Court Hears Argument On Wage Statute

Tribunal Asked To Reconsider Decision On Minimum Pay For Women

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Contending the law "should meet changing economic conditions" the state of Massachusetts asked the supreme court today to reconsider its decision of last June 1, holding unconstitutional the New York state law establishing minimum wages for women.

Massachusetts' attorney-general, Paul A. Dever, said the decision deprives the working population of America adequate protection in safeguarding its rights.

Decisions After Rereliction Argument on the case was the first heard by the justices after they completed formalities marking the opening of the new term of court. Although arguments are being heard, the first of the court's "decision days" will not occur until after the election. The first decisions will be handed down Nov. 8.

This is considered significant, since several new deal statutes are before the court. These include: Laws Face Test Wagner Labor Relations act. PWA loans to cities for power plants. The 1933 "Truth in Securities" act.

The Public Utility Holding Company act. A 50 per cent tax on silver profits made before the silver purchase law was passed.

The 1934 Arms Embargo act (involving sale of munitions to Bolivia and Paraguay).

Ashurst-Sumner act, limiting interstate transportation of prison-made goods.

Collective bargaining amendments to the railway labor act. Government lawyers believe other suits involving the railroad retirement act, the social security law, AAA taxes and other new deal measures may reach the high court for argument before the present term ends next spring.

Suspect In Death Case Maintaining A Stony Silence

KILGORE, Oct. 5. (AP)—A man held for questioning in the roadside slaying Saturday of Mrs. Sidney Price maintained a stony silence today, leading officers to say his attitude indicated he might be insane.

Mrs. Price, 40, WPA sewing room worker, was found on a roadside, a bullet wound in her head. Officers later arrested a man after she identified him as a man who called Friday night to take the woman for a drive.

Police said the woman's hand was powder burned and similar burns on her face indicated she had struggled with her assailant and the shot had been fired at close range. Searchers could not find a gun near the body.

TWO HELD TO FACE HIJACKING CHARGE

Lubbock officers Sunday gained custody of Robert-Les Taylor, 24, and Ben Scott, 24, wanted in that city to face a hijacking charge.

The two were arrested here Saturday by city police on advice from Sweetwater police.

FD VISIONS BALANCED BUDGET; AL LINES UP BEHIND ALF

Citing the rapid growth of national income during his term of office, President Roosevelt told a crowd of 50,000 in Pittsburgh the budget would soon be balanced without additional taxation.

Warrior of two campaigns ago, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was telling a New York crowd that he favors the election of Republican Alf Landon over his own one-time lieutenant, President Roosevelt.

Business Is Continuing At Brisk Pace

Fall Buying Noted; Favorable Trend Maintained In Building

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. — The end of September found retail trade throughout the country on advanced ground compared with the same period last year, according to reports to the department of commerce from the principal cities. Fall buying was proceeding briskly although in a few areas there were slight recessions from the previous week due to continuation of unfavorable weather.

The general tone was favorable and retailers were reported to be optimistic over the trade outlook for the immediate future.

In wholesale lines, there was a continuation of the favorable trends of the last few weeks.

Building continued at a brisk rate with remarkable gains being shown in a number of cities as compared with the like period of 1935.

Pittsburgh reported that large orders from automobile manufacturers in the same city reported excellent business. While much of this increase came from the automobile industry there was a vast variety of miscellaneous replacement business being booked daily.

The principal cities of the Pacific Coast gave favorable reports of local conditions. Carloadings in San Francisco, for example, last week jumped to the highest level since 1930, lifting the Pacific Coast business index to 96.4% of the 1930 average compared with 86.1% last year.

Turnover on accounts receivable in San Francisco department stores was reported better than at any time during the last two years. Memphis reported that cotton was being harvested at a record rate under favorable weather conditions with grades high due to little rainfall since maturity.

Exports from 121 Southern pine mills for the week showed a 23% increase in orders over the corresponding period last year.

Rabies Threat Leads To City-Wide Drive Against Stray Dogs

Austin Report Reveals Animal Which Bit Three Here Was Infected

Fears of a threatened rabies epidemic today led city police to announce a war on stray dogs within the city.

The announcement came after a report was received from Austin confirming suspicions that a dog, which bit three people here last week, was infected with rabies.

Ronald, son of Mrs. Margaret Knaus, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knaus, victims of the dog's bite, were undergoing the anti-rabies treatment here today.

Mrs. Knaus said the dog had been placed in a veterinary hospital several days for observation but that nothing unusual was noted about it. Soon after she took it home, the dog turned on her young son and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knaus.

It was suggested that those who kill animals acting queerly not to shoot them through the head since the brain is the only part of the body which readily reveals the presence of rabies under test.

Organization of a P.T.A. at Cauble was effected Monday morning with Mrs. Arthur Franklin being named president and Mrs. Floyd Ashley as secretary-treasurer and reporter.

After the assembly joined in singing "America," Harold David Leatherwood, accompanied by his mother, played three violin selections.

Mrs. J. E. Sellers is serving as principal of the school for her sixth year. Miss Nova Lynn Graves is the other teacher, this being her second year at Cauble.

Trustees of the school are Arch Ford, Arthur Franklin, and Robert Coleman.

