Contempt Of Upton Court Is Accusation

Warrants Grow Out Of Alleged Violation Of Truck Injunction

AUSTIN (AP)—While the chief of the state highway patrol and four of his officers were held by a Travis county sheriff on contempt of court warrants, the house heard arguments on a resolution condemning the patrol for violation of court injunctions restraining the enforcement of load limits provisions of the state truck law.

L. G. Phares, patrol chief, and four officers who made arrests for truck law violations in the vicinity of Houston, were arrested on warrants from the district court of Upton county ordering them to be held until they purged themselves of contempt.

The attorney general's department obtained a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court ordering their release.

4-H State Champion Record

Lorraine Girl Tells How She Started From Scratch And Achieved High Honors

Hilda Ohlenbusch, the girl who won the 4-H state championship, is a West Texas girl whose home is in Lorraine, Because rural girls and women of this section work under similar climatic conditions.

As the following story discloses Hilda had begun at the very beginning and learn everything from the home demonstration agent in her county. Not only did she learn enough to make her state champion but she was also fired with ambition to attend college.

The following is quoted from a letter to the Rev. W. G. Buchsacher, pastor of the St. Paul's Lutheran church of this city and of the Lutheran church of Lorraine, of which Hilda is a member.

I joined the 4-H Club in 1928. Poultry was my productive demonstration. At the end of the year I received a prize of $34.00.

I won two first prizes at a county fair on my poultry, on pen and one single, for which I received $2.50.

The second year of my work I continued poultry as productive demonstration. At the end of this year my record showed a profit of $121.41. I won three first places on my stock at the county fair, which brought me $4.

The third year I had a profit of $173.03. My record was one of the 25 in the state. I took no birds to the county fair to exhibit but I sent eight to the state fair for show birds.

The last year of my club work my record showed a profit of $221.38. My poultry brought me a profit of $490.47 in four years. Before I entered the club I knew nothing about chickens. Through the help and interest of Miss Sevier, I have learned to keep a record of all my work, what to feed grown poultry and baby chicks, how to select the better birds, how to breed the chickens, how to care for hens and the treatment of common diseases. I have a much better stock of poultry since Miss Sevier and Mr. Foster have been helping me.

Canning. The first year of my club work I canned $16.70 of fruits and vegetables from our own garden. The second year I canned $101.45 worth of fruits, vegetables, preserves and pickles all from our own garden.

The third year I canned $201.25. The fourth year I classified a 20-ounce canner and a 4-gallon sealer through the advice of Miss Sevier and canned 714 containers of fruits and vegetables. Prices had fallen so my canned goods was worth only $162.45. We are well satisfied with the canner and sealer. Had it not been for Miss Sevier's help and advice we should have bought just any kind of a canner or sealer and might have lost many of our 700 cans. As it is we lost not a whole dozen.

I had never made a dress in my life. In my first year club work I was required to do so. I entered the school dress contest and won first prize. I was sent to A. & M. College short course to represent Mitchell county.

The second year I won second place with my dress. I had the best record in the county, so I was sent to the Dallas Fair. The third year I had one of the leading records in the state, so I attended the state course again and was awarded a gold record pin. I attended the Dallas Fair in the fall.

The fourth year I had a still better record so I again enjoyed the boys and girls championship at Dallas. I won first and second state prizes at the fair that fall.

This time I told all the girls at Dallas of my record and how much Miss Sevier had helped me. I believe that boy or girl can do outstanding work if he or she gets the proper amount of help and if the county demonstration does his duty. No country should be without county demonstrators; they help to develop growing minds; help avoid common mistakes; advise rural girls and boys to their advantage and help the whole county.

I am going to college this fall because of what Miss Sevier has done for me. Without her help I know I should never have accomplished what I have. I am thankful to my county for employing such a helpful person and am glad that I live in and not in some county that thinks it can not afford county demonstrators.

John Carrel to 36th. The victory put Ouimet into the semi-finals where he will play the southern Ohioan, Johnny Goodman, on Sept. 28.

The other two semi-finalists are Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ontario, former holder of the Canadian amateur championship and Peteron Boston "Siege Gun" Jesse P. Guilford, national titleholder in 1921.

Both had an easier path to triumph. Somerville started off with a record-smashing 53 for the greatest scoring exhibition of the day and trounced young Bill Blaney of Boston 6 and 5, on the latter's 27th birthday.

