Sheriff Wilson Had No Second Chance!

Jalmar [Jinks] Wilson received no second chance! His judge, jury, and apparent executioner — one man, Larry Carnell Fortenberry showed no mercy!

Wilson was the Motley County sheriff until he was gunned down Nov. 12, 1976 - not greatly unlike a dangerous animal being destroyed. He was less than two months away from retirement.

But, Fortenberry, the man charged with Wilson's murder, is being given a second chance. The Texas Criminal Justice Council points to a trivial trial error in overturning his death sentence. This undoubtedly will mean another trial.

Has the pendulum of justice swung too far? Certainly none of us would be calloused enough to desire that any citizen should not receive a fair trial. Our constitution guarantees this right and freedom. But....

It seems improbable - if not impossible for our court system to conduct a proper trial without the verdict being questioned because of some minute technicality.

We desire that Larry Carnell Fortenberry receive an equitable trial Jinks Wilson. But, we believe that something is seriously wrong with our justice system when a convicted murderer must be tried two or more times - after being found guilty - because of a

The answer, we believe, lies somewhere between the vigilante, mob rule, no trial theory of yesteryear and today's overly tolerant approach.

RIGHT TO BEAR ARMS By Elvin Dick

Recently, our right to keep and bear arms was threatened by way of the back door by Jimmy Carter through the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. He ordered computerized registration of guns, which is to take one step further toward total confiscation. This failed as alert citizens and a bill to prohibit appropriations (which can likewise be done to keep from Treaty).

February saw the official withdrawal of this attack on our guns. But be ready. This is one more objective the "wrecker", Mr. Carter, is after, our guns.

After the decisive Battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836, in which Texans under Sam Houston defeated the Mexican Army under Santa Anna, President Burnet established Velasco as the temporary capital of Texas, Mrs. Pipkin related.

"However," she said, "There is some question of the historical significance of the Battle of Velaaco, in June, 1832. It was not really a part of the Texas War of Independence. It happened four years ahead of the Texas Declaration of Independence, four years before the Battle of the Alamo, the subsequent victory at San Jacinto and the eventual

Two major storms in 1875 and 1900, wiped out the remnants of the original settlement of Velasco. The area is now part of Brazosport's "surfside" district, a seaside area of resort and recreation development. Following the 1875 storm the town of Velasco was relocated upstream from its first site. Special recognition was made of the "Drop-outs" ... more recently known as 'Wet-backs''...for thier work on clearing mesquites from the fairways: Howard, Marvin, Clay, Jake E. and Jake G. John Briscoe has helped them, as well as Geneva, and also Loys and Joe who have spent lots of time and work---hauling many loads of mesquite brush and trash to the dump

Joe has started working the greens---making them perfect round shape, and cutting the grass around the edge. Saturday he spent four hours on No. one green. So, it's gonna take a lot of work to do the other eight greens... Latest word is that all the greens have been cleaned and worked, and anyone wishing to make a contribution, may see Joe or Roy at the bank.

The Men's Association had a business meeting following supper and elected these officers: Howard, President; Jake E. Vice President and Roy H. Secretary-treasurer. Committees were also appointed: Greens, Boyce, Jake G. John Briscoe, and Charlie Long. Tournament: Alfred, Jake G. and Jeff.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Elvin Dick

This will acknowledge receipt of your recent letter in which you express your views regarding the implementation legislation of the Panama Canal treaties

When the Senate ratified the Panama Canal treaties in April of 1978, it did so with numerous assurances by the President and his representatives that there existed a valid agreement between the United States and Panama, and that the transfer of the Canal would not create any financial burden on American tax-During recent payers.

Congressional hearings, however, it has been learned that the transfer could cost the U.S. taxpayers in excess of $4 billion. Due to this development and recent claims by the Panamanian Government to U.S. property and tax jurisdiction in the Canal Zone, I am co-sponsoring House Resolution 75, which, if passed, would call for the President to immediately withdraw the instruments of ratification of the Panama Canal treaties of 1977, until the total costs of those treaties and their full implications for U.S. citizens are determined.

In addition, I have signed House Resolution 1958, which would prevent any disposal of U.S. property in the Canal Zone without specific authorization by an Act of Congress.

I have always opposed the give-away of the Panama Canal and can assure you that I will do my best to protect our interests in the and uphold our Constitution? Since the Constitution is the supreme law of the land (Article VI "This Constitution . . . shall be the supreme Law of the Land;"), nothing short of an amendment should ever be allowed by the people to change this

There has been proposed amendments recently on school busing, equal rights for women, reaportionament and tax limitation. Is not the right to keep and bear arms much more vital than these for amending? No, the enemy from within, by conspiracy, seek to go around the supreme law of the land to rend us helpless like cattle, without arms.

The masses of free men, in order to remain free absolutely cannot allow their right to bear arms to slip through their fingers for that right is the "policeman", the force of the people to protect all their other rights from being taken away! How did Russia and Iran fall Red? By force of arms!

County Agent Says

Now is the time to treat your ornamentals for powdery mildew, the most destructive disease of roses, crape myrtles, Photinia and

It occurs under conditions of low humidity and low moisture, with the disease attacking growing portions of the plants. Young leaves develop slightly raised blister-like areas that soon become covered with growth. As young leaves grow, they become curled and distroted.

Older leaves develop large white patches of the fungus with no leaf distortion. Ti ny, black fruiting fungal mildew patches, especially late in the season. Some-open improperly. A flower blight is caused when the infestion spreads to mature flower parts Powdery mildew fungus is most common when warm days follow cool nights, or where air circulation is poor. In the fall, remove all diseased annuals, and prune diseased parts of perennials begin fungicidal applications can also be made during the flowering period to avoid blossom blight.

Apply one of the following fungicides at 7 to 10 day intervals or as needed cycloheximide, benomyl dinocap or sulfur. (Use bodies are embedded in the sulfur at temperatures below 85 F. or it will burn the plant.) Be sure to follow times buds are attacked, and instructions on the products
