Professor Of C.I.A. Will Be Speaker Here

Howard County Teachers Institute Set For November 18

Dr. Job Gray, head of the education department of Texas College For Women (C.I.A.), will be the principal speaker at the Howard county teachers institute to be held here Nov. 18.

Although it is not yet certain, it is probable that Dr. J. A. Hill, president of West Texas State Teachers College and head of the Texas State Teachers Association, will also share honors with Dr. Gray...

The afternoon session will get under way with an address by Dr. Gray in which he will discuss at length the method of standardizing the seventh grade. He is to comment upon advantages and disadvantages of the method followed in Howard county...

Organization of the Howard county teachers association will follow with Ben U. Comalander, C.I.A. principal, directing Comalander is past president. Organization of the Howard county interscholastic league will also be in order, according to Mrs. Brigham...

If Dr. Hill arrives, he will address the afternoon session. An evening session is contemplated and if present plans go ariht the affair will open with a dinner at 7:30 p. m. and be featured by after dinner speeches by Drs. Gray and Hill.

Everybody is invited to attend the afternoon session, said Mrs. Brigham, "and we especially invite the trustees to take part in it. If they attend it will take the place of a meeting to be held later in the year, so we urgently wish them to attend."

County teachers are required to attend the institute, and a number of teachers from city schools will take part in the meeting.

Bulldogs Come With Hundreds Of Backers To Make Fight Of It

Two storm-beaten, persevering teams of District 3, who have been eliminated from the championship running and whose only ambition is to win one or more grid games before calling it the end of a far from perfect season, came together in Steer Stadium tomorrow afternoon in a contest that may draw little or no publicity as far as the interscholastic league race is concerned, but which is certain to give the fans of one city some consolation for the 1932 grid campaign.

Defending their home field, with their splendid track, shattered rudely in their first conference game the year, the Big Spring high Steers, equipped as heavy favorites over L. K. Barry's Bulldogs, but were prepared to make a battle of it. Injuries still hampered the Bulldogs as Ohio Highlanders' progress was as Ohio Highlanders' progress.

Red Cross Roll Call To Be Opened Friday

Organization Has Provided Much Aid Here

$5,200 In Supplies Furnished County, Only $250 Sent To U. S. Office

Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, opening Friday and continuing through Thanksgiving Day, will be launched in Howard county by the local chapter with unusually bright prospects of over-subscribing the quota.

During the past twelve months Howard county has received goods and provisions from the Red Cross worth a total of $5,202.55 at present prices.

Compared with this large sum which went directly to relief of the needy in this county only $250 was sent from this county to National headquarters of the American Red Cross.

With such an outstanding record for service in a time when such service was so greatly needed officials of the Howard County chapter, of which Dr. W. B. Hardy is chairman, were confident of complete success with the Roll Call.

Cash value of flour sent here in the past few months by the Red Cross is $3,000.

Among other supplies sent without cost by the Red Cross were the following: 1,000 yards of print cloth; 550 yards of muslin; 40 yards of flannel; 1,000 yards of gingham; 200 yards of shirting; 120 dozen pairs of hose; 20 dozen overalls; 20 dozen trousers; 3 dozen jumpers.

Publicity material for the Roll Call was placed in business houses Thursday by members of Boy Scout troop No. 1 under direction of Scoutmaster V. O. Hennen.

Solicitation of membership will begin Friday morning, according to final plans formed at a meeting. Booths will be maintained in each of the principal hotels, and on Main street by official Red Cross workers. Every adult in Howard county is requested and urged by chapter officials to join for the year.

By telephoning Miss Nell Hatch at 1141 or Miss Jena Jordan at 486 anyone so desiring may have a worker sent to take his membership.

Miss Hatch, local Roll Call chairman, opened the 1932 Roll Call. She was the first to take a new membership. A. W. Thompson of Coahoma, sub-chairman, was the second new member.

Officers are to be maintained in the Settles hotel building in the space immediately east of the Third street entrance to the main lobby.

Amendment Is Tabled By House 73-47

Proposal Would Have Stricken 'Market Demand' Clause

AUSTIN, (AP)—In what many regarded as a test vote the house Thursday tabled an amendment to the proposed oil conservation bill that would have stricken out the provision giving the railroad commission authority to restrict production to market demand.

The vote was 73 to 47. It showed advocates of the bill were short of the required 100 house votes to make the bill effective immediately.

It is believed. Sponsors were maintaining the belief it would receive sufficient support on final passage. Rep. Pope of Corpus Christi offered the amendment.

Tree And Shrub Orders Must Be Filed Saturday

Citizens wishing to purchase Arizona cypress and Chinese elms to be delivered here by December 15 must have their orders in the Chamber of Commerce office by Saturday 4 p. m.

