Texas Tech Exhibit Addresses Hispanic History

Texas Tech University has these items on display, as part of the Hispanic West Texas exhibit at the Motley County Library.

Local Hispanic exhibit, on display at the Motley County Library.

Hispanic West Texas, a traveling bilingual exhibition featuring historic photographs of the Permian Basin, will be on display from May 7, 1991 to June 6, 1991 at the Motley County Library.

Developed by the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University, the exhibit addresses a seldom documented aspect of West Texas history and is sponsored by grants from the Texas Committee for the Humanities, the Friends of the Texas Tech University Library/Southwest Collection, and the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council.

Hispanic West Texas focuses on the last 200 years of history on the Llano Estacado and far West Texas. Each of the six panels addresses a particular concept concerning Hispanic experience and contributions including art, architecture, economics, and history.

The exhibit suggests:

* West Texas has offered economic inducements for Hispanic settlement for more than 200 years;

* Hispanic philosophies of land use differed from those of Anglo-European concepts which led to conflict between both groups in West Texas;

* Conflict created at least two communities in most West Texas towns;

* Once disenfranchised, Hispanics relied on their own resources to meet their community needs and to preserve cultural self-identity;

* Efforts of self-help became the basis for creating political power after World War II which subsequently became the leverage which regained a voice for Hispanics in the society of the majority;

* West Texas today serves as a source of inspiration and home for Hispanic artists and their creative endeavors.

The exhibit includes a tapestry from nationally famous textile artist Romeo Reyna of Lubbock. Also included is artwork from Nephtali DeLeon of San Antonio; Eduardo Esparza of Austin; and Olga Real of Lubbock. The exhibit also addresses early Hispanic archaeological remains in West Texas. Hispanic West Texas will tour West Texas through 1991.

The Southwest Collection is a historical research center which collects and provides historical information on all aspects of the American Southwest.

What Story Will We Tell?

by Marisue Potts

A rippling waterfall, a beauty and the beast (a Lion), a 140 year old spinning wheel, a queen bee surrounded by paper flowers, and a red, white and blue throne for a beautiful girl. Winning floats for the 75th anniversary of Motley County in 1966 told a story, promoted tourism, and showed off the beauty for which our women are famous.

What will be the story we tell of our 100th year? Come on business establishments, capture a theme, promote your products, brag a little! Plan a float, involve your employees, and build a comradere that only comes from working together. Be proud of being an American in Motley County in 1991!

Floats. Horses. Wagons. Buggies. And Bikes! Kids are needed to decorate their bikes and show off their stuff by leading the parade through town. Meet at the north end of Main Street by the old Spears gin on May 25 and pedal, dude!

For weeks now the centennial coin orders have been coming in. But time is limited now, and those interested must act soon. To order commemorative coins depicting a lone cowboy at his campfire in the "Foothill Country," (a silver coin for $20 or a bronze for $10) contact Charles Ed Cammack at Box 425, Matorador, 79244. Your money will be safe with Motley County's newest banker and you will be assured of having a neat memento of when M.C. hit the really big one.

Branding for Beef? If you are one of the beef producers donating $50 per brand for the barbeque, then bring your branding iron with you on Saturday, May 25, to the courthouse square between the hours of 12:00 and 2:00. After the celebration, the display board with names and brands will be exhibited in the courthouse.

What will be available during centennial day, May 25, around the courthouse square? Delicious food: barbeque sandwiches, and hamburgers, candy, cakes, cookies, and funnel cakes, T-shirts, sweat shirts, and computer portraits. Crafts, woodwork, iron work, ceramics, jewelry, handmade sewing crafts. Southwest items, posters and buttons, personalized books, and note cards. Raffle tickets include chances on jewelry, a wheel barrow, and a collector's historic quilt.

The entertainment roster is shaping up with singing groups, gospel groups, guitar strumming singers, and cowboy poets. Make a date to get in on the fun on May 25! But in the meantime, make a date to help clean up the City Park or your place of business on May 11. Volunteers are needed for the spring cleaning starting in the park at 8 a.m. Karla Leslie and a Channel 11 film crew are expected on May 20 which will tell the world we are proud of where we live.

The next committee meeting is scheduled for May 13th at the Sr. Citizens at 6:30. All chairman are needed for a walk through and final run down of events.

FFA Banquet Honors Members

The Motley County FFA Chapter Banquet was held April 30 with Charles Cammack as special speaker for the Banquet. Charles, being a 1981 graduate of Motley County challenged the FFA members to have a vision and get involved all they can. Cammack said it is "not what you know, but who you know!" Cammack stated that during his years of FFA, he met and made a lot of lasting friends and now has run across some of them, who are now in influential jobs.

FFA is a base for a good foundation of a quality leader as well as teaching them to become a good speaker.

Charles also challenged the members to "stand for something or you will fall for anything." He stated, "Even King David of the Bible was the youngest brother and a small man, which proved it is what is on the inside of a person, not his or her stature or looks."

Special awards were presented to Jeremy Davis, DeKalb Award for outstanding Senior Ag Student; Jeremy Jameson, Star Greenhand and Mat Linson, Star Chapter Farmer. Bob Davis was inducted as adult honorary Chapter member.