Conflicting Claims Made In Civil War

Govt. Says Important Junction Taken; Rebels Announce Victory

Conflicting insurgent and government claims today made a question mark of the Madrid sector of the Spanish rebellion.

The government contended militiamen took the important junction of Maqueda on the Toledo highway, then fought westward to a point near Santa Olaya.

Supply Line Cut Insurgents said their southern column took Illenas and cut the government supply line to Madrid about 22 miles from the capital city, then marched toward Navalcarnera on the Madrid-Maqueda highway.

Embattled Madrid government officials insisted their position was impregnable and conferred on launching a loyalist onslaught as a result of the recent lull in the rebel offensive on the Toledo and other fronts.

The rebels at Valladolid claimed they had thrown the loyalists back on the Somosierra, Guadarrama and Guadalajara sectors in the mountains north of Madrid.

The government forces in those areas were repulsed and the road to Madrid opened for the proposed final push this week.

Ships Warned The rebel radio station at Cadix warned all foreign ships to leave those ports still controlled by the loyalists, declaring they would bombard without notice after today.

In the north, the siege of Bilbao was tightened. The rebels pounded away with a continual bombing and their heavy artillery fire was expected to bring surrender at any moment.

Gen. Francisco Franco, newly named chief of the rebel cause and "government" if and when they win, because the "mystery mind" of the revolution. Franco declared a fascist totalitarian state was the goal of the nationalist rebels.

The final attack on Madrid was believed Franco's aim when he left the rebel "junta" field headquarters at Burgos, and a showdown was anticipated this week or in ten days.

TO LAUNCH FINAL DRIVE FOR MONEY TO FINANCE A MEAT PROCESSING PLANT IN CITY

A final and concerted drive to raise funds for financing a meat processing plant here will be launched soon, it was indicated Monday by J. W. Allen, temporary chairman of the board for a marketing association organized here several months ago.

Allen said that it would be necessary to secure at least 100 members of $25 each before the plant could start operation.

Several have promised to take out memberships, he said, but many more are needed. Until now a campaign for money has been delayed due to prolonged drought, but directors of the group seeking to establish a processing plant feel that now is the time to either get in funds or abandon the idea.

Howard County Marketing association was incorporated during the summer with the view of taking over the Samuel Greer feeding pens, barns, and abattoir east of town.

Greer, who put $32,000 into the development of the property, is interested in the formation of a local company to process locally produced meat. He has promised inducements for the association to take over the property and lately has offered still further assistance in the matter.

Greer erected the large pens, feed barn, slaughter house, storage plant and caretaker's cottage two years ago when feed prices were at the bottom and cattle prices were also low. He conceived the project as a breeder-feeder activity and operated it as such for several months.

Senate Cancels Liquor Inquiry To Avoid Delay

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP)—The senate today authorized Sen. Will D. Pace of Tyler to withdraw his resolution ordering an inquiry into the Texas liquor law administration. Pace had asked withdrawal of the resolution, asserting he was afraid that if the legislature went into the inquiry it might relay action on bills to raise pension money.

Another resolution for a liquor inquiry is pending in the house. The senate today passed a bill providing for the transfer of $446,000 from the permanent fund of the old age assistance commission to the available fund to meet pension payments. A similar bill is pending in the house.

Tax Hearings The revenue taxation committee begins hearings tonight on tax bills, hoping to conclude its work by Wednesday.

Rep. Jesse James of Cameron, vice-chairman who will preside in the absence of Rep. Walter Jones of Jourdanton, chairman, said every effort would be made to expedite the proceedings. Jones has been ill.

With one week of the 30-day special session gone, the need for speed is conceded generally if the primary purpose for which Governor Alfred convened the legislators, provision of additional pension revenue is to be accomplished.

20 Report Bills En Masse The hearings will continue through Wednesday and bills will be reported en masse, after which they may be considered on the floor. Only after a bill has been passed by the house may taxation, under the constitution, come before the senate, which then will repeat the process of hearings in committee, debating and amending on the floor.

Rep. George Davison of Eastland hopes to get his bill setting up an unemployment compensation system under the federal social security act before the house at an early date. It has been reported favorably in committee. A somewhat similar measure has been introduced in the senate by Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur.

Heavy Damage In Waco Blast

Five Injured In Explosion And Fire; Cause Not Yet Determined

WACO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Waco counted five injured and damage estimated at $275,000 today, following a terrific explosion yesterday which rocked the downtown section. The blast, followed by fire, originated in the basement of the nine-story Liberty bank building, wrecked offices on six floors of the building, smashed plate glass windows in three surrounding blocks and started a fire which completely destroyed the stock and fixtures of the Woolworth company next door. Two nearby drug stores were badly damaged.

Some looting was reported. The Bauer-McCana store, half a block away, lost a $300 fur coat. Bystanders saw two men and a woman take the merchandise from a show window when the glass shattered.

Warren Moore, 65, negro janitor, was critically burned, but may survive. He was alone in the building at 5:20 p. m. when the explosion occurred.

Firemen Injured Four firemen, Newt Dickson, Frank Gillette, A. Sullivan and Earl Tyne, were burned while fighting the fire, but not seriously.

