

Russian Flight Failure Laid To Frozen Compass

Oxygen Tank Is Emptied, Pilot Says

Flight Leader Suffers Injury In Forced Landing

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP) — Freezing of the plane's radio compass and exhaustion of the fliers' oxygen supply caused the two Soviet airmen enroute from Moscow to New York to decide on a forced landing on Miscou Island off New Brunswick, Canada, Soviet officials said tonight.

Not Hurt Badly Constantine Oumansky, charge d'affaires of the Soviet embassy at Washington, announced at flight headquarters here that these two reasons were given by Brig-Gen. Vladimir Kokkinaki, the pilot, in a telephone conversation with him. General Kokkinaki called Oumansky from the Miscou island lighthouse. The charge d'affaires reported the pilot said he "did not feel badly and that the doctor sent from New York by plane found he seemed to have only a slight concussion of one rib." His radio operator-navigator, Major Mikhail Gordenko, was unhurt.

He said that flying between Labrador and St. Lawrence bay he met complete overcast up to 27,000 feet and climbed to this level," Oumansky said. "He had continuous strong winds. The temperature at that time was minus 48 degrees centigrade (minus 118.4 Fahrenheit). "The radio compass was frozen and the oxygen supply was exhausted and in spite of the fact the motors were performing perfectly and he still had 900 kilograms of gasoline, he considered it unadvisable to continue and decided to land."

The Soviet aviators refused gestures of hospitality by many of the 1,200 people on the island, preferring to stay with their plane. However, the island fishermen brought food and covering to make the aviators comfortable during the cold night and remained with them. The Russians were unable to understand the French and English spoken by the fishermen and the islanders knew no Russian.

WINS INJUNCTION

PORT ARTHUR, April 29 (AP)—National Maritime union seamen obtained a temporary injunction in 58th district court here today restraining Port Arthur police from interfering with picketing activities. Spokesmen for the union said picketing of filling stations in connection with the maritime strike would begin again early tomorrow. Police had halted picketing earlier in the week.

Death Claims B. E. Howell

Benjamin Emory Howell, 74, operator of a fuel business here for nearly two score years, died at the home of his nephew, Dee Purser, at 1:30 a. m. Saturday. Coming here in 1900, Howell operated a fuel company continuously until he was forced nine weeks ago to retire because of illness. He leaves his widow, Mrs. B. E. Howell; two daughters, Mrs. Mamie Eager, Lamesa, and Mrs. Willie Dean Watson, Lubbock; four brothers, J. O. Howell, Childress, W. E. and T. A. Howell, Commerce, and Frank Howell, Lexington; three sisters, Mrs. Mortie Rouse, Austin, Mrs. Walter Herndon, Waco, and Mrs. Wooten Taylor, Rockdale; and two granddaughters, Mrs. Jewell Bias, Williamson, W. Va., and Mrs. Dee Alva Lewis, El Paso.

W. R. Purser, Big Spring, is a brother-in-law. Services are to be held at 3 p. m. in the First Methodist church with Rev. Anall Lynn in charge. Active pallbearers will be L. S. Patterson, Clarence and Lee Shive, H. W. Leeper, J. F. Wolcott and W. O. Linard. Honorary pallbearers will be T. S. Currie, W. B. Currie, M. H. Morrison, S. H. Morrison, E. Reagan, Nat Shick, C. E. Thomas, J. E. Haffey, J. D. Biles, Shlne Phillips, Victor Mellinger and A. R. Gray.

Passage Of Sales Tax Bill Doubtful

Adjournment Time Little More Than Week Away

AUSTIN, April 29 (AP)—With the Texas legislature's usual adjournment time rapidly approaching, veteran members agreed today it still was questionable whether the lawmakers would accept any of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's program for new old-age pension taxes. For the present at least, the only tax plan with any chance of passage was the O'Daniel-blessed constitutional amendment imposing a 2 per cent retail sales levy and looting impost on oil, sulphur and natural gas. Some house members believed the proposed amendment would muster the needed 100 votes while others insisted it would not.

Advocates of the proposal, approved three weeks ago by the senate, lost in four moves yesterday for a special setting of it. The largest vote they were able to obtain was 91 and a two-thirds majority was needed. The house has 150 members. The lawmakers would go home one week from Tuesday if they followed the constitutional suggestion of 120-day biennial sessions. Except for a 50 per cent pay cut, however, there is nothing to keep them from staying all year if they desire. The general opinion was that the session's end was between 14 and 21 days away.

Aside from taxes, the chief remaining matters of interest were the necessary appropriations for the 1939-41 biennium, the road bond assumption bill, Governor O'Daniel's possible fourth attempt to select a highway commissioner acceptable to the senate and the house-approved "fair trade act" affecting merchants.

UNIFICATION OF METHODISTS CALLED 'ACCOMPLISHED FACT'

KANSAS CITY, April 29 (AP)—Unification of the Methodist church was called an "accomplished fact" today by a majority of bishops of the three hitherto separate branches. Their opinion was announced by Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of Omaha, as the prelates prepared to act jointly in a consecration service tomorrow. The ceremony will install as bishops of the united church Dr. James H. Straughn of Baltimore, and Dr. John Calvin Broomfield of Pittsburgh, elected this week as the first bishops in the 11-year history. Representatives of five Texas churches reported a letter criticizing the union movement had been returned to Bishop Collins Denny, of Richmond, Va., its author and the only bishop outspoken against the single church plan.

The letter was addressed to the conference but its contents were not disclosed. The conference hall was turned over this afternoon and tonight to thousands of Methodist young people, who discussed democracy versus totalitarianism. had come to a dead stop. The behind-the-scenes strategy for control in coming months of delegates to the democratic national convention may break into the open shortly, they said, in the U. S. senate when President Roosevelt's nomination of Leon Henderson to the securities and exchange commission is acted upon. Henderson's vote in the S. E. C., they said, is necessary for the

Relief Fight Is In Offing For Congress

May Become Leading Issue In Presidential Campaign

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP) — Congress squares away next week for a new and politically significant clash over the size and character of federal relief activities for the next fiscal year. Major Issue Short of a war outbreak in Europe, there is every indication that relief policy and its recovery spending ramifications will afford the major intra and inter party issues of the next presidential campaign.

President Roosevelt's leadership has met the most formidable party opposition of his incumbency on that front. A substantial democratic faction in house and senate bolted administration lines to form with republicans the economy coalition that slashed $50,000,000 from the chief executive's estimate of what was needed for relief in the remainder of this fiscal year.

The president ignored that defeat in his message of last Thursday submitting a request for $1,735,350,000 for the 1940 fiscal year's relief program. That was the opening gun of the real relief policy fight of the session. It put dissenting democrats on notice that the president and his supporters are rallying for a stand against any tinkering with the New Deal principle of work relief, or with centralization of its administration in Washington.

Senators up next year for reelection and all house members seeking return to Washington will be directly under the guns of their voter-constituents in this battle over relief. How they voted on extending aid for the remainder of this fiscal year may have been forgotten by next year. How they vote on the 1940 relief program is apt to be a prime consideration with voters in their states or districts when balloting on their renomination or re-election.

Coahoma Band Wins Honors At Abilene

COAHOMA, April 29—Completing a highly successful season, the Coahoma high school band Saturday gained second division for Class C bands in the Tri-State meet at Abilene. Since there were no first division winners in the Class C, the Coahoma band was in the top bracket with an average between 87 and 95 points. The rank entitled the unit to another loving cup, its fourth this year.

J. J. Hensley is director of the 60-piece band, one of the finest in three states for high schools of not more than 250 enrollment.

COINCIDENCE SAVES LIFE OF SMALL BOY

FORT WORTH, April 29 (AP)—Coincidence saved the life of a four-year-old boy near here today. Morton Gray, Jr., the boy, toppled into a minnow pool at the home of his parents. A physician went to the Gray's place to buy some minnows. When Dick Gray, uncle of the boy, went to see out the minnow, he pulled up a leg of the child. Gray jumped into the pool, pulled the unconscious child out. The physician revived the child.

Date Set For Splash Day

Splash Day, marking the formal opening of the municipal swimming pool for 1939, will be staged here next Sunday, it was announced Saturday.

The event, which will feature a bathing revue, is coincidental with the opening of the district Rotary conference and clubs in the 127th district are being notified. Elmo Waason, conference chairman, said that the event has the sanction of the executive committee. Burke Summers, chairman of the Splash Day committee, has mailed invitations to clubs in the district to send representatives for the revue. Awards will be made to the winning young woman. Last year, when Splash Day was observed together with opening of the park extension, several thousand people thronged to the park.

Royalty Feted To Hot Dogs

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 29 (AP)—President and Mrs. Roosevelt introduced Crown Prince Olaf and Princess Martha of Norway today to that modern American meal—a picnic on hot dogs and potato salad. In the wooded surroundings of the chief executive's new field stone and frame Dutch colonial bungalow, three miles from the Roosevelt estate, the royal couple joined two score of Roosevelt friends and relatives at a table piled high with hot and cold American and Scandinavian dishes.

