secured by liens on their homes and farms?
Answer: Exactly.

Question: Then we are already bonding ourselves for roads now?
Answer: Yes.

Question: And those bonds are secured by liens on our homes and farms?
Answer: Yes.

Question: And under the statewide bond plan, payable with the gasoline tax, these bonds will be taken up, and these liens on homes and farms will not be on those homes and farms any more?
Answer: Yes.

Quotations From Ross Sterling's Opening Speech at Huntsville

"Personally, I believe the people should be given the chance to vote upon a bond amendment for the purpose of refunding to the counties the money they have paid for state highways, if not counting more. . . . This question rests entirely with the Legislature and the people. . . .

"If I am elected Governor I shall support any practical plan that can be worked out to speed up highway progress, return to the counties money which they badly need for the building of lateral roads or the refunding of their road bonds, and relieve the farmer, the home owner and other property taxpayers of the burden imposed by our present method of highway financing. . . .

"It will be my purpose as Governor to study carefully our state taxing system and the best means of remedying the inequalities which exist. . . . Citizens of small means are being taxed too heavily, in my judgment, while some of the wealth of Texas is not paying its just share of the taxes. . . .

"The state prison system needs to be put on a sounder and better basis. . . . The physical properties of the system should be modernized as a protection to society and in justice to the inmates. . . .

"We need to stop as far as possible the stream of delinquents flowing into our reform schools, jails and state prisons. . . .

"I favor a policy which will take every insane person out of the jails of the State and place them in modern hospitals. . . . I favor enlarging our state sanitarium facilities so that more of our people can have the benefit of hospital treatment for tuberculosis. . . .

"It will be my policy to support measures for the better protection of the working man. I believe that our unions and industrial interests should give serious thought to the relief of unemployment, studying among other means of relief the question of shortening the hours of labor. . . .

"The schools and colleges will find a sincere, sympathetic friend in my administration. . . .

"As governor I shall strive through legislation or in any other feasible way, to improve the condition of the farmer and stockman. . . .

"I favor regulation of public utilities, to protect the consumer from excessive rates. . . .

"As Governor I shall apply the full force of the office to enforcement of the prohibition law and all other laws and will help all I can to facilitate the legal machinery of the State. . . . I shall oppose any legislation to legalize race track gambling, or any other form of gambling, among the citizenship of this State. . . .

"I shall move in every proper way I can to end the factional strife that has torn Democracy out of our State, and to bring the party back to harmony. . . . The best interests of the State can be served by peace and harmony."

The Mexia Daily News: "The election of R. S. Sterling as Governor of Texas will be a signal for unprecedented growth and prosperity in Texas. It will be the dawn of a new day in politics in the Lone Star State."

The Rockport Register Pilot: "Sterling's statewide bond issue proposal will lose him some votes, but will also gain him many. People are coming to realize the worth of this plan. To relieve the counties of the burden of paying for road construction out of the gasoline tax, thus making the ones who use the highways pay the most, is the only sensible plan."

The Mart Herald: "Not being a professional politician or demagogue it should be easier for Mr. Sterling to secure cooperation and render service to the best interests of the masses and the welfare of the State. We would like to see him tried out."

The Brownsville Herald: "We consider R. S. Sterling the man for the Governor's job."

The Houston County Times: "If Mr. Sterling is elected, we firmly believe that he will be able to bring about a decided change in the administration of the State's affairs, eliminating political machines and substituting in their place wise and sound business principles, which our State so much needs at this time."

The Marshall News: "If the issuance of bonds to build roads is wrong, then we have, as counties, already committed that wrong and the Sterling plan only shifts the payment of these bonds to the State, where in all honesty it should be. Why anybody living in the 154 counties that are suffering under burden of taxation to pay off these county bonds should oppose this plan is a mystery."

The Austin American, The Waco News-Tribune and Other Marsh-Ferries Newspapers: "The bond proposal is fundamentally sound and healthy for Texas and its six million inhabitants. . . . A bond issue for statewide road construction will put the financial and tax system in order. It will do for tax problems what organizing a state highway commission did for chaotic and muddled road construction problems a decade ago, straighten them out. The users of the roads should and can pay for their construction, both past and present. The land owner should pay only as he uses the highway. This is a true measure of farm relief for Texas."

The Wharton Spectator: "There should be no reason why anyone but Sterling should be considered by the people of South Texas, for here we have had an opportunity to observe him in his private life long before he sprang into prominence by reason of his achievements as head of the highway commission. We should support him because we know he is a level-headed business man who, if elected Governor, will sponsor legislation which will be constructive and which will help our State rather than jockey political friends and enemies by granting favors and taking out spite."

McKinney Courier-Gazette: "Only the voters will decide whether the people of Texas want a real business man for Governor after July 26. Ross Sterling is a big man."

Greenville Herald: "There certainly should be some method by which the progressive counties should be refunded the money they secured by bond issues for building links in state and federal highways."

The Daytonite, Dayton: "Voters here are very enthusiastic over Mr. Sterling's candidacy and optimistic as to his election. Mr. Sterling was for a number of years a resident of Dayton and one of the principal factors in the development of the town."

The Freeport Facts: "The fact that the people of Texas are desirous of a real Governor to occupy the seat at Austin was clearly evident when news came that R. S. Sterling would be a candidate. Clubs and organizations have been and are being organized throughout the State for the benefit of Mr. Sterling's support. Mr. Sterling as chairman of the highway commission has demonstrated to Texans that he is the man for the office. Texas needs a business man for Governor."

The Anahuac Progress: "For the past four years Mr. Sterling has served the people of Texas as a member of the state highway commission and has been one of the leading spirits in favor of highway improvements. He has many friends throughout the State which will make him a formidable candidate for the office to which he aspires."

Victoria Advocate: "Opposition by the other candidates and their leading supporters to state bonds based on the gasoline tax as a means of financing highway construction and affording relief for the road tax-burdened people of many counties of the state has made probable, if not certain, the nomination and election of R. S. Sterling as the next governor of Texas."

The Yoakum Daily Times: "While it is not in any way committed to the support of any candidate, it does not hesitate to say that Ross Sterling is in his makeup the best gubernatorial timber so far offered for the place. His announcement that he has decided to become a candidate for Governor was received in Yoakum with spontaneous approval and satisfaction. His record as chairman of the highway commission, the duties of which important position of trust he has performed in such an honorable manner and with such marked ability, his staunch adherence to the principles of democracy his knowledge and understanding of the varied needs and requirements of the people of Texas gained through innumerable tours which have taken him throughout every portion of the State, giving him first hand information gained through observation and contact with conditions, all of this, with his mature judgment, his knowledge of practical business methods and accounting, his devotion to duty and his ambition to see Texas come into its own through helpful legislation make him the most outstanding and formidable candidate in the field."

The Yoakum Daily Herald: "The people of the Yoakum community are delighted to know that R. S. Sterling has cast his hat into the ring for the nomination for Governor of Texas. Mr. Sterling more than any other man in Texas, should be thanked by the people of this community for the good roads we are getting. When the primary ballots are counted this community ought to be almost unanimous for R. S. Sterling for the next Governor of Texas."

The Gonzales Inquirer: "The Inquirer does not agree with Jim Young candidate for Governor, in his arguments to the effect that R. S. Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission, should now resign from that office because he is a candidate for Governor. As chairman of the state highway commission, Mr. Sterling has done a wonderful work for his State. . . . We can only hope that Mr. Sterling will see his way clear to continue the commendable work he is doing as chairman of the state highway commission."

Ralph G. Bray, Editor Mission Times: "I am strong for you and so is the Times. And strong!"

The Goose Creek Tribune: "Mr. Sterling's plan for financing highway construction and relieving the various counties of the heavy financial strain under which many are operating because of bond issues is by far the best solution of the needs of a modern commonwealth. His plan for adjustment of taxes is equally well taken and the sound business administration that would be assured by his election would do much to purge the state government of lax methods."

The Baytown News Herald: "Mr. Sterling may not be as eloquent a speaker as some of the other candidates, but his accomplishments far outshine theirs. . . . We all know of his great work as chairman of the state highway commission of Texas. It is up to us to let those in other sections know of Mr. Sterling's work."

Greenview Herald: "Mr. Sterling is one of the State's foremost business men and will receive large support because of the belief that the State stands in need of a real business man."

The LaPorte Chronicle: "No man in Texas has spoken louder in industry than R. S. Sterling. He is a greater man in constructive results than any man of this generation in Texas. . . . Mr. Sterling as chairman of the state highway commission, with his associates, is opening Texas from one border to the other with highways which will last for generations."

The Beaumont Journal: "It is becoming increasingly apparent as reports come in from various sections of the State that the trend is largely toward R. S. Sterling, chairman of the state highway commission, under the assurance that Mr. Sterling, a thorough business man, with broad experience and who has a record of outstanding accomplishments, both in private undertakings and public life, is peculiarly fitted to give the State of Texas the business administration it so urgently needs."

"Texas has been good to me and there is nothing I could do that would fully repay the blessings I have received from the State in which I was born and from the people among whom I live. And so my entry into this campaign is prompted solely by my desire to render a service to a State and people I love."

NEGRO ATTACKS, ROBS WOMAN

G. R. CONRAD 46, IS FOUND; KILLS SELF

Body, Gun Nearby, Is Discovered In Hotel

COLORADO, Texas, July 12 (AP)—George R. Conrad, 46, Fort Worth and Colorado ranchman, was found dead in a hotel room here today. His body was on the floor in a pool of blood and a bullet wound in the head. A revolver was found near.

Indications were the shot was fired while Conrad was sitting on his bed. The body was face down.

Justice of the Peace Kirk Taylor rendered a verdict of suicide.

Persons in the hotel recalled they heard a shot early last night.

BURGLAR WHO SPECIALIZES IN PANTS ACTIVE

A burglar who specializes in men's trousers was active again Friday night. Four robberies were reported to the sheriff's department.

J. N. Wofford, 419 East Park, reported his trousers were removed from his room while he slept.

The screen was removed from a bedroom in the home of E. H. Joyce, 1206 Gregg street, and the trousers belonging to Monte Frankenstein. The trousers contained $5.

A 15-jewel Elgin watch and small change were taken by a robber when he stole the trousers of L. M. Garner, 1501 Johnson street.

A watch was stolen when the robber removed from the house the clothing of Leonard Stewart, 104 Austin street. A small amount of money, also was stolen. The clothing, including trousers, shirt and belt, was found in a vacant lot back of the Stewart home.

Sheriff Slaughter Saturday issued his second warning to Big Spring residents in regard to leaving clothing near windows and not having sufficient locks on screens.

He declared unless the department was notified immediately after the robbery it is almost impossible to find trace of the intruder.

In all of the cases reported recently, the same tactics have been employed. The screen has been either unlocked or removed and the clothing, usually trousers, removed.

He asked residents to notify him or the members of his department at any hour of the night in case the prowler was seen.

600,000 Acres Of University Lands Leased

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—Approximately 600,000 acres of free public school land has been advertised for sale September 1 because of a lapse of title holders to pay interest due November 1, 1928. J. H. Walker, commissioner of the general land office, said today. The land is situated in 148 counties.

Although 600,000 acres have been advertised for sale, only approximately 300,000 acres actually will be sold, land officials said, because of numerous owners will prevent foreclosure and sale by paying the interest.

The land will be resold with the state regaining the mineral rights under a recent decision of the Supreme Court.

The sale will be the first of public school land since January, 1925.

Knott Women To Hold Food Sale

Women of the Home Demonstration club at Knott will hold a food sale at the Wolcott Motor Company here Saturday. Proceeds will be used to send the club representative, Mrs. O. B. Gaskin, to the Farmers' Short Course, at College Station, July 25-August 1.

ROSS, JIM CLASH ON ROAD PLAN

Love Takes Night Off; Miller In South; Small Active

(By The Associated Press) Steady booming of political cannon marches and counter-marches of candidates seeking possession of the governor's chair of Texas, today found seven of the candidates still out on the hustings, while Ross B. Sterling of Houston, the target for most of their verbal artillery, was booked for a non-political speech at the East Texas Teachers' College at Commerce. Last night he invaded Dallas, reputed "Hoover-Democratic" stronghold and the home of one of his most active opponents, State Senator Thomas B. Love, as well as Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller.

The Houstonian, for the first time, mentioned in his address that the plan for a statewide highway bond issue which he champions, and which most of the other gubernatorial candidates oppose, had been endorsed by the West Texas, East Texas and South Texas Chambers of Commerce.

"I should not be singled out as a target because of the plan I favor," he said. "Other states have done and are doing the same thing. I studied it, then advocated it." James E. Ferguson, at San Angelo, asserted that "3,000 miles of highways could be built yearly from the interest on the proposed bond issue and that would care for the state's need without going further into debt." He was speaking for the candidacy of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Ferguson. "Ma," for the second night in succession, was ill and unable to appear. Tonight she planned to speak at Abilene.

While Sterling was speaking in Dallas, Senator Love was taking a night off, after speaking before the Texas Angora Goat Raisers' convention at Rocksprings Wednesday morning. He planned to speak tonight in Waco at the courthouse at 8 p. m. and over radio station WACO at 8:30 p. m. Barry Miller at Galveston, said "you South Texans have all heard that there is oil under one of the prison farms and that private interests are trying to get hold of it. Why on earth the taxpayers should not get the benefit of this oil is more than I can see. If elected governor, I'll drill for oil on that prison farm and if oil is found, the prison problem will be settled for all time to come, without any further burden on the taxpayers." Miller's itinerary called for a speech today at Bryan at 2:30 p. m. Earle B. Mayfield, speaking yesterday at Atlanta and Jefferson, continued to hammer against the proposed highway bond issue and rapped newspaper editors who had announced favoring the candidacy of Ross Sterling. Mayfield expected to speak at Kerens this afternoon and at Corsicana tonight.

