Roaring Springs Ranch Club Now Open For Memberships

By Leon Watson Tribune Editor

On a clear night you can hear the waterfall roar for miles. The cool, pure water calls wild life, birds and humans in to enjoy the most peaceful recreation area in the great Foothill Country.

It's the Roaring Springs Ranch, and artifacts show it has been used by humans as a recreation site for centuries. The Wichitas and the Commanches camped and hunted here. The buffalo hunters moved in and stayed until the big game was gone and then ranchers came.

Hydrological studies done on the water show the mineral content and the temperature doesn't match the water normally found in this area. There are indications that the water comes from New Mexico, surfaces here and then again in South Texas. More than one million gallons of water each day flows from the underground spring and down the rocks, then eastward down the South Pease River.

The Ranch is now owned by developer Jerrell Jennings, who has turned it into a private ranch club. With the help of ecology planners and assistance from Texas Tech University, Jennings said they were designing the springs to be forever as nature intended it to be a recreation area

As a private family recreation and camping area, the ranch will be owned and operated by the members. There will be a limited number of charter membeships sold for Motley County and surrounding area residents.

Along with the swimming pool, members will enjoy fishing lakes, over 450 improved campsites with water and electric hook-ups, and wilderness campsites with over 10 miles of wilderness trails. There will be a golf course complete with a driving range miniature golf, amphitheater, hayrides, cookout trail rides, a chapel. baseball fields, motor cycle riding areas and a museum.

A new community center will have a post office, laundry mat, country store, game room, and a fire place lounge area.

A total of five lakes will be stocked with catfish, bass and crappie. A small pool will have bream in it for children with cane fishing

Birdwatchers can find more varieties of their feathered friends here than any other location in West Texas. In the stands of cottonwood, black walnut, oak, elm and large mesquite you can see dove, quail and turkey. In December and memberships and campsites January of the camp's second season, the dove and quail will be available for hunting in a special 500-acre area adjacent to the camping resort. The hunting will be on a limited basis; lots will be drawn by club members to keep the area from being over-hunted.

When construction is completed the ranch will employ about 22 local people, with several management positions open.

Already members are bringing campers to the ranch for a relaxing week end. A limit on the number of will keep the ranch free of wall-to-wall tents, mobile homes and vans. The improved campsites will have comfort stations with showers, rest rooms and security lighting.

The ranch, as a whole, offers a camper privacy and security, with varied recreation for the entire family. The operation is masterplanned and will be kept in Springs Ranch Club, P. O. its natural setting.

County Agent Says

COTTON PLANT GROWTH AND

BOLL WEEVIL HABITS

To assist cotton producers in the management of the boll weevil the following information should be of assistance.

Normally it takes cotton 5 to 7 days to come up. The colder the soil, the longer it takes, and studies conducted in this area show the following: When cotton is planted on the bed, 5 percent of the plants come up in 5 days when planted in late May or early June: in 7 days, 42 percent of the plants came up; in 8 days, 53 percent came up: in 19 days. 59 percent came up; and 20 days, 76 percent came up. When cotton is planted in the furrow, after 5 days no plants were up; after 7 days, 18 percent came up; after 8 days 40 percent came up: and after 20 days 67 percent were up

It was also noted that 100 percent of the plants that came up in 5 days produced cotton; only 46 percent of the plants that took 8 days to come up produced cotton; and only 29 percent of the plants that took 12 days to come up, produced cotton (This applies to plants that were not damaged by weather, mechanically, or chemically)

Studies have also shown that the peak emergence of overwintered boll weevil is about June 1st, and most overwintered boll weevil have emerged by June 15th. Tests also show that overwintered boll weevils can live 10 to 22 days before they die. During this period they must lay eggs if an early boll weevil outbreak is to occur.

To tie the growth habit of cotton in with the boll weevil activity, the following should result: Cotton planted by article, says Pallmeyer, but May 20th should come up May 25th to May 27th. a decision by May 1st. Certified Seed Pays

In side-by-side field tests, cotton researchers have proven that certified seed produces higher yields than farmer-saved or select seed of the same varieties. And the extra production - as high as 18% more lint — is more than enough to pay for the cost of planting the certified varieties.†

Question: I started getting social security retirement payments last year. I also worked part time, and plan to continue working this year. What's the amount a person can earn this year without losing benefits?

Answer: If you are 65-72, or will reach 65 before the end of the year, you can earn $4,500 in 1979 and get full social security benefits. If you are under 65, you can earn $3,480 in 1979 without losing any benefits. If your earnings go over the annual amount, $1 in benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the limit. (For people in their first year of retirement, a monthly test also applies. Details are available at any social security office.)

For further information regarding Social Security benefits please contact the Social Security office, 1401-B West 5th Street, Plainview, telephone 293-4371.
