Oilers Add To Win Record, Tiremen Ditto

Lions Meet Scouts, NYA Clashes With Herald Tonight

Phillips' Tiremen and Oilers' Oilers came out of last night's Major city softball league affairs with wins added to their records. Phillips' landed on NYA "B's" in the night's opener for a 15 to 0 shutout. The Oilers' Letman Bostick hurled a game a bit on the erratic side but managed to hold the NYA side to a two-hit count, regardless. NYA's Ed Lowe and Tate were singled for a total of ten hits.

The Oilers, failing to turn in the brand of game usually contributed by them, played a haphazard showing that gave them a 13 to 7 win over Munny. Munny, coming up with a tendency to take advantage of the Oilers' foibles, had the winners wondering for a spell, but L. D. Cunningham's hurling took its toll and a seventh inning spree that netted the Munnymen five runs was skyward. The Oilers romped on Johnny Daylong for 16 blows.

Tonight the minors have their day. The Lions tangle with the circuit leading Sea Scouts at 7:30 and NYA goes into a scramble with Herald in a makeup at 9:25.

Holding the advantage in years plus the record book toehold, the youngsters are slated to turn back the efforts of the Reading Ones. The Herald-NYA fracas, a match between the two clubs battling it out for a more comfortable spot by the coal bin, is strictly in the who-knows class.

Craig, Stewart Due To Tangle At Munny

O. O. Craig and Herman Stewart are on the books to play off their championship flight match today in the Munny championship golf tournament now in progress.

Semi-final bouts in the second flight are slated to be played within a couple of days. Matched in a couple of days are Red Womack and Claude Wilkins, Nell Hilliard and Homer McCarty.

In yesterday's conflicts, one first flight round was played off as M. K. House rolled over Cookie Gardner, 3 and 2.

Al Hostak Hits Comeback Trail

CHICAGO, May 28 (AP)—Al Hostak, the Seattle battler with the glass hands, will try tonight to disprove again the old saying that "they never come back."

He will meet Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., fighter recognized as the middleweight champion by the National Boxing Association, in a 15-round bout in Chicago stadium.

What's Wrong With Big Spring?

Nothing That Time Won't Cure

What's wrong with the Big Spring Bombers?

Well, at this date there seems to be a bunch of nothing. They are now in the midst of winding up a spectacular sweep through the West Texas-New Mexico league as one could want—they have the bit in their mouths and they're pennant bound.

But, that double header with Lamesa September 1 is a long way off. Right now there is little evidence of the apple cart piling into the ditch—maybe it never will, but a sack full of clean misses can knock a pipe dream skyhigh.

Big Spring's weaknesses are few and there is little or nothing in the setup that time cannot cure but they are there just the same.

All has not been soft music and poetic words on the roster for one thing. There has been some dissonance—not the kind that loses ball games, as it will burn out by the win records, but it is the kind that can build into something when the pressure is applied. But those little family quarrels can usually be brushed aside.

Lobos Hand Hubbers 10th Straight Loss

Trailing In Eighth, Lamesa Breaks Into A Run Spree For Victory

LAMESA, May 28—Going into the eighth trailing 3 to 5, the Lamesa Lobos scored three runs to pull another game out of the fire and hand the fickle Lubbock Hubbers their tenth straight defeat. Cowser started well for Lamesa, but grew wild as the game progressed.

In the first Cowser threw Bengston out on a slow roller, then whiffed Kaularich and Lorenz, the latter being banished by Etheridge for protesting the called third strike. After considerable fuss, Umpire Duke got the offender out of the park, giving over the vacated shortstop slot to Engle.

Lamesa scored twice in the first when Lang and Carmichael singled, Brown forced Carmichael, Scolding drove Lang in with a single, Guyne singled scoring Brown, but Scolding was tossed out at third on a nice peg by Mahan. The Lobos were held cold until the sixth frame, when three more singles netted another run. Scolding grabbed his fourth straight single in the eighth, Guyne was passed and on the first pitch Jordan singled and Scolding scored. Guyne went to third, and the Lobos soaked up two runs when Robertson bopped the leave. This makes the third time Robertson won a game on a clean base hit.

Old Pepper's Club Leads Coast Loop

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28 (AP)—"Pepper" Martin, the old handy man and ball of fire of St. Louis Cardinals fame, likes his new job as manager of the Sacramento Senators. From the results he obtained in two months he appears cut out for the work.

The Senators are leading the Coast league from here to there, haven't lost a series yet, and unless half the squad comes up with broken legs, seem destined to breeze in for Sacramento's first pennant.

Pair Of Wichita South Paws End B'Spring's Streak

WICHITA FALLS, May 28—It happened last night. Big Spring's Bombers, riding on top of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball heap with a string of 13 wins in a row, went into a doubleheader last night at Wichita Falls against the Spudders, picked up the opener with a 9 to 0 shutout, then fell victim to a pair of lefthanders, 4 to 3. Thus ended a streak that mounted to fourteen before Messrs. Lucas and Kanagy tossed a wrench into the machinery.

Tonight, the Bombers draw near to home territory when they clash with Lamesa's Lobos. A tussle is scheduled for Thursday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock, and the show is wound up with a game starting at 8:30.

Big Spring has been told by Lamesa fans that they would match any number of Big Springers attending this evening's fracas. Any and all local people who are feeling in the mood to see Big Spring try to pound out a win over the rampaging Lobo in his own lair, are urged to be on hand tonight for the game. Those who are without transportation are advised to be on hand at the chamber of commerce, between 6:30 and 7 where cars will be available.

