TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The thin vapor trail of a jet in the cold sky, might be the trail of a comet in the sunlight; one of man's magnificent efforts to overcome the awesome barrier of distance.

Too many of us brood beside the delta of desires and watch it fill with silt from the passing years, instead of digging a channel to fill with the singing waters of achievement.

Before you worry too much about what the world is coming to, go to a few large city churches and see the crowds of young people who will soon be in the driver's seat. They have found a foundation for their lives and a purpose that will influence their ideals. There is enough of them and they will be strong enough to protect their responsibility.

This is about the time of year when as a boy we started gathering up the eggs a little later in the day.

It is strange the generation gap never became apparent until after children were allowed to spend their leisure without any definite schedule of employment.

Courtesy not only pays, but it is compounded regularly for the estate of friendship.

Memory plays some strange tricks in the crucible of time, often rejecting some of the delicate ingredients of patience and compassion.

Thunderbird Falls In Flomot Area

A FAMED Thunderbird, one of the Air Force's famed Thunderbird jet aircraft near Flomot Sunday centers on two main points: thankfulness that the pilot was not seriously injured and pride in the overall safety record of the group.

Maj. Stanton R. Musser of Nellis Air Force Base, Nev., ejected from his F100 D jet fighter about 11:20 a.m. and landed safely 9 miles north of the community of Flomot.

Capt. Steve Murata, Nellis Air Force Base information officer for the Thunderbirds, said Monday Maj. Musser had returned to Nellis and was being examined by the base flight surgeon.

It was believed he suffered only a wrenched neck in the ejection. Maj. Musser was part of a flight from Fort Worth to Albuquerque for an air show when his aircraft developed engine trouble.

John Speer of Flomot, whose telephone the pilot used to notify officials of the crash, said he understood the pilot to say his "compressor failed and his fire light came on."

(A staff writer for the Lubbock-Avalanche Journal reported that Sid McFall, a worker on the Cogdell Brothers Ranch where the jet crashed, said the aircraft fell about a mile from his home.)

After having a wing-man ascertain his aircraft was on fire, Maj. Musser ejected at 26,000 feet.

An accident investigation team was at the site of the crash, about 30 miles east of Floydada, early Monday to begin study in the cause of the crash.

Since the precision team was formed 16 years ago, eight pilots have been killed and several aircraft lost.

The F100 D cost $650,000 when they were first produced in 1956, but normal depreciation would make the loss much less now, according to Capt. Murata.

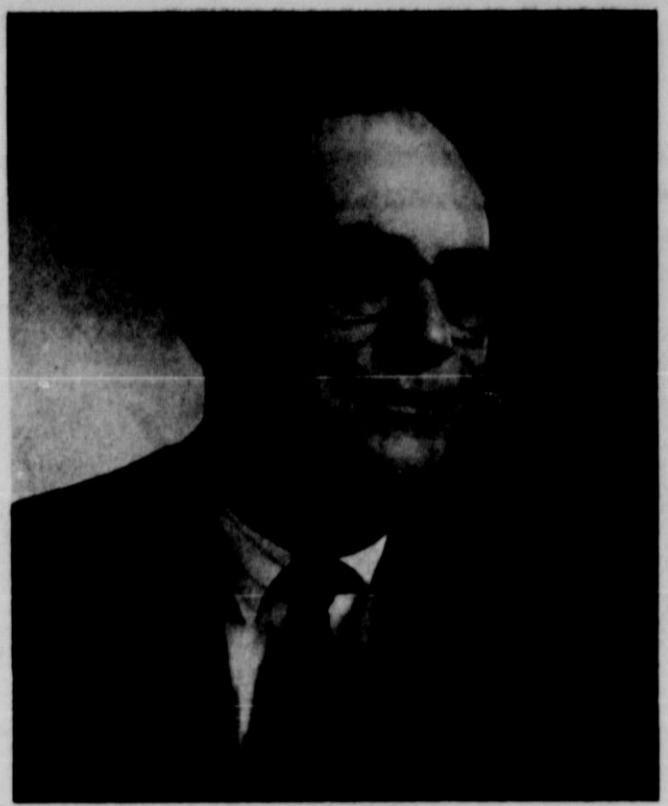

"The Thunderbirds attended 107 air shows last year with everyone well," said Capt. Murata. "When there are 100 applicants a year for three flying positions, a man has a lot of incentive to stay well." The team flies as a team, and there is no provision to replace a pilot if he is ill.

