MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE HELD

MEMORIAL DAY should be every day in the year, according to District 13 Commander Gerald L. Broadstreet of Castro County Memorial Post 8056, Dimmitt.

Commander Broadstreet made the Memorial Day address at East Mound Cemetery Monday morning. He is a Marine veteran, with 26 months in the Vietnam Action. He holds numerous awards and citations including the Vietnam Service Medal with three stars, Vietnam Campaign Medal, Presidential Unit Citation, Expert Rifleman's Badge, and Good Conduct and National Defense Medals.

He said that when a man watches a comrade die for his country, he will understand why Memorial Day should be every day.

Commander Broadstreet is the first Vietnam veteran to hold the District office and the first Dimmitt resident to become District Commander. In private life, he is a letter carrier -- and the first person to become a letter carrier in Dimmitt.

The speaker was introduced by Richard Turner, who served as Master of Ceremonies. The raising of the flag ceremony was by Matador Boy Scouts. Invocation was by Edgar Lee and Randall Whitworth led in singing "America" Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was led by Ricky Turner.

After the address, a salute of the firing squad was given followed by the benediction by Edgar Lee.

Later, groups of veterans placed flags at the graves of servicemen of all wars, in East Mound Cemetery. Veterans also placed flags at the graves of other deceased servicemen in other county cemeteries, the Tribune was informed.

"Little of the town remained after 1891, when the county was organized and Matador was established as the county seat."

The Teepee City cottonwood is located about 180 miles north-east of Matador, on the west bank of Teepee Creek.

fact, but decided that perhaps the tree was late. He was right, the old tree will never bloom again. It is dead.

The tree is listed in "Famous Trees of Texas" page 125, published by the Texas Forest Service, a part of the Texas A&M University System. It is listed as "The Teepee City Cottonwood." The article follows: "An aging, wind-scarred cottonwood maintains its vigil over the site of the first town in Motley County, settled about a century ago."

"In the mid-1870's, a 100-wagon train of settlers from Dodge City, Kansas crossed the small creek near the cottonwood and camped there on their way south. When the wagon train moved on, a dozen families stayed on to become Motley County's first settlers."

"The first homes were quite crude, but they sufficed until lumber and stone could be obtained. Some of the settlers built dugouts, while others built picket houses. The dugouts were built by digging into the creek bank, then covering the top and front with saplings, brush and grass. A rock chimney completed the construction. The picket houses were built above ground. Chinaberry poles, which the Comanche Indians had used as poles for their lodges and which they had discarded when they moved on, were set upright in the ground and the spaces between them were plastered with mud. The settlers quite logically named their settlement Teepee City."

"Buffalo in the 1870's were quite plentiful and their hides were a source of revenue in Teepee City. The town was headquarters for buffalo hunters, who sold and traded their hides for lead, dry goods and beans."

"Under the historic cottonwood stood the hotel-saloon-gambling hall, the only plank building in the town. Every time cowboys from the Matador Ranch came by, they stopped off at the saloon. When these visits began to affect ranch work, the ranch owners finally bought the saloon and closed it down."

"When the railroad was built west of Childress, freight routes were changed and Teepee City began to decline."

He is survived by his wife, Ruby, of the home; a daughter-in-law, Mary Spray of Los Angeles, Calif.; two brothers, Jack of Matador and Frank, of Pecos; and four sisters, Mrs. Lorena Lipham of Omaha, Nebr.; Mrs. Odessa Hothelkiss of Wellington, Kansas and Mrs. Gladys Russell and Mrs. Aline Briscoe of Plainview.

Conservation Money Restored To Farmers

AUSTIN--Agriculture Commissioner John C. White recently reminded farmers that $19,330,000 in soil conservation funds has been restored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to Texas for water and land preservation measures.

White said the West Texas drought and dry conditions in other parts of the state make the funds especially necessary to improve soil practices that will decrease erosion and maintain fertility.

The Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) is administered by Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices throughout the state. Those farmers and ranchers who are seeking assistance in soil saving measures should contact their local offices, White said.

"Land previously set aside for conservation has been added to this year's farming acreage because of the increased demand for exports," White said. "We'll have to develop even more acreage in years to come if we are to keep up with the world's need for food."

Pointing to diminishing water supplies in West Texas, White said, "We must maintain and develop the kind of soil and water conservation measures that have made West Texas a fertile area."

White said funds are also available to livestock and poultry producers on a 50 percent cost-sharing basis for construction of animal waste management systems. The facilities must be substantially completed by Dec. 31 to qualify.

SOON TO GO -- The former Motley Hotel owned for many years by Mrs. Margaret Newman, now residing in Hamilton, and her son, the late Tom Newman, is soon to be razed. The work of removing the building is now in progress. Located at the corner of Bailey (US Highway 70) and Bundy Streets, it was built about 1919-1920 by the late Judge W. R. Cammack, and was operated by him and his wife as the Cammack Inn, until Mrs. Newman purchased it in March, 1934. Formerly, it had been a residence owned by the late Mr. and Mrs. W. W. (Billy) Moore. More recently the property was owned by Wilson Cook, who sold it to Mrs. May B. Simpson. Mrs. Simpson has sold the hotel building to Bobby Jameson, who purchased the structure and all its contents. He is to clear the lots with the exception of the small residence at the south, where Mrs. Simpson lives with her son, Fred G. Simpson. Jameson is reported to be planning to use the material for some new construction near Jameson Lake, east of town.

Agriculture and agribusiness are responsible for employing around 16 million people, one-fifth of the total U.S. labor force, said Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

tion items -- interest, taxes and wage rates -- increased nine percent from 1972 to 1973. The USDA Economic Research Service reported that farmers will pay almost 16 percent more for these items this year.

Nationally, cotton prices are high and could get higher because of increased production costs and tight supplies. Flooding in the Delta reduced the 1973 cotton crop. And when the export demand increased, it was apparent that cotton demand would outstrip production.

TRAIL DUST

By DOUGLAS MEADOR

The ingredients of happiness are difficult to separate. Little families that obtain the bare necessities of life appear to enjoy the fullest of what they possess and seldom ask for more. They see others with all the things this bounteous world can provide and then return to bleak environments and lesser tables. Children, especially know less of poverty. Their little worlds are bright and joyful and happiness comes out of simple things. They do not know the great array of fancy toys that rich children discard after a small amount of amusement. They have found a togetherness with their parents that is more satisfying than a toy. They have found the simple and satisfying joy of love. In this modern and often, ridiculous world, children are at a disadvantage as to what has happened when parents decide to separate. The logic they understand, does not apply. The love that was the base for their happiness, is broken, abused and torn to pieces before their eyes. This tragic situation is a part of both rich and poor. Most children, however, adjust themselves to new conditions more rapidly than adults, and given a chance, find happiness more rapidly.

The old man was almost self sufficient. He had worked for a railroad many years of his younger life, then obtained the small farm on the small creek. His friends were everyone, as he sold the milk and produce which he raised. Customers came to his small, clean house surrounded by vast beds of flowers in the spring. He liked to express his belief in mockingbirds which he contended were a part of the world and paradise. He believed they would keep on singing all the way to the portals of eternity.

The comets were probably the first streakers and then followed by lightning when the storm first came. Moon streaking to the moon have set an example off the beaten path.

Cattle trucks are gondolas on the River Styx. They haul great loads of cattle to eternity and return to the ranges for other loads.