Cause of the explosion has not been determined. Water was being pumped from the basement to facilitate an investigation. Fire Marshal Jan Nicholson gave the estimate of damage, which was first thought to be $200,000.

Witnesses, of whom there were few because of the hour, said there was a receding blast and the building seemed to burst apart as glass flew outward in shattered sprays. Clots of fire, probably from liquor bottles in drug store windows, fell into the street and sheets of flame flew from the slaken building.

The building is located at the intersection of two of the busiest streets.

The blast occurred when Moore started to light a gas burner under a water heater in the basement. He told Assistant District Attorney Francis Egan that there was a hissing sound when he struck the match. Pritchard, he fled up the stairs toward an exit when the explosion occurred. He staggered to the street and was picked up on the sidewalk by Gus Wittington, who tore off his flaming clothing and called an ambulance.

ABANDONED, BURNED CAR FOUND NEAR HERE

A 1935 Plymouth sedan, bearing San Angelo (979-209) license plates, was found abandoned and burned on the side of highway No. 9 south of here. Officers said that the machine had been driven across distance on the pavement after front tires apparently had been removed.

Misdemeanor theft charges were lodged in justice court Monday against Jose Martinez and Juan Rios after Manfredo Nages had reported the loss of four tires, three wheels and a battery.

Around And About The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley THE OIL Belt football ticket for the week: Eastland at Abilene, San Angelo at Sweetwater, Breckenridge at Brownwood, Cisco at Big Spring, Weatherford at Ranger (non-conference).

THE PROBABLE winners: Abilene, Sweetwater (narrow margin), Brownwood (close game), Big Spring, Weatherford.

IN FIVE games last week-end Oil Belt football teams amassed a total of TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE POINTS. That's just about a league record.

COUNTRY CLUB golfers plan a series of contests to start soon. Fair weather has brought the linkmen out in a big way.

THE DEVILS, local junior grid-ers, started their 8th football season last week with a bang by defeating a hefty Coahoma team, 15-7. The Devils have never lost a game here, and Sammy Mellinger, manager of the team, predicts another victory for the Devils this week at Midland.

ACCORDING TO Sammy, who keeps close tab of the players, Capt. Womack, Winslow and Miller will do most of the ball kicking at Midland. Buster Chaney will probably do some line-smashing, with Alton Huestick doing the kicking and passing.

UNLESS THE Steers beat the Cisco Lobos by at least forty points, you can relegate them to the cellar for sure. The average weight of the Cisco boys is 150 pounds and only one boy on the team ever played in a game until this year, according to the Cisco scribe.

EASTLAND, HOWEVER, expects to make a flashy showing with the Maverick band and pep squad.

T. C. U. DOESN'T like night football. Coach Dutch Meyer says, if he has his way, the Texans will never book another one. Yet the Christians have done very well under the lights. They have played nine night games, winning seven of them, tying one and losing one.

IF YOU care to make a close study of Big Spring's loss to Brownwood last week, you might dig around in these statistics: Score by Periods 1 2 3 4 Total Brownwood 10 0 0 0 10 Big Spring 0 0 0 0 0 First downs, Brownwood 16, Big Spring 4. Yards gained from scrimmage, Brownwood, 309; Big Spring, 100.

Brownwood carried the ball 55 times on running plays and gained 249 yards; Big Spring carried 17 times and gained 54 yards. Brownwood tried 8 forward passes; three were incomplete for 60 yards; four were incomplete and one was intercepted. Big Spring tried 13 forward passes; two were completed for 46 yards; ten were incomplete and one was intercepted. Brownwood punted 8 times for an average distance of 34 yards.

Texas Ag Notes

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 5.—There is another new 'white' hope for the Texas Aggies, and his name is Walter Cecil, a red-headed boy from Freeport who won the state interscholastic high school track meet single-handedly for Freeport high the past spring. Playing in the 15 to 0 "Flash" victory over the Allen Academy Ramblers at Bryan, the Freeport Flash proved conclusively he will not forego football in favor of concentration on track.

Aggie fans are looking towards a rosier season for this year but also are picturing to themselves the sight of Dick Todd, the Aggies' present sophomore backfield ace, teaming with the speedy Cecil next fall. The red-head's efforts against Allen included carrying the ball eight times for an average of 32 yards, including one dash of 89 yards, place kicking an extra point, punting three times for an average of 30 yards, turning in several neat scoops and passing to Frank Wood of San Angelo, for a total gain of 16 yards. His speed also made him a star defensively.

Gilmer, a Northeast Texas town which puts Class B high school teams on the grid can watch the Texas Aggies' grid progress with more than usual interest this season, as three former Gilmer high school captains are now wearing the maroon and white spangles of the Aggies. Bill Boyd, Gilmer captain in 1931 and 1932, is a letterman halfback. Jim Shockey, ace passer and also a letterman halfback, and Bill Seager, sophomore end, were Gilmer co-captains in 1933.

