(Austin) Texas Comptroller Carole Keeton Rylander released, last Wednesday, a list of 224 counties where businesses can apply for hundreds of millions of dollars in state full-purpose SIA designation based tax breaks next year.

HONORED AT AWARDS BANQUET — Charli and Mandi Ream received the 'I Dare You' awards at last week's Annual 4-H Awards Banquet. They are pictured here with Motley County Extension Agent, Lonnie Jenschke. The girls are Sophomores at Motley County High School and the daughters of Chuck and Gail Ream of Matador. See page 5 for more pictures from the banquet.

"Each year I review the economic health of each county and I am pleased to announce this important, new list of counties eligible for these tax breaks," Comptroller Rylander

The franchise tax credits for economic development were enacted in 1999 by the 76th Legislature and include a research credit, a job creation credit and an investment credit.

"All three tax credits are real and businesses large and small will benefit," Comptroller Rylander said. "The total dollar amount of the tax breaks will depend on how many businesses take advantage of this tremendous tax credit program." Motley County is among 117 counties eligible for the limited-purpose SIA designation. The Strategic Investment Area (SIA) is a collection of counties and sub-county areas where job creation, investment and research activities by businesses can earn franchise tax credits. The SIA is determined each September by Comptroller's Office, and the determination is effective for business activity in the following calendar year. Comptroller Rylander determined that of the state's 254 total counties, 224 fall wholly or partially in the state SIA for calendar year

Of those counties, 102 qualify for on their relative unemployment rate and per-capital income.

This designation will permit firms engaged in manufacturing, warehousing, wholesale distribution, computer services or research to apply for job creation and investment credits, as well as the research credit bonus.

Another group of 117 counties qualifies only for the limited-purpose SIA designation based on their population. Corporations engaged in agricultural processing in these counties can apply for the job creation and investment credits. The research credit is available to firms that perform qualified research activities in Texas. It is based on the firm's increase in research activities during the year compared to a base amount.

Five percent of qualified re-search expenses will be credited for tax reports due in 2002 and after. The amount of the company's credit may be as large as 50 percent of its fran-chise tax liability. Unused credits may be carried over for a maximum of 20 years.

I have been having a very serious case of writer's block. The past few weeks I am absolutely blank as to how to fill my space. I don't know if it's the end of summer blues or what, but I apologize.

Speaking of the end of summer, I am really looking forward to some real fall weather. I have always been a cool weather person. But at the same time, I love the gardens and flowers of spring and summer. The colors of fall are everywhere. Motley County has some very beautiful fall scenes, and they should be available for tour in a short while.

Again, as I type this, I am running very behind and should have left to get to the Printer's 15 minutes ago. So in light of my very serious case of writer's block, I will fill this space with some of life's lessons from the Strange as it may seem, the honeybee makes her honey from exactly the same nectar from the which the hermit spider distills one of the deadliest poisons known to man. The bee's makes up allows her to produce honey, while the hermit spider's allows her to produce poison. Only one brings a smile to the lips of a child.

Two people can respond to the same circumstances in completely different ways. One will use them to produce "honey" to the glory of God, and the other will produce "poison" to the shame of his Maker. Think of the "honey" that Joseph made with the circumstances his brothers provided for him (Genesis 37-50).

May God help each of us to take the "circumstances" of life and produce lots of "honey" to the glory of our Lord ...

It's tough to beat the Paducah

Dragons at Paducah, especially when it's their homecoming, and Friday night was no exception. The Matadors gave a gallant effort, but also gave up the big play, which has been their achilles heel all season.

The result was a 27-12 victory for the yard rumble for a touchdown. The two point conversion try was no good. The Matadors would not score again until the fourth quarter when Frank Martinez rammed in from two yards out. Again, the two point conversion try was no good. The first and fourth quarters were good ones for the Matadors, but the Dragons dominated in the second and third quarters. In the second quarter, the Drag-ons scored 19 points. Each of the touchdowns came on a play of 35 yards or more. Derick Jones scored first for the Dragons on a 39 yard run. Kyle Hays scored with two touchdown catches, one of them with no time on the clock after a questionable interference call against the Mata-dors on what should have been the last play of the half. In the third quarter the Dragons scored again on a

A fund raiser for a new building in Fort Worth to house the collection of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame honored Mary Ellen "Dude" Barton, on Octo-ber 4 near Abilene. The Perini Ranch Steakhouse of Buffalo Gap played host to about two hundred people gathered for dinner, dancing, and an auction to support the institution dedicated to preserving Western heritage. The hall of fame, formerly located in Hereford Texas, is under construction near the Will Rogers Coliseum complex in Fort Worth.

The honored guests, besides the Flomot stock farmer who was an outstanding calf roper, included Nita Brooks Roberts, also a roper, Dixie Mosely Reiger, a rodeo clown, Geor-gia Mae Ericson, a board member from Crosbyton, and several other inductees. They were treated to a viewing of a mock-up of the proposed building. At the new hall, each inductee will have a star with her

Additional credit is available for qualified research activities conducted in selected counties.

Companies that create jobs in selected counties may qualify for a job creation credit equal to five percent of the wages paid to workers holding those jobs. The credit is five percent a year for five years beginning with the year the jobs are created. To qualify, a corporation must create at least 10 new full-time jobs, pay at least 110 percent of the county's average weekly wager, pay health benefits and be engaged in manufacturing, warehousing, wholesale distribution, computer services or research.

Corporations that invest at least $500,000 in machinery and equipment can qualify for a franchise tax credit equal to 7.5 percent of that in-vestment. The investment must be located in selected counties and in the industries listed for the job creation credit.

