Local Veterans Reminisce for Memorial Day

by Marisue Potts

White metal crosses dot the graves of military veterans in hushed cemeteries across the country. On downtown street corners flags of the United States of America unfurl and pop in the stiff breeze, quietly marking this holiday to honor our departed comrades in arms or our comrades in life.

Once sunrise or sunset services honored the fallen with rifle volleys, roll calls, patriotic speech as politicians placed wreaths. Lilies were planted to commemorate the war dead. A battle-front general presented corsages to Gold Star mothers. But as the ranks have dwindled so have the memorials.

Memorial Day 1990 is a day to remember, a day to talk about people and times past, and a day to reflect upon the lives of surviving veterans from three different conflicts, men who returned home and worked to improve their communities, building a better tomorrow.

World War I

Ninety-four years old and sharp as a tack, Clarence Jinkins is quick to remind his interviewer that he is not a World War I Veteran, but a World War I Army Veteran. The "war to end all wars" ended before the twenty-one year old soldier was hurled to the front.

The farm boy had read of the battles raging in Europe but it was the draft that pulled him away from his Motley County home to Camp Travis in San Antonio and then to Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, where he trained for nine months.

Departing from Matador's railroad depot, Jinkins and his buddies such as Wilson Gunn and Warren Clements received a rousing send-off, a sharp contrast to their quiet return home later.

At Ft. Sill Jinkins was attached to a Balloon Company where his duties mainly consisted of patiently scanning the skies through binoculars, flat on his back, for the hot air reconnaissance balloon, then as the crew maneuvered the basket closer, the doughboys grabbed the dangling ropes and hauled the bulky balloon in to be anchored.

When they weren't wearing coveralls, olive drab and round brimmed hats comprised the dress uniform. An army low on arms was unable to issue the men anything but wooden practice rifles for parade formation.

Out of two hundred men in his company, the hearty young man was one of forty that did not take the Spanish flu as it swept through the army base.

With the rank of Chauffeur, Clarence hauled coal to the different barracks in a Nash Quad truck, complete with four continued on page 10

Motley County Athletes Honored at All-Sports Banquet

ATHLETES HONORED: Brandi Barton, David Alexander and Kathy Mangram were honored at the Motley County All-Sports Banquet. Also honored was Jarrett Jameson (not pictured).

The 1989-90 All-Sports Banquet was held Friday night, May 18 in the Motley County School Gymnasium.

The three top athletes honored were David Alexander, Kathy Mangram and Brandi Barton. The trio was chosen King and Co-Queens. Other honors they received are as follows:

David was awarded the Boy's Basketball Fighting Heart and the Boy's Track Fighting Heart Awards.

Kathy was presented the Don Ewing Fighting Heart Award and Miss Spirit. Brandi was presented the Girl's Track Fighting Heart Award.

Jarrett Jameson was honored with the Dayton Graham Award.

Coach Mo Hodges introduced Greg Sherwood, Athletic Director of Lubbock ISD as the speaker. Sherwood encouraged the youth to always do their best to overcome all obstacles and give their best. He also encouraged them to set goals and strive for that goal.

Margie Guerrero, Pep Club President, was the Mistress of Ceremonies and the individual Coaches honored the athletes.

Bob Moore presented the Boy's Basketball, Girl's Basketball and Boy's Golf awards; Moe Hodges presented the Football, Boy's Track and Girl's Golf awards; Jerry Bass presented the Girl's Track and JV Boy's Basketball awards; Cagle Davis presented the Girl's JV Basketball; Syd Pipkin presented the Boy's Tennis Award and the Girl's Tennis Award.

It was announced at the Banquet in memory of the late Girl's Basketball Coach, Don Ewing, "We will all remember Don Ewing for his unselfish contribution to sports and the Athletes he coached. We are all better for having known Don Ewing. The Basketball Girl's Fighting Heart Award has been re-named the Don Ewing Fighting Heart Award.

There were approximately 175 athletes and guests in attendance.

County Residents Slated for Cowboy Symposium

Following a tribute to the late JA cowboy, Tom Blasingame, and opening remarks by guest speakers, the first session of the National Cowboy Symposium and Celebration at Texas Tech on June 1 will feature John V. Stevens. The former manager of the Matador Land & Cattle Co., Ltd. of Scotland will join a panel discussion of Ranchers and Managers. Stevens is then slated for a Storytelling session later in the afternoon at 2:05.

At the same time, in a different hall, Marisue Potts will present a research paper on "Line Camp in the Cottonwoods," the history of the Mott Camp of the Matador Ranch.

An artist who has captured many scenes of Motley County in his work, Duward Campbell, will join Ace Reid in a panel session of Western Art/Cartoonists, also on Friday at 2:05.

Cowboy poet Dennis Gaines will emcee a mixed session of Papers, Poetry, and Stories on Saturday, June 2, at 10:05 a.m. An opportunity to hear the cowboy-author recite his original material will come at 3:05. On sale in the lobby will be New Tradition: Western Verse, his collection of poems finished just in time for the Symposium.

Colquitt Warren, former resident of the county and also the author of a new book, The Matadors and Other Stories by Tom Bean, is slated to participate on a panel of writers at 4:15 on Friday. Surrounded by a huge entourage of family, Warren is sure to be telling about the life and times of the Matadors and Motley County's gentle folks at a Storytelling session emceed by Elmer Kelton on Saturday at 11:15.

Some of the many other personalities and sessions that might be of interest locally are Barry Corbin, Movies and Television, Saturday at 10:05; David Murrah of the Southwest Collection and historian Joe Frantz, Authors, Saturday at 2:00; Rhonda Sedgewick, Cowgirls and Western Women, Saturday at 10:05; John Ericson, Hank the Cowdog, Saturday at 11:15; Cecil Caldwell, Music, Friday at 3:10; Buck Ramsey, Music, Saturday at 2:05 and 3:05; and Jimmy Burson of Silverton, Music, Friday at 11:10.

Tickets and schedules will be available at the entrance of the Texas Tech University Center, Lubbock. On Sunday afternoon, some participants will compete in arena events such as roping and cutting horse contest.

First State Bank Receives High Rating

The Matador First State Bank President, Roy Hobbs, received congratulations from Sheshunoff Information Services Inc. for being rated one of the Highest Rated Banks in America for 1989.

