Lady Matadors Finish Season

by Syd Pipkin

Kathy, Chan, Paige, Brandi, Yulanda, the five senior starters, played their last two games last week. These girls have been playing together since they were in the 7th grade. They closed out their basketball career against Paducah and Nazareth.

The Paducah game was played in our gym to a full house. Several area teams came to watch the game as the outcome determined if Spur or Guthrie would be the 2nd place team in district.

There was no questions about the outcome as the Lady Matadors handily beat Paducah 70-40. Sharp passes, a tenacious defense and high percentage shots near the basket enabled the Lady Mats to take control early and completely dominate the Dragonettes. Kathy was top scorer with 29 points followed by Brandi with 13, Chan with 9, Yulanda 8, Paige had 7 and Natalie contributed 2 points.

On Tuesday evening the Lady Mats traveled to Coronada High School gym in Lubbock to meet the perennial class 1A state champ Nazareth. This was the one game our girls had pointed to at the beginning of the season. As everyone with dreams of a class 1A state championship knows, the road to Austin goes through Nazareth. This time our Lady Mats again came up short, but it was not due to lack of effort. From the opening tip by Kathy, momentary confusion sent our girls with the ball to the wrong basket. Chan and Kathy quickly realized the error, turned and drove uncontested to our basket but missed the layup, rebounded but missed again. By now the Swiftettes recovered, got the rebound and quickly moved to their end of the court for an immediate 3 pointer. The Motley girls carefully worked the ball down the floor but missed again. Nazareth rebounded and made another quick bucket for a 5-0 lead. This seemed to set the tone for the remainder of the 1st quarter and the Swiftettes raced to a 23-7 lead. Motley converted only 3 of 19 attempts from the field while Nazareth seemed to sink everything they attempted. After settling down from the 1st quarter jitters the Lady Mats threw up a tenacious defense limiting Nazareth to only 8 points, but our shooting woes continued at Motley could hit only 3 of 16 from the field and trailed at halftime, 31-13. The 3rd quarter was played almost even but Nazareth did manage to increase their lead an additional four points to 54-32. Even though it was apparent our Lady

Mats were not going to catch the red hot Swiftettes they did not go down to defeat without a valiant effort. The shots simply would not fall. Kathy had 15, Chan, 12; Paige 7 (3 of 3 from the field, 1 of 2 free throws); Yulanda had 6 and Brandi with 2 points rounded out the scoring. Natalie, Kamia, Amy, Brandee Spray, and Lacey played but did not score.

Special tribute should be paid to these 5 seniors, Kathy, Chan, Brandi, Paige, and Yulanda. During their 4 years of playing varsity basketball for Motley County these girls have contributed to four district titles, four bi-district titles and over 80 wins and numerous tournaments, defeating all classifications of teams from 1A to 5A, with victories over Plainview, Pampa, Midland, Greenwood and many others. Gusty play by these young women have thrilled their Motley County fans who have followed their team in all directions regardless of distance. They have been instrumental in continuing a tradition of basketball excellence at Motley county that is the envy of every team in this district and the respect of many larger area schools that learned many years ago not to schedule Motley County for a breather. Congratulations girls. And thanks for the memories.

A TOUCH OF SPRING is seen in this beautiful rose. With Spring Break next week, we all have a touch of Spring Fever. Memori Assiter snapped this picture of a rose received on Valentine's Day.

Tax Payments for February Second highest in State History

AUSTIN, Tex. -- State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Feb. 9, 1990 that his office sent checks totaling $156 million in local sales tax rebates to cities and counties in Texas.

This month's total is the second highest monthly rebate in the state's history with last February's payments of $157 million to cities and counties setting the state's record.

Total payments last February were $1.2 million higher than this month because a number of large audit payments were credited to the books last February, Bullock said.

This February's payments to cities totaled $143 million.

Houston received $24 million, the state's largest payment. Dallas received the state's second largest payment of $15 million. San Antonio received $8 million and Austin received $6 million.

Payments to counties totaled $13 million this month, compared to $12 million last February.

Merchants collect the state, city and county sales taxes and send them to the Comptroller's office with their tax returns. The state keeps its 6 percent share and each month sends cities and counties their portion of the sales tax.

This month's checks reflect taxes collected on December sales and reported in January by businesses filing monthly tax returns. Also included in this month's payments are sales tax collections reported by quarterly and yearly filers.

Totals for Motley County are as follows:

Matador: net payment this period, $3,401.38; comparable payment prior year, $4,536.89; % change, -35.03%; 1990 payments to date, $4,731.84; 1989 payments to date, $5,385.72; % change, -12.14%.

Roaring Springs: net payment this period, $3,237.05; comparable payment prior year, $2,744.74; % change, 17.94%; 1990 payments to date, $4,153.22; 1989 payments to date, $2,744.74; % change, 51.32%.