Mayfield was booked to speak at Tyler at 2:30 p. m. and at Athens at 8 p. m. Clint Small, speaking at Floresville, charged that "the big club of the highway department is being wielded for the political advantage of Ross Sterling." In the afternoon, speaking at Victoria, he accused the highway commission of "swapping roads for votes." His schedule included speeches today at Cuero, Floresville and San Antonio. Statements assertedly contained in newspaper advertisements for Ross Sterling in weekly newspapers were assailed by Jim Young of Kaufman in his address last night at Corpus Christi. Of the two statements which he charged were "misrepresentations," the first he

WILBURN BARCUS SPEAKS AT VINCENT ON COUNTY LIBRARY

"As important to the farmer as his plow, or to the carpenter as his hammer and saw, is the easy accessibility to good books for our school children," said Wilburn Barcus in his address last evening at Vincent in behalf of the county library campaign which is rapidly drawing to a close here. Mr. Barcus went on to explain to his audience the workings of the county library system and who it would benefit once it was installed. He pointed out the fact that no

JIM ALLRED IS FAVORED

Brother of Candidate, Ex-Resident, In Big Spring

Ben P. Allred, former district attorney of Wichita Falls, was here Thursday in the interest of the candidacy of his brother, James V. Allred, for attorney general.

Allred will be remembered here as the secretary to C. E. McMullen, superintendent of the Texas & Pacific Railway, in 1916. He also was secretary to W. M. Kemp, superintendent.

Allred discussed the campaign of his brother for the office, pointing out Allred was barely beaten four years ago by Claude Pollard of Houston for the office he now seeks. He was scheduled to speak here, but a slight throat illness prevented his appearance. He is en route to San Angelo to speak in the interest of his brother's race.

"Most of you," Allred said "will remember, I am sure, that in the campaign for this office four years ago James V. Allred was defeated by Claude Pollard of Houston by only 4,000 votes out of more than 700,000 cast. At that time, although some of his friends suggested he demand a recount, he congratulated Mr. Pollard upon his election and announced he would be a candidate this year. Two years ago, when it was rumored that Pollard was going to resign, his friends in Young county, where he served as district attorney, put his name on the ticket; but he refused to oppose Pollard for a second term upon his assurance that he did not intend to resign. I do not challenge his good faith in making that statement. I only know he exercised the privilege of changing his mind eight months after his second term started.

No Criticisms "Governor Moody saw fit at that time to appoint the present attorney general, the gentleman from Laredo. I have no right to criticize the governor for that action and I do not. No doubt he owed that plum to his political friend. But I do feel that since more than 350,000 people had endorsed Ailed such a short time before, they should have had some consideration. Tree Sitting Spree Spreads; One Boy Falls

FORT WORTH, July 17 (AP)—Hopes of a dozen juvenile aspirants to tree-sitting endurance records were dashed here today when one lad was seriously injured in a fall from his perch and Chief of Police W. H. Lee ordered all remaining contenders to be brought to earth at once.

WCTU IS ORGANIZED IN MEETING

Midland Woman Head Of District; Mrs. Settles Named

Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy of Midland was elected president of the District W. C. T. U. organization at the all-day meeting yesterday afternoon at the First Christian church.

A Big Spring woman, Mrs. W. R. Settles was also elected to a district office, that of treasurer.

Other officers were: Mrs. William Whitfield of San Angelo, vice president; Mrs. A. M. Gantt of Midland, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. R. N. Couch of Pecos, recording secretary.

Thirteen Midland women and fifteen children attended the meeting here yesterday. They had charge of the program which was under the direction of Mrs. Thomas D. Murphy, who is the wife of the Presbyterian minister in Midland.

It was as follows: Opening song, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; Reading of the 146th Psalm, the crusade psalm of the W. C. T. U., by Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth, who is the president of district 12 of which Fort Worth is the center city; prayer, Rev. George F. Brown of Midland; tribute to Frances E. Willard, the only woman in the hall of fame and a leader of the W. C. T. U.; declaration of the W. C. T. U. Principle, written by Frances E. Willard and read by Mrs. George F. Brown; talk on the L. T. L. Work by Mrs. Florence Richards; exercises by Midland children; "Child Welfare," a talk by Mrs. A. M. Gantt; talk, "Scientific Temperance Instruction," by Mrs. J. M. White; reading, "Show Him Your Hand" by Miss Lucille McMillan; Leeland Murphy introduced as the fourth generation of W. C. T. U. members; description of the declamation department by Mrs. O. E. Stroud; talk on "Medical Temperance" by Mrs. R. L. Mitchell; noon tide prayer, Rev. R. L. Owen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Big Spring; luncheon by the women of the Christian church.

The afternoon meeting was taken up with a thirty minute talk on W. C. T. U. methods led by Mrs. Bloodworth and Mrs. Murphy. The election of officers was then held and the song, "Work for Enforcement Where You Are" was sung.

Mrs. Bloodworth led the W. C. T. U. benediction.

A mass meeting was held last evening and the pastors of the local churches spoke to the group as assembled.

Songs were led by Dr. J. R. Barcus.

The Legion outdoor meeting at the New Wells 7 p. m. Friday, was announced.

Wendell Bedichek spoke in ironic vein concerning the rareness of talks before Kiwanis and Rotary and Lions clubs on the subject of "Service," of the modesty of such clubs and of the intense interest every member of all local clubs had taken in the interest of improved roads and streets in Howard county.

KIWANIANS IN MEETING

Philips, Strange Are Speakers; Kuykendall Leader

Talks by the program chairman, J. E. Kuykendall, and three others, were heard at Thursday's luncheon program of the Kiwanis club at the Crawford hotel.

Guests introduced were Robert Dickey of Calexico, Calif., W. T. Strange, Jr., Shine Phillips and Mr. Jacobson.

A letter from L. M. Olmstead, chairman of the "On to Lubbock" committee for the annual Texas-Oklahoma district convention, the first week in September, was read by President C. W. Dent.

An "On to Lubbock" committee was named for the club, to-wit: Garland Woodward, R. L. Owen, V. T. Anderson, Lewis E. Rix, G. R. Porter, Steve D. Porter, Joy Fisher.

A meeting of officers, directors, and committee chairmen of the club will be held Monday at 8 p. m. at the Crawford; no eats, business only.

Shine Phillips, among other things, spoke of the deplorable state of the local cemeteries and said that it was a matter service clubs, to really live up to their names, should see about. John Wolcott, cemetery association treasurer, announced a meeting of citizens soon will be held to select executive committeemen to succeed Mrs. Carrick, Mrs. Notestine and William Fisher, who have served for more than 20 years. He told of the lack of support of the cemetery fund and of care needed that cannot be paid for.

CROMWELL AIRLINES CLOSE OUT

Last Schedules Are Flown Thursday; Sends Thanks

Cromwell Airlines operated its last regular schedules Thursday, Carl Cromwell, president, announced from San Angelo.

Mr. Cromwell said he was going out of the air passenger transportation business because he could not continue to take losses necessary to keep in the air with his ships until the government decides the route and lets a contract for the projected air mail line from the east via San Antonio and San Angelo to a point on the T. & P. railroad.

Cromwell operated a line from San Angelo to Dallas for some time and also had a line from San Angelo to San Antonio, which he extended to Big Spring in May.

"I sincerely appreciate the support I have received from the public, especially in San Angelo and Big Spring the citizenship has been for us, even those who did not actually use our ships," said Mr. Cromwell. He bank about $100,000 in the business, he said.

He had hoped to continue operations until the air mail contracts were settled but decided the best information he could obtain indicated it would be some time before such a decision would be made. He will keep one or two ships at the San Angelo airport to be chartered by anyone wishing to do so. His private pilot will be stationed there.

The last ship to be brought into the local airport by Cromwell, Airlines landed here today with Gordon Darnell, operations manager of the company, piloting.

Jimmy Walker of San Antonio is the usual pilot of the plane.

Hip Broken, Lamesa Woman, 86, Travels 900 Miles to Doctor

LAMESA, July 17.—A remarkable constitution probably saved the life of Mrs. R. L. Johnston of this city, aged 86. Mrs. Johnston received a broken hip bone in a fall during a trip from Lamesa to California recently on the road between here and El Paso. She did not have the hip attended to until she arrived in California, traveling 900 miles with it broken. In the Sunshine state, a physician expressed astonishment that she was able to endure the pain. Following a few weeks in bed, while the bones were knitting she returned to Lamesa and is now able to walk.

Schools Receive Final State Quota

The last of the $17.50 apportionment for the 1929-30 school term, has been received by Miss Pauline Cantrell, county superintendent.

The amount given to Howard county rural schools in the last award was $1,938, to be distributed among 22 districts.

According to S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent, the amount of the 1930-31 apportionment has not been decided. He declared it will, in all probability be below $17.50, but not less than $16.50. Amount of income has not been furnished by the comptroller.

Scholarships will be increased over the state materially this year, inasmuch as the six year old children will be admitted.

WILL PROBATED

The will of B. N. Bell, who died March 17, was filed for probate Wednesday. Property and holdings valued at $2,000 were left to his widow.

HOUSTON IS STIRRED BY MAN HUNT

Merchant's Wife Is Victim; Small Son Witness

HOUSTON, July 17 (AP)—Every available officer was scouring the city this morning in search of a negro who criminally assaulted and robbed the wife of a Houston merchant at 6 o'clock this morning.

The negro was discovered in the bathroom of her home by the woman shortly after her husband had left for work. She fled to the front door but it was locked and the negro overtook her, dragged her into the dining room and assaulted her, holding a knife over her. Her eight year old son witnessed the crime.

After the assault the negro asked for money and the woman got her purse and gave it to him. He then left the house.

The woman described the negro as tall and black. She said that he told her, if she made an outcry he would kill her.

MYSTERY OF MAIL PILOT IS SOLVED

Graham's Body Is Found Near Crash Scene

CEDAR CITY, Tex., July 17 (AP)—The long search for Maurice Graham, Western Air Express mail pilot, missing since January, ended yesterday when his body was found six miles from where his wrecked plane was discovered late in June.

Major Richard N. McDonald, war time flying companion of the dead mail pilot, led a small, searching party that discovered the long sought body in underbrush along a stream in the Kanarra Mountains 22 miles southeast of here.

Identification was through two personal cards, his revolver and foodstuffs taken from the plane. Major McDonald said he believed Graham died from exposure, apparently while sitting down to eat.

In his left hand resting across his chest was a knife and beside the body a can of tomatoes. In his right hand, lying over his head he held his revolver, fully loaded.

An empty can of foodstuffs also lay beside the body.

The discovery climaxed an intensive search of the vicinity which had been under way since discovery of the plane.

Graham was flying the air mail from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City. It was on the last leg of the flight that he became lost in a storm over Nevada and Utah. He left Las Vegas, Nevada, late at night on January 10 for Salt Lake City on his regular air mail run. At the time of his takeoff a blizzard was brewing, but the flier, noted for his daring, believed he could battle through it.

The odds were against him, however, and before he had flown far, the blizzard had increased in intensity. At St. George, in the southwest corner of Utah, residents heard his plane circling over the town, and believed he intended to land but was unable to do so because of snow that had covered the lights on the emergency landing field.

Graham apparently gave up the effort to land and again headed for Salt Lake City. Along the route between Cedar City and St. George farmers and residents of towns said they heard a plane believed to have been Graham's flying low as if looking for a place to land. His plane is believed to have crashed high in the Kanarra Mountains early in the morning of January 11.

Immediately a search was started by air and land over most of western Utah and eastern Nevada.

Texas Population Totals 5,810,683

INCREASE IN 10 YEARS 1,147,455

Howard One of Counties Doubling Since 1920

DALLAS, Texas, July 16 (AP)—The 1930 population of Texas is 5,810,683, an increase in the last decade of 1,147,455, or 24.62 per cent, according to figures released by census supervisors of the various districts in the state and compiled by The Associated Press today. The 1920 population was 4,663,228.

All Parts Grow
All sections participated in the growth, but the greatest increases were recorded in the Panhandle West Texas, the Rio Grande Valley and a number of coastal areas. The growth in the Panhandle where oil fields and agricultural developments attracted many, was tremendous.

Petroleum developments in the western area apparently was the chief reason for its great growth in most counties in which fields were brought in during the decade more than doubled their 1920 census. Similar increases were noted in the Rio Grande Valley, where fruit and vegetable growing made a big stride during the past 10 years, and along the Gulf coast, where many were attracted by increased shipping activities and other large projects.

Decreases
Decreases were reported by 66 of the 254 counties in the state. None of the declines, however, was great except in the case of Eastland county, in north central Texas where a population of 33,981 compared with 58,505 in 1920 was reported. Decreased oil activities were blamed largely for the diminution of 24,524.

Northeast Texas, with 14 counties, registered the most declines. North Texas had 22, and second and North Central Texas with 19 was third. South Texas had five counties to report a lesser population. Central Texas six, Southwest Texas three, South Central Texas six, Northwest Texas one, East Central Texas four, Southeast Texas five and East Texas two.

Roberts county in reporting 17 persons less than in 1920 was the only county in the Panhandle area showing a decrease.

Doubled
Thirty five counties doubled or more than doubled their population. They were Carson, Gray, Hansford, Hutchinson, Moore, Ochiltree, Potter and Wheeler in the Panhandle; Andrews, Crane, Ector, Glasscock, HOWARD, Garza, Loving, Pecos and Winkler in West Texas; Bailey and Palmer in the Great Plains; Cameron, Hidalgo and Jim Hogg in South Texas; Cochran and Gaines in Northwest Texas; Dawson, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn and Terry in the South Plains; Jim Wells in the coastal area; Nueces on the south central Gulf coast; Reagan, San Patricio and Upton in Southwest Texas; and Tom Green in Central West Texas.

Kenedy in Lata Texas, unorganized in 1920, had 101 inhabitants. Over 100,000
Sixty counties had populations in excess of 100,000. Jefferson being the only addition to this class in the last decade. In 1920 it had a population of 77,120 and the latest figures gave it 131,933.

Harris county, which boasts the largest Texas city—Houston—also had the greatest county population with 347,500 persons living within its boundaries. Dallas, with 326,029, was second, Bexar with 291,627, was third and Tarrant with 197,492, was fourth.

Loving, although among counties more than doubling their population, had the smallest number of persons within its confines, the enumerators recording only 193.

Texas nosed out California in the race for fifth place among states, according to unofficial figures. California's population was given as 5,624,282, or 136,401 under Texas. New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio will top Texas.

State of Rhode Island, (revised), 637,620, increase 52,623, or 13.7 per cent.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16 (AP)—Hopes that Philadelphia's population would reach the 2,000,000 mark were shattered today when the final figures were announced. The complete tabulation showed a population of 1,961,458, an increase of 137,679, or 7.54 per cent over 1920. A steady drift to the suburbs and to nearby New Jersey communities was held responsible for the small increase. The city, however, continues to hold third position in the cities of the country, being surpassed in population only by New York and Chicago.