The Sheshunoff Ratings is a nationally recognized measurement of a bank's safety and soundness.

Another rating company, Bauer Financial Reports, Inc. awarded the First State Bank of Matador with a five-star rating for 1989. This rating is an indication that this institution is one of the safest, credit-worthy banks in the United States.

Cowboy Poet Debuts Book at Symposium

by Marisue Potts

When Dennis Gaines joins other cowboy poets in a repeat performance at the National Cowboy Symposium & Celebration in Lubbock from May 31 to June 3, a published collection of his poems, New Tradition: Western Verse, will make its debut, "hot off the presses."

Following the gala at Texas Tech's University Center in Lubbock, an Autograph Party, featuring the author and his book, is planned for June 9 at the Motley County Library, Matador, from 2 until 5 p.m. Friends of the Library and the library board will serve as hosts for the library fund raiser. Copies of New Tradition will be available for autographing.

Since Cowboy Poetry is a performing art, it is best repeated by the person who created it, with his own inflections and emphasis. From the sessions I've attended and the tapes I've seen, Gaines is one of the top performers. Though ordinarily somewhat shy, when he assumes his stage personality, the wandering waddie commands the attention of the audience.

However, it is the musical quality of these poems made by the rhyming and the repetition and the vivid imagery that makes them perfect for reading and re-reading.

Gaines, an oil field worker-turned-cowboy who throws his bedroll on the Matador range, utilizes a scattergun approach in this small but classy volume. His colorful imagery covers lyrical rhymes and fanciful tall tales such as "T.J., The Cowboy Kid," earthy everyday experiences such as "Howard and the Snake," and heavy symbolic mysteries with "The Journey of Three-Fingered Jake" and "Silver Lady."

Since my own taste in poetry never progressed much further than Robert Frost and Carl Sandburg, I gravitate toward the silly rather than the sublime. "Yes, Ma'am, I Ride Horses," a personal favorite, describes a shy cowboy on a rare visit to a soda fountain where he does his best to impress a pretty lady, despite their differences in basic cultural values.

"Cowpunching for Kodak" is a humorous look at the need of "them writer folks an' artists an' wannabee cowpokes" to record a fading lifestyle, at the cowboy's expense.

The folklore of the South Texas cattle country, "where everything has a sticker, a stinger or fangs," is presented poignantly in "Song of the Brasada." Gaines writes

This dark brasada gave so much and took so much away;
He'd lost as much as he would ever win.
And he knew then in the final moments of his dying day,
That all he'd leave were ashes on the wind.

Though unusual enough that a fellow working for wages on a ranch composes poems, more astounding perhaps is the professionalism that Gaines brings to his TeePee City Publishing venture. Days-off were spent in self-education of layouts, fonts, ISBN numbers, publishing techniques—and then came the typing and proof-reading.

Able assistance came from Carla Jones, who gave up numberless Sundays to typeset and format; Teresa Whitaker, who penned twenty-eight Western illustrations; and Windy Rainey Shannon of Lubbock, who prepared the cover. This is a book of which they can all be proud!

In days yet to come we'll march to our drum,
Make no excuses and ask no permission.

For the West still ain't won less we stick to our guns,
And hitch the Old to the New Tradition.

Patton Springs Honor Students Named

Carolee Hughes
 Valedictorian

Angie Burkes
 Salutatorian

Commencement exercises for the Patton Springs Class of 1990 will be held Friday, May 25, 1990 at 8:00 p.m. in the gymnasium at Afton. Thirteen students will be graduating: Darren Adams, Joe Baeza, Angie Burkes, Travis Cline, Sandra Fulmer, Christy Hammons, Shawn Henry, Carolee Hughes, Valentine Sanchez, Ruby Valdez, Mary Ann Dove Warren, Johnny Williams, and David Woody.

Carolee Hughes achieved the honor of Valedictorian with an average of 96.66. Carolee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hughes. She has plans to attend West Texas University in Canyon where she will be majoring in accounting.

Salutatorian Angie Burkes ranked second in the class with an average of 96.525. She is planning to attend Texas Tech University but has not made definite plans for a major. Angie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Burkes.

Patton Springs' Kindergarten and Eighth Grade graduation exercises will be held Friday morning at 10:00 in the school gym.

Kalico Karr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Karr, is the Valedictorian of the eighth grade with a three-year cumulative average of 97.3.

Clayt Bridge is the Salutatorian with a three-year cumulative average of 96.4.

The eighth grade class consists of Clayt Bridge, Tanya Clay, Ray Fulmer, Kalico Karr, Josie Lopez, Gina Martinez, Shane Roberts, Monroe Stephenson, and Yesenia Valdez.

Eight Kindergartners will be participating in their graduation into the first grade: Kayla Atkinson, Eric Kautz, Roman Martinez, Kandice Roberts, Thomas Rock, Dustin Rutledge, Gerardo Valdez, and David Zarate.

Kindergartners join the Eighth Grade in inviting each and everyone to their commencement exercises, and to stay for the all school awards program at 11:00 a.m.

Angie Burkes Named United States National Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Angie Burkes has been named a United States Award winner in Business Education.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American high school students.

Angie Burkes, who attends Patton Springs High School in Afton was nominated for this National Award by Bob Spikes, Business Education Teacher at the school. Angie will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Angie is the daughter of Larry and Willita Burkes of Afton and the granddaughter of Reba Burkes of Matador and Pearl and Harry Patten of Roaring Springs.

4-H'ers Attend District Teen Leader Lab

Sixteen counties from the Rolling Plains 3 Extension District were on hand for the annual 4-H Teen Leader Lab held at the Texas 4-H Center on Lake Brownwood. Motley County had the highest number of participants with 17. The theme for the weekend was "Today's Youth - Tomorrow's Leaders", and 120 4-H members, adult leaders, and County Extension Agents met at Brownwood to be a part of this educational and fun leadership experience.

The Lab included leadership training, educational workshops, and recreation. A feature of this year's lab was S.T.A.G.E. (a teen communications theater group from Wichita Falls. Election of the 1990-91 District Council officers was held, and the new officers are:

President, Trent Willmon, Motley County; 1st. Vice President, Jim Gardner, Stonewall County; 2nd. Vice President, Marty Vahlenkamp, Stonewall County; Secretary-Treasurer, Jenny Wheeler, Shackelford County; Public Relations Chairman, Christy Cox, Childress County.

