WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker

Competition—
Political strategists think they detect a deliberate turn to the right by the administration in recent weeks. They look for a further swing in that direction from now on. In legislative terms this probably means that features in the NRA, banking and holding company bills held objectionable by prospective victims will be skillfully removed from Capitol Hill. Although President Roosevelt cannot hope to win back all the conservatives he has lost his advisers think a judicious course will give him the balance of the battle in a three-cornered presidential contest. All Democratic plans take into account the certain entry of a ticket representing the viewpoint of the "every man a king" believers.

Testing—
Jim Farley is losing no sleep over the spectacular suggestion that Al Smith may oppose the President inside or outside the 1936 convention. But he knows that the mere proposal is symptomatic of an unhealthy state in the party. Many conservative Democrats would like to get rid of Mr. Roosevelt even at the expense of Republican victory. Some of these wishful thinkers have served the party as Cabinet members and presidential nominees. For sentimental reasons they may not care to line up openly against the President, but they can do a lot of shelling from the sidelines. They are testing their artillery carefully as American Liberty League gunners.

Slipping—
The public utility chiefs may succeed in modifying the bill designed to abolish holding companies, but they have only themselves to blame if they fail. The weekly propaganda bulletin they send to Washington from New York is doing them no good. Its bias and bitterness make them as unpopular as the party in Pennsylvania Avenue. Cabinet members and Roosevelt legislators receive copies, regularly, although it is supposed to circulate only among the "brethren." It makes the bill's proponents mad and more determined to force it through Congress. If the diplomats of the utility cause are crowded back by their bull-necked associates, the recent period of optimism will be replaced—and properly—by gloom as thick as your leg.

Tact—
The bankers are exhibiting more restraint—and more finesse—in their fight on the measure to revise the Federal Reserve System. They are speaking softly and conciliating as few enemies as possible. They concede that the measure has some good features, and they offer frank criticism of those which, in their opinion, expose the system to political control. They abandoned high pressure methods after Carter Glass—once their enemy but now their friend—charged them with setting up "night schools" to instruct witnesses on how they should testify.

Buttonholers—
Senator Black's bill for registration of lobbyists has been hailed as a deathblow to the "third House of Congress"—provided it passes—but some of the Capital's better known wingers are laughing up their sleeves at it. They would like nothing better. If it worked out as they scheme they say that they would register, and then cite their compliance as evidence of the purity of their activities. What they really fear—although nobody in Congress has advanced the idea—is a law requiring them to submit for periodical Congressional perusal all correspondence dealing with their attempts to influence legislative or governmental action. The practice of returning all letters—abolishing all files—might then spread from certain of the holding companies to the gentlemen who buttonhole legislators.

Assets—
Senator Copeland's proposal to expand our merchant marine at the expense of world trade is steadily declining in popularity. It has been called a silly

Dismiss Jury In Theft Case

After 24 hours, jury fails to agree on verdict in Charles Tyler case.

After twenty-four hours of deliberation without changing the status of hanging the jury called to hear the case of Charles Tyler, charged with car theft, was dismissed by Judge Chas. L. Klapproth Tuesday afternoon. The jury had stood 8 for a prison term and four for suspended sentence. The vote never varied from that, it was learned. Judge Klapproth immediately declared a mistrial and set the trial again for next week.

Tyler had pleaded guilty to the charge. Joe Faucett served as defense counsel under appointment by the court. Tuesday afternoon the court received an agreed judgment for $1,250 in the case of Mrs. Beulah Collins, et al vs. Texas and Pacific Railway company. The court also granted a divorce Tuesday afternoon.

Driver Goes To Sleep At Wheel Near Muskogee

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Three persons were dead, five critically injured, and twenty-five less seriously hurt Wednesday in the overturning of a truck loaded with Mexican beet field workers traveling from San Antonio to Mt. Pleasant, Michigan.

The crash occurred near Onawa, thirty miles south of Muskogee. Sheriff Arthur Kirkpatrick said it was apparent the truck driver fell asleep at the wheel, and the truck ran off the road, overturning. He arrested Guadalupe Inanencio, driver and his brother, Antonio, who had recruited beet workers in Mexico and were in charge of the party. Little hope is held for recovery of five critically injured, taken to an Eufaula hospital.

Sergeant Taylor, Recruiting Officer, Seeking Recruits In Area

Recruiting to fill existing vacancies in the regular army at Fort Bliss, Texas, has been resumed. Sergeant Rex Taylor said here Wednesday.

Railroad Pension Act Is Undecided By Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—A brief case bulging with rulings was emptied by the supreme court Tuesday, but it again left unanswered constitutional objections to the railroad pension act. Railroad men and attorneys waited in vain for the court's decision on the validity of the railroad pension act involving more than 1,000,000 employees. Likewise the day passed without delivery of the court's findings on constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage reorganization act.

Owing to road conditions, the average life of an automobile in Argentina is considerably shorter than in the United States.

The division, charged with moving people from unprofitable communities to a place where they can live under better conditions, is headed by Rexford Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture. President Roosevelt said he had asked Morris Llewellyn Cooke, Philadelphia, to set up a rural electrification division. Cooke is a member of the National resources board authority on power.