Harry J. Imber, chairman of the local board of census supervisors, said he agreed with Mayor Harry A. Mackey that if all those residing within the city limits had been enumerated the population would be substantially over the 2,000,000 mark. He said he felt that thousands of persons had been missed by the enumerators.

LOCAL MAN GETS TWO BUILDINGS

$119,738 Total Called For In List of Bids

Contracts totaling $119,738 for the construction of three new ward schools in Big Spring were awarded at a meeting of the school board held Tuesday night.

Two of the general construction contracts went to the J. M. Morgan Construction Co. of Big Spring, while one was given to the Worth Building and Investment Co., Fort Worth.

Heating and plumbing contracts were grouped, and given to one contractor, while electrical contracts were divided.

The north and east ward schools will be constructed by the Morgan Construction Co., who bid $24,200 and $21,500, respectively on the jobs.

The west ward unit will be erected by the Worth Building and Investment Co., who bid $47,750 on the project.

A. F. Kasch, Big Spring, was awarded all plumbing and heating contracts on a bid of $18,000. Strawbridge Electrical Co. of Abilene, on a bid of $1800, was awarded wiring contract for the west ward school.

On bids of $1,594 each, the Hilliard Electric Co. of San Angelo were given contracts for the wiring of the east and north ward schools.

The buildings will be one story unit type, semi-fireproof, and constructed of brick.

According to W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of public schools, the buildings could not be constructed entirely of fireproof material because of the lack of bond money.

According to Mr. Blankenship the buildings will not be ready for occupancy by the time the September term opens. Approximately 120 working days will be required to finish all of these structures. Work is to be started immediately.

The north and east ward schools will contain six rooms, while the west will have 12 rooms.

The steel building will be located on Eighth street between Alford and Douglas streets; one of the six rooms structures being on Sixth and Benton streets, facing Benton; the other located in the Bowers addition.

According to Mr. Blankenship reasons for delay in getting the actual construction of the buildings underway were that the bonds were not voted soon enough, some delay was experienced in selling them, and plans and specifications were late.

He declared 10 additional rooms must be housed in the same space used last year. The scholastic enrollment is 2,743 with the usual 150 or 200 additional ones expected. In addition to that 332 six year old pupils must be cared for this year.

Other officers were: vice-president Mrs. M. Purser; treasurer, Mrs. W. R. Settles; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. E. Fridge; recording secretary, Mrs. Clyde Thomas; v. p. Methodist, Mrs. W. A. Miller; v. p. Baptist, Mrs. J. N. Hamner; v. p. Christian, Mrs. W. C. Farris; v. p. Presbyterian, Mrs. C. W. Cunningham; publicity, Miss V. Barnes.

The meeting was opened with a devotional by Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth and the election of officers was next held. Mrs. Bloodworth, who is the state organizer for the W. C. T. U. gave a talk on the purposes and work of the organization.

LOCAL MAN GETS TWO BUILDINGS

$119,738 Total Called For In List of Bids

Contracts totaling $119,738 for the construction of three new ward schools in Big Spring were awarded at a meeting of the school board held Tuesday night.

Two of the general construction contracts went to the J. M. Morgan Construction Co. of Big Spring, while one was given to the Worth Building and Investment Co., Fort Worth.

Heating and plumbing contracts were grouped, and given to one contractor, while electrical contracts were divided.

The north and east ward schools will be constructed by the Morgan Construction Co., who bid $24,200 and $21,500, respectively on the jobs.

The west ward unit will be erected by the Worth Building and Investment Co., who bid $47,750 on the project.

A. F. Kasch, Big Spring, was awarded all plumbing and heating contracts on a bid of $18,000. Strawbridge Electrical Co. of Abilene, on a bid of $1800, was awarded wiring contract for the west ward school.

On bids of $1,594 each, the Hilliard Electric Co. of San Angelo were given contracts for the wiring of the east and north ward schools.

The buildings will be one story unit type, semi-fireproof, and constructed of brick.

According to W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of public schools, the buildings could not be constructed entirely of fireproof material because of the lack of bond money.

According to Mr. Blankenship the buildings will not be ready for occupancy by the time the September term opens. Approximately 120 working days will be required to finish all of these structures. Work is to be started immediately.

The north and east ward schools will contain six rooms, while the west will have 12 rooms.

The steel building will be located on Eighth street between Alford and Douglas streets; one of the six rooms structures being on Sixth and Benton streets, facing Benton; the other located in the Bowers addition.

According to Mr. Blankenship reasons for delay in getting the actual construction of the buildings underway were that the bonds were not voted soon enough, some delay was experienced in selling them, and plans and specifications were late.

He declared 10 additional rooms must be housed in the same space used last year. The scholastic enrollment is 2,743 with the usual 150 or 200 additional ones expected. In addition to that 332 six year old pupils must be cared for this year.

LIBRARY IS SUBJECT AT LUNCH

Commissioners Have Not Assisted, It Is Said

The Lions Club, at the regular luncheon held at the Crawford Hotel, today pledged support to the county library, and will assist women working on the project to obtain a sufficient number of voters' signatures to create the unit.

According to the report made at the meeting today the county commissioners have not assisted with the project.

Creation of the library becomes mandatory if bona fide signatures of one-half of the voters are obtained, said Dr. Bivings.

The Lions will assist in circulating the petitions in industrial plants, railway shops and refineries.

E. F. Duncanson was appointed chairman of the committee to assist in the work. Frank Boyle, D. L. Lindley and R. C. Campbell are other members of the body.

A committee consisting of Lina Bonham, Faw and Tracy Smith was appointed to meet with Chamber of Commerce and other luncheon club groups to work out plans for a proposed road bond issue.

Duncanson was elected delegate to the National Convention at Denver, July 16, 17 and 18.

Mr. Witt, who has served 12 years in the state senate from the Waco district—he was elected the first time while still in the U. S. army—spoke last night to Howard county voters.

Mr. Witt's activities in the senate have been largely directed at educational affairs, although he has taken intelligent part in all measures.

He was the first member of the upper house to introduce a resolution memorializing congress to place an import duty on crude oil. In the face of militant opposition to it by his home city's daily newspapers he supported the Small river bed bill. He was co-author in the senate of the pipeline bill passed in the last called session of the legislature and sponsored by independent oil interests.

Mr. Witt, with Bob Darden, his campaign manager, left immediately after speaking here, for San Angelo, Kerrville and San Antonio. Here is an "estimate" of Edgar Witt, written by Walter Cousins, publisher of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal:

"FELLOWS WE'VE MET"
When a regular man, a hard rider on the trail of life, a chap who plays the game fair, with no cards in the dice, no notches in the lead and no aces in the sleeve, pushes in and crosses the Great Divide, where all the hoof prints point one way, it is customary to place flowers in his lifeless hand and speak kind words that his ears cannot hear. We have vowed that if we have flowers for a fellow-traveler we will place them in his hands now and not on his hieroglyphs. Why flowers to a pile of clay? There's nobody home, he's gone. Every now and then when the weed is burning and the pipe is drawing right and in retrospect we glimpse the reminiscent trail, we expect to place in this page some flowers for fellows we've met.

We scraped straws in the sage brush of life with Edgar Witt many years ago. We have not met his superior on the long trail of drifting years. In the lore of the cattle country he is a top hand. A gentleman to the manner born, reticent, modest as a woman, yet with the courage of his convictions on all occasions. The son of a country doctor, he has fought his way along in the world. As a lad he sold books to finance himself in school. Scriptural honesty and brutal frankness are characteristics of the man, a square shooter in the marble games on the sand of a little town in Central Texas, a square shooter in the forum of a great commonwealth. He is a citizen who has done more for his fellow than he has done for himself.

The flowers he has earned by loyalty to friends and duty have not been sent, nobody realizes this less than does Edgar Witt. His career has been a career of work and devotion to duty. His trend has ever been upward, he believes in taking life just as it rolls from the eternal reel of years. He is a genial, hard-working, quick-thinking, plain-spoken he-man. He is an optimist who has never had despair on Atlas' job, and his leaning has always been toward the underdog.

Edgar, here are my flowers now when a dirge is played that marks the flight of your spirit to the realms of the Great Beyond, where friends gather in solemn concourse to pay a last tribute to you at the end of your grilling labors. I probably will not send any flowers.

Because—

- 1—it is a Six
- 2—it has a 50-horsepower engine
- 3—a Six is smooth and quiet
- 4—of its long engine life
- 5—for average driving, it gives 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
- 6—it uses much less oil
- 7—the engine is the valve-in-head type
- 8—the valves are easily adjustable
- 9—the engine has a 48-pound accurately balanced crankshaft
- 10—it has a torsional harmonizer

Because—

- 11—the carburetor is equipped with an accelerating pump
- 12—each cylinder and valve is surrounded by water, giving uniform cooling
- 13—the engine is equipped with an air cleaner
- 14—it has a crankcase ventilator
- 15—it has a hot-spot manifold
- 16—the carburetor is fed by a positive fuel pump
- 17—the oil pump is of the vane-type
- 18—the piston pins are made of chrome-vanadium steel, chromium-plated
- 19—the spark plug wires are heavily insulated
- 20—the Delco electrical system is protected with a fuse

Because—

- 21—the valve-operating parts are sealed and automatically lubricated
- 22—the special Chevrolet combustion chamber makes high compression possible with ordinary fuel
- 23—the engine is equipped with light-weight, bronze-bushed pistons
- 24—the full ball bearing steering gear is provided with Alemite fittings
- 25—it has a Harrison honeycomb radiator
- 26—it has a 107-inch wheelbase
- 27—the frame is longer than the body
- 28—the frame has four rugged cross-members
- 29—it has four long chrome-vanadium steel springs

Because—

- 30—the springs are 84% as long as the wheelbase
- 31—it has four Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers
- 32—the shock absorbers operate uniformly in winter and summer
- 33—it is equipped with a dry disc clutch, requiring no lubrication
- 34—the clutch is self-adjusting
- 35—the clutch starts the car smoothly and transmits all the engine power
- 36—the front axle is held in alignment at four points by the two front springs
- 37—the braking action throws no strain on motor, clutch or transmission
- 38—the rear axle has a one-piece banjo-type housing
- 39—the rear axle has an inspection plate for easy adjustment

- 40—the safety gasoline tank is properly placed at the rear of the chassis

Because—

- 41—the rear axle driving gears are made of the finest nickel steel
- 42—the axle shafts are made of chromium nickel steel
- 43—the wheel brakes will stop the car at 60 miles an hour in 3 1/4 seconds
- 44—brake drums are 11 inches in diameter
- 45—a light pedal pressure will bring the car to a quick stop
- 46—Chevrolet's special molded brake lining will last over twenty-five thousand miles
- 47—frequent brake adjustments are unnecessary
- 48—the starter button is easy to reach
- 49—the pedals are fitted with enclosures that keep out dust and cold
- 50—the spark and gasoline controls are mounted to eliminate rattles

Because—

- 51—the radiator is chromium-plated
- 52—the horn is underneath the hood

- 53—the headlamps are securely mounted to the frame

- 54—the tire carrier is ruggedly constructed
- 55—it steers easily over any kind of road
- 56—the steering gear is semi-reversible
- 57—Chevrolet brakes are sealed against rain and dirt
- 58—Chevrolet has more ball bearings than any car under $3000
- 59—the transmission gears are made of chrome-vanadium steel

Because—

- 60—the spring shackles are self-adjusting and are provided with Alemite fittings
- 61—the headlamps are controlled by a convenient foot switch
- 62—the headlamps are of the tilting-beam type for greater safety
- 63—the running board aprons are neatly panelled
- 64—the running board is completely covered with molded rubber
- 65—the headlamps are provided with chromium-plated standards

- 66—the hood and cowl are streamlined
- 67—all models have a rear view mirror and wide rear windows
- 68—Chevrolet bumpers are securely mounted to the frame
- 69—all closed bodies are built by Fisher—of hardwood-and-steel, the safest body construction known
- 70—Fisher Bodies are upholstered in high-grade mohair

Because—

- 71—the seats are form-fitting
- 72—the driver's seat in all closed models is adjustable
- 73—the instrument panel includes a gasoline gauge and temperature indicator
- 74—it has the famous Fisher VV non-glare windshield
- 75—the windshield is made of clear plate glass for clear, safe vision
- 76—the windshield can be operated with one hand while driving
- 77—all models have cowl ventilator
- 78—all models have an effective sun visor
- 79—there is plenty of leg room in both the front and rear compartments
- 80—All five-passenger enclosed models are equipped with a dome light

Because—

- 81—the sedans have arm rests, foot rests, robe rails and ash trays
- 82—the instrument panel is indirectly lighted
- 83—the windows in all closed bodies are made of clear plate glass
- 84—the tonneau is equipped with a high-quality carpet
- 85—front corner posts are curved
- 86—the doors are carefully fitted
- 87—door locks have a double striker plate to keep doors closed while driving, a Fisher feature
- 88—the hood catches are made of rust-proof white metal
- 89—the rear body panel is of one-piece construction

Because—

- 90—all models are of streamline design
- 91—Chevrolet's Service Policy protects the owner on both parts and labor under the terms of the Warranty
- 92—this Service Policy protects the owner regardless of where he is travelling
- 93—Chevrolet has 11,000 Service Stations in the United States alone
- 94—Chevrolet's fine materials and excellent design eliminate the need for frequent service expense
- 95—the Chevrolet Six is a product of General Motors, the largest automotive organization in the world
- 96—it has been thoroughly tested on the General Motors Proving Ground
- 97—it reflects the achievements of the greatest automotive research staff in the world
- 98—it is built by a company whose policy is "Progress Through Constant Improvement."
- 99—it will be modern tomorrow, as well as today

OPINIONS OF OTHERS The Governorship Dallas News: A MILLION Democratic voters in Texas will soon be faced with the necessity of choosing from eleven candidates for the Governor's chair...

In view of the number of candidates it is highly important that voters give careful heed to the respective claim of these, eliminating one by one, leaving finally the candidate of their choice.

But in any case it urges them to go to the primary and perform their civic duty by voting for that candidate who in their opinion can best serve the State with honor to himself and with devotion to the best interests of the citizens of Texas.

