Citizens Present Commissioners With Petition

The Motley County Commissioners met in a special session to take care of three items. One of which was to appoint a visiting Judge, with 8 citizens attending.

J.N. Fletcher, Commissioner, Precinct 4, elect, presented a petition with 258 names signed, asking the Court to instate Boyce Hart in the office of the Judge. Hart will officially take office January 1, 1991 as County Judge. Fletcher stated the citizens were under the impression the Court was going to hire a judge anyway and felt they had elected Hart and he should be sworn in.

John M. 'Sonny' Russell stated the Court had elected to pay the Judge salary to Judge Billy Joe Whitaker's widow for the remaining time of his term. Russell also stated after calling the Attorney General's office, they found out they couldn't pay the widow the salary without swearing her in.

Russell also stated they could save the County approximately $3,000 by waiting until the first of the year. (The cost of salary, insurance, bonding, etc., is approximately $3,000, according to Russell).

Bill Washington and Fraiser Watson both stated that they had nothing against Boyce Hart, but had the financial status of the County as first priority.

Franklin Jameson stated he felt that the court had not been fair to Hart, by letting him think he was going to be sworn in at the regular Court meeting November 12.

Boyce Hart stated he had no animosity toward the Court, but he felt hurt because he had understood from some of the Commissioners prior to November 12 that he would be appointed.

J.N. Fletcher and Travis Jameson both stated they felt the Court was ignoring the will of the general public by not instating Hart.

Russell called for a motion. Franklin Jameson made the motion that they swear in Boyce Hart before 5:00 p.m. on Monday, November 19, as County Judge.

Motion died for lack of second. Russell thanked the citizens for their concern.

The second item of business was to revise the 1991 Budget, to cover and pay the note due at the First State Bank, Feb. 1, 1991.

Third item on the agenda was to hire Judge Giles W. Dolby of Post for one day, (his expenses being 21¢ per mile, plus meals).

This motion passed, two for - one against.

Other matters discussed was a hazardous waste seminar in Sweetwater, November 20; Judge and Commissioner school in January and February. The Judge is required to take 20 hours and the Commissioners 16 hours a year. Meeting adjourned.

Rev. Mary Helen Cross

nary. As apprehensive as she was, she drove to Matador and Roaring Springs the next morning to look over the churches and towns. After the trip she felt the Lord was opening this door for her, so she accepted.

Ms. Cross stated, "The two churches and the people of both Matador and Roaring Springs have made me feel very welcome and at home. I feel very blessed and really enjoy living here."

Ms. Cross found out the Matador Church was used to having a woman in their pulpit, Mrs. Agnes Aaron has preached on occasion as well as Mrs. Arthur (Ruth) Cooper who also grew up in the Matador Church.

West Texas is not new to Mary Helen, after graduation from Adamson High School in Dallas, she attended Texas Tech in 1965 and 1966. Ms. Cross' own career was put on the back burner for marriage and family. After a divorce she then worked in a Dallas bank for 11 1/2 years. Her youngest daughter graduated from high school in May of this year, so she thought it was time to pursue her desire to become a minister. She has compassion for displaced housewives as well as others with spiritual needs. Her major is Family Study.

Mary Helen has two daughters, Heather, 20, who attends college and works in Dallas and Kelley, 18, a freshman in College in Dallas. Her parents, Jean and Conrad Jacobs, also live in Dallas. Ms. Cross said 5 out of 8 in her family are in Christian service, her sister is a missionary in Peru.

Roaring Springs Native Now Tech Professor

NOTE: Research for this article, by Texas Tech journalism student, Johnny Petty, was made possible by a grant from the Reader's Digest Foundation.

by Johnny Petty

For a man that says he never intended to leave Roaring Springs and farming, John Hunter's endeavors have taken him down a path far removed from the sandy-land farm he grew up on in the 30's and 40's.

Hunter, 62, an associate range and wildlife professor at Texas Tech, said his teaching career began at Roaring Springs as an instructor for a veterans class called farmer general.

