

Soaking Rains General Over County

RAIN, THE MIRACLE has come to the Foothill Country, a metamorphosis has resulted in a sun and wind tortured landscape is alive and vibrant. New life is stirring in fields and pastures and new hope has come to the hearts of the people of West Texas.

General, soaking rains blanketed the vast terrain that is West Texas last week end. Every area of Motley County and surrounding communities report ample precipitation to relieve the prolonged drought. The rainfall here in a series of afternoon and evening rains totaled more than 2 inches according to Bob Stanley's rain gauge. Rainfall at Roaring Springs was about the same.

Some parts of the county received much more rain than Matador and Roaring Springs, but in all areas the rains arrived slow enough to be absorbed by the thirsty earth.

Ranchers would have liked the series of rainstorms to have been accompanied by fast rains to fill the water holes and earth tanks, but with grass growing over thousands of acres, the cattle will walk to water.

Field terraces, furrows and low places were filled with rain water Saturday afternoon, but there was no flooding. South Pease River east of Matador did not flow, yet there was water in the barrow ditches and small ravines. Tom Ball Creek flowed north of Matador but there was no flowing in Middle Pease River.

Where soil conditions were favorable, farmers were planting cotton Tuesday, but most fields were too wet. By Tuesday the typical summer sun had released more fields to planting.

The cotton planting season is extremely short now with approximately two weeks left in which to plant a crop.

Wild flowers are blooming from the highways and the Bob White quail calls. Rain has restored the might and the beauty of West Texas.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

Time had come to the old house and entered without closing the door. The flooring was in the kitchen where a family had been close, affectionate and extremely poor. The sagging was held pieces of faded wallpaper like fragments of the past still waving farewell to the departed years. A sparrow built a nest in the gaping window frame and tiny heads bobbed in uncertainty, a pattern that ever accompanies life.

If a lie is ever justifiable, it could be used with care to insure the ambitious who have no talent, but with faith, overcome the obstacle and achieve success.

The proceeds from a sound investment in love may be commended with a favorable interest rate with any firm that pays mutual appreciation.

Despite its unfriendly countenance, poverty is perhaps the best friend true greatness ever had.

The average honest man is aware of his stupidity, but when he surveys a collection of women's hats, his frailty vanishes and he experiences a strong emotion of his own security.

Thrift is an admirable quality that when used in courtship it may quickly qualify a man for a sustaining membership card in the Lonely Hearts Club.

The bands of matrimony and those of respectability and sincerity are wrought from the same precious metal.

Without the night, day would lose its identity, and without temptation, goodness would be reduced to sands on the shores of man's droll destiny.

Mrs. Monroe Latham and children, Marietta, Marquita and Matt, of Arlington are spending the month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jones. Mr. Latham joined his family the past week end for a short visit.

Delegates Return From Boys State

Three Motley County boys returned Thursday from Austin, where they were among 718 high school boys from throughout the state registered for the American Legion Boys State.

Kenneth Pitts, Matador and Melton Thacker Jr., Roaring Springs were delegates, while Don Tardy, one of last year's delegates, attended this year as a Junior Counselor, with an office detail.

Upon arrival at the University of Texas Campus, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties, the Longhorn or Pioneer. Each citizen then functioned as a member of his party.

The boys were also assigned to "cities," (14 in all) each containing 52 boys. Joey was a citizen of McCraw City and member of the Longhorn party. He ran for the Senate and was elected. He studied and passed the "bar exam" to receive his lawyers license.

Highlight of Boys State is the trip to the Capitol where each elected Boys State Official is given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day.

Kenneth Pitts was a member of the Pioneer party and citizen of Winters City. He lost his race for State Controller but received an appointment on the State Highway Commission. His city won first place in State volleyball competition.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 10,406 high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

Lions Impressed by 'Change Challenge'

"IF YOU are are operating a business (including farming and ranching) as you did two years ago, you may be losing time and money," according to Jack Springer, Abilene, Executive vice-president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who delivered an impressive speech Tuesday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Matador Lions Club, held in the Methodist Church basement. "We are facing the challenge of change," Mr. Springer said, "and keeping up with these changing conditions is one of the functions of our organization, which offers its services to all communities in 132 West Texas counties." He said WTCC is concerned with two vital programs that include (a) economic growth development and (b) good business climate.