UNION PENSION LEADER JAILED

Anderson Held In Contempt

Had Refused To Appear Before House Unit

AUSTIN, April 29 (AP)—Charged with contempt of the house of representatives, Jan Anderson of Austin, campaign director of the Texas Penions Union, was jailed here today.

Anderson, who had refused to appear before a house committee and then before the house itself after being served a summons, had just completed a radio talk at a local station when he was arrested by Ranger W. E. Naylor. Justice of the Peace Sam Rogers refused to permit the director to sign a personal bond. Anderson said later he was awaiting the arrival of "friends." Rogers said the case probably would be set for a hearing next week.

"Are there any two gentlemen in the legislature who realize I have been telling the truth and want to sign my bond?" Anderson asked.

He declared he had no fear of a federal order to impound him of the pensions union which the legislative investigating committee had requested of postal authorities.

In the radio address, Anderson reiterated previous statements to the legislature to "go jump a stump" and charged the lawmakers with undue delay in obtaining $30 pensions for old persons.

House members said the penalty for contempt was 30 days in jail and a fine of $100 to $1,000.

The investigation resulted from charges on the floor of the house that old people had written members asking why they had to pay $1 to receive their pensions.

The supreme court recently supported former Secretary of State Ed Clarke's refusal to grant a charter to a "Texas Pensions Union."

SENTENCED TO CHAIR

CORSICANA, April 29 (AP)—Judge H. Fountain Kirby today sentenced Rafe Lee Walker, negro ex-convict convicted of rape of a Teague, Tex., white girl, to die in the electric chair in state prison May 30. Two hours after sentence was passed the negro was taken to the Huntsville prison death row.

Farley Given Invitation

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—A Big Spring, Tex., delegation carried to the postoffice department today a unique invitation to Postmaster General Farley to attend the convention at Big Spring June 22-24 of the Texas chapter, National Postmasters Association. The invitation was expressed in burned lettering on the chaps of a miniature Texas cowboy. The cowboy was accepted by Ambrust O'Connell, assistant postmaster general, in Farley's absence. The delegation included Bob Whippley, editor of The Big Spring Herald; Cal Boykin, president, and Jimmy Greene, secretary, of the Big Spring chamber of commerce. Greene and Boykin were clad in cowboy regalia and Associated Press photographers were on hand to make shots of the event. The novel invitation was prepared under the direction of Nat Shick, Big Spring postmaster.

To make her royal guests feel a little more at home, Mrs. Roosevelt had her stand-by for such occasions, Nellie Johansen, prepare some Norwegian herring salad. After the luncheon, the party moved out into a clearing and was entertained by a group of amateur Norwegian singers and dancers.

Poland Plans Strong Reply To Germany

Mussolini Enlarges Army As Britain Woos Russia

By The Associated Press Danzig appeared on the European horizon today (Sunday) to be the next likely post-war score tagged by Adolf Hitler for a settlement. Nazis declared the fuhrer's denunciation Friday of his non-aggression treaty with Poland eliminated contractual restraints against proceedings to bring the free city on the Baltic "back home to the reich."

Poland Has Say Hitler long ago declared void the Versailles treaty which amputated from Germany the 754-square mile Danzig area whose 400,000 population predominantly is German.

Poland, however, must be reckoned with in any move by Berlin against either Danzig or the Polish Corridor, which gives Warsaw an outlet to the sea by way of the free city.

The Polish government was reported preparing a firm answer to Hitler's demands regarding Danzig and the Corridor.

New defense precautions were ordered by Poland, whose borders with Germany already were guarded by a majority of the 1,300,000 men she has under arms.

The opposing Berlin-Rome and London-Paris camps, meanwhile, kept up feverish efforts to strengthen their respective positions.

Premier Mussolini announced further expansion of his army in that fascists considered a counter move against the British-French alliance.

Scouts Due Here Friday

Boy Scouts and their leaders from 15 counties in the Buffalo Trail council will converge here Friday for their annual Round Up.

Al Stiles, Sweetwater, area executive, and Jack Penrose, field scout executive, estimated that there would be well over 800 boys and leaders in camp at the city park for the affair.

Grounds for contests will be completely cleared and enclosed this week, said Penrose. Camp sites will be staked for approximately 250 troops so that they may draw for locations as they report.

The public is invited to attend the gigantic camp fire program to be staged Friday evening on a slope near the contest fields in the southeastern end of the city park extension.

After breakfast and inspection Saturday morning, troops will be divided into three groups according to number of registered scouts.

At noon the boys will be feted to a barbecue luncheon and in the afternoon finals in all events of the three divisions will be staged.

CITY DAM PROJECT ESTIMATED AT 62 PER CENT COMPLETE

With pile drivers pounding away at sheet piling, drag lines puddling clay core, and pipe crews laying 14-inch cast iron lines, Otis N. Key, resident PWA engineer, Saturday pronounced the half million dollar city water works project 62 per cent complete.

About half of the steel sheet piling on Moss Creek dam is down and bulk of the work may be finished within 10 days. From six to seven thousand cubic yards of clay core in the same dam have been puddled, Key estimated. On the Powell Creek site, floor slab has been poured and forms set for the remainder of the conduit. More concrete is due to be poured Monday. There is a strong possibility that dirt work, which is the actual dam portion of the structure, may be started during the week.

The diversion canal, which shunts water from the Devil Creek watershed into Powell's creek above the dam, is around 40 per cent complete. Blasting for rip-rap above the Moss Creek dam is well along and a big supply of cover rock has been laid in.

Extension of the water main from Big Spring to Powell Creek, a distance of about 12 miles, is now 82 per cent complete. All concrete work on the filtration plant in eastern Big Spring is in with the exception of floor slab, which is to be poured this week so that brick work may be done and the task of tackling the fitting job started.

A. W. George, travelling PWA engineer inspector, complimented the progress and quality of work on the project on his visit here the past week.

Clean-Up Gets Good Results

Big Spring residents are taking the clean-up campaign seriously, a check with the city showed Saturday.

With the free collection of clean-up trash only about half complete, the city reported that 146 truck loads had been hauled away.

The refuse came from the Central Ward district, the East Ward, South Ward and part of the College Heights Ward territory. This week the College Heights area collection will be finished and then city trucks will move on to the West Ward district. After that they go to North Ward and Mexican Ward sections.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

This weather business is beginning to get serious. Farmers can get by for a few weeks yet, but ranchers are feeling the effects of a prolonged spring drought. Most are having to do some feeding even at this late date. In commenting on the matter, we only hope it turns out like it did once before. By the time our drought story appeared in print, a two-inch rain was soaking the county.

This talk of water reminds us that if you still want to get on the special summer residential irrigation rate ($3.25 for 10,000 gallons), you had better contact the city.

BOB BURNS BILLED IN RITZ WEEKEND ATTRACTION, "I'M FROM MISSOURI"

Has Homespun Role Of Mule Trader On The Loose In London

Bob Burns, in the type of homespun role that has brought him fame, comes to the Ritz theatre today and Monday in a hilarious story of a Missouri mule magnate on the loose in London.

It's the type of down-to-earth part which endeared Burns to the public heart in the "Arkansas Traveller."

It's a familiar plot of down-to-earth folks cast adrift in London society with the wife, Gladys George, dragging poor Bob into the swim. But Burns and Miss George give it a touch seldom given since the days of the immortal Will Rogers.

The John C. Moffitt-Duke Atterberry plot deals with the escapades of Bob and his wife, Miss George, when they make their first trip abroad, he to convince the British army not to stop buying mules, she to have a fling in British society. Although Burns' plain, western view of society threatens to ruin Miss George's campaign at several points, his good Yankee hard-headedness not only wins them a real social triumph but clinches a neat deal with the mule-buyers as well.

In addition to the desperate mule-selling campaign, two romances arrive to plague Burns. In one of them a beautiful society matron tries out her considerable charms on him, much to Miss George's annoyance. She's played by Miss Morrison, whose recent performance in J. Edgar Hoover's "Persons in Hiding," established her as a full-fledged star. In the second romance Bob is forced to straighten out the love affair of his highly sister-in-law, Miss Barrett, who can't make up her mind between a handsome British diplomat, Huntley, and the "boy back home," William Henry.

Started in a cast that includes Gladys George, Gene Lockhart, George F. Huntley, Judith Barrett, Patricia Morrison and William Henry, Burns plays a rough-hewn mule magnate from the Missouri farm country. The role, incidentally, marks Bob's third change of "allegiance" in three pictures: he was an Oklahoma senator in "Tropic Holiday," an Arkansas editor in "The Arkansas Traveller," and now he can say with justification, "I'm From Missouri!"

Rumor Racket Is Exposed

Jack Holt Starred In Queen's Week-End Feature

Rumors—black, malicious lies intended solely to ruin a man and his business are bared in the Sunday and Monday Queen feature, "Whispering Enemies."