The men performing the close air maneuvers at speeds up to 750 miles an hour receive no special rank or money for the precision flying.

"It is quite an honor throughout the Air Force to serve with the Thunderbirds," said Capt. Murata. "All the pilots have at least 2,000 hours flying time and maybe more. If they receive promotions it is because they have proven themselves experts before they were chosen."

"The major will have the flight surgeon's approval before he goes back up," Murata added. "Then he will have practice sessions to get used to a new aircraft."

Father-Son Banquet Is Called Memorial

A MEMORIAL to the late Lt. Paul Eubank who founded the annual Father-Son Banquet 32 years ago, was the term used Tuesday night by Lt. Colonel Jack Robinson Jr., principal speaker.

Lt. Colonel Robinson was the first Boy Scout Master of Ceremonies 32 years ago, when the banquet was first held.

Flying more than half way across the United States (from his home in Virginia) to accept the invitation to speak, Lt. Col. Robinson was introduced by Tribune publisher Douglas Meador, who has known the colonel since he was a small boy.

"It is a tremendous honor to me to be here tonight," the colonel declared, "and I accepted the invitation immediately. Almost immediately, I began working on the speech which I am making."

"I feel that the annual Father-Son Banquet is a living memorial to the late Lt. Paul Eubank, and better than any statue. It also compliments the Matador Lions Club."

Lt. Colonel Robinson (who was born at Whiteflat and grew to manhood here, graduating from Matador High School) said he had talked to Brig. General Maurice Reilly Monday, in the hopes that he too, could attend. He said the General had been called to California because of an emergency, and could not come back to Matador. He said that Reilly is in the number two place in the Pentagon as the Air Force's civil engineer. He said

The lieutenant colonel stressed the dangers that confront our country today and said there are more communists in the United States today percentage-wise than were in Russia in 1918 following the revolution.

Master of Ceremonies Scout Frank Welling, son of Scoutmaster Freddie Welling, was the Master of Ceremonies. Lion R. E. Campbell Sr., led the singing of America and invocation was by Rev. Larry Heard, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The address of welcome was made by Boss Lion Ronnie Christian.

Message of Miracle Presented Youth

A message taken from the miracle of the lad with the five loaves and two fishes, as recorded in the sixth chapter of the Gospel of St. John, was presented to the youth of the community Sunday night at the First Methodist Church.

Rev. Larry Heard, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was speaker for the Union Church Service, honoring local young people during a Youth Week observance.

"We are living in a world of and youth is demanding a greater voice in world affairs... youth is demanding peace and brotherhood." Rev. Heard declared.

Admitting that the world is not perfect, the minister pointed to the ninth verse of the scripture reading for his text. "There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes; but what are they among so many?"

In describing the miracle which Christ performed in feeding the multitude, Rev. Heard pointed out the twelve baskets of food remaining, after He had first accepted the offering, then used it.

"We do live in a world that needs changing... but changing along God's way for God's purpose," he told his audience. "The most exciting and challenging life a young person can live is a Christian life. You may say you have so little to offer for so great a task; but whatever it is, give it to God... there is a purpose in life... if you will dedicate your life to God. He will take it and use it."

Members of Matador Boys Scout Troop participated in the service, with Will Palmeyer serving as Master of Ceremonies. Invocation was by Billy Paul Campbell and scripture reading was by Paul Price. A reading, "The Bridge Builder" was given by Ben Charles Grundy.

Presentation of the speaker was by Methodist pastor Rev. John Fitzgerald and benediction was by J. R. Whitworth.

Many Inaccuracies In School Report

In a letter to the Dallas News, appearing in Sunday's edition, many inaccuracies in the school report by the Governor's Committee on Public School Education were pointed out by Jack Scott, publisher of the Cross Plains Review and President of West Texas Press Association.

Following is the letter: "There are so many inaccuracies in the report by the Governor's Committee on Public School Education that it hardly seems worthwhile to call any one of them to public attention. But since survival of hundreds of small-town schools depend upon what action the Texas Legislature takes on the recommendations, some of the erroneous statements need a bit of airing.

"For instance, the statistic published by the committee that the Texas public school dropout rate is 23 per cent. This may be true in the large factory-like educational systems but is grossly exaggerated as far as the smaller schools are concerned.

"Texas Small School Association reported in December that the dropout rate for schools in its membership was 15 per cent. Since this is only one fifteenth as many losses as are being suffered by the big-city schools, one wonders if change should not be in direct contradiction to the committee's report.

"More small schools should be established, certainly none abolished.

