WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DURNO 1940

A lot of the experts have been keeping like banshees over the Republican party since last week's overwhelming vote of confidence in the New Deal.

Believe it or not, the boys who make the Republican wheels go round had their 1936 presidential candidate all picked out long before the electorate marched to the polls last Tuesday.

This advance selection by the fire-pullers isn't altogether complimentary to Vandenberg. Those who would set him up in '38 at this writing think of the next Republican candidate as a burnt offering.

Cooperation Asked In Red Cross Drive

Annual Roll Call Campaign Scheduled To Start Wednesday Morning

A final plea for cooperation and support was voiced Tuesday by H. J. (Red) Cook on the eve of the inauguration of the annual Red Cross roll call here Wednesday morning.

Seeking 1,000 adult memberships, workers under the leadership of zone captains will canvass Big Spring, Coahoma and Foran.

Captains for zones and towns include Shine Phillips and Nell Hatch, Mrs. A. E. Service, Mrs. Wayne P. Rice, Mrs. Harvey Williamson, and Mrs. R. E. Blount; A. E. Thompson of Coahoma; and Mrs. Peterson of Foran.

Cook recapitulated the fact that every adult in Howard county is eligible to Red Cross membership, costing $1. He asked that every adult in each home be represented if possible, instead of one membership for an entire family.

"Every home in Big Spring should display an American Red Cross sticker, as well as every business house in town," he stated. Boy Scout Troop No. 1 distributed publicity material Saturday as a preparatory measure for the campaign. Speakers before the various service clubs and churches were to be appointed by C. T. Watson.

Although Howard county has the largest quota ever assigned to it, leaders were confident it could be reached if people cooperate liberally.

"Our people continue to look to the American Red Cross as the kindly and always helpful neighbor to whom they turn for practical relief agency, with an organization in thirteen thousand American communities, has not and will not fall them.

The difficult twelve months which have elapsed since last November, Red Cross volunteers throughout the land have worked in close cooperation with the Federal, state and local governments in their humanitarian labors. Their

BIG SPRING TAKES OUT BOBCATS 14 - 6

Five Year Jinx Shattered Monday

A hard fighting black and gold Big Spring football machine shattered a five year jinx at San Angelo Monday afternoon before six thousand fans by coming out on the long end of a 14 to 6 count.

The Steer team that fought the Bobcats for the first two quarters was as good as any football squad Big Spring has ever put out, and had it not been for a tough break on the opening play of the third quarter when San Angelo scored on a very unusual break, the Bobcats would doubtless have run up a much larger count.

A stiff defense the first quarter balked the Cats completely. They failed to make a first down until the half was almost up and did not get into Steer territory until way in the second quarter.

The line and secondary functioned perfectly. Tackling, blocking and churning was all there. Jones and Mills looked good at the wing posts, Darwin and Coburn at tackles, Vines and Wilson at guards and Sam Flowers handling the pivot post. Not once was Sam taken out at center, and the line stopped the Bobcat running attack at the line of scrimmage.

Cordill booted fifteen times for an average of 38 yards, and Neel returned eight San Angelo kicks for a total gain of 120 yards.

In spite of widely out-playing the Bobcats, it took a "break" mid-way of the first period to lead to the Steers' first center. It all came about when Wood fumbled Cordill's punt on the San Angelo 25-yard line and Coburn recovered for Big Spring.

Neel ran way back and shot a bullet-like pass to Cordill but it led him a little bit to the back and bounded off his shoulders. Cordill then made a thrust at left tackle for one yard and Neel scampered wide to the left behind good blocking to the seventeen.

On the reverse Hare slipped through to the fifteen for a first down and as Neel started to the left he was hammered for no gain. Then Neel tried a pass to Jones on the goal line but it was a little too high. However, it was good for eleven yards and a first down because of interference. On the next play Cordill whipped into center and went over to score. His kick from placement was good.

Hold Upper Hand... The Steers continued to hold the upper hand, and as the quarter was waning away launched another scoring drive.

