1976 Crop Harvest Tops Expectations

With an estimated 200 bales of cotton waiting to be ginned, and some late cotton still in the fields, to be stripped, Motley County's 1976 cotton harvest was much better than anticipated early last fall.

According to reports of the four gins in the county, 17,300 bales of cotton have been ginned. This does not, however, reflect the entire 1976 crop, as a portion of cotton each year is ginned outside the county. Motley

County is served by West Texas Gin in Matador, Red Bell Gin in Roaring Springs, and Caprock and Flomot Gin at Flomot. Approximately 75 per cent of the cotton had been processed at the gins by the Christmas holidays.

Grain shipped by the Roaring Springs Elevator was between 7 and 8 million pounds; according to Mrs. Pearl Palmer, manager.

Ten cars of grain were shipped by rail and this was the first time that the railroad had been used for shipping grain, in a number of years.

Economy of the county is reflected in bank deposits of $7 million as of December 30, as shown in the Report of Condition of First State Bank this week. The deposits for the same date the previous year were $5,993,905.

Livestock, as well as cotton and feed play an important part in the economy of the county.

Briscoe Appointed Pct. Commissioner

John Briscoe has been appointed to serve as Commissioner of Precinct 3, until the general election in 1978. He will fill the office formerly held by Odell Meyer until his death January 8.

The law provides that the County Judge make such appointments, in case of a vacancy, to be in effect until the next general election. Although the term of office is for four years, the new commissioner will serve only two years when he will run for re-election, should he wish to continue in office.

Briscoe, who was with the Texas Animal Health Control Dept., for over four years, resigned that position the first of the year.

Announcement of the appointment was made Friday by County Judge Forrest Campbell.

MEETING IS SCHEDULED FOR HEALTH PLANNING

In an effort to improve public accessibility to qualify health care at reasonable prices, the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has designed a nationwide system of regional health planning agencies, it is announced here.

One such planning agency is South Plains Health Systems, Inc., which has scheduled a public meeting Tuesday, January 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Motley County Court-house, according to John M. (Sonny) Russell, coordinator of the meeting.

"A health planning team will formulate a regional plan for improving public access to good health care here on the South Plains, using the information gathered during the meeting here and at similar meetings in the South Plains area," Russell said.

Mr. Russell stressed the role of local citizens in the health planning process. "We must speak up and make known the needs of our area," he said. "Otherwise, our community could be overlooked by the Regional Health Services Plan. Bearing that point in mind, I'm asking everyone I see to attend the meeting Tuesday night."

Whiteflat Men Are Victims Of Robbery

Vernon Higginbotham and Andy Zarate of Whiteflat were victims of an armed robbery at the Carriage House Restaurant in Lubbock, Monday night, January 10. They had been helping Mr. Higginbotham's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Palmer and Jenny of Roaring Springs move to their new residence in Lubbock and had stopped at the restaurant en route home.

Mr. Higginbotham's steak supper was rudely interrupted when a man with a homemade ski mask over his head pointed a shot gun in his face, wanting to know where the money was. The men taken by surprise, were asked the question again in a threatening tone. They assured the masked man they didn't know, but emptied their billfolds of the cash they had. He then forced them at gun point to the cash register where he had an employee of the cafe empty the contents of the cash register into a wastebasket under the counter. The group was then made to enter a small room where he was given two zippered bags of money. While in this crowded room, the nervous robber swung the gun around into Mr. Zarate's stomach warning him not to try anything foolish and also warned the cafe employee not to push an alarm or she would regret it. She was very emphatic in explaining to him that the telephones buzzed rather than rang when someone was calling. To everyone's relief, the telephones didn't ring during the robbery. The telephone lines were cut as the robber made his fast exit.

After giving the police officers all the information necessary, Mr. Zarate and Mr. Higginbotham remained overnight in Lubbock. En route home the following morning, Mr. Higginbotham who suffered a recent heart attack and was cautioned to avoid any emotional stress, had a medical check-up at the Crosbyton Hospital. After experiencing such an ordeal, the men were thankful they were able to return to their respective homes.

C.B. Groves Retires As Brady Secretary

C. B. Groves, former Matador resident, recently retired as City Secretary of the City of Brady, a position he held for 17 years.

The retiree was honored at a Christmas party by the Brady City employees and given a miniature electricity meter with a night light and enclosed in a glass dome. He was also given a certificate of appreciation in recognition of his many years of faithful service.

A feature in the Brady Standard regarding Mr. Groves, brother of local resident, Algie Groves, contained the following excerpts:

Mr. Groves was born Feb. 21, 1903 in Truby near Abilene, where his father was a farmer for a number of years. "In fact I farmed with him for many years," Groves said.

He spent an eventful life in West Texas and has spoken of living in a half dug-out as a boy. "It seemed that it never rained but we did have some big snows. I can remember that we used a wagon bed as a shelter for the chickens in the winter time. We took the wheels off and turned it over to give them protection from the snow. We propped the bed up with a rock so they could come and go," he reminisced.