The picture, which stars veteran Jack Holt, is a timely expose of a national scandal syndicate.

Set against the background of a teeming metropolis, the picture has Holt cast as a young, successful and aggressive manufacturer who is ruined when a competing company initiates a whispering campaign against his products.

Penniless and embittered, Holt seeks a unique revenge. He goes after the rival firm with the same vicious tactics. His success in the campaign leads him to expand and become a scandalmonger ready to ruin the reputation of any firm or individual for a price. There is fast-moving, action-packed drama in this story of revenge and repentance, according to advance report.

Dolores Costello is seen as Holt's leading lady, owner of the rival firm, whose subordinates had ruined Holt without her knowledge. Others in the fine cast are Addison Richards, Pert Kelton and Joseph Crehan.

Lewis D. Collins, who directed many other Holt successes, is responsible for "Whispering Enemies." The screen play was written by Gordon Rigby and Tom Kilpatrick.

ITEMS FROM STANTON

Mrs. Poe Woodard has returned from Fort Stockton, where she attended the Eighth District Federated clubs convention, as a delegate from the Stanton Study club. The convention was held April 24, 25 and 26.

YOUNG DENNIS O'KEEFE IN NEW ADVENTURE FILM

Lyric Feature Is Story Of Cowboy-Polo Player

Dennis O'Keefe, cast as a cowboy turned polo star, scores a hit in "The Kid From Texas," showing today and Monday at the Lyric theatre.

An adventurous young star, O'Keefe scored a smashing success in "The Bad Man of Brimstone," in which he was co-starred with Wallace Beery, Virginia Bruce and Lewis Stone.

"The Kid From Texas" is the second in a series of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sport features starring young O'Keefe and takes him on the wigs of a rapid-fire story from the range to the polo matches of Long Island and finally to a Wild West show.

O'Keefe plays a cowboy who takes up polo, learned from the newsreels, invades Long Island, plays courtship to an heiress amid many comical complications, and winds up captaining polo games between cowboys and wild Indians in a Wild West show. S. Sylvan Simon, who directed "Four Girls in White," megaphoned the new picture with equal deftness. Players include Anthony Allan, Jessie Ralph and Buddy Ebsen.

Martin School Will Contest Consolidation

Temporary Injunction Obtained By Flower Grove District

STANTON, April 28 (Sp)—The Flower Grove school board recently filed an injunction before District Judge Cecil Collins, Big Spring, against the Ackerly school district officials from proceeding further following the consolidation election held at Ackerly, Dawson county, Tuesday, April 18, and also enjoining the Ackerly officials from holding an election for school trustees for the district called for May 9. The temporary injunction was granted by District Judge Collins.

The injunction was asked on the grounds that on April 18, 1939, there was held a "purported election to incorporate Flower Grove and Ackerly school districts," with said incorporation carrying by 18 votes. Also, that there is a "purported election called to be held May 9th within the Ackerly Independent school district to elect trustees, and that the election held April 18 was illegal.

It was also brought out that the present Flower Grove Independent School District had already voted $33,000 bonds to build a school plant; that said bonds had been sold and the money on deposit in the depository bank; that it is the intention of the Flower Grove trustees to commence building operations at an early date, and that they ask that the district remain as it has since May, 1938.

The injunction also asked that the Ackerly Independent School District board, the county superintendent and the county judge of Dawson county be prevented and restrained from molesting and interfering in carrying out the results of the election of April 18, and the one to be called May 9.

Charles L. Klapproth, Midland, ex-district judge of the 70th judicial district has been retained as lawyer for the Flower Grove board of trustees, along with Charles Slaughter of Stanton, and W. S. Moore of Fort Worth and Gainesville. Klapproth presented the restraining order to Judge Collins last week.

The trial of the case is set to come up in the May 22 term of the Martin county district court.

WTCC PROGRAM ABOUT COMPLETE

B. Reagan To Head Transportation Conference

ABIENE, April 29—Preparations for the 21st annual West Texas chamber of commerce convention here May 15-17 are nearing the "completion stage."

The host city and the West Texas chamber of commerce are completing detailed plans to present a constructive business program featuring notable speakers and discussions of vital West Texas topics and also furnish plenty of entertainment for the convention visitors.

"Federating Unemployed Resources and Unemployed Workers" is the theme of the convention, as suggested by the nation's first lady, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, when she visited the WTCC Resource and Museum Institute last March. The convention also will feature studies of soil and water conservation and transportation.

Interest being shown by WTCC affiliates in participating in all convention activities already is pointing toward a record convention attendance, officials believe.

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and former president of the University of Texas; M. L. Wilson, undersecretary of agriculture; and Col. Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, head the list of speakers.

One of the highlights of the convention - ill coma at 5 p. m. Tuesday when the mammoth "West Texas March of Conservation and Industrial Development" is staged. The event will climax the first annual WTCC soil and water utilization contest, dramatizing the results and accomplishments in this activity.

Convention entertainment features will include two night shows presenting pretty West Texas girls competing for the title, "Miss West Texas," and acts by leading West Texas entertainers; two dances Monday night; two dances Tuesday night; a big outdoor talent show Monday afternoon; a "Hospitality Hour" radio program; contests, and other events.

Principal feature on the Monday afternoon program will be the transportation conference at 2 p. m. at which Colonel Thompson will speak on "Grass Roots and Freight Rates." C. A. Studer, Canadian, will report on organization plans for the WTCC-sponsored Freight Rate Equality Federation, and A. F. Ashford, San Angelo, will report on proposed by-laws for the federation. B. Reagan, Big Spring, chairman of the WTCC traffic board, will preside.

The annual luncheon for members of commerce presidents and secretaries and West Texas newspapermen will be held Tuesday. The program will be an open forum on "Let's Talk West Texas." Prominent newspapermen and chamber of commerce executives will speak. Max Bentley, Abilene WTCC editorial board chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Undersecretary Wilson will speak at a group conference on agriculture and conservation at 2 p. m. Tuesday. H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas extension service; Walter S. Pope, Abilene; and A. J. Demko, Stephenville, will be other speakers. Clifford B. Jones, president of Texas Technological college and chairman of the WTCC agricultural board, will preside.

Winners in the soil and water contest will be announced. Three West Texas counties with best records in conservation for 1938 will receive $100. in cash prizes, $300 for first, $200 for second and $200 for third. The prizes will be awarded by the West Texas Utilities company.

Record number of entries is expected in this year's "My Home Town" speaking contest with Judge C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, as chairman.

All convention awards will be presented at the final general assembly at 10 a. m. Wednesday. The 1940 convention city will be selected and new officers will be installed.

The two leading bidders for the next convention at this time are Big Spring and Mineral Wells. Other cities may throw their hats in the ring at convention time.

WTCC SPEAKER

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, above, Washington, D. C., chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and former Texas university president, will be the principal speaker at the first general assembly of the 21st annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Abilene May 15-17. Dr. Splawn is well known here and is the son-in-law of W. W. Lay of Coahoma.

MAYBE THE GOVERNOR IS NOT WELL KNOWN

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., April 29 (AP)—Fame is fleeting!
A North Adams woman reported today she addressed a letter to "very legible hands" to "Governor Saitonstall, Boston, Mass."
It was returned, she said, for "want of better address" with the notation written across the face of the letter, apparently by a postal clerk, "try Boston, Maryland."
Saitonstall, be it known, is governor of Massachusetts.

Miss Frizzell; Joe Carter Are Married Here

Forsan Girl Wed In 11 o'Clock Ceremony

Miss Wilber Mae Frizzell and Joe G. Carter were married at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the manse of the First Presbyterian church with the Dr. D. F. McConnell reading the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frizzell of Forsan and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Carter of Garden, City and a brother of Mrs. Frank Covert of Big Spring.

The bride wore a blue and white figured crepe dress with white accessories and her sister, Miss Maxine Frizzell of Forsan, who was her attendant, wore a blue and white printed crepe with japonica accessories.

The couple left immediately for a 10-day trip through California and planned to attend the world's fair in San Francisco. On their return they will be at home in Garden City.

He is employed by B. A. Duffy Oil company. The wedding party consisted of Mrs. W. W. Scott, Miss Frizzell, Mrs. R. H. Ford, all of Forsan, and Mrs. Covert of Big Spring.

Rev. Schurman Is Named On Committee Important Post Is Assigned At Convention

The Rev. G. C. Schurman was named on the committee of recommendations for International Convention to be held next October 18th in Richmond, Va., when a state convention of Christian churches was held April 24-27 in Wichita Falls. Before this convention, which was said to be the largest in ten years in Texas, the Rev. Schurman also spoke on the last night of meetings. The pastor of the First Christian church pointed out that the delegates were to be likened unto Christ's disciples who went up into the mountain to pray. But when they came down the mountain they found work awaiting them. Comparing the convention to a mountain top where ideals and high thoughts had occupied the meeting, the Rev. Mr. Schurman proposed the question, "What shall we do when we go home" to carry on the word and inspiration gained at the meeting.

