A Second Glance

Approval by the Senate of the President's standby gasoline rationing plan is, "Just another step in the capitulation to a condition we need not endure." and, "another instance where neither the Administration nor the Congress has shown any initiative toward solving the problem." according to Senator John Tower (R-Tex).

"It appears that the Administration has concluded that the best way to win acceptance of its position on energy is to continue to create the conditions which will assure a shortage of that energy." Tower added. "First we tried to deal with an ineffectual National Energy Plan. Then, after long delay, a reluctant decision to decontrol domestic crude oil prices, but with the hooker of a 'windfall profits' tax to degrade the benefits; and now, a 'standby' rationing plan which, in all likelihood, is the precursor of its implementation. We have yet to see anything from the White House which indicates any willingness to examine ways to increase production as a means of solving the problem."

Tower said that the Department of Energy estimates the direct program costs of gasoline rationing would amount to over $3 billion a year, including over $1 billion of oil industry costs, most of which would be passed on to the consumer. In addition, the estimate of federal personnel required to administer the plan runs as high as 15,000.

"We already have a Department of Energy which employs over 20,000 at an annual cost to the taxpayers of more than $10 billion. Now we are being asked to accept these added prospective costs, with still no plan to drill one single additional well. The industry could go a long way to solving our energy problem with $13 billion a year." Tower stated.

Tower said the best solution to the gasoline shortage, aside from steps to increase supplies in the long term, is to let the individual states, like Texas and California, come up with their own plans which would meet their own requirements.

"Although the President's plan is based on so-called 'historic' usage of gasoline, we still don't know how much will be available to each state after priority requirements are met. That should be left to local decision, not federal bureaucratic interference."

Soil Stewardship Week Announced For County

Soil Stewardship Week, which has its origins more than 1500 years ago, will be celebrated in Motley County and throughout the United States and its territories on May 20-27 according to an announcement by W. H. "Buck" Marshall.

The theme for the 1979 celebration is "Interdependence," a concept endorsed by President Carter in his forward to the descriptive Soil Stewardship Week booklet. The booklet and accompanying Soil Stewardship Week material is distributed by Conservation Districts to clergymen, lay leaders, civic and educational organizations and individuals interested in participating in the unique celebration.

"Americans have always understood the value of working together to achieve common goals," President Carter said. "We have learned that unity of purpose and mutual dependence are essential to our growth as a society of self governing people.

"It is especially fitting, therefore, that interdependence . . . of city and country, of Americans and their resources, and of man and nature . . . is the theme of Soil Stewardship Week in 1979," the President observed. "Our nation can be thankful for our progress in repairing the damage we have done to our environment. But that is only a start. To achieve greater harmony with nature, we must continue to seek harmony with one another."

The concept of Soil Stewardship had its origins in the special Rogation Days set aside by the Bishop of Vienne, France, following bad weather and earthquakes that brought crop failures and widespread hunger to much of France some 1500 years ago. The Bishop called upon the people to offer prayers and penance, and to offer humble thanks to their creator "for the priceless gifts of soil, water, air and sunshine which make all living things possible."

While we are not faced with the immediate prospect of famine or hunger in the United States today, the reasons for Soil Stewardship commemorative activities hasn't changed very much, the sponsors believe. We still need to pause each year to express our thanks for the natural resources of soil, water and air which nurture our people and provide us with daily food and fiber necessary to carry on our daily existence.

Soil Stewardship Week has been sponsored in the United States since 1955 by the National Association of Conservation Districts, in cooperation with the nation's nearly 3,000 Conservation Districts. Information of Soil Stewardship Week and descriptive materials may be obtained through local Conservation Districts.

Housing Project Gets FHA Approval

A $234,000 housing project which will bring a 12 unit apartment complex to the city of Matador received FHA approval this week.

The Matador city council had elected a housing authority composed of five men to check into the project and take care of the necessary paperwork.

The new rental units will be divided into four one bedroom apartments and eight two bedroom apartments. Plans are that the apartments will be for moderate to low income families, or for teacher housing.

Graduation Cited As 'Special Time'

Graduation is a very special time in life, Motley County High School seniors were told in Baccalaureate services Sunday evening by Rev. Kenny Kirk, pastor of the United Methodist Church, Matador, speaking from the stage in the high school auditorium.

"This is a crisis point in life -- changes are taking place and you need to realize certain goals," the pastor told the class, as he read from the Bible, Ecclesiastes 3:1, "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven."