Elms may be bought for fifty cents and the cypress for fifty-five to sixty-five cents. The former is especially adapted to this section as a shade tree. The cypress is a beautifully shaped evergreen.

Schools Of City Observe Holiday

All Big Spring schools will be closed all day Friday for the Armistice Day holiday, Superintendent W. C. Blankenship announced.

School children will participate in the Armistice Day parade to be started at 10 a. m. from the west side of the court house block. All teachers are expected to be at that place to direct the children in the parade, which will march to the high school campus for the American Legion-V.F.W. patriotic program, to be featured by formal presentation to the school of a large flag pole recently erected.

Bullington Says Defeat Temporary

Republican Nominee Says Issue Of Honesty Remains

WICHITA FALLS, (UP)—Oreville Bullington, Republican candidate for governor, conceded victory to Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee.

"It is gratifying to know that such a large percentage of the good people of Texas are courageous enough to put principles in which they believe above their political party," Bullington said in a statement.

"The defeat of Tuesday is but temporary. The issue of honesty and responsibility in government still remains. Victory may be deferred, but it will come, right will prevail."

"Subject to limitations imposed by our constitution, the majority has the right to rule. It, therefore, becomes our duty as good citizens, regardless of who wins an election, to do our utmost to aid in solving the problems confronting the state which we love."

President Expects Return To Private Life In California

PALO ALTO, Cal. (UP)—President Hoover announced in his first public declaration since his defeat for re-election that he intended to return to private life, to recoup his personal fortune.

The president, in an interview with the press, let it be known that he intended to return to Palo Alto to take up his permanent residence. The exact nature of his private occupation he was unable to reveal.

President Hoover indicated that he had not the remotest idea what he would do after March 4, but that he intended going back to work as a private citizen.

The president said he did not plan to stay in Washington after March 4, and that his very strong and natural inclination was to settle down again in California.

The president also said that he planned now to depart from Palo Alto Saturday evening for Washington, he will take the southern route, going by way of Los Angeles across Arizona, New Mexico and over the Santa Fe trail.

In the meantime, he said he would rest for the rest of the week, possibly taking occasional drives in the vicinity of his home here.

Rocky Road Ahead Of The Fergusons, Predicts Cato Sells

DALLAS (UP)—Cato Sells, chairman of the league of anti-Ferguson Democrats, called Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's apparent election a "rotational victory" and "an emphatic repudiation of Pragmatism."

He said "the Fergusons" would easily have been defeated but for the national electric and warned "There is a rocky road ahead of them with the friends of good government vigilantly on their trail."

Henry Ford's Home Box For President

DEARBORN, Mich. (UP)—Although Henry Ford neglected to register and therefore was unable to vote for President Herbert Hoover, whom he championed, his neighbors of precinct 16, first ward, "went down the line" handsomely for the Republican candidate.

The vote was 403 for Hoover, 221 for Roosevelt.

Smoot Concedes Defeat By Thomas

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah. (UP)—Senator Reed Smoot, Rep., early conceded victory to his Democratic opponent, Dr. Elbert D. Thomas.

In a communication addressed "United States Senator-elect Elbert D. Thomas," Smoot stated: "I extend to you my very best wishes for your success."

Legion Support For Roll Call Of Red Cross Asked

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, has issued the following statement in support of the coming annual roll call of the American National Red Cross:

"In hundreds of communities the American Legion and the Red Cross have co-operated in the past year in reaching the army of unemployed and needy. This fine co-operation has always been a cause of gratification to the American Legion."

"The annual roll call of the Red Cross, beginning on Armistice Day and continuing until Thanksgiving, will provide funds for continuation of the work of the Red Cross. May I urge that good Legionnaires everywhere assist local chapters of the Red Cross in this annual roll call, and that thereafter Legionnaires and Legion posts continue helping the Red Cross in its relief work. The need for mutual helplessness is greater than ever before."

"I make this appeal with full confidence that Legionnaires everywhere will respond to the call."

CHAPTER XLIV

Asper sat on the stump Swergin had kicked over to him and a great many things righted themselves in his mind. The timber boss moved about the room but did not seem in any hurry to leave. Asper watched him and came to the realization that Swergin was acting strangely.

"Just what do you hope to gain by all this?" he demanded at last. Swergin seemed to have been waiting for the question. He stamped across the floor and loosened Asper's rope enough to allow him to face about without twisting. His eyes were blazing with a queer light and he shook a bony fist at his boss.

"You dropped in just right," Swergin grinned. "The cabin will burn down and you'll be out of the way."