He also recollected the first sheep he ever saw and the "strong smell of the sheep-herder's cabin." Groves graduated from Matador High School and attended A&M University for 2 1/2 years. "I had finished two years when my father notified me that a hail storm had wiped out our crops and that I had better make some kind of arrangements. I finished the summer term

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Maturity in a man begins when he starts noticing the indiscretions of his contemporaries.

Numerically our weaknesses are generally adequate to insure the clergy with unwinnable grain for half a dozen generations.

A thought is like a shadow passing a thousand times, yet failing utterly to leave a single trace of its journeys. But charity may pass one time and bring eternal hope to a despairing life.

Our new national economy has made the blue collar worker a man of distinction while his white collar contemporary is forced to patch the patches on his apparel to prevent arrest for indecent exposure. Labor has become an executive who presses a button to cause a machine to do his former work. At the same time the white collar worker is fighting the wolf from the door with a handful of degrees.

Home is a television set with chairs arranged in a semi-circle and food crumbs on the living room carpet.

Good beef steak is like an agreeable personality, making friends wherever it is served.

Any man might make the mistake of believing he is a wit and be only half way correct.

The most painful aspect of making an apology is that the injured recipient often appears disappointed in your lack of fortitude to remain stubborn.

If you can remember riding in a cane bottom chair placed in a wagon bed it might be prudent to see your physician a little more often. (Tribune files Jan. 17, 1957)

Cut electric bills

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.)—If you want to cut your annual electric bill almost in half, don't march on city hall but take some simple steps at home, a University of Texas energy conservation expert advises.

Energy-saving tips offered by Dr. Jerold W. Jones include:

—Increase insulation in the attic to six inches.
—Weather-strip doors and windows, seal structural gaps with caulking, plug air leaks at light switches and electrical outlets.

—Use 60-watt bulbs except in work or reading areas.
—Set thermostats at 68 degrees in winter, 78 in summer.

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.)—A University of Texas program that trains specialists who deal with problems of reading difficulties is among the top five in the U.S. and Canada, a survey shows.

The graduate reading program of UT's Department of Curriculum and Instruction is known for its pioneering work in bilingual education and for providing personnel who work with the public schools in regard to reading difficulties that may arise from learning disabilities or other reasons.

Master's and doctoral degrees in reading are offered, as is an undergraduate concentration for elementary and secondary education majors.

County Agent Pallmeyer Says

Livestock producers should be on the alert for the condition known as bovine coccidiosis, especially during periods of wet weather.

Cattle losses due to this protozoal parasite were estimated at $47 million in 1971. The disease may occur anytime of the year, but it often strikes when humidity is high and temperatures are warm. An important exception is "winter" coccidiosis, when temperatures and humidity are comparatively low.

Cattle of all ages may be affected, but it is seen more often in calves from 3 weeks to 6 months of age. Signs usually begin about 2 weeks after infection, and diarrhea is the most prominent symptom.

There may be signs of blood or mucus in the fecal material, and a rough hair coat is common and the animal can become severely dehydrated, lose weight and die.

Prevention of bovine coccidiosis is aided by sanitary measures that prevent feed, hay or water from becoming contaminated by an affected animal. Poor nutrition due to overgrazed pastures, overcrowding of penned calves, and constant feeding of hay on the ground in the same areas should be avoided.

Clean water from sources not contaminated should be provided.

A veterinarian should be called if a problem is suspected so that diagnosis and prompt treatment can be given. Worm medicine for treating other types of internal parasites are not effective against bovine coccidiosis. Most severely affected animals require additional care and treatment for recovery.

Livestock vaccines and other veterinary biologics are supposed to work, and if they don't the USDA wants to know why!

Few products have been tested as thoroughly as the veterinary biologics (vaccine, bacterin, antitoxin, serum or related products) before licensing by the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

Labels and instructions for use must meet USDA approval, so if you have followed these and the material didn't work, inform APHIS, USDA, 1100 Commerce St., Room 5-C-40, Dallas, Tex. 75202.

FACTS & FIGURES

There are about 45,000 young men and women in America who are members of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve. They earn about $1,300 while on active duty and a minimum of $643.23 a year for working one weekend a month and two weeks a year with the corps.

Young people who join the Marine Corps Reserve up to six months before they graduate from high school can earn money at monthly meetings and still stay in school, becoming Marine Reservists within 60 days after graduation.

Most Americans can get details about the range of programs and opportunities in the Marine Corps Reserve by calling toll-free, (800) 423-2600. Californians get the information by calling, also toll-free, (800) 252-0241.

Marine Reservists can take advantage of tuition-free correspondence courses through the Marine Corps Institute, or take some of the more than 6,200 courses available, free, through the United States Armed Forces Institute.
