TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

It is declared that all life on this planet is dependent on a few inches of top soil. This probably accounts for the unrest people feel during a West Texas sandstorm; their future goes into orbit.

It appears now that a large amount of the terrain in this country is going to be wet down and sodded for golf courses. There must be a saturation point, however, unless cattle are allowed to graze on the greens and some areas are prepared for the growing of crops. For many years certain golfers have been aware of the need and have contributed to cultivating the links. Little progress has been made because the players are obliged to replace the divots.

Blue morning glories dangle from a vine that clings to the old windmill tower and a small rose peeks from the decaying bush. The wheel is gone from the windmill and rust is eating its way from the metal floor of the water tank. A few paces away is a cedar tree that stands deserted against the horizon. To the left are the blocks of stone where a house once stood. The debris of a home and love are being crumbled by the strong fingers of time. There is no hurry now in the long spasms of silence in the soil where children's bare feet once trod. The laughter and song will not return, nor will the sorrow and moments of ecstasy that are woven into the tapestry of a family's life. A drop of dew clings to the blue flower like a tear shed by nature at the obsequies of a departed interval.

The lives of people who hold public office may be an open book, but the public is expected to look only at the pages where the leaves are folded for handy reference.

The convenience of credit cards plays on a human weakness. They make it possible to spend money we hope to receive some time in the future. The end result, however, is hardly worth the convenience. A crisis can materialize quickly with a statement that endorses our fears of having been living beyond our means.

SAVED BY SEAT BELTS — This family, Mr. and Mrs. James Stapleton and their three children, Martha Charis, 7, Raymond Clay, 9 and Robert Glenn, 5, probably owe a great deal to the use of seat belts. A tire blew out on their camper Thursday afternoon, on US Highway 70, near Willow Creek. The large four-door pickup in which they were riding, jack-knifed backward onto the camper, and came to a stop with its wheels in the air. The occupants were all secured with seat belts, and none of the family was injured. The camper was completely demolished and the pickup was declared a total loss. They were on vacation enroute from Lubbock to Lawton, Okla. Mr. Stapleton is employed by Univac in Houston, as a specialist in the maintenance of computer systems. — Tribune photo

3 Towns Eye Schools Plan

by ROGER MYERS

Staff Writer for The Amarillo Daily News

Voters in three school districts in four Texas Panhandle counties may decide July 10 whether to consolidate those districts into one large district.

School districts affected are Quitaque in Briscoe and Floyd counties, Turkey in Hall County, and Flomot in Motley County.

Loran Denton, superintendent of Turkey Independent School District, said Monday the consolidation was sought because declining enrollments in the three districts over the past several years has made it more difficult to finance educational programs. By combining the resources of the districts, area residents hope to provide a better education for the 500 or so children there, he said.

The distance that would be involved in daily travel to other schools in the counties the school districts are located in would make unions with them prohibitive, Denton said. For example, the distance from Turkey to the county seat of Hall County at Memphis is 35 miles, he said. Denton said talks concerning consolidating the three school districts into one were begun three to four years ago, but were dropped when it was learned that state "incentive aid" could not be obtained if a school had less than 750 students. During the past year, however, a bill was passed in the state legislature that changed this requirement and made "incentive aid" funds available if two or more school districts consolidated and applied together. No minimum number of students is now required, Denton said.

Denton said area residents hoped to get up to $600,000 in state "incentive aid" funds over the next 10 years if the school districts were consolidated. The money would be used for construction purposes or to pay off debts, he said.

Consolidation supporters submitted petitions to the four county judges Monday asking that the July 10 elections be held simultaneously. Hall County Judge Egit' McMurry, Briscoe County Judge M. G. Moreland, Floyd County Judge J. J. Holms and Motley County Judge Forrest Campbell said the petitions had been approved.

Lions Ladies Night Is Musical Festival

THE PROGRAM was full at the Matador Lions Club Ladies Night banquet held Tuesday evening in the First Methodist Church basement.

James Stanley became President of the club as new officers were installed, and retiring President Wayland Moore received two plaques, one for his services during the past year in office and another as Lions Citizen of the Year.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by Lion Roy Parks, Cottle County Judge. Other out of town visitors included Mrs. Parks and former residents Lion and Mrs. Carl Darr, Mrs. Lucy Watson of Brownwood, and Mrs. Richard Campbell, Lubbock.