Big Spring has come in from a lonesome journey. One in which they set up a winning record that likely will not be equaled during the remainder of the season. Lamesa is tough and honing to get tougher. All support that can possibly be on hand to give Jodie Tate and his lads a boost and award them for the bang-up performances of the last fourteen games should without fail, be on deck at Lamesa when the go ahead signal is given.

In the Wichita Falls affair, George Boal pitched four hit balls to give Big Spring its victory in the first round of the doubleheader. A pair of Spudder hurlers were thrown into the gap in an effort to stop the Bomber spree that netted eleven runs.

Buck Shulz was cracked for a mere five hits in the nightcap, while Kanagy and Lucas were bopped for an eight-hit count.

Lookin 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Big Spring's Bombers, the lads who started the season as one of the leading candidates for cellar position in West Texas-New Mexico baseball, return home Friday night to open a hometown stretch. They return home with a record that is more than good—chum, it's spectacular.

But, before they park their duff in the local precinct, these Bombers have a little job to do in Lamesa, the home of the Lobos.

Now, Lamesa is a hot baseball town, one of the hottest, and just going to take some wholehearted support by Big Spring fans to make some of the sting out of the verbal hiding that might be in store for the local crew.

In addition, we are of the opinion that, since the Bombers have gone about nine-tenths of the way in regard to bringing baseball to this town with a bang, the team is due the compliment of having Big Springers traveling the other tenth—about eighty miles to Lamesa and back we would judge.

So, tonight a goodly crowd of Big Springers might do themselves a good turn if they would trek Lamesa-ward and welcome the Bombers to the home hanger.

Red Bluff Lake, Mecca for a goodly number of local Isaac Walton, is now unfit for a bit of wimpering, with the finny ones. There's been too much water for baseball, too much for golf and lately there has been too much for fishing. This year, fish are on the verge of drowning—next year they'll likely be choked up by dust.

And—speaking of fishing, Durward Carnett has for his own use a tackle box that is equipped with just about everything but a string of fish. Look it over and make some cracks about the stuff carried in a woman's purse.

Rated as one of the top-ranking fly artists in this neck of the pastures, Carnett and his Missus are taking off for Colorado in a couple of weeks for their annual jaunt with the inhabitants of that state's cold waters.

Herman Stewart is looking for a vast improvement in his driver at the Munny course—he has a lucky stick. Yesterday, he received a shiny, new driver from Sweetwater as a reward for copping the driving contest at the West Texas meet held there recently.

Dallas Shows Signs Of Coming Out Of Doldrums

It's difficult to make a prophecy about the erratic Dallas Rebels, but if their pitchers deliver as well as they have for the past few games they might yet be in the upper bracket of the Texas league.

Otto Nitoholas turned in a neat five-hit job last night at Oklahoma City to give the Rebs a 5-1 win—the second in a row—over the second-place Indians.

By the strategic placing of eight hits for the Fort Worth Cats scored two runs in the first and another in the second to take a 2-1 decision from the Tulsa Oilers.

The only other scheduled game, Shreveport at Houston, was rained out.

The Rebels collected nine hits—Heinz Becker and Bubba Floyd contributing two each—and knocked Walter Brown and Pete Maloney off the mound in drubbing Oklahoma City.

Garrison and English, with two hits each, were the sledge guns for Fort Worth.

Off the Beaten Path

In 1927, only an idea... today, sales of more than a billion gallons a year.

In 1927, Phillips 66 was the name of an innovation in motor fuel, a gasoline off the beaten path. Today, 66 million is the 1940 increase in gallons over the sales for 1929.

From the beginning, Phillips has devoted itself to producing and delivering "greater value for the money."

From the beginning, Phillips has never hesitated to step from the beaten path in search of any product improvement which might give finer performance or money savings to motorists.

A company, and a product, which have grown so swiftly in so short a time must have supplied special benefits to car owners, must have given extra value to win such rapid recognition.

First to offer high test gasoline at the price of ordinary motor fuel... first to match gasoline to weather... first to offer at all its stations the extra-powered gasoline resulting from the patented POLYMERIZATION process... Phillips is a leader in research, ready at all times to leave the beaten path to make Phillips 66 an unexcelled gasoline in its price class.

On this record, and on this determination, we sincerely believe today's summer-grade Phillips 66 Poly Gas merits a trial by every car owner. We invite you to stop for a trial tankful... at any Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Tight Enforcement Of New Liquor Law Promised June 1

AUSTIN, May 20 (AP)—The state liquor board will clamp down on violators of the new prescription liquor law beginning June 1.

In letters mailed yesterday to more than 500 holders of medicinal liquor permits, Liquor Administrator Bert Ford explained the new regulations and warned that strict enforcement would begin next month.

The law limits to 100 the number of prescriptions any doctor may issue within a 90 day period and prohibits a drug store from possessing more than 10 gallons of liquor at any one time.

Ford pointed out that doctors must be certified for permits by the state board of medical examiners before they may obtain blanks on which to write prescriptions. He said necessary permit and prescription application forms may be obtained from the board's district offices or from Austin.

Present permits will remain effective until expiration Aug. 31.

Drug stores unable to reduce their stock of liquor to the 10-gallon maximum should report to local representatives, Ford declared, adding no disposition will be made to take advantage of technical difficulties where they exist.

THE BARGAIN BASEMENT

A brief peep at some of the scenes from the forthcoming M-G-M Marx Brothers opus, which is rumored to be the last picture in which the boys will be united as a team.

Lame brain detective Groucho finally hooks a client, Margaret Dumont, wealthy department store owner. Harpo looks on.

Douglas Dumbrille, the store manager, is responsible for the dirty work. Groucho warns Miss Dumont.

Harpo at his favorite pastime... chasing blondes. And what a honey of a blonde is Marion Martin.

