Victory Bell Donated At Spirit Rally

The original bell of the first school in Motley County, which was located at Whiteflat, will once again ring for Motley County students, as it was formally dedicated to the school this past Tuesday at the "Back to School Spirit Rally" by P.T.A. president, Mrs. Francis Hobbs. In addition to the dedication of the bell, an ice cream supper was held in appreciation of the returning teachers and to welcome the new teachers.

Mrs. Hobbs introduced the faculty and acknowledged the hard work, dedication, and tremendous contribution of the faculty. She cited, "tonight's gathering has been set aside in order that parents can let their school and faculty know how much their contribution is appreciated."

Miss Pam Francis, president of the student council, introduced the high school football team and coaches, as the cheerleaders led everyone in a series of cheers.

As the football team stood on the field the new victory bell was driven onto the field for the formal dedication. A brief history of the bell was given by Mrs. Hobbs. The bell was donated to the original Whiteflat school in the 1890's by William R. Tilson I. Mr. Tilson came to Texas from Virginia and began investing in land in 1885. He named the community in which he settled and help establish, "Whiteflat." He was instrumental in building the first school to which he donated the bell. He also helped build the second two story Whiteflat schoolhouse and the bell continued to be used at this school until it was closed in 1942. The bell has since been in the Tilson family and is being donated to the school by Mrs. Naomie Tilson in memory of William R. Tilson I and his families. A memorial plaque has been ordered and will be placed on the bell upon arrival. Through the combined efforts of the P.T.A., Student Council, School Administration and other individuals the victory bell was dedicated to the school and student body. Charles N. Johnson donated the trailer and it was remodeled and the bell was mounted by Bill Moss, vocational-ag teacher and his last year's pre-lab class. He was assisted in the final welding stages by Vaden Hayes, Kelly Jackson, Roy Hobbs and Butch Renfro. Tony Rose volunteered his services to paint the trailer and bell. Designs of a matador and lettering was painted on the bell by Francis Hobbs, Lindy Stafford, and Dell Bearden. Matador Motor and Implement donated lights to be installed by Kelly Jackson. The bell was pulled onto the field by a new Ford pickup compliments of Matador Auto. Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served to everyone by the P.T.A.

Billy Shannon Elected County Insect Control Representative

Billy Shannon of the Flomot Community was selected to represent Motley County on the 8 County In Season Cotton Insect Management Program Committee. Representatives from the 8 Counties are scheduled to select a member to serve on the Texas Pest Management Association Board. Shannon was selected at a meeting of the five County Committeemen on August 29th. In addition to Shannon, other County Committee are James Taylor, Matador; Franklin Jameson, Northfield; J.N. Fletcher, Roaring Springs; and E.A. Day, Whiteflat. Community Committeemen elected by producers the week of August 12th were: Flomot; Clois Shorter, Billy Shannon, and Larry Bynum. Matador; James Taylor, Charlie Renfro, and Bill Smallwood. Northfield; Nevada Cook, Clem Timmons, and Franklin Jameson. Roaring Springs; Dean McInroe, Buz Thacker, and J.N. Fletcher. Whiteflat; Roy Stephens, Bennie Keltz, and E.A. Day. First named in each Community were selected for 3-year terms; second listed for 2-year terms; and third listed for 1-year terms. Each year a new Community Committee Man is to be elected for a 3 year term, thereby insuring that some Committeemen will always have Program experience. Each year Community Committeemen are to select one of their members to be on the County Committee and the County Committee is to select one of their members to serve on the Area Committee. Purpose of the organization is to strengthen the Insect Control Program. In the past most program suggestions and directives have come from the top. This organization should allow producers to make their suggestions to Committeemen who will in turn pass them up for consideration by County, Area, and State Committees.

State Takes Control Of Theater Building

The old Rogue Theater building and the former City Bakery Shop sold to the State of Texas Tuesday morning in public auction when none of the bidders present were able to match the $2,148 bid set by the court for the collection of back taxes. The buildings, vacant for about 20 years, were part of the Graham Estate. The Bakery has most recently been used by the local chapter of the 4-H Club as a rifle range sponsored by the National Rifle Association.

The 4-H Club had hoped to equal the bid set by the court but were unable to match the figure. The buildings are subject to be redeemed by the previous owners within the next two years, however the State does not have to wait for two years to reacquire the buildings. If the state does sell the property the former owners still have the option to redeem the buildings for two years.

Frustrated Anti-Gun Lobby Turns to Senator Kennedy

Gun control advocates, frustrated by President Carter's lack of action, are turning to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to launch another battle for tougher federal restrictions on handguns. Kennedy aides say the Massachusetts Democrat plans to introduce a bill that would ban the manufacture and sale of the small, easily concealed handguns used most often in gun crimes. Although details of the Kennedy proposal are still being drafted, the major thrust resembles legislation drawn up by the Carter administration more than a year ago and now virtually abandoned. Carter promised during his election campaign to seek new legislation to curb the proliferation of handguns, despite continuing and vigorous opposition from the National Rifle Association.

