Question: We were told that the cold weather knocked out our television reception last weekend. We understand ice broke the wires. How did this effect the reception tower west of Matador.

Answer: An estimated 500 power poles went down from ice accumulations in Floyd County last week knocking out electric service to customers in western Motley County. Light-house Electric Coopera-tive in Floydada furnishes the power for the tower and when they lost power due to the ice storm the tower also lost power, making television reception impossible until Lighthouse crews. were able to put up new poles and fix the wires.

COUNTY'S FIRST PLANE --John Barton is shown in the cockpit of his Lincoln Standard in 1924 on a field north of Whiteflat. The plane, proclaimed the first in Motley County, had a water cooled French Hisso engine. A wild hail storm and strong wind destroyed the plane a few years later. Barton said in 1921 he had the first and only radio in the county, but reception was poor until about 1923. He was born in a half dugout near Matador in 1899 and is still a resident here. His sister, Mila (Barton) McLarty was born in 1897 and now lives in Galveston. He said he once got a whipping for casually setting Mila's hair on fire as she sat brushing it beside the fire place. Provided to Tribune by Miss Verlin Reeves I. E. MARTIN AND FAMILY EARLY TIMERS (Written About 20 Years Ago)

Mr. I. E. Martin came west in 1890 looking for a home. He found a pretty grassy prairie, which is now the Flomot community, and filed on a claim then returned to his home in Hill County. He stayed there until the spring of 1891, then he loaded all of his possessions along with Mrs. Martin, three children, Avay, Claud, and Minnie and his mother into two covered wagons and started west to his claim. He had a few cattle and horses, these he drove overland with them.

They reached the claim June 16, 1891. They camped in the wagons until he could cut cedar post enough to build a dug out. As soon as he had his family located, he went to work for the F. Ranch to support them. Mrs. Martin cared for the stock and the home while he was away, taking the hardships of a pioneer wife. EARLY DAY HARDSHIPS

At one time the women saw a trail of dust in the west, it turned out to be a band of Indians. They surrounded the dug out riding round and round whooping and yelling. The F. Ranch hands saw the Indians coming and reached the dug out in time to save the women and children. Upon seeing the cowboys the Indians raced off to the west and never came back.

Some time later a great prairie fire came off the plains from the west. It was a terrible thing, burning every thing in it's path. The men plowed fire guards around their homes to save their families. They even killed cattle, cut them open, dragging them by ropes tied to the saddle horns to try to stop the fire. Mrs. Martin and her two oldest children took the wagon and team and water barrels and dipped water out of the tank Mr. Martin had built for his stock, hauling it to the fire fighters. It finally burned itself out at the fork of Pease and Quitaque Rivers.

In those days clothes lines were unknown. The women used mesquite bushes and trees to dry their clothes. Late one evening while gathering in the clothes Mrs. Martin looked around to see a large panther between her and the dug out. She screamed and shook clothes at it but it didn't run, so she worked her way around the panther and ran to the dug out. She closed the door and didn't get out any more that night.

Although being away from home most of the time Mr. Martin managed to get in and break up some land to plant feed and a garden on, then Mrs. Martin cared for it after it was planted. She and the two oldest children hoed and worked it. In the fall she would cut and shock the feed, gather the corn and pumpkins in for winter. While Mrs. Martin did the milking and other out side work Grandma Martin took care of the younger children.

The older Martin children attended school at what was then called "The Quitaque School." They walked three miles and carried their lunch in tin pails. Their first teacher was a Mrs. Pierce.

The Martins then bought land north of Pease River and lived there quite a while in a dug out, then moved to the south side of the river where he established his Flying O. Ranch, which was the ranch home for several years.

Later the Martins moved to north west Matador, Texas for school purposes. After living several places he built the big two story house a few blocks north east of the jail, one of the nicest homes here at that time. He then added the Dutchman Ranch, being a thrifty man he invested in land and cattle until at one time he was the largest land owner in the county except the Matadors. He always told his children to "Never let a dollar go to their heads". He observed this motto himself always. He passed away in 1920 and Mrs. Martin carried on alone until 1947 when she passed on.

