PRICE TEN CENTS

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

A farmer looking at his cotton crop after the rains, said the vegetation called careless weeds should be called careless trees.

An insurance company which employs a strong pitch about the coverage it offers says it has protection from Pampers and Pabulum to dentures and dyspepsia.

So much of our conversation is needless and one of today's greatest challenges is to cultivate the ability to sift out the trivial from the worthwhile.

San Diego, California claims 65 golf courses. No wonder the grand old state of prunes, lemons and nuts is overcrowded. At this rate they will soon be forced to pull up the floor of the Pacific Ocean to extend fairways as far as the subdividers' imagination.

The press gets a constant barrage of mail seeking free publicity. Many seem to fail in understanding that advertising is the only source of revenue for most newspapers. Last week I received a request for free publicity from a publishing house which cost 6c to get out of the post office and which contained a request for a free copy of the article after it is published, which it won't be.

After you receive your first Social Security check you realize that the faucets of time are dripping.

There is little excuse for a man being dissatisfied with any particular locality of this country, if he has a valid gasoline credit card and an automobile that will function. One possible hazard would be a delay in receiving the relief check as a result of the transition.

It is difficult to establish any kind of permanent security. Take the example of Playboy magazine, once entrenched as the leading girls' journal, the publication must be receiving concern of its publishers. With the adult only movies and the broader view being shown on television, reader interest must be in a balance.

India Teacher Visits School

A TEACHER from far off India, Chandrakant M. Bhatt, visited the Matador school system Tuesday. He was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawrence and Mrs. Elma Ehrle, all of Abilene. Dr. Lawrence is the Executive Director of Region 14, Education Service Center. Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Ehrle are Abilene teachers.

Mr. Bhatt is principal of a private school in New Delhi, India and is here as an exchange teacher. He has been in Abilene one month and will remain eight months longer while studying junior and senior English.

This is his first trip to the United States and Mr. Bhatt is very much impressed with the friendliness of the people. "They make me feel at home," he declared. "They have all the qualities of good human beings. . . they will not allow me to feel like a stranger."

Mr. Bhatt is a strict vegetarian and has never eaten flesh of fish, fowl or animal. He does, however, eat eggs. He has found the food in the United States very good and abundant in all the things he enjoys. He does not drink or smoke. He is extremely impressed with the beauty of the country and the climate. He may, in the future, bring his wife to this country. They have four children, two girls and two boys.

Mr. Bhatt flies an airplane but does not drive an automobile. He belongs to a flying club in New Delhi. A car has been made available for him and he is learning to drive. His greatest problem, he says, is remembering that cars here are driven on the right side of the road and street instead of the left.

Survey Is Made Of Grass Fire Damage

Dr. Henry Wright of the Range Management Department at Texas Tech University was in Matador last Friday reviewing the grass fire damage on the Adams Ranch, according to Ervin Willard of the local Soil Conservation Service Office.

The areas observed showed more of a weed problem than the unburned areas, according to Willard. Also, most of the taller grasses such as little bluestem, sand bluestem, and vine mesquite seemed to be hurt the least and are responding to the recent rains.

From most indications, a small percentage of buffalograss and blue grama will be permanently killed. Most of these shorter grasses will be back to normal conditions in a summer or two if good moisture conditions continue, according to Willard.

Matadors Clawed By Wildcats 26-0

The Matador Matadors traveled to Crowell Friday and were clawed by the Crowell Wildcats 26-0 in the second grid contest of the season. The following report of the game is by Lance Jameson, school sports editor:

The Crowell Wildcats pounced on three Matador fumbles inside the twenty in the early minutes of the game last Friday night to lead 20-0 at the end of the first quarter and then went on to win 26-0.

The Matadors, however, did not leave the cage open. After yielding yards in the first quarter, the Matadors came back to limit the Wildcats' yardage, holding them scoreless until the closing minutes of the game, when they added six more to the scoreboard.

Offensively the Matadors moved the ball well in the second half until they reached the twenty. Three times the Matadors moved the ball into scoring position, but failed to score.

Team Saddling Up For Bronc Busting

by Debra Stockton

The Matador Matadors are saddling up for the big bronc-busting that will take place at 8:00 Saturday night on Burleson Field. The Broncos come from Meadow and are being eyed by the Matadors for their spins and dives to enable the boys to mount up and head straight to a victory.

Both teams are going into the game with a 1-1 record and a sky-reaching will to round up another win. The Matadors are especially excited, for the coach of the Meadow Broncos is a former M.H.S. coach, Mr. David Verner.