Lions Queen Miss Charla Watson, and Sweetheart Miss Rachel Patton, each received gifts.

The program was a music festival by two cousins, Richard Campbell, singing and Gerald Pipkin at the piano. The two young men are native sons and the quality of their music was that of professionals. In past years Pipkin was a member of a local music group called the "Hep Cats" and Campbell sang with the "Sourdough Singers," both popular as group entertainers.

Campbell, a former Texas Tech football star player, has gained fame with his outstanding voice, before large audiences and on television. Currently he is associated with the Christian Athletes Association. He announced that he will sing at the First Baptist Church in Floydada Sunday (June 20) at 8 p.m. in a program by the association.

Gerald Pipkin is a natural musician of remarkable talent. He is the son of Lion and Mrs. Bill Pipkin and Campbell is the son of Lion and Mrs. R. E. Campbell Jr. The program was introduced by County Judge Forrest Campbell, uncle of the singer.

Attendance was short of the confirmed reservations for 90. An excellent baked ham supper was prepared and served by the Methodist Ladies.

New member welcomed into the club was Rev. Douglas Gossett who recently moved here as pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Singers Set for Sun.

THE BRUSH arbor and dinner on the ground will not be in evidence Sunday when the Motley County Singing Convention meets at the American Legion Building.

It is the 79th year the organization has convened for the first of two conventions each year (June and October) since 1892. During pioneer days the singers frequently met under brush arbors and one of the attractive features was "dinner on the ground."

Walter Craft of Roaring Springs, President, will be in charge when the singers meet at 10 a.m. Sunday. Many outstanding groups of gospel singers are expected for the event. An open invitation is always extended to the public to attend. There are no dues and no duties, except to enjoy the pleasures of singing. At times contributions are taken to meet nominal expense of the meetings.

The June 14 issue of the Amarillo Daily News carried a feature story of the Motley County Singing Convention, by staff writer Sara Stone.

TERROR was in the wind, in the lashing rain and hail, in the sudden darkness, and in the hearts of many residents Thursday evening when one of the most severe storms in half a century struck the area. Many believe a tornado passed overhead in boiling clouds but never touched the ground, but there is evidence that a tornado did strike northeast of town.

Petesy Timmons who lives on the former Walter Carpenter land, now owned by E. A. Day was trying to beat the storm to his home. The wind was blowing mud out of the field onto his windshield until he could not see. He finally reached the house to join his wife and children. The wind had blown shingles from the west end of the house and water was pouring in on the sheetrock ceiling in one room, which later fell in. Outside part of the sheetrock roof was ripped from the barn and blown into the field.

The windmill wheel was twisted off and hanging about halfway down the tower. The overhead tank was full of water when the storm started. Later there was no water in the house and the tank was about one third full. The wind cracked the sturdy walls of the stucco garage and moved them at least one inch from their original position.

Scattered Cotton Trailers Cotton trailers at the West Texas Gin, directly west of the above location, suffered much damage. Bennie Keltz, manager of the gin said 19 trailers were damaged and a few were smashed completely. Part of the trailers were gin property and part of them were privately owned. The storm reached north to Whiteflat and beyond.

The south side of Matador, however, received less damage than the north area.

Citizens Are Warned Members of the Matador Volunteer Fire Department, the sheriff's department and Department of Public Safety patrolmen, went into immediate action. The fire siren continued to sound for most of the duration of the storm, and the emergency van continued to patrol the streets with its siren sounding.

County Judge Forrest Campbell opened the courthouse at six o'clock to allow citizens to seek the safety of the basement. Tribune clocks stopped at 6:10 and the current was off for about two hours. Telephone service was disrupted about the same time and many phones were out of service until Friday as repairmen from both utility firms worked to repair lines.

Strangers Seek Safety Two women, Mrs. Pete Crawford of Littlefield and her daughter of Lubbock reached town about the time the storm struck. They began looking for a place of security and first went to the Howard Edmondson home and found no response at the door (the Edmondsons were in their storm cellar). They then went to the Bob Stanley home and were welcomed to their basement protection.

The storm seemed to continue unabated for an extended length of time. Rain and hail continued to fall. Trees were twisted about, limbs broken off and a few uprooted. Several reports of tough mesquite trees being twisted about, have been received.