Maroons Prosper In Club Quarters

Ice Cream Session Follows Each Grid Practice At Mississippi State

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 5 (AP)—Life is never dull for the Mississippi State college football player — not in the Maj. Ralph Sasse regime. With Sasse directing anything from dunking their feet in brine solution to eating a pint of ice cream daily goes for the grid-ers. The major has ideas of his own about how a football machine should be run and, however unorthodox they may seem, his impressive records here and at the United States military academy indicate their soundness.

System spelled with a capital S — is the keynote of all things pertaining to football at State. You can look at your watch and tell what the Maroon player is doing. "System," declares Sasse, "makes for better teamwork and is productive of better results." Another of Sasse's doctrines: "Football players, like good little children, must have their naps." So each day you may be sure that, between 1 and 2 p. m., the State grid candidate is taking his afternoon siesta.

so he has decreed that each day they soak their feet in a brine solution for half an hour. "Pleasant environment helps an athlete's mental attitude," philosophizes Sasse. In accordance with that belief, the major had a handsomely-furnished club room erected for his player and dressed up their dressing rooms. The dressing rooms at State are about half a mile from the practice field — purposely so. "Walking from the dressing rooms to the field gets the players heart started," reasons Sasse, "while walking back cools them off before the shower." The Maroon squad often practices at night. After the practice the boys get a pint of ice cream apiece and maybe some crackers to go with it. And there's always honey on the players' table. "Ice cream isn't sweet enough to hurt," says the major, "and neither is honey."

Thirty-Five Golfers Post Scores For Muny Tournney

First Round Play Starts Gophers Rely On Speed And Trick Plays

Bierman Has Fastest Set Of Backs Ever Developed In Minneapolis

Douglass Jones Cops Medal Honors With An Eighty-One

Thirty-five golfers will play first round matches this week in the annual Municipal golf tournament. Qualifying was completed yesterday and all first round matches must be played by next Sunday. Douglass Jones, medalist in the country club tournament, won medal honors in the Muny meet with an 81. Jones out—455 643 464—41. First round pairings: Championship Flight Doug Jones vs. Ray McMahon, G. C. Schurman vs. M. H. Bennett, Devan vs. Harry Stalcup, J. M. Aldredge vs. Eddie Morgan, Joe Black vs. M. K. House, Glen Hancock vs. T. J. Coffee, Jake Morgan vs. Lois Madison, Carl Young vs. L. B. Hoover.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—Speed and trickery make up the lethal Jose Minnesota's Golden Gophers are preparing for their fight on one of those typically tough Big Ten and non-conference schedules.

Coach Bernie Bierman turns loose one of the fastest sets of backs ever developed in Minneapolis. He will load the pot with characteristic Bierman fancy stuff — laterals and sweeps and blasting off-tackle plays. But, just for the timid folks who might be willing to surrender and hand the golden-jerseyed gladiators their fourth straight undefeated season, there are some mighty "ifs" spicing the conjecture over coming events. The big question is whether the 1936 edition of the Gophers will produce the terrific blocking brigade that smashed down the opposition during the three remarkable successful Minnesota seasons just past.

Bierman himself speaks right up about this. His favorite groan is that the happy days for the boys who grab the ball and run places are just about over. He coldly calculates that the missing mop-up errors like Beise, Roscoe, Dick Smith, Oech, LeVoor and others come along just once in a while. Experts in and around Minneapolis aren't giving up, though, and they are already filling the sports pages with reassurances that, as long as the big, powerful athletes keep coming, and Bierman is on hand to teach them their stuff, there'll be blocking ahead for Minnesota ball-handlers. What catches the eyes of the sideline will be the other fellow worry about such indispensable as blocking is the package of speed that was unwrapped as the Gophers swung into action. Three of the touchdown artists from the 1936 goal line parade popped out of the package. They are Andy Uram, Tuffy Thompson and Rudy Gmitro. The fourth is Julie Alfonso, co-captain, and running mate of Peg Lam back in 1933 and 1934. Julie was thrown for a loss in his studies and got a rest by request of the professors last season. Four holdover ends, fair guard strength, robust tackle forces led by Co-Captain Ed Wiedath and promising center material top the line aggregation.

One thing—Bierman didn't have to wait long to find out what the verdict would be, for his Gophers took over the hard-hitting Washington Huskies for the season's opener.

Gophers and Buckeyes Again The indication is that the Big Ten race will be all Minnesota and Ohio State this fall. Despite the heavy losses in letterman, Coach Bierman is putting another team of championship caliber on the Gopher gridiron. Ohio State isn't overworked with manpower as was the case last fall, but the sensational Jumping Joe Williams is still on hand as well as Dye, McDonald, Antosmool and several other capable ball-toters. It's a pity that Ohio State and Minnesota do not meet on the grid-iron, for the way things shape up at present these two teams are likely to share the conference title between them. Northwestern is touted as the one team in the conference likely to come up with a "surprise." Purdue looked good in pre-season dope, but the Biber-mans are unlikely to do much

STENGEL LOSES BROOKLYN JOB

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The first manager to lose his job as a major league manager was Casey Stengel, who Sunday was ousted as leader of the Brooklyn Dodgers. It was generally supposed that his contract would be allowed to run another year, as he had signed in 1934 for three years, but President Kelly thought otherwise. Stengel will be remembered as a New York Giant hero in the early '20s. Stengel did not reveal his future plans but it is believed that he will take a job as coach for some National League team.