Edgar Dewitt Jones of Woodward Memorial church of Detroit, Mich., was a guest speaker and talked to the group several times. During the International convention next fall, the committee to which the Rev. Schurman was appointed, will meet throughout the week and will act as a legislative committee on all problems of all the churches, national and international.

Garden Club To Hold Show And Lecture

For a program on "Beauty and Usefulness in the Garden" and to have display of wild flowers, members of Garden club are to meet at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the main high school building. The lecture will be illustrated with colored slides and as there will be no business meeting members are asked to bring guests. Awards will be made for members with the most artistic flower arrangement and the wild flowers used to be brought in a vase and labeled. Other prizes will be awarded.

Music Week Proclamation

WHEREAS, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and other high officials of the United States have recognized the great value of National Music Week by endorsing its general observance; and WHEREAS, Groups of Big Spring citizens, headed by members of the Music Study Club, have arranged an outstanding program of special events in connection with our own city's observance of Music Week, each of these programs being free to the public; and WHEREAS, it is recognized that the cultural growth of any city is synonymous with the enrichment of its community and individual life, and that a better understanding and appreciation of good music is one of the best means of this enrichment; and WHEREAS, observance of Music Week this year stresses American music, with a view of acquainting the public with native composers and of paying tribute to their works; and WHEREAS, observance of Music Week this year stresses drama, whereby school ensembles—bands, orchestras, choruses—church choirs, and other organizations are given due credit for their studies and accomplishments, so that appreciation and enjoyment of music is put on its widest basis. NOW, THEREFORE, I, as mayor of the City of Big Spring, do hereby set aside and proclaim the week of April 30-May 7 as MUSIC WEEK in Big Spring, join individuals and organizations in promoting the success of its observance, and call upon all citizens to assist likewise, to the end that the cultural standards of our city may be maintained and improved. (Signed) R. V. JONES, Mayor of Big Spring.

Meeting Charley Chase Of The Movies Of A Saturday Morning

My Saturday morning wild-eyed rush was interrupted yesterday when I received word Charley Chase was sipping a bit of coffee in a coffee shop and if I was a pretty good sprinter, I would make it in time to see him. I left my astonished colleagues without much ceremony and plowed into Mr. Chase right around the corner, in the act of paying his bill. When introduced, he, true to character, blinked both large eyes and gave me a look!

I had come full of questions but he turned on that wistful expression that he wears in the movies and I stopped me. Anyway, I was surprised to discover his eyes blue and his hair touched with grey when all the time I thought he had brown hair and eyes.

The dapper Charley was dressed in a light blue shirt and coat of silky material and darker blue trousers. Over this he wore a tweed coat and a matching blue scarf pinned with a steer's head. A man might not like this but he really looked lovely!

He was accompanied by his daughter, June, and Mrs. Chase. They plan to drive to New Orleans, La., and then take a boat to sail to the West Indies. After the vacation, he intends to return to Hollywood and "get to work." He speaks with a low voice and is most casual in his conversation.

Women At Work Knows The Tire Business

"I do everything but mount the tires and service the cars," laughed Mrs. Troy Gifford, in answer to a question about her job at the tire service which she and her husband manage. And likely she could do that, too, as she is an enterprising and resourceful person.

She began her career in 1930 when she and her husband started a service station at 14th and Seary streets. They handled no tires and not much equipment, just a small establishment. But times weren't very good and getting started wasn't very easy so Mrs. Gifford felt she could do her part by helping with the book-work and records. That is the way it started. Now she is such a part of the business that she can sell tires, take care of customers, make adjustments, keep the records, and pay the bills; in fact, all the many things that go with keeping up a successful business. Mrs. Gifford had no experience in the service business as she had taught school before her marriage, but she had majored in mathematics in college and kept her records accurately. As their business began to grow the Giffords began a series

3-Act Comedy To Be Given On May 9th

Seniors To Give 'Well Met By Moonlight'

The senior class pupils of the Big Spring high school will present "Well Met by Moonlight," by Jean Lee Lathan, Tuesday, May 9, at 8 o'clock in the municipal auditorium. Mrs. Thurman Gentry is director of the play.

The senior students have been rehearsing the past several weeks and will be ready with excellent performances when the day arrives. Two popular senior students have been chosen for the leading parts: Mary Nell Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Edwards, who plays the role of Pepper Standish, a capable secretary to Paul Powell, played by Alton Bostick.

Others in the cast include Happy Powell, Paul's irresponsible brother, played by Henry Bug; Keith Hayes, Happy's friend, played by Eddie Savage; Bing and Blackie, the coming headlines of radio, played by Martha Ehlmann and George Hatch; Lovell Morrison and Sigrid Jonson, two lovely ladies Happy met in the moonlight. They are played by Claire Lou Nummy and Ruth Jane Thompson.

Myrna Starr, a temperamental singer, is played by Joan James; Dick Peters, an unscrupulous owner of a radio station is enacted by Otis Graf; Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, the big business man and his battle-axe are played by Bill Marlin and Kawana Smith. Annette Frederick, the girl with the voice, is portrayed by Billie Bess Shive. Comedy in the play is furnished by Washington, a handsome colored Romeo, ably played by Donald Bowden and his two chocolate dream girls, Lillian and Enigma, portrayed by Sylvia Pond and Jean Jackson.

"Well Met by Moonlight" is a three-act comedy. The story tells of the trials of Paul Powell, who is trying to land the big national program that will ensure the success of his radio station. Too, he is trying to keep Happy from telling all of the beautiful girls, that they can get a job on Paul's broadcasting station.

W. Somerset Maughan's Books Reviewed For Modern Woman's Forum

W. Somerset Maughan was the author discussed when Ima Deason reviewed his "East and West" and Mrs. E. D. McDowell gave a review of his "Theatre" before the Modern Woman's Forum Friday evening in the home of Mrs. A. B. Wade.

Reports were heard from Mrs. Cecil Collings and Miss Nellie Puckett on the meeting of federated clubs in Fort Stockton the first of the week and told that the 1940 meeting is to be in Midland. Refreshments were served and attending were Miss Mary Burns, Mrs. G. W. Felton, Miss Ima Deason, Mrs. E. D. McDowell, Mrs. Charles Koberger, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Mrs. J. L. Driver, Mrs. Ladonia Patrick, Mrs. E. A. Eubank, Mrs. E. F. Wills, Miss Marjorie Taylor, Mrs. Collings, Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Miss Edith Hatchett, Miss Nellie Puckett, Miss Mildred Creath, and the hostess.

Philathea Class To Sponsor A Review Tuesday

Mrs. McAdams To Give New Pearl Buck Book Here

Under auspices of the Philathea class of the First Methodist church, Mrs. W. J. McAdams will review Pearl S. Buck's book, "The Patriot" on Tuesday, May 2, at 8 o'clock at the Crawford hotel.

The book is a return to the characters and settings that Mrs. Buck does so well and concerns the troubled times of the revolution in China.

The author tells for the first time in book form of times and conditions that she experienced herself when the revolution drove her from her own home in China. This is the first time in four years that Mrs. Buck has written a novel on China and has interrupted her series of American Women stories to write the timely story.

The book concerns the love story of a man and woman of different races, separated by a sea of hatred and drawn together by their love. Wu I-Wan, the son of a rich man, is sent to Japan to escape the miseries of the revolution and there meets and marries a young Japanese girl. The two principal characters are portrayed by Mrs. Buck to seem not very different and not at all strange from ourselves. This particular gift of the author makes the characters' problems seem almost like the bearers. Tickets may be bought from members of the Philathea class or may be secured at the door. Mrs. McAdams, whose reviews have won her large audiences, has found the book interesting to read and the plot an exciting one to follow.

Mrs. Franklin Is Honored With A Farewell Shower

To honor Mrs. E. P. Franklin, who is leaving Monday to make her home in El Paso, Mrs. R. E. Miller, Mrs. R. W. Hammond, and Mrs. Jack Terry entertained with a miscellaneous shower in the Colonial Hostess Room.

Pink and blue were the chosen colors carried out and roses decorated the rooms. A salad and sandwich course was served, and others attending were Mrs. Richard Lytle, Mrs. John Whitmire, Mrs. Shellie Barnes of Alpine, Mrs. H. Summerlin, Mrs. Oma Baker, Mrs. Jim Chapman, Mrs. Maxine Dickerson, Mrs. Jack Hodges, Jr., Mrs. C. Chaney, Mrs. Jim Zaek, Mrs. Jimmie Tucker, and Miss Beverly Franklin.

More Than 50 'Hoboes' Hold Outing And A Weiner Roast

More than 50 "hoboes" met Friday evening behind the Busy Bee cafe for a parade through the streets and then a supper of roasted weiners and broiled bacon at the city park.