Groucho also has his fun — giving lessons to mannequins. They are Norma Thelan, Muriel Barr, and Aileen Haley.

We approach the climax, when Mr. Dumbrille shows his hand, but Groucho's trusty camera sees all and tells all.

FREE: A "still" 8 x 10 picture from the above film will be sent free to anyone writing, and enclosing 10c stamp to cover postage.

HOLLYWOOD Glamour Hints

By MAX FACTOR

Today, more than ever before, women correctly follow the guiding rules of color harmony in creating their make-up.

This signifies that the shades of their powder, rouge, lipstick, and all the rest of their make-up materials, are in a definitely harmonious relationship to each other, and that they are collectively considered as one unit, rather than as separately selected items.

A great many women, however, still aren't cognizant of the fact that the original color harmony make-up scheme which was prescribed for them by their make-up artists is more often than not just the basic one which is comprised of those make-up shades which are the correct ones for their daytime grooming—and that their attractiveness might be accentuated to a much greater degree if their make-up was generally used in a lighter shade for evening beautification. Thus, the correct original daytime complexion colorings approximate those of Merle Oberon—she has brown hair and eyes, and an olive skin—calls for face powder in a dark olive shade, and rouge and lipstick of a deep red tint. But the evening appearance of a woman whose natural complexion colorings are similar to those of Miss Oberon would be greatly enhanced if she transposed her make-up to a powder in a lighter olive shade, one of those rouge tints usually classified as "evening," and a natural red lipstick. Lipsticks in these natural red shades, incidentally, are generally the most effective ones for the evening wear of all types of feminine beauty—blonde, brunette, brunette, and redhead. So, if a natural red lipstick is the one correctly prescribed for daytime wear, no change in color is needed for evening use. A similar exception holds true for the rouge used by blondes. The "blonde red" shades used in daytime are also correct for evening.

Erskine Johnson's HOLLYWOOD TODAY

OFF THE SOUND TRACK: "The Grapes of Wrath" have descended on the household of John Steinbeck and his wife. The famous author has put his house at Los Gatos up for sale and the end of the romance probably will be reported at the courthouse in Los Angeles or Reno. Mrs. Steinbeck is in New York on what they call a trial separation, but Hollywood insiders say that while everything was OK in his book, "The Grapes of Wrath," everything is not OK at home. . . . Box office figures on "Citizen Kane" are a bitter disappointment. It's one of the really great movies of all time, but its lack of boy-meets-girl romance is keeping people out of the theatres. It proves again that leaving sex out of a movie is like leaving mice out of mince pie.

Joe Breen, who retired recently as the film censor czar, once told a producer that a character could not say "nuts to you" in a movie. The producer insisted that everybody said it, that it was an accepted colloquialism. "Not by the code," said Breen. "Nuts to the code," said the producer. "Nuts to you," said Breen.

Budd Schulberg's hit novel, "What Makes Sammy Run," and a story Wolfe Kaufman wrote three years ago in Esquire are deadly parallels. . . . Jan Savitt and his Top Hatters orchestra debut tonight at the popular Casa Manana in Culver City. . . . That stunt of wiring Charlie McCarthy so he can walk unassisted by Edgar Bergen in "Look Who's Talking" has great possibilities. Maybe they'll even get around to eliminating Bergen. . . . John Barrymore's daughter, Diana, is up for a movie contract. . . . Penny Singleton is the first motion picture star ever to appear on the front cover of Better Homes and Gardens. . . . Mickey Rooney has banned all fan mag stories until he has completed an autobiography of his Hollywood career.

Director Preston Sturges' sense of humor didn't desert him when he tripped over one of the light cables on the set of "Sullivan's Travels" and went sprawling on the floor. "Hm-m-m," he mused, "perhaps we'd better change the title of this picture from 'Sullivan's Travels' to 'Sturges' Trips'."

The Hays Office code governing animated cartoons is even stricter than for human film behavior, because of kid fans. A new Leon Schlesinger cartoon showed a quail giving a Bronx cheer. The censors objected and changed it to a whistle. . . . "The Foys Carry On," a Broadway stage musical starring the seven remaining members of the famous vaudeville family, is in the wind for fall production, under Harry Howard's wing. . . . Talking about the clothes worn by a certain actor, Paul Conlan cracked: "His suits look like something Sears made while Roebuck had his back turned." . . . Nancy Kelly will be proclaimed "1941 Brickbat Queen" at the "Sons of Erin" get-together in Pittsburgh May 31. . . . Arline Judge is up for a national radio show.

Charles Laughton's wife, Elsa Lanchester, is yearning to don make-up again and he's trying to revive producer interest. . . . After his hit performance as Knute Rockne, I can't understand why Hollywood producers are hesitant about filming a movie with Pat O'Brien as Floyd Gibbons. I'd also like to see Pat in a film biography of O. Henry. . . . Constance Bennett is still worrying about those candid camera shots snapped of her at the Red, White and Blue benefit show. Despite her pleas to photographers to burn them up, 35 negatives are in the hands of fan magazine editors. . . . Ida Lupino's father, Stanley Lupino, has written a musical comedy revue to spark up the spirit of bomb-torn London.

NOT IN THE SCRIPT: "The baby bob or any variation thereof will never be popular in Hollywood for any length of time, because long hair is essential, even to movie stars, for a best appearance."—Fred Fredericks, Max Factor hair stylist.

KEN MORGAN'S . . . HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

HUNCH DEPARTMENT: Martha Raye and Neal Lang take off this week on a publicized elopement. Their confederates on the junket will be Ann Sheridan and George Brent. Nobody told me, and I haven't read it anywhere else, but a twelfth sense tells me that it might develop into a double ceremony. Annie and George have been devoted sweethearts for a long time and it wouldn't surprise me in the least if my very tentative prognostication materializes.