Agricultural Group C-C To Meet Today

To Plan For Conference With Shelterbelt Authority

Agriculture committee of the chamber of commerce was to meet at 6 p. m. Wednesday to plan for a conference with John D. Jones, state director of the plains shelterbelt project, on May 8. Jones Wednesday advised that he would be willing to come here on that date for a conference with local men relative to the project. People in this section of the state have long expressed the opinion that the shelterbelt to extend from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle should come further west than originally planned. These plans have already been modified to permit a westward extension. The shelterbelt is a 10 year project by the Federal Government to produce a timber belt across the center of the nation in an attempt to break high, devastating winds and to aid in material increase of rainfall.

New Flight Record Set

NEW YORK—The TWA mystery transport plane set a new transcontinental flight record for transport planes when it flew over Floyd Bennett field here at 5:59 p. m. Eastern Standard Time Tuesday, completing the flight in 11 hours, five minutes. The plane left Union Air Terminal, Los Angeles, at 7:45 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, fought dust storms en route, and maintained a speed well over 200 miles an hour. Directing the flight was W. D. Tomlinson, veteran pilot and vice-president of the Transcontinental and Western Air company. Two others were in the crew. The previous mark was held by Leland Andrews, who flew a transport plane across country last Feb. 21 in 11 hours, 34 minutes, 16 seconds, with a 14 minute stop at Washington.

To Submit Question Of Repeal Aug 24; Monopoly Optional

AUSTIN, (AP)—Final agreement on the form of submission prohibition repeal was reached Wednesday as all conferees of both houses signed a report. Repeal leaders planned to ask adoption of the report Wednesday afternoon.

The agreement would submit next August 24 the question of repeal with establishment of a state monopoly optional with the legislature.

The question of requiring a monopoly would be submitted at the November, 1936 general election.

'Youth Week' Discussed By Cunningham

Rotarians To Attend Sessions Of Conference At Midland

"Youth Week and Its Significance" was subject of a well-wondered and interesting address given before the Rotary club at its Tuesday session by Grover C. Cunningham in observance of Youth Week—April 27-May 4th. The program was in charge of Victor Flewelling.

Frank Spalding, of the Maytag company, rendered two vocal solos, "A Dream," by Bartlett, and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Miss Helen Duley accompanied on the piano. Both numbers were roundly applauded.

Following the regular program, W. T. Strange urged Rotarians to sign a petition asking the state railroad commission to hold the next oil prorotation hearing in Big Spring. A large number signed the petition.

Two rooms in Hotel Scharbauer at Midland have been engaged by the local Rotary club to be used by members while attending sessions of the 41st district conference to be held there Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It was announced Wednesday by President Davis. The rooms are for the convenience of the local members, and the room numbers can be obtained at the Scharbauer desk on application.

Elmo Wasson read a letter from District Governor Tom Taylor of Brownwood urging Big Spring Rotarians to attend the 41st district conference in Midland next week.

President Davis asked for an expression from the club whether or not to hold the next regular weekly luncheon, since the attendance at the district conference would count in attendance records. A motion was made by Dr. Bennett and seconded by W. C. Blankenship that no meeting be held next week. Practically all Rotarians present indicated that they would attend the sessions at Midland next week. Attendance at any of the meetings on Sunday, Monday or Tuesday will count, President Davis said.

W. D. Carrett, recently of Lubbock, but now a resident of Big Spring, where he is engaged in the radio business, was introduced as a new member. Randy Randerson, Abilene; Emil Ott, San Angelo, and A. C. Williamson, Sweetwater, were visiting Rotarians.

SCARCITY OF CARPENTERS IS REPORTED

Not since 1929 had it happened. Tuesday City Superintendent B. J. McDonald went in search for a carpenter to construct a frame for the large, new city jail. He couldn't find an able carpenter in the city. They were all working on various projects in or near town, insofar as he could learn.

We've Now Become A New People', He Says

BERLIN (AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler told a million persons gathered at the Templehof Airfield Wednesday Germany desires only peace with other nations. "Just as we restored peace within Germany," he said, "We want peace abroad, because only then can our domestic works be a success. We were a people that was impotent because we were divided. That made us play ball with foreign nations. Small states could cast humiliation upon us and deprive our citizens of their rights. Our economic life was ruined. But now we have become a new people."

The committee voted 16 to 3 to report out a resolution extending the present law with prohibition against price fixing and limitation of codes to interstate business.

The third provision was to give the president a period to review present codes in order to make them conform to two changes in law.

CONTRAST IN LINERS

Within recent weeks two of the most famous ocean liners of modern times have headed for the boneyard. It was announced not long ago that the Leviathan, after a valiant but unsuccessful struggle to get out of the red ink column, would be turned over to the Navy Department for breaking up; and now it is reported from London that the famous Mauretania will presently be broken up at Rosyth, Scotland.

Of these two giant liners, the Mauretania has certainly had the greater share of luck. For twenty-seven years she has been one of the acknowledged queens of the sea. Until the Germans sent out their new express liners, she held the mythical "blue ribbon" for speed.

The Leviathan, on the other hand, was born under an unlucky star. Interred in New York in 1914, she lay idle until used as a troop ship. After the war she was put into passenger service, but she never paid her way. In all her peace-time service she was a white elephant.

And now both of these ships are on the way out. The roster of Atlantic steamers won't seem the same without either the Mauretania or the Leviathan.

SAFETY FOR ADMIRALS

A cablegram from Germany recently contained a little item which provokes interesting speculation as to the future happiness of naval admirals.