The hoboes were members of Cactus Rebekah lodge, their husbands, and friends, who came dressed as "gentlemen of the road" under the pain of a fine. L. L. Gulley was the only one to receive the penalty. Hobo stories provided diversion.

Mrs. B. Housewright Is Hostess To The Easy Ace Club

Green and white were the chosen colors carried out in refreshments and roses decorated the rooms when Mrs. B. Housewright entertained the Easy Aces club in her home Friday.

Mrs. H. Summerlin and Mrs. Shellie Barnes of Alpine were included as guests. Mrs. H. E. Clay won high score and Mrs. C. E. White received second high score. Others attending were Mrs. Ray Shaw, Mrs. Cecil Snodgrass, Mrs. J. T. Allen, and Mrs. Hubert Johnson.

Mrs. White is to be next hostess at the Colonial Hostess room.

Varied Program To Be Presented By Study Club

Under auspices of the Music Study club, a week long program of free concerts will be presented to the public in observance of National Music week and activities will begin this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the city auditorium. The study club is presenting 12 pianists, members of the group, assisted by members of the choral section in this afternoon's concert. Last year two pianos and four pianists were presented here and this year there will be three pianos and twelve pianists. The club plans to make this a yearly feature of Music Week and to increase the number of pianos used each year.

Ensemble work, vocal and instrumental music will be featured presented during the week. Both sacred and secular songs will be sung by the choral section. The keynote of National Music Week, which will start May 7-14, is "Support Group Activities," and particular effort will be directed toward community musical organizations open to adults as channels of expression for musical ability developed in school and college. Special attention will also be given to the professional groups. Wider recognition of American composers and their compositions is to be given special attention. Some 2,500 cities and towns participated in observances last year and more are expected to be added this year. The Music Study club has planned an extensive program. Sunday's piano ensemble is to consist of "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" by Rachmaninoff, "Hungarian Dance," No. 5, by Brahms, and "Country Gardens" by Grainger and played by Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser, Mrs. W. K. Edwards, Mrs. J. H. Parrott, Miss Roberta Gay, Miss Helen Duley and Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick.

The choral section will sing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" by Schaecker with violin obligato. A tenor and bass duet by H. G. Keaton and G. N. Crosthwaite will be "Watchman What of the Night," by Sargeant. Mrs. E. C. Moser will sing two contralto solos, "Jerusalem" by Parrott and Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick and Dana. A quartet composed of Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Mrs. H. G. Keaton, H. C. Keaton and Bernard Lamun will sing "Gypsy Trail" by Gallo-way. Miss Edith Gay and Mrs. J. H. Parrott will sing a soprano and mezzo-soprano duet, "Saffra" by Glick. Soprano solos by Mrs. V. H. Fiewellen will include "I Love Life" by Mars-Zucca and "In the Luxembourg Gardens" by Kathleen Mansfield.

The choral group will also sing "Medley From the South" by Pike. The piano ensemble will give as their last number, "March Militaire" by Schubert, "Polish Dance" by Scharwenka and "Concert Paraphrase on Arkansas Traveler" by McDonald. Playing will be Mrs. Omar Pitman, Mrs. Harry Hurt, Mrs. Herman Williams, Mrs. G. H. Wood, Mrs. H. G. Keaton and Mrs. W. R. Dawes.

Mrs. G. C. Schurman is choral director and Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick will play choral accompaniments. A review of the week's concerts include a program by the high school band on Monday evening at the auditorium at 8 o'clock under direction of Dan Conley. Tuesday's concert at the auditorium will be given by the violin ensemble from the music club and featuring Elsie Willis, pianist.

There will be no program on Wednesday and Thursday at the city auditorium there will be the high school chorus under the direction of William Dawes and assisted by a woodwind ensemble and a brass ensemble. The Music Study club will give on Friday at the auditorium a program in memory of Stephen Foster. This will be given in costume. There is no program scheduled for Saturday and the closing concert is to be Sunday, May 7th, and will be given at the First Presbyterian church at 4 o'clock by the junior choir, which will present a program of sacred music. The public is cordially invited to attend these free concerts in local observance of Music Week.

stock numbers with alacrity. As the business has grown, Mrs. Gifford finds her job has grown too, and where she formerly did not have as many details to keep in mind, she now must know tire sizes and types, prices, trade-in values and adjustments. But being by nature a painstaking person and energetic, she set herself to learn all there was to know about her job.

The respect that the men working with her every day show her is one outward sign of her ability to work hard and keep those around her her friends. A more noticeable evidence of her success is the fact that last year she was the only woman in the group sent from this state by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. to Akron with her expenses paid to view the factory. This trip is an extra bonus given to successful dealers.

According to Mrs. Gifford, she didn't know what she was taking on when she began in a small way to "help out" but her job is no longer one of just helping out, it is a full-time career and Mrs. Gifford is happy in it.

Centennial Club Is Entertained By J. V. Birdwells

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Birdwell were hosts to the Centennial club when they entertained with a dinner-bridge in the Settles hotel Friday evening.

Roses and pinks decorated the rooms and the tables were centered with flowers. Each woman received a corsage and the men were given pinks as boutonnieres.

Mrs. Joe Clara and E. C. Boatler won high scores and Mrs. Joseph T. Hayden and Mr. Clara bingood, Mr. and Mrs. John Lones and Mr. and Mrs. Hayden were guests.

Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Emory Duff, Mrs. Sam McCombs, Mrs. R. E. Lee, Mrs. George Tillinghast and the host and hostess.

Three Girls Win In Homemakers Contest Here

Receive Trip To Galveston For May 3-6 Meet

Three high school girls and their teachers, Miss Lillian Jordan, instructor in foods, and Miss Florence McAllister, instructor in sewing; and Supt. W. C. Blankenship, plan to leave Wednesday morning for Galveston to attend the Texas rally of Future Homemakers of Texas, to be held there May 3, 4, 5, 6 at the Buccaneer hotel.

Miss Reta Mae Bigony, third year student, Miss Billie Gilmore, second year student, and Miss Nellie Gray, first year student, won this trip to Galveston with all expenses paid for excellence in all units of their work in homemaking.

Tests were given and these three girls ranked highest, and the dresses made in sewing were judged, and theirs were chosen as best, meriting them highest averages and winners for this trip.

The rally is conducted by the state staff in homemaking education with the cooperation of the University of Texas, Texas State Teachers College for Women, Texas Tech, the State Teachers colleges, Texas College of Arts and Industries, and Mary Hardin-Baylor college.

The theme of this year's rally is "Backward and Forward Glances for the Future Homemakers of Texas." Besides taking part in the contests, the Big Spring representatives will be guests at the many entertainment features planned, including a beach party, luncheons, banquets and a boat ride.

The rally will afford many worthwhile and enjoyable experiences as historical spots in the city will be visited and other interesting things included in the four-day meet. The party plans to return to Big Spring Sunday, May 7.

Spring On College Campus Brings Forth Blanket Of Bluebonnets

By NANCY PHILIPS

Bluebonnets have changed the landscape into a soft blue blanket which ripples in the wind as if some giant was planning to lie down. He never does, however, and the bluebonnets nod their heads in approval and relief. Before coming down here the few bluebonnets I had seen were a surprised, rather haggard look. Now I am convinced that there is nothing more beautiful than a field of bluebonnets unless it's the bright flowers I know as the Indian blanket.

Last weekend the university migrated over to San Antonio to see the annual Battle of Flowers and Mae West who was making a personal appearance at one of the theatres. The floats in the parade were covered with flowers, causing a wild variety of color. Outstanding in the parade was an old fashioned horse and buggy jogging along, covered with bluebonnets and overflowing with beautiful girls and parasols. I didn't get to see Mae West but that is the only "float" I missed.

With the coming of spring, college "hog calling" begins. Boys from the different dormitories and houses on the campus stick their heads out the window on still, warm nights and emit a mournful sound that is answered many times from all directions. It is fun, late at night, to lie in bed and listen to the calls as they echo back and forth across the campus. There seems to be no purpose except amusement and congeniality. There may be some code to the affair but I doubt it. It's the same principle as a dog howling at the moon—just a lot of fun and nonsense.

ITEMS FROM FORSAN
Barnett Hinds spent the week in Tye visiting friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. John Kubecka and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Dunn spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives in Iran.

Mrs. Bill Banks visited relatives in Baird over the weekend. Miss Sue B. Mann, state deputy superintendent of public instruction, attended the Forsan senior play Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Spivy and daughter, Mary Margaret, spent the weekend in San Angelo with Mr. Spivy's father.

Mrs. M. C. Forbes, who was formerly of Forsan, and now of Odessa, is ill in a Big Spring hospital. Mrs. S. J. Huestis has returned from Phoenix, Arizona, where she visited for the past two weeks.