These officers will provide leadership for District 4-H activities scheduled in the Rolling Plains District for the coming year. Fisher County Extension Agent Beth Dannheim and Motley County Extension Agent Rocky Vinson served as agent advisors for the weekend event. Also assisting with the retreat were District Extension Directors Elaine Houston and Ed Garnett and 4-H and Youth Development Specialist Harry Campbell of Vernon. The Teen Leader Lab Planning Committee included 4-H members from Childress County, and District 4-H Council officers.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, race, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Company Matches Students With Funds

Over a $100 million in scholarship funds went unclaimed last year because students and parents did not know how to tap into these resources.

A National Company, using computer matching is now making this possible.

Scholarship Research Group has more than 200,000 sources of aid representing $14 billion in financial aid. Begun in 1981, Scholarship Research Group helped over 35,000 students last year by supplying them with financial aid information. With college costs ranging from $35,000 to $60,000 and cutbacks on educational funds, more students and their parents are finding college is out of sight.

Virtually all families, regardless of income, can qualify for scholarships and other forms of financial aid. Although grades count in some areas, many grants and awards do not consider a student's GPA when awarding funding.

Using the information supplied by a student, SRG will send a printout listing the awards that match the students qualifications and needs. The printout will list the name of the award, its value, whether it is renewable, address of the provider, and why the student was matched to this source.

For more information write Scholarship Research Group, 3220 "N" Street, NW, Executive Suite 318, Washington, DC, 20007. Or call toll-free at 1-800-334-3881.

WTSU Deans' List Announced

One hundred sixty-four West Texas State University undergraduates were named to the President's List and 692 earned mention on the Deans' List for the 1990 spring semester.

Students earning President's List recognition achieved a semester grade point average (GPA) of 3.850 (of a possible 4.000) or better with a minimum class load of 12 hours.

Students on the Deans' List achieved GPAs of at least 3.250.

Dee A. Perryman, a senior, with a major in General Studies was named to this list.

Dee is the wife of Darryl Perryman and the daughter-in-law of Linda Perryman of Matador.

Program on Waterfowl Habitats Given at April Club Meeting

Matador Garden Club met April 16 in the home of Mrs. Alvin Stearns, with Mrs. J.D. Craven as hostess. The conservation program followed the year's study of bird habitats, with Mrs. Edgar Lee presenting a paper on "Waterfowl Habitats in Texas."

prairie chicken, although the latter is more abundant at the Attwater Prairie Chicken Refuge near Eagle Lake and visitors have better chances of seeing it there.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments of pineapple pie, coffee and punch were served by Mrs. Craven and Mrs. Stearns to Mrs. W.D. (Vena)

Lipscomb, Mrs. Artie Wason, Mrs. E.D. (Rhea) Lawrence, Rachel Patton and those mentioned, Mesdames Pipkin, Lee, Elliott and Meador.

"During the migrating season thousands of ducks and geese cover the marshes" Mrs. Lee said, citing waders like egrets, herons, spoonbills and ibis. Other fowls documented in the paper included the brown pelican, in addition to the several species of herons and egrets.

Wetland destruction is now destroying many habitats, Mrs. Lee said. "The nation, including vast portions of the South, is losing more than 400,000 acres of wetlands a year. Without such habitat, waterfowl simply have no place to live, feed, rest and breed." The decline is due to "weather, economics, agriculture, government and hunters," according to an article in Southern Living magazine.

Roll call was "show and tell" a flowering branch from trees or shrubs. Thought for the day was, "The tiniest dewdrop hanging from a grass blade in the morning is big enough to reflect the sunshine and the blue of the sky."

Mrs. W.N. Pipkin, president, opened the meeting for business discussions and reading of minutes by Mrs. Douglas Meador, secretary. Mrs. Pipkin, who recently returned from a trip to Hawaii, described birds of that state, including the Nene' Goose, state bird of Hawaii, with a magazine article showing a picture of the bird. The poem, "To a Waterfowl" by William Cullen Bryant was recited by Mrs. Ted Elliott.

Although waterfowls are usually associated with marshes, it isn't necessary to visit marshes to cite waterfowl, according to Mrs. Lee. From November to April thousands of birds are migrating across country and many species are seen. However, the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in south Texas remains the showcase for waterfowl, especially the whooping crane and the Attwater

One bright morning the cloud will roll away.
Jesus Christ in all his Glory,
Shall come and lead the way.
Though our sin be as scarlet,
God through grace supplied the way.

One bright morning Jesus Christ will come.
He will take us home to the mighty one.
Forgiving my sins he died in my place.
Not through regret, but loving grace.

One bright morning, he will not come alone.
Jesus Christ with his angels they too will come.
Carrying us home to heaven, to God's great throne.
Never again will we be alone.

One bright morning, his trumpet shall sound.
We will go to be with God, on that day.
Angels in glory our place to share,
God gave his promise, Jesus Christ opened the door.

Rays of Hope

by Lola Eason

After reading "Train to Estelline," my mind began wondering back over the small communities surrounding Estelline in Hall County.

My family moved from Oklahoma to the Collier's Ranch when I was four. We moved to Estelline several years later so my sister and I could attend school. My first grade teacher was Mrs. L.A. Tucker. Things were not so primitive then as when the young teacher from Denton, Texas rode the train into Estelline.

My Dad was a cement finisher by trade and had helped build the long bridge across Red River. These were good days, but by the early thirties, we were out of work and had moved to the country to survive. We were still hitting it hard during the W.P.A. days as Daddy was supposed to have a trade and he was not allowed to work on the government project.

I guess something always stands out in our memory during our childhood days. The big day came when the F.W. & D. replaced the evening passenger train for the shiny new Zephyr. All Estelline turned out to see the new train. Mother and I walked down the hill to salt flat to see the beautiful new train. The ones who could afford a ride, rode to Childress, especially the children and young people. On the way back to the small deserted town Mother said, "Don't cry, Lola, one day we will leave on that very train." Sure enough, when I was a freshman we left on the Zephyr for Dallas. Dad had a job that would last two years. The train was crowded with people going to the Centennial. Excited, you bet, my very first train ride, also this meant I'd get to go to the much talked about Centennial.