Windmills seemed to have suffered more damage than other objects in the wind's path. At least half a dozen were reported damaged.

Mrs. R. E. Campbell Jr. and her sister, Mrs. Robert Darsey were driving toward Matador from Floydada. About five miles east of Floydada large slugs of hail began to pelt the car. The windshield was broken and many large dents left in the body of the car. Mrs. Campbell said the clouds were frightening and resembled boiling stagnant water.

Crop damage from hail and heavy rains was extensive in Floyd County.

Much damage was done to crops in this area by hail and flooding fields. Terraces broke in many instances and resulted in damage. Rainfall here was recorded between 1 1/2 and 2 inches, but some observers are of the opinion that some of the rain was blown out of the rain gauges. Roaring Springs received a good rain but no storm damage.

Damage at Paducah Believed to be the same storm system advanced east as far as Paducah to cause extensive damage. The steeple of the First Baptist Church was toppled and part of the brick building housing the Ford agency fronting US Highway 70, was demolished.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

Weed control in cotton under dry conditions is a situation that can test a grower's ability to use mechanical cultivation along with chemicals to effectively and economically protect his crop. A post emergence herbicide is one way for growers to spray their way out of grass without spending money until it is necessary.

Where low rainfall conditions are prevailing, Johnsongrass will usually emerge from greater depths than in periods when more moisture is available. Postmergence, laterally directed DSMA, would probably be most effective under these conditions.

If broadleaf weeds are mixed with the Johnsongrass, combinations of DSMA with materials such as Herban, Coloran, Karmex, and Caparol should be used.

In postmergence weed control programs, DSMA should be laterally directed and not used "over the top." DSMA is a little milder on cotton and should be used during the growing season on young cotton in preference to MSMA. MSMA is a little "hotter" on the Johnsongrass, but slightly more injurious to the cotton.

A premergence program during dry conditions may require an increased amount of water in application. In windy weather a wider angle nozzle might be used.

If lateral oiling is used to control grass and weeds in young cotton and windy weather persists, narrow angle fan tips, used in connection with fender protection are advisable.

Now is the time to control elm leaf beetle.

The elm leaf beetle is very destructive to Chinese elms. The larvae feed on the leaves and cause a lace-like or "hot hole" appearance to the leaves.

If you had holes in your Chinese elms last year, now would be the time to examine the leaves to see if there are small, 1/4 to 1/2 inch, larvae feeding on the underside of the leaves.

Spraying the trees with Malathion, Sevin, Toxaphene or general purpose preparations may be used to control this insect.

Thorough coverage with the insecticide is necessary to prevent heavy leaf damage. To secure additional height and better coverage of the tree, tie the hose on sprayer to a fishing pole or other sturdy object and raise it up in the air and spray the tree.

Treatment of the trunk of the tree and at the base of the tree will also reduce the population. The larvae, when fullgrown, will crawl down the trunk and will change from the larvae to the adult stage at the base of the tree.

Those people who don't like to use insecticides may reduce this beetle by daily mashing or mechanically destroying the larvae as they come down out of the trees to the base of the tree.

LIQUOR TAX PASSED — Tax on liquor-by-the-drink passed in the first days of the special legislative session.

Measure (HB 3) will place a 10 per cent gross receipts levy on sales and service of mixed drinks in bars and private clubs. Cities and counties each will get 15 per cent of the revenue collected within their boundaries.

Bill also boosted the tax on liquor from $1.68 to $2 a gallon and upped the wine gallonage tax depending on strength of the wine.

Beer tax on July 1 will go up from $4.30 to $5 a barrel. This rate supercedes the $6 a barrel ordered in the regular session omnibus tax bill (HB 730).

THE TRIBUNE

Conquistadores Overlooked Matador in Search for Gold

THE SPANISH CONQUISTADORES over 300 years ago passed through the area that is now Matador. Among the things they sought, was the fabled "Seven Cities of Gold." The gold they sought was in the three states through which they journeyed, but awaited development. It was in oil, cattle, fine farming land, bright sparkling cities and resourceful people. Now three states, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona have designated the new Conquistadores Trail and two Motley County communities, Roaring Springs and Matador are on it. The following release is from Texas Tourist Development agency.

AUSTIN, Texas (Special) — Matador this year will begin reaping the benefits of new national publicity as a prime tourist destination because of its location on the new Conquistadores Trail.