Wood kicked to Neel on the Bovine 40 and he returned eight yards, but the play was called back and Big Spring penalized five yards for offense.

Lew Kodrick To Tangle With The Crazy Irishman, Eddie O'Shea

Lew Kodrick, the "little giant from Austria," will tangle with Eddie O'Shea, the tough and crazy Irishman, tonight in the main event at the Big Spring Athletic Club.

Kodrick, known as the strongest welterweight grappler in the world, has been tossing men weighing up to 200 pounds with ease, but may not have such an easy time with O'Shea, who is a "finished" wrestler.

Eddie, who has had hard luck in Big Spring with the officials, will go against Kodrick twice out of three falls with a two hour time limit.

In the semi-final, the youthful Blondy Chrane will wrestle Ken Gaetan, the clever leg grappler from Roswell, N. M. Chrane made a great hit with the fans here a few weeks ago in losing to Gorilla Fogg.

Chrane has been training hard lately, and looks like a coming champion.

The matches begin at 8 p. m. at the Big Spring Athletic club, 403 Runnels St.

Mustangs Prepare For Razorbacks

DALLAS—The Mustangs started preparations Monday afternoon for their battle with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks next Saturday afternoon in Owenby Stadium.

Having suffered a 7 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Rice Owls Saturday, the Razorbacks are coming to Dallas intent on holding second place position in conference standings. The Razorbacks will have their full strength to throw at the Mustangs with several men who have been on the injured list ready to go Saturday.

ODDS AND ENDS—B. H. McLain, Sweetwater principal, who delights in pestering Big Spring school officials, is still questioning the eligibility of Leo "Buckshot" Hare, Big Spring's dashing full-back.

McLain told C. A. Wilkins of Colorado Monday that he desired another committee meeting soon to do some more checking on Hare. McLain made it plain that he wasn't protesting, but just wanted to clear up the mystery.

Mr. Mack said he'd give the department credit for one thing and that was telling both sides of the story. Blondy Cross down at San Angelo wouldn't tell both sides of the tale.

We picked the Steers to win by three touchdowns. It was a good guess even if we did miss the count six points.

We want to go easy on Colorado Nov. 29. They kept their word and cheered for the Steers, but the Sweetwater fans lets us down entirely.

That Steer-Bobcat tussle was a tough game to call. Officials drew pop bottles and rocks from fans on the north side of the field. They threatened to penalize the Bobcats half the distance to their goal line before the rumpus was stopped.

The Steers play their next game Nov. 23 at McCombs. On the 29th of November they play their last district 3 conference game with the Colorado Wolves here. Some fans have the mistaken idea that it won't make any difference whether Big Spring wins those games or not.

The Big Springers will be heavy favorites to win, but should they lose it might cost them the district championship.

The bi-district bout will be played with the district 4 champs—El Paso High. The Steers should be about on even terms there, or maybe slight favorites. El Paso High holds victories over Bowie and Austin, as do the locals.

In the quarter-finals it will be the winner of the Panhandle-Oil Belt section. That's where the fun

Sport Plans

Bill Terry apparently had no idea of tilting a challenge to New York's baseball writers this winter when he got around to reuniting the criticism growing out of the collapse of the Giants in the National league pennant race, but he has done so, nevertheless.

Terry is accused of selfishness in his attitude, inasmuch as he has four years more to go on a five-year contract and has nothing to worry about, personally.

Another critical view is that Memphis Bill has put his boss, Charles A. Stoneham, and the club ownership "on the spot" by his jibes at the newspapermen, his lack of diplomacy and unwillingness to call a spade an agricultural implement.

Wilbur Defends Will... To the defense, meanwhile, rushes Mr. Wilbur Wood, the sports editor of The Sun and a reformed boxing writer, as follows:

"If Terry needs the help of the baseball writers in running the Giants, it might be a good idea for Mr. Stoneham to fire Terry and hire the scribes, who probably can be had for less money."