This item had to do with trials of a new "mystery ship" just completed for the German navy. It is described as a "non-fighting flagship," a 2200-ton vessel of the yacht type, intended for use of a fleet commander in battle.

And this leads one to remember that the admiral doesn't have as safe a life, in modern warfare, as the general of an army. The general occupies comfortable headquarters many miles from the front. Unless a stray airplane wanders his way, he is as safe as he would be at home.

But the admiral is out on the firing line with everybody else, when the fleets meet. If his ship is sunk, he goes down along with the stokers and gun-boys.

Have the Germans, at last, found a way of changing this? If this new non-fighting flagship can give the admiral a general's safety in battle, future naval wars will be a lot different from those of the past.

BASEBALL ALIVE AS EVER

One of the plainest signs of the recent depression was the blight which fell on the ancient institution of professional baseball. Minor leagues died like flies in a frock, and those which survived found an abundance of red ink on their ledgers.

All this led some people to suppose that the American people no longer cared for the game itself with their old-time enthusiasm. When all that was really wrong was that people simply didn't have the money to spend on it.

This year, from all accounts, is bringing a great revival in the sport. New leagues are being organized in all sections of the country. The spring training trips of the big leagues were attended by the biggest crowds in recent years. Every indication points to financially successful seasons.

A revival of interest in baseball? Not at all. Just a sign of returning prosperity.

British vessels out of the silk-carrying business.

This country's naval auxiliaries now fall far below par, and more commercial ships will be a basic necessity when the proposed navy-building program is completed.

Lesson

It may not be regular to predict the outcome of a legal action, but those who ought to know see little chance for the government to win its tax suit against Andrew W. Mellon.

According to income-tax experts—and they are not friends of the former Secretary of the Treasury—his stock deals designed to reduce his income tax fell within the letter of the law. That is quite understandable, they say, for Mr. Mellon helped to frame the law. If the government does lose, as it did in its actions against Charles E. Mitchell and Seth Insull, it should reach this administration what Mr. Mellon learned when he tried to collect an extra $100,000,000 tax from Jim Cossens: Let bygones be bygones!

Notes

Senators are kidding Senator Borah, who is Huey Long's first choice for President. Western glaciers are rapidly melting and will disappear in 25 years at the present rate, says a Geological Survey expert. Republicans in Congress disagree over the scheme for regional meetings and most of them oppose it. Big insurance companies owning utility holding company securities are piling up their protests to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. "Work-relief is in the hands of the same old crowd," is the current comment.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Bargain

Silver news sounds exciting these days but New York experts agree its significance is much more political than economic (except to minor and fortunate speculators). As the metal moves up it may stimulate inflation psychology—but experts insist the authentic inflationary content of the move is on a par with the intoxicating qualities of lemonade.

From the political angle insiders rate the silver gestures part of a deal between the White House and about a dozen silver Senators—whereby execution of their wishes with regard to the metal is swapped for their support of FDR's legislative program. Comment runs that it's a real bargain for the administration at the price.

You can stake your Sunday suit that the top price of $1.29 will be reached. But it won't be as soon as many people think—nor will the policy be continued of matching every rise in the world market with a corresponding jump in the price paid to domestic producers.

Control

Financial sharps predict that action will be taken at sufficiently frequent intervals to prove steady progress toward the ultimate goal. But it wouldn't be advisable from the White House viewpoint to get there too soon. Completion of FDR's end of the agreement before the Senators have done their part might jeopardize the bargain. Cynics remark that the Senators in question will doubtless remain

Full Steam Ahead Is Program For Texas Centennial Events

DALLAS—Full steam ahead is the program for the Texas Centennial Central exposition and the other Centennial celebrations which will be held in Texas in 1936 and between this date and June of next year between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 will flow into the trade channels of Texas in preparation for this 100th birthday party, according to Walter D. Cline, managing director of the Central Exposition.

By the time this story is printed Governor James Alfred is expected to sign the bill which appropriates $3,000,000 to be spent in Texas on the Centennial. Of this amount, $1,000,000 goes into the State building at the Central Exposition; $200,000 four furnishing the building; $250,000 will be spent at San Jacinto battle field; $250,000 at the Alamo; $500,000 for advertising Texas and the Centennial celebrations; $225,000 for the Texas Museum at Austin and $575,000 for other historical celebrations.

In addition to the $3,000,000, of the state money, the City of Dallas will immediately begin the expenditure of $3,000,000 on grounds, street sale dumping of the metal on our government from China, India and Mexico—thus achieving a 1-to-3 ratio with gold and ending the buying before the maximum price is reached.

Hotter—Rail circles agree that J. J. Pelley's new plan for a modified pooling of freight cars should be really helpful—and hope it doesn't get derailed as a previous similar project did. The trouble was that car pooling is a pet hobby of both Pelley and Coordinator Joe Eastman—but they disagreed widely as to method. The result was a bitter private argument. Most roads could see no percentage in getting involved in that kind of a row—and so refused to subscribe to Pelley's first proposal even though they thought it a good idea.

Insiders understand that this time Eastman will give Pelley a chance to try out his prescription without interference—so it may get somewhere.