Guilford, hitting the most tremendous wallop the tournament has seen in many a year, bludgeoned Chuck Evans of Chicago, two-time former champion, to defeat to the tune of 5 and 0.

Four Marooned On Island Off Texas

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—Four persons including a 10-year-old girl related their experiences of being marooned two days and a night on Padre Island, near the coast, 100 miles from here.

Those rescued from the island beach were L. V. Stewart; Patricia Lee Stewart, 10, his daughter; Dan Pugh and Nora O'Connell, the child's nurse. They had been without food or water most of the time they were marooned.

The two men were fishing on the beach and their automobile failed to start when they were ready to return to their home here. Pugh pushed a ride to Corpus Christi and brought spare plugs.

The nurse and Stewart's daughter took him to the stalled automobile. An incoming tide caught them before they could return. Stewart's wife became alarmed over the delay in their return and notified customs men who last night rescued the four.

Sloan said the industry had the best sales in its history during the month of August. It had as a result the cotton stocks in textile mills had reached the lowest ebb in the last four or five years.

Opposing Lawyers May Be Too Near In New City Court

Attorneys and the city judge agreed on everything relative to the new corporate court room. But they were far from agreeing on the new stand.

The stand is so arranged as to be directly between the judge's bench and the jury box. The table for attorneys is located directly in front of the bench, making it necessary for the lawyer on one end to leave his seat and stand near the other attorney while questioning the witness.

Clay P. Rogers, local attorney, shook his head dubiously when he saw the arrangement. Later City Judge Tracy Smith explained, "It's these lawyers. You have to keep them half way apart during a trial and—"

Police Chief Thornton chuckled. "It will be his job to separate them."

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A sharp dispute has broken out between the Superintendent of the Washington Police, General Glassford and the Attorney General, Mr. Mitchell, as to what the superintendent said about calling on the Federal troops to deal with the bonus marchers.

Mr. Mitchell affirms that General Glassford "was asked the direct question whether he thought it was necessary to secure the assistance of Federal troops, to which he replied in the affirmative." General Glassford affirms that he "stated that the police could hold the area which had been repossessed during the morning" but "that if further efforts towards evicting the veterans by the police were insisted upon that afternoon... the Federal troops should be called upon to do it."

In view of the heat the hurry and the hysteria which existed in Washington on July 28, in view of the fact that what General Glassford said was conveyed to Mr. Mitchell through a District Commissioner, it is not astonishing that General Glassford's fine distinction was lost in the shuffle. There is certainly nothing in this phase of the controversy which is not readily explicable as a mere misunderstanding.

Of greater importance than what happened on July 28 is what happened in the weeks preceding. The first bonus marchers arrived in Washington on May 27. Congress adjourned on July 16. There is no evidence I think that during those fifty days the administration made any effort to explain to the men precisely why they were not entitled to a cash payment and would not be given it. On Mr. Mitchell's own statement "a very considerable number were genuine ex-service men of good intentions and clean records. Yet nothing was done to educate these men. They had come to Washington uneducated by the Congressmen who voted the bonus. They were allowed to mill around Washington for those seven weeks without ever hearing from the lips of any one in authority a straightforward, understandable account of why their demand was being opposed.

Is it any wonder that having been first, snubbed, and then driven out, and then denounced as criminals and traitors these poor misguided men are full of bitterness? The truth is that the Administration did not have the foresight and self-confidence to deal firmly with the agitation and matters were allowed to drift till they were "out of hand. Mayor McKee in New York was not afraid to meet the Communists and talk with them. Is there any reason why the President should not have met these veterans and told them his story? If the President and the Attorney General and the Secretary of War and the others had done their explaining when the marchers first arrived rather than weeks after they had been driven out by the troops, they would certainly present a more dignified and convincing spectacle.

I do not myself think that the Administration is to be censured for having used the troops to evict the marchers. By the end of July the danger to the health of the city had become so great that the emergency had to be broken up. And since force had to be used great force was less dangerous than a little force; the fact that there were no casualties when the army acted proves that.

Yet with all its failings of manner and method in dealing with the bonus marchers, on the main issue in this whole affair the Administration has stood straight. The main issue after all is whether a body of voters, who happen to be veterans, can compel the government to give them a large sum of money to which they are not entitled. The veterans think they are entitled to that money so that they cannot be charged with a brutal hold-up. They have been misled. They are not entitled to the money now, and therefore, even if the Federal finances could stand the strain of giving them what they ask, it would be the duty of every public man to oppose the demand.