"The dissatisfaction with Terry goes back to the season of 1933. Memphis Bill started the season with a club that was almost unanimously picked by the experts to finish fifth or sixth. Terry's hint that the Giants might win the pennant was received with loud guffaws. But as the season rolled on, the Giants remained at the top and after winning the flag they defeated the Washington Senators for the world championship."

Four Big Spring Students On Honor Roll At A.C.C.

First six weeks reports of the Twenty-ninth Annual session of the Abilene Christian College show 278 making the honor roll or an average of 90 or above in one or more subjects, according to records in the office of Mrs. Clara Bishop, registrar. This is 77 per cent of the grades which were given.

Fifteen of the 590 college students made 90 or above in five or six subjects, the regular college load, 21 made 90 in four subjects, and 25 were on the honor roll in three subjects. The roll of honor students is posted each six weeks in the bulletin board of the Hardin Memorial building.

Among those on the list of honor students is Margaret Edwards of Big Spring who is listed for honors in biology and education. Joe Edward Davis, Wilford Penny and Eleanor Saunders from Big Spring are also on the honor roll. Joe Edward Davis is listed in four subjects, history, English, French, and Spanish; Wilford Penny in five subjects, English, psychology, geography, French and Chemistry; and Eleanor Saunders in five subjects, English, physics, geography, French and chemistry. Only fifteen students made the honor roll in five subjects and twenty-one in four subjects.

Gorgeous Amaryllis Sure To Grow

The old-time Johnson amaryllis was a favorite house plant for generations, its clusters of big velvety crimson trumpets being a sure-fire winter attraction. We now have amaryllis of this type, double the size of the old Amaryllis Johnson and in a great variety of colors from white through pinks to scarlet and deep crimson and some with handsome stripes. These new hybrids are certain bloomers. All they need is to be planted and set in the window and they will send up their stout stems crowned with a cluster of huge blooms. The bulbs are large and need a large pot of at least 7-inch size, the bulb being covered so that the neck protrudes from the soil.

When potted set them in a sunny window and water just to moisten the soil until the bud starts pushing out of the bulb. In order to get long stems, some growers keep them in the dark until the stem is four or five inches tall before bringing into full light. After flowering the leaves, which are long, broad and dark green, develop and are ornamental. They should be kept in growth after flowering and given plenty of moisture until the following July or August, when they should be given a resting period, letting them become dry. In the fall they will start new growth and will develop their stems in winter again. It is no trouble at all to have fine amaryllis blooms in the ordinary living room.

The old Johnson is still one of the fine ones and can be had at all dealers. Another old-timer of shorter growth both as to flower stem and foliage is Amaryllis Equestris, an orange scarlet, one of the most generous of the whole amaryllis list in blooming, often throwing up two or three stems. Plant a few amaryllis for gorgeous window display this winter. The so-called magic lily that often astonishes those not familiar with it by shooting up a tall stem in late summer crowned with pink lilies is also an amaryllis and a hardy bulb to be planted now. This is Amaryllis Halli and also known as Lycoris squamigera. It makes its foliage in spring and then dies down and disappears. In August and early September, the flower stem appears suddenly from the bare ground, grows rapidly and unfolds its handsome lilies. The crown of the bulb should be about four inches below the surface of the soil and it should be given a good mulch the first season. It is perfectly hardy and never fails to attract admiration and astonishment.

G. O. P. SHERIFF BREAKS TRADITION!

It may have been a democratic landslide throughout most of the country, but in picturesque Brown county, Ind., the folks elected the first republican sheriff in the county's history. CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK, Ore. (UP) — A total of 118,696 people visited Crater Lake during the 1934 summer season, one of the largest numbers in many years. During this time, 10,000 shrubs and trees were planted in the park area.

Wooden Indian Was Solved
PORTLAND, Ore. (UP) — Reports of a man hanging by his neck from the span of the St. Johns Bridge, 200 feet above the Willamette River at the end of a 40-foot wire alarmed Portlanders until police discovered it was a wooden Indian.