Baylor Plays Arkansas, Texas Aggies Meet Rice Owls

DALLAS, Oct. 5.—Two conference games are on the slate of the Southwest conference this week, Baylor playing in the Orank fair of the Arkansas Razorbacks, and the Texas Aggies meeting the Rice Owls in Houston. Although barely eking out a 3-0 win over the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys last Saturday in the closing seconds of the game, the Aggies are still figured in the race and will probably get away to a flying start in the conference race with a victory over Jimmy Kitts' boys. The Owls have lost their last two games but have not made their conference debut. The Porkers, aroused by their loss to the Texas Christian Horned Frogs in their first conference game of the season, will have their aerial attack all set for the Bears. Baylor lost to Centenary, 10-0, but is still more or less an unknown quantity in the Southwest circuit. When the Aggies and Owls tangle there will be more than a Southwest Conference game at stake. The Owls will be having their second chance in twenty-three years to win three straight annual grid victories over the Cadets. The Aggies, for their part, will be fighting to give their senior players one victory over the Owls before Saturday's games.

This Picture Gives Us An Idea

RENDEZVOUS IN DES MOINES The two candidates met at Des Moines to discuss drought. They smiled. This picture was taken.

Looking at it, we got the idea that Mr. Landon and Mr. Roosevelt were somewhat alike, personally, no matter how far apart they were politically.

So we started looking through the picture files to see how many pictures we could find that suggested personal similarity between these two Americans.

The result astonished us. We think you'll be astonished too.

Don't miss the series of a dozen Roosevelt-Landon "off the record" pictures starting today in The Daily Herald. It's called

Question About CARDUI

HOW IT HELPS WOMEN WHO TAKE CARDUI

Women who are run-down, weakened, nervous, from not getting sufficient strength from the food they eat—Thousands and thousands have found that Cardui increased their appetite, improved their digestion, thereby promoting better nourishment and the consequent strengthening of the whole system.

And women who have suffered from functional pains of menstruation have found that, by taking Cardui just before and during the periods, this purely vegetable sedative and antispasmodic seemed to ease them much discomfort.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
By DEW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON—Those close to certain supreme court justices say that seldom in recent history have the Nine Old Men been on a hotter spot than they are now as they don their robes for the court term beginning today.
Reason is that they are called upon to rule immediately on two vital new deal laws, almost certain to throw the court into the very middle of the presidential campaign.
These two laws are the municipal bankruptcy act and the New York minimum wage act, which—although a state law rather than new deal—was inspired by Roosevelt friends and stands for the same principle Roosevelt stands for.
Both of these were declared unconstitutional by the Nine Old Men last spring, or rather by five out of nine of them. But now the government and the state of New York have asked for rehearings.
To grant a rehearing it is necessary for at least one of the five conservatives to change his mind and indicate that there is sufficient doubt about the court's earlier decision to have the case argued again.
But the five conservatives represent an almost solid phalanx against the new deal. Inside words has it that Butler and McReynolds are most vigorous in their opposition to any rehearing, and are exerting their influence, upon conservative colleagues.
Justice Roberts is the key man to keep your eye on. He has been influenced by public opinion in the past, but his close friend, Justice Butler, hopes to see that he does not switch today.
However, if the supreme court votes a rehearing on these two laws, public reaction is sure to be against them. Governor Landon already has come out for a minimum wage. Both democratic and republican parties are for it.
Furthermore, in the Schechter tick chicken case the court had claimed that industrial regulation such as minimum wages was the jurisdiction of the state, then turned completely around in the New York minimum wage case and said the state could not regulate wages. That is why the state of Illinois has now joined the state of New York in asking for a rehearing.
Municipal Bankruptcy
Nullification of the municipal bankruptcy act leaves the cities of the country in a tough spot. The law was originated under the Hoover administration, though passed under Roosevelt. It received the approval of banking circles and of both political parties.
Its chief purpose is to prevent racketeering among little groups of municipal bondholders who attempt to get fancy prices before permitting municipalities to renege on their bond issues.
Any negative action by the court now would be unpopular, definitely would aid the re-election of Roosevelt. That is the last thing the court conservatives want to do. Yet they are equally opposed to approving these two acts.
Hence the dilemma. Ordinarily they could postpone a decision. Decisions on regularly argued cases sometimes are postponed for weeks. But these are requests for rehearings. They must be decided within one or two weeks.
Thus the court is almost forced to cast the die before November 3.
High Finance
In the portfolio of one of Washington's most prominent banks is a note of Daniel Webster, bearing the indorsement of Henry Clay. Here is the story behind the document:
Needing some ready cash, Webster applied at the bank for a loan. He was told he could have the money, provided his note was indorsed by a person of known integrity and substance.
As he was leaving the bank, Webster met Clay.
"I didn't know you banked here, Daniel," said the great Kentuckian.
"I don't. I tried to get a loan and they told me I would have to get an indorser."
"How much did you want to borrow?"
"Five hundred dollars."
"Fine," said Clay. "I came here on the very same mission. Now I'll tell you what we'll do. Make out your note for $1000 instead of $500. I will indorse it, and then you can lend me half."
Webster agreed to the plan, the bank accepted Clay's indorsement and turned over the $1000.
Merry-Go-Round
Big plans are underway for the celebration of Justice Brandeis' eightieth birthday, November 13. The Justice has been spending the summer reading books on his wide veranda overlooking the seat at Chatham, Mass.
Chief Justice Hughes has been motoring in New Hampshire, attended several summer theaters in New England.
Justice Rutland made his twenty-sixth trip to England this summer. He was born there, migrated to Utah in a wagon trail.
Justice McReynolds, a bachelor, moped around Washington part of the summer, then sailed for Europe.
Justice Van Devanter loafed on his farm in Maryland.
Justice Roberts did the same on his farm at Valley Forge, Pa. The Justice goes in for dairy farming.
Justice Stone puttered with his dory and lawn mower on his island off the coast of Maine.
Justice Butler spent the summer at Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., surrounded by many children and grandchildren, and a golf course which he used every day.
Justice Cardozo spent the summer at Rye, N. Y., reading.