County Total: net payment this period, $6,638.05; comparable payment prior year, $7,281.63; % change, -8.83%; 1990 payments to date, $8,885.06; 1989 payments to date, $8,130.46; % change, 9.28%.

by Marisue Potts

The B-24 Liberator droned on to its target, the Messerschmidt factories in Wiener Neustadt, Austria. The aircraft rolled with the instability of the 4,000 pound bomb payload and the high altitude.

Gunners in the nose, waist, and ball turrets watched anxiously for the enemy pursuit planes they knew were on their way. S. Sgt. Owen R. Webb, in his cramped plastic bubble underneath the aircraft's belly, felt for the security of the hame strings riveted to his chest chute mounted on the wall, then once again gripped the handle of the ten millimeter guns.

Fiery flashes of flak hit home, tearing and ripping the metal of the plane as it dropped the payload on target. With the two inside engines knocked out, the aircraft, losing altitude, soon dropped from formation.

The pilot motioned for the crew to jump. Smoke and flames filled the ball turret. Groggy from gravity inertia, Webb traced the hame strings to his parachute and put it on, then turned his guns straight down to open the escape hatch over his head.

For the relatively inexperienced crew, this was their fifth mission. It had been by a roll of the dice that the four squadron leaders had filled their ten crew positions. Missing that day from the roster of 2nd Lt. Frank Weldon's crew was the copilot, 2nd Lt. William Johnson.

Trained in the deserts of the United States, the 98th Bombardment Group received action in North Africa. From their sandy and scorching tent bases, the 98th sent strikes against ground targets in the Western Desert and Axis shipping in the Mediterranean.

As the front lines were pushed up the coast toward Italy, the air striking distance to the heart of the Rhineland became shorter and shorter. On November 2, 1942, one hundred and twelve B-17's and B-24's held formation over Nazi airspace, intent on taking the war home to Hitler's war effort, the ball bearing and plane factories of Austria.

Forty Six Years Later Webb Receives Inquiry

All of this action, now forty-six years in the past and numerous wars later, was brought to mind recently as Raby Webb received a letter from Bill Johnson who had uncovered a copy of their orders to ship out. "When you guys didn't return," he wrote, "I checked with many who were on the mission that day, and everyone reported no parachutes were seen...I have many questions about what actually happened...Anything you can tell me to fill that huge gap of information would really help."

Though not spotted, four members of the crew did parachute, not to safety but into the arms of the German Army. When Raby landed the Germans were more

A Letter From The Past

As the American wrapped up his bleeding hand, hit from 20 millimeter shells of pursuit planes, an old woman appeared from the crowd and assisted him. She disappeared for a time and returned with an apple and piece of pie. "Probably," Raby explains her behavior, "she had sons of her own."

At the hospital a doctor from Holland, also a prisoner of war, operated on the wounded hand, threatened by amputation. With his hand intact, Webb was escorted by a lone German soldier via train to a hospital in Frankfurt. There he recuperated for six weeks, interrupted by daily interrogations. By his side was a German airman, paralyzed by a bullet in the back, who shared his USO treats with Raby, just yesterday the American "enemy."

With a growing number of POW's, Webb, was taken to the old Frankfurt depot and loaded into closed box cars for the trip to Krems, Austria, where a World War I POW camp had been reactivated on the Danube under the name Stalag XVII-B.

Assigned a prisoner number, Webb spent the first few days at the hospital before being assigned to a barrack of about two hundred men. The POW's slept twelve to a bed, nose to toe. Since the barracks were unheated and the winters cold and snowy, men slept in the daytime and walked around, keeping warm, at night.

One washroom with its long row of open-holders, back to back, had to serve four hundred prisoners. Withholding the use of water was a means of German control and discipline.

latrines was overwhelming. Nonetheless, "Honey Wagons" came to dip out the accumulation for use as fertilizer on the nearby potato fields.

Rated right up there at the top of the list with fleas and lice, was the problem of boredom, a demoralizing enemy. The men kept busy by playing cards and sports, teaching and attending classes in "practically everything," establishing a news network, and performing three-act plays, complete with comely female impersonators and backdrops created from Red Cross boxes.

One crafty photographer amazingly took or bribed guards to take pictures of all aspects of camp life. Once Ben Phelper returned home, the developed film became the basis for "Kriggie Memories," a documentary of Stalag XVII, in all its infamous glory.

Stale black bread and watery rutabaga soup made up the main portion of their diet, while the Red Cross packages provided supplements of canned goods, chocolate D-Bars, and cigarettes. The Red Cross trucks, the canvas marked with a large red cross, rolled in the gates, delivering about seven pounds of supplies for two men for a week.

"Had it not been for the Red Cross, I would not be here today," Raby confided while extolling the virtues of an organization capable of delivering the goods where others found it impossible to get through. Whatever the current management problems, "No one criticizes the Red Cross in front of me," he emphasized.