For of all the forms of corruption to which a republic is susceptible the most deadly is to hand money out of the treasury because a group of voters have become too strong to be refused. This is the ultimate corruption of popular government. It is the corruption of the electorate itself. Against predatory interests the final remedy is an aroused electorate. But against a predatory electorate there is no remedy by the ordinary methods of democracy.

This is the real bonus issue. The effect on the national credit of yielding the bonus would be serious, but secondary. The effect upon the political morale would be calamitous. For if the government yielded, it would mean that organized force had triumphed over the authority of the state.

Ed Hennig Feels Confident For Mustang Season

SWEEPSTAKES—Coach Ed Hennig told Lions of Sweetwater's prospects for a football team this coming season at the meeting of the club Tuesday.

"Prospects are good this year for as good a team as we had last year. The boys are in as good condition physically as I have ever seen and they have the pep and enthusiasm that it is going to take," Coach Hennig said.

Ideal Backfield

"We have an ideal backfield—one that I have dreamed of but have never had in all my coaching. Only one man was lost from the backfield from last year's team and this did not hurt us much. The boys are already physically fit and all they need now is to get the technical details down, such as signals and formations and they are working hard on them now."

Mr. Hennig urged that more interest be taken in the team. "The boys, as well as myself, like to have you out and showing your interest in us and our work."

To Dedicate Stadium

He announced that the Mustangs would dedicate the new Eagle stadium in Abilene on Sept. 30 and asked all who could to attend the game.

Staunch Fighter For Jim Stops In City Enroute Home

Judge William E. Muse, Dallas, internationally prominent Mason and world-traveler, driving his own automobile home from the Democratic convention in Lubbock in spite of his advanced age, stopped a few minutes in Big Spring Wednesday morning. Mr. Daniel of Glen Rose, was with him.

Judge Muse is and has been since James E. Ferguson first ran for governor, a loyal follower of Jim. He was a member of the permanent organization committee at Lubbock. His nephew, John Hicklett of San Antonio, was permanent chairman. Another nephew, from San Antonio, was named on the state executive committee.

"I sat in during the impeachment proceedings at Austin and if Jim Ferguson had been a black negro I would not have found him guilty on one count," he declared. "I watched the work of those political hi-jackers who hand-picked a grand jury and indicted Ferguson at Austin. I have upheld him and his wife in every county on the globe as outstanding Christian citizens, and Jim as an illustrious

for LOVE or MONEY by N.W. CORLEY

CHAPTER XLV

The next morning Mona decided to remain in her room. There were cables to send. For of course now she would have to go home.

"You told him, no?" Lottie said curiously. "and you meant it?"

"I mean it now, yes! But not for always. That is unless Barry insists on regarding this as final. I can't relinquish that money, Lottie. Until I find some way to give some of it to him. Only by some rightful share. It's more his than mine. You can see that!"

"You might sell the Empress," considered Lottie slowly. "Steve said something yesterday about the Maharajah of Bhopal attempting to buy the diamond from him after it had been sold. Maybe the old Maharajah still wants it. That would set things straight, wouldn't it? Until the Empress appeared in Steve's shovel he and Barry owned everything fifty-fifty. That's the way I understand it. Sell the Empress, Mona, and hand Barry the cash. That'll settle everything."

"Do you think he'd take it?"

"Who? The Maharajah?" Lottie's forehead crinkled. "He wanted it as a wedding gift for his last wife, Steve said. Well, maybe he can use it now for his next wife—"

"Don't be silly, Lottie. I mean Barry."

"Would Barry take it?" she asked. "That's different, of course. Maybe he would. Or, brightening, you could hide it in the mine somewhere and have Barry find it."

"In its platinum setting?"

Mona's tone was final. "No, there must be another way. I'm calling Mr. Garretson if I can get anyone to take me to Granada."

"Maybe Bud will. He's expected today with the mail."

They met Bud after as they strolled down the stairway wearing bathing suits for a dip in the pool. Bud brought a package of letters to ward them.

"I packed those up at Queen's Park," he explained.

"Thanks a lot,"

"Well," observed Lottie a few moments later, "this is fine. The girls sat on the edge of the pool, reading their mail. Lottie waved a ship's emblem at the top. This is from Dr. Allen. On the Miranda."