A BOARD OF PARDONS
One of the amendments to the Texas constitution which is to be voted on in the November election appears to be in line with the present trend of thought and action with regard to penology. That being the case its approval by the voters would be proper in order that the modern system might have every opportunity to prove its usefulness and efficiency.
The amendment provides for a board of three persons, to be known as the board of pardons and paroles. One member to be appointed by the governor, one by the chief justice of the supreme court, one by the presiding justice of the court of criminal appeals, and to have overlapping terms. The appointees to be confirmed by the senate.
Under the terms of the amendment the governor would not have power to grant a pardon, parole or other clemency unless it had been recommended by a majority of the board. He would have power to refuse any clemency the board might recommend. In capital cases the governor could grant one reprieve of not more than 30 days, to give the board more time for investigation, and the governor could revoke any pardon or parole without consent of the board.
Governors of Texas have been increasingly burdened by appeals for clemency in criminal cases, and should a governor attempt to go into the details of these appeals in order to decide if they were meritorious he would have no time for anything else. The appointment of this board would relieve the governor of this demand on his time and with three persons making investigation and hearing appeals there should be better results—fewer improper clemencies granted and more deserving ones.
Another feature of the amendment is that it would remove the possibility of a governor profiting either financially or otherwise by granting clemencies—something that it was charged was being done in a roundabout way some years ago. On the whole, the amendment seems worthy of adoption. Its purpose is good and in any event it cannot do harm.

Man About Manhattan
By George Tucker
Edwin Bertuch admits that for the time being he "belongs" in New York, and that he no longer is overwhelmed with nostalgia for those sun-drenched ports of the Mediterranean.
Perhaps it's the natural reaction in one who has been away so long... perhaps it is the shells that shrieked and curled around his ears in Spanish waters while his yacht was caught by Federal aviators and bombed.
It all began as a lark for this young man who decided to top off his studies in Paris with a leisurely cruise of the Mediterranean in his private yacht, painting old world ports and letting the tropic surf drown-out the disharmonies of a militant and discordant world.
Then, in Palma, that sleepy, coral village on an island off the coast of Spain the fun began. Federal planes swarmed over the city for 10 days. "Luckily, they were wretched marksmen," Bertuch recalls, "and never hit any of their main objectives, which were the military headquarters and the government buildings. All they succeeded in killing were helpless women and children who asked only for peace and a chance to live out their tranquil, uneventful lives."

Bertuch noted grimly the inherent honesty of the Red aviators, who littered the town with propaganda and promised to return with more bombs at exactly 6 o'clock unless the town surrendered. "And they always appeared promptly on the hour... We soon learned to keep one eye on our wrist-watches and then jump into the sewers when the deadline fell... You forget to be choosy when they drop bombs on top of you."
What made it difficult was the natural distrust, with which even the rebel leaders regarded one another. "Each was playing for his respective head, well aware that one false move meant a firing squad. So it wasn't long before they had me marked down as a spy. They saw me move out to meet a British man o' war, and shortly thereafter I was hailed before the chief magistrate, or leader, and given the alternative of dropping anchor and not moving until the war was over, or else I could get h. out of there, with the warning that I should be fired upon the moment I returned to any of the Spanish ports."

Bertuch got out with a whole skin after a series of harrowing experiences... You ought to see the sharpnel and pieces of bombs, plus the spent machine gun bullets, that he picked up from the deck of his yacht. His boat is tied up now in a French port, and safe... But those castles in Spain about which song writers once rhapsodized so exotically are now prosaic billets for vandals and cut-throats. Churches looted and persons shot down in the streets... "I've a brother-in-law and a sister in Madrid. They're going to die—I know that. Nothing can save them..."
Artist Bertuch pushed some blond locks off his forehead... There was a sort of ghastly humor in his quick laugh as he slipped into his dinner jacket... "Me," he declared, "I'm off to dinner with pleasant company and there will be champagne and a gay, gay evening. I wonder what the poor people in Valencia are doing tonight?"

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

Chapter 35 CONFESSION

Porter grinned. "Have to be. Trains and ships are the only things I can't bluff into waiting for me. Of course I could bear missing this one, but I'm afraid it'd make me unpopular."