To curb smuggling or black marketing perhaps, the Germans bayoneted each can of food, warning of the dire consequences if anyone was caught with cans

How-to Video to help Farmers Meet Conservation Deadline

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service and the National Association of Conservation Districts have produced a "how-to video-tape to help farmers carry out their conservation compliance plans under provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill. "Over the next 5 years, we'll be helping farmers carry out their conservation plans on nearly 140 million acres of highly erodible land. Many farmers will be doing the work themselves and we feel these tapes will be helpful," said SCS Chief Wilson Scaling. "With the December 31, 1994 implementation deadline for farmers to stay eligible for USDA farm program benefits, our SCS personnel still have an enormous workload. We appreciate the many farmers who will be applying their own conservation practices. We encourage them to call their local Soil Conservation Service (SCS) or conservation district office first for information we feel may help in adapting the practices to their land."

The hour-long tape, entitled "Conservation On Your Own," features eight segments on widely used soil conservation practices: (1) how to measure and manage crop residues; (2) how to lay out contour lines and use field borders; (3) how to lay out wind strips; (6) how to control small gullies with grass; (7) how to plant and maintain a field windbreak; and (8) how to keep your terraces working. "Each SCS office in Texas has a copy of the videotape," says Harry W. Oneth, state conservationist. "The videotape will be available for loan from local SCS or conservation district offices. Landowners are encouraged to view the tape at their convenience." For more information, contact District Conservationist James Gillespie at 347-2263 in Matador. All programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture are available without regard to race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin.

LIBRARY NOTES

by Wilda Dixon

Recent visitors to our Library were Sarah Lee Morris of Lubbock and Fielding E. Lee, Jr. of Colorado City. We thank these visitors for coming to the Library and we welcome all visitors at all times. February 14, the Friends of the Library honored Jimmie Hunter, retired Librarian, with a farewell tea. The community room was decorated with valentine balloons and silk roses. Those that attended were served a variety of cookies and hot spiced tea. Hostesses included Marisue Potts, Earline Vaughn, Wilda Dixon, Freda Keahey and Earlyne Jameson. The Friends would like to thank those that come by to wish Jimmie well. The Library has received and processed one book this past week. It is entitled 27 and is by William Diehl. This novel is set in Nazi Germany and is full of suspense and thrills as WWII begins. Tuesday, February 27 was the regular Library School and there were 23 children and five adults present. Jimmie Hunter was in charge and told the story, "Yertle the Turtle" by Dr. Seuss. They also saw the video, "The Turtle Family" and made caterpillars out of cereal. Those children in attendance included the following: Emily Hurt, Cole Grundy, John Wesley Stevens, Tamara Wilson, Cassie, Kittie, Britt and JoBeth Campbell, Charissa Conner and Brittany Moore (daughter of Kyle and Jeannie). Also attending were Brittany Perryman, Brittany Moore (daughter of Ronda), Dakota Chantry Meyer, Timothy Bowman, Clint Cooper, Brenda Gillespie, Amanda Hurt, Derrick Griggs, Mont Darsey, Lacy Carson, Brett Wallace and Colby Ashley. The adults were Jimmie Hunter, Sarah Hurt, Winifred Lee, Keisha Ashley and Judy Griggs.

intact. Empty cans were piled against the barbed wire fence to warn guards of an escape attempt. The coveted chocolate bars and cigarettes became the medium of exchange, among the prisoners themselves, with the guards, as well as the workers outside the compound. By tossing packages of cigarettes with notes attached, prisoners were able to secure the quartz crystals, ear pieces, and copper wire necessary for building secret receivers. "Often we knew more about where the front was than the guards," Raby revealed. Sometimes the guards would ferret out the receivers, but the prisoners would build new ones. As the front lines marched nearer, the prisoners of war could hear the artillery. With the Russians coming closer, 4,000 prisoners marched out of Stalag XVII-B toward Germany, to be sandwiched between two fronts. For seventeen days the airmen marched through the ravaged countryside, falling out to rest by the side of the road, guarded by tired old men. Ruins of medieval castles were spotted on the hillsides as they climbed the mountain passes. The boys without cigarettes, soap, or other items to trade went hungry, since the Germans could only feed the men every second or third day. Despite the hardships, the prisoners joked, shared news, and held up military traffic whenever possible. At Linz the POWs hurriedly marched through the bombed Austrian city. Civilians knew them as the feared and hated "fliegergansters." Soldiers asked why the airmen bombed women and children. "Since the war industry areas were not evacuated," the Americans replied, "we were forced to do our duty as ordered." When they arrived at the fork of the Inns and Salzach rivers, camp was set up. Some, feeling repatriation was very near, slept in the open, while those a little more pessimistic built shelters of logs, bark, and tree limbs. During the frequent rain, shelters were of little value. The biggest camp chore involved climbing down the steep banks and returning with some unspilled water. To keep warm, they drank lots of hot cocoa and coffee which, in turn, required a visit to the slit trench latrines. More than one G.I., weakened from dysentery, fell in the trench and had to be retrieved. Food, Food, Food. The thought of food filled every waking moment and extended into dreams. "It wasn't the gourmet things we craved," Raby remembered of those dark days. "It was red beans, potatoes, bread, the common things." After eighteen months of internment, Raby Webb was among those wildly cheering G.I.'s who watched an American Captain marched into camp, proclaiming that these men were no longer POW's but American soldiers. Within a few days, the men were flown to France and from there were sent home leisurely, to give the men time to regain their weight and strength before hitting stateside. Raby summed up his experience this way, "Under stress, the good and bad stick out real quick. And the beautiful part is that there are more people who want to do right (with the idea of) let's all stay together, let's all get home." And the absent co-pilot, Bill Johnson, who fortunately missed all this togetherness? Johnson filled in for several crews as co-pilot until he made aircraft commander and flew twenty-two missions out of North Africa and Italy. Then from England he and his crew flew an additional twenty-two missions, right up to D-Day on June 6, 1944. From there he returned stateside as an instructor of B-24's and later ferried aircraft around the states. After the war, Johnson worked for an airline for thirty-five years before retiring in 1979. After forty-six years Webb and Johnson are trading adventure stories and counting "coup." Each man served his country. Each man in his own way, in his own time. But for a roll of the dice, their lives could have been entirely different.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