Change of Ownership

Smith Gas and Supply of Roaring Springs is changing ownership to J. N. Fletcher.

The Martin children are: Avay (Mrs. Blackshear), Minnie (Mrs. Hines), Onie (Mrs. Burleson) and Katie (Mrs. James) all of Matador, Texas. Mrs. John Barton (Josie) of Whitestar, Texas. Curt of the Dutchman Ranch, Bob of Whiteflat, Texas and Ned of Hobbs, N.M., Claud, Dub and Dock are deceased.

Mrs. Harriet Martin, better known as "Grandma Martin", had two other sons besides Mr. I.E. who were also pioneers of this county, being Wood and Wade Martin both now deceased. "Grandma" not only helped the I.E. Martin family, she helped many other families, since there was no doctor here until 1898 she brought many a baby into this world. Many of us born before 1898 owe our lives to her. She was busy going from one homesteader to another wherever she was needed.

She was a native Texan and died here in 1904 at the age of 74.

ABC was the top sexoriented network, CBS was the top user of profanity and Proctor & Gamble was the number one sponsor of both sex and profanity according to the report.

The monitoring, covering 799.5 hours of prime-time programming between September 9 and December 1 last fall, was done by approximately 450 trained volunteers in nine states

The report showed a decrease of 5.1 per cent of sexually-oriented activity during the period when compared with a similar period of 1978. The decrease came in the area of skin scenes, which the NFD described as "undue and unnecessary emphasis on the female anatomy." The number of skin scenes dropped from 1842 in 1978 to 1604 last fall. NBC was the only network to increase the number of skin scenes.

number of The suggested intercourse scenes and sexually suggestive comments rose by two, from 2,698 to 2,700. ABC had a decrease of 20 per cent of sex-oriented programming overall, and their non-skin scene sex content dropped 23 per cent. CBS had a decrease increase of sex-oriented programming, and their non-skin scenes rose by 34 per cent. A total of 87.41 per cent of all sex was depicted outside marriage.

Profanity rose by 45.47 per cent from 1,005 in 1978 to 1.462 last fall. CBS led the networks with 728 words of profanity. NBC increased their profanity 63.7 per cent, CBS 50.4 per cent and ABC 19.1 per cent

In beverage use, 71.57 per cent of all people shown drinking were depicted drinking alcoholic beverages. Coffee was the next most popular drink, with 11.96 per cent. People shown drinking alcohol in primetime rose from 2,630 in 1978 to 4,677 last fall, an increase of 77.83 per cent. Ads were not included in the beverage monitoring.

A complete copy of the report can be obtained free of cost by mailing a self-addressed, stamped envelope to NFD, Box 1398, Tupelo, Miss. 38801.

The report showed 68.57 per cent of all prime-time programs had sexual content, with 52.73 per cent containing profanity. A total of 87 per cent of all programs contained either sex and-or profanity. Only 13 per cent did not contain sex and-or profanity.

Sex incidents were aired at an average of 5.37 per programming hour on all intercourse scenes or sexually suggestive comments during primetime. That would rise to 18,429 when skin scenes were added. Proctor & Gamble was listed as the top sponsor of sex for the second year in a row. Other top sponsors of sex included American Home Products, General Foods, Pepsico, Chrysler, Warner-Lambert General Motors, Sterling Drug, Unilever-Lever Brothers, and Ford Motor Company. The top sexually. oriented programs were CBS Movies, NBC Movies, Movies, ABC ABC Specials, One At A Time (CBS), Soap (ABC), Real People (NBC), B.J. & The Bear (NBC), Three's Company (ABC), Archie Bunker's Place (CBS), and Love Boat (ABC) Proctor & Gamble's move to the top of the profanity list was made from the number six position a year ago. Other top sponsors of profanity included American Home Products, General Foods, Ford, Chrysler, Pepsico, Bristol-Myers, Unilever-Lever Brothers, Sterling Drug and Johnson & Johnson.