After an attempt to purchase farming land did not work out, Hunter decided to go back to college to get his master's degree. He ended up teaching range sciences classes and was actually the first professor in the Range and Wildlife Department. Hunter now holds the longest tenure in the college of Agricultural Science at Texas Tech.

Success has been no stranger to Hunter during his teaching career. He has won 10 outstanding teaching awards, including the Outstanding Undergraduate Teacher in the United States award from The Society for Range Management in 1987 and the Outstanding Professor Award from the Future Farmers of America in 1981. Hunter has also been named as the Outstanding Range Man of the Year by The Society for Range Management, an organization for which he has served as president.

Hunter said he enjoys teaching more today than ever. "I still have an interest in production agriculture, and I enjoy hunting and fishing, but I derive my greatest pleasure from working with young people. I believe an investment in young people is the best investment you can make."

Hunter lives by those words. In 1960, when scholarships were practically nonexistent, Hunter used his own money to establish two $200 scholarships. He now serves as the chairman for the agricultural sciences scholarship committee at Texas Tech and has helped nurture the college's scholarship endowment from zero in 1960 to nearly $3 million today. He is personally the sixth largest donor in the College of Agricultural Sciences with donations totaling more than $50,000.

Hunter donates 10% of his earnings, whether it be to church, education or charity.

"Money never was a major goal in my life, but we are financially stable" Hunter said. "There are a lot of good things you can do with money if you invest it right."

Dr. Henry Wright, chairman of the Department of Range and Wildlife Management, describes Hunter as "An exceptional human being, a great humanitarian and a good teacher. He has a great rapport with students. He is straightforward and the kids like him. I don't know that we would even have a department if it were not for John."

Meador Plaque Stolen From Stand In Pioneer Memorial Park

The plaque honoring the late Douglas Meador, publisher of the Matador Tribune for 42 years, has been pried from its stand in Pioneer Memorial Park just south of the jail. When it was stolen is not known. Discovery that the plaque was missing was reported by Mrs. Ted Elliott several weeks ago when she was watering the trees and shrubbery in the park.

The plaque was presented to Meador by Harold (Tex) Brown of Yale, Okla., President of the Cimarron Valley Historical Association of Yale, Okla., in a program on October 15, 1972 which was attended by directors of the West Texas Press Association and other friends from a wide area of the state, including local and area communities.

The plaque was later mounted on a brick stand which rests on a star-shaped concrete base in the center of the park, and was dedicated in ceremonies during the county's Bi-Centennial celebration in 1976, by Congressman Jack Hightower who was speaker for that event.

Meador had designated the small park as a memorial to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Meador and other pioneers of Motley County. Several friends donated the material and labor for the stand and star and the Matador Garden Club assumed care and maintenance of the park, with Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Edgar Lee as the parks committee. The enclosure had become one of the city's attractions and was visited by many travelers from out of town.

Roaring Springs Park Update

The Roaring Springs Park Fund is progressing, slowly but surely, with donations coming in every week.

Many donations have been made in memory of Hattie Marshall and we have also recently received a donation in memory of Judge Billy J. Whitaker.

Former Roaring Springs residents have made very generous donations, which are so much appreciated.

One request has been made for a wedding to be held in the Gazebo, when completed, hopefully by Spring.

A Bake Sale was held in September, which raised approximately $150.00. Plans are being made for more fund raisers.

We don't plan to stop with the Gazebo, as so much more can be done to beautify downtown Roaring Springs.

I plan to print a proposed drawing of the Gazebo, as soon as possible, so keep watching.

Again, your generous donations are so much appreciated! Donations may be sent to Carla Jones, P.O. Box 111, Roaring Springs, Texas 79256 or to the Roaring Springs City Hall, P.O. Box 247, Roaring Springs, Texas 79256.

Roaring Springs City Council Meeting Report

The Roaring Springs City Council met Thursday, November 15 at 6:30 p.m. with Mayor Eugene Watson, Council members, Joey Thacker, Mary Webb and Charlie Long. Council members Bill Hand and Mark Watson were absent. Also present was Frances Walters, City Secretary.

Minutes were read and accepted. The Council discussed the removal of broken and fallen tree limbs on City property, since the recent ice storm. Council elected to purchase a chainsaw for Billy Green to use to help clear trees from City property, only.