A fellow was asked, "Why did you pick out Helen for a girlfriend?" "Because," explained Bill, "she's different." "In what way?" came the question. "She's the only girl who'd have me," said Bill. Really, you're different. There's only one like you. And there'll never be another you. So you're important. And the Lord will have you. He wants to do through you what He hasn't done through anyone else. If you fail to let the Lord have His way with you, you'll leave a big hole in life. Only the Lord can make you what you're intended to become. Why don't you let Him have His way with you?

Memori's Memoirs

by Memori Assiter

We've began a new six weeks and a new sports season at MCHS. Yes, it is already that time. Track, golf, and tennis season is here.

Coach Bob Moore needs to be commended for his work as athletic director. He has done a fabulous job scheduling the sporting events for the year. Coach Jerry Bass, Cagle Davis, and Charlie Johnson are this years track coaches. Coach Maurice Hodges and Coach Moore are the golf coaches. This years tennis coach is Coach Syd Pipkin. I would like to wish all of the teams and coaches luck in their events.

Spring Break is next week and many students are making plans to leave town. I hope everyone has a great time and that the skiers don't break any legs!

RAISING SPIRIT and leading cheers for the Lady Matadors in their play-off games were Varsity Cheerleaders, Aimee Pipkin and Tonya Hoyle and Mascot, Cathey Perryman. When the Jr. Varsity girls season ended and the Varsity girls team advanced to the playoffs, these three girls chose to fulfill their duties as Varsity Cheerleaders rather than suit up with the Varsity team like the other J.V. girls were invited to do. These girls did an excellent job and are to be commended on their school spirit and talented enthusiasm. The Lady Matadors are also to be commended on their unselfish invitation to include the J.V. girls in their play-off games.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

A disabled discouraged Veteran to read about our Judicial system to let our flag be so distorted by the people we give out passports and Visas and allow asylum when they criticize our country and burn our flag is a shame. Let's correct the Judicial system and the Judges sentence by asking for his resignation of his seat as Judge.

DISCRACEFUL! Crazed Iranian Tries to Burn Our Flag Then Gets to Live in America by John Blosser

An Iranian madman who tried to burn the American flag while shouting, "I hate America" and calling Americans "pigs" has been granted the right to live in our country!

Shockingly, besides hating Uncle Sam with a passion, the man has been diagnosed with the severe mental disorder schizophrenia!

"There are literally millions who would do anything they could to get into this country - and here we use one of our scarce visas on someone who wanted to burn our flag!" fumed a spokesman for the Federation for American Immigration Reform (FAIR).

Moein Ghavami-Pakdehi, 30, came to the U.S. in 1987 on a student visa.

On Feb. 1, 1988, he was arrested in San Antonio after he tore an American flag off its pole and tried to set it afire with his cigarette lighter.

"He kept calling Americans 'pigs' and shouting all kinds of obscenities," revealed Police Officer Noble Ozment. "He kept saying, 'Down with America. I hate America!'"

Deportation proceedings were started against Ghavami, but he appealed for asylum, claiming he would be persecuted by the Iranian government if he was forced to return to his homeland.

Incredibly, Ghavami won his appeal before San Antonio immigration Judge Richard Brodsky and was allowed to remain in the U.S. He was granted political asylum which gives him full-time legal U.S. residency.

Declared Wade LaDue, public relations director for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, "This is ridiculous!"