HOW'S your HEALTH

THE FAMILY ICE BOX The great English philosopher, Francis Bacon, was the first to show that cold is a food preservative.

History records that his last experiment consisted in filling a chicken with snow and thus keeping it from spoiling.

This experiment cost him his life for it is said that because of the exposure he caught cold, and soon thereafter died.

Bacon's "mortal experiment," however, has since been the means for saving an untold number of lives, particularly of young lives.

Marking has long known how to preserve his spare food. Smoking, pickling, drying and like methods were employed since the earliest times in history.

Preservation by cold, however, is in many respects superior to those previously employed.

Cold neither adds nor takes away any of the constituents of the food. It doesn't alter the natural taste, nor affect its flavor.

Neither the nutritional value nor yet the digestibility of food is affected by cold. The vitamin content is little, if at all altered.

Cold keeps food in a condition closely approximating its fresh state.

Food may be cold stored in deep cellars, wells and the like. But the most common and probably best household storage is in the ice box.

To be safe and effective the temperature in the ice box should not rise above 15 degrees Fahrenheit.

Free ice box temperatures however reach this low point. Most of them are in the vicinity of 60 degrees Fahrenheit. This is not a safe temperature.

The household ice box should be placed in a cool spot, away from the sun, and kitchen stove. Cars should be taken to see that doors are close fitting, and not left ajar or opened unnecessarily.

The ice chest should be kept clean and dry. Cold does not seal it, merely arrests bacterial growth. An imperfect and inefficient ice box, is dangerous through the false sense of security which it engenders.

Strauss Has Spent $3521 For Sterling

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—William Strauss, campaign manager for R. S. Sterling, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, reported to the secretary of state he had spent $3,521.07 in Sterling's behalf.

Sterling's personal expense account, Strauss said, will be filed later.

Three candidates for the United States senate filed today. R. L. Henry, "wet" Democrat, reported expenses of $453. Doran John Joesly and C. A. Harris, both seeking the Republican nomination, reported they had incurred no expenses.

Other accounts filed included: S. A. Piper, Republican candidate for Congress from the Fourth District, $4; Dr. H. B. Tanner, Republican, for lieutenant governor nothing; E. W. Thurmond, Republican, for Commissioner of Agriculture, nothing; Henry B. Dielman, Congress 14th District, $80; John Lee Smith, Congress 13th District, $1,315.48.

One-Armed Golfer Gets Hole-In-One

FORT WORTH, July 17 (AP)—This is a story of a one-armed golfer who made a hole in one.

Jimmy Nichols, whose right arm is off above the elbow, sunk his tee shot on the 115 yard No. 8 hole at Oakhurst today. He was playing with George Harris.

Nichols has been playing golf about two years and shoots in the 60s. Using his right handed driver, midiron, masher and niblick, and a left handed putter he recently shot the first nine at Worth Hills in 42, and the first nine at Glen Garden in 44. His medal score on the tough Oakhurst course today was 45.

Jim can hit 'em off the tee farther than most two handed players getting 22 1/2 and 250 yards on his drives. He used a masher-niblick to bag the ace.

BY ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—While the synchronized sound version of the early screen epic "The Birth of a Nation," to be ready for late summer or early fall release, will be unchanged as to cast from the original cast from the original masterpiece of the past now being revived as talkies will have new faces in the roles made famous by the present and former stars.

In the old Griffith production Lillian Gish, Mae Marsh, now retired, and Henry B. Walthall's "Little Colonel" will be seen as before in "To-Be-Da-Da," one of Richard Barthelmess' early successes, will offer another David, yet unselected, and "Broken Blossoms," in which Barthelmess shared honors with Lillian Gish, will be without either.

And "Mickey," the feature which will be remembered as the late Mabel Normand's best, will have Nancy Welford in the title role.

Another Old One Announcement that Cecil B. DeMille may re-film "The Squaw Man," probably with Reginald Denny in the role played by the late Dustin Farnum, serves to recall the business perils braved by the movie pioneers.

"The Squaw Man" marked the entry to pictures, about 1913, not only of DeMille as a director, but of Jesse Lasky, former reporter, vaudevillean, cabaret pioneer, among other things, and of Sam Goldwyn, then a glove salesman, as executives.

The three decided on "The Squaw Man," then a stage hit, as their initial production, and Dustin Farnum, who had starred in it, as their first star. Their capital was little more than $25,000. Farnum offered stock in the company for his services, preferred $5,000 cash, got it and lived to regret his choice.

RISKY DeMille, Farnum and the troupe came to Hollywood, where DeMille rented an old barn for a studio. In two or three weeks "The Squaw Man" was completed—then the fun began.

When projected the picture flickered and jumped all over the screen. Something was wrong with the spacing of the sprocket holes in the film which insure even projection. Trying to fix it, the studio mechanics spoiled the negative.

It meant ruin to the venturesome three if they could not deliver the film to exhibitors. But DeMille had shot every scene twice, and this second negative finally was brought to Sigmund Lubin, film doctor, in Philadelphia, who saved the day.

WORKER KILLED VERNON, Texas, July 17 (AP)—B. H. Smith, 37, employed in the Gray Back oil field 20 miles south of Vernon, died here of burns received yesterday when the tractor on which he was working back fired to ignite escaping gas from the Empire Gas and Fuel Company's No. 11-8, which had just started to flow.

Chapter 26 A NICE DAY FOR CATS Now that she had ended the affair, Mary Lou couldn't understand what had prompted her decision. Tantalizingly came the thought of what she and Tony might have done together.

She shut her eyes, beat clenched fists against a throbbing head. Was it too late? She could call him on the phone, and tell him that she'd go, after all. She started across the studio, but at the sight of the telephone, her resolution wavered.

Her body slumped listlessly. No, she wouldn't call. But as she was half way back across the room, the telephone did ring.

It was Tony. It must be—Tony calling to ask if she wouldn't change her mind. She almost dropped the receiver before she got it to her ear.

"Hello, Mary Lou?" Her heart dropped, and she felt a dizzy feeling of disappointment. "Yes, that you, Brynmor?" "I say, that you, Brynmor?" "Don't be foolish!" Mary Lou tried to force conviction.

"You mean that you have time to talk with me?" She laughed. "All the time in the world."

"Well, give my regards to Titherington. I suppose he's there now?" "No," she said slowly. "He's not here now. Look here, Brynmor, do you want to take me out sometime this week?"

He seemed taken aback. "You know I do. I'd have suggested it myself, if I hadn't been afraid of treading on Titherington's corns."

"He hasn't any." "What do you mean?" "I said he has nothing to do with it any more. The engagement is off."

"Well, I'm—staggered," gasped Brynmor. Then he chuckled. "I hope you don't expect me to be sorry."

"Suit yourself about that," Brynmor seemed elated.

"Pink," Mary Lou replied with conviction. "He loves girls in pink." She had a vision of herself in the atrocious pink dress she had worn that first night at the Emerald Dragon. And Tony's opinion of it, delivered weeks afterward...

"Here's one that ought to fit you," she added, holding a fluffy georgette of unpleasant rose shade. Gwendolyn tried it, but the effect was awful. She began to be suspicious of Mary Lou's judgment.

"I think I'll take the green one, after all," she said decisively. "If Tony doesn't like me in it, I'll wear something else next time. You'll be sure to send it out this afternoon, Mrs. Jerome? It's important, you know."

"Oh, it is," thought Mary Lou. "We'll see about that!" It was a nice day for cats. Jay decided to join the game.

"You might pack it and send it off, Mary Lou," she said sweetly. "And be sure she gets it in time, won't you, dear?"

"I'll see to it," Mary Lou's sweetness was a bit overdone. Upstairs in the alterations room, Mary Lou shook out the green dress before putting it in a box.

Spring night—spring moon. Gwendolyn and Tony. Her teeth gnashed, and she stamped her foot on the floor. That same dress, she knew would look lovely on her. And green was Tony's favorite color.

A smile spread over her face, as she swiftly substituted the pink dress for the green one. Then she called the delivery boy.

"Alex," she said sternly, "don't deliver this box to Miss Carruthers before six o'clock, see? Any time after six will do very well."

She reflected, with satisfaction that the shop would be safely closed by six. No one would be there to answer Gwendolyn's frantic telephone call.

Yes, it was a nice day for cats. Copyright, 1936, Maysie Greig.

Tomorrow, Mary Lou makes a desperate effort to find compensation for losing Tony.

Gallant Fox Not To Start Event

EDUCATOR DIES DALLAS, Texas, July 17 (AP)—Charles Austin Bryant, 71, early Texas educator and president of the C. A. Bryant Company, died at his home here Wednesday.

He was a native of Lexington, Va., but came to Texas when a young man and taught schools in a number of cities before entering business.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Legume acreage on Missouri farms showed a large increase in 1935, a report just submitted to the Missouri college of agriculture shows.

"I don't have the mumps or anything catching, Jay," she smiled. "Ever since I told you about it you've treated me as though I had some sort of disease. What do you want me to do, stay in bed and put a mustard poultice on my heart?"

"That might help to warm it up," Gwendolyn Carruthers bounced into Jay's shop just before lunch. She radiated an air of smug enthusiasm.

"Oh, Mrs. Jerome, I want the most adorable gown you have in the shop. Tony Titherington's taking me to the theater tonight!"

Inside the fitting room Mary Lou dropped a box of pins. "I'm so sorry," she apologized to her customer.

Gwendolyn's exuberant voice became louder. "Yes, isn't it unexpected? I nearly died of shock when he told me that it was all off between him and Mary Lou."

Gwendolyn tried on a dozen dresses before she made up her mind. She insisted that Mary Lou should help her select a frock.

She was parading before the mirror in a gown of green taffeta, high in front, but reaching to her heels behind. On red-headed Gwendolyn it looked divine.

"No, Tony wouldn't like that," Mary Lou commented without hesitation. "He hates girls to wear green."

"Oh," Gwendolyn said in peevish disappointment. "And I thought that dress suited me, too. What color does his lordship prefer?"

BEACHES OF CALIFORNIA AND BEAUTY SPOTS OF OTHER STATES ATTRACT BIG SPRING PEOPLE

Dozens Are visiting Long Beach and Los Angeles—Many Others See Eastern Cities

A Big Spring re-union could be held on the white sands of Long Beach, California, if all of the residents of this city who have made the pilgrimage westward within the last two weeks could be drawn together there at one time.

Literally scores have trekked westward by train and by automobile. Picturesque spots on the trail between here and there have been visited, admired and left behind. The Grand Canyon, the petrified forest, the cliff dweller's deserted places—all of the beauty-spots between here and California have afforded stopping places and postal cards for Big Spring vacationists.

The beauties of New Mexico have stopped many in that state. Ruido, Cloudero, Santa Fe and El Paso have all had their quota of visitors.

And too, there are many who have "seen Texas first." They concentrated on San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Angelo and other metropolitan centers.

Here is a list as full as possible of Big Spring people who have been away, who are away, or who are going away on their vacations.

Mrs. Cornelia Cameron left Friday for Dallas. She will spend six weeks there both on her vacation and as a buyer for J. W. Fisher's store.

J. E. Webb has joined his wife at Long Beach, California. They will return soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Jacobs and two daughters leave today for a motor trip through East Texas. They will be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Covert and children are in Los Angeles and will spend their vacation there and in other parts of California.

Miss Merle McCleskey is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. W. Le Mond of Long Beach, California. She was accompanied there by Mrs. McCleskey's two sisters, Mrs. Charles Saigling of Plainview and Mrs. John J. Roberts of Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gardner are spending their vacation in Fort Worth and Eureka Springs.

The Stephen Curries of Glasscock county are in Chicago on their vacation.

Among Big Spring people who are in California and have been for the past week are: Dr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington and daughter, Dorothy; Mrs. J. Y. Robb and children, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Holmes and daughter, Pauline Melton, R. L. Price, R. C. Sanderson, Mrs. W. A. Earnest, Miss Nell Hatch, Mrs. John Hodges and children, Mrs. G. I. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Robbins, and Miss Nell Davis.

Mrs. R. V. Middleton and son returned recently from Mineral Wells, where they have been visiting.

Mrs. Wilburn Barcus is in Waco visiting her family.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Scherrable and three children are spending their vacation in Chicago.

Mrs. Victor Mellinger and children are in New York City for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hays and Mrs. Morgan Martin and son, Elmer, and G. C. Choate, are spending a two weeks' vacation in New Mexico.

Mrs. Jack Ellis and Mrs. Charles Deats are in San Antonio for a few days.

Mrs. John McTier is visiting in Texhoma.

Mrs. Ashley Williams and her two sons are visiting in Hobbs, N. M.

Little Iris Williams Has Birthday Party

Little Miss Iris Williams celebrated her fifth birthday with a party at her home Friday afternoon. She is the daughter of Mrs. Pat Williams.

The children were entertained with games and contests on the lawn and refreshments were served to the following: Frank Boyd Jr., Rhona Hubbard, Pauline Davis, Fred Campbell Jr., Bobby Lonnon, Betty Johnson, Dorothy Jean Johnson, Helen Hilborn, June Lee Hilborn, Dorothy Jean Hilborn, Roy Page, Oscar L. Daily Vacation Bible School Is Very Popular

Children of All Denominations Flock to Presbyterian Church Every Morning—122 Now Enrolled

BY MISS SUELLA STARR
Director of Religious Education
El Paso Presbytery

The Daily Vacation Bible School of the First Presbyterian church is well under way. This is the fourth year this church has sponsored a vacation school and each successive school has given added proof of its value to the community. It is non-sectarian, receiving more than a half of its pupils from churches of other denominations and teaching only those fundamental principles of Christian living which are accepted by all believers.

The Daily Vacation Bible School is a nation wide, inter-denominational movement, yearly growing in popularity as individual churches, communities and larger sections adopt this method of religious education. It was organized to meet the need for additional time, over the regular Sunday hour, in which to train the youth of our land in Christian conduct, morality and citizenship. The extent to which this is being done is shown by the fact that last year there were more than 75 schools reported as conducted by Presbyterian workers alone in this state. We do not have the figures for other denominations.