Walters reported that Fred Thayer, CPA, is progressing with the Audit.

Council discussed street repairs. They had had complaints.

Walters reported they were waiting on the water sample approval before the new wells could be turned on.

Council went into closed session at this time.

No decisions were made.

ANOTHER ACT OF VIOLENCE: Postmaster Freddie Moran found this package compartment had been pried open when he came to work recently. Moran stated the Sheriff and the Texas Rangers were called in to investigate. Moran said it is a Federal offense to tamper with the U.S. Postal Department in any way. The Sheriff asks that anyone with any information, call Crime Line 347-2234 or 347-2417.

NOTE: We apologize that, due to a bad roll of film, there are no Spirit Rally pictures.

The Winter Spirit Rally, sponsored by the Motley County Booster Club, held Thursday night, November 15, in the High School Gym, was a big success, with a look back into "yesteryear". Mrs. Bertha Stearns, attired in her basketball suit from the 1920's, Mrs. Gertrude Smith,

Mr. J.E. Edwards and Mr. Raby Webb took us back a few years as they told of basketball stories from days gone by.

Mr. Dick Van Hoose, Principal, introduced the Motley County Jr. High and High School Basketball teams, managers and coaches to a spirited crowd.

Booster club member, Frances Hobbs introduced Athletic Director, Bob Moore. Mr. Moore gave a spirit-filled talk, pre-

Matador Churches Gather for Community Thanksgiving Service

Community Thanksgiving Service Sunday night at the First Baptist Church, Matador, was well attended, with members of the several churches participating. Message of the evening was given by Mrs. Mary Helen Cross, Pastor of the First United Methodist Church, who emphasized unity in community living, according to Scripture.

Reading from Psalm 133, Mrs. Cross cited verse 1: "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" and pointed out other scriptures with admonitions to "Love thy neighbor as thyself."

"Make love your aim," the Apostle Paul wrote in I Corinthians in his letter to the church in Corinth, and to the Galatians he charged, "Bear each others burdens" while continuing his message of "Caring for Others" to the Phillipians. Mrs. Cross told her audience as she urged the congregation to "Love one another in unity."

A hymn of Praise, "Glorious Is Thy Name" by the congregation, led by Billy Donaldson opened the service, followed by a Prayer of Thanksgiving by Roy Eason, pastor of Assembly of God Church. Stacy Conner, pastor of First Baptist Church welcomed the assembly. Introduction of the speaker was by Bill Moss.

Special music included a Ladies' Ensemble from the host church, composed of Mmes. Debra Spray, Elaine Risser and Donna Hoyle, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frances Dixon; a solo by Mrs. Theda Jenkins, accompanied by Miss Roberta Jameson, and a quartet composed of Terri and Billy Donaldson, Debbie Conner and Carolyn and Mrs. Elaine Risser in addition to Mrs. Dixon and Miss Jameson.

Following the benediction by Tommy Spencer, Minister of Youth at the First Baptist Church, refreshments were served in the church basement.

The offering of the evening was a benefit for the Community Chest.

HOW COMMON IS HIGH CHOLESTEROL?

According to the second National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey for 1976-80, an estimated 41 percent of adults have a total blood cholesterol level that is either 240 or above (high), or in the range of 200-239 mg/dL (borderline-high) with a history of coronary heart disease (CHD) or at least two risk factors. Risk factors are high blood pressure, cigarette smoking, diabetes mellitus, severe obesity, male sex, history of cerebrovascular disease, and family history of early onset of CHD.

The National Cholesterol Education Program guidelines indicate that these individuals should have another test-lipoprotein analysis. This test reveals the level of one of the carrier systems of fat and cholesterol—low density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol is known, the doctor can recommend a cholesterol-lowering treatment program.

The 36 percent of adults who should have lipoprotein analysis and need medical intervention is virtually the same in blacks and whites. However, a higher percentage of men need both lipoprotein analysis and intervention because being a male is considered a risk factor for CHD.

The number of people requiring lipoprotein analysis increases with age because both the levels of total blood cholesterol and the presence of CHD and other CHD risk factors increase with age.