We drove into Dallas on the big truck Dad used for work. We always parked on Deep Elm Street, where all the truckers brought their vegetables to sell. Mother was under the care of a Doctor at the Medical Arts Building. Near Christmas we were walking down the street when I spied a red blouse in a store window. I simply flipped. It was the most gorgeous thing I had ever seen. I'm sure my Mom knew it was an expensive store. She tried to tell me it would cost more than we could afford to pay, but I wouldn't take no for an answer. We walked into the store. The Clerk showed me the blouse in my size and it was even more beautiful on. Mother just flat said no, we can't afford it. I asked when the blouse would go on sale. They sent for the manager, can you imagine the audacity of a country girl telling the manager of Neiman Marcus, that in Hall County, Green's Dry Good Store, J.C. Penny and Montgomery Ward in Childress always put their clothes on sale in the fall, for that was the only time the farmers had money.

Maybe it was the longing in a young girl's eyes, not what they did in Hall County that put the red blouse in my wardrobe.

I soon learned the difference in name brand stores and when we returned to Estelline, I knew the difference between Montgomery Ward and Macy's.

It was not until the hippie age during the sixties and early seventies that all barriers were broken down. Some of these kids came from wealthy families. In their search to find out who they really were, not just name brand stuff. What life was all about and where they really came from. I know some went to the extreme, at least in our opinions, but in their search to find themselves. They found they had been created by God and in his image. There are at least some of them who found a relationship with the Lord. We were on vacation in Taos, N.M. and met a group of these young people sharing with everyone who would listen, about the saving power of Jesus Christ.

Jeremiah 29:13, "And ye shall seek me, and find me when ye shall search for me with all your heart."

Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another; Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; Distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission (PUC) of Texas to add a new optional service for business customers called Departmentalized Customer Billing Reports. The proposed effective date for this service is June 25, 1990.

Departmentalized Customer Billing Reports will enable the business customer to facilitate rapid verification and approval of complex bills. These detailed Departmentalized Customer Billing Reports will show charges specifically related to each customer-specified name or identifier on a separate, easily identifiable report page. Business customers may choose from seven different formats for the reports. Departmentalized Customer Billing Reports are designed to serve as a categorized supplement to the business customer's regular bill, and are in addition to the customer's regular bill.

There will be a $20.00 monthly charge for this service. In addition, a charge ranging from $10.00 to $50.00 per month will also apply for each of the seven supplemental reports. A $1.00 non-recurring charge, per billing number, will apply to establish the service.

Departmentalized Customer Billing Reports have been forecasted to generate first-year revenues of $848,812.

Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by June 15, 1990. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 450-0227, or (512) 450-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Crash Diets Can Cause Weight Gain

An initial weight loss of five to 10 pounds on a crash diet can turn into a weight gain because of the crash diet's ability to slow down the body's metabolism.

Metabolism is the process whereby calories are used and replaced in the body. The basal metabolic rate (BMR) is the rate at which calories are burned while the body is at rest. The BMR, which operates around the clock, is the base number of calories needed to keep the body functioning.

"When calories are dramatically lowered, such as on a crash diet, the body defends itself from starving by slowing down its metabolism. The body then burns calories at a slower rate. The result is that weight loss becomes more difficult," said Cindy Rowell, outpatient dietitian at Methodist Hospital.

For an example, consider a man who has a BMR of 2,200 calories a day and goes on a 900-calorie diet. His body is shocked, so it lowers the metabolic rate to conserve energy. As a result, the man feels tired and sluggish during the early days on the diet. After he loses 15 pounds, he returns to his normal diet.

For Everyone Born Before 1940

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was submitted to our office by a reader.

WE ARE SURVIVORS!!! Consider the changes we have witnessed!

We were born before television, before penicillin, before polio shots, frozen foods, Zerex, plastic, contact lenses, Frisbees and the PILL. We were before radar, credit cards, split atoms, laser beams and ballpoint pens. Before pantyhose, dishwashers, clothes dryers, electric blankets, air conditioners, drip-dry clothes...and before man walked on the moon.

We got married first and then lived together. How quaint can you be? In our time, closets were for clothes, not for "coming out of". Bunnies were small rabbits, and rabbits were not Volkswagons. Desiring Jeans were scheming girls named Jean, and having a meaningful relationship meant getting along with our cousins.

We thought fast food was what you ate during lent, and Outer Space was the back of the State Theatre. We were before house husbands, gay rights, computer dating, dual careers and commuter marriages. We were before day-care centers, group therapy and nursing homes. We never heard of FM radio, tape decks, electronic typewriters, artificial hearts, word processors, yogurt and guys wearing earrings. For us, time-sharing meant together...not computers or condominiums. A chip meant a piece of wood. Hardware meant hardware, and software wasn't even a word.

Back then, "Made in Japan" meant junk and the term "making out" referred to how you did on your exam. Pizzas, McDonalds and instant coffees were unheard of. We hit the scene where there were 5 and 10 cent stores, where you bought things for five and ten cents. Ma Mepa sold hot dogs and hamburgers for a nickel or dime. For one nickel you could ride a street car, make a phone call, buy a Pepsi or enough stamps to mail one letter and two postcards. You could buy a new Dodge coupe for $600...but who could afford one? A pity too, because gas was 11 cents a gallon!

In our day, grass was mowed, COKE was a cold drink and POT was something you cooked in. ROCK MUSIC was a Grandma's lullaby and AIDS were helpers in the Principal's office. We were certainly not before the difference between the sexes was discovered, but we were surely before the sex change. We made do with what we had. And we were the last generation that was so dumb as to think you needed a husband to have a baby.

No wonder we are so confused and there is such a generation gap today. But WE SURVIVED!!!...What better reason to celebrate?

Poems Wanted for Contest and Anthology

Poems are now being accepted for entry in Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum's new "Awards of Poetic Excellence" poetry contest. Cash prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded, including a $500 grand prize. The contest is free to enter.

Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any style. Contest closes July 31, 1990, but poets are encouraged to send their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in the Spring 1991 edition of Poetic Voices of America, a hardcover anthology. No fee or purchase is required to enter or win the contest. To ensure publication of non-winning entries, however, anthology purchase is required. Prize winners will be notified by Sept. 30, 1990.