Other awards presented were: Ag Mechanics, Jeremy Davis, Beef/Crop Production; Jeremy Davis, Specialty-Bees, Daniel Alexander; Sheep Production, Dustin Davis; Swine, Christi Timmons; Horse Proficiency, Bob Bumpus; Ag Electrification, David Alexander; Extemporaneous Public Speaking, Daniel Alexander; Wildlife Management,

PTO To Sponsor All Night "Project Graduation" Party

The Motley County PTO is sponsoring an all night "Project Graduation" party to assure that none of the Class of 1991 will be injured or killed in alcohol-related accidents.

Nationally, more young people between the ages of 16 and 20 are injured or killed between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 4:00 in May and June. We want to make sure all our Seniors have a chance to attend their 10th reunion.

This will be Motley County's first "Project Graduation", the name used across the country for chemical-free graduation parties. It will be held at Motley County High School, which will be open to grades 9-12 only. A variety of activities have been planned for the night including a dance, movies, contests, lots of food, prizes, and games.

Donations are needed to support this party. If you would like to make a donation, please contact any PTO member, or submit to the Motley County Tribune, P.O. Box 490, Matorador, Texas 79244.

Whiteflat Marker To Be Dedicated May 24

The once thriving village of Whiteflat will be honored on May 24 at 2 p.m. as a state historical marker is dedicated and the U.S. flag is once again raised on the flag pole of the old post office. Whiteflat fanciers and history buffs are invited to attend the short program paying tribute to the early day settlement and those who have paused for a moment in time;

A pot-bellied stove surrounded by loafing farmers. The worn planks of the wooden floor, shiny from hundreds of footsteps. A red pop box with a built-in bottle opener, overflowing with caps. On the counter, penny candy, the Tom's peanut jar, and a gallon jug of pickles. The county store, a place to pick up a few groceries, share the news, and pass the time of day.

Over the years serving the needs of the Whiteflat community were friendly "mom and pop" grocery stores operated by the families of J.M. Morgan, the Garrison Brothers, R.L. Smith, McCarey, George Sims, Ackers, Claude Matney, George Preston, E.P. Humphries, J.T. Willis, C.P. Pool, Robert McGuire, and Marvin Dixon.

Lynch & Son's Mercantile, built in 1909, ran a peddler wagon to homes around 1917. The wooden emporium became the largest store, operated a wagon yard, and later expanded into hardware. Lynch's closed around 1955 and the building burned in 1969. Other mercantiles were run by Mun Garrison and the Faulkners. Next door to one of the mercantiles, Dr. G.W. Lasater, Physician and Surgeon, practiced medicine in a small wooden building.

Barbers included M.E. Billington and Jim Hendricks. Miss Inez Sandlin taught the Lecheitzzy method of music to her students.

Cafes serving home cooked vittles were run by Mrs. McWilliams and Mrs. Bryan; Jack Boyd, the W.E. Higginbothams, J.D. and Pansy Spray; Herman and Lillie Norton; and Arnold Wallace.

Providing vital service to the farm and ranch needs with custom made implements and tools were blacksmiths, Sam Smoot, A.E. White, Ralph White, Charlie Flowers, and Wallie Boone. Boone later made a name for himself in San Angelo as a master craftsman of bits and spurs, particularly fancy ones designed in the shape of "gal legs".

Besides Ed Jameson's Minneapolis-Moline implement dealership, there was the Oliver Tractor Agency. Peg Spray and Arnold Wallace operated a repair garage.

Cotton gins, the heart of a farming community, were run at various times by Mr. Williams; J.I. Tye; Edward E. Wood; Wirt Bowman; Joe and Arlene Bloodworth; and Tom Spears.

The golden age of Whiteflat was no doubt the golden age of Motley County when over 6,000 people lived in the county. Every farm had several farm houses filled with large families to work the labor intensive crops. The Great Depression, the dirty thirties, and mechanized farming began a decline that continues even today. (Motley County with its 1,532 residents for 1,011 square miles is one of the most sparsely settled counties in the state.)

The last store in Whiteflat, Matney's Grocery and Conoco Station, closed its doors in 1968, ending an era of friendly convenience provided by the small, rural general store.

In 1979 the old schoolhouse bell found a new life as the travelling Victory Bell of the consolidated Motley County ISD "Matoradors". Permission to raze the nearly seventy year old brick school house for the salvagable material was granted by the County Commissioners Court in early 1990 to petitioner Clay Jameson.

Each year in April, a group of ex-students and ex-teachers meet in Matorador to re-live their Whiteflat days. In 1989 they erected a brick monument with a brass plaque reading "Whiteflat 1890."