Most people with high blood cholesterol have cardiovascular disease (CVD) or another CHD risk factor that should already have brought them into the health care system. Overall, over 50 percent of persons 20-74 years of age who are candidates for intervention also have high blood pressure, and about 80 percent have one or more CHD risk factors. Among persons 60-74 years of age, the proportion is even higher (88 percent for males and 83 percent for females).

HEART RISK FACTS YOU CAN CHANGE

High blood pressure, high blood cholesterol and cigarette smoking are the three major risk factors for cardiovascular disease (CVD) that can be changed. Each one of these risk factors puts individuals at increased risk for this disease.

The National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES II) for 1976-80 show the following estimates about the prevalence of these risk factors in adults 20 years of age and older:

- * 28 percent have elevated blood pressure (140/90 mm Hg or above).
- * 27 percent have blood cholesterol levels of 240 mg/dL or above.
- * 37 percent smoke cigarettes.

In addition, many American adults are at even greater risk for developing CVD because they have multiple risk factors. For example, among those with elevated blood pressure, 39 percent have blood cholesterol levels of 240 mg/dL or greater and 31 percent smoke cigarettes. Among those with blood cholesterol levels of 240 mg/dL or greater, 40 percent have elevated blood pressure and 35 percent smoke.

The NHANES II data show the following estimates for adults:

- * 66 percent have at least one of these CVD risk factors.
- * 26 percent have two or more of these risk factors.
- * 12 percent have all three of these risk factors.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

The secret of happy living is not to do what you like but to like what you do.

Roaring Springs Native

Hunter tells his students how much the world has changed since he was growing up near Roaring Springs. He relates a story about his dad going to Matador in 1934 and buying the family's first car. Hunter said the first thing his dad did with the car was back it over the yard fence. Although all of his brothers and sisters learned how to drive in that car, his dad never got behind the wheel again.

Hunter uses this story to illustrate to students how much range management and the way we take care of land has changed during his life and how much managing land will change in the future.

"What I want to do is to teach students how to take care of their land and its inhabitants and still survive economically," Hunter said.

"I enjoy teaching. Students are the most important people on a university campus. It is gratifying to watch them mature, develop an interest in a particular field and perform at a high level. Then they graduate and become leaders in their communities."

The tribute on the plaque Hunter received for being named the outstanding undergraduate professor in the United States by the Society of Range Management cites him, "The epitome of the college professor...a man who offers something students can use everyday of their lives...He teaches them about life."

I hope that everyone has a great Thanksgiving, but don't forget to pray for all the men and women who are over in the Middle East prepared to fight. Give a prayer for the hungry people, too. Pray that they are having a great day and that they are having a decent meal. Be thankful to the Lord that he gave you such great food and a great family!

I hope you all enjoy the holidays---I know I will!

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

"What's your favorite parable?" asked a Sunday School Teacher. "The one," answered a boy, "where everybody loafs and fishes." That sounds like a lot of church members, doesn't it? They loaf while others labor, and then fish for the compliments after the work is done.

What are you - a loafer or a laborer, a shirker or a worker, a leaner or a lifter, a hindrance or a help?

You're saved by grace, not works. But if you're saved, you'll work. The time to work is now, the place to work is where the Lord has put you, and the way to work is with your talents.

The Lord's call is for liveliness, not laziness.

Taking Flight

"Don't swing so high!"
"Not so fast!"
"Not so hard!"

These are the phrases I find myself screaming as autumn paints the land.

Our 3-year-old daughter has decided, literally, to spread her wings. The child is fearless. No swing goes fast enough, no sliding board reaches high enough to satisfy her sudden thirst for ... danger? Adventure?

She cannot be trusted five minutes alone on her backyard swing set. Left unattended, she goes higher and higher, until her toes almost touch the lower branches of the adjacent redbud.

The first time it happened, I screamed, "Emily, you'll fall!"

"No, I won't, Mommy," she shrieked, going ever higher. Convinced of her immortality, she laughed at my silly fears.