"This is a time of change in life for you -- a transition from youth to adult. Yours is the last graduating class of this decade." Rev. Kirk referred to his own graduation in the first year of this decade and noted the shifted outlook in conditions as he urged his young listeners to seek the right guidelines for the future.

"Life has great value -- it was valuable enough for God to become man so that man might be redeemed. As you face the future, remember there is a time to every purpose . . . but time passes quickly. Know that God is the one who can give you the right guidelines."

Merchants Discuss Chamber Plans

"Progress does cost money," Jim Ferrell told the group of citizens gathered at the merchants meeting Tuesday night. "But you don't want to see your businesses close down. I don't think you can do with out an organization for community development and economic growth."

Ferrell, executive vice president of Plainview Chamber of Commerce, Agriculture and Board of City Development, told the residents it would be necessary for the city or even county to form some sort of foundation for growth, because it is predicted that the county will lose population down to 1600 by 1990.

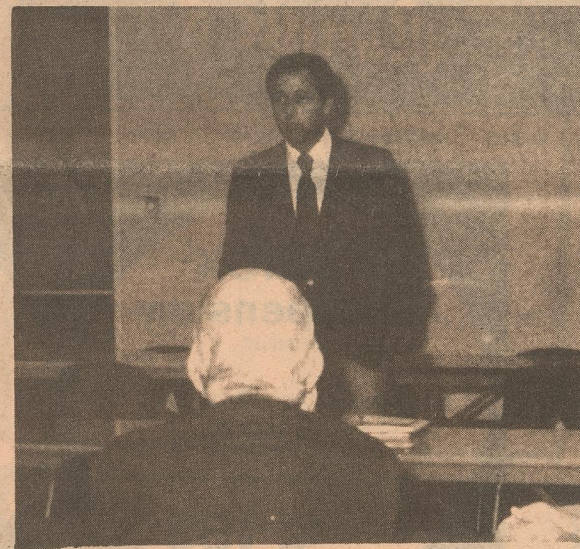

"Some people are too content with their present situation and think the county can just stay where it is," Ferrell said. "But you either move forward or you slip backward. A community does not just stay where it is. You need to set long and short range goals to get small industry and other growth here."

"Some people think whatever the city does is bad, because it will raise taxes. It does cost money. Some people are going to tell you that you can't afford to have a chamber here. Ask them if they think you can afford not to have one."

Ferrell said a chamber is a natural vehicle for growth and progress of a town or county. But he reminded his audience that the people of Motley County are going to have to make things happen. He said they had to decide which way they wanted to go, whether it is an industrial relations committee, board of development, industrial foundation, retail merchants association or a chamber.

"You've got to do what's right for you," he said. He told the group that it was imperative to get all the business and residents motivated and convince them that if everyone does not work together for growth the county will slowly crumble

David Green Named To Attend Boys State

One high school boy will represent Motley County at the 1979 session of Texas American Legion Boys State, Commander Ward Rattan of Floming Post No. 337 of the American Legion here has announced.

Named to participate in this annual American Legion workshop in the organization and operation of state and local governments is David Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Green of Matador.

The 1979 Texas American Legion Boys State will be in session from June 6 to June 12, at The University of Texas, Austin, Commander Rattan said.

Department Texas of The American Legion will sponsor 51 of these Boys States this summer. Two outstanding youths from each of The American Legion Boys States will go to American Legion Boys Nation in July in Washington, D.C., where they will study federal government organization and operation in much the same manner as the Boys State delegates participate in training in state government.

During their Boys State sessions, the Motley County youth will participate in the organization of political parties, campaigns, elections, and the enactment and enforcement of their own laws within a mythical state.

"As one of the Legion's outstanding youth-training programs, Boys State affords these youngsters an opportunity to learn the functions of government," Commander Rattan said. "Also, they will see the importance of the role a good citizen has in discharging his citizenship responsibilities. They soon discover how good government depends upon the active interest of every citizen."

GREETINGS:

During the week of May 28-June 3, 1979, the citizens of the United States of America will pay special tribute to those members of its Armed Forces who served honorably in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam conflict.

The American Legion, Department of Texas; Department of Foreign Wars of the United States; the Disabled American Veterans, Department of Texas, Inc.; the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission and various groups and citizens throughout this State are participating in The National Salute to Vietnam Era Veterans.

The Vietnam Era was ended by Presidential Proclamation signed on May 7, 1975. In the fourteen years since the start of the Vietnam Era, the estimated number of veterans in civil life who served during that period has grown to nearly 9 million.

