TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The red hills with their rims of white gypsum rock haunt my memories because they were the stadiums where my dreams played when I was a boy. I knew so little of life that I allowed them to make their own rules, and the future was for always. Riding through the hot canyons there was no adversity that would not be overcome and the world would surrender its fruits. The years and experience broke the dreams to fine dust; only the haunting hills remain.

In the wake of a violent love affair there is seldom any place to begin a rescue mission after disaster strikes. The two involved may be of a mind to rebuild what has been destroyed or they may merely observe the ruins.

Some leaders are like balking horses and would rather preserve their stubbornness than to get up in the traces of cooperation and take their share of the load.

After many years of wearing shoes, I still feel the urge to take them off and go barefooted in the mud after a rain. My feet, however, continue to bear stickers that are reminders of the springs when I removed my shoes and left them off until cold weather.

Our mistakes are a pyre where we continue to add fuel despite the teaching of experience. A lifetime is not enough in which to avoid them and destroy the seeds from which they sprout.

Some old fruit jars are worth much more than their original cost. It is a pity that we of the senior citizen crowd do not have a relic value.

Keep a good deed to yourself and you will double the joy of having done it. To tell of it detracts from its original pleasure and relates the act to commonplace. Admirable on this selfish world, but less for the telling.

Rattlesnake 'Shoot' Scheduled May 9th

By Tanner Laine Lubbock
Avalanche-Journal Staff

This time of year, the old West Texas diamond-back rattler comes in for some conversation, not only because he is coming out of his den, but also because of a unique event called a "rattlesnake rodeo."

In the first week of May in 1949, less than a half dozen men gathered at the H. B. Wood Ranch, northwest of Clairemont in Kent county, for the initial event.

The gathering of peace officers has grown to become an annual get-together of the Caprock Peace Officers Association.

It attracts up to 350 lawmen from all over West Texas. The 26th annual "shoot" is slated May 9 this year at Clairemont.

The lawmen enjoy "visiting" and swapping information and experiences. There are no intoxicants. And no one has ever been bitten by a snake or received a gunshot wound.

Highlight is the pistol shooting at live rattlesnake targets.

The sharp metallic bark of handguns and the dry, whirling buzz of the rattlers are not the only sound effects.

Automobiles of the officers have radio calls going almost constantly as the lawmen must be alert at all times for trouble in their respective counties.

The shooters are divided into 10 groups - including various types of law enforcement officers, DPS, personnel, lawyers and judges, preachers, experts and professionals, and guests.

Winners in paper target shooting from each group, enter a finals shoot at live rattlesnakes for the grand prize.

A hit in the head of the wiggling reptile is worth 10 points; and anywhere else on the body nets five points.

Cecil Fox, retired game warden, of Spur, a veteran handler, usually "milks" the rattlesnakes for venom fluid before they are killed. He will be assisted by "Little Doug" Meador of Matador.

A barbecue luncheon is always served and trophies and prizes are awarded to various group winners and the overall grand champion. This year the top award is a pair of boots.

The "rodeo" was held at the Wood Ranch for years. One year it was held in Swenson Park at Spur. This is the second time it has been held in the town of Clairemont.

The event has been much photographed and written about. One year, newsmen received medallions - not for target shooting, but for "shooting the bull."

Long Drought Ended

HACKBERRY BRANCH of Ballard Creek was flowing under Main Street Wednesday morning. More rain had fallen in the past four days than in the past six months. A total of 3.21 inches fell according to Bob Stanley's rain gauge.

It started late Saturday night when the total rainfall registered .52-inch. It was not general in the county. Sunday night the precipitation was .88-inch. Monday night the rain gauge caught 2.1-inch but Tuesday night (all night long) it rained slowly and steadily, a total of 1.60 inches here and a total of 3.21 inches in four days.

In review, according to Mr. Stanley he registered 2.17 inches in October. In November 1973 he caught .39-inch, in December a trace was registered. January registered .11-inch, February produced .07-inch and March .64-inch. It is impossible to estimate the value of the soaking rain to Motley County ranchers and farmers. The earth now has excellent moisture for planting fields.

It is believed the rains were general in this entire area of West Texas and as far south as the Big Bend Country.

Women In The News Reviewed For Club

"Women In The News," was the subject of an International Affairs program presented Thursday, April 25, when El Progresso Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Ralph Stapleton.

Mrs. J. M. Hill Jr., featured three nationally known women, Barbara Walters, Sylvia Porter and Mrs. J. Lee Johnson III in her discussion of "Headliners."