Maurice Blackwell of Stamford is the house guest of his brother, Leroy Blackwell, and Mrs. Blackwell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Green and Mrs. John Sledge visited Harold Whisenhunt at Sanatorium this week. Mr. Green and Mr. Whisenhunt are brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. West were visitors in San Angelo Friday. They were accompanied by their granddaughter, Anne Bush, who is to spend a week with them at the ranch.

Joe Blake of Wink is visiting friends in Forsan over the weekend.

ORDOVICIAN POOL LIKELY IN PECOS

Slaughter Pool in Hockley County Is Given Double Extension

SAN ANGELO, April 29—Prospects of the development under the Masterson pool of Pecos county's first Ordovician production, bringing the number of such fields in the Permian Basin to three; extending of the Slaughter field in Hockley county almost three-quarters of a mile north and slightly west, and striking of oil in a 2 1/2-mile southwest outcrop to the same pool were highlights of West Texas development this week.

Saturated shallow lime and sand were drilled by a Pecos county wildcat nine miles northwest of the indicated Ordovician strike and a wildcat four miles below 4,000 feet. The only other Ordovician field in the Permian Basin, and the first, is the Big Lake on University land in Reagan county, where the high gravity crude commands a premium.

In the event the Anderson-Prichard and Warner test does not produce naturally, the operators will acidize the lime. If this is unsuccessful, they will drill ahead, contract depth being 6,000 feet. Location is 1,880 feet from the northeast and northwest lines of section 104-10-H&GN.

Magnolia No. 1 Abel-Eaton, in section 23-3-H&TC, nine miles northwest of the Anderson-Prichard and Warner test, logged saturated lime and sand from 1,890 to 1,894 feet, where it stopped to run 7-inch casing to 1,830 feet for a test.

S. W. Richardson Co. 1 S. S. Denton in Hockley county swabbed four barrels of oil hourly for 24 hours on a natural test through 2-inch tubing, bottomed at 4,066 feet. Treated with 2,000 gallons of acid, it swabbed an estimated seven barrels of fluid hourly, six-tenths of one per cent basic sediment and water, the remainder oil. The well is 1,330 feet from the north and west lines of labor 41, league 46, Maverick county school land. It is 4,800 feet north, 20 degrees west of Richardson No. 1 Coe, which extended the Slaughter field one mile northeast and set a record for both Hockley and Cochran, most northerly producing counties in the West Texas Permian Basin, by rating 2,648 barrels daily.

The Texas Co. No. 1-C Mallett, 2 1/2 miles southwest of production and twice as far from the Hockley discovery, filled 200 feet with oil from broken pay topped at 4,867 feet. It headed, following the pool, at 5,050 feet and had 4,000 feet of oil in the hole. Location is in the northeast corner of labor 11, league 51, Scurry county school land.

Daw-Tex No. 1 Neeley, north central Dawson county wildcat, in the northeast quarter of section 28-35-6n-T&P, struck sulphur water from 4,640-50 feet and was abandoned at 4,650.

Humble No. 1 W. T. Caswell, south central Galnes county wildcat in the northwest corner of section 10-A24-pl, had spudded 150 feet.

Sinclair-Prairie and others' No. 3 Tubb community, diagonal northeast offset to Gulf No. 9 Waddell, Ordovician producer in the Sand Hills district in western Crane county, topped the Simpson at 5,836 feet, 3,292 feet below sea level and logged sand showing oil staining and gas from that point to 5,868 feet. On a 25-minute drill stem test from 5,828-58 feet it showed 350 feet of fluid, 15 per cent gas, and 362,000 cubic feet of gas. Deepening was scheduled. No. 3 Tubb is in the southwest corner of section 3-B27-pl.

Outposts staked in Ector county were: Sloan & Zook Co. and Fendale Drilling Co. No. 1 J. L. Johnson, in the southwest corner of section 34-43-1s-T&P, three miles south of the North Cowden field; S. W. Richardson No. 1-A T-P Land Trust, in the northeast corner of section 18-45-1s-T&P, 2 3/4 miles southwest of the Goldsmith field, and Lee Drilling Co. No. 1 J. L. Johnson, in the southwest corner of section 5-42-2s-T&P, one mile northeast outpost to the Foster pool.

The Clymore Co., Inc., of San Antonio No. 1 T. Y. Hill, southeastern Concho county wildcat in J. Frederick survey 1694, topped the Ellenberger 2,337 feet, 730 feet below sea level, and showed oil and gas in drilling to 2,378.

NO SMILES IN IRISH EYES of these members of the London Irish Rifles, for theirs is the grim business of war preparation. The soldiers are shown in Firbright practicing with the new Bren gun carrier. Elsewhere in England the king and queen were participating in preparedness measures, inspecting gun placements and taking part in air raid drills.

Humble-Page, deepest of three tests drilling in Schleicher county's gas and distillate area, obtained an oil showing in the first section showing lime from 4,853-59 feet and drilled ahead below 5,480 feet in shale, near the zone where two nearby producers struck the first gas.

Leidecker & Cain No. 1 Lehn, four miles west of the Masterson pool in Pecos county, struck gas from 1,640-50 and from 1,659-63 feet totaling an estimated 10 million cubic feet daily. It drilled ahead below 1,667 in sand. Location is in section 22-4-H&GN.

Local Field In Quiet Week

West Howard Test Attempts To Shut Off Water

Oil development in the local area was at a virtual standstill during the past week, with no completions recorded and few noteworthy happenings reported on wildcat tests.

The T. G. Shaw, trustee No. 1 H. H. Wilkinson, Western Howard wildcat, drilled to 3,925 feet in lime and attempted to ream five-inch to shut off water sand. The test is due to go to 4,500 feet in search of a deep pay and is located in section 10-34-1n, T&P.

In Glascock county, Shell No. 1 A. D. Neal, 2,310 feet from the south and east lines of section 28-33-2s, T&P, drilled to 1,850 feet in anhydrite. J. R. Petty No. 1 Joe Blake, also in Glascock county and a half mile south of the Howard-Glascock pool, had a hole full of salt-sulphur water at 860-85 feet and drilled to 930 feet in shale.

Half a mile south of the Snyder pool in southeastern Howard county the Great West Pipe company-Ooley & McQuain drilled to 3,000 feet and shut down for orders. Location is 2,310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the west lines of section 39-30-1s, T&P.

Moore Bros. No. 8-A O'Daniel, in the southwest quarter of section 34, waited on cement to set around oil string at 2,523 feet. Eastland No. 1 O'Daniel, 900 feet from the south and 330 feet from the west lines of the same section, prepared to clean out with rotary from a 1,010 quart shot which did not come out.

OIL EXPOSITION IS DECLARED SUCCESS

HOUSTON, April 29 (AP)—Houston's Oil World exposition for 1939 closed its doors tonight.

Despite labor trouble and a wrangle with the city over the temporary roof to the annex to the coliseum, the exposition was pronounced a success by John R. Suman, president.

The attendance far surpassed the previous show, Suman said, reaching approximately 171,000 when the show closed its doors tonight.

Orange Crush Is In New Bottles

Appearance of Orange Crush in a new "flavor-guarding" brown bottle was announced here Saturday by the Dr. Pepper Bottling company of Big Spring, distributor for the product in this area.

A discovery that sunlight affected the drink, because it was a fresh fruit product, by causing oxidation, led to the change in bottles. The same high quality of products, including use of tree-ripened oranges, is maintained in the drink.

Chemists for the company assert that the brown bottle, which is being adopted as rapidly as possible, is a revolutionary step in the preservation of foods and beverages. The bottle is being put into use all over the nation.

Orange Crush is manufactured in Ontario, Calif., in the heart of the orange groves. The juice is extracted and the fruit is crushed under vacuum, then placed in paraffin-lined kegs and shipped to 36 cold storage warehouses throughout the country where it is kept at 33 degree temperature until withdrawn to be bottled at local plants.

Consolidated Oil company et al. No. 3 Mrs. J. A. McCaskey, northeast extension for the Avoca townsite (Griffin) deep pool of Jones county, flowed 373 barrels of oil in four hours and 14 minutes on a railroad commission potential gauge natural from Palo Pinto lime at 3,250-69 feet. Flow was through tubing and 3 1/4 inch choke.

WARNING IS SOUNDED AGAINST BOLLWORM

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 29 (AP)—The American Cotton Shippers association heard one of its committee report today that the pink boll worm now infesting parts of South Texas may spread to the entire cotton belt with "dismal consequences."

The committee on insect control recommended that discussions be inaugurated between the governments of Mexico and the United States to plan a program of eradication and control. It urged, too, that the agriculture appropriations bill carry adequate funds to enlarge the scope of pink boll worm control.

POSTAL EMPLOYEE IS CHARGED IN THEFT

WICHITA FALLS, April 30 (AP)—Allen Randel, C.O.D. package delivery postal employe at Vernon, was charged with embezzlement of $337.31 in a complaint filed here today before U. S. Commissioner E. T. Duff.