The Saturday game was originally set for Homecoming and was not rescheduled for Friday when Homecoming was postponed.

Halloween Comes Early to MHS

MHS hasn't had any problems with the students yet; it's the faculty that's giving the trouble.

At 9 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17, Mr. Moore and Mr. Smith left the principal's house to go visit Mr. Johnson. Mr. Johnson knew they were coming. Mr. Moore knew he knew, and Mr. Smith knew he knew, but he wasn't about to let on that he knew because they were supposed to play a trick on the superintendent, but Mr. Moore and Mr. Johnson thought they were playing a trick on Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith and Mr. Moore went behind the Johnson house and started making noise. Mr. Johnson came out of the house with a gun and fired into the air. Mr. Smith jumped up to run, but passed out cold. Mr. Moore and Mr. Johnson revived him and helped him into the garage, where they laid him on the floor, poured water on him, and slapped him around. Then they helped him into the house.

(He asked them to please get Nan.) Before Mr. Moore dashed to his house to get her, he asked him where it hurt. Mr. Smith pointed to his heart.

When Nan got there, she could not keep a straight face, so Mr. Smith told them he was just tricking them for trying to trick him. There are three stories about what really happened at the Johnson house that night. No one really knows for sure who tricked who, but they all will remember the night for a long time to come.

LIBRARY LOG

Thanks to the good work of the library assistants, the library was in good shape when Mrs. Groves returned to home base Tuesday after spending Thursday and Friday at Roaring Springs and Monday at Flomot. We were pleased to receive Congressional Quarterly GUIDE TO CURRENT AMERICAN GOVERNMENT this week—the first issue of a new subscription. Gives ALL current material on the Presidency, Congress, The Federal Judiciary, Lobbies (LOBBIES!), FEDERAL-STATE RELATIONS (including Federal Aid programs, law enforcement grants, anticrime programs), and Politics. Even the text of the Constitution. This comes twice a year as an up-to-date handbook for the study of American Government. We need it. USE IT!

Another periodical new this fall is Changing Times, published monthly by the Kiplinger Washington Editors. This is a magazine to keep us up to date on current business, buying, government programs, social changes, etc.

Also in is the new Abridged Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, so if you read an article somewhere, sometime, by someone, and you can't remember where, when, or by whom, maybe you can remember the subject and this index will tell you the exact magazine, date and page.

EBONY, another very high-class periodical received regularly contains a TIMETABLE FOR COLLEGE BOUND STUDENTS and Some DO'S AND DON'TS for the college applicant well worth looking at, and a timely article entitled "New York Tries to Kick the Habit," reporting on New York's fight to rehabilitate drug addicts. A librarian's greatest pain comes from not having time to read!

Helping Debra show the cheerleaders of the past were: Patty Edwards, Erma Lee, Sammie Thompson, Jan Higginbotham, Peggy Marrs, Debra Garrison, Ann Timmons, Gail Lynn, Laura Jacobs, Melisa Bailey, and Mazy Baker.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

This year's cotton crop defoliant and desiccant recommendations are in terms of spray formulations. Dusts have been discontinued.

Fred C. Elliott, cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says dusts have fallen into disfavor because of drift problems. Dew on cotton leaves also is necessary for a dust to be activated, he added.

Sprays can be applied by ground rigs or by airplanes, but growers should stagger applications in the case of large acreages.

In other words, the application rate of defoliants or desiccants should be at about the same rate as the harvesting machinery will cover the field. This will avoid some of the greening up that might occur if the whole acreage is defoliated at one time.

Harvest and chemicals are of two general types—defoliants and desiccants.

Defoliants prepare cotton for machine picking. There are chlorate and organophosphorus types. In 1968, there were 6,344 cotton picking machines operated in 93 Texas counties. They harvested 25 per cent of the crop.

DESICCANTS PREPARE COTTON FOR MACHINE STRIPPING. Of these, arsenic acid and Paraquat are the most common kinds.

During the 1968 cotton season, 39,028 strippers in 165 counties stripped 75 per cent of the Texas crop.

When cotton is harvested by strippers before frost, use of a desiccant is a must. Desiccation may be applied for as little as $1 per acre, depending on crop conditions and material used.

Sprayers must be carefully calibrated to avoid misapplication. Ground sprayers should be checked to see that a uniform amount is being applied to each row, that nozzles and screens are not stopped up and that calibration is not off due to excessive wear of the spray nozzles.

Defoliation guides are available in my office.