Beginning with Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Hill identified her as Ruth Carter, daughter of Mrs. Nenetta Burton Carter of Fort Worth, and the late Amos G. Carter.

In 1972 Mrs. Johnson was named "First Lady of Fort Worth," for "putting concern into action with her contributions to cultural development, area beautification and education in Fort Worth." Her concern for city beautification led to the planning of the Fort Worth Water Gardens—a four block area built south of the Convention Center. She was also instrumental in planting more than 4,000 trees along the Trinity River.

Mrs. Johnson was one of 100 women featured by Harpers Bazaar in 1970 "In Touch With Our Times." She was cited for her "discerning judgment, knowledge and ability which set an example of the value of high level community service."

The editor-in-chief of Harpers said the criteria for selecting the 100 women was choosing women who reflect the direction in which the country is moving.

Mrs. Johnson originated the idea for the Arts Council in Fort Worth and served as its first president. She was one of the first two women members on the Smithsonian Institution Gallery of Art Commission and was appointed by President Johnson to the National Council of Arts Preservation of history, and advancement of education are among other of Mrs. Johnson's concerns, not the least of which is the Ft. Worth Children's Hospital.

"BARBARA WALTERS known for her reporting on the Today show, recently was honored by the Ladies Home Journal when the publication selected her as one of the eight women of the year for 1974," Mrs. Hill told the club. "She was selected in the field of Communication. It is said that her knowledgeable and incisive reporting have made the Today show one of the strongest of its kind in morning TV."

"Miss Walters joined the Today show in 1961 as a writer. She was hired by Dave Garroway, who was then the host. Primarily, she remained behind the scenes, preparing scripts slanted towards women, but occasionally she would be allowed to do a feature story on the air. One such assignment took her to India with Mrs. John F. Kennedy."

"A number of women known as the 'Today Girl' came and went. When Maureen O'Sullivan decided to quit, Hugh Downs suggested that Barbara Walters be given a trial, and she has been there ever since."

She has twice been named to the Harpers Bazaar list of 100 Women of Achievement, and Houston, Texas has named her "Woman of the Year."

THE THIRD woman Mrs. Hill reviewed was columnist Sylvia Porter, described as "the most widely read financial advice columnist in the country."

"Called the girl wonder of Wall Street, Sylvia Porter holds the unique distinction of being the only woman writing a column on financial and allied subjects for a major city newspaper. She also writes a column for the Ladies Home Journal entitled 'Spending Your Money.'"

"Miss Porter says women control 70 percent of the wealth of this country; 65 percent of the savings accounts are in their names and they are the beneficiaries of most insurance policies."

Mrs. Harold Campbell concluded the program with the Inspirational Thought, reading excerpts from Edith Deen's "All of the Women of the Bible," and called attention to the National Day of Prayer (May 30) as proclaimed by the U. S. Senate.

Mrs. R. E. Campbell Jr., president, conducted a short business session and served as program leader.

Others present were Miss Mary Keith and Mesdames A. J. Daffern, Fred Simpson, Robert Darsey, Raymond Davis, W. N. Pipkin, W. F. Jacobs, Ben Keltz, John M. Russell, J. L. Woodruff, Douglas Meador and W. D. Lipscomb.

BREAD MAKING

IS 4 H PROJECT

Monday evening at 6:30, Sandy King's Beginners' Bread Class made their initial batches of yeast dough using Sandy's own method of mixing and handling the "Staff of Life." True to her words, "There can be NO failures." Each student, including even a high school sophomore, Zanna Marshall from Afton, was successful in creating live, elastic dough that wound up as beautiful, crusty loaves of bread.

Zanna is doing a lengthy study of bread making as her own project in 4-H. As she learns from Sandy the many arts of creative bread cookery, she will apply those skills at home and then find means of sharing them with other groups.

For health's sake, for economy's sake, bread making is the IN THING.

TSTA Now Serves In 9 Regions

(Special to the Tribune): PLAINVIEW -- A new source of assistance to teachers in Motley County on school-related problems is now available from the newly established Region 1 office of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Nine such regional offices have been established by TSTA, to extend services of the Association's state headquarters in Austin.

Motley County will be served by the regional office at Plainview, with Bill Potts as regional consultant to assist the teachers in the area.

Potts directs the Region 1 office at 2700 Yonkers Street, Suite D, Plainview. The telephone number is 806-293-4606.

In the past, TSTA field service personnel have operated solely out of the Austin headquarters office. This office will continue to serve members on a statewide basis.