There are eternally grateful for the contributions of American veterans to the advancement of the cause of an honorable world peace.

It is most fitting and appropriate that we pay special tribute to all those who have borne the burden in defense of our freedom.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby call upon all citizens of Texas to join in the observance of the week of May 28-June 3, 1979, as VIETNAM VETERANS WEEK. Also, I urge all citizens to take this occasion to express their sincere appreciation and deep gratitude to the Vietnam Era Veterans, as well as all other veterans, for their outstanding contributions to the advancement of the cause of an honorable world peace.

Mental Health Drive To Be Held Soon in R.S.

Mrs. Grace Zabielski of Roaring Springs will lead Bellringer workers in a house-to-house drive during May, Mental Health Month.

"As a voluntary agency, the association works on behalf of the mentally ill and to promote mental health. The association is not a state agency and relies on private contributions such as the money raised by the Bellringer campaign," said Dick Fredrick, state president of the Mental Health Association.

Since it is not a governmental agency, the association speaks as an advocate for the consumer, representing citizens who need mental health services.

"As citizen advocates, our job is to find out what needs to be done -- at local, state and national levels -- and then to work to see that what needs doing is in fact accomplished," said Fredrick.

The Mental Health Association promotes mental health by strongly promoting research into the causes of mental illness and by continuing mental health education programs crucial to preventing mental health problems.

Kim Hand Is Conservation Poster Winner

Kimberly Hand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hand of Roaring Springs, was recently honored in the Region I awards banquet of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Miss Hand was third place winner in the Conservation Poster Contest. Kimberly submitted her poster to the local Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District, along with approximately 60 other Motley County entrants.

The local SWCD selected Miss Hand's poster as being the best in the district. This poster was then sent to Temple for judging in the region I area for soil and Water Conservation districts. Region I is composed of about 30 other districts. Kimberly's poster was selected for third place.

On May 1 at the Region I awards banquet in Lubbock Kimberly and parents were honored guests and she was presented her award. There were approximately 300 people in attendance at the banquet. The local Upper Pease SWCD sponsors an essay, poster, grass identification and land judging contest each year for Motley County Youth.

NATIONAL ENERGY WATCH

WHEN YOU BUILD OR REMODEL A KEY TO SAVING ELECTRICAL ENERGY AND MONEY IS INSIDE . . .

... THE WALLS AND CEILING.
The outside walls of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME are insulated to an R-factor of 18; the ceiling to R-30. Both also have a separate positive vapor and/or infiltration barrier.

... THE DOORS AND WINDOWS.
Outside doors on the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME are metal insulating or wood with separate storm doors. Windows are double-paned or single-paned with storm windows. All windows and outside doors are caulked and weatherstripped. We also recommend that the total glass area be 8% or less of the floor space.

... THE FLOORS.
The very foundation of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME — the floor — is also an important factor in saving energy and money. Slab floors should have either rigid urethane or styrofoam (min. 3/4" thickness) from top of the floor along the outside edge of the slab down to the brick ledge, or poured vermiculite in the cavity. Pier and beam flooring should have R-19 insulation between the floor and crawl space.

County Agent Says

I have information on a Horsemanship Clinic to be held in Memphis May 28-June 1, and a Junior Horse Show in Guthrie on June 2nd. Anyone interested in these events can obtain entry forms and additional information at my office.

Fall webworms should be showing up on trees, particularly on pecans in the near future. Moths emerge in the spring, and are delicate milky white in color. Females lay from 500 to 800 eggs, which are light-green to yellowish in color and globe shaped. These are deposited in masses underneath leaves, usually near the tip of a branch. Egg masses are covered with hairs, giving them a fuzzy appearance, and hatch within 7 to 10 days.

For efficient controls, apply when the worms are very small. Malathion, Sevin or Zolone may be used, but be sure to follow instructions on the label.

If your onions are flowering, you may be in for trouble! Flower stalks do not severely damage onions, except by reducing the storage capacity by causing a hole in the center of the bulb. Bulbs are generally smaller too.

If onions have flowered, use as soon as possible, and also watch for this trouble in onions that you buy in the store.

If you are finding tiny black specks on your Irish potatoes, and plants tend to be yellowish, they have early blight. Use a recommended fungicide to prevent the spread of this disease, and if the potatoes are ready, dig and use as many as possible before hot weather sets in.

When beans become reddish in color and feel "dusty", they have rust. Dust with sulfur or Maneb.