A state historical marker for "Whiteflat" was secured in 1991 as part of the county's Centennial Celebration, funded by the following Whiteflat fanciers: Alton "Red" and Oneta Titus of Colleyville; Verna Norton Jameson; Vella

Church Names Interim Pastor

Dr. Rick Johnson of the Religion Department at Wayland Baptist University, Plainview, will serve the First Baptist Church as interim pastor, according to an announcement by the pulpit committee. He will assume this duty Sunday and continue while the committee searches for a pastor to fill the vacancy left by the recent resignation of former pastor, Rev. Stacy Conner.
 Rev. Conner resigned this pastorate the last of March to accept the call as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Muleshoe, a position he assumed on April 14. Since that date the local church has continued its weekly schedule, with visiting speakers supplying the pulpit. They have included Dr. Floyd Bradley of Plainview, Director of Missions of the Caprock-Plains Baptist Area; Dr. John Mitchell and Dr. Johnson, both of Wayland University, and Tommy Spencer, current director of youth activities in the local church, who is a ministerial student at Wayland.
 Members of the church are urged to continue their support by attending all services and participating in its activities, and a cordial invitation to others in the community, as well as visitors, is extended to join them in welcoming Dr. Johnson.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
 Michael A. Guido

Thirty-two-year-old Clyde Fugate started his first day of work as a brick washer on a Chicago skyscraper. He wound up hanging outside the 19th floor for more than an hour, because the motor moving him up and down stopped running.
 I guess you'd say he was stuck on his job.
 There are many who come to Christ, but they don't continue with Him. They start, but they don't stick.
 That's why He said to those who believed on Him, "If you continue in My Word, then are you My disciples indeed." He wants dependable disciples.
 So begin believing, continue clinging, and you'll end up enjoying the Christian life.

Clay Jameson Receives Recognition

Clay Jameson

Mr. Clay R. Jameson received recognition for 15 years of dedicated service as a National Weather Service Volunteer Weather Observer at Matador, Texas. A citation for service and letter of appreciation from the National Weather Service and U.S. Department of Commerce were presented by Jerry F. Wolfe, Cooperative Program Manager, Fort Worth.

National weather service equipment is used to record hourly precipitation amounts. A summary of daily observations is sent to the Fort Worth office each month where the data is processed and sent on to the National Climatic Data Center in Asheville, North Carolina. At that location the data is computer processed, archived and published in the Texas hourly precipitation data publication.
 The work done by Mr. Jameson and other volunteers across the nation make it possible for government agencies and private enterprise to make in-depth studies of weather trends.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce and National Weather Service congratulate Clay on 15 years of dedicated service.

How We Became Interested In Buckskinning

by Wilda Dixon

NOTE: The following is a continuous of the Buckskinning story, which was printed in the April 25th issue of the Tribune. A Buckskinning Rendezvous will be a part of the Centennial Celebration, May 25.

After the first rendezvous, we were hooked and quickly decided that we wanted to camp in the primitive area in the future so we began saving our money to purchase a primitive shelter. There are several kinds of shelters such as tipis, wedge tents, wall tents, lean-tos, diamond shelters and bakers or wheelans. We decided on a wedge because it takes only three poles and it is much cheaper than a tipi with 20 poles.

After we decided that we wanted a wedge then we had to decide what size we wanted and none of the catalogs we had offered a wedge the size of ours, so we talked to a tarp manufacturer in Lubbock and had one made to our specifications.

The next rendezvous we attended was the Southwest in St. Jo, Texas and there we learned more about the sport as well as purchased a storage box and a fire-making kit for me. The trader from whom we purchased the fire kit also showed me how to hold the flint and charcoal and strike it with the striker. Of course I also had made us some more clothes, including a pair of pants for Spencer. We also had acquired some fire implements such as a trivet and a tripod.

During the next year, I also made some more clothes and we had added to the storage capability by adding another box and a 10-gallon water keg. We had discovered that we needed a fly (shade) in front of the tent but we could not get one yet so we visited with other camps that had flies. During this time we also purchased a 'hawk (tomahawk) and throwing knife (Spencer made it out of an old devil blade) for use in the knife and 'hawk throw.

Last year we attended two rendezvous, the first at Fluvanna with the group from Lubbock and the second was the Rocky Mountain College Rendezvous held northwest of Colorado Springs, CO. The College Rendezvous is a week of seminars on different aspects of our sport. We attended sessions on fire-making, trapping, brain tanning, quill work, flint knapping and "How to become a mountain man without spending $$$." They also had a shooting range with people to show new gun owners the proper gun safety and also help them to begin shooting their new guns and the proper care of the gun after shooting.

This year we have already attended one rendezvous and the end of May will be the second of the year. We will have our fly and hopefully a new kitchen box by then. We also hope to attend another rendezvous the last of July or first of August in Colorado. One thing we have discovered is that we could travel all over the United States and attend rendezvous somewhere anytime of the year.

Remember that next week I will discuss that will be happening in the City Park May 24-27, 1991 and I hope you are making plans to visit us sometime during the weekend.

FAT MYTHS

In today's health conscious society, Americans are told by experts to measure fat grams and to get no more than 30 percent of their total calories from fat. New products labeled "low-fat," "cholesterol-free" and "light" line the supermarket shelves and create even more confusion. Americans ask, "How do we know what percent of fat we are eating," and "Can we eat all the 'fat-free' chocolate cake we want?"

"Reading labels can be really confusing," said registered dietician Sabrina Miles-Marquez of Methodist Hospital. "Separating fat facts from fiction remains a problem for the average American consumer."