"Specs on the 10th of Sept. on the down trip. He went back to South America. Awfully interested in those tropical diseases and eggs he plans to visit the Snake farm in Sao Paulo. He's going to bring some serum back to those people we met from Martinique. Celebrate the family. The old man was a doctor once—" trailed off. The absorbed look on her face gave place to one of mysterious amusement. "He still wants to marry me," Lottie announced placidly.

"Well, he'll have to, then. By the way, he must be on the home trip now." Lottie shuffled the pages of the voluminous letter. "It's dated two weeks ago. Maybe we can sight the Miranda off Granada?"

"If we get there."

"Any interesting letters, Mona?"

The other girl shook her head. "Here's one from Mr. Garretson consulting me about some charities to which, he says, John always contributed. That's amusing—asking me! I remember the time I asked him about various payments."

"You have to sign the checks, don't you?" Lottie asked idly.

Mona nodded. "Oh, yes. I sign them. Mr. Garretson simply puts me down on the lists for a certain amount. The payments aren't made for a long time—not until I'm home."

"Then you're thinking of going home?"

"Then you're thinking of going soon," asked Lottie.

To her surprise, Mona's lips suddenly trembled. "I can't stay here."

"No, I suppose not."

"It's interesting about Dr. Allen," Mona said, as if to turn the subject. "He's a nice chap."

Bud could not take them today to Granada, he told them at breakfast, but possibly tomorrow. He would be run over in a day or two for more workmen.

"Is the airport progressing?" Lottie asked.

"Yes. It would come faster though if Steve and Barry would pay attention to the work and let things go for a while."

"We're hunting in the high push," announced Steve, who had just turned up for breakfast, bronzed as an Indian. He grinned at Barry. "Can you girls ride?" Barry asked. "Well take you—"

But Lottie declined the invitation for both of them. Mona, her eyes on her plate, said nothing. Barry would be absent all afternoon. She would have time to plan and pack. Perhaps they could be ready to board the Miranda at Granada.

tie did not ride. Well, they had enjoyed many weeks of holiday! Now it was time to go home.

Carefully brushed and dressed, her bronze hair gleaming in even, meticulous waves, Mona descended to the terrace at the tea hour. To her surprise she found Lottie there before her, stretched out in a canvas chair, her feet, encased in soft sandals, propped on another chair in front of her.

When she saw Mona she relinquished the extra chair and stood up, yawning. "I had a swim," Lottie said, indicating the swimming suit beneath a soft silk wrap. "I stopped here for a minute to enjoy the view. Will you wait for your tea? I'll not be a second. We're alone, aren't we?"

"I suppose so, Miss Gracie said she sent the boys a thermos bottle and sandwiches."

"It's funny about this tea habit," Lottie went on. "It's catching. I don't think I'll be able to get along without it after I get home."

"My mother always had it every afternoon."

"That was as a sort of charm against all ill. Tea here is a social custom," Lottie went on, casually speaking of this and that.

"She wants to say something else," thought Mona, "and she doesn't quite know how to about Steve. I suppose."

"Are you coming back soon?" She called after Lottie's retreating figure.

"Oh, yes."

Lottie returned in an amazingly short time, smooth of hair, dressed in baby blue and looking more than ever like a blond angel. The girls reclined in their deck chairs, the fragrant, honey-sweetened breeze from across the bay. The little speedboat in which Bud had arrived swung in the harbor. From the kitchen they could hear Miss Gracie's lifting voice suggesting guava paste for tea. Jolie, squeezing lemons, was singing happily.

"We'll be alone," remarked Lottie unexpectedly.

"It looks that way, yes."

As if in answer to her query, there was a shout beneath the hill. Native boys, moving fast than the girls had ever seen them, came streaming out of the green tunnel of trees running and shouting. The car, moving carefully under Bud's guidance, was in the back seat behind.

state offices from Hidalgo county.

The objections were on file today with County Clerk F. W. Lamburg. Protesting candidates of the Good Government nominees were Judge R. M. Bounds, incumbent on the bench of the 92nd district court; Judge Charles E. Thompson of the 93rd district court, and Josh Ewing of Donna, Democratic nominee for the office of state representative from the 73rd district.

They protested the Good Government party is without a state organization and that nomination of the candidates was not formally acted upon.

Similar action has been filed in Austin against appearance of nominees of this party on the general election ballot.

Citizens Appoint Envoys To Humble Company Officials

LONGVIEW (UP)—Opposition to the Humble Oil and Refining company's announced policy of purchasing only half the 50-barrel per day allowable from oil producers in East Texas resulted yesterday in the appointment of Smith Price, banker, by a citizens committee, to appeal in major oil companies to get ahead that policy.