One of the first jobs the Association of American Railways tackled after it was organized was elimination of useless competition on passenger runs. The problem was toughest in the New York-Chicago schedules of the New York Central and Pennsylvania—so Pelley and his associates waded right into that. Atterbury and Clements of the Pennsylvania and Williamson of Central were summoned into conference and urged to cooperate sensibly instead of trying to grab each other's business. This noble idea was so well received that competition today is hotter than ever—with both roads slashing the times and fares on their fastest trains.

Blues—Reports are current in informed financial quarters that the government is planning to carve 40 percent off the liquor tariff in a determined effort to stamp out bootlegging and bring down prices Canadian liquor interests are rubbing their hands in anticipation while American distillers have those premonition blues.

Crucial

Wall Street has an attentive eye on J. Edward Jones' attempt to prove in court that the Securities & Exchange Commission had no constitutional authority to crack down on his business. The test is crucial. If Jones wins it will be a solar plexus wallop at the whole idea of federal regulation of securities markets. Right-wingers are doing a powerful lot of hoping.

Go

Anti-New Dealers have a high respect for Frank C. Walker and are bothered because he has been given such an important part in the allocation of work-relief funds. "He's likely to make such a go of it that the razzberry chords we've been organizing will have trouble finding theme songs."

Safe

Some intricate political maneuvering goes on behind the New York scenes. The Roosevelt Democratic League is pursuing a quiet campaign to bounce refractory Tammany district leaders out of their jobs.

But the stubborn Tiger lieutenants do not lack defenders. The high-sounding Smith-for-President organization is devoted to their cause. Comment runs that this outfit has as much chance of achieving the object implied in its name as a guppy has of eating a whale.

Complete Air Conditioning Of All Principal Trains On Texas-Pacific Announced By V-President Payne

DALLAS—Again pioneering in the betterment of railway passenger service The Texas and Pacific Railway has provided complete air conditioning and cooling of all principal trains, J. B. Payne, vice president, traffic, announced today.

Two years ago The Texas and Pacific was the first to introduce air conditioned comfort on Southwestern trains when its lounge cars were equipped for this ultra modern service, Mr. Payne said. The experiment proved so popular and effective that dining cars also were air conditioned and then all Pullman cars. Now coaches and chair cars have been completely equipped in the same manner to assure a new high point in travel comfort.

Regardless of how hot or dusty it may be outside, Texas and Pacific trains now manufacture their own weather to provide a comfortable temperature and clean, fresh air. Tightly sealed windows exclude travel noises while the air is cooled, filtered and treated before it is circulated through the cars. In the recent dust storms passengers in Texas and Pacific trains could hardly see the roadside through the windows, but the air they breathed inside their cars was pure and free from dust, Mr. Payne said.

Following shortly upon the completion of air conditioning service comes the inauguration of low summer vacation rates which go in effect May 15, Mr. Payne said. This means that vacationists who ride the air conditioned trains receive a far superior service than formerly at a lower price. And a vacation begins the minute a traveler boards an air conditioned train where manufactured weather is as cool and comfortable as at any summer resort.

idea. But it is far from that if you know the real reason for it.

The ships he would build may not carry cotton or wheat or machinery for a long time, but there are some who think they may soon be needed to carry troops somewhere. Other nations, especially Japan, are building up their merchant marines because of their value as naval auxiliaries. Our commercial attaches in the Orient emphasize the asset which Japan's new fleet of Diesel-driven vessels would be in time of war. Already they have driven American and

Financial sharps predict that action will be taken at sufficiently frequent intervals to prove steady progress toward the ultimate goal. But it wouldn't be advisable from the White House viewpoint to get there too soon. Completion of FDR's end of the agreement before the Senators have done their part might jeopardize the bargain. Cynics remark that the Senators in question will doubtless remain

FOR FULL MOTOR PROTECTION

Say "OK-Drain" — FILL WITH CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL

Modern cars must have oil with extra oiliness

THE development since 1931 of motors of 80 to 180 horsepower has brought about correspondingly increased bearing pressures and crankcase temperatures. Motor manufacturers have turned to new alloy metals of extra strength and durability to meet these new conditions.

For full protection of such motors, you must have oil with enough extra oiliness and film strength to get safe lubrication under extreme pressure and heat.

Yet motor oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength now than they had ten years ago. Some oils have less, because over-refining to eliminate carbon and sludge has robbed them of oiliness and film strength.

There is one exception—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. It, too, is free from carbon and sludge troubles, as its users know after millions of trouble-free miles of driving. But more important, Almen and Timken machine tests prove it has more oiliness and 2 to 4 times the film strength of any straight mineral oil! That added oiliness and film strength protect your motor under all conditions.

Germ Processing—adding concentrated oily essence to highly-refined oil—gives other valuable advantages. Because Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, a "Hidden Quirt" stays up in your motor and cuts down starting-period wear. Germ Processed Oil gives longer mileage with greater motor protection, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and get full motor protection!

MISS WILKE COMPLIMENTED WITH TWO PARTIES TUESDAY

Mrs. Cunningham And Mrs. Biles Entertain
With "Rose-Wedding Ring" Bridge
Party; Mrs. Harris, Breakfast Hostess

Two parties were given Tuesday honoring Miss Mary Alice Wilke, whose marriage to Edgar Poe Woodard of Stanton is the main social event of this week. Miss Wilke will be married in a twilight ceremony Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilke. Members of the house party of the betrothal tea and relatives will be the only wedding guests.