Arrangement and Curriculum
The splendidly arranged building with its equipment is a great asset to the school this year, contributing to the comfort and convenience, hence to the greater ability for successful work in each department. The school is divided into age groups meeting in their regular class rooms with a pianist and one or more teachers, as the size of the group requires. Each group has its worship period suited to the understanding of children of that age. Each group studies the Bible in the way which suits it best, and each has a separate play time.

authorities for teaching little folks the Primary group has Mrs. S. L. Baker and Mrs. R. M. Parks as leaders. Their course is "Learning God's Way" by Dudley. Both of these courses consist of incidents and teachings from the Bible applicable to the experience of the little child. These children have made little baskets of construction paper as love gifts for their mothers, book marks and match scratchers for other members of the family, gifts for friends, animal toys for themselves and articles, which will add to the attractiveness of their Sunday school rooms.

Three Leaders
The Junior Department, being the largest group, has three leaders: Miss Elsie Jeanette Barnett, Mrs. W. C. Barnett, and Miss Mary Jean Dubberly. They are using "Knights of Service," by Hawthorne and Bradshaw, a group of incidents from the Bible and conduct stories which are told in a way to bring the noblest response from the Junior heart. They are committing Bible passages and songs to memory and have pleased the assembly by giving two rousing songs and yells. For hand-craft they have made note books, many of which would do credit to real book binders. The boys will have further opportunity to use saws and hammers and the girls will make useful gifts with their needles. The Intermediate teacher is Mrs. B. F. Wills, and though fewer in number, this group is doing credible work. They have organized their department and elected officers to take charge of various expressive activities. Their attractive note books are to contain an outline of their study, "The King's Highway," which is an arrangement of the life of Christ and His teachings. Good progress has also been made in their selections for memorizing. Other interesting plans have been made for these next few days.

Invitation
Much of the success of this first week's work is due to the pupils' cooperation with their teachers and their response to the high standards being held up throughout the school. A hearty invitation is given every girl and boy between the ages of four and fourteen to enroll in this worth while enterprise. There is no tuition fee, and the sessions are only two and a half hours from 8:45 to 11:45 each morning, continuing through Friday. A program will be presented Friday evening at 8 o'clock. This will be a review of some of the work accomplished by each department and the hand craft will be on display. All parents and friends of these children and others interested in the cause of education are cordially invited to be present.

The secretary, Miss Leola Moffett, checks the attendance each day and reports the results to the school at the assembly period. The following pupils are enrolled:

OUT OF TOWN VISITORS MANY

Some Here for Week End—Others for Summer

Guests for the week-end, guests for the summer, friends just passing through on their way to western or eastern resorts—guests and relatives, the town has been full of them for the past week.

Many come to spend the day or so, and remain for weeks. The climate and the cool nights, they say, are unequalled anywhere they have been.

Wondering visitors from Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth return to their lower climes only at the last decent moment.

Mrs. Larson Lloyd has as her guest Miss Margaret Beyette of Denton. Mrs. Lloyd entertained at her home on Runnels street Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Beyette.

Miss Mildred Counselor of Riverton, Wyoming, is the summer guest of her sister, Mrs. Max Mahaffey, 411 East Park street.

Mrs. J. C. Holmes has as her guests, her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Simmons and daughters, Helen and Frances, of Wichita Falls. They will be here over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. John Whitaker have as their guest, Miss Ruth Book of Waco.

Mrs. Hattie Crossett has as guests her daughter, Mrs. J. J. Robinson, and two grandchildren, Flo Marie Robinson and Janette Mason, both of Denton.

Mrs. W. G. Orenbaum and Mrs. R. W. Baker have as their guest, Mrs. Nettie Brown of Fort Worth. Mrs. Brown will be here until the latter part of the week.

Mrs. W. M. Robinson of Toyah arrived Friday afternoon to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Powell and her sister, Mrs. J. O. Tamatt.

Mrs. Hattie McCleskey has as her guests, Mrs. M. K. Alley and Nick Roberts of Dallas.

Miss Mary Ruth Prichard of Fort Worth is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Prichard.

Mrs. E. E. Green and daughter Ernestine and niece, Mary, of Rosebud, are visiting Mrs. Green's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Painter. They will be here until Tuesday.

Mrs. Charlie Gibbs and little son and Mrs. I. H. Harmon of San Angelo spent yesterday with Mrs. F. F. Gary.

Mrs. Fletcher Etheridge and two children left yesterday for their home in Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Etheridge has been visiting her mother, Mrs. F. F. Gary, and her sister, Mrs. C. K. Bivings, for several weeks.

Mrs. G. H. Powell returned yesterday to her home in Norman, Oklahoma. Mrs. Powell has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Don Harpole.

Mrs. W. D. McDonald is expecting her sister, Miss Alice Tingle of Birmingham, Ala., as her guest this coming week.

Earl L. Comer and H. P. Cooper of Dallas are the guests of Mrs. W. C. Barnett and family.

Mrs. W. C. Barnett has as her guest, Miss May Dearing, of Austin, who arrived last evening. Miss Dearing is Mrs. Barnett's niece.

S.P.C. Club In Regular Session

The S. P. C. club met with Nancy Bell Phillips Saturday afternoon. The members went on a hike, sang songs and composed some new club yells.

They were served luncheon by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Eloise Kuykendall.

COAHOMA IS VICTIM OF TIGERS

In a ten inning battle the Mexican Tigers eked out a 10 to 9 victory over the Coahoma aggregation at Coahoma Sunday afternoon.

Subia, Yanez and Lopez saw mound duty for the Tigers, while Hoper and Lovelace chunked for the Coahoma crew.

The winning run came in the tenth inning, a four ply clout by Lopez.

University Gets $1,134,160 For New Oil Leases

AUSTIN, July 14.—University of Texas permanent fund was increased $1,134,160, to 'above $15,000,000 when Land Commr. J. H. Walker this week awarded leases on 84 tracts of land to highest bidders on bids submitted Jan. 2, 1929, on university lands in Andrews, Ward and Winkler counties. The awards were made under supreme court decision that sustained the action of the late Land Commr. J. T. Robinson in calling for bids at the time the controversy over the leases resulted in taking other university lands off the market for a time and in creating the university land leasing board.

High bidders were Amerasia Petroleum corporation, Fort Worth, on 10 full sections in Andrews county; Atlantic Oil, producing company, Dallas, on two sections and two quarters in Ward county and five sections in Andrews county; the California company, Dallas, on seven sections in Andrews county; Deane Gill, Abilene, one quarter-section in Ward county; Gibson and Johnson, Abilene, on 11 sections in Ward county; Humble Oil and Refining company, Houston, three sections and two quarter-sections in Ward county; Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company, Tulsa, one section in Andrews county; Phillips Petroleum company, Bartlesville, Okla., five sections in Andrews county; C. L. Renard, Abilene, 24 sections in Andrews county and three sections in Andrews and Winkler; D. L. Ryan, Dallas, six sections in Andrews county; Skelly Oil company, Tulsa, one section in Andrews county; Vacuum Oil company, Houston, one section in Andrews county.

Highest price paid was $100,104 for Sec. 5, Block 16, Ward county. Other sections in this county ran as high as $80,000, while Andrews county leases ran as low as $804 per section.

BIG SPRING NETTERS LOSE

The Big Spring Racqueteurs went down before the Abilene city champions in a duel meet Sunday, gleaming only one victory, and that was in the junior doubles when least expected, Tommy Hutto and Curtis Bishop took the measure of the state championship pair in straight sets 6-4 and 6-2.

But otherwise the honors of the day went to the Abilenians. Funkhouser took the feature match between the two senior champions easily by walking away from Brown, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2. The Southwestern star, who was off, could not cope with the brilliant drives of the Abilene champion set over Brady of Abilene, interscholastic finalist, experienced a little more difficulty in the match between himself and Bishop. Big Spring schoolboy titlist, but rallied after trailing all the way through the first set to win in straight frames 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Bishop's strategic game of lobbing in the backing, availed him nothing against the smashing, driving attack of Abilene's famous junior title-holder, and after rallying to take the first set when Bishop was leading 4-3 Brady swept easily to victory in the last two frames.

Brown and Whitehurst afforded the combination of Leo Brady and Funkhouser a little competition in the senior doubles but went down in straight sets 5-4 and 6-3. The latter played brilliant tennis throughout the match, but Brown was not the same player that dominated play in the Big Spring tournament last week. Funkhouser and Brady displayed a driving game that worked well for either side, quite disrupting the net play of the two visitors.

Few expected Hutto and Bishop to break through and defeat the combination of Vaughn and Moore but the Big Spring schoolboys took the lead at the start and displayed a marked superiority all the way through. Especially on their service were the local boys strong. Hutto losing his once, Bishop not at all. Hutto, a substitution in the doubles team that won the Big Spring junior title, played a great game, working well with the junior champion in spite of limited practice together. Both youngsters swept to the net incessantly, and displayed the driving returns of Moore and Vaughn with ease. Hutto's overhead played a prominent part in the victory with Bishop playing his usual stellar game of placements.

The Abilene array of titleholders will visit Big Spring for the invitational tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday, though Funkhouser, that city's stellar netman, will not be able to attend.

Next Prize Offer For Small Hot Dishes That Are Easy To Prepare For Your Supper

Mrs. Lewis McKee and Mrs. Louis Rosser Are Winners of Week's Prizes For Best Pie Recipes

BY THE MARKET PAGE EDITOR

Of course the heat has got most of us down, but even at that one's husband comes crying home for something hot for supper.

Hot sandwiches are our suggestion for his relief from the box left overs and your relief from the hot cookstove in the evenings.

The two best recipes sent in to us by next Friday will receive $1.50 each as a prize award.

This week we prophesied a flood of pie recipes—and our prophecy came true. We had so many we scarcely knew what to do with them all.

After much deliberation we decided on "Florodora Pie" submitted by Mrs. Louis Rosser, Gail R. T., and "George Washington Pie" submitted by Mrs. Lewis McKee, R. F. D. Box 152.

Honorable mentions go to Mrs. H. G. Carmack for her "Vinegar Pie" quoted below, to Mrs. B. G. Parker for her Marshmallow Pie, and to Mrs. D. W. Jones of Monahan for her large number of recipes, all above the regular par excellence.

Here are today's winners: "GEORGE WASHINGTON PIE" Mrs. Lewis McKee, R.F.D. Box 152. In 1789 this pie was Washington's favorite. It is, according to Mrs. McKee, just as good now as it was then.

- 1 cup brown sugar
1 cup sweet milk
1-2 tbs. cornstarch
2 tbs. butter
2 eggs
1-2 cup English walnuts
Method: Melt and brown the butter until a deep golden brown. Mix the sugar and cornstarch and gradually add milk to form smooth paste. Then add beaten egg yolks, remaining milk and browned butter. Put in double boiler and cook until thick. Add finely chopped meat and pour into baked crust. Top with meringue made of egg whites, marshmallows chopped, or whipped cream on top of egg meringue.

- "FLORODORA PIE" Mrs. Louis Rosser, Gail Route
3 egg whites stiffly beaten
4 tablespoons sugar
1-2 cup diced marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cup red cherries
1-2 cup chopped candied pineapple
3 cups stiffly whipped cream
1 baked pie crust
Method: Beat the egg whites and add the sugar. Beat for one minute. Mix the cream, pineapple, cherries, vanilla and marshmallows. Fill pie shell, cover with the egg white mixture and bake quickly. Remove and chill.

- VINEGAR PIE
2 cups sugar
2 tbs. butter
2 eggs
4 tbs. flour
4 tbs. vinegar
2 cups water
Nutmeg
Method: Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and beat. Stir into this the flour. Then add vinegar and water. Line two pie tins with paste and pour in the filling uncooked. Sprinkle nutmeg on top. Bake in hot oven until crust is well browned. Finish baking in slow oven.

- MARSHMALLOW PIE Mrs. B. G. Parker, 611 Johnson St.
21 marshmallows
5 eggs
2 cups sugar
2 bananas for each pie or a cup of finely chopped pecans if preferred to bananas.
Method: Put marshmallows in double boiler and melt. Beat egg whites stiff and add sugar to eggs. Beat thoroughly. Then add to marshmallows. Pour into baked pie shells which have bananas sliced in them. Set in the oven and brown. This makes two small or one extra large pie.

Fiddlers' Contest Reunion Feature

He was going to slice into Mussolini

Well all I know is just what I find a knife, and he and a Brother read in the papers, and what I see of his will have your frame into a kindling wood before you know it. He has been over in Italy, and it was reported that he was going to slice into Mussolini and cut out his French complex. So that gives me a chance to get in my Monologue about Mussolini and the Castor Oil. Well as we were sitting in a Drink Store at the time having a drink, my Castor Oil story naturally reminded him of one. (That's the worst part about a story, you can't hardly tell one that it don't remind somebody of another one.) But this one of his was a good one. Its all right for his wife, and by the way a lovely, sweet-faced grey-haired young-looking woman—she and the other fellows daughter—were there, so don't stop reading this out loud, no ahead.

Castor Oil Yarn A Woman come into a Drug Store and asked the clerk if there wasnt some way he could fix up Castor Oil so that it would be tasteless and not objectionable to take.

He said he could, and while she was sitting at the Soda Counter waiting he asked her if she wouldnt have a cool refreshing drink of some kind, and he handed her a glass of Sassaflilla. She drank it, and after waiting a few minutes she noticed that he was not doing anything toward giving her the Castor Oil she had asked for, so she asked him for it. "Why lady you have already taken it." "Already taken it?" she hollered, "why it was sent for me, it was for my Sister."

He is full of stories, and is a great little fellow. Gosh when you think of what those fellows have done! That's what you call being a real Benefactor to mankind. You know to me the greatest thing they have done, and that is the system of changing everyone in proportion to what they can pay. Course some let a yell out of them like a hoot Owl, and claim that they paid more than so and so, but its the greatest system ever invented. All Doctors should make enough out of those who are well able to pay, to be able to do all work for the poor free. That is one thing that a poor person should never be expected to pay for is medical attention, and not from an organized Charity, but from our best Doctors. But your Doctor bill should be paid like your Income tax, according to what you have. There is nothing like that keeps poor people poor as much as paying Doctor Bills. It always wipes out their savings, and its that fear of not being able to pay is what makes it ten times worse on them. It ought to be a law, not a custom. SCORE OF WEST TEXANS, HEADS OF STATE ORGANIZATIONS, IN GUEST LIST AT BANQUET

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE IS THWARTED

One Gets Away; Life Term's Heart Pierced

PECOS, Texas, July 15 (AP)—The steady aim and cool nerve of Mrs. John Duncan, wife of the Reeves county jailer, prevented wholesale jail delivery and probably saved the life of her husband here last night.