"If you are a new or emerging poet, we specially want to see your work," says William H. Trent, editor. "We are looking for sincerity and originality in a wide variety of styles and themes."

Poem should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum Inc., Dept. G, 203 Diamond Str., Sistersville, WV 26175.

KNOW THE SIGNS OF STROKE

Suffering a stroke can be a frightening experience, particularly for the person who is unaware of what is occurring.

A stroke is an instantaneous disruption of the blood flow to a certain portion of the brain. When fresh blood is not received by a section of the brain, the cells are deprived of needed oxygen, and damage results. The body function that is controlled by that particular part of the brain is then damaged either temporarily or permanently.

Some strokes result from blocked arteries that literally starve the brain of blood. The arteries are simply too clogged with fatty deposits to allow enough blood to reach the brain. Other types of strokes that are more serious in nature are like hemorrhages that leak into the brain tissue or small clots which break loose from the arterial wall and block the artery.

According to medical experts in Methodist Hospital's Rehabilitation Institute, the following are warning signs of a stroke:

- * Dizziness
- * A temporary loss in memory or mental ability
- * Numbness or weakness in the face, arm or leg on one side
- * Garbled speech or new swallowing problems
- * Eye problems, including temporary loss of sight or double vision; and
- * Recent onset of severe headaches.

A person also can experience a temporary "little stroke", called a transient ischemic attack, and not even be aware of it. The following may signal that attention is needed to prevent a future, more serious stroke:

- * Blackouts
- * Falls which have no explanation
- * Temporary loss of vision
- * Dizziness; and
- * Temporary weakness in the limbs.

Household Products Can Pose Toxic Dangers

Many products people use every day contain hazardous chemicals. Improper use, storage or disposal of these products can contaminate our natural resources including our drinking water. One quart of motor oil, for example, can contaminate up to two million gallons of drinking water.

Sewage treatment plants and municipal landfills are not designed to handle hazardous wastes, so harsh household chemicals should not be poured down the drain or thrown in the regular garbage — and they should not be dumped on the ground.

Paints, Cleaners and Pesticides

Toxic chemicals are found in paints, glues, waxes and household cleaners and polishes. Many of these chemicals, and their containers, should be disposed of in a licensed hazardous waste facility although turpentine and some paint thinners can be recycled.

Fertilizers, fungicides, herbicides, insecticides, rat poisons and weed killers should also be treated as hazardous wastes.

Automotive and Other Products

Almost all automotive products contain toxic chemicals, but many can be recycled, including motor oil, antifreeze, batteries, motor fuels and some auto body repair products.

Commonly used items such as flashlight batteries, fingernail polish, lighter fluid, moth balls and photographic chemicals contain toxics. Gun cleaning solvents are also toxic, but can be recycled.

Where Possible, Avoid Toxics

For example, there are detergents that are low in phosphates or are phosphate-free — such as many liquid detergents. Some consumers choose "friendly" alternatives to toxic products: cedar chips for moth balls; mineral oil for furniture polish; baking soda and powdered sugar for roach poison; etc.

And Recycle!

Today, most communities have recycling businesses or services that take paper, metal and glass products and some will take "hard" plastics such as milk jugs, soda bottles, etc. Some communities have "hazardous collection days" once or twice a year. Check the yellow pages for businesses that recycle tires, motor oil, batteries and other wastes. And, if you are unsure of how to dispose of a particular product, contact your local water utility or sanitation department.

If you have a consumer complaint, call your nearest Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen or San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

Work on the budget and other complications already have caused House Agriculture Committee Chairman Kika de la Garza (D-TX) to overshoot his stated goal of completing subcommittee work on the 1990 farm bill by Easter. And what was his hope to complete full committee work and bring a bill to the floor by Memorial Day is now considered hopeless.

But the overall aim of both House and Senate Agriculture Committees to get a bill through both bodies before the August recess remains a possibility. And now there's evidence that the ongoing budget summit is intensifying the drive to meet that schedule. But the results of that effort, even if successful, may not be the final word on farm law that will govern agriculture for the next five years.

Top Administration and House and Senate leaders are meeting daily in search of a bipartisan solution to the budget deficit. In addition to one or more "revenue-enhancing" measures, they are almost certain to come out with a plan to reduce federal spending well beyond levels previously recommended by the Administration. And commodity price support programs are likely to be right in the middle if not in the front of programs to be cut.

So, the word is that farm policy makers in Congress want to go all out for passing a politically palatable farm bill before being obliged to reckon with spending limits more severe than those the Administration currently recommends. Then, if White House and Congressional negotiators reach agreement on a budget proposal requiring deeper cuts in farm spending, legislators can come back after the August recess to make whatever reductions are necessary.

In the words of Wall Street Journal staff reporter Bruce Ingersoll "Such a legislative strategy would let Congress reauthorize the government's expiring farm programs for another five years and avoid the pain of slashing agricultural subsidies until the Fall or, conceivably, in a lame duck session after the November elections."

This approach has considerable bipartisan appeal, Ingersoll continues, since the entire House and a third of the Senate, including nine agriculture committee members, are up for re-election this year.

House Committee Chairman de la Garza is quoted as saying "Politically, you always look for the course of least resistance," and adds "My estimation is that they can't hit us with any more cuts. But if we need to do more, we will."

Both the House and Senate appear to be struggling to hold farm spending over the next few years to about $53 billion, roughly what would be spent if the 1985 farm law were extended. Provisions aimed at increasing farm income are being considered, including tying target prices for major crops to production costs on the consumer price index, but there's also a consensus that the cost of such measures would have to be offset by savings elsewhere in the farm budget.

Texas Senate Week in Review

AUSTIN - An education finance reform bill will likely remain in limbo this week as legislators and Governor Bill Clements struggle for a compromise to prevent a court takeover of public school funding on June 1.

Senate Bill 1, a $555 million plan to alter the way Texas distributes funds among public school districts, won approval in the Senate and the House last week and was sent to Clements who had earlier threatened to veto the measure.

In an effort to forestall the promised veto, negotiators for the Senate and the House immediately locked into compromise talks with the Governor's negotiators late last week.

Clements favors spending $250 million in first-year funding for school finance reform, while Senate bill 1 calls for more than twice that amount.