"He should be sent back to Iran to take his chances. I wonder what would happen to him if he burned an Iranian flag there?"

John Deptula
A Disabled Veteran

OUTRAGEOUS: Iranian madman Moein Ghavami-Pakdehi has been given the right to stay in America, even though he tried to burn the flag.

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

Representative payees are appointed to handle the funds of social security beneficiaries who are unable to handle their own funds. To carry out this responsibility, the representative payee must keep informed of the person's current and future needs.

The representative payee's first responsibility is to make certain that the person's day to day needs for food, clothing, shelter, and personal expenses are met. Beneficiaries who can handle small amounts of spending money should have this made available to them. Social Security benefits may then be used for any special needs, such as school expenses, rehabilitation or medical expenses, insurance premiums, or payments on a house in which the person has an interest.

Any money that remains after basic and special needs are met must be saved or invested; money should not be kept at home where it can be lost or stolen, and should not be mixed with the representative payee's own funds. Preferred investments are United States savings bonds. These should be registered in the name of the beneficiary and with his or her social security number. The representative payee is listed in his or her capacity.

Surplus funds should be kept in an interest-bearing account that shows the beneficiary as owner.

Additional information about benefits and the role of the representative payee may be obtained from any Social Security office.

For more information or to file a claim call 1-800-2345-SSA.

Just the Facts Ma'am

by Becky McPherson
District Attorney

You may have read in this paper about the trauma the Ronald Morris family is going through right now. Ronald Morris, a Hale County Commissioner, was at his precinct barn one morning when his son-in-law, Don Terrell, walked in and shot him. Don Terrell then told the precinct employees he would be at his place of business and then stepped over Ronald Morris' dead body and left. On December 19, 1986, a Swisher County jury sentenced Don Terrell to 50 years in the Texas Department of Corrections. Now, just a little more than three years later, Don Terrell is eligible for parole because the Court of Criminal Appeals has ruled that besides indicting a defendant for murder, the State also has to give him special notice that he used a deadly weapon when he killed the victim. If a defendant is found guilty of murder but there is not a special finding of a deadly weapon, then a defendant becomes eligible for parole sooner. Then the Court of Criminal Appeals said, "Oh, by the way, State of Texas" this applies to cases that were indicted even before we made this rule.

The Court of Criminal Appeals is the highest criminal appellate court in Texas and this is only one of the ridiculous rulings they have handed down over the recent years. When people hear about rules like this one, they say "Where do these judges come from?" Well, you elect them, and when you cast your ballot without finding anything out about the candidate, you are giving the elected judges carte blanche to make such ruling that favor the criminals and say to heck with the victims.

In the March 13th primary, you will have an opportunity to vote for candidates vying for three contested places on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

In Place #1, there are three Democratic and two Republican candidates. Jeff Van Horn, Morris Overstreet and Frank Maloney are the Democratic aspirants.

Jeff Van Horn received his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Texas. Jeff is married with two children and has been a Justice of the Peace, Assistant District Attorney and Director of the Texas District and County Attorney's Association. He is currently the Criminal District Attorney in Caldwell County and has held such office since 1981. Jeff has stated that he believes the deadly weapon ruling "is a technical application of the law that is contrary to the Legislature's intent". He has further stated that while he has a law enforcement perspective he would be fair because he believes judges should carry out the Legislature's intent and not their own personal views. However, Jeff Van Horn does believe too many cases have been overturned on technicalities and he is running because he knows both his opponents will bring a defense oriented philosophy to the court. He made these statements in an interview reported by the Texas Lawyer.

The second candidate, Morris Overstreet, has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Sociology from Angelo State University and received his law degree from the Texas Southern University Thurgood Marshall School of Law. He is divorced with three children and has been Potter County Court at Law Judge No. 1 since 1987. Mr. Overstreet predicts he will raise $250,000 for his campaign while Jeff Van Horn admits he is running on a shoestring budget. Morris Overstreet has the most political experience in that in 1988 he attempted to receive the Democratic nomination for a seat on the Texas Supreme Court.

The final Democratic candidate, Frank Maloney, is a partner with Maloney and Yeager in Austin, Texas. He received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Texas and is the divorced father of two. He has been a criminal defense lawyer since 1962 and is quoted in the Texas Lawyer as stating "I don't think he (prosecutor VanHorn) knows who (Socialist Labor Leader) Eugene V. Debs is." He further stated that if he beat Overstreet, it would mean the voters preferred a seasoned defense attorney over a misdemeanor judge and went on to discuss about how awkward it was running against Overstreet because Overstreet is black.

The two Republicans running are Joseph Devaney and Allen Isbell. Mr. Devaney is a former appellate court justice who, if elected, would be seventy-five at the end of his six-year term. He is married with six children ranging in age from 36 years to eleven months. Joseph Devaney's campaign relies heavily on the fact that he served on the Dallas Court of Appeals. He was beaten for the position in the 1988 Republican primary.