Duff said he was informed Randel had been apprehended at Sudan, Texas, and would be brought before him Monday for a hearing on the charge.

Kiwanis Minstrel Nets Around $100

Reports from the Kiwanis club minstrel staged Friday evening at the city auditorium, according to Merle J. Stewart, show net proceeds at around $100 which will be used for Big Spring's underprivileged children.

A large crowd turned out for the show of which the high spot of the evening was the Minstrel Strut led by Walter Wilson and participated in by the entire company.

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C., April 29 (AP)—Ten-year-old Jack D. Vane called up the newspaper to ask for a correction in a story saying he broke his arm for the fifth time when he fell out of a tree while playing recently.

"It was the sixth time," he said.

NEGRO IS FINED

James Williams, negro, who claimed, according to officers, to be a preacher, was fined $100 and costs in justice court Saturday on a charge of assault. Justice of Peace J. H. Hefley imposed the fine on a complaint that Williams assaulted a negro in an attempt to gain money.

New Jersey cut its traffic deaths in 1938 to 885 from 1,278 in 1937 and from an average of 1,191 for the three years preceding 1935.

My! How the Money Flies!

How many times have you said that? Of course, you don't see it flying out the window. But that grocery bill must be paid. A new pair of shoes. The rent. A few miscellaneous odds and ends. You had intended to put away some money in your savings account for that trip... or that new outfit... or just for reserve. And it is gone.

HERE'S only one way to stop it. Decide on a regular amount to be deposited each week, and stick to it. Do it first. Do it without fail. You'll find that the money you have left for expenses will be enough... and the amount you put away each week will amount up tremendously fast. It's a safe and sure way to save.

CITY BUDGET EXAMPLE OF GOOD PLANNING

There are two ways in which to view the proposed city budget for the fiscal year April 1, 1939-40. The first, and easiest, is to moan over an increase of $60,000 in appropriations for the year; the other is to give pause to analyze the situation by raising this question: "What is the money being expended, is it needed, can we afford it, what will it cost, and is it wise?"

The Herald believes that the proposed increase is not only justified, but that the budget, submitted to the commission for study prior to the public hearing on May 9, is an example of far-sightedness and intelligent planning.

At first thought a budget of $240,000 sounds a bit inflated, yet there are circumstances which make it altogether reasonable. In the first place, it amounts to a per capita tax of $15 for multiple services which include street, fire and police protection, parks, water supply, sanitation, free trash hauling, swimming pool, modern airport, and many others.

For this, city officials could be commended in looking ahead. It means they are making provision for eventualities. The acceptance of a budget figure in no way compels commissioners to expend that amount regardless of what they deem wise from time to time.

It is significant to note that while the tax rate will be raised from $1.30 to $1.70, not one cent of that increase goes for general fund purposes. The entire 40 cents, which the people sanctioned overwhelmingly in voting $275,000 in bonds, goes toward retiring indebtedness.

Thus, in a large measure, the city will be getting $60,000 additional improvements and services without additional cost. It is not illogical, for revenues are due to be up in many departments, and the city is going to utilize hand-some reserves and surpluses built up in the general and interest and sinking funds. In other words, the city plans to cash in on its good management dividends.

The Herald believes that increases are going for items that fill public needs. The spending of money for a WPA park project not only provides labor for men, but eventually draws thousands of dollars this way by the hundreds and hundreds who flock here for recreational purposes.

Provision for $21,000 improvements in the waterworks is imperative. What the WPA may consent to pay 45 per cent of this, the entire amount would be a good investment on the part of the city.

It may be that there are items which can and ought to be curtailed. Copies of the budget may be viewed by any citizen at the city hall, and any citizen may express his views and desires at the public hearing. In the meantime, the Herald has unhesitatingly commended the intelligence of the commission and city manager to do what is best for the city.

MUSIC HAS ITS PLACE IN OUR COMMUNITY

"Music hath charms" — once muses a lyrical soul, and observing were an enduring tribute to what is really a necessity and earmark of civilization. It is fitting that occasionally we give proper consideration to the importance of good music in our order of things, to pause and gain a deeper appreciation of this fine art.

During this week — a few days in advance of the National Music Week — Big Spring is to be privileged to hear a series of better musical programs. These are being offered without cost to the public, solely for its edification and enjoyment. Certainly it would be counted gain for everyone — regardless of station or age — to attend as many of the programs as possible during the week.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

(Mrs. Lippmann's column is published as an informational and personal feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

BRITAIN ON A WAR BASIS

As a reliable indication of what the future holds, the decisions taken during the last week within Great Britain are almost certainly more significant than the diplomatic pledges, threats, challenges and inducements which are now under attack everywhere and broadcast. The British government is establishing a ministry of supply, which Lippmann sounds harmless enough, but is, in fact, the decisive beginning of military control. It marks the transition from a condition of "business as usual," with armaments incidental, to a condition of total mobilization, with armaments as the paramount business of the nation. As the inevitable corollary of this, the British are adopting conscription. Thus the industrial plant, the capital resources, the labor and the commerce of the United Kingdom are being regimented for war.

There is a disposition to interpret these revolutionary changes inside of Great Britain as diplomatic gestures designed to influence Hitler's forthcoming speech, or to reassure Britain's new allies. No doubt these considerations have played a part in the timing of Mr. Chamberlain's moves. But it would be a mistake to suppose that they are no more than gestures for immediate effect. The British are now undertaking to do looks far beyond the immediate moment. These measures are not something improvised for an emergency; they are organization for the long pull. They mean that the British have reached the conviction that at the very best they must face a long period of armed peace, at worst a long war of exhaustion.

The conversion of the British economy from a civilian to a military basis, and the training and equipping of a conscript army, cannot be done in a few weeks or even in a few months. As immediate emergency measures no one in Europe would take them seriously. They are measures of organization designed to cover a period of several years. That is why they are so significant.

These new measures show that the British have come to the conclusion that while they may be able to prevent war by combining resistance to aggression with conciliatory offers to the German nation, peace does not now exist. This does not mean that war is inevitable. Almost certainly it is not inevitable. Nor does this mean either that no negotiations can be attempted if Hitler does not slam the door and lock it.

But it does mean that for as long as any one can look ahead, the British are verbal pledges are at a discount, and that until the credit of pledges has been restored, the relative weight of armaments will be the only measure of policy. So the British have decided that whether they face a long war or a long negotiation, they have no choice but to mobilize their whole potential strength.

As a practical matter, Great Britain is now undertaking to maintain the greatest navy in Europe, to construct an air force equal to the German, to build air defenses against the German force, to raise a conscript army capable of holding the northern flank of the Maginot line, that is to say in Belgium and Holland, and to furnish supplies to her allies in central and eastern Europe. This is an immense undertaking, and it can be carried out only by great sacrifices on the part of the British people.

In former days when wars were fought largely by professionals, the easiest way to finance the military requirements was by government borrowing and spending. This produced an inflation which, because it raised the cost of living, reduced the consumption of the masses; which, because it created large war profits, enlisted the business community for the supply of the army. This was always a bad method. A modern nation will not tolerate a war regime which by inflation exploits the poor and enriches the munitions industries. Even if it were not ruinously inefficient, it would be so unjust as to ruin the national morale.

The alternative is, in effect, universal conscription under which the government controls the supply of materials and of labor and determines, in accordance with military need, how the supply is to be rationed.

This is the modern war economy, and Britain's conversion to the conscription of men and the rationing of supplies is one of the most significant events of our time. While it may not mark the end of the policy of diplomatic appeasement, it does mark the end of improvised devices and verbal formulas and unconvincing gestures. Great Britain has gone onto a war basis which is designed to organize the people for a long ordeal.

Even if this change of policy were not necessary on purely military grounds, it would be necessary on psychological grounds. Taking the most optimistic calculation, a long period of acute tension and dangerous uncertainty is certainly to be expected. It is shattering to the nerves. It is an intolerable burden to carry on normal activities when

by Frances Hanna

Chapter Two THE MACKS

A giant oak with stooped, bony shoulders lodged an ancient tin trunk across the grass to a home-made trailer, stooping every two or three feet to puff, shift his cud of tobacco from one cheek to the other, and stare off across the endless fields of dry stubble. His wiry white hair was as thick and curly as a little boy's; his black eyes, deep in wrinkles, were bright as a ferrets. He mumbled to himself:

"Shoulda left this dang'd country years ago...stubbun young fool...time he was gettin' back here. Time we got gold..."

A little girl, her black curls tied tightly with a red ribbon, her implish black eyes contradicting her cherubic countenance, came around the side of the farmhouse juggling an enormous white cat, who objected by yowls and squirms, to being lugged.

Catching sight of the old man, she cried, "Grampa! Grampa! Tex don't want to go to California. You better make a cage for him quick!"