While most food products list the amount of fat, the figure is in grams, not percentages. A simple formula can help solve the dilemma. To figure out the percentage of calories in a food that comes from fat:

1. Multiply the number of grams of fat in the food by 9.
2. Multiply the answer in step one by 100
3. Divide the outcome of step two by the total number of calories in the product.

The resulting figure is the percentage of fat in the product.

"Oils contain almost 100 percent fat, while vegetables and fruit contain almost no fat. Balance your diet so that the day's fat calories amount to less than 30 percent of the total calories consumed," Miles-Marquez said.

The American Hospital Association wants you to be able to determine nutritional facts from fiction. Some of the myths include:

* Hot dogs are healthy if made with chicken or turkey instead of pork. A "low-fat" hot dog may have less fat than an ordinary one, but even a chicken or turkey hot dog is still mostly fat.

* Popcorn is one of the best low-fat snacks. This is true only if the air-popped kind, with nothing added. Most microwave popcorn is loaded with fat, even some of the ones marked "low-fat."

* Chicken nuggets have less fat than a hamburger. A serving of six chicken nuggets has 290 calories and because of the breading and frying, is 51 percent fat. A 3.5-ounce burger with lettuce, tomato and ketchup is lower in both calories and fat. * "Cholesterol-free" peanut butter is better. Peanut butter does not contain cholesterol and is high in monounsaturated fat, which is considered heart healthy. Peanut butter is high in calories and fat; however more than 50 percent of the calories are from fat.

* If you're trying to lose weight, order salad when in a restaurant. If you do so, order it with dressing on the side and use it sparingly. Rich dressing will cancel out the low-calorie benefit of salad.

* "Light" olive oil is less fattening than regular olive oil. The word "light" usually refers to the color of the oil.

Amy's Anecdotes

by Amy Woolsey

In some point in time we all have to say goodbye to our loved ones. It may be hard, but we all have to face it. Everyone has to die sooner or later. It's just part of God's plan.

We don't need to be angry at God for taking our loved ones. Remember He loves them too. He just wants them to be up there with Him.

Life is full of obstacles and pain and when someone dies they don't have to face the obstacles and all the hurt anymore. They are happy up there, and they wouldn't want us to be sad when they are happy. Their pain is gone and we need to rejoice for them. Yes, it is easier said than done, but we have to go through a grieving process. If you hide that grief, it will come back and hurt you worse.

Don't grieve forever, because one of these days, we'll all be up there with them until eternity and we'll all be happy!

MAY IS NATIONAL HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE EDUCATION MONTH.

This is a time when program planners around the country will concentrate their efforts on reaching groups at increased risk for high blood pressure. If you have high blood pressure, it is very important for you to receive therapy and medical care. As you probably know, losing excess pounds, limiting intake of salt and alcohol, and exercising can help you control your blood pressure and can help medications, if needed, do their job better.

Although high blood pressure must be treated for life, it can be controlled with proper care. A low-sodium diet, weight control, limited use of alcohol, regular exercise, and proper medication can make the difference.

The National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute supports controlling high blood pressure, but you are the only person who can do it. Here's how:

- Lose excess weight.
- Limit your salt intake:
 - add less salt and more herbs and spices.
 - read food labels when shopping; buy foods low in sodium.
 - take away the salt shaker; season foods with spices; try blending different spices.
 - select processed foods with reduced sodium content and limit regular foods like canned soups and frozen dinners.
 - use fresh meats; avoid daily use of cured meats like bacon, sausage, and cold cuts.
- If you drink alcohol, have no more than two drinks per day.
- Exercise daily. Focus on fitness. Losing extra weight through proper diet and exercise can help bring down high blood pressure.
- Have your blood pressure checked regularly.
- Record blood pressure levels after each doctor's visit.
- Notice and praise progress.
- Post stickers or magnets around the house as reminders to take medication.

Smart Choices To Reduce Salt Intake

You can help control your high blood pressure by eating less salt, according to the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute. It's not that difficult to select low-salt foods when you know the right choices. Follow these tips:

-- Replace the salt shaker on your table with one of the commercial herb blends. These products are available in the spice and herb section at grocery stores.

-- Skip the cold cuts and hot dogs at lunch. Try plain sliced turkey, chicken, or lean roast beef instead.

-- Rediscover fresh or unsalted frozen vegetables instead of canned ones. If you have to use canned foods in a pinch, drain the liquid and rinse the vegetables to remove some of the salt.

-- Watch out for frozen dinners and other prepared foods. They often contain large amounts of salt. Make your own dinners using herbs instead of salt. Package and freeze these dinners individually. They will be ready to pop into the oven or microwave when you need a meal in a hurry.

-- For snacks with a low-salt crunch, use bread sticks coated with sesame seeds, popcorn lightly sprinkled with parmesan cheese, or unsalted nuts.

Spice Up Your Cooking

Eating less salt doesn't have to mean bland foods. Be creative. Rediscover herbs, spices, and other seasonings with these suggestions from the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute:

- Try garlic, mushrooms, curry powder, onion, or sage on chicken or turkey.
- Add some excitement to your fish dinners with lemon pepper, sliced onions, and mushrooms, dry mustard powder, green peppers, or dill.