The trail, a 4,000-mile designated route through the western two-thirds of Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona, is the seventh in the system of regional Heritage Trails established under the aegis of the American Petroleum Institute.

A $100,000 promotional fund is being used to acquaint American tourists with the tri-state trail. Contributing to it are the three states, the API, Eastman Kodak, Texas International Airways, Six Flags Over Texas, Budget Rent-a-Car and Rodeway Inns. Also, the cities of Amarillo, Corpus Christi, and San Antonio.

"We are delighted to be teamed with our Southwestern neighbors in this extremely worthwhile promotion," said Frank Hildebrand, executive director of the Texas Tourist Development Agency and chairman of the Conquistadores Trail Coordinating Committee.

"For we have long felt that the romance of our common history makes our region one of the most attractive magnets on the domestic travel scene. And, increasingly, regional promotion is necessary if we are to compete successfully for our share of the $45 billion travel market."

From the Tucson-Phoenix-Grand Canyon area on the west, the trail extends as far east as Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Austin, and Fort Worth.

Among the other highlights of its 2,000-mile Texas segment are: El Paso, the new Guadalupe Mountains National Park, Davis Mountains State Park and Fort Davis National Historic Site, the Texas Highway Department's Judge Roy Bean Visitor Center at Langtry, Big Bend National Park, Amistad Reservoir, and Brackettville's Alamo Village.

Also, the Texas Hill Country, Padre Island National Seashore, Presidio La Bahia at Goliad, Gonzales, Aquarena Springs and Wonder World at San Marcos, LBJ National Historic Site, and the Highland Lakes.

Also, the new Dinosaur State Park at Glen Rose, Six Flags Over Texas, Chandor Gardens at Weatherford, Fort Richardson State Park at Jacksboro, Amarillo, and Palo Duro Canyon State Park and the outdoor drama, "Texas."

"The Spanish Conquistadores (Conquerors) were the first white men to see many of these sites during their 16th and 17th Century explorations of Texas and the Southwest," Hildebrand noted. "Thus it seemed appropriate to dedicate this exciting new trail to their memory."

The Conquistadores Trail is expected to complement the four-year-old system of Texas Travel Trails since it crosses, and follows, segments of eight of them: the Mountain, Pecos, Hill Country, Tropical, Independence, Lakes, Forts, and Plains Trails.

Hildebrand said that nearly two-thirds of available promotional monies are being invested in production of a color film, A Trail For All Seasons. Produced in both 35mm and 16mm versions, the film will be released through movie houses and television by early autumn. It will highlight major attractions throughout the tri-state region.

Already released is a descriptive 16-panel pamphlet in four colors. It features San Jose Mission National Historic site in San Antonio on its cover. Interior Texas photos depict Padre Island National Seashore, Big Bend National Park, the Highland Lakes, and Six Flags Over Texas.

Major distribution of the 500,000 copies initially printed is being made through nationwide American Automobile Association offices and oil company tour offices.

The trail is also being promoted through a colorful eight-foot exhibit in the Discover America Showcase. The showcase, under auspices of the Discover America Travel Organizations, Inc., is appearing in 36 covered, mall-type shopping centers through Mid-America this year.

ACCENT ON HEALTH

Just last month, on May 14, the world medical community marked the 175th anniversary of the first vaccination against the dread disease smallpox.

Why would this be of interest to the average Texan today? Because one of the true victories for the science of immunology is now apparent.

The eradication of the disease organism that causes smallpox is now almost complete. It is now estimated that only six countries in all the world will continue to report the occurrence of this once dreaded disease by the end of 1971. That cheerful word comes from officials at the Texas State Department of Health.

During the first four months of 1971, less than 14,000 cases of smallpox were reported by 13 countries to the World Health Organization. Over half of these cases were reported by Ethiopia, with the balance spread out over scattered areas of Africa, Asia, South America, and a few cases in Europe.