"You're darn right it would." She phoned for the porter and then turned and smiled at him. "I'm sorry I can't ask you to sit down."

"Oh, yeah? You're fairly championing to be off. Vibrating with excitement and all that?"

She was startled. "I thought I was calm, she told herself. It's a good thing there's a trip ahead to justify me. She said lightly:

"Who wouldn't be? I haven't seen my family for six months."

"That's the way to see a family," he said bluntly. "Every six months."

"Cynic." She picked up her gloves and pocketbook and went to open the door for the bell-boy. When the negro had taken her bags Porter stared at her gravely.

"I wish you weren't going."

"But I'll be back Thursday, and you sometimes go for days without seeing me. What's the difference?"

"A lot. I don't like the idea of your being out of reach. How about letting her drive over to Meredith and bring you back?"

She held her breath. Actually she was coming Wednesday, because Blake would be back then.

"That's sweet of you, but— I don't know. I'll drop you a note. . . . When I've thought up a good excuse, she added to herself.

The city was gay and brilliantly lit as they drove through it. A deceptive brilliance, she thought, hiding weariness and unshed tears and despair intensified by the knowledge that despair had no place in the picture. Remembering the disillusionment of her last Christmas at home she tried to steel herself by expecting nothing this time. Nothing but three days with her family, who were incapable of disappointing her.

Porter was quiet, too, apparently absorbed in his skillful, breath-taking driving. At the station he bought magazines and chocolate and put her on the train with his usual flourish. Porter had a flair for living; even the most casual attentions took on a certain grace and significance when he performed them. He sank down beside her for a minute.

"See anybody in this car that you know?"

"No. Why?"

"Nothing." He grinned, and leaned swiftly over and kissed her. "Eye, beautiful. Please decide to let me drive you back."

He went down the aisle without looking at her again, and she sat and stared blindly out the window.

She would not, Carol had promised herself, confide in any of her family. But she had overlooked Pat's gift of divination. Sunday afternoon he pulled himself lazily from his chair and stretched.

"I feel like a stuffed hog. How's about a brief around the Mall, Carol, before the callers swoop down and start their drinkin'?"

"It sounds that attractive," she admitted. "You, too, Jill?"

Jill shook her head and smiled. "I've got a date with a man."

The last vestige of constraint about Don had vanished, Carol realized gladly. He came and went gaily, and made no attempt to hide his happiness and his devotion. Don as a prospective brother-in-law was far more satisfactory than Don as a possible husband.

"Oh, in that case. . . . Where's Milly?" she asked Pat.

"Upstairs, sleeping off her eating jag. Come on."

They went bodily, and turned towards the hills beyond the house. "You haven't forgotten how to walk," Pat approved. "Even if you are a city slicker."

"I'll ne-er be that, I'm afraid. Those beastly pavements still hurt my feet: I like grass, and red clay, to do my walking on."

She was savoring again the sense of ease and completeness that Pat's presence inspired. She might never know elsewhere, she realized, so effortless a companionship as hers with Pat.

When they had left the pavement for the dirt road she threw back her head.

"Gosh, this is good! Why do any of us struggle along in cities?"

"Because some of us want one thing and some of us want another."

"And some poor idiots—like me—want it all. The ease and leisure of a little town, and the breadth and variety of a city."

"Sure," Pat said comfortably. "And the thing to do is to decide which one you want worst, and then quit looking over your shoulder at the other one."

She wrinkled her nose at him. "You're so bloomin' sane—for an esthete. How do you get that way?"

He scowled. "Smile when you call me that, darn you! I dunno; I guess I'm just lazy. It's a swell substitute for sanity; fools the smart guys every time."

She breathed the cold air deeply, and let her eyes sweep the quiet fields about them. The fields were sleeping now—golden brown with sedge and weeds and dead corn stalks—and the soil beneath their feet was red, and crusty from frost. The Old Red Hills of Georgia, she thought with a swift nostalgic ache: I can't imagine living anywhere else in the world.

"Pat said lightly: "Of course this walking business was a gag. I want to hear about you and how you're making out."

She knew at once that she was going to tell him about Blake. That the thought of Blake had been in her mind like an orchestral accompaniment to everything she had done and said and heard in Meredith. And that she wanted desperately to talk about him, and to hear his name spoken aloud. She said slowly:

"Well, right now I'm like—a prisoner at the bar, waiting for a verdict."

He looked sharply at her and then straight ahead. "What do you mean?"

She told him, in a quiet, controlled voice, about Blake, and Irma, and Blake's mission. Pat listened in complete silence until she was done, then he said:

"He sounds like a pretty grand guy."

"He's all of that. I'm living for the day when you and he can knock each other."

"This wife of his. What's she going to do?"

What was she? Carol wondered. Her worst, whatever Blake might hope for. She said slowly:

"God knows. Blake thinks she'll be decent, but that's because he's a man, and decent himself. He's got no idea what devil women can be—even when he's lived with one for years. I've never seen Irma, but I've diagnosed her as an egomaniac, if there's such a word."

"And if she refuses to play ball?" Pat asked quietly.

"Again—God knows. I said I'd—go all the way with him."