-- Sliced apples are wonderful with many meat dishes.

-- Enhance the flavor of vegetables with lemon pepper, basil, or thyme. Liven up baked potatoes with pepper and parsley.

Your local grocery store carries a variety of salt-free herb blends. Experiment with some of these. You'll be surprised at how good a low-salt diet can taste. You may not miss salt at all.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Thought for the day:

We are always getting ready to live...but never living.

According to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. (PCG), the new schedule of premiums and discounts used in determining the Commodity Credit Corporation's (CCC) loan prices for the 1991 crop is a grab bag full of both good and not-so-good news for High Plains producers.

The good news about the schedule is that when the separate premiums and discounts for micronaire and strength are affixed to the average quality cotton produced on the High Plains it appears that producers should be assured of slightly better loan prices in 1991. The bad news is that the schedule for grade and staple contains higher discounts than 1990.

"Under the 1990 farm bill, strength will be incorporated into the schedule of premiums and discounts for the first time in 1991. The result is the potential for additional premiums due to higher strength," explains Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President. "The strength measure throws a twist into the loan schedule that we never encountered before."

That twist comes at a time when most area producers are making final decisions about when to plant and what varieties they will use for the 1991 crop. Some producers on the High Plains have already begun putting seed in the ground.

The base loan rate for most High Plains locations has been set at 50.75 cents per pound. This represents a 50-point increase over the 1990 rate of 50.25 cents. The 50.75 cent rate marks only the second time since 1978 that the loan rate for the High Plains area was placed below the rate for average U.S. locations. The loan rate for average U.S. locations is 50.77 cents.

According to PCG, figures supplied by USDA show Lubbock and Lamesa classifications for the 1988, 1989 and 1990 crops strongly favored premium over discount-strength cottons when the 1991 premiums and discounts are applied. Of about 7.5 million bales classed during this time only 16 percent were in the discount strengths below the base, compared to 51.2 percent in the premium strengths above the base. The other 32.8 percent fell in the 24 and 25 grams per tex base range and would not have been affected by the new premium and discount schedule.

In the head-to-head comparison to 1990 loan prices, cotton that received a grade of Strict Low Middling Light Spot (42), one inch staple (32), with a strength of 26 grams per tex and a micronaire of 3.7 would have brought a physical loan price of 43.80 cents per pound in 1990. Under the 1991 schedule, cotton of that quality should receive a physical loan price of 45.35 cents per pound, or about $7.44 more per 480-pound bale than last year.

One of the interesting things that should come from the new loan schedule is an increased emphasis on the strength of cotton grown in the High Plains area. PCG has been very active in promoting the production of high strength cotton.

The new loan schedule should back up what most producers on the High Plains already know — in order for High Plains cotton to stay competitive, the overall quality of the cotton produced must continue to improve.

"This is not a concept in this area. After all, since 1983 our area producers have been supporting the Plains Cotton Improvement Program in the belief that better cotton can be developed for the High Plains," notes Johnson.

Differences between the 1990 and 1991 loan schedules don't stop with the addition of strength as a separate measurement. The micronaire schedule also contains changes that could prove helpful to area producers. The most notable change is the addition of a 15-point premium for cotton with a 3.7-4.2 micronaire. Also included in the changes is the addition of the 2.5-2.6, and 2.4 and below categories. The new categories replace the 2.6 and below category that was part of the 1990 loan schedule.

The next best thing to a great fishing or hunting trip is going to a sportsman show. This weekend, May 10-12, the Fairgrounds in Lubbock will host THE WEST TEXAS SPORTSMAN SHOW featuring former Dallas Cowboy RANDY WHITE. DR. LOREN HILL, an old friend of mine who did the research for the ColorMeter and PhMeter, will attend this show. As Department head of Zoology at University of Oklahoma, Dr. leads the OU research station at Lake Texoma. It is worth the drive to Lubbock just to attend a Friday or Saturday evening seminar by Dr. Hill and learn the latest developments in understanding the behavior of bass and other gamefish.

After spending three days last fall on Ute Lake with TED MILLER as he prepared for the western regional REDMAN, I can assure you that fishing a gizzard or a SlugGo and winning big money takes a special talent. TED has that kind of talent AND is willing to share information at his seminars. If you want to learn more about light line fishing or clear water fishing, don't miss this chance to talk a real expert and one of the nicest guys on the B.A.S.S. trail.

Trout fishermen (or those who wish they could catch trout) will want to get a front row seat for the seminars by TI PIPER, as he reveals the how and where of fishing in New Mexico. Ti will have a fly tying demo at his booth, and it is fascinating to watch how some yarn feathers become a tempting morsel for Mr. Trout.

Register with Martin Marine to win a fishing boat. Win great door prizes and see new boats, RV's and even a Gun Show. A copy of this column will save you $1.00 at the gate. (limit one)

Rolling Plains PCA Honored For Outstanding Achievement

Austin -- For the third consecutive year, Rolling Plains Production Credit Association (PCA) has received a Farm Credit Achievement Award from the Farm Credit Bank of Texas (FCBT).