"Price wired 12 major producers and such steps not be taken. The Sinclair Prairie purchasing company replied by saying that "we are entirely in sympathy with you and wish to assure you that we shall continue to produce and purchase on the basis of 50 barrels allowable in accordance with the railroad commission's order."

Beaumont Takes Second Victory In Play-Off From Dallas 9 To 6

BEAUMONT—Beaumont's hustling young Exporters, scenting their first title hunting, took a commanding lead in the playoff series for the 1932 Texas league championships here Thursday afternoon when they shelled five Dallas chumpkins for 15 hits and a decisive 9-6 victory to make it two straight over the upstate Mavericks. The Exporters, first half titlists, need but one more win over the Steers, second half champions, to clinch the 1932 crown. Friday will be an off day, but hostilities will be resumed under the arcs in Dallas Saturday night. If a fourth game is necessary, it will be played in Dallas Sunday and should a fifth matchup be needed a flip of a coin will determine the game site.

Goldstein Pitches Izzy Goldstein went the route for the Exporters, but in nearly every inning he was tested right-handedly. He pitched a 7-0 game, but he saved the game for him. Hal McKain started for the Steers, but he gave way to Whitehead in the first round. Jack McInnis, Leon Garland and Lefty Minogue joined in quick order, Whitehead being charged with the loss. Fred Easterling and Freddie Rabby, who each drove in two runs, led the Exporters attack with three timely hits each. Harold Cracked out four as his contribution for the afternoon. Every Seat Affords Unobstructed View Without exception, every seat in the new city auditorium will afford an unobstructed view of the stage. In most buildings of such proportions, it has been customary to have grand balcony supports as necessary evils even though several seats would afford only a partial view of the rostrum. Architects Peters, Strange and Company so arranged each seat of 1412 that balcony supports do not restrict vision from any seat. Employees of Hickey Bros. of Houston, seating contractors, said that for the first time in the experience of the company, blue prints of seating arrangements did not have to be altered in any respect.

Hardin County Wildcat Flows HOUSTON (UP)—Opening of a new gulf coast oil field was seen by oil men here following the completion of a 5,000-barrel producer in rank wildcat territory in Hardin county, 47 miles from the nearest production at Sour Lake. The well is located at Hooks Switch and was looked upon as the forerunner of a prolific field. It was completed at 3,995 feet. Houston Oil Company and the Republic Production Company own the producer, jointly. The company own a 4,000-acre tract, on which a number of locations for other tests have been staked. That this rule be enforced or the Sweetwater officials who declare that the rule is wrong and that they should not be forced to obey it? The county all-star team, announced in Wednesday's Herald, is requested to be on hand at the West Third diamond at three o'clock to receive a momentary instruction from Manager Lois Mullins, whose berth in right field will be filled by Pepper Martin. For the benefit of those who missed Wednesday's Herald the following will be included in the all-star line-up: Tom Hutto (Coahoma), Billy Baas (Coden), Les Walker (Coahoma), Albert Garcia (Tigers), Beryl Cramar (Forsan), Miller Harris (Coden), Pepper Martin (Coden), Bruce Bishop (Coahoma), Perfidio Fierro (Tigers), Bill Brown (Coahoma), Pop Payne (Tigers), and Shorty Walden (Forsan). Red McGinty, the Snyder Express, arrived in Big Spring at 12 p. m. Mr. Les A. James of the firm of James and Campbell advises. Tonight's events will start promptly at 8:30. Mr. James continues, and ladies will be admitted free with a paid escort. Tommy Irvin, the Midland tarpon, is expected to be on hand almost any minute now. Young Kid Whittington has been in training for this week's bout, including road trips among his schedule. The Wellington battler looked over Obie Bristow's football team yesterday and made the remark that they looked "rough" enough for any high school team.