The last candidate for Place 1 is the Republican Allen Isbell. Mr. Isbell, a former Church of Christ minister, received his undergraduate degree from Abilene Christian College and his law degree at University of Houston Law Center. He is married with two children and is a criminal defense attorney in Houston, Texas. Isbell lists as his credentials, being past president of the Harris County Criminal Lawyers Association and former director of the Texas Criminal Defense Lawyers Association.

Place #2 has some interesting candidates in the Democratic primary, Bill White and Patrick Barber. Bill White is a former prosecutor who has been on the Court of Criminal Appeals since 1985. Texas Lawyer states that his opponent has criticized him for being a friend of prosecutors. White refused to apologize for his support from prosecutors and stated that his voting record while on the Court of Appeals proves he is fair to both sides. Judge White has been endorsed by the Mexican-American Bar Association, the Combined Law Enforcement Association of Texas and the Police Officers Associations in San Antonio, Fort Worth, Houston, and Corpus Christi, as well as the Dallas and San Antonio, Firefighters Associations.

Patrick Barber is a former Mitchell County Attorney who lost his bid for reelection to a write-in. He was also asked to resign when he was an Assistant District Attorney in McLennan County. Barber is currently a criminal defense attorney in Colorado City, and does openly criticize White for being a State's judge.

Herb Hancock and Charles Baird are the two Democratic candidates vying for the nomination in Place 4. Herb Hancock, a prosecutor for eighteen years, is forty-eight years old with a wife and two children. According to his interview with Texas Lawyer, he believes he and his opponent come from opposite camps with he being the law and order champion and Baird being defense-oriented.

Charles Baird, at 34, is the youngest candidate running for the Court of Criminal Appeals. Since graduating from the South Texas College of Law in 1980, Baird has been a criminal defense attorney in Houston. The winner of this primary will meet Judge Berchelman, the incumbent Republican candidate, in the general election.

Okay, now you know everything you always wanted to know about who is running for the Court of Criminal Appeals. Actually, as you can tell, I made very little attempt to be impartial or hide the fact that I support Jeff Van Horn, Bill White and Herb Hancock. But, at least when you go to vote, you will be familiar with the names on the ballot and have the opportunity to find out more about the candidates if you wish.

PUBLIC HEARING BY RURAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION

During the 1989 Texas Legislature Session the Rural Economic Development Commission was established to conduct studies and make recommendations regarding the revitalization of rural areas and the expansion of agribusiness in the state. The commission is charged with evaluating existing rural economic development efforts for consistency, coordination and their effect on job creation.

A public hearing will be conducted by the Texas Rural Economic Development Commission on March 2, 1990 at 1:00 p.m. in the Wichita County Extension Office, 1626 Midwestern Parkway, Wichita Falls. The purpose of the hearing is to obtain testimony to determine the issues of importance to rural Texans and possible solutions to those issues.

Citizen input is critical to the work of the commission, so interested persons and organizations are invited to present their testimonies at the hearing. Testimonies should be no longer than 3 to 5 minutes. Written testimonies can also be presented at the hearing.

Commissioners who will be responsible for the hearing in Wichita Falls are State Rep. Dick Waterfield of Canadian, Marjorie Kasman of Lubbock and Joe Cook of Perryton. The commission will be reporting its finding to the legislature next January.

For more information on this hearing please contact the County Extension Office.

Agricultural interests from all across the nation are seeking a position on the inside rail in the race to get an acceptable 1990 farm bill on the President's desk before November elections. And Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. is no exception.

One PCG officer, Board Chairman Myrl D. Mitchell of Lenora, February 22 and 23 was in Tucson, Arizona for input on the drafting of legislative language for an improved federal crop insurance program. And two others, President Steve Verett of Ralls and Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, are scheduled to work in Washington the week of February 26 on the more basic provisions of the law.

Mitchell is the cotton spokesman on the Federal Crop Insurance Commission, created by Congress in 1988 to recommend changes needed in the multi-peril crop insurance policies offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC). After a half-dozen meetings and numerous field hearings, the Commission has suggested yield and price guarantee and other producer options to make FCIC policies against natural disasters. The Tucson meeting grew out of a request from House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza (D-TX) that the commission put its suggestions into legislative form.

Mitchell is one of ten producers on the Commission, serving with ten insurance industry representatives and FCIC General Manager John Marshall. The FCIC program has been roundly criticized and the Administration has recommended it be replaced by a "standing disaster program." But surveys by Texas A&M and others have indicated strong producer support for retaining all-risk insurance, especially if it can be improved as recommended by the Commission.