100 Volunteer For Transfusion
IRONTON, O. (UP) — One hundred men volunteered for blood transfusions for Earl Martin, who

Advance! Not Retreat!

A SIMPLE REMEDY FOR BOOTLEGGING

I have lived in this neighborhood for eighty years. I worked eight years with and among working people in the mills. I worked eight years with and among college students. I have worked all these years and lived all these years with all sorts and conditions of people, and I want to say that since I became a total abstainer, several years before the war, I have felt freedom and a happiness, a spirit of liberty and a solidity and courage that I never had before.

It is remarkable the way in which even a moderate use of liquor will twist a man's prejudices and judgment. Hundreds of thousands of citizens are doing what I do not understand can be consistently done; and when it comes to arguing the question by the hour, together, thrashing over the Eighteenth Amendment and all that, I walk out. I have saved weeks and months of valuable time by not arguing. I have done one simple but not altogether easy thing. I have stopped drinking. If I do not drink, and you do not drink, and other citizens do not drink, then there will be no bootlegging, and there will be no liquor. That is the whole story to recalled that the Farman pusher type biplane on which she made her first flight flew only 50 miles an hour. The pioneer plane was piloted by Otto Brodie, brother of the famed Steve Brodie, who flew the plane from an improvised field on the southwest side of the city, in the vicinity of the present municipal airport.

DELAWARE WATER GAP, Pa. — Despite her age of 20 months, Viola Kern has shown a marked aptitude for a steeplejack's career. She recently climbed to within two rungs of the top of a 60-foot forest fire observation tower from which her father, Francis Kern, unconscious of her proximity, was looking for smoke on the wooded slopes of the Delaware Water Gap. The father aged several years during the brief time required to effect the rescue.

Punster Parades Politically
LANCASTER, O. (UP)—Martin L. Davey, tree surgeon, and Clarence J. Brown, were gubernatorial nominees in the Ohio election. Charles Fink wanted to take an active part in the campaign, so he paraded Lancaster streets with a sign. It read: "The trees may be rooting for Davey, but the leaves are turning Brown."

Baptist Women Pay Out Memorial Dorm

Mrs. V. Phillips, officer of the Baptist State Executive Board, who represented the Big Spring Association at the Baptist state convention held last week in San Antonio has brought back to Big Spring a report of interest to Baptist women.

Her report is that the Memorial Dormitory was paid out in full. Mrs. J. M. Dawson made the report to the convention. The debt was cleared by the women of the church donating memorials in units of $30. Big Spring raised several memorials.

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTER

Prevent This Condition with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious illness.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Reading and Study Lamp, in our estimation, is the finest reading lamp ever devised. Designed primarily for the desk or study table, it is also most acceptable for in-bed reading.

HAVE YOU RESTFUL LIGHT

when you read in bed!

A comfortable bed, a good book and there you have a certain luxuriousness not easily equalled. But—most of us feel guilty about it because we have an idea that it is hard on the eyes. However, rest assured that you can read to your heart's content if you watch two things—your posture and the light you are reading by.

Posture's easy. Just prop yourself up enough so that you are not lying entirely on the small of your back.

Lighting is easy, too, if you'll provide the right lamp. The best we know of is the Reading and Study Lamp with a good-sized bulb, preferably 150 watts. This lamp throws an even, shadowless light all over your book and spreads enough light out into the room so that there are no sharp contrasts. Or you may use a floor lamp, placed slightly behind you. Either one will make reading in bed a real pleasure indeed with no chance of harmful effects.

This Floor Lamp is ideal for reading in bed or for your favorite easy chair in the living room. It is the last word in attractive, practical lamps. Many styles and colors from which to choose.

Chapter 23 LON'S BIG NEWS

Marian was serving the dessert when Lon drove in, halted them all with a laugh, kissed Marian's unresponsive cheek, quickly turned to the car and asked for food.

"Talk about starved," he said, "I dashed out of here this morning with nothing but a cup of coffee and a slab of bread and butter under my belt, played eighteen holes, and then had to sit in on a business conference."