"We believe that business leadership sells communities," Mr. Springer declared, "and that communication and understanding can solve any problem. We know that the people of West Texas are its greatest asset because they have spirit, the attitude and the positive approach to progress."

He said the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is aware of Matador's problem of securing a doctor and a dentist and that the organization is working toward that end.

Stresses Politics

Mr. Springer stressed the need of businessmen (ranchers and farmers) to take an interest in politics. "We are not concerned with your politics as long as you take an interest in them. We represent you in Washington and Austin, but you need more than us. We are concerned with federal encroachment on states rights and the influence of business men is needed through politics. There are approximately 12,000 trade associations in the United States of which we are one) but on the other hand 90,000 unions in the US are active in politics, and seeking to improve their positions."

Adventure For The Lord In South Pacific Begins For Harp Family

"Greetings, love and best wishes to you from all of us (the Bob Harp family) who are now in America Samoa," was the salutation of the first news-letter home following their arrival in the South Pacific.

Details of the preparations for the trip, and the trip itself were described in the letter as follows:

"As you can imagine, we were very busy during those three or four months previous to our departure for our mission work here. One has to undertake such an effort himself to fully understand all that is involved in making the decisions, writing the countless letters, making the phone calls, presenting the messages, showing the slides, raising the money, completing the plans, and taking care of countless details before being able to depart from one's homeland to travel to a faraway place to do the Lord's work.

(The Northeast Church of Christ in Indianapolis, Indiana is sponsoring the Church of Christ in Samoa at Pago Pago)

Exciting Departure

"After spending two final weeks in California completing these numerous 'last minute' details we finally (ready or not) boarded the big Pan Am jet at the Los Angeles International Airport. Many friends and brethren helped tie up the loose ends and finish many of the details that we were unable to complete.

"Such a mission project as this would be impossible without the help of the Heavenly Father, churches, friends, and relatives along the way. We are grateful to many of our brethren who were able to go to the airport to see us off on that exciting, yet in some ways fearful, day of March 12, 1964 to tell us goodbye at the airport. Even as the jet taxied from the ramp we saw some who had arrived late, run out on a balcony and wave enthusiastically.

"Our flight to Hawaii was very pleasant, except for a little turbulence near Honolulu. We spent three delightful days in the Honolulu area. Dr. Chun (an army friend) and his family were good enough to give us a sightseeing trip to Honolulu and Oahu. They also took us to the airport with our eleven suitcases and our numerous carry-on items.

Feeling Of Apprehension

"Our jet took off at 1 a. m. for Samoa. If we had been a little apprehensive about leaving California, we were more so leaving Hawaii. We certainly didn't feel like many of the gay tourists on the plane. Rather, we felt that it was all serious business, and we were all alone, one small family, leaving friends, homeland, brethren, and loved ones for a lonely remote region to which the big jet was thrusting us through the darkness of the night.

"After five hours of flight (and no sleep) we began to descend, and Jackie, who was seated next to a window, could see some lights on Tutuila, which is now our home, and the principle island of American Samoa.

"After the jet found its way through the clouds and rain we landed at the Tafuna airport. We were finally in Samoa and our adventure for the Lord in the South Pacific had begun."

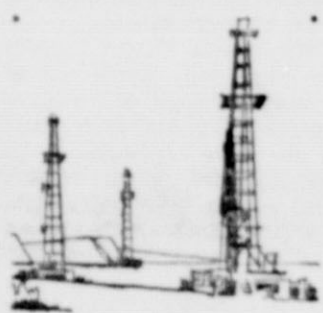

(Next week, Bob describes their reception in their new home, and the many adjustments awaiting the family.)

Medical Miracle

Ten years ago, the United States recorded 16,316 cases of polio paralysis and 1,368 deaths. These figures have been steadily reduced, to an estimated 268 paralytic cases in 1962, and fewer than 200 are predicted this year among more than 180 million Americans. Deaths were 47 in 1962, with no later totals available.

This great victory is the result of the medical miracle performed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk and Dr. Albert Sabin in developing vaccines. An estimated 212,000 Americans have been saved from paralysis or death since 1955. Research and other costs of the miracle total some 940 million dollars, but the nation is estimated to have saved 9.4 billion dollars as a result.