"Wayne Ford, superintendent of schools at Cross Plains, checked dropout rates here for the past eight years and arrived at the approximate same answer as published by TSSA. The 8-year average here was 1.8 per cent.

"There are other strong arguments favoring small schools. On the record they seem to be better incubators of good citizenship. The Cross Plains Review, of which I am the publisher, made an extensive investigation three years ago and learned that never has a CPHS graduate been convicted of a felony.

"There are so many questionable statements in the report by COPSE that one wonders about the accuracy of any of it. It is particularly doubtful that the suggested changes are worth the 240 per cent tax increase which proponents admit is necessary for financing."

Discusses Controversial Bill

State Rep. Bill Clayton, of Springlake, discussed the controversial education bill Saturday at the 20th annual mid-winter meeting of the West Texas Press Association held at KoKo Palace Inn, Lubbock. Clayton is Representative of the 72nd Legislative District.

Clayton said the bill has drawn more attention from his constituents, than any other issue. He said he had been receiving 20 to 25 letters a day since January 1 and of all those letters received about the issue only one letter has voiced approval of the proposition.

Other speakers included Harold Ratliff of Dallas, a former Associated Press sports writer, Bud Buckner of San Marcos, Harold Hudson of Perryton, and Bill Seyle, editor of the Texas Tech University Daily.

In his talk, Seyle scanned the "generation gap" as one "about to enter the profession," and explained what he believed to be the motive behind the unrest and rebellion of most college students. He voiced doubt that Texas Tech University would be subjected to riots such as those in other parts of the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Meador, publishers of the Tribune, attended the meeting and visited her sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Fulkerson and with Mrs. Edith Sanders. All are former Matador residents.

M.G.S. Split Wins With Quitaque

By Lance Jameson

The Quitaque Grade School basketball teams took home a split victory from Matador, Thursday night, January 30. The Q.G.S. girls' team defeated the Matador girls' team with the close score of 18 to 16. The Matador boys made up for the loss, however, by putting Quitaque down with the score of 35 to 34.

The girls were tied the first quarter 4 to 4, but Quitaque moved ahead the second quarter to raise the score to 12 to 6. Each team scored 4 points in the third quarter. The final whistle blew too soon for Matador in the fourth quarter, because they scored 6 points to Quitaque's 2.

Stockton was high scorer with 8 points, Cruse 4, Thompson 3, and Cammack 1 point.

The boys' halftime score was 23 to 11 in Quitaque's favor, but the Mavericks came back red hot in the second half, and scored 24 points to Quitaque's 11 to win the game. The final score was 35 to 34. Watkins scored 18 points, Stevens 8, Martin 7, and Nichols 2 points.

Class Observes Special Clinic

By Billie Stockton

January 31, the Home Economic III girls visited the High Plains Training School in Plainview. The girls visited the school to observe children in their study of child development in class. The class was accompanied by the Home Ec. teacher, Mrs. A. L. Fair, and Mrs. W. F. Jacobs.

The school is primarily for mentally retarded children, but the socially and economically deprived children attend, too. There is no age limit set on the ones who may attend; the oldest is 34. Some of the children are being prepared for the first grade in a public school. Others will go to state schools.

The school takes people all the way from Farwell, Levelland, and Portales, New Mexico.

The High Plains Training School has only a few paid teachers. It is staffed mostly by volunteers.

The various clubs in this area send money and gifts such as cookies and bean bags, for the children to play with. Some clubs send decorated birthday cakes each month to be used on the children's birthday.

State Highway Department Recognized For Promoting Texas Vacation Travel

AUSTIN — Gov. Preston Smith today signed a joint legislative resolution praising the State Highway Department for its collateral program to promote recreational and vacation travel in Texas.

The concurrent resolution was introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls and by Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon in the Senate. Both bodies approved the resolution without dissent.

Gov. Smith signed the resolution in the Governor's reception rooms at the State Capitol in the presence of State Highway Engineer J. C. Dingwall, Rep. Stewart, Sen. Hightower and Tom H. Taylor, Director of the Highway Department's Travel and Information Division.

The resolution cited the Department for its instrumental part in producing the third consecutive year of new highs for the number of out-of-state visitors to Texas.

"In 1968 tourism enriched economic benefits accruing to the State and its citizens by approximately $1.5 billion," the resolution said. It continued:

"The many-faceted collateral development program conducted by the Texas Highway Department has contributed enormously to the dramatic growth of the visitor industry in Texas."