"Do you call dining with Silver Houston a business conference?" asked Marian, making no move towards the kitchen.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Silver telephoned here half an hour ago. Told us to go ahead with dinner as you were staying there."

"Oh did she?" asked Lon with interest, "well they did try to make me stay, but I balked. I would have called you myself only Silver said McSwain was expecting a long distance call and they were keeping her busy."

Marian believed him; that was what Silver would say and do. She served his dinner while he cleaned up, looked at him as he came in. He was happy. His face was shining with soap and water and small boy satisfaction. His hair was slicked back like that same small boy's in Sunday morning.

He dived into his dinner with an energy that left neither time nor room for talk, and when he had reached the coffee and cigar stage, accompanied them to the post.

He pulled Marian down beside him on the swing seat. "When you hear what I have to tell you, you're not going to look at me like I'd been stealing jam," he teased.

"Better speak up, then," said Steele, "you're in the dog house as far as I'm concerned, too."

"It happened this way," Lon began. "When I met the other three at the club house, McSwain said he wanted to see me after the game. Silver had driven the others over, but she didn't come back, so McSwain had me drive them all to his house. When we got there he asked me to wait while he changed. Silver came in to entertain me while I waited, and it was then I asked to use the telephone to call you."

"It took McSwain nearly an hour to perfect his sartorial elegance, and when he did appear I was about ready to call quits. And then he started talking. Ian, McSwain has been called out of town, to take over another building, and I'm to take full charge of the East Brazos, and have a raise in salary, right away. Now what do you think of that?"

"An you got out your Fall and Winter clothes, have them cleaned by the modern DRI-SHEEN PROCESS of Better Cleaning. We Deliver No-D-Lay Cleaners—Flat Irons Phone 1179 207 1-2 Main that!" He looked around. Steele and Anne seemed satisfactorily impressed, though Anne looked a little dubious. He turned to Marian. She was silent, apparently preoccupied.

Lon didn't press Marian for a reply, but after Anne and her husband had left he turned to her. "Now what's wrong?" he demanded.

"I don't like it, Lon," she answered. "Don't like what?" he asked. "I don't like McSwain's moving out and leaving the responsibility of the East Brazos on your shoulders."

"You mean you don't think I'm capable of handling it?" he added bitterly. "No," she countered. "I mean I don't trust McSwain."

"Oh . . . that." He dismissed her remark as having no significance, but added, "I don't suppose I'd receive any encouragement from my wife." And when Marian didn't reply, "I suppose you're peeved because I stayed over there and didn't call."

"Please Lon," she dreaded another argument, "let's not discuss it. You know how I feel about Silver and about McSwain. I can't blame you for Silver's lies, nor for McSwain's lack of honesty . . . but oh, Lon, she stopped on her way to the kitchen with a stack of dishes, "do be careful."

"Careful!" there was a bit of a sneer in the world, "if I didn't love you, I'd think you were a little off on some subjects."

The thin veil of suspicion which had been spun the previous week was again dropped between them. Lon went to the patio with the Sunday papers and his pipe and did not offer to help Marian with the dishes, a Sunday custom. And Marian, carefully dousing the precious ware in sudsy water, scalding the fears from each place and polishing it carefully, stretched her back to the limit of its time.

At length she joined Lon, sitting quietly looked out into the dusk, wonder and worry in her mind. What was McSwain planning to do with Lon? What would she do if she were in his place?

"By the way, Ian," Lon looked up from the sporting sheet, "I stopped by Waki's and told him not to come up tomorrow. McSwain's sending a broken down to see me. He'll buy the crop right on the tree and send his own pickers to take care of it."

Marian caught the retort which rushed to her lips by pressing them firmly together. She waited a few moments, then, sure she had her voice under control, "I don't suppose you'll mind if I have him here to help me in the garden."

"Won't need him," answered Lon, turning back to his newspaper. "Mrs. Houston's head gardener will be over in the morning to give you all the help necessary. He's really McSwain's gardener in case you object." He strolled to look at his wife in surprise.