Mrs. R. F. Harris, Jr., was hostess for a bridge breakfast Tuesday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Pat Allen. Miss Mary Allen assisted with the serving.

The house was beautifully decorated with roses, snapdragons and other spring flowers.

Following a very delicious breakfast, the honoree and her mother and the party guests devoted the morning to contract. Mrs. Wilke was awarded a set of ashtrays for playing high score. Miss Kenensater cut for high and was given a candy jar.

Miss Wilke's gift was a lovely bath towel.

The guests were: Misses Wilke, Evelyn Merrill, Lucille Rix, Mary Vance Kenensater, Mary Allen, Emily Bradley; Meses. Wilke, Albert M. Fisher, M. H. Bennett, J. Y. Robb, Hubert Stipp and Glenn Golden.

In the afternoon the J. D. Biles home was opened for an exceptionally pretty bridge party for the younger married set who are friends of the prospective bride. Mrs. C. W. Cunningham was a joint hostess with Mrs. Biles.

The three rooms, arranged for play, the living room, library and dining room, were fragrant with many bowls of roses, honeysuckle and wisteria. The varying shades of rose were used in all the rooms; in the dining room a silver bowl holding pink roses was flanked by silver candlesticks in which stood pink whips. An imported lace cloth covered the table. A large cluster of white roses was on the buffet.

The party tables were bridled in theme and the scorecards contained pictures of "The House of Happiness." The rose and white theme was used in the gift wrappings and the gifts. Miss Wilke was presented with a refrigerator water jug in rose-colored glassware.

Miss Northington made high score and was given a double deck of cards which she presented the honoree.

At the refreshment hour, dessert plates were passed holding cake iced in white with a wedding ring iced in pink on each square, and ice cream moulded in the shape of a wedding ring and salted nuts.

Guests of the afternoon were: Misses Wilke, Gene Dubberly, Elizabeth Northington, Evelyn Merrill, Vance Kenensater, Emma Louise Freeman, Reta Debenport, Andrea Walker; Meses. George Wilke, Emil Fahrenkamp, Jack Hodges, Jr., John Louis Biles, Searcy Whaley, R. F. Harris, Jr., Hubert C. Stipp, Jim Davis, Lee Hanson.

THEIR ENGAGEMENT 'PREMATURE'

Asked if they were engaged, Merle Oberon, actress, and David Niven, son of Scottish nobility, shown together on the Santa Monica Beach, fumbled for words and then summed up the situation as "it's a bit premature for now."

After several very entertaining games were played the lights were turned out and a tray of gifts was presented to Mr. Alexander. Everybody was then ushered to the dining room where a large angel food cake with pink candles was lighted and counted by Mr. Alexander. The table was spread with lace over pink with a beautiful yellow bouquet of daisies in the center; lighted candles in silver holders were on each side.

Mrs. Ches Anderson sent in her resignation from the club.

Mrs. Winn will entertain the club next.

The informal spontaneity of the young Mexican actors who seemed very much at home on the stage. If any of them were overcome by stagefright they concealed it admirably.

The singing was excellent and the dancing good. The children wore colorful crepe paper costumes. Against the woodland setting their play was more effective than it would have been out of doors in this section of the country.

Little Miss Evangeline Valdez who was crowned May queen, wore long curls and departed somewhat from the traditional Mexican idea, but made a charming little queen.

The audience was vociferous in its applause and appeared to enjoy the program thoroughly. As a good will project the play seemed very successful.

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER...

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY

and its taste tells you why

BUDWEISER must be famous indeed to be chosen from all American beers for mention in Webster's New International Dictionary, just published. You'll find it on Page 349.

Here is just another distinction for the fine beer that has won medal after medal at world's fairs for more than half a century. Bohemia, in 1903, officially adjudged BUDWEISER the finest bottled beer on Earth, better even than native brews. France, as early as 1882, conceded BUDWEISER's superiority. The following is from the Paris Gazette:

"The most surprising triumph for an American product at the Paris Exhibition was the success of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, of St. Louis, which eclipsed world-renowned English brewers, as well as hundreds of rivals from Austria and Bavaria. It is not surprising that a great sensation was produced when it was understood that the experts reluctantly pronounced the St. Louis beer 'superior to any malt liquor ever drunk upon the continent,' and that all Paris is now seeking to quaff the American nectar."

Chapter 36 FAMILY QUARREL

Ja turned to Mr. Northrup. "That's James' own particular method of settling the world on fire," she went on bitterly. "Or perhaps he did it just to spite me because I wanted to have the house re-decorated and the two front bedrooms thrown into one. That would cost a trifling three or four hundred dollars, but we could not afford it. But of course we can afford to throw away thousands and we can't for nothing, thanks to you, Mr. Northrup, thanks to you."

"I'm sure that James must have acted thoughtlessly and without due deliberation," said Mr. Northrup slowly and impressively, as was his custom. "But I can assure him that I have known Mr. Preston in a business way for years and that there is no one among all my acquaintances in whom I have more confidence."

"Mr. Preston is, I should say, above suspicion," like Caesar's wife, quite above suspicion. Therefore, my boy, though I respect you for your scruples, I assure you you may take the case with a clear conscience."

"It's too late now. I have definitely and positively refused to have anything to do with it," said Mr. Northrup. "But Mr. Preston is still in the city. He'll leave, and he has always claimed to be indebted to me for a small favor I did for him years ago—nothing of any moment, but one he made much of. I am certain that a word from me letting him know that you had refused to reconsider your decision would set matters right in no time—in no time at all."