Sharing with the medical profession in the credit are millions of Americans who have worked to raise funds for polio research and treatment, to publicize facts found, to help administer vaccines. The worldwide benefits are of value beyond calculation, and all who have given a dime or time, have helped their fellowman.

This is why today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history!

Boll Weevil is Overwintering On High Plains

The most recent report on spring boll weevil emergence from "cages" placed on top of the Caprock last Fall shows that 10 have successfully lived through the winter and emerged this spring alive, kicking and presumably hungry for succulent cotton squares.

No further doubt can exist as to the boll weevil's ability to hibernate above the Caprock on the High Plains. This leaves cotton farmers in the area standing toe to toe with the cotton industry's most costly insect.

The report, made to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. by W. L. Owen, Entomologist for the South Plains Research and Extension Center, includes live weevils found in cages through May 25. Five of the pests came out in Garza County, two in Dickens and three in Crosby County. These are three of the seven counties on the Plains suffering economic damage from the weevil in 1963 and are the only three in which cages were installed.

Interesting to note, though not necessarily conclusive according to Owen, is the fact that all emerging weevils were from cages containing weevils collected here on the High Plains. One cage at each of the locations was filled with weevils collected in the College Station area, but none of these have emerged alive to date. This at least gives rise to the possibility that weevils in this area are of a strain better adapted to the cold dry winters on top of the Caprock.

The facts from this research report would indicate that boll weevils now stand poised on the verge of infesting the High Plains' entire two million acre cotton patch. Prior to this research which was instituted last Fall, many were of the belief that the weevil problem was strictly one of migration to the eastern fringes of the High Plains from the area below the Caprock where weevil population increasingly costly and hazardous for the past several years. Now, with what appears to be a newly-found ability to withstand High Plains winters, there is nothing to stop the weevil from engulfing all cotton acreage on the High Plains and even farther west.

Already the boll weevil is a significant factor in the operations of over 95 per cent of all farmers in the cotton belt, and control costs vary from $25 to $50 per acre where the weevil is firmly established. Furthermore, production losses to the post are estimated at 13 per cent annually in spite of control measures, and cotton quality suffers as well.

Winners of registered Poland China gilts in the Motley County Sears Foundation Swine Program are Darrell Cruse, Flomot, Pat Peacock, Roaring Springs; Tommie Green, Kay Cooper and Gail Lynn, Matador. Winner of the boar was Mike Peacock, Roaring Springs. These gilts will be exhibited at the county show on Sept. 19th, with the winner and the boar showing at the area show in Lubbock on Sept. 26.

Breeding date of the gilts is Oct. 12-Dec. 6, so that all will farrow in Feb or March. At approximately eight weeks of age, these members will return a gilt going under price support loan beginning with the 1964 crop. Mike readings indicate the fineness and maturity of the fiber.

Producers will be required to furnish a mike reading determined by the cotton classing office of the AMS for each bale of the 1964 crop on which price support is requested. According to C. E. Cox of the Altus Cotton Classing office, the mike reading fee will be 6 cents per bale if the gin makes the application for the service and all bales from the gin are miked at the time the cotton is classed. This represents a 2 cent per bale reduction from the fees charged last year.

A schedule of mike premiums and discounts is shown below: Reading of 5.5 and above, discount of 25; 5.2 through 5.4, discount of 10; 4.9 through 5.1, even, 3.7 through 4.8, premium of 13; 3.3 through 3.6, even; 3.0 through 3.2, discount of 50; 2.7 through 2.9, discount of 150; 2.6 and less, discount of 300.

Language Barrier Slows Work as Harps Adjust to New Way of Life

by Bob Harp

"When we stepped off the air-conditioned jet it was as if we had walked into a gigantic hot house. In the steamy hot darkness we made our way some 200 yards to the terminal building, a shack-like structure. This old building in now being torn down, for Samoa now has a beautiful new terminal styled after the Samoan fale, or house. We felt a little uncomfortable, and unwelcomed at first, as the natives eyed us strangely. In about ten minutes I saw Tolua Tavai, a Samoan lady and our contact in Samoa. She came and placed a beautiful flowered ula (lei) about our necks and gave each of us a kiss on the cheek. We felt better about Samoa already and knew that we were among friends.