A bullet from Mrs. Duncan's pistol pierced the heart of Willie Hernandez, a life term, as the prisoner came down the steps, after Duncan had been slugged by Hernandez when he went into the cell.

Pedro Aguilar, under death sentence for murder, got away. After Duncan had been slugged, six prisoners rushed for freedom. Hernandez, the dead man, known as "Willie the Hog," was given the death penalty five years ago for the murder of John Paddock, whose body was found in the ruins of his burned filling station north of Pecos, but the verdict was reversed and on a second trial he got life imprisonment. The judgment had been affirmed and was awaiting transfer to Huntsville.

Aguilar was given death for the murder of Toots Dakan, a deputy sheriff in Ward county last spring. It was believed Aguilar was headed for the Mexican border.

ORDINANCE IS ATTACKED AT MASS MEETING

The controversy which has been current since the recently appointed City Sanitation inspector started checking dairies preparatory to enforcing the milk ordinance, reached a climax Saturday afternoon when several hundred Howard County men met in a "protest" session in the district court room. Every seat in the room was taken and a number of the farmers and dairymen were standing.

The meeting, according to W. B. Sneed, who was elected chairman, was called for the purpose of reaching an understanding as to what portions of the milk ordinance would be enforced.

Probably the high point of the session came when City Manager V. R. Smitham refused twice to come before the body and discuss the ordinance. Sheriff Jess Slaughter was sent for him the first time and reported he declined to come. Bob Cook, member of the City Commission, asked Smitham the second time, and reported he again had declined.

According to Sheriff Slaughter the City Manager agreed to discuss the ordinance with a committee appointed by the body.

At the conclusion of the meeting a committee composed of C. B. Edwards, J. A. Bishop, Earl E. Phillips, Virgil Phillips and Walter Robinson, was named to meet with the city commission at the next session.

Cook was the only member of the commission present at the session. He told the farmers that nothing had been done in regard to enforcement, that the commissioners were just now acquainting themselves with the ordinance, and that a revised sanitary ordinance would probably be adopted at the next session.

"Who hired this sanitary inspector?" someone in the crowd asked Cook.

"I don't know," Cook replied, "but he was hired to do sanitation work here, and there is no intention to hurt the farmer."

Clyde E. Thomas, local attorney, was called upon and declared it is his opinion the controversy could have been avoided.

"I presume," he declared, "the commission had good motives, but I think they pulled 'em homehead' in carrying out their motives. We want your milk and we want your butter, and we want anything else you have for sale."

J. A. Kinard spoke twice before the meeting. In his opening talk he told the farmers to be sure they demanded papers showing the inspector's authority and qualifications to give cows a tuberculosis test. In his second he declared "the squabble is not necessary."

West Texans aren't doing so badly in all-state way. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce estimates that at least 20 residents of the territory it serves are presidents of state organizations of various sorts. So a banquet was given for them here last night.

The twenty were given public recognition. They were guests at a banquet whereat Charles E. Coombes of Stamford, president of the West Texas chamber was host.

Abilene was selected as the banquet city because of the 20 West Texans honored, five are Abileneans.

Plan Permanent Feature The Monday night dinner was preliminary to making this affair an annual feature at WTCC conventions, announces D. A. Bandeen, manager of the regional organization. Bandeen admits the list compiled by his office is incomplete.

"There are probably 50 to 75 West Texans now heading all-state organizations," he said, "and we want every one of them to communicate with us at once."

Guests The guest list, as it stood Monday, is as follows:

Ray Roe, Abilene, president Texas Past Masters Council of DeMolay.

H. D. Hoekersmith, Vernon, president Texas League of Municipalities.

L. S. Gardner, Waco, president of Texas Independent Telephone Association.

Ray H. Nichols, Vernon, president Texas Press Association.

Dr. R. H. Graham, Wichita Falls, district governor of Texas Lions clubs.

L. A. Grimes, Abilene, president Texas division of Southwest Waterworks Association.

Mrs. J. O. Monticif, Fort Worth, president Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Ray Rector, Stamford, grand chancellor Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

A. H. Demke, El Paso, president Texas Baby Chick Association.

Miss Belle Wellborn, Abilene, president County and District Clerks' Association.

John B. Ray, Abilene, president Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

Mrs. John B. Ray, Abilene, president Woman's Auxiliary, Texas Pharmaceutical Association.

John Q. McAdams, Winters, president Texas Bankers Association.

T. A. Kincaid, Ozona, president Sheep & Goat Raisers Association of Texas.

H. G. Lucas, Brownwood, president National Pecan Growers' Association.

H. W. Galbraith, Amarillo, president Texas Line Yards Association.

E. U. Bradley, Amarillo, state commander Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Paul Rogers, Fort Worth, president Ice Cream Manufacturers' Association of Texas.

Otto Atkinson, San Angelo, president Texas Natural Milk Producers Association.

Ross H. Wolfe, Stephenville, president Texas Pecan Growers Association.

WILL TOUR GREAT LAKES

Miss Fyrlie Bradshaw will leave Friday for Milwaukee to attend the National Photographers Convention. From there she will tour the Great Lakes, visiting Buffalo, Niagara and points in Canada.

HOMEMAKERS DISBANDED

The Home Makers Class of the First Christian Church has been disbanded for the summer. It will start its regular monthly meetings on the second Monday of the month, in September. Yesterday's meeting was not held.

Mrs. Dave Ferry and daughter, Ethel Jean, left today for Hillboro to visit friends and relatives there.

ing before us and discussing this matter. If he had come he would have been treated cordially. We merely wanted to learn the contents of the milk ordinance and what it was going to cost us for enforcement.

Speaker For James Young Addresses Howard Voters

BOND ISSUE ATTACKED BY MILLER

Wacoan Pleads For 'Retrenchment' In Government

Attacking R. S. Sterling's state wide bond issue and urging Howard County voters to "Rock to an old-fashioned Democrat," Claude Miller, Waco, spoke here last night in the interest of the candidacy of Jim Young of Kaufman for Governor.

Edgar Witt, Waco, member of the senate for 12 years, and candidate for Lieutenant Governor, also was here and spoke before Miller, discussing his views on "taxation and education."

Miller and Witt were introduced by Grover B. Cunningham, Big Spring attorney.

Miller, who supported Lynch Davidson for Governor four years ago, declared he had known Young only a few months, but that in his opinion he is the only "worthy one" in this race.

"Young," he declared, "is not a progressive Democrat. He does not belong to the party which believes prosperity can be obtained by legislative enactment. He is a plain, old-fashioned Democrat, 60 years old, and has the esteem of all. He believes in the policy of retrenchment and economy."

"They call us moss-backs, and they call us old fogies, but I challenge any of the so-called progressive democrats to find a business executive that does not in the management of his business pursue this same policy."

Miller declared that expenses of government increase each year, but that "fundamental principles do not change."

"The principles," he declared, "are still the same. How would you like to live under a constitution written by some of these men running for governor?"

"Young," he declared, "when he is elected governor, proposes to supplement ad valorem taxes with a tax on natural resources."

"There is a certain gentleman in the race who says he is the candidate of West Texas. He says he is in favor of a tax on gas and all natural resources. We would think a little more of him if he had lifted his voice in the senate when the fight was on for a sulphur tax. There is a sulphur mine in South Texas producing 80 per cent of the sulphur of the civilized world. Yet, those fellows are opposed to bearing their share of the tax burden."

"Jim wants to relieve you farmers of as much tax burden as possible. Young wants to tax this intangible property. He wants to tax that intangible part of the railroads. And he wants to tax every octopus in Texas today."

Speaking of the penitentiary system, Miller declared Young is opposed to selling state lands and opposed to industrializing the convicts.

"The convict system is no pleasant one," he declared. "There are three or four men making barber chairs. And three or four more making shoes for convicts. And 300 or 400 sitting around in the canteens smoking cigarettes. We need to put the convicts to work. They should be producing shoes for all inmates of eleemosynary institutions, and foodstuffs for all of them. That's Jim Young's policy. He is going to put the convict to work. He has advocated such a thing from the start."

"He centered his attack on Sterling's state wide bond issue, going off on a short tangent at times to tap the newspapers supporting the Houston candidate."

In The Woodpile
"Oh there are negroes in Sterling's woodpile. Sterling becomes generous all of a sudden. He wants to remove your ad valorem tax, because when he does he takes it off his Houston skyscrapers. That's one of the negroes in Sterling's wood pile."

"He makes you believe the gas tax solves the problem, but you farmers would pay more gasoline tax than you'd get ad valorem bond tax, altogether you probably don't know it now. That's another."

"Sterling and his interests want to take the ad valorem bond tax off the railroads. Let him do it, and in five years from today the railroads will control your highways and mine. The supreme court has held a state cannot place a gasoline tax on gasoline motors engaged in interstate commerce. The big business of the railroads will push you off the highway and not pay a cent."

A Millionaire
"Whenever you see a man worth millions concerning himself about the humble tax payer you can look for a negro in the woodpile and find him every time."

"It is funny in this race. All he candidates but one say they voted the straight ticket and then jump on Young because he did. Jim Young took the stump for the Democratic ticket in the last presidential election. He knows the will of the Republican party. He knows they represent the classes; not the masses. He knows them as enemies of the south, a party that breaks the pledges, and sponsors graft and corruption in Washington.

Tammanyite
"Pink L. Parish says 'Young is a Tammanyite.' All I have to say is that if Tammany Hall is trying to elect Jim Young, then God bless Tammany Hall. Jim Young is the only honest to God prohibitionist in the race. In 1887 he took the stump to fight the liquor crowd. He left the bedside of a sick brother to vote for the 18th Amendment. 'Tell you it would be easier for me to swallow Tammany Hall than some of the fellows in this race.'

"I'll take Tammany Hall before I would take Thomas 'Bolter' Love, a man who knifed the Democratic party in the back and is still bragging about it."

"But as badly as I would hate to, if he is the Democratic nominee I'll vote for him. I'll do it though the heavens fall."

"Young bears charity to all and malice toward none. He is a typical Texan, a dry pro, and a Christian gentleman. He is the type of Hogg and Reagan and Culbertson—a Democrat of the old school. He has fought for you before. He stands ready to represent the masses in the Governor's chair at Austin."

LOS ANGELES FINANCIER SHOT TO DEATH IN COURT ROOM OF CITY BUILDING

LOS ANGELES, July 14 (AP)—Molley H. Flint, Los Angeles financier, was shot to death in the Los Angeles temple of Justice today.

The shooting occurred in the court room of Superior Judge Collier. Flint, who was brother of the late United States Senator Frank P. Flint, was killed instantly.

Witnesses said the shots were fired by Frank O. Keaton, a real estate broker.

Flint was a witness in a suit of David C. Selznick, film executive, against the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles.

After Flint, Keaton, threw his pistol at Flint, raised his hand and surrendered.

Flint came into prominence as a principal figure in the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock swindle of 1927. Charges of violation of the corporate securities act were pending against Flint as well as other charges growing out of the Julian case.

He recently returned from Europe to face these accusations. At the time of the Julian case he was vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank. He formerly was postmaster of Los Angeles.

The court room was in a turmoil.

Flint had just stepped from the witness chair when Keaton, sitting in the second row, shot him in the throat.

Keaton said he had bought some bank stock from Flint's old concern several years ago and had suddenly decided to shoot him, but he did not know why. Three shots were fired. Flint was 65.

"I just decided to do it a little while ago," Keaton muttered.

"I've had that gun in my trunk 25 years. I heard Flint had just come and I went to the court room early and sat down."

"Just as he came in front of me I decided to shoot him. I hadn't seen him for seven or eight years. I bought some stock from his old bank some time ago."

"Keaton said he was 55."

"I ruined me," cried Keaton, who is a former real estate broker of Inglewood, Los Angeles suburb.

"I put all my money in First National bank stock and it went down a hundred points. I had four thousand shares. I didn't mean to kill him. I came down town looking for a job. I heard of this case. I came to the court room and sat down. Just when I saw him coming through the gate in the railing, something hit me all at once and I shot him."

In the case under trial Selznick charged he had posted film stock for security for a loan but the stock had never been returned. Flint testified he could not remember details of the $250,000 transaction.

Flint served as postmaster from 1894 to 1904, later becoming president of the American Bank and Trust company.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge, the Elks and for years served as a financial adviser to the motion picture industry.

Lamesa Hotel Is Sold for $103,000

LAMESA, July 12—Announcement was made here this week by W. M. Terry of Lubbock of the sale of the Dal-Paso hotel for $103,000 to W. J. Harris. Harris purchased the hotel, one of the finest in Lamesa, from A. A. Hutton, formerly of Lubbock, who bought it last December. Harris plans to add a third story to the structure and contemplates remodeling it.

Weeks Building Permits $3,950

Big Spring building permits totaled $3,950, bringing the total for the first twelve days of July to $10,100.

The largest permit of the week was issued to T. G. Wood, covering the construction of a frame building on lots seven and eight. Block 23, Boydston addition. The estimated cost was $2,000.

Other permits follow: Big Spring Creamery, to remodel interior of building, 410 Donley Street, $300.

B. & B. Grocery, installation of gas pumps, Second and Scurry streets, $100.

C. E. Talbot, repairs to residence, 310 Main street, $600.

FARMER MISSING

Relatives of Frank Cain, 40, farmer, living six miles north of Big Spring on the Gall Road, were seeking him today, and expressed the fear he had been a victim of foul play.

According to his father-in-law, W. L. Rogers, Cain left home Thursday morning to buy some groceries at a local store, paid a check bill and for the additional supplies, and informed the clerk he would return for the goods.

He has not been since that time, according to Rogers. He did not have but a few dollars on him at the time he was last seen.

Talley Rites Set Saturday

Funeral services for H. L. Talley, 55, prominent Big Spring drug store owner, will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the family residence, 511 East 15th Street. Mr. Talley succumbed at 12:15 o'clock Thursday morning after a heart attack.

The Rev. W. G. Bailey, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will conduct the services, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Andrews of Fort Worth. Burial will be in the new Mt. Olive Cemetery.