Last year's musical comedy successes on Broadway have put fever into some of our leading "dealers in laughs"—several have announced plans to put shows on the New York stage. Charlotte Greenwood has plans for "Once in My Life," and Jack Haley is forming plans to produce "Four Men on a Bar." Jack Oakie owns three play properties, with a good possibility that one of them will go on the boards. Milton Berle has received permission from 20th Century-Fox to star in a Broadway show which he will finance and produce.

Audiences will soon become aware of a new star who is just now chinning herself on the celebrity horizon. Her name is Sheila Ryan, who has for two years been bouncing around Paramount, and now 20th Century-Fox Studios. She was signed to a contract by Paramount while she was still in Hollywood High School, and appeared in a few pictures under her real name, Betty McLaughlin. She has appeared in three pictures at 20th Century-Fox and just finished a part opposite Lloyd Nolan in "Dressed to Kill," soon to be released. Studio executives, after seeing a rough cut of the picture and reviewing her previous minor work, have decided to "shoot the works." You may see her in a few more inconsequential parts, but her talent will be realized in 1942.

Ginger Rogers and Jean Gabin may be of the opinion that their dating in the quiet spots has gone unobserved—but 'taint so. Ever-alert tipsters do their job well. An interesting situation arises with Gabin in that his last picture, made in France, "Remorque," may never be seen. Theatres have been trying to locate the print, with little success, and the studio which has Gabin under contract is very anxious to find the film, so that at the conclusion of his six months' English course, an extensive build-up would be unnecessary.

THE GOOD RUMOR MAN: The Alice Faye-Phil Harris Mexican marriage before Alice's divorce was final might have a bearing on the hectic romance between Orson Welles and Dolores Del Rio—her divorce is not yet final, but they may tie the knot before the "genius" dons khaki. . . . Judy Garland has finally won her point and the current Judge Hardy picture is her last chore in the series. She and music man David Rose plan to get hitched soon and she feels that a married woman appears ridiculous in adolescent roles. . . . When you see "Shining Victory," look for a blonde nurse who does a quick walk-on-and-off—she is Betty Davis. . . . Fred Waring wants Rosemary Lane to guest with his band for one month this summer—Rosemary got her start in Hollywood when she came out with the band to make "Variety Show" for Warner. . . . Maureen O'Hara and Ray Bolger are being paired by Broadway. . . . At Warners, Martha Raye is being called the "Glamour Girl." . . . Bob Stack has just bought his sixth outdoor motor boat. . . . Vicente Gomez, who was brought here by 20th Century-Fox for a guitar bit in "Blood and Sand," and wound up composing the score, acting as technical director and playing in the picture, got the only hand from the preview audience. . . . Sophie Tucker, in her Orpheum appearance here, has dropped the title, "The Last of the Red Hot Mamas." . . . Strange situation at 20th Century-Fox, where Laird Cregar, who is 24 years old, is playing the father of James Ellison, who is 29. . . . Anthony Quinn and Katharine DeMille, whose baby died a few months ago in a tragic accident, are expecting. . . . Cesar Romero is in New York for the first time in four years—when he reported his departure to his draft board he was told that when he returned, the questionnaire would be in his mail box. . . . Hedy Lamarr and Howard Hughes have re-discovered each other.

JOE FISHER'S Reviews of Previous

Easily outstanding among this week's pictures was the 20th Century-Fox technicolor production, "BLOOD AND SAND," with Tyrone

Tyrone Power and Linda Darnell in a scene from "Blood and Sand."

Power, Rita Hayworth, and Linda Darnell in the top roles. Those who remember the Rudolph Valentino version of this Ibanes novel will not need to be told the story, but for the benefit of the younger element, it concerns the downfall of Spain's greatest bull-fighter, brought about by a beguiling woman—with a neat assist by the bull.

Rita Hayworth makes an altogether bewitching siren; Linda Darnell is properly appealing as the loyal but deserted wife; and Tyrone Power is sulkily handsome, though without the dash and fire given to the role by young Rex Downing, in the childhood sequences of the film. The brilliant costumes of the toreadors and the pageantry of the bull-ring are eminently suited to technicolor, and Director Rouben Mamoulian has made the most of his opportunity. Notable, too, is the musical score, with its tinkling guitars in the gay and romantic moments, overcast by the ominous blare of the brasses during the bullfighting scenes.

In the excellent supporting cast, Nazimova, J. Carrol Naish, and Laird Cregar are especially commendable, with John Carradine standing out as the devoted follower who shares Mr. Power's misfortunes. You'll enjoy "BLOOD AND SAND" as a sheer spectacle, and there's nothing in the story or screen effects that needs to be kept from the children.

Columbia's preview offering this week was "NAVAL ACADEMY," featuring Freddie Bartholomew, Jimmy Lyon, and Billy Cook.

This is the story of a state naval school where boys are prepared for Annapolis, with Freddie Bartholomew as the son of a navy family, Billy Cook as the spoiled heir of wealthy parents, and Jimmy Lyon as the recent product of a reform school. Each of the boys reacts differently to the haughty of the upper-classmen, and each of them eventually runs into trouble of his own making, but it will be betraying no great secret to tell you that all of them come through handsomely in the end. Jimmy Lyon has the meatiest part, and must be credited with top acting honors, but the other boys give him the strong support you'd expect from such seasoned young troupers.

Joe E. Brown, Jr., rates a special mention, as do the two faculty officers, Pierre Watkin and Warren Apple. "NAVAL ACADEMY" will appeal especially to the young, of course, but grown-ups will find the story mature enough to be thoroughly enjoyable, as well.