The top profanityoriented programs were CBS Movies, NBC Movies, ABC Movies, Archie Bunker's Place (CBS), Dallas (CBS), Holocaust (NBC), Rockford Files (NBC), and M-A-S-H

The least constructive programming sponsors were Olympia Brewing, Norton-Simon, Noxell. Toyota, American Cyanamid, Schering-Plough, Honda, Beecham, Chemical and Dow Colgate-Palmolive.

The least constructive programs were Soap (ABC), Best of Saturday Night Live (NBC), . The Associates (ABC), Three's Company (ABC), The Ropers (ABC), The Last Resort (CBS), Archie Bunker's Place (CBS), Hello Larry (NBC), and WKRP in Cincinnati (CBS)

NBC had a constructive programming rating of 6.388, CBS 5.910 and ABC 5.557. Top constructive rating possible was 10.

This was the third consecutive year for the NFD to conduct the monitoring program.

Management Control For Cattlemen -- Cattlemen must accept "man-agement control" as a means to more profitable beef production, cona beef cattle tends specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Management control means that a rancher sets a goal on the kind of cattle he wants to raise, plans to do it, and then does it. Ranchers need to have some goals and must be able to measure their accomplishments, if for no other reason than to determine whether or not they are making progress.

Nursery Trade Is "People Business) --Nurserymen are in the "people business" and must have commitment and enthusiasm, according to California nurseryman Ken Cook. Cook, addressing the Annual Nurserymen's Short Course at Texas A&M University, said two keys to a successful nursery business are maintaining product quality and having knowledgeable people working for you. He predicted a bullish market for nursery products in 1980 and increasing competition from discount places.

Bankers to Examine "Profitability" -- One of the highlights of the 28th Texas Farm and Ranch Credit Conference for Commercial Bankers at Texas A&M University, Feb. 11--12, will be a session on "bank profitability," according to an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University system.

The session will deal with ways to reduce bank operating expenses, how to better use available funds, and methods of pricing bank services.

Hoelscher is New State Extension Entomologist -Dr. Clifford E. Hoelscher will assume a statewide entomologist position with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on Feb. 1. He served as Extension area entomologist for Central Texas since 1970, with headquarters at Stephenville. Hoelscher will handle educational programs concerning insect pests of livestock, peanuts, grain and forage crops.

Winter Planning for Spring Beauty -- Use the long winter evenings to plan your spring and summer flower gardens, suggests a landscape horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Review garden catalogs to get details about flower varieties, such as color, height, planting tips and season of bloom. Then select seed or plan to buy started plants for a wellarranged, attractive Lighthouse Electric Cooperative is sponsoring an Irrigation Forum, Monday, February 11, at the Massie Activity Center in Floydada. The meeting is slated to begin with registration and coffee at 9:30 a.m. with the program beginning at 10:00 a.m., followed by lunch at 12:00 noon.

The main focus of the forum will be on pump efficiency and how to get the most for your irrigation dollar.

Featured speakers will be Joe Harbin, director of Member Services at Bailey County Electric Cooperative at Muleshoe. Harbin began pump efficiency testing 19 years ago at Muleshoe for the cooperative and has been actively engaged in farming all of his life.

Leon New, ag engineer with the Extension Service, will present results of pump efficiency tests that have been conducted during the past year in the area. New has been an irrigation specialist for eleven years and directs irrigation activities for a 79 county area. He has earned numerous awards and recognition for outstanding achievement in the field of irrigation.

Wayne Wyatt and Don Smith of High Plains Underground Water Conservation District will present a joint program on the current activities of the district. They will present the film "Water On Demand," which deals with the overall geological aspects of irrigation, as well as the proper construction of an irrigation well.

Mickey Black, Area Conservationist and Myron Namken, Area Engineer, for the Soil Conservation Service in Lubbock will talk about what is available through SCS to help farmers irrigate more efficiently.

All irrigators are encouraged to attend, and additional information may be obtained by calling Lighthouse Electric Cooperative in Floydada at 983-2814.