Verett and Johnson's activities in Washington will center on a hearing March 1 called by Senator David Pryor (D-AR), Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Agricultural Production, Marketing and Stabilization of Prices. In addition, meetings are planned with four individual members of the subcommittee plus High and Low Plains members of the House Agriculture Committee. Assistance will also be sought from the offices of Texas Senators Phil Gramm (R) and Lloyd Bentsen (D). On the House Committee from this area are Larry Combest (R-Lubbock), Charles Stenholm (D-Tamford) and Bill Sarpalius (D-Amarillo).

"Essentially," says Johnson, "we will be stumping for continuing the major provisions of the current program, with emphasis on the marketing loan program, including the current mandatory 50-cent minimum loan level and provisions for eight-month loan extensions with favorable treatment of carrying charges."

Also high on PCG's list of priorities, he adds, is target price levels no less than those in effect for 1990 crops, adequate crop loss protection through FCIC or a comprehensive disaster payment program, reasonable conservation compliance regulations, no reduction in payment limitations, and guarding against flexibility proposals that would destroy the effectiveness of production control mechanisms.

In addition to Chairman Pryor, individual meetings are set with Senate Subcommittee members that Cochran (R-MS), Wyche Fowler, Jr. (D-GA) and Howell Heflin (D-AL).

Joining Verett and Johnson in these meetings will be representatives of the Mississippi Delta Council, Arkansas Agriculture Council, Southeastern Cotton Growers, Southern Cotton Ginners and, says Johnson, "possibly others who are fully committed to our position on these issues and may bolster our efforts."

NOTICE OF TARIFF CHANGE TO CENTRANET® SERVICE

GTE Southwest Incorporated gives notice of its proposed tariff changes to CentraNet® service, which is a Central Office-based service that provides PBX-type features to multi-line business customers and is currently being offered in all company wire centers where such facilities exist to provide the service.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas approved a generic tariff for CentraNet® service up to 100 lines in Docket No. 7652. The proposed tariff revision would establish specific rates for CentraNet® service involving 101 to 400 lines. Other proposed revisions involve the rate applicable to changes, additions, or deletions to the data bases and a new rate is proposed for additional trunks.

The names of the three CentraNet® packages have changed from Standard, Premium, and Deluxe to CentraNet® 1000, CentraNet® 2000, and CentraNet® 3000, respectively. Direct Call Pickup has been added to the three CentraNet® packages while Multiple Call Park and Shared Speed Call 30 have been added to CentraNet® 2000, and Speed Call 30 and Call Forward Busy/No Answer Split have been added to CentraNet® 3000. Flexible Night Answer and Automatic Route Selection also have been added as new optional features.

The proposed changes and new service offerings have been assigned Docket No. 9251, and pursuant to Section 43(d) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act will become effective June 23, 1990. Rates for service will be applicable to customers who subscribe to the service as well as existing customers. Therefore, there will be no effect on any other rates of the company. The company's gross annual revenues will increase by approximately $399,600, or less than one percent annually.

The proposed rates are on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, and are available for public inspection at the offices of GTE Southwest Incorporated. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission. The deadline to intervene in this docket is 3:00 p.m., March 19, 1990.

A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. ## Rays of Hope

by Lola Eason

It takes Faith to recognize Jesus in the storm.

The south wind is blowing, the sea is calm, everything seems to be going great. Then suddenly the wind changes. The clouds turn a dingy gray. We are hurled into a storm that looks as though we could be destroyed.

Matthew 14 verses, 22:32 gives us the account of the Deciples caught in such a storm.

Let us look into the scripture before we begin to sink. First they were obeying the voice of their master and teacher. They hadn't refused or rebelled against what Jesus had told them. So we conclude they were in the will of the Lord.

Often we find ourselves in the storms of life. Immediately we go on to wonder where did we go wrong? Did we miss the will of God? Why is all this happening to me?

The Deciples didn't go wrong. Their faith was being tested.

Jesus knew he was sending them into the storm. He knew where they were and what they were facing. The very hairs on his head are numbered. Not one sparrow falls without his knowledge. "Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows."

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Metter, Georgia

One day a young man left home to go into business. He was asked, "What do you know how to do?"

"Make soap," he answered. "Then," said the friend, "make God your partner and make the best soap."

He did, and William Colgate became the owner of the company that bears his name.

As you give yourself to God and make Him your partner, you grow in greater freedom, efficiency, and fulfillment.

He'll give you the wisdom for your mind, the love for your heart, the strength for your body, and the skill for your hands to be your best and to do your best.

A God-controlled man is man at his best!

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder for El Progreso Club at recent meeting

Thursday afternoon, Feb. 22, El Progreso Club met in the Senior Citizens building for a program on "Conservation-Beautyfication" and what is more important to a woman than conserving the beauty of ones self especially her face.

Mrs. Armantha Martin presented Mary Kay Cosmetics' way to a more beautiful face, what to use and how to use it. The program followed the usual business session called to order by club president, Mrs. Joe (Loys) Campbell.