The association has offices in Stamford, Abilene, Childress, Matador, Munday and Spur.

In making the announcement, bank officials commended the PCA on its financial strength and high-quality portfolio.

"The association board and management team have demonstrated their ability to effectively direct and manage the association's business affairs for the benefit of its stockholders," said Paul S. Day, president of the FCBT's Production Agriculture Lending Operations, in presenting the award with FCBT Director B.L. Smith Jr.

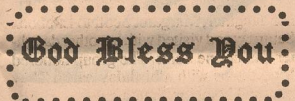

"Rolling Plains PCA has been attentive to its financial position and developed a financially strong organization," he added, "and has exhibited the ability to control credit risk while maintaining a loan portfolio of the highest quality."

In accepting the award, Association Chairman Garon B. Tidwell said, "We have always placed the best interest of our member borrowers first and that has been the foundation for our strength as a PCA."

"We will continue to abide by that philosophy, as we strive to meet the credit needs of farmers and ranchers in our area in the years to come," he added.

Directors for the locally owned cooperative are Garon B. Tidwell of Munday, chairman; Dan Henard Jr. of Wellington, vice chairman; Lloyd M. Blackwell of Stamford; Lance D. Morris of Crosbyton; and Dean Turner of Matador. President is John S. Rike III.

Rolling Plains PCA has approximately $44 million in loans outstanding to approximately 700 farmers and ranchers in 18 counties.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

State Representative Mark Stiles of Beaumont introduced a bill (H.B. 2022) which is a slap in the face to those Texans who have chosen to live in the rural areas of our state. The bill, if passed, would allow emergency ambulances in counties of less than 20,000 population to be staffed by only ONE individual with minimum training. There are 254 counties in Texas and, of those, 150 of them have a population of less than 20,000. To those Texans who live in counties of greater population and believe this law will not affect you - think again! You probably do not spend your entire lives in one area nor do your families and friends. If you travel, you do not have to go very far before you find yourself passing through one of these counties.

Texas already has the lowest standards in the country for minimum ambulance staffing, requiring two personnel with only 40 hours of training. This bill, if made into law, would be a state and national embarrassment by reducing the standard to only one person. The sad part about this is that Mr. Stiles' bill sailed unopposed through the House on April 18. This shows a definite uncaring attitude on the part of our elected Representatives. As a long-time paramedic with a volunteer emergency medical service, I have no idea how only one person is going to drive an ambulance and provide proper life-saving care of a patient at the same time. If this bill becomes law, E.M.S. in Texas will be set back 30 years in a large portion of the state.

Everyone who reads this letter needs to contact his or her State Senator, as well as the offices of the Governor and Lt. Governor, to show concern for our fellow Texans. Demand that your Senator vote NO on this bill. It could literally make a difference between life and death.

Sincerely,
Tom Vaught, EMT-Paramedic

Dear Editor:

During World War II this Great Nation of ours was called the "Sleeping Giant". The giant woke up, and now it is time for the giant to rise from its slumber again, and take control of what is taking place in Washington, the proposal of a free-trade pact with Old Mexico. This free-trade agreement with Mexico is not for the best interest of the peoples of the United States. Mexico already has hundreds of United States owned companies. Causing unemployment in the United States. With the moving of our businesses to Mexico, where they pay almost slave labor wages, our business here in the States, that are left, will not be able to compete.

We must force Congress to take action and scrap this dangerous proposal. This proposal, unless Congress wakes up and stops it, Mexico will become virtually our 51st State - but a superior state not subject to American law or taxes. A defeat of the president's trade pact would be a major blow to the so called New World order. "Sleeping Giant", heed the call to wake up. Get in touch with your Senators and Congressman now.

Sincerely,
Eugenia Bethard

A fellow said to a clerk, "Here's just the candy for my girl. It says on the box, 'Your love means everything to me.' What's the price?"

"Five dollars," he answered. "That's too much," he said, and walked out.

In like manner, some are looking for a cheap way to show their love to the Lord. They give him their bit, not their best; a tip, not a tenth.

But He'll not take seventy-five percent or even ninety-nine percent of your love. He wants all of it. The Bible says, "Love the Lord your God with all your heart, soul and mind."

The Lord isn't loved at all if He isn't loved above all. Do you love Him above all?

Tell yourself - believe it too - that you are too big for worry, too noble for anger, too brave for fear, too happy to allow troubles to destroy your life.....

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

Many people know that wives and widows can get Social Security benefits when their husbands retire, become disabled, or die. And men have these same benefit rights on their spouse's Social Security earnings. What may be less well known, however, is what happens if the marriage ends -- what rights do divorced spouses have to Social Security benefits on their ex-spouse's Social Security earnings?

A divorcee spouse can get benefits on a former husband's or wife's Social Security record if the marriage lasted at least 10 years. The divorced spouse must be at least 62. If they have been divorced 2 years or more, he or she can get benefits even if the worker is not retired.