Tomato leaf curl is not the sign of a healthy plant! Sucking insects, nematodes, plant stress or high nitrogen fertilization are the most common causes of this problem.

Sucking insects can be controlled with insecticides, but if nematodes is the problem, you are too late to help this situation. Improved watering practices can reduce stress, as can the use of a mulch.

If your squash bloom, but seldom produce any squash, pollination has not occurred. Bees are the best pollinators, so if it is necessary to apply insecticides, spray or dust late in the afternoon to avoid killing as many of the bees as possible.

If blackeyed peas come up looking as if they have been damaged, it is because the shoots were damaged when they were very small by thrips. Where this condition is noted, sprays should have been applied as soon as the plants came up. Most plants will recover, but sprays of malathion or diazinon will help prevent additional damage to the plants.

DIRECTORS of the Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District are Tom Ross, W. D. Lipscomb, Horace Jameson, James Bearden, and W. H. Marshall.

UPSCD DIRECTORS

Do you know who is serving as your director for the Upper Pease Soil and Water Conservation District. The SWCD is divided into five zones and each director is elected for a term of five years.

The directors who are presently serving are: zone I -- Tom Ross; zone II -- W. D. Lipscomb; zone III -- H. R. Jameson; zone IV -- James Bearden; zone V -- W. H. Marshall; and Pat Palmer as District clerk.

The SWCD is a subdivision of state government and was formed by vote of the local people. The district is the state agency with responsibility for soil and water conservation. The local Upper Pease SWCD has a working agreement with USDA's Soil Conservation Service to provide financial and technical assistance to local landusers. The district works with federal, state and local governmental agencies and activities. Some local district activities include: Sponsorship of activities during soil stewardship week, poster, essay, grass identification, and land judging contests for Motley County youth; co-sponsor of 4-H awards banquet; sponsor public meeting for Resource Conservation Act; assist with Great Plains Conservation Program; and many other activities related to soil and water conservation. If you desire more information about your SWCD contact the director in your zone.

Robert Shannon, Bert Whitaker, Preston Pitts, Johnny Roys.

M.C. Shop Team Are District Winners

The shop team representing Motley County FFA chapter won the Plainview District shop contest last Thursday afternoon in the Texas Tech University shops. The arc welding section of the contest consisted of welding two different kinds of joints using correct procedures and safety practices. High individual in this section was Preston Pitts with a score of 443 out of a possible 460.

The small gas engine phase consisted of using correct procedures in determining intake and exhaust valve clearances; comparing with the recommended specifications with that particular model engine, and replacing the cylinder head using the correct sequence and torque on the head bolts.

Robert Shannon was high individual in this section with a score of 400 out of a possible 400.

The electrical section was the installation of a ceiling light controlled by a single pole toggle switch and convenience outlet, with ground, on the same circuit, hot all the time.

The tool identification section consisted of identifying the various tools and materials used in the performance portion of the contest. High individual in this section was Johnny Roys with a score of 191 out of a possible 200.

Receiving the High Individual trophy in the entire contest was Preston Pitts.

The total score compiled by the team of Preston Pitts, Robert Shannon, Johnny Roys, and Bert Whitaker was 4863 and was the highest score in the Plainview District.

The contest was sponsored by the area Electric Co-operatives and was attended by teams representing the Plainview, Lubbock and Littlefield FFA districts.

Conservation Program To Expire In 1980

Under existing law the Great Plains Conservation Program (GPCP) will expire at the end of 1981. A bill to extend the life of GPCP has been introduced by Representative Kika de la Garza of Mission, Texas and Ed Jones of Tennessee.

The GPCP, administered by the Soil Conservation Service, has been in effect for 23 years and was put into effect as a result of the dust bowl days. The program is highly popular and widely used in West Texas.

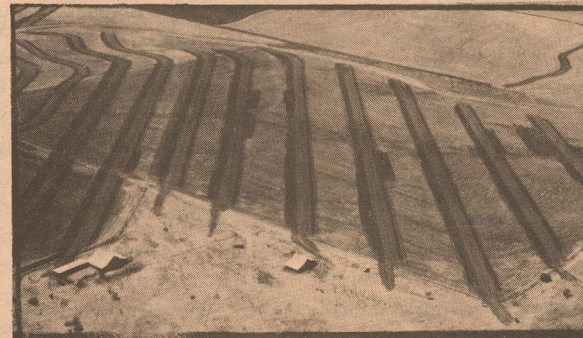

The GPCP provides, to farmers and ranchers, financial and technical assistance on applying conservation practices on the land. At present, Motley County has eleven GPCP contracts in effect. These contracts are with Mrs. L. M. Cox, J. B. Fowler, Charles Gwinn, Rex Johnson, Jesse Lee Lancaster, Charlie Long, Aaron Mitchell, Eddie Morris, Ronnie and W. Q. Richards, Billy J. Seale and Roy Stanley.