This is not a new phenomenon. Once, when she could barely walk, she managed to climb up four feet or so to the top of a mountain of pillows her big sister had built. I watched helplessly, too far away to catch her, as she tumbled off the other side, did a flip in midair and came up laughing, ready to try again.

I feared for her — and worried about my own response.

On my bathroom wall is a small plaque that proclaims: "There are only two lasting bequests we can give our children. One is roots; the other is wings."

What a wonderful sentiment, I thought, as I watched my tiny baby sleeping peacefully — and safely — in her bassinet.

When I thought then of wings, I envisioned Emily growing up secure yet free, ready, one day, to leave the nest and soar over all the obstacles in her path.

Now, I have nightmares about hang gliding.

Still, each time I tell her not to swing so high, I feel as if I'm saying, "Don't reach for that star; it's too dangerous."

I worry that my efforts to keep her out of casts or traction will somehow stifle her willingness to take chances, to climb every mountain.

Am I already clipping her wings?

Today it's the tallest tree, the fastest merry-go-round.

What about tomorrow? I do not expect this element of her nature to change when she's 16.

I guess it is a parent's plight to reconcile these clashes, to find a delicate balance between freedom and foolishness.

I wonder where I can find a giant foam-rubber pad to fit under the swing.

Social Security Tips

by Mary Jane Shanes

BENEFIT ESTIMATES ARE FOR YOUNG ADULTS

"Could I support myself on my Social Security benefits if I became disabled?" "Would my children be able to get Social Security if something happened to me?"

These are questions that young adults need to ask themselves. Young people can get answers to these questions with a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.

The benefit statements show estimates of the Social Security benefits each worker could expect. The estimate shows disability benefits for workers and their families, and survivors benefits available to family members if the worker dies.

With a realistic estimate of their Social Security benefits, people will be in a better position to make informed decisions about their need for insurance and savings.

People can also use their statements to verify that all their earnings are shown correctly on their Social Security records. If the record is wrong, Social Security may be able to correct it. It's usually easier to make corrections if the error is found within a few years, while records are still available.

To get a benefit statement, call Social Security at 1-800-2345-SSA (1-800-234-5772) and ask for a free request for Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. When it comes in the mail, fill it out, and send it back. You'll get your statement in a few weeks.

MEDIC ALERT BRACELET

Individuals who have a special medical condition that a doctor should know about in an emergency should consider wearing a Medic Alert bracelet. Critical information is engraved on the Medic Alert emblem, along with a 24-hour emergency Medic Alert phone number which provides more information.

According to the American Hospital Association, one out of four Americans has a condition that may not be obvious to medical personnel in the event of severe illness or injury. This condition could affect treatment. These problems include chronic illnesses such as diabetes and asthma, visual or hearing disabilities, allergies, bleeding disorders, heart problems and dependence on special medication.

Today almost 2 million people are registered with MedicAlert in the United States, but many should be registered. Medic Alert is also recognized internationally, with 1 million members in 21 other countries.

Persons interested in joining Medic Alert can call 1-800-ID-ALERT for more information. Lifetime membership in Medic Alert, including the bracelet or necklace and an annually updated wallet card, costs $25.

For lack of final USDA regulations it would be premature for producers to break out the Big Chief tablets or begin feeding numbers into computers to assess their options under the new farm act of 1990.

But, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., it's not too early to begin grasping the fundamental differences between the Food, Agriculture, Conservation and Trade Act of 1990 and the law which has governed farm programs since 1985. The Act, unless changed by Congress in the meantime, will provide the base for such programs for the crop years 1991 through 1995.

Determination of the loan rate and loan period will be the same as under the old law. The marketing loan, with some modification, essentially will function in the same manner. The target price (72.9 cents per pound) and farm payments yields are frozen for the five years at the 1990 level, and the deficiency payment rate will be calculated as before. For most, a slight change in the rules will not affect crop acreage bases, and acreage reduction programs will continue to be capped at 25 percent. However the standard carryover goal will be 30 percent of projected offtake instead of the flat four million bale objective in the 1985 act.