"Father, you are such an angel! What in the world would you do without you?"

James sank lower in his chair, grateful for the kindly darkness. He had come home emotionally and mentally exhausted after a long hard day in court. It was just his damnable luck that Mr. Northrup and Jane had to hear of this Preston offer, but naturally.

"Well, aren't you going to answer Father? Going to thank him?" snapped Jane.

"It is not necessary for James to thank me nor did I expect any gratitude," said Mr. Northrup stiffly. "I am only too happy to exert my little influence I have in your behalf. Only too happy, I assure you both."

"Thank you just the same, Mr. Northrup, but from what Preston told me himself, I am perfectly certain that while he may be above reproach in his business relations his private life is quite a different matter. This divorce of his is an ugly thing and it is sure to prove both a legal and social scandal."

It was seldom that James explained himself so fully or tried to justify himself in any argument with Jane, but he still had a vague hope left that if Jane could once be made to understand, if he were only clever enough to put things so that she could understand, matters would once more be righted between them.

RED CROSS MAKES DUST MASKS

Kansas Red Cross chapters are rushing completion of 10,000 dust masks, like these shown being turned out at Topeka, in an effort to reduce the disease danger in western Kansas. It is estimated 100,000 could be required to supply the dust-stricken areas in five states. (Associated Press Photo)

There's no use arguing with James when he drags in the Judge," Jane broke in cuttingly. "Everybody in town but James knows that the Judge is a doddering feeble-minded old bore who should have been in his grave ten years ago. But because the old half-wit still goes on telling James how smart he is James still thinks him a perfect marvel of intelligence."

"The Judge, my dear, has been a very clever man in his day, a very clever man, and it is altogether meritorious of James to accord his benefactor the deference and respect to which his years and attainments entitle him. But on the other hand, I agree with you, Jane, that the Judge perhaps, or, let us say, has outlived his usefulness."

"Would it not be kinder, my boy, and for the old man's own best interest for you to encourage him to stay more at home and enjoy the rest he has so richly earned, while you quietly assert yourself and take the reins in your own hands? I may even say it appears to me your clear and unquestioned duty to do whatever is best for your firm, regardless of the Judge's opposition. That's the entire matter in a nut shell. You must do whatever is best for the firm."

"The Judge is still pretty keen if he is eighty," said James angrily. "You'll admit his name is still a power."

"And you still think it wise to refuse this chance to make several thousand dollars rather than go contrary to a stubborn old man's entirely unreasonable opposition?"

"Mr. Northrup, I haven't talked this case over with the Judge. It wasn't necessary. But I don't fight women. Why— even if I tried to and did my best I— Just couldn't if you were a lawyer, perhaps I could make you understand better. The way I am made I just have to be interested in a case, be sure I'm right, before I can do any decent work on it—especially when it comes to pleading."

"If I got up in court and tried to blacken the name of a poor old defenseless woman, who had never done me any harm, just to make a few dirty pieces of silver, the words would stick in my throat. Can't you and Jane understand? Can't you see that I'd rather starve than make money that way? And that even if I wouldn't, even if I tried, I could not succeed in doing it."

It was seldom that James explained himself so fully or tried to justify himself in any argument with Jane, but he still had a vague hope left that if Jane could once be made to understand, if he were only clever enough to put things so that she could understand, matters would once more be righted between them.

Jane too should be the last to criticize his old friends, no matter what he did or became. What hurt him most was that Jane was forever insinuating that the Judge never amounted to much. He was glad that her father had at least admitted that the Judge had been a clever "Mac" in his day. What did Jane mean by it anyway? Was it her method of telling him that she thought the Judge was a fool because he had once predicted that James Stinson would be a genius and destined to make a name in the world? Yes that was it. He believed that was it.

It was Jane's subtle way of telling him he was a failure. Jane believed that he and the Judge between them had tricked her into marriage with a man destined for failure from the beginning. God knows it was hard on Jane, a woman who was meant to run with the hare, to be tied to a tortoise, but if she would only give him time.

Surprise Teams In Softball Loop

By HANK HART

Two new surprise teams bobbed up in last night's softball battles when the Flewellen Station Operators and the Herald Type Lice barely eked out wins over the V.F.W. and the Southern Ice "tens."

The Vets played their greatest game of the year and held the Operators in a deadlock until the seventh inning when three consecutive hits sent Herby Smith across the plate for the winning run.

Grover Malone failed to find his range and his wildness nearly led to his downfall. Although he fanned eleven of the Vets, he issued a total of seven free passes and walked in two of the Veterans' three runs.

Carnett was touched for a total of nine hits, three of which were by Duley, but managed to scatter them over the route until the seventh.

Herb Smith was the only Taylorman to collect more than one hit, coming through with two bingles. The Operators tallied in the first on J. W. Coots' single and two outfield flies, in the second on "Smitty" Smith's, Duley's and Herby Smith's singles, and in the third on three Veteran errors.

The win puts the Operators in a tie for the league leadership with the Mellinger Angels. The two teams will battle it out for the lead Thursday night.