The resolution described the many services offered the traveling public by the Texas Highway Department, including:

Tourist Information Bureaus and Visitor Centers—Maintenance and operation of 11 bureaus in or near cities on key highways entering the State, in the State Capitol and at the Roy Bean Visitor Center and Cactus Garden, Langtry.

Trained Travel Counselors—For training and guiding professional travel counselors in the bureaus to encourage more travel to and within Texas. The counselors served approximately 1 million out-of-state visitors last year. The Department also played a leading role in establishing the annual Texas Travel Counselors conference for the improvement of professional skills of travel counseling in both the public and private sectors of travel development activity.

Travel Counseling by Mail—For providing travel counseling services by mail for potential visitors who write for information about vacation opportunities in Texas. Approximately 400 thousand mail inquiries were serviced last year. The Department produces 44 different items of travel-oriented literature, and distributes some 7.3 million pieces of descriptive literature each year. More than half of this literature is produced by the Department and the remainder is provided by other tourist-oriented organizations in Texas.

Travel Films—The Department's popular sound-and-color motion picture, "Texas—Land of Contrast," has been viewed by more than 23 million people in all 50 States and many foreign countries. Colorful, informative slide programs are provided each year to more than 500 civic groups, schools and other organizations.

Infostites—The Department constructs and maintains attractive displays at 30 safety rest areas on the Interstate Highway net-

The school is open in the mornings Monday through Friday, but the administrative director, Miss Eleanor Griffin, says that they hope to be able to stay open all day before long.

Travel Trails—The Highway Department participated in establishment of 10 Texas Travel Trails, featuring "guided" tours off-the-State's main traveled highways. Brochures were prepared to highlight each trail. The Department also plans to produce sound-and-slide programs on each of the 10 trails.

Boat Ramps—The Department has programmed and/or constructed more than 100 boat ramps on Texas waterways for the convenience of water sports enthusiasts.

Hospitality Seminars—The Department has developed special hospitality seminars which are conducted in tourist-conscious communities for the benefit of waitresses, service station attendants, retail sales personnel and others who come into personal contact with visitors. The seminars lend valuable advice and instruction to these ambassadors of the community.

Value Showdown:

Match these features against what competition gives you for the same kind of money, and you'll have a better idea why more people are buying Chevrolets again this year.

Built-in "guard rails"

There's a strong steel beam built into every door of every 1969 Caprice, Impala, Bel Air, Biscayne, Kingswood Estate Wagon, Kingswood, Townsman and Brookwood.

We call it a side guard beam, and it looks like one of those guard rails you see along the freeway.

That's what it's there for: To guard you. To strengthen the door and put a more solid wall between you and the outside world.

Not a glamorous feature. But you'll have to admit, worthwhile.

Computer-selected springs

Maybe you'll order your new Chevy equipped to the hilt. Or maybe you'll order it with hardly anything on it.

Either way, you're going to get your full measure of our renowned ride.

Because we go to the trouble of programming each car's equipment load into an electronic computer.

The computer then tells us exactly which springs to use, depending on the car's weight and the way it's distributed.

Chevrolet, the only car in its field with computer-selected springs.

Fenders inside fenders

We could have skipped this. (The other cars in our field do.) But we're as anxious as you are to keep your beautiful new Chevy looking beautiful and new.

So: Up inside the regular fenders we've placed a second set.

They do all the in-fighting. Catch all the splashed-up rain, slush and road salt. Stop the kicked-up stones.

While your "outers" just sit there looking pretty.

Astro Ventilation

The other two cars in our field give you air intakes down by the floor.

So do we. We also give you two up on the instrument panel.

And all four of them are adjustable so you can regulate the flow of air just the way you like it.

Even with all the windows closed, you'll be comfortable inside. You get air without wind. Without noise.

Astro Ventilation is standard, now, on all the big Chevrolets.

The theft-thwarter

On the steering column there's a lock. Only Chevrolet has it, in Chevrolet's field.

You turn the key and it locks three things: Your ignition. Your steering wheel. Your shift lever.

When you own a car this tempting, you don't dare take chances.

Biggest standard V8 in our field

Ask any car enthusiast, he'll tell you: Chevrolet builds great engines. Especially V8s.

And this year there are six great V8s available for the big Chevrolet. Standard: Our 235-hp 327-cubic-inch Turbo-Fire.

Another thing: We've lowered the price of several of our bigger V8s along with our automatic transmissions and power disc brakes. Which makes it possible for you to buy a '69 Chevrolet for even less money than you could last year.