As the major change in the law, Johnson points to the introduction of a totally new "triple-base" plan which, while adding a measure of flexibility to cropping plans, results in a 15 percent reduction in the number of program crop acres eligible for deficiency payments. Effective base acres will be left unchanged, but the maximum acres of any crop eligible for payments will be reduced not only by the required acreage reduction program percentage as before, but by another 15 percent of the farm's effective base acres as well. Ostensibly to ease the pain of this cut, producers are given the option to shift the 15 percent mandatory non-payment acres of any crop to any other crop (excluding fruits and vegetables), including program crops. Production from the additional acreage of the preferred crop will be eligible for loan programs, but not payments.

Unfortunately this feature, Johnson points out, is no consolation to many High Plains producers who have no base for any crop but cotton. And it's only a small "nudge" to multi-base farmers in irrigated areas. The only advantage to these producers, he explains, is that they will have a choice of which crop they plant on mandatory non-payment acres.

The program also offers additional flexibility. Those willing to sacrifice 10 percent of their payment-eligible acres of any crop may shift that acreage into another crop. Thus producers have flexibility on a total of 25 percent of base acres.

Projecting the nationwide effect of these options on planted acres of the various commodities, Johnson notes, will be "nothing short of a nightmare". But it's something that will have to be done by program officials prior to announcement of acreage reduction percentages for each crop.

Excepting 1991, the law requires a preliminary announcement of the cotton reduction percentage no later than November 1 each year, with a final announcement by January 1. This year was expected, of course, because the new law was not finalized until late October. The loan for 1991 has been set, at 50.75 cents, up half-a-cent from last year. But the newly complicated process of estimating planted acreage is expected to delay the announcement of the 1991 cotton reduction percentage at least until the end of November.

Further, the necessity of updating computer software and educating personnel, according to one USDA official, may well delay the beginning of the 1991 program sign-up until some time in March. Sign-up for the 1990 program started January 16, 1989 and continued through the following April 13.

Aside from triple-base flexibility provisions, the new law effects other changes of lesser magnitude, "some good and some not-so-good," says Johnson.

The 50-92 program, whereby producers may plant only 50 percent of permitted acreage and qualify for 92 percent of payments, will now guarantee a payment rate no less than the rate projected at sign-up. Also, a 0-92 program is mandated for cotton on the same terms for producers who are prevented from planting. However both programs have been adjusted to comply with the mandatory 15 percent non-payment acreage provision.

The definition of "base quality" of cotton has been changed from Strict Low Middling 1-1/16th inches, 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire, to "as determined by the Secretary."

Both cross-compliance and offsetting compliance are prohibited under the new law, and skip-row rules will be changed to accommodate 30-inch row spacings.

The $50,000 per person limit on deficiency and diversion payments is left unchanged. But there's now a $75,000 limit on total marketing loan gains, loan deficiency payments and Findly grain payments, along with a reduction, from $500,000 to $250,000, of the aggregate limit on all payments.

On cotton research and promotion, the Act provides authority for a referendum on non-refundable Cotton Incorporated assessments on all U.S. upland cotton and the cotton content of imported textiles.

New Book, CeeVee: Our Home On The Range Published by Native Authors

CV Ranch House, Circa 1910

A book about the history of the Cee Vee Community, in the lower Texas Panhandle, is soon to be published by native Cee Vee, Texans, Marion Woodard McClendon and June Russell Grelle.

The book has been thoroughly documented after three years of exhaustive research involving hundreds of personal interviews. Over 25,000 miles have been traveled by the authors while conducting extensive research at universities, museums, libraries, and courthouses across Texas, New Mexico and Colorado.

The book will feature a high quality cover, attractively hard bound with reproduction of CV ranch house in oil by Amarillo artist and former Cee Vee resident, Jack Hill. The book will feature more than 500 pages on superior quality paper and easy to read print. Over 900 pictures, eight in full color, and over 400 family histories sprinkled with area folklore have been collected for the book during the past three years.

Other highlights of the book will include reproductions of works of art by native artists, maps, charts, illustrations, school and church records, and copies of legal and other documents. The book will also be footnoted, indexed and cross referenced.