Mrs. Bruce Frazier has charge of musical arrangements for the rites. Pallbearers will be Harry Hurt, Shine Phillips, W. J. Riggs, Calvin Boykin, Albert Fisher and Rufus Elliott.

Honorary pallbearers will be Henry Edwards, Ralph Link, A. G. Hall, Hall Hart, Jim Barker, Andrew Merrick, J. J. Hair, J. I. Pritchard, Dr. G. T. Hall, Lloyd Barker, Dr. J. R. Barcus, Joe E. Edwards, James Little, C. T. Watson, Bob Cook, Dr. J. R. Dillard and H. D. Cowden.

Among the relatives here for the funeral are Miss Hattie Adams, sister of Mrs. Talley, and Mrs. W. E. and Mrs. W. R. Talley.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Lesie Gregg and Littleton Adams Talley, one sister, Mrs. D. J. Taylor, Temple, and five brothers, W. E. Talley, Waco, Luter L. Talley, Iraan, Dr. L. B. J. B. and W. R. Talley of Temple.

W.C.T.U. All Day Meeting Tomorrow

The W. C. T. U., organized today, will hold an all day meeting tomorrow at the First Christian Church. It will start at ten o'clock in the morning and continue throughout the day to terminate in a mass meeting in the evening.

Mrs. J. T. Bloodworth, state organizer, announced yesterday that she had talked to and found many women interested in the organization. She states that she is sure that there will be quite a number present at the meeting today.

Bible School Lists Total of 130 Pupils

The Daily Vacation Bible school of the Presbyterian church, which opened its final week Monday morning, increased its enrollment to 130, Rev. R. L. Owen, pastor of the church, announced. Plans are being made for the final exercises Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Man's Arm Cut In Yard Mishap

Marvin Ellidge, employe of Black Sivals and Bryson, received a badly cut left arm Saturday morning while unloading a tank in the local yards.

The muscles above the elbow were cut when a stove was thrown against his arm. An operation was necessary, according to hospital officials. He will be in the Big Spring hospital for several days.

Big Spring Boys Home From Camp

Six Big Spring boys have returned from the Citizens' Military Training camp in San Antonio. They reported a profitable two weeks, filled with both labor and pleasure.

The boys are Carlton Coburn, "Sunbeam," Morrison, "Sloppy" Smith, O. C. Hart, Jack Rogers and Franklin Orr.

RESIGNATION OF CITY ATTY. IS SUBMITTED

After several times agreeing, following tendering his resignation, to serve longer, James T. Brooks, city attorney, yesterday submitted to the city manager his resignation from that office and released the letter of resignation to the press.

Upon several occasions, the most recent having been Tuesday, June 24, Mr. Brooks, has submitted his resignation. The Herald, although one of its reporters has been in attendance upon commission sessions as a regular assignment, has until now concurred in a request of the city commission that the resignation not be published until the commission could obtain a successor to Mr. Brooks. Meanwhile Mr. Brooks has served.

The letter of Saturday follows: Mr. V. R. Smitham, City Manager, City of Big Spring, Texas.

Dear Mr. Smitham: I am again requesting you to accept my resignation as your city attorney and ask that this be done at once.

You will recall that in February I told you I desired to be relieved of this work and you requested me to wait until after the May term of district court. I yielded to your request and in May tried one of the suits that the City desired tried before I resigned, and you know we were successful in winning the verdict and I doubt very much if the other cases will ever be tried.

Other matters pending have been disposed of—the bonds have been approved and sold and your right-of-way for your sewer line has been obtained, and there is nothing pending now but that any one else that you might appoint can handle as well as I.

On June 24, 1930, I again requested you to relieve me of this work and handed you my written resignation, which you now have. The salary in this office is not commensurate with the amount of work a city attorney is requested to do. The work often times is very unpleasant and I find it interferes with my private practice, and I request that you appoint my successor at once so that I will be relieved of my duties on July 15th, 1930.

Big Spring is my home and I want to help build a better city. We have made wonderful progress in the past and are going to make wonderful progress in the future if we will all pull together.

Thanking you and the commissioners for the many courtesies shown me and assuring you that any time I can be of service to you it shall be my pleasure to serve you.

I am Very truly yours, JAMES T. BROOKS.

Clarence Saunders Stores Unaffected By Memphis Action

Clarence Saunders stores in Big Spring are not affected by the involuntary petition in bankruptcy which was filed in federal court in Memphis Monday against the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc. According to Ralph Linck, manager of the No. 2 store here, located at 224 West Third street, Saunders has no connection with the local organizations.

Creditors filing the petition and the amounts they claimed were Oliver Finnie Company $2,430; Myers Paper Company, $103 and Luce Packing company, Luedade, Miss. $400.

The petition contended Saunders corporation, operating stores in Tennessee, Arkansas and other states, admitted a state of bankruptcy by paying a claim to a local coal company, thus allegedly making that concern a preferred creditor.

Mr. Saunders said he would not announce whether he would fight the action before he read the bill, which he said he "had not seen."

He said any action against the Clarence Saunders Stores, Inc., affects 150 stores controlled by that unit of his holdings but does not affect his extensive chain in California and many in the east, mid-west and Kentucky. Stores not affected number 230, he said.

Saunders said cities with stores affected by the petition includes Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls, Texas, Little Rock, St. Louis, Birmingham, Shreveport, La., Natchez, Chattanooga, Memphis, Montgomery, Ala., and Roanoke, Va.

MILLIONS LEAVE TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. R. Millon left today for Niagara Falls and points in Canada. They will also stop in Chicago and Detroit. They will be gone for about a month.

ST. MARY'S MEET IN AUGUST

The St. Mary's Auxiliary will not meet again until the first Monday in August. This will be a business meeting. It did not meet yesterday.

VISITS HERE

Mrs. W. J. Miller of El Paso is visiting her daughter, Mrs. V. Van Gleeton.

Candidates Prove Statistics Can Be Made to Prove Anything; Here's How They Dope Their Own Races

By HARRELL E. LEE Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, July 14 (AP)—Often it has been said that statistics can be made to prove anything and supporters of seven candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor are working their figures overtime, and proving the truth of that saying.

Each of the seven camps can show the visitor how its leader is going to receive at least 150,000 votes. That would mean 1,850,000 votes for the four remaining candidates. However, the experts say the total vote won't be over 750,000 or 800,000.

The candidates who have run for state office before, Barry Miller, Earle B. Mayfield, Thomas E. Lovi, and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, are the ones whose supporters turn to their figures most frequently. Each has received considerably more than 150,000 votes in some previous campaign.

Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, say they think the Ferguson vote is practically intact. In the first primary four years ago, Mrs. Ferguson received 283,482 votes. In the first primary in 1924 she got 146,424 votes in a field of nine and the total was only 703,123. Ferguson several times passed the 150,000 mark. It would be foolish, her supporters insist, to say Mrs. Ferguson will not receive 150,000 votes if 750,000 persons go to the polls.

Barry Miller has to look back only two years to start his figuring. In the lieutenant governor's race that year she received 312,194 votes. Granting that the multiplicity of candidates will cut that strength this year, he certainly should poll half his 1928 vote, his backers say.

Tom Love's supporters can figure with any of the others. Herbert Hoover got 267,036 votes two years ago, they point out. They figure 267,000 of the Hoover followers will go into the democratic primary. Love is the only candidate for governor who supported President Hoover and he should get at least 60 per cent of these 267,000 votes, which would be something like 160,000, they contend. Besides, Love got 202,329 votes in the lieutenant governor's race in 1928.

Earle B. Mayfield's cohorts will reply that their candidate obtained 206,246 votes in the United States senate race two years ago in a field which included such figures as Senator Tom Connally, Congressman Tom Blanton, Alvin Owsley and Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham. Mayfield could lose 50,000 and still receive 150,000, they point out.

Supporters of Ross Sterling, Jim Young and Clint Small use a little more indirect way of figuring but they too are doing their adding and subtracting.

As to Sterling Sterling's followers say he has made the state road bond question the paramount issue and as the leader of the road bond forces should get practically all the support of those agreeing with him on that proposal. Concerning that the highway bond issue would not carry, which its proponents are, is inconceivable it is opposed by four-fifths of the voters, they state.

Those who endorse Small divided his chart in to sections. Of 175,000 votes in his home territory, West Texas, he should get 100,000, they contend. Surely he can pick up 50,000 of the other 75,000, they add. Jim Young admits he was selected by "regular" democratic leaders as their candidate to defeat the factional chieftains and effect harmony in the party. If at least 150,000 voters aren't against the "professional politicians" and against the road bond issue, his supporters confess they are no judges of politics.

All of which means exactly nothing, or about that, but it gives the boys with little to do and the long summer days to do it in a chance to get out their pencils and work up their own set of figures.

Survey Has Been Made

A jury of view composed of former Judge Unsworth, Hunter Irwin and Mr. Van have gone over the route from Andrews to Eunice and Monday made their recommendations. "Such a route will save Andrews about 30 miles of road building, and will bring Carlsbad seven about 35 miles closer as against the northern route, the Eunice people pointed out.

Complete harmony prevailed. The Midland representatives assured the Andrews court that Midland was ready to do anything possible to get a road at once, and they were given assurance, in turn, that Andrews favored the route and action might be expected soon.

County Judge Matthews, Commissioners Thornberry, White, Cashebery and Irwin were present to hear the delegations and consider action. Judge Hill and Preston, speaking for the county and for the chamber of commerce, as well as Schabauer, a chamber committee man, pointed out the benefit to Andrews as well as to Midland.

ADJUDGED INSANE

Frank Kain, farmer living six miles north of Big Spring, was adjudged insane at his trial in County Court Monday.

Foung has spent $6,531.75 to date and Mayfield $6,523, their second expense accounts, filed with the secretary of state, showed. Young reported contributions of $2,400 and Mayfield donations of $465.

George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor, reported he had no expenses.

Other reports made today included: Lieutenant Governor: J. D. Farrell, $1,337; James P. Rogers, $531. State Commissioner of Agriculture: Congress: J. Hayden Moore, $1,568; J. F. Buchanan, $1,568; J. W. Sumners, $1,568; Sam Rayburn, 4th, $1543.

Barbers Must Get Certificates 'B' Middle of August

AUSTIN, July 16 (AP)—The state board of barber examiners announced today that all persons must obtain certificates of registration under the new law before August 18. After that date, the announcement said, all unregistered barbers will be arrested, fined and made to cease playing with razors and shears.

Application of the law has been held up by litigation but all suits have been dismissed. About 11,000 barbers have been registered, indicating at least 10,000 have not yet obtained certificates.

George W. Thomasson, 81, pioneer Coahoma resident, died at his home at 8 o'clock this morning.

Funeral services for the long time resident of Howard county will be held at the Church of Christ, Coahoma, at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Forehand of Garden City will conduct the rites. D. C. Riley of Yallock will have charge of the musical arrangements. Burial will be in the Coahoma cemetery. Eberly Funeral Home has

LABOR LISTS CANDIDATES

Four Seeking Texas Congress Seats Are 'Fair'

WASHINGTON. — Four candidates for congress from Texas have been given labor's ok and two more not, according to the current issue of "Labor," a weekly newspaper.

The paper has this to say of Texas candidates running for election: "E. E. Thomason, El Paso—"In the 19th Texas district, Congressman C. B. Hudspeath, a good friend of labor, has decided to retire and E. E. Thomason, mayor of El Paso and former speaker of the house of representatives of Texas, is seeking nomination. The railroad labor organizations have endorsed Thomason because of the fine record he made while a member of the legislature."

Dan Garrett, Houston—"He is completing his seventh term and has been consistently progressive on all major issues. His record is so far in favor of the workers and the people in general."

Oleth Sheppard, Texas—"Senator Sheppard, Texas—"The record shows that since he entered the senate in 1913 he has voted on 31 measures of direct interest to labor and he has been on the workers' side of every one. It would be difficult to improve on that showing."

John C. Box, Jacksonville—"He is known by former Congressman Martin Dies, a dyed-in-the-wool reactionary. The workers should see that Box is returned by a big majority."

The Dies who is running against Box, hasn't been to congress before. Instead, it was his father who once served in Washington.

"Labor" makes light of Rep. Tom Blanton, who returned to congress upon the death of Rep. R. Q. Lee. The newspaper says: "No one in Washington pays any attention to Tom Blanton, who is once more seeking the Democratic nomination in the 17th district. He is a good deal of a joke in the house. Almost invariably he votes against 'Big Business' and against the interests of the farmers and industrial workers."

Rep. Sam Rayburn of Bonham should be defeated, "Labor" declares. It says: "In the fourth district, Congressman Sam Rayburn is being opposed by former Congressman C. D. Randall. Rayburn has been almost uniformly on the side of 'Big Business.' The workers of this district should defeat Rayburn and nominate Randall."—El Paso Post.

Four County Women Chosen To Attend Short Course At Texas A. & M. College July 26

Representative women from seven Women's Home Demonstration Clubs throughout the county met with Mrs. Louelle Allgood in her office in the County Court House Saturday afternoon.

It was decided that the following women would attend the A. & M. Short Course at College Station July 26: Mesdames W. C. Rogers, John Smith, E. Hawley from Highway and O. B. Gaskin from Knott. Miss Nava Hale, who won the Four H Dress Contest recently, and Miss Boernie Kidwell will also attend the Short Course. Miss Hale is from Center Point Community and Miss Kidwell is from Elbow. Miss Hale is being sent on the merits of her work in general.

Rally Day Program Those attending the Short Course will be featured on a Rally Day Program to be held at the City Park September 10. This will be immediately after the Short Course is over.

The seven clubs represented were: Highway, Fairview, R-Bar, Knott, Elbow, Vincent and Luther. Women present were: Mesdames Louelle Allgood, Asberry, L. Curtis, E. Phillips, O. B. Gaskin, J. Jones, C. Burks, L. Anderson, W. C. Rogers, W. G. Davis, Lee Castle, John Woods, John Smith and E. Hawley.

"Tink" Houston, Homer Epley, John Epley and Homer Adam Konz, who came to Stanton in 1881 when "this town consisted of a couple of tents, in one of which I resided," also spoke. Konz declared the tents were in the midst of a prairie, with few ranch houses and no farms in the vicinity. He recalled seeing sheep and cattle men arrive, and the first wheat raised on his farm. A bushel of the "heat took first prize at the world's air held in New Orleans. Hundreds of antelope were on the hills surrounding Stanton.