The next picture on my report card is "Shining Victory," starring Geraldine Fitzgerald and James Stephenson. My rating: "B." If you're an A. J. Cronin fan—he's the novelist of "The Citadel" fame, who writes about doctors and love, then I think that "Shining Victory" will be on your must see list. But, if you are not a devotee of heavy dramatic fare—and "Shining Victory" is very dramatic, and very heavy, then you'll stay as far away from this film as you can. It's sad, with the heroine dying in the final reel; it's all about doctors, formulas and one doctor's passion to save all the mentally diseased—in fact it's noble. And while I personally enjoyed much of the film, I'm afraid that it won't have a popular reception. It's very talky, unromantic, and dull in spots—but its theme is so human and wonderful, and the performance by the two stars so dynamic and expert that "Shining Victory" becomes a real, living story.

It's really Stephenson who is the hero and star of the piece. He's the fellow who scored so heavily in "The Letter," who is a little like a combination of Ronald Colman and Walter Pidgeon. Miss Fitzgerald is handicapped because she isn't even allowed to look pretty—and wades through a very tedious and difficult role. "Shining Victory" is a good picture, but one that I cannot recommend to the masses; only those who are starved for heavy dramatics will like it.

HOLLYWOOD CORRAL

By AL ARDMORE

One of the interesting characteristics about the screen's Western stars is that their popularity lasts much longer than the average motion picture celebrity. It's an accepted credo in Hollywood that five years represents the life span for the majority of screen celebrities. By contrast, there are any number of cowboy stars in the limelight who have been playing for years and whose popularity continues to wax undiminished.

One reason for that is the loyalty of the Western fan. He is slower and more conservative in picking his favorites, but once he has put his stamp of approval on a cowboy personality, his allegiance is pledged for a long time to come.

Probably an outstanding example of fan loyalty is Buck Jones, who has been one of Hollywood's ace saddle busters for countless seasons. More than a decade ago, Buck was an established favorite, and through the years he has enjoyed a phenomenal popularity.

Although he might well claim the right to an honorable retirement, Buck's fans won't let him quit, and as a result, this rugged, two-fisted Western star will be featured before the cameras during '41-'42 in a series of eight sagebrush epics for Monogram. Buck's sidekick in his new series will be another veteran of the saddle, Colonel Tim McCoy, and the combination has all the earmarks of being a winning one at the box office.

As any dyed-in-the-wool Western fan knows, the pride and joy of every cowboy star is his horse. Bill Elliott, Columbia's rangy star, underwent an experience recently with his prize pinto, "Penny," that almost became a major tragedy for Bill.

Seems that a few months ago, veterinarians advised Bill that "Penny" would have to be destroyed as the result of an accident to its left forefoot. The suggestion, of course, horrified Bill, who immediately set about to see if there was any way of saving the animal.

Bill finally hit upon a special harness for "Penny," that permitted the horse to stand or lie down without putting any weight on the injured foot. Meanwhile, he had the veterinarian visit the stable every day and treat "Penny."

At first there was no visible improvement, but in time, "Penny" began to respond and after several months, the veterinarians who were ready to give the horse up as hopeless, pronounced him fully cured.

Needless to say, Bill was overjoyed that he had been able to save "Penny," even though in the cost of treating the animal came to twice his market value. Bill's love for "Penny" is typical of the affection that exists between the cowboy stars and their steeds.

Rufe Davis, portly comedian in the "Three Mesquiteers" series was hit by a falling lamp on the set of his current picture "Saddlemates," and knocked to the ground and bruised. As he arose, one of his fellow players remarked that he ought to be able to get considerable damages from the accident.

"Damages my eye!" Rufe retorted. "What I want is repairs."

ON THE SETS

WITH REED JOHNSTON

From observations taken on the "Sullivan's Travels" set this week, the attire worn by Joel McCrea

Joel McCrea Sturges, who, of course, writes his own screenplays, has contrived to get Mr. McCrea into an ill-fitting suit of the 1905 vintage, and Miss Lala into the tattered garments of a hobo.

In a box-back suit, high, stiff collar, tightly creased hat, and cloth-topped button shoes, Mr. McCrea was doggedly resisting the attentions of Esther Howard, portraying an over-ardent widow, of mature years, and it was indicated that he had inherited the wardrobe of her deceased husband, Joseph, whose photograph, life-size and draped in black, hung over the mantelpiece.

"Good night," said Mr. McCrea firmly, preparing to close the door of his room.

"Don't let the skeeters bite," was the coy response from Miss Howard.

"I won't," he replied, and closed the door.

To the casual observer, this seemed a comparatively easy scene to shoot, but Director Sturges was dissatisfied with the timing, and his assistant was loud in his requests for silence. So loud, in fact, that he, himself, to the immense satisfaction of all concerned, was requested to be a little less noisy about it.

"I'll have to have silence from my assistants, too," said Mr. Sturges pointedly, and finally the scene was taken in a tomb-like quiet.

Incidentally, the photograph of the deceased husband previously mentioned was posed for by the "Sullivan's Travels" producer, Mr. Paul Jones—which is noteworthy as being one occasion where a producer gets something in a movie besides his money.

Meeting the Stars

With VICTOR BOESEN

In average circumstances, the girl who looked like the late beautiful Jean Harlow would rightly be deemed to have an advantage over the other girls in the block, but not so in the case of Miss Jean Phillips.

Jean's resemblance to Harlow was so marked that it got her a job as Harlow's double, and there are those impulsive souls who would consider this a considerable triumph in itself; but to look like somebody else in the movies is a very grave misfortune indeed. Not only is such a person kept from going forward, but there has been an instance or two in which he has been bribed to get out of town, or, that falling, downright threatened.