Functions of the local office at Plainview, which will serve a 55-county area, will be to coordinate programs, supply information, help TSTA local associations with member services and benefits and assist in workshops.

"We hope to be able to serve the teachers of Region 1 on any matter relating to their profession," Potts said. "If we cannot give them the information or service they need, we will refer them to those who can supply it from the Austin headquarters," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cooper visited in Dumont, Wednesday afternoon and evening in the home of a niece and family, Mr. and

Gambling Issue Fought By Anti-Crime Council

(Special to the Tribune) DALLAS -- The Anti-Crime Council of Texas (ACT) is working as statewide coordinating center in the campaign against voter approval of the May 4, 1974 referendum on legalized pari-mutuel gambling.

This information was released by ACT Co-Chairmen Dr. Abner V. McCall of Waco, president of Baylor University, and Mrs. Homer Garrison Jr., of Austin.

"Pari-mutuel gambling is not the only, not even the main concern of the Anti-Crime Council," said Dr. McCall. "But we did not believe we could shirk our responsibility in this campaign."

"Organized crime is a billion-dollar-a-year business in Texas, and its single biggest money-maker in the state is illegal gambling."

The Anti-Crime Council, formed in March, 1973, is a broad-based group seeking "to mobilize citizen support in the fight against crime." It has the support of Law Enforcement officers, attorneys and religious leaders.

In an unprecedented action five Texas district attorneys have joined in publicly condemning the May 4 primary election referendum proposition to legalize pari-mutuel racetrack gambling in the state. In a letter released Saturday, they appeal to all district attorneys in Texas for their assistance in defeating the referendum proposal.

Signing the letter were District Attorneys Carol S. Vance of Houston, Robert O. Smith of Austin, Joe Carroll of Temple, Tom Hanna of Beaumont and George Dowlen of Canyon-Amarillo.

Larry Mathis and the promoters of legalized gambling in Texas are "guilty of the worst sort of deliberate deception in their advertising," said Dr. James Dunn.

"Their emphasis upon horse racing ignores the fact that racing horses is as legal as baseball in Texas today," Dunn said, noting proponents of gambling largely have ignored the gambling aspect to make an attempt to pitch the May 4 referendum on "legalized" horse racing.

"Horse racing is legal in Texas. Gambling isn't," he added.

Dunn also struck at what he called "the local option myth which is perhaps more dangerous than the deceptive advertising."

"Common sense indicates that Texas would have no more than four or five race tracks in major cities. This leaves more than 200 counties to suffer a dollar drain and gain nothing," Dunn pointed out.

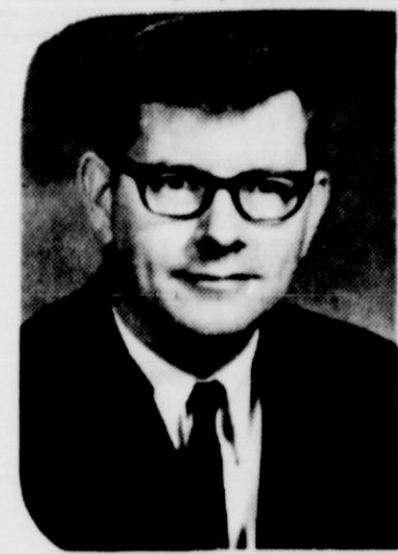

Colonel Spier of the Department of Public Safety and Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys are among others who have expressed opposition to legalized gambling, in the fight against organized crime.

COUNTY AGENT PALLMEYER SAYS:

More and more people are turning to home gardens and the rising price of foods is probably the cause. If you are planning a garden this year, do some thinking and planning because some work is involved, home grown vegetables are not free as cost is involved and unless you give attention to varieties, planting dates, soil fertility, the weather, insects and diseases, you may not be pleased with the outcome.

First, don't overdo it. A plot 20 ft. by 20 ft. can produce plenty of vegetables for a family of four, and grow only the things that you and your family enjoy most and those that cost the most at the store.

Second, learn the varieties recommended for this area. What grows the best in Dallas or Wisconsin may not be suited for this area. I have a list of varieties that are recommended for this area and these were selected on the basis of past performance in this area.

Third, know which vegetables are tolerant to cold weather. The average last killing frost for Motley County is April 8. Vegetables which are tolerant to cold weather may be planted about a month before the last frost date, and these include beets, broccoli, Brussel sprouts, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, onions, Irish potatoes and turnips.