The town was first named Gralton, then by petition changed to Marionfield, and finally given its present name. Konz told of long draughts, and big rains, of good times, and of the year when the state sent funds to feed the residents west of Abilene. J. L. Hall, Stanton, druggist for 23 years, Charles Ebbersall, who came to Stanton in 1903 when there were 21 houses, and Horace Hamilton, also spoke briefly. After it was voted to make the reunion an annual affair, "Tink" Houston was elected president of a group to be in charge of plans. Horace Hamilton, Bill Epley and E. P. Woodward were named as members of the entertainment committee, and Mrs. Morgan Hall as secretary.

"track" in this race because he is the appointee of Dan Moody. At first blush, it would appear that this statement is the declaration of the particular paper publishing the same, but since it appeared simultaneously in a number of papers, I have concluded that it emanated from the camp of the present attorney general and his press agent, guess that he has the "inside track" all right, but I want to thank him and his press agent for reminding you that Jimmie Allred is the "under dog" in this race. He has the so-called "inside track" because there was handed him, upon a silver platter, an organization of eleven assistants and three special investigators, paid more than fifty thousand dollars a year in salaries, and every one of them are now and have been for months working and campaigning for the election of the present attorney general, who was appointed by Dan Moody.

Inside Track "But why should the appointee of the governor have the 'inside track'?" Why, indeed, should the choice of one man, the choice of Dan Moody, have the "inside track" over the choice of more than 350,000 of the people of Texas? Is it fair to build up that kind of a circular track, that kind of ring, and take the selection of the attorney general out of the people's hands and place it in the hands of the politicians at Austin?

"The present attorney general, by appointment, in his opening speech at Hillsboro, proudly declared that he had been a member of the legislature, special judge, a district attorney and attorney general, and had never yet had opposition. He might have added that the only office he has ever been elected to by a vote of the people is that of representative in the legislature. He was appointed district attorney and served as such eight months by the same governor who thereupon appointed him attorney general. Jimmie Allred has never had the good fortune to have offices of that kind handed to him upon a silver platter without the asking, and he has never been able to so satisfy the political rings and machines as to get into office without opposition. He has had to fight for everything as ever got.

Step Aside? "Some have suggested to Jimmie

Allred that in view of the turn of the political wheel, the way the cards have been dealt, he ought to step aside again and wait two or three years until the appointee of Dan Moody has had his fill of the office. He tried to accept his defeat four years ago with good grace, and again two years ago he tried to show good sportsmanship when he refused to oppose Claude Pollard for a second term. If he kept on playing the 'good sport' for these politicians, they'd be saying he was too 'old' to be your attorney general next.

"The Brownsville paper in an editorial last week, said that 'Jimmie Allred is all right and we could string along with him' if it were not for the present attorney general who was appointed by Dan Moody. Among other reasons they assigned for supporting him, they said, 'besides he is from our neck of the woods, and we would have a sort of special South Texas representative in the attorney general's office.' Now, they had a 'sort of special South Texas representative' in that office and he didn't think enough of the honor to keep the office after he got it without opposition for a second term; and the 'sort of special South Texas representative' they have in the office now is going to quit about January 1st. I think, after this election is over. But seriously, my friends, I make you the proposition that South Texas, or any other section of this state is not entitled to any sort of special representative in the attorney general's office. What Texas needs is an attorney general for all Texas, one who knows no lines of sectionalism and who will accord to every community and section of our state the fair treatment and recognition to which it is entitled. Texas born and reared as he is, James V. Allred pledges you that such is his conception of that high office."

Tree Sitting—

Janie Douglass, 12. "I give him quite a lot of encouragement," said Janie, and blushed. From Fort Worth it was learned that at 10:30 p. m. last night, Leonard Smith, 13, and Oscar Fox, 13, had been sitting for fifty hours in adjoining trees in the yard of the former's home. Another Fort Worthian, Homer Wyatt, 13, started an assault on the tree-sitting record at 9:30 a. m.

The lengthening list included Buck Sawyer at Plainview, who planned to stay up in a mesquite tree until Christmas; Ray Saunders, 13, at Brownwood; and Junior Buz Ard at Amarillo. Sawyer had been up 48 hours at 8 a. m. today. So Roy, Buck's manager, cut down on the sitter's food and drinks. "We got to be careful," he warned Buck, "because if you get sick you'll have to come down."

"What? M; get sick? Well, listh, I ain't coming down; if I get sick the doctor is going to have to come up here. I ain't coming down."

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 17.—Jack Hunt and Raymond Parker, each 13, went after the tree-sitting record today, climbing aloft at 11:40 a. m.

said was that all county road bonds would be refunded. Young declared that the state would refund such bonds only on the basis of the present value of the roads and that Sterling refused to discuss this matter before the people. He said he had challenged Sterling to do so.

The second statement, he said, asserted that no ad valorem tax could be levied to care for the bonds, on the contrary, Young contended, the bonds could not be sold except on the credit of the state. Taking another shot at Jim Ferguson, Governor Dan Moody last night declared at Austin that "if Ferguson is not supporting Cecil Storey for attorney general he is not treating Storey right because Storey stuck with Ferguson in the legislature. He was with Ferguson in the 39th legislature and helped sponsor Ferguson's amnesty bill. Ferguson at least ought to return the compliment Storey paid him in 1926 when Storey supported Mrs. Ferguson in her candidacy for reelection."

Storey, speaking at Pampa, demanded last night that Governor Moody apologize or offer proof of his asserted remark that Storey was a candidate of Jim Ferguson's.

4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS AT PICNIC

Recently more than 150 Howard county boys and girls gathered at City Park here for their annual picnic and rally, inaugurating another year of projects, contests and achievements. These youngsters are learning a lot of practical things about farming, poultry and livestock raising. The picnic was under direction of J. V. Bush, county farm agent; Mrs. Lucille Allgood, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. M. R. Showalter, county health nurse.

Sanitation Inspector Declares Rumors About Milk Ordinance Circulated Here Are Unfounded

In an effort to have dairymen, butter and buttermilk peddlers of Howard county understand the exact status of the milk ordinance, over which so much controversy has raged during the past week, J. M. Williams, sanitation inspector, today issued a statement in regard to the measure.

According to Williams there are but three requirements for butter peddlers. The cows must undergo a tuberculin test. The handlers of the butter and the milkers must have health certificates showing them free from contagious diseases. The products must be labeled with the name and address of the producer and the weight of the butter.

"It is not necessary," Williams said, "for the entire family to have physical examinations; only those handling the butter or milking the cows. It is neither necessary nor compulsory for barns to have concrete floors. If the butter producer wishes to milk his cows in the open, it is all right. There are only the three major requirements in the ordinance that refer to the butter seller."

Speaking of the many rumors which have been rife since the agitation over the ordinance was first started, Williams declared each is unfounded. There has been no effort made to enforce the ordinance, and there will not be for several months. "No one has been stopped from selling anything," Williams said. "The unfounded rumors that peddlers of milk, butter, vegetables, chickens and everything else have been molested are entirely without foundation. The health department has done nothing toward enforcing the ordinance."

According to Williams he has merely endeavored to acquaint himself with the dairymen of the county, and to familiarize them with the requirements as set down by the standard milk code.

He declared he would be glad to meet with the farmers and dairymen at any time to discuss the ordinance, explain the various phrases of it, and what lines would be enforced when the ordinance went into effect. He also declared he would have been glad to have met with the farmers at their mass meeting held here last Saturday had he been invited to do so.

No effort was made by the farmers and dairymen to have Williams appear before them and explain the measure, he said. He declared tuberculin tests must be given by a licensed veterinarian, and he does not conduct them himself.

According to Williams the new amendment to the ordinance pertains, principally, to pasteurization, and simplifies various definitions. It will be reviewed at the next session of the city commission. The rulings requiring concrete floors for barns and perfect sanitary conditions apply only to those producing milk, and these must be licksburg, supporter of Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt. Long declared he was not there to speak only for Allred, but to tell of the investigation of university land leases by the house committee of which he and Petch were members. He declared he wanted Allred elected attorney general "because he is clean and honest." Long charged that two university regents represented oil companies, yet were handling oil leases of university in West Texas.

Petch retorted that he believed Bobbitt had earned the approval of all honest citizens, and said that although in his challenge he had asked Long to bring the records to prove his accusations against Bobbitt, made at Llano in a speech July 4 Long instead had merely made new accusations. Petch had said in his challenge that he would resign as a member of the legislature if Long proved his charges.

MIDWAY

MIDWAY, July 10.—Rev. J. O. Heath preached at Robinson Chapel here last Saturday evening. Sunday morning and evening. He visited until Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robinson and family.

Sixteen Midway boys enjoyed a very pleasant night last Saturday on a camping trip. They took food and cooking utensils and, after going hunting, returned to camp and played games until bedtime. The following boys were in the party: Forrest Porch, Henry Robinson, Lester Merrick, Carl McCloud, Walter Merrick, Dick McCloud, Arthur Anderson, Dean Hambrick, Pete McCloud, Woodrow Robinson, Hiram Whitmore, James Walton, Richard Whitmore, Kenneth Gunter.

Rev. Mont Robinson will preach Saturday night and Sunday at Robinson Chapel church. Every one is cordially invited to attend both services.

S. J. R. No. 7 PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 11 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 11. In order to enable the Legislature to perform the duties set forth in the foregoing section, it is hereby declared all lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas, together with all the proceeds of sales of the same, heretofore made or hereafter to be made, and all grants, donations and appropriations that may hereafter be made by the State of Texas, or from any other source, shall constitute and become a permanent university fund. And the same as realized and received into the Treasury of the State (together with such sums belonging to the fund, as may now be in the Treasury), shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of said State, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of this State, or in obligations and pledges issued by the Board of Regents of the University of Texas, or secured by such obligations and pledges, for construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved by the President of the United States, July 17, 1916, and amendments thereto; and the interest accruing thereon shall be subject to appropriation by the Legislature to accomplish the purpose declared in the foregoing section; provided, that the one-tenth of the alternate sections of the lands granted to railroads, reserved by the State, which were set apart and appropriated to the establishment of the University of Texas, by an Act of the Legislature of February 11, 1858, entitled, "An Act to establish the University of Texas," shall not be included in, or constitute a part of, the permanent university fund."

Sec. 2. Said proposed amendment shall be voted on by the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1930. (A correct copy.)

JANE Y. McCALLUM, Secretary of State.

H. J. R. No. 11 PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto Section 16, which shall read as follows:

"Section 16. All land mentioned in Sections 11, 12 and 15 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas, now belonging to the University of Texas shall be subject to taxation for county purposes to the same extent as lands privately owned; provided they shall be reheader for taxation upon values fixed by the State Tax Board; and providing that the State shall remit annually to each of the counties in which said lands are located an amount equal to the tax imposed upon said land for county purposes."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State at the next general election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1930. (A correct copy.)

JANE Y. McCALLUM, Secretary of State.

S. J. R. No. 9 PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas, that Art. V of the Constitution of Texas shall be amended by adding a new section to be known as Section 3a, to read as follows:

"Section 3a. The Supreme Court may sit at any time during the year at the seat of government for the transaction of business and each term thereof shall begin and end with each calendar year." Section 2. That Section 3 of Art. V of the Constitution of Texas shall be amended by repealing the sentence of said section which reads: "The Supreme Court shall sit for the transaction of business from the first Monday of October in each year until the last Saturday in June of the next year, inclusive, at the Capitol of the State."

Section 3. If the Constitution shall not have been previously amended so as to provide that the Supreme Court shall be open at all times, then, in that event the foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State, at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1930. (A correct copy.)

JANE Y. McCALLUM, Secretary of State.

S. J. R. No. 10 PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 5 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

The Legislature shall meet every two years at such time as may be provided by law and at other times when convened by the Governor. When convened in regular session, the first thirty days thereof shall be devoted to the introduction of bills and resolutions, acting upon emergency appropriations, passing upon the confirmation of the recess appointees of the Governor and such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor in special messages to the Legislature; provided that during the succeeding thirty days of the regular session of the Legislature the various committees of each House shall hold hearings to consider all bills and resolutions and other matters then pending; and such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor; provided further that during the following sixty days the Legislature shall act upon such bills and resolutions as may be then pending and upon such emergency matters as may be submitted by the Governor in special messages to the Legislature; provided however, either House may otherwise determine its order of business by an affirmative vote of four-fifths of its membership.

Sec. 2. That Section 24 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to hereafter read as follows: Members of the Legislature shall receive from the public Treasury a per diem of not exceeding $10.00 per day for the first 120 days of each session and after that not ex-

No trace, however, was found of the flier until his plane was found by two shepherds 22 miles southeast of here last month. Graham had spent more than 6,000 hours in the air. He received his training at San Diego, Cal., Fort Hill, Okla., Fort Worth, Texas, and overseas. He joined the army June 28, 1917, and served at the front with the Fifth Aero Squadron and also with the American Army of Occupation after the armistice.

During the war Graham's observer was shot while his plane was flying 50 feet above the battle lines in the Argonne Forest and dropping carrier pigeons and supplies to the famous "lost" battalion. He was officially credited with the bringing down of one enemy balloon and had two citations.

He was born in Indianapolis 32 years ago and was married. Mrs. Graham and two children, twins 8 years old, live in Hollywood, Calif.

BANKERS INDICTED

Three Men Charged With Federal Violations

FORT WORTH, July 14.—Three former Fort Worth bankers were indicted today by the federal grand jury.

B. B. Samuels, president, and A. L. (Lon) Baker, vice president of the defunct Texas National Bank, were named in one joint indictment. Clyde Belew, former cashier of the Stockyards National Bank, was named in another. All charged with violations of the national bank laws.

The joint indictment against Samuels and Baker contains 6 counts, 28 of which charge making false entries and 24 with misapplication of funds of the bank.

The indictment against Belew charges that on June 8, 1929, while employed as cashier of the Stockyards National Bank, he embezzled and converted to his own use $28,000.

The indictment against Samuels and Baker lists the counts of false entries and misapplication of funds for a period from January 1928 to April, 1929, then skips a period, in the bank's history until January 31, 1930, when a false entry was charged on the day the bank closed.

The latter was the largest false entry charged against the men and was for $1,374,592.98, the indictment states. The smallest, says the indictment, was for $1,416.18 on March 14, 1928.