Business included the report from the nominating committee listing Mrs. Joe (Loys) Campbell, President, Mrs. Harold (Grace) Campbell, President-elect, Mrs. Ted (Bailey) Elliott, First Vice-President, Mrs. Dale (JoEtta) Bumgardner, Secretary, Mrs. J.E. (Marge) Edwards, Treasurer, Mrs. Douglas (Lila) Meador, Parliamentarian, Mrs. Furman (Beverly) Vinson, Press Reporter, and Mrs. Frank (Lola) Pohl, Federation Counselor. The slate of officers was elected by acclamation to serve 1990 & 91, 1991 & 92. The members were reminded of the Santa Rosa district convention March 17 in Quanah and all were urged to attend.

Mrs. Loys Campbell presented Mrs. E.D. (Rhea) Lawrence as leader for the afternoon. She read the caption printed in the yearbook, a quote from Ralph Waldo Emerson, "There is no beautifier of complexion, or form, or behavior, like the wish to scatter joy and not pain around us." she then introduced Mrs. Martin stating she was a very busy woman being Home Health nurse and an L.V.N. with selling Mary Kay cosmetics in between. Mrs. Martin passed literature to the group showing a display of the cosmetics listed in the brochure, the Basic Skin Care; Clenser, Retexture, Freshner, Moisture Balance and Protect (base make-up). She then handed out a picture of an eye and told us we were going to "make-up" an eye, our own. Samples of the color each person needed, according to her coloring, were given to each one and they "made up" their own eye. It was a most informative afternoon and each one left feeling they could do better for themselves than previously done. A drawing was held with Bailey Elliott winning a set of cosmetic brushes. Each woman attending selected from a basketfull of fragrances and lipstick samples, something to take-home.

Mrs. Lawrence used for her Inspirational Thought the short poem, "The Station" by Robert J. Hasting.

Refreshments of finger sandwiches, cookies, coffee and punch were served by Mrs. Gene (Mary) Louder and Mrs. Loys Campbell to those mentioned, also Mrs. Frank (Lola) Pohl, Mrs. W.N. (Opal) Pipkin, Mrs. J.E. (Marge) Edwards, Mrs. Bill (Judine) McCaghren, Mrs. Harold (Grace) Campbell, Miss Rachel Paton, Mrs. W.D. (Vena) Lipscomb, Mrs. Douglas (Lila) Meador, Mrs. R.E. (Lucretia) Campbell, Jr., and Mrs. Furman (Beverly) Vinson.

Dickens Electric Receives REA Loan

Ned Ward, President of Dickens Electric Cooperative has announced that the Rural Electrification Administration has approved the Cooperative's request for a $3.2 million loan. "The funds will be used to upgrade existing power lines and to build new lines to serve growing loads in the Cooperative's service area," stated Ward.

The loan funds are earmarked for construction projects that are detailed in the Cooperative's two year work plan. In this plan, a Rural Electric Cooperative must analyze its power system and plan construction of new lines and upgrades of existing power lines so that the energy needs of their members are met.

"The loan has been approved by REA, but we have to build the lines before any loan proceeds can be drawn down," stated Bailey Reece, General Manager of Dickens Electric Cooperative. "After the projects are completed and inspected, the money can be received by the Cooperative to reimburse our general funds for the construction costs," he said. Reece further stated that the loans are then paid back to REA over a period of 35 years.

Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc., headquartered in Spur, Texas serves electric power to all or part of the rural areas in Crosby, Dickens, Garza, Kent, King, Motley, and Stonewall Counties.

FmHA Housing Money targeted to Counties that need it most

Temple, 2-7-90, -- Rural Housing funds are being targeted to 100 counties in 38 states across the nation that need it the most, including Colorado, Frio, Maverick, Presidio, and Zavala, according to J. Lynn Futch, State Director for the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). FmHA, rural credit service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, regularly funnels millions of dollars annually in housing funds into the small towns and rural areas of Texas.

"Our efforts to provide safe, decent, and adequate housing for rural residents have been successful, and yet, some areas are still desperately in need of housing assistance," Futch said.

"We have identified counties that need additional FmHA housing assistance and we are starting a demonstration program to target an additional $840,000 for multi-family housing and $1,436,000 for single family housing to them," he said. The counties involved are still fully eligible for the regular single family and multi-family allocations of housing funds the state receives.

Counties were identified as eligible for program on the basis of a high percentage of very-low income households and substandard housing. After analysis of the volume of FmHA loan and grant making in fiscal years 1986-1988, counties identified as both "needing" and "underserved" by FmHA housing programs were selected for the program.

Applicants for assistance under the demonstration program must meet all the eligibility requirements for FmHA's housing programs. Information on applying for housing assistance from FmHA can be obtained from any FmHA office. Applications for single family home ownership and housing repair programs are processed at FmHA county offices. Applications for rental housing are processed at FmHA district offices.