"Good for you." He had drawn her arm through his, as if to interpose his own strength between her and Irma's uncompromising hate. "Just remember this," he went on steadily, "that people have a genius for forgetting things like that. You may have a few weeks of hell before you bring her around, but when it's over the pack will forget all about you and start tearing the flesh of a new victim. Hang on to that."

"I'll try. Because of course you're right. I can stand the hell so long as it doesn't ruin—what Blake and I feel for each other."

"It won't unless you let it. That's up to you and him. Will you bring him up here as soon as you can, no matter which way it's going to go? I'll have the ground all broken and the family in line when you say the word."

"You darling! I'll do it as soon as I can. He wanted to come this time, but I thought we'd better wait."

He turned and looked closely at her. "Is this what you've been looking for kids?"

Her color and her voice deepened. "This is what I never expected to find—anywhere. Even if this were all, I'd still feel better about living and dying."

His arm pressed her against his side. "That's the way to talk. I envy you like the devil."

She was suddenly ashamed of her own absorption. "Pat, you're worse than I've been. Sooner or later you've got to get out and find a life for yourself." She smiled faintly. "Lord, what a lover you'd be!"

He laughed shortly. "Don't fool yourself. The girl would be entirely out of luck—assuming that I ever found her."

Two Americans

A 'Non-Political' Comparison

MY FRIENDS...

Authorities on public speaking have called President Roosevelt's radio delivery the most polished employed by any man in public life today. Devoid of old-style oratorical bombast and for the unseeing audience, not dependent on gestures, his talks carry an impression of informality even when he reads from text. Though researchers may aid in their drafting, his crisp sentences bear an unmistakable Roosevelt mark.

FDR Working On Speeches

Starts Campaign Swing In to West Friday Of This Week

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 5. (UP)—President Roosevelt began work today on campaign speeches he will deliver on a swing through the west expected to begin next Friday night.

The president probably will go from Washington directly to Denver, one of the "key" cities where he plans to speak.

He will turn east from there, it was reported, and make another speech at Omaha. Personal appearances are scheduled for Cincinnati and Cleveland.

The president on his way to Hyde Park from New York discussed campaign strategy with James A. Farley, democratic national chairman, and Charles Michelson, publicity director of the national committee.

Farley and Michelson urged upon him the desirability of entering the Middle West and the Rocky Mountain states early this month.

Mr. Roosevelt was said to be adamant in his determination to make campaign tours short and not to embark on ones that would keep him away from Washington more than five, or possibly six days, at a time.

NATIONS WORK FOR LIRA DEVALUATION

ROME, Oct. 5. (AP)—A well-informed source today said extensive negotiations were in progress between Italy, Great Britain and France, seeking the lens of a general economic and monetary accord in preparation for devaluation of the lira.

The United States has been informed of the conversations, this source stated.

If an accord is reached before the cabinet meeting the lira will be devalued 35 to 40 per cent, it was stated. Otherwise, no change will be made.

The economic section of the proposed accord would concern tariffs, contingent clearing arrangements and the like.

Easy-To-Knit Bathrobe

By RUTH ORB
Pattern No. 249

It won't be long now, before you'll be wanting a nice, warm robe to slip on when the air is chill, and there's just nothing as soft and light and warm as a hand knit one.

Here's one that you can knit in a very short time because it's made of heavy worsted that works up four stitches to the inch. The robe is made with a raglan sleeve, with bands of moss stitch at the neck, at the bottom of the sleeves, at the edge of the two fronts, and at the lower edge. The pattern is for size 16 years.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-understand illustrated directions with diagrams to aid you; also what needles and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 249 and enclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address: Dress Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Restriction Of Drilling Favored By IPA Leader

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5. (UP)—Restriction of drilling was set forth today by Charles Roesser, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, as the answer to many problems of the industry.

Directors of the association outlined the program for its annual meeting here Nov. 30. Roesser said it would sponsor the program which is to be presented to the American Petroleum Institute's annual meeting Nov. 9 in Chicago and the I.P.A.A. meeting here.

A restricted drilling plan would force the producers to a more drastic program of conservation. Wills would be repressured; gas would be conserved, and the oil would move to market in a steady stream, in Roesser's opinion.

He named as other points in the association's program extension of the Connally "hot" oil law, restriction of imports and uniform taxation.

Drilling restriction is not a question of state control, Roesser asserted. "It is purely a problem for the industry. The companies must quit drilling a lot of wells, swelling the potentials and flooding the market with surplus oil."

Convicted Levers Start Pen Terms

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 5. (UP)—Mrs. Reabe Childs, 24, and Terrence Bramblett, 21, who murdered her husband to remove a barrier to their illicit love affair, were separated today by prison walls four miles apart.

The pretty brunette, widow of Marie Childs, former Shelby county treasurer, began serving a 25-year sentence, learning how to make prison uniforms at Goree state women's farm.

Bramblett, former CCC worker who accused his sweetheart of firing the fatal shots but who still avowed his love for her, was at the state "walls" classified preparatory to assignment of work. He must serve 50 years in prison.

Both were sentenced for the murder of Childs following trials at Carthage.

Until 1886, aluminum was too expensive to be used for commercial purposes.