Show up for our Showdown. You can't lose.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

$650,000 aircraft now occupying the bottom of a canyon in the Texas Panhandle?

The investigation teams from Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock and Nellis are combing the countryside for every shred of evidence relating to the crash.

The Reese information office said the aircraft would be brought out of the canyon and reconstructed in a hanger at Reese or Nellis.

"It is amazing what can be determined electronically to pinpoint the cause of the accident," a base spokesman said.

Because of the difficulty of the terrain at the crash site, the wreckage may have to be transported out of the canyon by helicopter. Tricky air currents could make this a difficult and dangerous maneuver.

Small Per Cent of Vehicles Inspected

(Special to Tribune)

"With the April 15 deadline for obtaining inspection stickers drawing near, only 27 per cent of the registered vehicles in Motley County have been inspected," stated Captain Alan Johnson, Motor Vehicle Inspection Supervisor of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Motley County has a vehicle registration of 1938, with only 613 inspected, according to the survey. Inspection centers in Motley County are: Thomas Garage in Flomot, Super Service Station, Roaring Springs, and Marion Norris Garage and Matador Auto Company in Matador.

"Unless there is a rapid increase of inspections, long waiting lines will be forming at inspection stations as the April 15 deadline approaches. The authorized inspection stations are ready and capable of handling the inspection of Texas registered vehicles if owners will not wait until a few days before the deadline," Johnson added.

"Any driver operating a vehicle on public roads after April 15 that is required to be inspected will be operating in violation of the law," Johnson said.

Captain Johnson called attention to the fact that since the beginning of the inspection program in 1961, vehicles having a defect that was a causative factor in fatal accidents decreased from 13% to 2%.

Johnson said, "The purpose of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Program is to discover any maladjustment which might become a link in a cycle of events leading to an accident and, by removing the link, prevent the accident."

COME TO CHURCH SUNDAY

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

The "spinoe" ear tick is one of the major pests of cattle and horses. The larvae and nymphs feed deep within the folds of the outer ear of their hosts, and animals infested with ear ticks become dull, listless and may lose weight rapidly. Deafness or loss of equilibrium and coordination may occur. Ear infestation some times result from irritation and inflammation and the animal may exhibit "gooch-ear" symptoms. Heavy infestations frequently result in death, especially to neglected animals.

The ear tick is not an important vector of animal diseases. It can transmit Q fever which apparently does not affect animals but may be contracted by slaughterhouse workers and others.

Larvae and nymphs of the ear tick feed within the ear for a period of three to seven months, and during this time these ticks go through two molts and become mature nymphs. They then leave the host, seek shelter, and molt to the adult stage about a week later. Adult ear ticks do not feed, but if males are available, the females will mate in about a week, but can delay mating for 18 months or more if no males are available before then.

Two to six weeks after mating, the female ear tick deposits 800 to 1000 eggs in cracks and crevices. These eggs hatch in 12 to 21 days and the larvae locate a host and crawl deep into the outer ear.

"Spinoe" ear ticks can be controlled by applying certain pesticides in the ears of infested animals. The materials used and rate of application are given in "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry" which is available from my office.

With the 1968 crop harvested, it is time to start making plans for the 1969 crop. Even though record yields were harvested by many, now is the time to ask, "Did plant diseases cause me any loss?"

The best disease control program is prevention. If diseases were a problem, and you know what the disease was, why not try prevention. Many seed treatments held reduce or eliminate plant diseases, but in other cases, soil or plant treatment is required.

Several publications are available on the control and prevention of plant diseases, and these are available for the asking. In most cases, treatment is expensive, but we have tests showing where up to $90 was lost in peanut fields as the results of "pod or crown" rot, and where a farmer made $40 more per acre where nematodes were controlled on cotton land.

Additional tests will be conducted this year, but for those who wait for more proof, these benefits will not be available until the practices are adopted.

DO YOU NEED TO WORK- to make a living and feed a family, to pay off a mortgage, to buy a few luxuries and to build up Social Security retirements? Will your Social Security be enough to retire on and enjoy life, or will you need to work a little just to help buy the necessities of life? A Programmed Life Insurance Plan can be set up to guarantee Bill and Sue's education, a paid up mortgage, last illness and/or death expenses should you die prematurely, or greatly supplement your Social Security payments when you do retire.

Why not have an insurance "check-up" now and see where you stand? The proper program may be considerably smaller in cost than you think. For more information and at no cost, please call 348-3136 Roaring Springs.