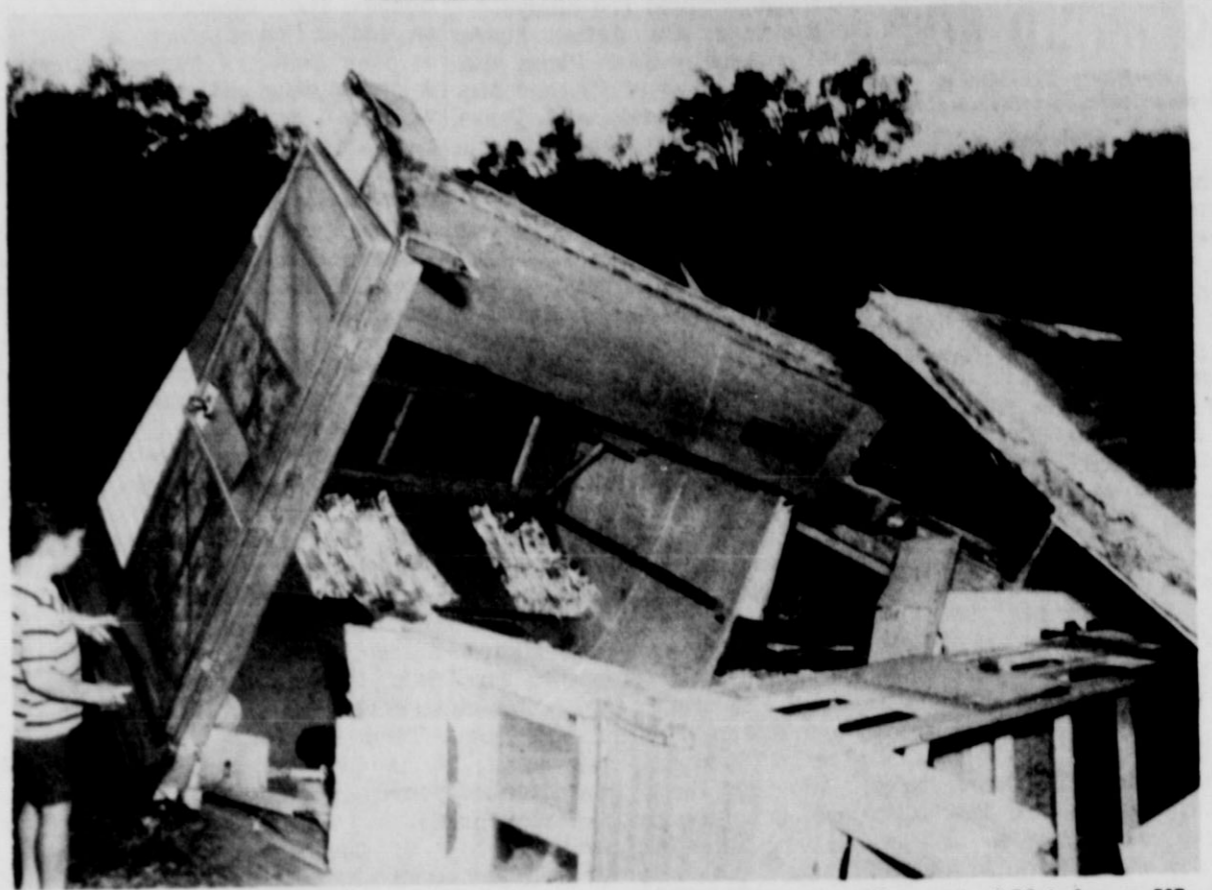

Health officials now estimate that approximately 25,000 cases will be recorded in 1971. That marks a substantial decrease from the 131,000 cases recorded in 1967, the first year of the worldwide Smallpox Eradication Program.

Still, you continue to ask, how does this affect me? While smallpox is still considered a problem in some parts of the world, the disease does not at present occur in the United States. The last outbreak in America occurred in 1949 in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas.

In 1938, the United States recorded nearly 15,000 cases of smallpox. Ten years later in 1948, less than one per cent of that number of cases was reported. Only 50 cases were diagnosed in the United States. For almost two decades now there have been no smallpox cases reported in this country.

So why should you continue to be concerned over a disease that is now almost eradicated? The answer is quite simple. The only way to afford you and your children 100 per cent protection from smallpox is to completely eradicate it from the face of the earth. This can be accomplished only through strict control efforts, and continued mass vaccinations. Universal vaccination is still the most reliable safeguard in prevention of this disease.

"Doctor in the House?"

Suppose you are sitting in a theater when the man next to you slumps to the floor, unconscious. In alarm, you shout:

"Is there a doctor in the house?"