Some of the cost shared conservation practices being carried out this year include: grass seeding, brush control, water wells, cross fences, parallel terraces, diversion terraces and grassed waterway development.

A GPCP contract is developed with the landuser and the Soil Conservation Service for a period of three to ten years. At the time the contract is signed money is set aside for the landusers conservation practices. The contract maximum is presently $25,000 with no limit on a per year basis. For information on the Great Plains Conservation Program contact the Soil Conservation Service in the Motley County Courthouse.

CONSTRUCTION of parallel terraces on cropland has been on the increase according to the Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS says in 1978 there were 114,000 feet of parallel terraces installed in Motley County. Parallel terraces make better use of rainfall and provides easier farming operations than do standard terraces.

Baseball Games Are Rescheduled

Due to muddy playing fields caused by rains early this week, the baseball games scheduled Tuesday night have been rescheduled for Tuesday, May 29.

The games are Dodgers vs Cougars, 6:30 and Astros vs Red Sox, 8:00

MANY local landusers are planting improved varieties of weeping lovegrass or kleingrass to increase forage production. Both of these varieties can produce a high volume of high quality forage. The Soil Conservation Service says the key to success with these grasses is a good management program.

Local News

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Hawk from Jacksboro visited three days this week with Mr. and Mrs. Algie Groves. Also visiting over the week end were Jim Jackson and wife from Amariño.

Mrs. James Feazelle of Brady visited Monday of last week with cousins here, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hoyle and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McMahan. She remained overnight and returned home Tuesday.

Unripe bananas will turn brown even in the refrigerator, but their insides will ripen only when kept at room temperature.

WIND STRIPCROPPING is a good conservation practice that reduces erosion from wind while increasing the moisture holding capacities of the soil. The Soil Conservation service recommends stripcropping as a measure of controlling wind erosion.

Soil Surveys Available From Local SCS

The Motley County Soil Survey, available from the Soil Conservation Service and the Extension Service, can be very helpful to county ranchers and farmers when basic soils information is needed. The soil survey was published by the USDA Soil Conservation Service, in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Motley County Soil Survey contains: a general soils map, as well as detailed maps of each acre of land within the county, map descriptions, and land use guides for each soil. The survey contains range site descriptions which contain information on wind and water erosion hazards, dominant grasses, and some tips on how to tell when rangeland needs to be rested. The survey contains information on cropland such as slopes, engineering data, degrees and kinds of limitations, and desired suitability of each soil. Also contained in the survey is information on what soils will produce the better wildlife habitat such as food and cover, and what soils are suited for the development of ponds for livestock and fish production.

The Motley County Soil Survey is available to area landusers from the Soil Conservation Service in the Motley County Courthouse.

Field Windbreaks For Erosion Control

Field windbreaks, or shelterbelts as they are commonly known, have proved to be a valuable tool in reducing and controlling wind erosion. The Soil Conservation Service recommends windbreaks on the sandy lands of Motley County as one method of helping to control wind erosion.

Shelterbelts that were planted in the 1930's were generally wide consisting of 12 to 15 rows of trees. Experience and research have indicated that narrower belts of medium porosity are equally or more effective and take less land out of production. Today, frequent problem is the "sapping of the soil" next to these belts. Root pruning of the tree will solve this "sapping". A ditch is cut to a depth of at least 36 inches at the drip line and left open for several days. This kills those roots that are sapping adjacent cropland yet will not damage existing trees.

The Soil Conservation Service can furnish additional information on field windbreaks and will assist with installation and planning of shelterbelts. The SCS is located in the Motley County Courthouse.

SCS designed shelterbelts contain 3 to 5 rows of trees which vary in height and density.

The effectiveness of a shelterbelt depends on the velocity and direction of the wind, as well as the shape, width, and density of the belt. When the wind blows at right angles to the average tree shelterbelt, wind velocity is reduced 70 to 80 percent near the belt. Velocity is reduced by 20 percent at a distance equal to 20 times the height of the belt. There are many miles of old established shelterbelts in the county at the present and the most