Jean's troubles didn't run to quite that length, but she couldn't seem to do much good in pictures. After appearing in M-G-M's travesty, "Student Tour," a few years ago, she quit that studio in disgust. The whole business had left a dark green taste in her mouth, and she would have sold out worth the money to any other kind of employment, but she somehow soon found herself at Paramount, and there now seemed every reason to hope for some progress.

But, alas, it was now decided that she looked like Ginger Rogers! It was all beginning to have the earmarks of a conspiracy of the gods, for, while Ginger Rogers and Jean Harlow were never conceded to bear any mutual resemblance, Jean Phillips looked like both.

At lunch with Miss Jean the other day, we studied the matter with such wide-eyed enthusiasm that we scarcely got on with our eating—and we can therefore report with unflinching authority that Jean Phillips is very close to Harlow in appearance, but . . . and for this reason . . . not to Ginger Rogers.

The three have one thing in common: they all belong to that which it is a joy forever to behold, but Jean needs to borrow nothing from the others; and you will be able to see this for yourself presently, for Paramount has come awake and cast her in two pictures in a row. One is "The Sheik of Buffalo Butte" and the other, "Among the Living."

When you see either of these, you'll wonder how Jean Phillips could have been among the living all this time without more notice. Yes, indeed!

The fire that swept over the open wharves sent flames and heavy smoke into the sky.

Great stores of lumber and steel were threatened.

The fire evidently started, police said, in crates piling aboard a freight train ready for loading on barges for transportation to New York.

The piers and open wharves adjoining are just south of Black Tom, scene of a historic World war explosion and fire.

They are in the Greenville terminal, major freight yard for New York in the Pennsylvania system. Nearly two miles south-southwest just north of the Bayonna city line.

Odessa Ready For Oil Show

ODESSA, May 28.—The second annual Little International Oil Show, to be held in Odessa, June 21-22, will be the largest oil show in the nation this year with more than three times the amount of space sold to exhibitors over that of last year's first exhibition.

Four weeks in advance of the opening of the Little International Oil Show 88 supply and equipment firms have signed for space totaling 29,000 square feet. Inside space available for the second annual show has been trebled through the construction of two new buildings on the grounds.

The unqualified success of last year's show brought immediate requests from oil field supply, equipment, and servicing firms for additional facilities.

The demand has been met through improvements costing more than $150,000. They include the two additional exhibit buildings, a well-lighted midway, two miles of hard-surfaced roads within the grounds, and complete stage furnishings for the spacious auditorium located on the grounds.

Big Spring Boys Fiddle Their Way Through College

Like Tommy Tucker, who played for his supper, H. C. Burnett, Jr., and Berlie Fallon of Big Spring have been playing their way through Daniel Baker college at Brownwood.

Masters of almost any string instrument, the two young men have earned their tuition at Daniel Baker with their musical talents. Typical of their offerings was a chapel program last Friday in which Berlie swapped his violin frequently for a guitar, and H. C. alternated between a guitar, banjo and ukulele. Versatile artists, they range from the sweet to the hot.

While earning their tuition with music, both Berlie and H. C. work at other jobs to earn necessary expenses. H. C. works as a bus boy at a Brownwood hotel and Berlie had a job with a picture show. During the three months Harley Sadler kept his show in Brownwood, H. C. appeared as a regular artist.

Although they work long hours and take on as many jobs as they can get, both have unusually high scholastic standings. Berlie, an honor student while in high school here, continues to hammer at a straight A card and H. C. never makes less than a B and makes far more A's.

Both probably will return here the latter part of next week to spend the summer. H. C. is a freshman and Berlie a sophomore.

Jumbo, Who Just Wandered In Town, Is Oddest Of Turtles

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Long, 201 W. First St., have something new at their house, but they don't know exactly what it is. It's a turtle.

Downtown Stroller

Looked odd the other night to see the senior students walking about town nonchalantly with their caps on their heads en route to baccalaureate....

Mrs. Farris Bass Gives Program For Culture Club

Mrs. Farris Bass presented the program for the Child Culture club Tuesday at the First Methodist church when Mrs. H. B. Culley and Mrs. Ellis Corum were hostesses.

Miss Bass talked on "The Widening Fellowship." A picnic for June 10th was planned at the home of Mrs. Harold Bottomley at 7:30 o'clock when members and husbands will attend.

Others present were Mrs. Joe Pickle, Mrs. King Sides, Mrs. Samman Smith, Mrs. Iva Huneycutt, Mrs. Bottomley, Mrs. J. T. Arthur, Mrs. O. B. Bryan.

They know, but it is the oddest looking turtle anybody ever saw. First off its back is red and on top of the turtle's back are a pink and a blue head. Mr. Long calls them stars and that's what they look like.

Mrs. Long was sitting on the porch when she heard a disturbance. The hens were cackling and she went out to investigate. The strange looking turtle that they have named Jumbo was causing all the racket.

Mrs. Long thought at first that the turtle had just been painted red, but when they tried to wash off the color, it wouldn't budge. They even tried acid. And the heads—they tried to pry them off but couldn't move them.

This Jumbo is even peculiar on the underside with a brown and white striped shell and the front legs of the turtle are also scented with the red to match his back.

Word has gotten around the neighborhood and a steady stream of people look and declare, "I never saw anything like that before," and Mr. and Mrs. Long echo their sentiments.

Jumbo, wherever he came from and wherever he was going, is certainly a new and different variety. He may be a fake, the Longs thought so at first, but if so, he's faked so genuinely that they can't prove it on him.