And a doctor comes and gives first aid. As the person who summoned the doctor, could you be held legally liable for his fee?

As a general rule, when you request any kind of services to be performed for someone else, you may indeed be responsible for payment. But in the case of a medical emergency, the law usually makes an exception and denies liability. As one court explained:

"Persons commonly call for medical aid for the sick solely out of a spirit of kindness, without any expectation of becoming personally responsible."

Would it matter that the sick person was your friend or relative? Not necessarily. Thus:

A man brought his daughter-in-law to the hospital for some tests while her husband was away on a trip. When surgery became necessary, he told the doctor to go ahead. Did this request, plus his kinship to the patient, make him responsible for the surgical fee?

A court said no, because it was not customary for a man to be responsible for his daughter-in-law's medical expenses. To make him liable, said the court, there would have to be a more specific understanding between him and the doctor.

Still, the understanding need not be as specific as a formal legal contract. In another case, a man was driving his girl friend home from a party when he had an accident. The girl was badly injured, and he rushed her to a hospital.

There he begged the doctor to do everything he could to save her life. He said he "felt responsible" because she had suffered the injury in his car.

Later, he tried to avoid liability to the doctor by pointing out that he had not made a specific agreement to pay. But a court held him responsible anyhow. The judge said the comments he did make, under such circumstances, could fairly be interpreted as a promise to foot the bills.

'TEXAS' Opening To Honor Mayors

"TEXAS" will open the 1971 season June 24 honoring the 40 mayors who broke ground ten years ago to start construction of the amphitheatre which now stages the summer musical in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. The 40 men who were mayors then and the present mayors of those towns will be guests of the Panhandle Heritage Foundation at the first show this year. They will be treated to a barbecue dinner preceding the musical. Decorations for the evening will include the original signs used to designate each city during the groundbreaking ceremonies. Mrs. Ples Harper, public relations director, recalled this week the ceremonies 10 years ago. "Each mayor stood behind his city's sign with a spade and they broke ground at the same time," she explained. "This symbolized the groundbreaking and the unified effort of the Panhandle." "TEXAS" is a musical drama of Panhandle history written by Paul Green. Members of the foundation will be allowed to use their ticket privileges for opening night and one other performance of the show in June or July, or one performance of "They Came From Spain" in the fall.

Social Security Checks Increase

Social Security checks delivered last week to 1.3 million men, women and children in Texas, were higher than the monthly amounts they had been receiving. John D. Hutton, social security manager in Lubbock, said the checks covering the benefit payments for the month of May included the general ten percent increase in benefits signed into law by President Nixon on March 17. The payments were retroactive to January 1. Separate checks, scheduled to reach social security beneficiaries on June 23, will cover the amount of increases for the retroactive months of January through April.

Mrs. Lucy Wason of Brownwood arrived Tuesday and is visiting relatives, including Mrs. Fred Simpson and Fred G., Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Pitta, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wason and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Daffern.

Mrs. Jim Ratchiff of Slaton is visiting here this week with her sisters, Misses Ona and Roberta Jameson who visited in Slaton Saturday and whom she accompanied home. She is also visiting a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Hall.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS TO: RAYMOND MIRONDA, Respondent, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable District Court of Motley County at the Courthouse thereof, in Matador, Texas, by filing a written answer at or before 10 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being the 26th day of July A.D. 1971, to Petitioner's Petition filed in said court, on the 1st day of June A.D. 1971, in this cause, numbered 1775 on the docket of said court and styled BENITA L. MIRONDA, Petitioner, vs. RAYMOND MIRONDA, Respondent.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit: Petitioner sues for divorce alleging that she was married to respondent on July 15, 1968, and separated from him on or about August 15, 1969; that she has resided in the State of Texas for more than 12 months and in Motley County for more than 6 months before filing her suit; that the marriage relationship between petitioner and respondent has become insupportable because of discord between them that destroys the legitimate ends of the marriage relationship and prevents any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that no children were born of said marriage and no property acquired, and asking that petitioner's maiden name of Benita L. Can You Spot The Difference in INSURANCE AGENCIES?

It's easy. If an agent represents many companies and handles all types of insurance, you know he is fiercely independent. He isn't tied to any one company and by representing many, he can place your business where it's best for you. Working on a commission basis he represents only your interests.

And if he lives in the community, he's local. A local, independent agent is hard to beat.