Fourth, before planting, prepare the seedbed to a depth of 8 to 10 inches so that it is loose and not coarse or lumpy. If you don't have a soil test, apply two to three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 per 100 square feet and work in the soil. Then form beds for planting.

Fifth, when planting cover the seed with soil three or four times their widest measurement, especially for big-seeded crops such as corn, beans, cucumbers and squash. Cover small seeds such as carrots and lettuce with 1/4 to 1/2 inch of soil. Keep the soil moist, but do not overwater.

Sixth, once the crops are up, water them as needed so that the water penetrates the soil to a depth of at least six inches. Most gardens need about the same amount of water as delivered by a 1 inch rain per week during the growing season. Light sandy soils may require more frequent watering, and always water in the morning or at least not later than mid-afternoon so the plants will dry before night.

Seventh, or this may should have been listed earlier, less hardy plants such as snap beans, Lima beans, sweet corn, cucumbers, cantaloupes, mustard, squash and tomatoes should not be planted until about the time of the last frost date.

Eighth, use of transplants means an earlier harvest as this allows you to start growing plants in a protected area before the danger of frost has passed. Tomatoes, peppers and eggplant almost always do better when transplanted. If you grow your own transplants remember that you must supply warmth and adequate moisture for seed germination. The plants must be grown in adequate light if you expect stocky, healthy plants.

ALMOST any type container can be used to start seedlings. Cake pans, milk cartons or any container allowing for one to two inches of a good growing medium are adequate. A synthetic soil mix, such as a mixture of vermiculite and peat moss is ideal, some prefer ready made peat pellets or fiber pots, and others use a loamy soil.

Plant seed to a depth of about 1/2 inch, and water and place containers in an area where temperatures will remain between 75 and 85 degrees. Place the seedling container in a plastic bag to prevent drying out, and no additional water is needed until the seeds have sprouted. Once the seedlings have emerged, remove from the plastic bag and keep them in full sunlight.

After the young plants have reached the proper size for transplanting, "harden" them by placing on the porch for several days so they can adjust to outside conditions.

When planting in the garden, plant them only slightly deeper than they were growing in the containers. Protect plants while they are young and tender from frost, high temperatures or high winds.

Ninth, by using a mulch of straw, leaves, hay, sawdust, gin trash, compost, paper or plastic will conserve moisture and help control weeds. A mulch will also reduce losses due to fruit rot. "Don't use mulches on dry or cold soil, however."

Tenth, weeds can be a problem, and there is no one chemical that can be used for all types of vegetables or control all types of weeds. The hoe is still the best method for the home garden, but if you decide to use chemicals, check and see what plants can be grown and any other restrictions. Weeds not only take moisture from the vegetables, but they also harbor insects and diseases.

Eleventh, insects and diseases may also present a problem. For those wishing to use chemical methods for control, first know your insect or disease. Then apply the correct insecticide or fungicide, following directions on the label and observing restrictions. Most of these chemicals are poisonous, but if used correctly will not present a hazard for the grower. Bulletins on insect and disease control are available in my office.

Twelfth, don't put off until tomorrow what needs to be done today. Timing is critical and the one who suffers from delay is the gardener.

Recently I received a new bulletin on gardening, 'Home Gardening in Texas'. If you would like a copy, let me know.

Outlook information is received on: Cotton, Wheat, Farm Real Estate Market, Fats & oils, Feed, Food, cows & calves, calves, hogs, sheep and goats. Information on agricultural prices, demand and supply and foreign agriculture (sugar, coffee, tea, etc.) are also received.

In addition to this outlook information, bulletins on all agricultural and home economics subjects are available. I don't have all on stock, but do try to keep those relative to the county, and can get those I don't have in a short time.

The purpose of this office is to provide the information the people want, even though at times it may not be what you want to hear. This service is yours for the asking.

Range Conservationist

The coming of warm weather again brings the annual battle against brush on Texas rangelands. It is estimated that over 88 percent of Texas grasslands are infested with some type of brush and Motley County is no exception. About 70 percent of the land in Motley County supports some type of unwanted brush, with mesquite leading the list at approximately 360,000 acres. Other brush species include shin oak, juniper, sand sage, and salt cedar.

Application of herbicide is a recommended control on sparse to medium stands of brush. An area with extremely heavy brush and no grass cover should be mechanically treated and reseeded. Recent research by Texas Tech in Motley and surrounding counties shows that brush kills by aerial spray are much better when soil temperature at about 12" depth reaches 74 degrees F. and above. The recommended beginning spray date for aerial spray of mesquite this year is May 15.