Burris weakened in the latter part of the second game after puzzling the Heraldites for the first four innings and allowed the Heraldism to count a run in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

Savage and Williamson were the only Type Lice to count during the evening. Williamson pounded the offerings of the Ice men's pitcher for two hits to lead the victor's attack.

Guilkey twirled three hit ball for the Herald and never allowed the Ice men to seriously threaten. M. Kinman hit in two of his three appearances at the plate to lead the loser's attack.

Payne counted Savage in the fifth with his single into right field to break the tie and sent accounting for the other run with a like blow over short-stop to score Williamson.

Flewellen Blacks
Defeat Stationmen

A well balanced Flewellen Black Tiger team defeated the Flewellen Station Operators Tuesday evening, 9-5.

Malone was hit hard in the late innings and failed to weather the attacks of the Tigers in the sixth and seventh stanzas.

Robert Moore and Rufus Tucker proved troublesome to Malone with timely bingles, one of Tucker's hits going for three bases.

The Operators went ahead in the third inning and added to their lead in the fourth, but the Tigers counted four runs in the fifth to tie the count and went ahead with a two run rally in the following frame.

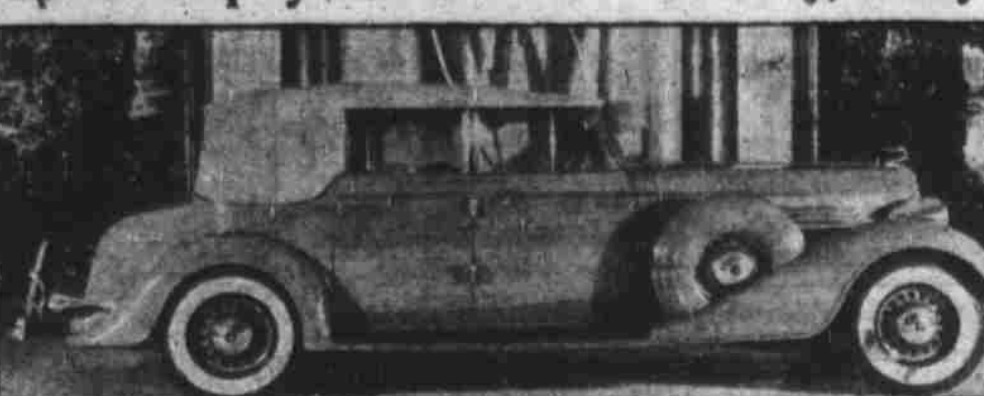

The Tigers will meet the Mellinger Angels this afternoon at 6 o'clock on the Mundy park diamond.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

At no time since Mr. Roosevelt took office has it been truer than it is today that the progress of recovery is better than the sentiment in business. Partisan Democrats have a number of explanations for this paradox which they find rather reassuring. But the wiser heads in the Administration would do well not to be satisfied with them.

For underneath the obvious partisan attack on the New Deal and underneath the propaganda from vested interests which the President has challenged, there are solid causes for the lack of confidence which can and should be met. They come down, it seems to me, to two fundamental things: one, to the fact that the program of reforms which affect the mainstays of enterprise has been dealt out item by item, with no clear view of the whole program and therefore with no definite assurances as to how far the program extends, second, to the fact that the Administration has decided to incur the largest voluntary deficit in our history without any statement of what it proposes to do after this deficit is spent.

The result is that a very large number of the ablest business men are in the grip of a nightmare in which they see before them an endless series of drastic reforms and an interminable series of budgetary deficits.

By a curious irony an administration which believes in the necessity of planning for the future finds itself widely distrusted and its efforts weakened at every turn precisely because it does not disclose the plan of its own policies.

Its spokesmen ask for co-operation. They do not get it for the simple reason that they do not tell their listeners what is the plan of the campaign. They must not be astonished if, as a result, many believe, however untruthfully, however unjustly, however fantastically, that this failure to disclose the New Deal policies as a whole is due either to hidden purposes or to the lack of any clear and coherent purpose.

Back in the spring of 1933, when the crisis was acute and the President's prestige inviolable, there was much to be said in favor of bringing in one surprising measure after another. But it is very evident that in this season of Congress it would have been far better to have followed the traditional procedure and to have outlined the whole legislative program in the opening message to Congress. It is bad for the nerves of the country and it is inherently undesirable as a matter of public policy for the President to keep the country guessing as to what his whole program is. For those who distrust him the fear of what he may have up his sleeve is paralyzing. For those who wish to support him the mystery is demoralizing.

The remedy is simple. The President should make it plain to the country what his whole program of reform is. He needs not and should not cross all the t's and dot all the i's on particular bills; it would be better, in fact, to say frankly that he wishes his program to be the result of compromise and adjustment. But he should make definite what is the budget of necessary, permanent, structural measures that he expects Congress to pass before he and this Congress submit themselves again to the judgment of the voters. He will, I believe, find the country far more willing to go along if it can see clearly the end of the road.

In the budget, the moment may not be altogether auspicious for a definite commitment. But it may very well be auspicious before this session of Congress comes to an end. Both the Secretary of the Treasury and the chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission have announced the reopening of the private capital market. By all the ordinary signs they appear to be right. Now if the Administration believes that the private capital market is reviving, then by the logic of its own principles it must also believe that the era of budgetary deficits is coming to its close. The stagnation of private capital and the government deficits are two sides of the same shield. The revival of investment, if it appears, as normally it does, after a period of refunding such as we are in, should mean the balancing of the budget. It is the deficit of private investment that produces the government deficit. The resumption of private investment should end the government deficit.