People often ask if the amount of benefits paid to their ex-spouse will reduce the amount of benefits paid to their current wife or husband. The answer is "no". Social Security figures benefits for ex-spouse without regard to the amount paid to a current spouse.

A change in the Social Security law that went into effect in January 1991 eliminated the 2-year wait for people who were already getting spouse's benefits at the time of their divorce.

Another new provision of the Social Security law affects women and men who married in good faith and later found out that their marriage was invalid. As of January 1, 1991, these people can qualify for benefits on the worker's Social Security record on the same basis as a legal spouse. Previously, these women and men were considered wives and husbands for the purpose of getting Social Security benefits only if no legal spouse received benefits.

A person cannot receive spouse's benefits if he or she qualifies for a higher benefit on his or her own work under Social Security, nor can he or she receive both benefits. He or she will get the higher of the two. This is one of the reasons why men, with their generally higher earnings and thus higher benefits, are less likely than women to receive spouse's benefits.

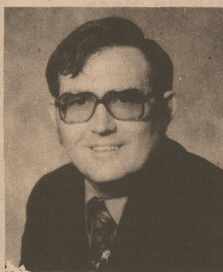

The full amount of the Social Security benefit for a spouse is 50 percent of the worker's benefits. If a spouse's benefit is taken before age 65, the benefit amount is reduced for each month before age 65 benefits -- to a low of 37.5 percent of the worker's benefit at age 62.

For more information, call the Social Security office. The toll-free number is 1-800-234-5772.

MOTHERS: Friends of the Bible

There is no other means of producing godly men and women for our society than to impact upon our children, the magnificence of the Holy Bible. There are many of us who shall ever be indebted to godly Mothers who thrilled us with the stories of Joseph and Samuel and David the giant slayer. God-fearing Mothers who unfolded for us the beauty of life of faith in the Great God of heaven and earth.

There is no way to estimate the powerful influence of a sincere Mother who always gave liberally of her time, energy, prayers and even her monies to the cause of Christ. Never once can I remember ever hearing my Mother say anything against the Bible and seldom would a day pass without her making some favorable comment regarding the Word of God. To walk daily with the Savior is equivalent to being a friend of the Book of Books, the Holy Bible. Many of our Mothers understood this.

A home without the Scriptures would be a dismal place. But a family reared by a God-fearing Mother who built her home upon the solid foundation of Truth, (John 17:17), would have an ever widening influence upon the stream of time. What is said of Abraham can be said of many of our Mothers:

"For I know Abraham, that he will command his children after him and they shall keep the way of the Lord." (Genesis 18:19)

Booklet available for making a will

The Salvation Army is offering a free booklet to assist the seven-out-of-eight people who have not prepared a will.

With this booklet, the Salvation Army is offering information to help control the distribution of an estate to family, friends and charitable organizations. With an up-to-date will, an estate is distributed by one's own wishes rather than legal formulas.

Some think only wealthy people need a will, or that drawing a will is too expensive or complicated. The Salvation Army wants people to know that, without a will, the state will determine the disposition of assets, the welfare of one's spouse, and the guardianship of one's children.

For this free booklet write: The Salvation Army, Planned Giving, P.O. Box 2785, Lubbock, Tx. 79408.

If you have no sense of humor; If your outlook is but gloom,
If you hate you are getting older
And you feel like a worn-out broom;
If your husband drives you crazy;
Your kids put you up a wall;
If your wife's a great big "nagger" --
No one listens to you at all.
Go look into the mirror,
See the wrinkles and gray hair
And remember, perhaps it wasn't others
But you that put them there!

If you are over fifty, and you're jealous of the young -
Your backwards looks are folly,
Your song has done been sung!
If weight is your great big problem - an excess or a lack
Remember that a padded chair gives more comfort
Than one with a plain old straight board back!

If you find fault with others, Faults very plain to you
It's probably because you recognize in others
What is plainly wrong with you!
So try a little compassion
Or even a little smile; a kind word, a thoughtful deed -
Things that make life worthwhile.

If you will have concern for your own husband, and patience with your child.
And remember your wife is busy,
You can keep your anger down to mild.
Now if you will look into the mirror,
The gray's not all that bad.
The wrinkles no longer matter
When you look and still be glad!

Happy Aging To You!!

Obituaries

Louis Martin

Graveside services for Louis A. Martin, 79, of Lubbock were held at 3 p.m. Monday, May 6, in City of Lubbock Cemetery with the Rev. Herb Tavener, pastor of Asbury United Methodist Church, officiating.

Burial was under direction of Rix Funeral Directors.

Martin died Saturday morning in his residence after a lengthy illness. He was under hospice care.

He was born in Motley County and moved from Matador to Lubbock in 1938. He married Marjorie R. Butler on April 1, 1935, in Panhandle. She died in 1982. He attended Texas Tech University and worked for Price's Food Stores. He was a farmer and member of Ashbury United Methodist Church.

Survivors include two sons, Gary L. of Denton and Thomas L. of Lubbock; a brother, J.C. of Dougherty; seven grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to Hospice of Lubbock or the American Cancer Society.