A brush control experiment conducted by the Rolling Plains Livestock Research Station at Spur in cooperation with the Matador Ranch is proving aerial spray of mesquite to be economically profitable. With the assistance of County Agent Pallmeyer, records were kept on two pastures, one sprayed and the other not sprayed, with each pasture containing a section. Over a five year period a total of $9.11 per acre additional calf sales resulted from the sprayed pasture with a net profit of $6.76 per acre. In 1973, forage production per acre on the sprayed area was 3,052 lbs., and 2,105 lbs. per acre on the unsprayed pasture. The sprayed pasture has improved in range condition and has had an increase of 40 percent in stocking rate.

Cost share assistance for brush control is available. Contact the local office of the Soil Conservation Service or the ASCS for more information.

Proof Required For SS Number

Persons applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity and citizenship, according to Mance King, social security manager in Plainview.

The proof is required in an amendment to the social security law and applies to citizens and aliens, said King. "The new requirements are intended to prevent people from obtaining more than one social security number or obtaining a social security card under false identity," King said.

Applicants born in the U.S. can usually establish citizenship with the papers they use to prove age and identity, the official said.

Persons applying for duplicate social security numbers because they've lost cards or changed their name generally will not be affected by the proof requirement, according to King.

A person's social security number remains the same for life and is used to establish credit for retirement, disability, survivors and Medicare protection from earnings of the worker. Using more than one number could mean that a person loses full credit and could adversely affect benefits in the future, according to King.

A social security number may be obtained at the Plainview office at 1401-B West 5th Street or by mail. Application forms also are available at post office.

Committee and is also active in the interim as chairman of the West Texas Sub-Committee of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Water.

Texas Monthly magazine noted recently that Hightower is "regarded as an expert and able leader" and said that he "performed his duties as chairman of the Administration Committee with rock-solid fairness; he continues to be among the most trusted and respected Senators."

Of his race, Hightower said, "Serving in the Texas Senate for almost 10 years has been a high honor. I consider the Congress to be a new and greater opportunity for public service."

"There is a need to restore public confidence in our government. I do not believe the people have lost faith in our political system, but I do believe they have lost patience with politicians who are more interested in winning elections than they are in giving their constituents a days work for a full days pay - and doing it honestly."

"I believe my record of service demonstrates that I can run a Congressional office that will earn the pride and respect of the people it represents."

TO THE PUBLIC

I have made a sincere effort to meet and visit with everyone in the county during my campaign for the office of District and County Clerk, but it has not been possible to contact all of you.

I wish to take this method of expressing my appreciation for your consideration of me for this office, when you go to the polls Saturday, to vote.

Sincerely,
Mrs. R. E. Campbell Jr.

REP. PHIL CATES

Announces Candidacy

State Representative Phil Cates announced today that he has filed for re-election to a third term in the Texas House of Representatives.

The Pampa Democrat announced that he would continue to serve the people of District 66 fairly and honestly. "Both the District and the Capitol Offices are open daily during the week," Rep. Cates said.

"I am seeking a third term to the Texas House and pledge my continued support for (1) the development of a sufficient water supply for the Panhandle-Plains region, (2) frugal fiscal practices at all levels of state government, and (3) making good government subservient to the people, rather than the people being slaves to government red tape," Cates said in his announcement.

Rep. Cates is currently serving as a delegate to the historical making Constitutional Convention of 1974. At the Convention, Delegate Cates was appointed to the committee on the executive by Convention President Price Daniel, Jr.

Rep. Cates has served as Vice-Chairman of the Human Resources Committee during the past legislative term as well as Vice-Chairman of the sub-committee on water within the Natural Resources Committee. Rep. Cates also has a seat on the Agriculture Committee in the House of Representatives. He was appointed to the special interim committee on state economy by the Speaker of the House.

Rep. Cates has sponsored legislation against persons involved in child abuse, the bill to allow spraying instead of dipping of cattle for scabies protection, and he supports the concept of the right-to-work law.

Cates is married to the former Nancy Kay Holt of Pampa and represents ten Texas counties which include Gray, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Floyd, Armstrong, Childress, Briscoe, Hall, Motley and Donley.

After filing with the State Democratic Executive Committee in Austin, Cates states: "Nancy and I are grateful to the Panhandle-Plains Area for allowing us to represent them in state government. We feel even greater need for good government in the future since we are looking forward to the birth of our first child in September."