All of our luggage was then loaded on a truck-like bus and we started our journey along the winding road beside the sea that carried us about 10 miles to the village of Lau'i.

Rainfall Average is 200

On the way it rained hard (tele timu). This was just a small taste of what is in store for us during our time here. American Samoa receives on the average of 200 inches of rain each year, and I really feel that we have had that much since we've been here. Many people tell us, "just wait till the rainy season comes." So as we made our way through the rain, the beautiful palm trees, and quaint villages, Tolua strummed a ukulele and sang a sweet sounding Samoan song.

Our children were very quiet and big-eyed as we experienced our first hours in Samoa. Upon arriving at Tolua's thatched-roofed house we were seated at a roughly built table and had our first meal (breakfast) of tuna, crackers, and weak, sweet coffee.

Our first day and many days since have been difficult, due to the heat, humidity, and lack of housing. We have been living in a large one-room house (a Samoan thatched fale) with a Samoan family. These people could not have been nicer and more accommodating, but for seven weeks we had very little privacy, no refrigeration, no bathroom, no laundry facilities, no running water and practically no place to put our clothes except in suitcases and cardboard boxes. Many of our clothes mildewed, others smelled strongly of the same.

Glad to Do Lord's Work

We have all been plagued at one time or another with the various minor tropical ailments. Right now heat rash is our big physical problem. However, we are learning to live in our new environment and are becoming better adjusted every day. Even though we have had many difficulties, and have experienced some loneliness, we are glad that we came to do the Lord's work here. We certainly believe that it is God's will that we have come to Samoa.

Although our beginning here is a small one, we "despise not the day of small things" (Zech. 4:10). Sometimes we have had only our small family for worship and on other days we have had 25-30 Samoans visit our worship services. Due to the Matai system (loyalty to the chief of the village) and due to the language barrier, our work will go slowly at first.

It will require time to become fully adjusted, acquire better housing, and meet and gain the confidence and friendship of many Samoan people. We expect, of course, to be teaching and converting people to Christ before we learn the language, yet we must be studying diligently so that in time we can teach people without the use of an interpreter.

Since the writing of the first draft of this letter we have moved into the apartment in Pago Pago. The upper part (floor) was already occupied, and the lower fixed a small two bedroom apartment in the basement. When the Governor wrote us that there was a severe housing shortage, he certainly wasn't kidding. We have here just about the same conveniences that you have in the States, except Jackie cooks on the old-fashioned oil stove, we have no hot water, and no washing machine. Yet we feel very fortunate to have found this place and are thankful for it.

Other Features Added

We are having to build some bookshelves, closets, and furniture now, but after we are fully settled we will be able to concentrate more fully on the work that we came to do.

Before we found this place in Pago Pago we had decided to rebuild an old one-room house in the village of Lau'i. For about one month I worked on this house. We put on a new roof, new screens on all of the sixteen windows and two new doors. The floor had to be repaired and the house painted inside and out. Although I had some good (free) help from some Samoan men and boys it was a big job. We lived in this house for three weeks before moving into this place in town. We have made arrangements to use this house in Lau'i for a meeting place for worship services, for a place to keep workers that we hope will come from the states, and we may go back out and spend a night there occasionally when we grow weary of "city life."

(Next and final installment of the first newsletter tells of plans for the future when other missionaries will join the Harps in their "Adventure for the Lord.")

Mustang Hardtop

Some people just didn't realize how much Fords have changed. Then, they came in to see Mustang—and took their first good look around a Ford showroom. They saw the hottest line of cars in America... the "Car of the Year" Award winners... the best-built Fords ever. They saw cars so smartly styled, so easy to handle, so good to drive, that they made this the best sales year in Ford Division history even before the Mustang came out. They saw America's leading performance car—the Super Torque Ford (hardtop sales up 54%). They saw America's most famous personal luxury car—Thunderbird—with sales up 68% over last year's record. They found out why Falcon almost outsells Chevy II and Valiant combined. And why Fairlane is a pace-setter in its own field. One look can make you fall in love with any one of Ford's 46 models. A test drive can make you a Ford man forever.