The Legislature has been in continuous special sessions since February 27 to design a school finance reform package that would meet a State Supreme Court order to change the current fund distribution plan. The court ruled that system unconstitutional because it favors property-rich districts over poorer ones.

The court has given the Legislature until June 1 to come up with a plan. If Clements and lawmakers fail to reach an agreement on the plan, newly appointed court master William Kilgarlin will draw one.

Bills to provide funding for Senate Bill 1 have not yet been brought up for a vote since negotiators for the Legislature and the Governor's office have not settled on a specific dollar amount for school reform. At the close of the last special session, Clements vetoed a sales tax hike bill that would have funded the legislation.

If negotiations fail this week, leaders in the Senate and the House said they will attempt to override the anticipated veto. A successful override would require a two-thirds vote in each house.

In other action last week, the Senate Finance committee labored over a plan to relieve the funding crisis at the Department of Human Services (DHS).

Testimony is expected to continue this week on the bill, sponsored by Senator Chet Brooks (D-Pasadena), that would channel $35 million into threatened programs for critically ill and disabled children; $37.8 million for mental health and mental retardation; and $180 million into DHS.

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

If you are a young person planning to work this summer, you should note that special rules affect the reporting of earnings from many typical summer jobs for social security purposes. Becoming familiar with the rules assures that your earnings are reported for important social security protection.

With most jobs, social security taxes are automatically deducted from your paycheck, and the employer pays a matching amount, reports the total to social security, and sends the taxes to the Internal Revenue Service.

Many of the jobs generally available to summer workers are service jobs (restaurant and hotel work, for example), farm work, or self-employment (commission sales work, for example). A person needs to know how to report tips, which make up a major part of earnings from service jobs, when farm work counts for social security, and how to report self-employment income.

Most service jobs involve tips. You must report cash tips amounting to $20 or more in a month to your employer. You give the employer a report of your tips earned during the month by the 10th of the following month, along with the tax due on the tips. Your employer reports the tips to social security along with other regular wage reports and sends the tax to the Internal Revenue Service.

If you become involved in any of the above types of summer employment, you can call the Internal Revenue Service for more details on the rules involved in reporting your earnings. For information on Social Security, call us. The number is 1-800-234-5555 (1-800-234-5772). The best times to call are 7-9 a.m. and 5-7 p.m. weekdays. Social security treats each call confidentially. We also want to ensure that you receive accurate and courteous service. That is why we have a second social security representative listen to some calls.

Be careful to follow all the commands of the Lord your God, that you may possess this good land and pass it on as an inheritance to your descendants forever. 1 Chronicles 28: 8b

MISS SWIM IS HOSTESS TO GUILD MEETING

The Guild had its last Meeting of the season in the home of Miss Lula Swim last Wednesday evening with the entire membership present.

President Grace Zabielski was in charge of the meeting; Billy Clifton said the opening prayer; Imogene Swim used the 4th and 5th verses of the first chapter of I Corinthians for the Devotional; Mrs. Aaron brought the lesson on the book of Exodus; Pastor Gene Louder said the closing prayer.

The members drew names for persons to pray for during the summer. Also each one told how the Guild meetings had benefited them the past year.

Except for Family Night in August, there will be no Guild meeting until Fall.

Present were Agnes Aaron, Jeanie Bethard, Opal Bradford, Billy Clifton, Alta Duval, Freda Keahey, Gene and Mary Louder, Mary Lumsden, Lee Peacock, Chelsea Read, Imogene and Lula Swim and Grace Zabielski.

Mrs. Gaynell Case of Yellville, Arkansas and her daughter, Mrs. Jimmy Lester of Shallowater came Monday for their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Vera Mitchell. Mesdames Case and Mitchell enplaned from Lubbock Tuesday for Albuquerque, N.M., where they will visit the latter's sister, Mrs. Newell Crego and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Webb, and their families. The ladies will also visit with Rev. and Mrs. Benny Goss at Littlefield.

NOTICE OF PETITION FOR WAIVER

Notice is hereby given that Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. ("Brazos Electric"), a wholesale generation and transmission electric utility, and the following Brazos Electric member retail distribution electric utilities ("Members"): Bartlett Electric Cooperative, Inc., Bell Falls Electric Cooperative, Inc., B-K Electric Cooperative, Inc., Comanche County Electric Cooperative Assn., Denton County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc., Erath County Electric Cooperative Assn., Fort Belknap Electric Cooperative, Inc., Gate City Electric Cooperative, Inc., Hamilton County Electric Cooperative Assn., Hill County Electric Cooperative, Inc., J-A-C Electric Cooperative, Inc., Johnson County Electric Cooperative Assn., McLennan County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Mid-South Electric Cooperative Assn., Navarro County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Navasota Valley Electric Cooperative, Inc., Tri-County Electric Cooperative, Inc., and Wise Electric Cooperative, Inc., have filed a Petition for Waiver with the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC"). In the petition, assigned Docket No. 9453, Brazos Electric requests waiver of the obligation to sell retail power to qualifying cogeneration and small power production facilities ("QFs") and the Members seek a waiver of their obligations to purchase power directly from QFs. These obligations are contained in PUC Substantive Rule 23.66(d)(1)(A) and 23.66(d)(2), as well as 18 C.F.R. 292.303(a) and (b).

The proposed waivers will not impair the ability of QFs to sell electric capacity and energy or to purchase electric capacity and energy. In the territory served by Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members (63 counties throughout Texas), Brazos Electric will assume the obligation for all purchases of QF generated electricity and the Members will assume all obligations for sales to QFs of capacity and energy. Only duplicate obligations which would otherwise be applicable to both Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members are proposed to be eliminated.

Reciprocal waivers of the type requested by Brazos Electric and its above-listed Members have recently been granted by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. The proposed waivers will not discourage cogeneration and small power production. Members' avoided cost can never be more than Brazos Electric's avoided cost because the Members purchase all of their wholesale power requirements from Brazos Electric.