The Longs are hoping somebody will come along that can tell them what sort of a turtle Jumbo is. But whatever he is out of the ordinary!

The Effects Of Alcohol Cannot Be Repealed

It happened in a Tennessee town some time ago. A citizen had a practical idea. Being a man of action he put that idea to work, and with far-reaching results.

He ordered a quantity of total abstinence pledges. He was pastor of one of the town churches, and on Sunday he took a supply of the pledges to the church, and earnestly challenged his congregation to join him as pledged total abstainers. The challenge was accepted; there were many signers.

Looking over the pledges the minister found the names of several visitors from a sister church. These he sent to their pastor who promptly ordered 500 pledge cards for his own congregation. The movement swept the churches of the town.

The leader was greatly encouraged. With a supply of pledge cards he went to the high school where 400 young Americans were forming attitudes and habits. The principal was in hearty sympathy, and the pupils were invited to become pledged abstainers. Three hundred fifty of the 400 gladly accepted the challenge.

One popular girl in whose home wine had been occasionally served told her parents that henceforth she must be counted out on wine. The parents respected their intelligent and popular daughter. They carefully considered the question, poured out the wine in stock and followed their daughter's lead.

Public sentiment grew. Total abstinence became a popular ideal. Agencies tempting to drink seemed a nuisance and a menace. A vote taken some time later showed that the citizens were unwilling to have beverage alcohol dispensed in their town.

This actually happened in Marietta, Tennessee. It might happen in any town in any state if a wise and respected leader would initiate a similar movement. Submitted by and published at the request of the local WCTU.

O'Daniel To Open Campaign With Waco Address June 2

Little less than two years from 1880. At times as much as six miles of track were laid in a single day.

In the race westward, the Southern Pacific reached Sierra Blanca first and extended to El Paso over the T. & P. route with the result of suits. A settlement enabled a working agreement whereby the T. & P. acquired in perpetuity equal rights for track between Sierra Blanca and El Paso.

In those early days locomotives were tiny affairs and rails narrow and light steel strips. Service, while a vast improvement over the wagon method, was poor by comparison with modern standards. But gradually the T. & P. developed and rebuilt shops here after two destructive fires.

Today the Big Spring-Rio Grande point division has been abolished as such, but under the stimulus of national defense work, employment continues at a peak. Today, instead of interrupted and sometimes not too dependable combination service, the railroad offers passenger and freight sections, and now has its truck service.

Candidates Beat Bushes In Wide Area

By The Associated Press

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's announcement that he would get into the open-air senatorial scramble with a public speech at Waco June 2, accompanied by his hill-billy band, headlined the campaign today.

The announcement from Austin brought speculation as to whether his gorgeous white dome-topped stagecoach, veteran of his last successful gubernatorial race, would again be used to transport his barnstorming party. The governor did not say.

In two previous campaigns, he has used the central Texas city as a jumping off place with unquestioned success.

Thus far he has made one radio speech and other "pre-campaign" radio chats from Austin.

Other candidates kept busy. Speaking to a meeting of service clubs at Galveston, Martin Dies called upon the people of the United States to stand united and demanded legislation to put an end to strikes in defense industries.

Dies will speak at Austin tonight. Burnett, Liano and Temple are on the schedule for May 28, and Waco May 30.

"Whatever destiny America has in the black days of this world war lies in the hands of that leader who spoke to us from the White House tonight," Lyndon Johnson said at Tyler last night.

"President Roosevelt is the one I have supported, and shall continue to support when I am your United States senator."

"Britain must not fall and democracy will not be kicked around at the whim of Hitler, that Austrian paperhanger."

Johnson planned to continue his East Texas drive today at Longview.

Paving Approved By City Commission

City commissioners Tuesday evening placed approval on six and a half blocks of new paving and ordered paving certificates issued for them.

Accepted by the commission were four and a half blocks on W. 4th from Gregg past Douglas, one block on Lancaster between 4th and 8th, and a block on State from Wood to 11th.

Commissioners also discussed with Ted Groehl the possibility of working out a paving program along Washington Blvd., the principal thoroughfare of Washington Place.

cial safety. I understand ambition. I know a girl's quickest way through a man. I don't want to be hard on you. Cut this out. Live for others instead of yourself for once. I'll get you work to do."

"Live for others — like Caroline Dempster — or Lewis Deleven? Unscrupulous as to methods? according to a magazine I read?"

"Caroline? I can handle her," he said. "As for me, yes, I'm working for power any way I can. Because I can push this fool country the way it ought to go, when I'm a step or two higher up." His voice roughened, his eyes blazed. "And Martin has to marry a woman who won't help him throw his millions away as he's doing now. Not you, not Caroline. I won't see him ruined."

A hand came down on Eileen's shoulder. Martin's voice, laughing, said, "You two playing statues? Your feet will freeze off, Lew. He caught Eileen's hands and swung off with her. He grinned down. "Mind's not on your work, Eileen. I'm it, not Lewis!"

He skirted like heaven — they were flying. Presently she heard music. He had turned on a radio amplifier wired out to the pond. The waltz music carried them. The sun glittered on Martin's bare bright head. Eileen was back in the enchantment Martin's presence meant.

"Lewis plucking you like a brand from the burning?" he said presently. She almost lost step. She had forgotten Martin's trick of walking into the middle of a situation and making it seem not painful, merely because nothing mattered a lot and most things were amusing.

"Wants me to go home. Must I?" she smiled back.

"Certainly not. The party's just beginning. Don't mind old Lewis. He boomed me when he was my tutor. Terribly important guy — but much better for the world at large than the likes of me. And was the only one I dared trust to check you through . . . I did have to, you know."

"I know. But you believe I'm honest, he doesn't?"