Texanna Davis

Services for Texanna Davis, 57, of Plainview were held at 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 8, 1991 in First Assembly of God Church in Plainview with the Rev. Neil Unwin, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Portales, N.M., under direction of Lemons Funeral Home of Plainview.

She died at 10:14 a.m. Monday, May 6, 1991 in East Texas Medical Center at Athens after a brief illness.

She was born in Tucumcari, N.M., and had lived in San Jon, N.M., Portales, Matador, Germany and Pacific Grove, Calif., before moving to Plainview in 1958. She married Calvin H. Wilcher on Feb. 11, 1951, in Portales. He died in 1957.

Survivors include a daughter, Theresa Ann Swiger of Fort Worth; three sons, Calvin Wilcher of Athens, Mike Wilcher of Hurst and Eric Williamson of Plainview; three brothers, Clinton Thrasher and Albert Thrasher, both of Plainview, and two sisters, Juanita Baker of Kennewick, Wash., and Carolyn Rose of Matador; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thrasher of Plainview; and six grandchildren.

Rigsby Edwards Hill of Stephenville; the late Jodie Jameson of Plainview; C. Lawton Smith of Texarkana; Thomas Edwards of Houston; Jo Ann Jameson Pennock of Midland; H.R. "Skeet" Jameson of Whiteflat; Beulah Jameson of Plainview; Lula Kate Hargrove Saults of Richmond, Ca.; Vernon and Jolene Bloodworth Higginbotham of Lubbock; Les Jameson of Goree; Ruth Jameson of Kerville; Vella Ree Edwards Jenkins of Dallas; Jerry Edwards of Ranger; Mary Ruth County Kingman of Tutusville, Fla.

Mrs. Kingman, who was raised in the Dickens County community of Draper which has vanished without a trace, had no connection to Whiteflat but sent a large donation because she applauded the effort of individuals trying to preserve the history of extant settlements like Draper and Whiteflat.

Memorials to the marker fund were presented by Bill and Judine McCaghen in memory of N.J. Shands; Mrs. Dorothy Jean Casey Risner of Wheeler, in memory of Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Casey; and Reggie and Rosemary Bloodworth Anderson of Lovington, N.M., in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bloodworth and Bloodworth Gin.

Appreciation goes to the family of Ida Morris, the last postmaster, for deeding the lot for the marker site to the county and to the Hospital District, the School District, and County Commissioners for their cooperation.

Valuable "sweat" contributions for cleaning up the marker site were made by Luther Green with assistance from Spencer Dixon, Jim Stockton, County Commissioner Franklin Jameson and crew, and the District and County Texas Highway Departments.

Sparkplug Earlyne Jameson collected donations, inspired volunteers, and assisted Marisue Potts with the research for the Texas Historical Commission. All, so that we could reflect on the memories left us by Whiteflat, Texas, U.S.A.

Cultivating Catalogues

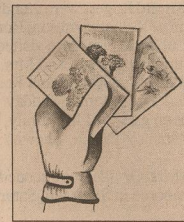

Today, the temperature suddenly shot up above 60 degrees. A beam of sunshine slipped through my office window and hit me smack in the eye.

My thoughts immediately turned to — catalogues.

As you probably know, catalogues are big business these days. There was a time when they were mainly for farmers in remote areas who couldn't get to big stores and had to do their shopping by mail. But now catalogues are for every interest.

I'm hooked on seed catalogues. At first, I was only hooked on flowers, an interest I inherited from my mother, whose flower beds turned our yard into a rainbow each summer.

I wanted to do the same, once I had a home of my own. But I soon learned that great flowers required the right seed, and seed meant seed catalogues.

Frankly, I got carried away. I bought every catalogue I could find, and every year I add more. My husband now estimates I'm on the mailing lists of 45 different seed companies. As usual, he exaggerates. It can't be more than 30. This hobby does cause me some embarrassment. Like the time I went to a business meeting, opened my briefcase and spilled a dozen catalogues on ground covers all over a bank president's desk.

Once, I ordered seed from an exotic plant catalogue without reading the fine print. What I got was something with spikes that tried to eat the neighbor's dog.

When my literary friends ask me what I'm reading, I have to reply, "Burpee and Wyle Wynda," which are two popular seed catalogues. It's the worst at this time of year, when a hint of spring hits the air. Soon, one must start seeds. And what seed will we start this year? I can never decide, because the fact is that I want everything. I'm crazy for cosmos and get impatient dreaming of impatiens. Zinnias are zingy, and marigolds make me misty-eyed.

So, I sweat and struggle to decide, as the days pass and the stacks of catalogues grow higher and higher all over the house.

My husband sweats too, because he knows that he will have to prepare the soil and dig the holes for all of the seeds. As spring looms closer, he asks me whether he should buy a new shovel or rent a small bulldozer.

I can't answer him because my mind already is drifting ahead to summer. I can almost see the yard ablaze with color. The aster here. Cleome there. Petunias everywhere.

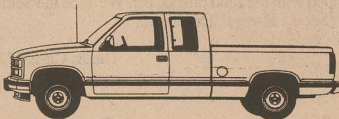

I'd better go talk with my husband. We have to discuss that bulldozer. ll