Old Talbot Mack scooped the writhing cat from her clutch and put him over his left shoulder. Tex subsided. He never purred. He disliked women. He was fierce and independent and predatory. His passion was baiting dogs, eluding them up the nearest tree or fence post; then, if they were not too big, Tex jumped, with the sure swiftness of a puma, on their backs and dug his carefully sharpened claws into ears, nose and skin.

"I'll make him harness, Betsy, though he'll buck worse'n a roped yearlin'!"

A battered sedan pulled up before the front gate and a tall man in blue denim trousers and faded cotton shirt stepped out. The pants were rolled to the tops of dusty laced boots; the shirt-sleeves were rolled above brown, muscular forearms. His hair was the color of liquid tar; his eyes were even black; his thin high-bridged nose was an eagle's beak; his mouth was wide and hard.

"Tex is ornery," the old man chuckled. "Ain't got enough sense 'n' know he's goin' to a real country. Say, Tally, didya sell the cows?"

"Yeah. Young Talbot lifted the trunk into the trailer, then turned to his grandfather. "Tex has more sense than the rest of us," he said, bitterness in his low voice. "If we hadn't lost the cotton crop I wouldn't stir a foot."

"What is a Gentleman?" "You can be an ornery critter, too," the old man told him crustily. "We shoulda packed and started for California six months ago when Josie left us her place, instead of borrowin' money from the government for seed. Things were different here in my day...there was cattle roamin' this thousand acres..."

"Well, there's nothing here now. Are Mom and Gretchen ready to leave? Everything packed?" "Guess so. How much didya get for the cows?"

"Fifty dollars. And that's every cent we have, Gramp. It'll buy enough gas and food to get us to Santa Barbara, maybe. I don't like the idea of moving in on strangers when we can't hold up our end of things. How will we eat when we get there?"

"The Lord takes care of His own," observed the old man plausibly. "When do you reckon we'll put in at Josie's place, Tally?"

"Sometime Friday, if the car doesn't get temperamental." Old Mack shifted Tex to his right shoulder and stared off across the rolling fields. "Too bad there ain't all here. Some of that there black gold might've tifted off the mortgages and back taxes."

"This ain't all land, Gramp. I talked to Kettinger over in Austin. Says he's taking the place over for the mortgage and paying off the government. One thousand acres of Texas...wonder what he will do with it?"

"Wait for an eastern sucker," Mack grinned, decorating the fence post with tobacco juice. "Y'know Tally, you shouldn't have come back here...should've gone into the law business in Austin...been a gentleman. I was a gentleman once...before I turned sailor and shipped the seventy sea."

Young Talbot regarded his grandfather with tolerant eyes. "What is a gentleman, Mack?" "Never...could figure it out." Gramp shook his curly white head. "Used to be a man that talked pretty, wore Prince Alberts and a gold watch-chain...owned a stable of fancy trotters. I just ain't interested, Tally. I'm too dang'd old to bother about fancy clothes and ain't or isn't...say, what'd you call a gentleman, eh?"

"A man who takes whatever life every body of the day there is some new disturbance headlined in the newspapers or announced over the radio. The reason why the British have in recent months been the most jittery of all European peoples is that the unending series of cri's has been a personal crisis for every Englishman."

Under such conditions conscription and regimentation are a great relief to men's nerves; they are relieved of the anxiety which comes from trying personally to decide things over which they have no personal control. For men can stand discomfort, sacrifice, pain, and danger far better than they can stand indecision. And so, given the conditions that exist in Europe today, the chances of riding out the storm by cool and calm statesmanship will be very much greater once the democracies have not only organized so that they are invincible, but once they feel themselves to be organized totally for their own security.

(Copyright, 1939, New York Tribune Inc.)

hands out without whining, I guess. Anyhow, Gramp, I'm a farmer."

"Coulda been a lawyer," Tally started toward the house, his jaw set stubbornly.

"Buried alive" Gretchen met him in the hallway, her pretty face flushed with excitement. "Tally, did you see Betsy anywhere? We're all ready to go. Mama wants you to take the lunch basket out to the car. She's packed enough food for two days."

"Mostly cookies, I'll bet. Glad to be going, Sis?" She nodded. "I'd be glad to go anywhere I guess. I feel as if I've been buried alive here for three years...ever since Andy..."

He put his arm about her slender shoulders. "I know. It's tough to be a widow at nineteen with a baby to look after. You've been swell, Sis. Maybe you will be happier out in California."

"I ought to find a job and take some of the load from you, Tally. It ain't right for you to have all of us."

"I want all of you. Ever think of that? Better find Betty so we can start."

Going on to the kitchen he found his mother fastening down the lid of a large wicker hamper.

"Ready, Mom?" She handed him the hamper, then smoothed voluminous folds of cotton print over her stout, heavy-bosomed body. Lifting her arms, she brushed at strands of soft gray hair which clung to her round cheeks. "I must look a sight!" she scolded.

"You look beautiful, Mom." Bending down, he kissed the tip of her shining nose. "You're going to ride in front with me and Betsy can ride in back with Gramp and Sis."

"And Tex," she added. "You don't want to go, do you, Son?" His face, as she smiled reassuringly into her concerned eyes, became tender and gentle. "I'm rarin' to go, Mom! I'll be glad to get the Texa dust out of my throat. But I wonder—" he paused, his smile disappearing — "how the Russell family is going to like our coming."

"I wonder, too," his mother agreed. "Oughtn't we let them know we're starting out?" "They'll know soon enough."

Mrs. Mack sighed. "I know you wouldn't be going, Tally, if we could scrape a living from this place."

His lean face hardened. "But we can't, so that's that. Come on, Mom, we have a long way to go." (Copyright, 1939)

Texas Agricultural March Income Up

AUSTIN, April 29—Crop growers and ranchers of Texas received $16,464,000 in cash agricultural income during March, compared with only $12,865,000 during a typical year between 1928 and 1932, Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas economist, said today.

This income was almost exactly the same as in March last year, but was somewhat above the $13,336,000 received in February.

Increased shipments of livestock, especially cattle, accounted for much of the gain over the preceding month, Dr. Buechel said. Aggregate farm cash income for the first three months of 1939 was $50,950,000, compared with $52,572,000 for the first quarter of 1938, a decline of 3 per cent.

It is indicated, however, that the year-to-year comparisons will become more favorable during the next few months, he said.

SAYS FAIR COMPLETE

E. H. Todd, general sales manager for the Standard Oil Co. of Texas, Saturday spiked rumors that the Golden Gate International exposition on Treasure Island in San Francisco bay is incomplete.

"These rumors are entirely unfounded—every major building has been constructed with one exception—a men's club, plans for which were not even made until after the exposition opened in February."

Marek

Bob Wooten singled sharply to begin the ninth and was promptly sent down by Hobson's sacrifice. He was held at the bag when Al Berndt took a swinging third strike but romped all the way home when Marek popped a hit-back of second base.
The Barons put together a walk, a hit and two sacrifices to manufacture two runs in the first frame, then chalked up three more in the third when Billy Capps dispatched his fourth home run in as many days with Van Marshall and Pat Stacey up front.
Malvica continued his deadly hitting for the invaders, collecting a double and two singles in five trips. Capps coupled a single with his home run to share hitting honors with Marshall, who had a double and a one base blow.

Johnstown Is Easy 1st At Jamaica

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—William Woodward's big bay Johnstown, already regarded as the choice in the Kentucky Derby, skyrocketed to new heights as a three-year-old prospect today by sweeping to a six-length victory in the mile-and-70 yard Wood Memorial before a crowd of more than 18,000 at Jamaica.
Making his bid as the field of eight headed into the last turn, the big son of Jamestown-LaFrance swept around Joe W. Brown's T. M. Dorsett and galloped home with nothing else in sight, while the departed derby favorite, William Ziegler, Jr.'s El Chico, ran into trouble and finished way back in sixth place.
Victorious in his third three-year-old outing just as easily as in his first two, Johnstown equaled the record of 1:42 for this time honored "derby prep" and was not far off the track mark of 1:40-4/5 which he, himself, set only four days ago. The Wood record was set by Pompey back in 1926.
The rest of the field, which included five other derby eligibles, never had a chance once Jockey Jimmy Stout gave the 11 to 20 favorite his head near the seven-furlong pole. Saratoga Stable's Voltant, with Don Meade up, came on well in the late going to wind up second, taking the place by a length and a half from Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound, with T. M. Dorsett, the pace-setter for the first half mile, fading to fourth. El Chico, after getting away well, was bumped heading into the first turn, half stumbled and almost fell against the infield railing, and never recovered.

ADJUSTMENTS MADE

After spending part of last week in making preliminary adjustments for 1939, the county committee Saturday predicted that its work would be finished by Tuesday.
Final adjustment will be made by the state committee by May 20, said M. Weaver, county adjustment assistant.

SCHOOLS GET FUNDS

Howard county rural schools came in for $1,282 on another $1 apportionment payment, it was announced at the county superintendent's office Saturday.
The payment brought the amount received on the current apportionment to $12 and left $10 owing.