"Businesses should be eager to take advantage of this generous tax credit plan which will create good-paying jobs for hardworking Texans," Comptroller Rylander said.

Jesus, King of Kings, please come our way Bring us memories of Granny today Lessons from her strong hands every year

How to mend a teddy bear without a tear Loving our creations from the ol' woodpile And eating our mudpies with a smile Dressing up with us just to go to town Her heart draped in a faith that knows no frown.

Poem for Elga Evans (Granny)

Sweet Jesus when you're in paradise tonight Please hold our sweet Granny's spirit tight Make real to her the things she taught us all Of your eternal home that stands so tall Show her the many rooms full of your love In the mansions of our Father's house above Sing with her the hymns she held so dear That praised your precious name for 90 years.

Jesus send your Spirit to make us warm To comfort and to guide us through this storm Dry our tears and warm our hearts every night And like her, always turn us toward your light Please fill the holes that she would always fill Give us your peace and courage when we are still And please hear one more thing we have to pray Teach us to be like you and her each day.

GRAZING CALVES

Ever wonder how much weight is lost by calves when they're first put on a wheat pasture? USDA researchers in Oklahoma weaned calves in the fall and kept them in drylot for 14 days on hay and supplement. Calves were then turned out to graze wheat pasture and were weighed two and four weeks later. After two weeks on pasture, calves lost 15 pounds. But during the next two weeks they gained 46 pounds. It was concluded that calves placed on wheat pasture, after a two-week postweaning period in drylot, need two to three weeks on been used for 25 years as a feed additive to increase weight gain (on pasture) and feed efficiency (in the feedyard). It has been observed that cattle on monensin seem to have less incidence of bloat, and a monensincontaining bolus is marketed in Australia for bloat control. But the mechanism of this effect has not been known Australian and Pennsylvania workers collaborated to study the effect of monensin on foams. Using a foaming solution created from an extract of red clover leaves, they determined that monensin definitely has anti-foaming properties. This may be the mode of action of monensin in reducing bloat.

Watch for, report, signs light of recent events in our country," commented Dr. Linda Logan, Texas' state veterinarian and head of the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC), the state's livestock health regulatory agency. "As always. individual livestock producers and private veterinary practitioners are our first line of defense if -- or when -- a livestock disease is accidentally or intentionally introduced into the state. The immediate reporting of suspicious or unusual conditions can make all the difference in our ability to swiftly diagnose, control and eradicate a disease."

She said ranchers should watch for and report any of these signs:

1. Sudden, unexplained death loss in the herd or flock.

Agent's

2. Severe illness affecting a high percentage of animals. 3. Blistering around an animal's mouth, nose, teats or hooves. 4. Unusual ticks or maggots. 5. Central nervous system disorders that cause an animal to stagger or fall. Through teamwork, the TAHC and Texas' USDA staff for months has maintained a 24-hour hot line for disease reporting," said Dr. John Lomme, assistant area veterinarian in charge of Texas for the US Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, Veterinary Services (USDA-APHIS-VS). "We take reports and dispatch a trained foreign animal disease diagnostician to collect samples, evaluate Monensin (Rumensin TM) has the situation and take appropriate measures to protect livestock health

There is no charge for the service." 'To report suspicious signs, call 1-800-550-8242. After work hours, follow the recorded instructions to page a veterinarian," commented Dr. Logan. "Be prepared to provide a description of the potential disease signs and information regarding the location, species and number of animals involved."

Dr. Logan pointed out that a joint TAHC and USDA-APHIS-VS "firststrike" force has been preparing to fight a foreign animal disease out-break or natural disaster affecting livestock. Known as the Texas Emergency Response Team, or TERT, this group can be mobilized quickly to address a disease situation.

"The TAHC also is a full-fledged member of the state's Emergency

"In a livestock emergency, we could tap the manpower of state troopers to provide roadblocks to stop livestock movement, the National Guard to provide depopulation assistance and equipment, and the support services of the Red Cross to feed teams," explained Dr. Logan. She also pointed out that the TAHC and USDA-APHIS-VS have expanded the network of contacts with local emergency management coordinators, private veterinary practitioners and industry liaisons.

"While preparing to fight disease, we can never forget that our most valuable and cost-effective tool is valuable and cost-effective tool is livestock disease prevention and surveillance," commented Dr. Lomme. He listed several things livestock producers can do to help ensure the health of their herd or flock:

— If you travel internationally, don't bring restricted products into the U.S., such as sausages, hams or other dangerous products that could spread disease. NEVER allow visitors or family members to bring these items on your property.

tors or family members to bring these items on your property.

— Launder or dry clean clothing and coats before you return to the U.S.. Shower, wash your hair and put on clean clothes before heading to your flight home. Viruses or bacteria can be carried in your hair or on your skin, so it's important to bathe before traveling. Provide arriving international travelers with a clean set of clothing that can be worn after they shower. they shower.

— Remove mud and manure from your shoes before journeying back to the U.S.! Ask the Customs agent or USDA official to disinfect your shoes and other potentially contaminated items if you've been to a farm, zoo or other site where livestock or wildlife have been commingled. Provide shoes for visitors mingled. Provide shoes for visitors, or insist they wear only shoes that have not been worn on a ranch in another country.

— For at least five days before you return to the U.S., don't go around farms, sale barns, zoos, fairs or other sites where livestock are kept. You could carry bacteria or viruses in your lungs, throat or nasal passages, and although you don't become ill, you could spread a livestock disease. Likewise, don't allow international travelers to have access to your livestock until they've been in the U.S. for at least five days.

- Report suspicious activities, intruders or circumstances to the local police or sheriff's department. If possible, record license plate numbers and description of trespassers.