"Why didn't you slap him down? You could. He's a rotten skater."

She laughed with him. "Maybe I'm showing you I can keep my temper and get on with your friends. Even make them want to skate with me. Be a lady under all circumstances — she was half in earnest — "be a good sport — "You are a good sport."

"Oh, if you'll just believe that — just believe I didn't know you from Adam's house cat when you came into Jerry's last June — or anything but your first name until day before yesterday —"

"Sure I believe it. You're a sweet kid!"

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—Aircraft, rail and farm implement shares moved upward out of the ruck of an otherwise irregular market today under the impetus of President Roosevelt's declaration of national policy.

Among the more active gainers were Consolidated Aircraft, United Aircraft, Douglas, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Lockheed, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Amerasia, Continental Baking and International Paper preferred. The last three established new highs for the year. On the loggy side were Youngstown, Westinghouse, Westerm Union, Cerro de Pasco, Armstrong Cork and South Porto Rico Sugar, the last two reaching new 1941 lows.

Negro Pageant Pleases Crowd

Good music, fun and entertainment were provided for the crowd of over 450 persons who attended the representation of "Pearly Gates" at the city auditorium Tuesday night. The pageant was presented by the associated colored churches of Big Spring.

The choir, composed of 75 voices, sang such old spirituals as "Going to Walk All Over God's Heaven," and "No Hiding Place Down There," with depth richness.

The pageant portrayed various pilgrims on their way to the pearly gates where Gabriel and the angels waited for them. But along the route was the Devil, played by the director, A. E. Washington. The Devil in his red costume, won a few souls to his domain while others withstood temptation to get into heaven to the tune of such songs as "Throw Out the Life Line," and "What Are They Doing in Heaven Today."

Outstanding was "I Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," sung by Callie Bush with the choir. Also outstanding was the Devil who provided many laughs during the pageant.

Scout Group Honors Hutto

John R. Hutto, who has been active as scoutmaster of the Latin-American Boy Scout troop here for 10 years, was honored at a district committee meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. W. E. Hardy, district chairman.

Tributes were paid to Hutto by W. C. Blankenship, city superintendent; Stanley A. Mate, field scout executive, and B. Reagan, vice-president of the Buffalo Trail council. Blankenship declared that a substitute teacher, who had been in many of the city's schools made the statement that some of the best teaching in the city had been done at the Kate Morrison school, where Hutto has been principal. The superintendent has added that through Hutto's efforts the school had become a model for its kind in this area.

Mate lauded Hutto for his spirit in serving as a volunteer leader of boys, asserting that "John R. Hutto stands as proof why we do not pay scoutmasters—it would be impossible to pay a man like Mr. Hutto." Reagan, who presented Hutto with a Boy Scout statuette, praised him for his fidelity to boys and to people of the Mexican quarter of town.

Other business at the meeting included reports by Woodrow Wadcock, Blankenship, Carl Blomshield, who said the recent Round Up was the best ever held here, Dr. P. W. Malone, and those read for Pat Kenney and Nat Shick on finance and extension. Emphasis was placed on inaugurating a wider program of cubbing.

Twenty-six men attended the meeting, which featured a barbecue given by Dr. Hardy. It was one of the largest district meetings on record here.

Wool Market

BOSTON, May 28. (USDA) — Domestic wools were very quiet today in the Boston market and demand has slackened on the finer grades of foreign greasy combing wools. A few scattered sales of limited volume were closed on combing three-eighths and one-quarter blood bright fleece wools territory at 46 to 47 cents, in the grease, but it was difficult to secure a maximum price on this range. Fine territory wools quoted firmly at $1.50-1.60, scoured basis despite a very limited outlet.

Here 'n There

Homer F. Bodine of Colorado City is one of 17 members of a 808-man class to receive a double degree at Texas A. & M. college on June 6. He will be presented his bachelor and master of science degrees during commencement.

The navy department advises that the minimum height limit for naval aviation students has been reduced from 5 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 4 inches, which should be good news to many young men who otherwise are qualified for the training. Recently mathematics were eliminated from college credits necessary. More information may be had at the naval recruiting office at Abilene.

Texas fiddlers are pointing for Athens Friday where the 10th annual fiddlers contest and homecoming will be staged. There are between 30 and 40 string bands on hand in addition to a world of fiddle music.

Students will have an opportunity to witness actual demonstrations of chemurgists' ability to make starch and explosives from the sweet potato, paper from the castor plant and rope from bast fiber in a lecture-demonstration course, "Descriptive Chemurgy," slated for June 4-16, at North Texas state Teachers college at Denton.

The first session of the Lawyer's Institute, sponsored by the Ector County Bar association will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. when Paul Moss will open a series of lectures on law pertaining to oil, gas and mineral rights. Attorneys in other towns have been invited to attend.

Citrus Market Law Is Ruled Invalid

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—A proposed new citrus marketing law is unconstitutional, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann ruled today.

He gave the opinion at the request of Speaker Home Leonard of McAllen.

Mann said the bill made "unreasonable and arbitrary classification, discriminating against some producers of citrus fruit and favoring others in the same class and denying those in the same class equal protection of law."

Importance of keeping Hitlerism away from any point in the world which could be used and would be used as a base of attack against the Americas.

"Second, from the point of view of strict naval and military necessity, we shall give every possible assistance to Britain and all who, with Britain, are resisting Hitlerism or its equivalent with force of arms."

In stressing the intentions of the United States to resist attack, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the attack "can begin with the domination of any base which menaces our security—north or south."

"Nobody can foretell tonight just when the acts of the dictators will ripen into attack on this hemisphere and us. But we know enough by now to realize that it would be suicide to wait until they are in our front yard."