SPORTS ON PARADE By CURTIS BISHOP Woodrow Wilson, the Stanton luminary for a couple of seasons, has enrolled in Texas School of Mines and is, we are informed, making the team. Wilson was eligible for another year of competition with the Buffs, but chose instead to transfer his allegiance to the El Paso school. From a Sweetwater sports writer, identity unknown, comes the statement that Blondy Cross has been "surprisingly" reasonable about the "trick ruling" that is due to be discussed in no uncertain terms Saturday afternoon, and the implication is made that this writer has not. Another District 3 scribbler asks if this newly-formed division of the State Intercollegiate League is willing to be transformed into another Oil Belt, with eligibility squabbles killing the interest in the outcome of the District race. The answer is in the negative. But eligibility rules are necessary. They are voted upon by all member schools of the district. And why, we inquire, do we have eligibility rules if they are not to be enforced? A bitter dispute is almost sure to come up over the "trick" statute passed last winter. Who is to blame—the Big Spring officials that are coming in for their share of condemnation because they ask

Chicago Sox Beat Yankees

CHICAGO—A makeshift Yankee lineup failed to give Lefty Gomez the support he needed Thursday and the White Sox defeated New York 8-5. It was the Yanks' first loss since they clinched the American league pennant. The defeat broke Gomez' seven game winning streak and gave him his seventh defeat of the season against 24 victories. The Spanish southpaw worked seven innings, giving up 11 hits. Ed Wells pitched the eighth and yielded the last two runs. The Yankee lineup was made up largely of replacements and even Lou Gehrig took his first rest of the season after playing five innings. Young Paul..... was Chicago's winning pitcher, although he gave up his place to Red Eaber after seven frames. Three Yankee errors contributed to the Sox victory. New York..... 200 010 002-5 12 3 Chicago..... 010 030 202-8 13 1 Gomez, Wells, and Glenn; Gregory, Eaber and Berry. BROWNS 3, ATHLETICS 2 ST. LOUIS—St. Louis evened the series count with the Philadelphia Athletics by taking Thursday's game, 3-2, by making their hits count. George Earnshaw, of the Athletics and Walter Stewart of the Browns allowed eight hits each. Philadelphia..... 000 011 000-2 8 2 St. Louis..... 010 000 203-3 8 1 Earnshaw and Cochrane; Stewart and Ferrell. INDIANS 7, RED SOX 2 CLEVELAND—The Indians pounded Durham and Welland for 12 hits, two of them home runs by Kamm and Cissell, to win their 18th game of the season from Boston Thursday, 7-2. Besides his home run, Kamm registered a triple, a single and a base on balls for a perfect day at bat. Boston..... 000 000 200-2 9 3 Cleveland..... 006 022 000-17 9 1 Durham, Welland and Tate; Hudlin and Sewell. TIGERS 8, SENATORS 7 DETROIT—The Washington Senators combed Elton Hoggsett's offerings for five runs in the first one-third of an inning Thursday, but the Tigers finally won out in the tenth inning, 8-7. Tommy Bridges, who came within one single of pitching a perfect game the last time he faced the Senators, hurled the last four innings for the Tigers, allowing no hit although he walked four men. Legion Asks Cash Bonus

Convention Vote Is 1168 To 109; Patman Leads Debate

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—The American Legion convention today demanded full and immediate payment of the bonus by the overwhelming vote of 1168 to 109. Only states voting against the resolution were Connecticut, Hawaii, Nebraska and South Carolina.

Temper of the delegates and the galleries as well as the outstanding in favor of the bonus resolution, had to rap for order and twice had to ask the crowd to slow the anti-bonus speakers to proceed. A tremendous "boo" was echoed when Nebraska, leader of the fight against the bonus, announced its "no" vote.

McGinty Seeks To Retaliate
Return Match With Whittington Friday Night At Casino

Red McGinty, the hard-hitting Snyder Express, will attempt to regain his place as kingpin of the Casino Friday night when he meets Young Kid Whittington, the Wellington scrapper, in a round, winner-take-all event.

So confident was McGinty that he could atone for the defeat he suffered at the hands of Ray Simmons' protege last Thursday night that he immediately challenged for a winner-take-all bout, and his offer was accepted.

Dynamite Jack Kirkland, Waco, will meet Tommy Irvin, Midland, in a six round semifinal that is expected to pack as much action as the main event with Kirkland it is to hold a slight edge.

Joe Brackhouse, Big Spring, will meet Glenn Holcomb, Quanah, light-heavyweight, in a four round preliminary. Both hold decisions over Jim Venable, Colorado, and will fight for the championship of their class.

Alabama Gagon, Big Spring, will meet Monte Priestard in a six round bout in the second event of the evening. Gagon took a clean-cut decision from the Fairview battler two weeks ago. The Black Knight, Big Spring, will meet Battling Sili in an all-colored preliminary.

Tickets are on sale at Tingle's News Stand.