This presumably is the fiscal principle on which the Administration is acting and as soon as it has become a little more clear and definite that the flow of capital into private enterprise has in fact been resumed, no greater impetus could be given to the revival than to come forward with revised estimates which forecast the conditions on which the budget can and will be balanced.

Waggoner's Will Filed For Probate

Entire Estate, Excepting Arlington Downs, Left To Widow

FORT WORTH — The will of W. T. Waggoner, bequeathing his half of the community estate to his widow, Mrs. Ella Waggoner, was filed for probate on Tuesday. It disposes of real and personal property valued at $1,600,000 and names Mrs. Waggoner independent executrix without bond.

Mr. Waggoner, pioneer cattleman and financier, died on Dec. 11, 1934. His will was written July 28, 1923, revoking a previous will dated April 19, 1909.

Two codicils are attached to the document, one of which was written on Feb. 8, 1928, after the death of his daughter, Mrs. Electra Waggoner Gilmore, and the second on May 9, 1931, after the acquisition of Arlington Downs.

The first sets out that in event of his wife's death the estate is to go to his two sons, Guy and E. Paul Waggoner. The second gives full ownership of the Downs to his two sons.

Attorneys explained that Mr. and Mrs. Waggoner, on March 31, 1923, created a trust estate with the bulk of their property, including ranch lands and oil holdings. This is to continue until 1963, at which time the estate will be dissolved and the property divided.

Under the trust agreement Waggoner was the sole trustee. His death places the trusteeship in the hands of Mrs. Waggoner.

The 1923 will was witnessed by R. L. Moore, Vignun, and C. A. Hodges, Electra. The first codicil was witnessed by Mrs. E. T. Keibort and F. E. Kepple and the second by Mrs. Keibort and E. A. Corbett.

J. H. Barwise, member of the firm of Barwise & Thompson, which filed the will for probate, said that, to his knowledge, it was the shortest will ever filed to dispose of such a large estate.

DICK NEAL AND 12-PIECE ORCHESTRA TO PLAY SETTLES DANCE

Quality cucumber pickles have their beginnings at planting time according to Mrs. Lee Foley who, together with ten other demonstrators in Bee county, has set out to serve her family table with the best.

A special pickling variety of cucumbers has been planted; pure food regulations in regard to sanitation, handling, packaging and labeling are being studied and will be observed; and samples of the pickles will be submitted to Extension home industries specialists for approval.

After the ten families have been supplied with quality pickles any surplus that is left over will be sold. Working with these ten demonstrators every home demonstration club woman in Bee county has a goal of at least two gallons of cucumbers.

Dallas county women are at it too. Mrs. L. E. Orton, pickle demonstrator for the Irving Home Demonstration club, has as her aim bringing at least 50 gallons of cucumbers to be worked up later into good pickles.

Mrs. Orton and the other club women who are working with her are being mindful that not only the right variety of cucumbers is important, but that soil preparation and cultivation will have a lot to do with the yield. So, loamy land, well fertilized each year with barn yard manure, is in demand with these gardeners.

Also they have it in mind that the roots of cucumbers lie close to the surface and if they are disturbed in cultivation, knotty, crooked cucumbers will be the result. Any hoeing that is to be done is due to be gentle.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow Extension Service Editor

Quality cucumber pickles have their beginnings at planting time according to Mrs. Lee Foley who, together with ten other demonstrators in Bee county, has set out to serve her family table with the best.

A special pickling variety of cucumbers has been planted; pure food regulations in regard to sanitation, handling, packaging and labeling are being studied and will be observed; and samples of the pickles will be submitted to Extension home industries specialists for approval.

After the ten families have been supplied with quality pickles any surplus that is left over will be sold. Working with these ten demonstrators every home demonstration club woman in Bee county has a goal of at least two gallons of cucumbers.

Dallas county women are at it too. Mrs. L. E. Orton, pickle demonstrator for the Irving Home Demonstration club, has as her aim bringing at least 50 gallons of cucumbers to be worked up later into good pickles.

Mrs. Orton and the other club women who are working with her are being mindful that not only the right variety of cucumbers is important, but that soil preparation and cultivation will have a lot to do with the yield. So, loamy land, well fertilized each year with barn yard manure, is in demand with these gardeners.

Also they have it in mind that the roots of cucumbers lie close to the surface and if they are disturbed in cultivation, knotty, crooked cucumbers will be the result. Any hoeing that is to be done is due to be gentle.

Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann takes rank among the state's foremost lobbyist in his efforts in behalf of a measure for the public protection may be termed lobbying.

Mr. Mann proposed, sponsored and worked for the new stringent blue-sky securities selling regulatory law. The measure was passed without a dissenting vote, has been approved and is now in effect.

The young official gathered facts, figures and affidavits to show that the worthless stock peddlers driven from other states had made Texas a happy hunting ground. He simply asked the same effective control that applies in other states.

He showed the legitimate business firm offering stock for sale, not only had no objection to the law, but welcomed it as a protection against the fraudulent type of firm and irresponsible crook type of salesman.

Hereafter, any firm that offers stocks for sale must secure a certificate from the state department, and any salesman who attempts to sell stock without having secured a state license is eligible to be put away securely for a year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amounting when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.