"WE THOUGHT THE president was ideally suited for this because he's a Southerner and he's a hunter. But now we have the situation of a president afraid to act," Charles Orasin, executive vice president of Handgun Control Inc., said late last week. The group is a private organization that advocates tougher gun restrictions. "We feel Sen. Kennedy is the only person in the country right now who can push for controls," Orasin continued. "He's not afraid of the NRA and he speaks out not only as a politician but as someone who has been victimized by handgun violence." Kennedy's brother Robert was slain with a handgun; President John F. Kennedy was killed with a rifle. It is not yet clear whether Carter would support the Kennedy bill. Responding to a question at a news conference April 10, the president said he still favors tougher gun laws. He added, however, that "I think to pursue it aggressively in the Congress would be a mistake. But we will cooperate with the Congress."

Noting that Congress last year killed a much milder Treasury Department proposal to require serial numbers on new handguns, Carter observed, "I think that indicates the attitude of Congress." The proposal was designed to make it easier to trace handguns used in crimes. But the NRA claimed it was the first step toward national registration of gun owners. OBSERVERS ON BOTH sides of the issue agree that any gun control legislation faces an uphill battle and little if any chance of passage anytime soon, particularly in light of the 314-80 House vote against the Treasury proposal last year. Orasin said that Kennedy's clout as

SOME VACATION GOLF

LaVoe, Buzz, Mamie

and Tom enjoyed golfing on the Inn of the Mountain God's Course on a recent trip to Ruidoso.

Louise, and Alfred also planned to play there--but the rainy season caught them and they only got to play 9 holes and rain ran them in off the course 4 times. So they were disappointed!

Bill with his son in law, Vernard Alexander, and friends, played at Alto Lakes Country Club--Bill won putting for par on all the front 9--and made most of them.

Your reporter, with Rose and Carl, played the Alto Course--"Twas fun"--having a caddy, cart driver and fellow player.

These golf courses are most beautiful and scenic pleasure to view and play.

LABOR DAY

Butch R. spent his "Labor Day" mowing the grassburrs around all the green--using his riding mower--and Roy worked the "drags"--putting surface. And at the same time -- played 9 holes of golf with Judy and Frances.

Then Loys and Joe joined them for playing another round--and had a little tournament -- best ball--Roy and Loys won -- 36.

A special thanks to Butch and Roy for their work and getting the greens in good shape. The grassburrs had been terrible and kept some members from playing--not wanting to wade through them.

Fall Application Is New Weed Control

A new concept in perennial weed control in Texas cropland is being met with enthusiasm. The concept is a fall application of herbicide on perennial weeds.

Dr. John Abernathy of Texas A&M has been instrumental in promoting the concept of a fall treatment, and explained its advantages. "A fall application strikes the weeds while they are in their most susceptible stage. Sugar and carbohydrates are no longer feeding the foliar plant, but are traveling back to the root system, where a kill can be achieved."

Field test initiated by Velsicol Chemical Corporation have shown successful control of perennial weeds in the High Plains with use of Banvel herbicide. Fall treatments with Banvel at a two quart per acre rate, have resulted a 85-95 percent control of field bindweed, Texas lakeweed, blueweed and silverleaf nightshade.

In addition to improved performance with Banvel, growers were able to achieve a savings of $50-60 per acre on herbicide costs for a broadcast application. When broadcast application is no necessary, Banvel 5-G (granular form) is available for spot treatment.

For permanent root kill, Velsicol recommends applying Banvel with a surfactant in the fall when perennial weeds are actively growing, seven to fourteen days prior to tillage or frost.

CONTROL From Page One

Judiciary Committee chairman may enhance the strength of the gun control movement.

However, the Senate Ethics Committee ruled recently that Kennedy acted improperly by writing fund-raising letters for Handgun Control and another gun control group on his official Senate stationery.

The decision by the ethics panel did not subject Kennedy to any disciplinary action. The committee found that his use of official stationery violated an advisory opinion -- not a Senate rule.

The letters by Kennedy were written on behalf of Handgun

Control and the National Coalition to Ban Handguns. Spokesmen for the senator said Kennedy felt that he met the spirit of the advisory opinion, but that he would abide by the committee's ruling.

The committee had acted on a complaint filed by the Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms, which accused Kennedy of "obvious disregard of the ethics standards of the Senate."

Kennedy contended in the two letters that most Americans wanted some type of control over handguns and blamed opponents of gun control for the failure of the Congress to act.