The proposed waivers are subject to approval by the PUC. An Original Petition for Waiver specifying in detail each proposed waiver, the reasons waivers are being requested, and the effect of waiver is available at the general offices of Brazos Electric in Waco, Texas, and at an office of each of its above-listed Members.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline for intervention is June 18, 1990. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 OR (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
 Michael A. Guido
 Metter, Georgia

I'll never forget the first kite I made. While it was flying it seemed to say, "Give me freedom, Guido, and I'll go so high. Don't hold me back." Suddenly the cord broke. It didn't go higher, it came lower. Instead of freedom, it found fetters. There was my kite, badly broken, never to fly again. Some have said, "I want to cut loose from God and the Bible. Why can't I be free to do as I please?" Suddenly, when tempted the cord was broken, and down they've gone to disastrous defeat. Want freedom? Let Christ hold the cord of your life. The Bible says, "If the Son shall make you free, you shall be free indeed."

Give, and it will be given to you. A gc, measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over, will be poured into your lap. Luke 6:38 wheel drive and solid tires. When the armistice was signed, Jinks anxiously awaited his discharge, which did not come through until the following June. He remembers the frustration of wanting to return home in time to prepare the farm land that his father had rented for him. Finally, after months of boredom, his cigar-chomping Mess Sergeant came through with the long awaited news, "Boys, it's all over! You can go home." And home he came to his waiting sweetheart, Gussie, and the only life he ever wanted, the life of a farmer.

World War II
Joe Campbell, past commander of the Fleming Post #337, is justifiably proud of the window display at the American Legion symbolizing the efforts of the all military veterans from past conflicts. Each article or photograph has a story behind it. This is Joe's.

Hitler's attempt to defeat invading Allied armies in western Germany prompted Campbell's transfer from the 2nd Air Force to the 395th Infantry in 1944. As Campbell recalled recently, "The Battle of the Bulge in Germany was costing lots of American casualties... Winter had caught all of the Allies ill-equipped, operating short of men and supplies." So all available men were shipped out for the big offensive. Campbell joined 15,000 troops on the Queen Mary for the Atlantic crossing to Scotland, where they were dispersed by train to South Hampton, England, for the crossing of the English Channel to Le Harve, France.

The winter was unusually cold with lots of snow and freezing weather. The American troops sought refuge in such places as an old mattress factory in Belgium and a bombed-out hotel in Germany. But, when all else failed, the lowly fox hole with a tent draped on top provided a shelter of sorts.

In the Hergen Forest, Campbell was sitting with his company in the back of a truck when a Messerschmidt 109 strafed the column, tracer bullets outlining the deadly fire. Though strictly against regulations, the Texan dove for the safety beneath the truck. His buddy Carlson ran behind a tree, but was cut down.

As they approached the Remagen Bridge which crossed the Rhine below

Cologne and Bonn, they knew the Germans planned to blow it up. If the Allies crossed here in large numbers, they could then take the Ruhr Pocket, a highly industrialized part of Germany, and continue on to Berlin.

At the edge of the bridge which served the railroad, trucks, and autos, Campbell and another soldier walked in front of their truck guiding it around the bombed-out holes. "Since it was night time," Campbell explained, "the only light was the parking lights on the truck, and that didn't exactly light up the countryside... (but) We got over the Rhine without any mishaps."

The next day the Remagen Bridge was the setting for a dogfight between a Messerschmidt 109 and an American P38. As the American soldiers watched, the German plane scored a hit on the P38 which then crashed without anyone bailing out.

A few weeks later, an artillery shell wounded Campbell in the foot. As the ambulance retraced their route from the front, it came to the Rhine where the Remagen Bridge had been. The crossing on a pitching pontoon bridge caused some moments of anxiety for the wounded soldiers.

Operated on in Germany, then transferred to France to await passage back to the states, Campbell was in Cherbourg, France, when President Roosevelt passed away. "The first thing the Frenchmen wanted to know," the veteran reminisced, "was if President Roosevelt had a son to take his place."

After landing in Boston, then New York, and later Okmulgee, Oklahoma, Campbell was sent to Brooks General Hospital in San Antonio and was there when he heard the news: Japan surrendered in August 1945.

Vietnam Conflict
The North Vietnamese attack on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on August 7, 1964, broke the relative military calm during Larry Hoyle's advanced training at Ft. Benning, Georgia. The incident compelled Congress to grant broad presidential powers to deal with the growing conflict—short of a declaration of war.

Though Hoyle had graduated from Texas Tech with a BPA in Accounting before volunteering for the draft, the skill which proved most useful was high school typing. However, these clerical duties kept him from learning his assigned specialty of radar.

This deficiency soon became apparent when the command tapped him to operate a radar unit for a group shipping out of Ft. Davis, Mass., for Vietnam. Rescued from operating a radar unit he had never seen, Hoyle was assigned to Brigade Headquarters writing and typing up orders for the different operations.

When President Lyndon Johnson increased troop strength in Vietnam to 125,000, Hoyle was shipped out on a troop carrier designed to hold 3,000 soldiers. However, some 4,500 men were jammed into every possible place, the theatre, the brig, and on deck. Meal time was limited to twice daily during the twenty-three day voyage. Once Hoyle drew KP for twenty-four hours, repetitively eyeing potatoes.

As the troops neared their destination, they watched planes bombing and strafing off shore. Loaded into amphibian landing craft and psyched up to fight once they hit shore, the infantrymen anxiously waited for the ramp doors to open. As they rolled onto the beach, the doors plopped down, and the men came storming out. A band struck up a rousing march. There was General Westmoreland to greet the disembarking soldiers.

The surprise welcome provided a moment of comic relief as they realized a nearby bombing range had provided the fireworks. The festivities were short, and on the metal landing strip awaited a C-130 Transport, ready for the trip toward the interior of South Vietnam. From the staging area of Bien Hoa near Saigon, the convoy moved out.

Hoyle compared the combat situation to the early days of the American West when the settler's wagons were circled in defense as the Indians bombarded them from all sides. In Vietnam there was no front to defend, just separate enclaves of Americans, surrounded by rain forest and the enemy.

The war was one of nerves as the recruits found out on their first night. Larry recalled, "Everyone was antsy and trigger-happy. We didn't know what was going to happen. So we cleared out the brush as best we could... About three-fourths a mile away from us was another American bunch, but there was no connection between the two."