Asper pulled back in spite of himself. The cold-blooded idea struck him with terrific force. He was sure now that he was dealing with a madman. "You wouldn't dare do that," he said evenly, his eyes holding Swergin's.

"Ball will get the blame. He's already admitted the rest of the work. Fools like him make it easy for a smart man like me," Swergin was laughing outright.

Asper frowned. "It was in a company corner, not that Swergin mad with power and success. Fight in for an opening, Asper went on. How many feet of timber did you get away with?"

Swergin bent forward and his thick lips parted. "Plenty to make me rich."

"The rafter, Carter, finally objected to covering you up," Asper went on with his questions. He knew Swergin would get over a feeling of his success.

"Carter got heavy so Ball shot him in the back," Swergin chuckled. He was enjoying the telling of his successes to this intemperate victim.

"You don't expect Ball back?" Asper asked without a change of expression.

Swergin's face darkened. "I hope he comes back," he growled. "I was a fool to let a woman keep me from putting him where he belongs."

"You couldn't have him hanged for what has happened since?" Asper pointed out without feeling.

Swergin nodded. "Oh, it's worthing out just fine."

Asper bent forward and pulled himself together for a final attempt to talk to the burly man who towered over him. "You ought to consider some other things. I have a girl who will be badly broken up over this. Her husband is a wealthy man and will run you down if it takes all his money." Swergin snarled. "That gal of yours was willing to spend a night up on the mountain with Ball. If I had let it stop in on them she'd have stayed longer. I'll take care of her for you, and for that simpy Whiter, too."

Asper raised up from his bench and his hands trembled under the ropes. "You wouldn't dare touch her," he fumed, after with asper. "She'll know a real man, one who tried to save her old man from roasting in a log cabin." Swergin winked aside.

Asper clenched his fists impotently and clumped down in his chair. He was dealing with a man who had gone completely mad.

Swergin paced over to the window and looked out. He seemed to be expecting someone, or was waiting for a given time. Asper struggled to think calmly, to be steady and seek out a ray of hope, but there seemed no hope for him and he was sure Swergin would rite into camp with a wild story.

It seemed impossible now that he could have blamed all the killings and dirty work on Ball. Dona had showed much better judgment. If he had trusted her, her woman's instinct would have saved them all from a lot of grief. Asper caught himself wondering where the cabin he had said was going to shoot it out with Swergin.

Had Asper known Stan Ball's plans for the day his heart would have been swept clean of every hope. For Stan had decided that morning to ride over and straighten up his affairs at Blind River before leaving for out with Swergin.

The old timber man decided to make one final attempt to break through the madness of his foe. "You ought to think of my daughter and her husband. They are on their home now," Asper spoke almost pleadingly.

Swergin stared about from the window and his face was twisted into a leer. That puppy has been riding over to see a little Spanish girl every day. They'll be borrowing your gas car and hiking out any day now, if they haint already gone." Seeing a look of disbelief spread over Asper's face Swergin went on, eager to tell everything.

He trailed him the other day to make sure he was harmless and I got an earful," Swergin growled as he remembered the scene.

Asper's mind groped back over the last week. He was sure, when he had checked all the little things that had happened, that the timber boss was telling the truth. He had been a fool not to do a little inves-

"Maybe more," the Big Spring mentor stated. "They are in a fine mental condition after a slight let-down at San Angelo, and if the Bulldogs could avoid a stampee they had better come prepared to play the game of their lives."

Coach Barry of the visitors, on the other hand, made no such optimistic statement. "We have a fine man team," he declared. "Our let-down and one discovery. The return of Collins and Hallman have aided us a lot, and I think we'll make a better showing against Big Spring than against any other District 3 club."

The Midland squad was in their best physical condition of the year as Barry sent them through a tiring-up drill Thursday afternoon. A few minor bumps, of course, prevailed among the regulars, but with G. B. Hallman and Tom Collins ready for action against a District 3 team for the first time this year

Come to Ward's Sports Clothes

Because Ward's have gone into the matter of sports clothes with characteristic thoroughness. We chose only fashions that were becoming as well as smart... we considered the woman who didn't care at all about sports, as well as the woman who's an active participant. And finally, we gave a great deal of attention to the matter of price, with the result that you'll find Ward's selection of sports clothes notable for their value as well as their variety!

WARD'S THRIFT PRICE

Wear the very smartest type of sports coat—a plain color foot-ball type in tan or brown. Or, if you prefer, the new weeds, brown mixtures, or tan mixtures, or the much favored black-and-white. They're really the last word in sports coats.

If you want to be seen in a sports dress that is absolutely "right", treat yourself to one of the new wools, or the new knitted fabric dresses, or a new silk. One or two piece models—some with capelet sleeves, some with high neck.