Cee Vee: Our Home on the Range is a comprehensive documentary of the community between the Pease Rivers and the people who settled there. The book recounts the rich and significant history which parallels the development of the United States, the State of Texas, the Westward movement, and the arrival of Western family farming. It also examines the origins of the CV Ranch and how the cattle arrived there. The drama unfolds as Charles Goodnight, Colonel Williams E. Hughes, Joe Loving, T.A. Coleman, Quannah Parker, C.C. Slaughter, and other stars of the Western frontier play their part in the birth and development of Cee Vee.

The reader will be able to follow the Indian tribes up the Pease rivers, live with them and learn about their Cee Vee area campsites, and discover their trails as they roamed the prairies following the buffalo.

The book also lists the abundant variety of plants and wildlife, and describes how water and weather decided the future of Cee Vee, in Northwest Texas, and the forces that shaped this unique area.

Cee Vee: Our Home on the Range will be valuable for many uses - reference, history, Texana, genealogy, humanities, school curriculum supplement, college and university general libraries and special collections, museums and research centers, family collections, and gifts. Early response indicates that the book will be a work to be treasured by families, friends, researchers and historians for years to come.

It is anticipated that the books will be available for shipment July 1, 1991.

Prepublication order price of Cee Vee: Our Home on the Range is $48.50, including postage and sales tax, for orders received by December 31, 1990. After this date, the price will be $58.50.

Order deadline is 3/1/91. Because the Cee Vee Historical Society is a non-profit organization with a limited budget, the first printing will include only a small number of books beyond the actual orders received. Second printing not guaranteed. It is anticipated that the books will be ready for shipment by July 1, 1991.

Lighthouse Electric Cooperative Receives Rebate

Lighthouse General Manager Bill Harbin commented, "The refunds from this settlement will be returned as soon as practical to the people who paid the overcharges to begin with, our members. The Board of Directors has decided that the best way to do this is to credit our members on their November billing, based on their usage of electricity since the first of the year."

"These credits will be significant since the refund amounts to about 1/2 cent per kWh for all usage since January 1 of this year," explained Harbin.

On October 29, 1990, Golden Spread Electric Cooperative reduced wholesale power rates by 10 percent and paid $6,233,485 in refunds and interest to 11 of its member systems. Lighthouse Electric Cooperative received $603,000.

The rate reduction and refunds are the result of an agreement between Golden Spread and its power supplier, Southwestern Public Service Company, that settled a complaint which had been filed by Golden Spread with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in August, 1989. Golden Spread had charged that SPS' wholesale rates were excessive.

As a result of the settlement agreement, SPS has reduced wholesale rates to Golden Spread and paid refunds on wholesale power purchased by Golden Spread since January 1, 1990. Golden Spread has passed the refunds and lower rates on to its member systems.

The agreement also extends the contract between Golden Spread and SPS to December 31, 2004, and permits Golden Spread to obtain a portion of its wholesale power supply from other sources beginning January 1, 1997.

Golden Spread purchases wholesale power from SPS for 11 rural electric distribution cooperatives including Lighthouse, Bailey County, Deaf Smith, Greenbelt, Lamb County, Midwest, North Plains, Rita Blanca, South Plains, and Swisher Electric Cooperatives in Texas, and Tri-County Electric Cooperative in Oklahoma.

A SOUNDING BOARD

When the Apostle Paul said, "the word of the Lord sounded forth from you" (I Thess. 1:8), he compared the church to a parabolic arch or a sounding board which reinforces sounds and causes them to travel in various directions. The arch or sounding board does not of itself create the sounds, but the church in Thessalonica had been reinforced by their joyful experience in accepting it, and thus strengthened, had echo forth the Word of the Lord into all the region around them

We today, when assembled, provide the opportunity for the Word and worship to strengthen and to reinforce our faith. We then can be both committed and convinced that everyone in our region of opportunity, should hear the Gospel during our lifetime. We want to "sound forth" the word of our Lord Jesus.

Space here does not permit the telling of the story of enriched fellowship, a deeper love, a more active concern and a sweeter life upon this earth. Why not come and be with us in the services of the Matador Church of Christ?

MATADOR CHURCH OF CHRIST Michael G. Crowley, Sr.