Between the camps was a Vietcong who fired, it was later determined, one shot. Each camp thought it was under attack by the Viet Cong and opened fire. "It was a major gun battle... We blew up one of their tankers. They were shooting artillery flares, but didn't quite have them regulated yet. One didn't quit burning before it hit the ground and burned up one of the tents. They were calling for a resupply of ammunition... I thought they were going to jump across the wire. They were firing final protective fire, crisscrossing the machine guns on the outside to hold 'em back. I mean," Larry chuckled ever so slightly, "everybody was scared to death. Finally, they got it all quieted down. All from one enemy shot fired..."

Every morning the roads would have to be cleared of trees and booby traps with a grappling hook. "You never went anywhere outside your camp without clearing your road because there were mines, booby traps," he explained.

Though the ground vibrated from the 175 millimeter guns firing at distant trails intermittently, the soldiers learned to sleep right through the barrage. They became accustomed to life-threatening situations, but death was never far away as they were reminded following the camp's Christmas show. A patrol went out and not more than fifty yards from the perimeter was ambushed.

When asked about his feelings on the Vietnam conflict, Hoyle expressed disappointment: "I thought we could have won it. There was too much control taken away from the field, centralized in Washington, D.C. One time we signaled for a lot of fire for a place... They couldn't give us the o.k. at division headquarters. The order had to come from the Pentagon before we could return the fire. That's how de-centralized the control was."

When Hoyle's tour of duty, from September 1965 to February 1966, was over, he was flown back to Saigon where he caught a chartered commercial airliner to the states, backtracking in twenty-four hours what had taken twenty-three days to cover by troop carrier a few short months and a life-time ago.

Bring the full tithes into the storehouse, that there may be food in my house; and thereby put me to the test, says the Lord of hosts, if I will not open the windows of heaven for you and pour down for you an overflowing blessing. I will rebuke the devourer for you, so that it will not destroy the fruits of your soil; and your vine in the field shall not fail to bear, says the Lord of hosts. Malachi 3:10,11

Host Families Sought For International High School Students

Host Families are being sought for high school exchange students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Brazil, Ecuador, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Thailand and Yugoslavia for the School Year 1990-91 in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE). The students, age 15 through 17, will arrive in the United States in August, 1990, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in June, 1991. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

Host Families may deduct $50.00 per month for income tax purposes.

AISE is also seeking AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, age 15 through 17, who would like to spend a High School Year in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, France, Spain, New Zealand or Australia or participate in a five week summer Host Family stay throughout Western Europe.

Families interested in either program should call Toll Free: 1-800-SIBLING.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

A man gave a boy an orange. "What do you tell the kind man?" asked his mother. "Peel it!" cried the boy.

Parents find it difficult to teach their children to say, "Thank you." And some of God's children don't find it easy to say,

"Thank you." Yet the Bible says, "Give thanks for everything, for God expects this of you."

Gratitude takes three forms: A feeling in the heart, an expression on the lips, and a giving in return.

Don't let the abundance of God's gifts cause you to forget the Giver in your satisfaction over His gifts.

So give thanks part of the time, live thanks the rest of the time, and you'll be happy all of the time.

Purchasing a new air conditioner can be a dilemma!

All air conditioning systems may look similar when you're shopping for a new one, but before you purchase, be sure you know about the Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio. S.E.E.R. is a system that rates air conditioning equipment usually from 5 to 15 so shoppers will know how energy efficient a unit is.

WTU recommends selecting a unit with a rating of 9 or higher to insure lower operating costs. Plus a S.E.E.R. of 9 or above can qualify you for a rebate under WTU's Energy Saving Plan. Ask for details.

Motley County Clinic Receives Award

RECEIVES AWARD: Motley County Clinic recently received the P-A-C-E Setter Award for having carried out recommended priority activities in cancer education during the 1988-1989 program year. Presenting the award on behalf of the American Cancer Society is Diane Davis. Gerry Jones RNFNP accepted the award for the clinic.

HEALTH TIPS

Do You Know Everything You Should About AIDS?

Ever since AIDS became a household word and a national epidemic, controversy has surrounded the deadly disease syndrome. From its cause to its treatment to ethical issues concerning the care of AIDS patients, no one fully understands the illness that has taken over 50,000 lives in five years.

One significant AIDS controversy is the disagreement over the cause of the disease. Some scientists believe the HIV virus is not the reason, but merely another infection. Doubts still remain about the likelihood that everyone infected with HIV will develop AIDS. There are no easy answers.

There has been increasing attention paid to AIDS treatments. Many doctors and patients alike have accused the government of slowing down Food and Drug Administration approval for medication and treatment that could save lives. Why haven't there been more or quicker clinical trials?

These and other issues are the subject of CDC AIDS Weekly and Infoline, a non-government periodical and computer database dedicated to presenting accurate and timely AIDS information. A free sample copy and information on subscriptions and databases can be obtained by calling 1-800-633-4931, or writing to: Subscription Office, P.O. Box 830409, Birmingham, AL 35283-0409.

Many of the other controversies surrounding AIDS involve the spread of the disease and attempts to prevent it. Can the drug-using population be reached and educated about AIDS? Needle exchange programs for addicts and condoms given out to prison inmates are two possible preventive measures that have met with both praise and criticism.

EASY MAGIC FROM FRESH HERBS

Fresh herbs are turning up on American tables with a frequency and variety unheard of a generation ago. According to the American Spice Trade Association, 1984 per capita consumption of herbs and spices in the U.S. was 42 ounces, 10 ounces more than in 1974.

This herbal enthusiasm stems from the discovery that herbs bring fresh, delicate flavors to recipes.

Basil and Garlic Potato Bake is a perfect example. Fresh basil leaves, pepper and garlic blend with potatoes and the rich, full flavor of Swanson clear ready to serve chicken broth to give ordinary potatoes extraordinary new flavors. And with the help of Swanson chicken broth, this recipe is an easy way to experience the magic of fresh herbs.

Basil And Garlic Potato Bake

- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh basil leaves
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

- 6 medium cloves garlic, slivered
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) Swanson clear ready to serve chicken broth
- 2 pounds potatoes, sliced

1. In large bowl, combine basil, oil, pepper and garlic. Add broth and potatoes; toss to coat well.
2. In 13- by 9-inch baking dish, arrange potato mixture. Bake at 325°F. for 1 hour 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender and liquid is absorbed. Makes 6 servings.

The onion is a lily that has been bred through the centuries for development of its bulb and suppression of its top.