"Lon," Marian was on her feet, a white anger searing her mind, her heart beating in thumps which seemed to shake her entire body. "I will not have a servant of McSwain's on these grounds while I am here."

"He's coming in the morning," "Lon," she went over to him, "if

NEW CHIEFS OF NATIONAL LEAGUE

Here are the three men chosen to guide the destinies of the National League after their election by club owners in New York. (Associated Press Photo)

he comes I leave. That's final." "You mean you'll stay away while he's here? Oh, Ian, why can't you be sensible."

Marian hesitated a moment. Should she tell him she was having Waki there to protect her from McSwain's servants? No, he'll tell McSwain. It was better that he think she didn't know she was being watched.

"Lon I mean this. This is our home. You have your work, I have mine. Mine is here in the house and in the garden. I'm not trying to hire the men with whom you work. I demand the privilege of hiring the servants with whom I work. If you can't allow me this right, then I'm . . . through."

"I don't suppose it occurs to you that I own this place." "You don't," she retorted, "you're in California. We own this place. There is a community property law which gives me the right to half of it and I'm telling you this. As long as I live here no McSwain servant sets his foot on this property. I have a revolver. Captain Lane of the pistol squad taught me how to use it. I won't hesitate to use it."

"Oh for the love of Mike!" Dejected, beneath which was a fully aroused fury, coated the light slang expression. "Imagine coming home to this!" He stalked into the house, grabbed sweater and cap, stalked out, whistled to the dog, jumped into the car and drove off.

Marian, her temper checked, watched him go, longing frantically to reach out and clutch at his arm, his sweater, anything to hold him there where they could talk . . . could reason. And then the sound of the motor died away in the distance. She was there alone, completely alone.

Why hadn't she controlled her tongue? Why couldn't she have talked to him reasonably, told him she preferred Waki because she'd known him for so many years? She knew why she had been able to do neither. It was because she could see Lon responding to McSwain's advice like a tautly strung harp to a master hand; because McSwain had now succeeded in having a close watch placed over her movements under the guise of generosity in loaning Lon the Houston's head gardener.

And then her mind reverted to the question that had been worrying her before Lon spoke. Why was McSwain placing him in charge of the building? She doubted that he was going out of town on business . . . but how could she impress Lon with his danger? She went in to bed, and lay staring at the opaque oblong of the window. Would Lon go to Silver's house? Was he sitting there now with her?

Tonto Coleman, the San Angelo line coach, told me after the game "Flowers is the best defensive back I've seen in years." In addition, to his defensive work and his great blocking Bob calls the plays for the Steers and leads the team as a captain should.

The color lent the game by the pep squads and bands of the two schools added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. Was plenty proud of our pep squad and band. The stunt our girls put on between halves went over big with the San Angelo folks as well as the local fans.

Which brings us down to that contest between the two drum majores. In the press box we were watching to see who won the contest and everyone agreed that "Torchy" Bright, the Black and Gold struttier, walked off from Otto Grief of the San Angelo band without much trouble. You see, "Torchy's" home is in San Angelo—he's a member of the C.C.C. camp here—and Otto Grief formerly lived in Big Spring, quite a coincidence.

George Neel apparently is the favorite of the team with the ladies—speaking of the fan women, the beautiful women around town. Not qualified to say how he gets over with the high school girls. But after the game we heard one comely matron shriek, "Oh, that George Neel simply thrills me to death, the way he runs."

There was one pitiful thing about that game. I've known Blondy Cross a long time. I thought he would be tough. I thought he had gotten to that stage in the life of a sports writer where nothing perturbed him. I thought that right hander could take it. But, alas and slack, the Great Cross was all but in tears yesterday when the game was over.

Complete realignment of Republican ideas fit those of Senator Bob and Governor Phil of Wisconsin would be heart-rending for many who have followed the G. O. P. banner but the political funerals of last week make such pain "so what?" Certainly something akin to this must be done if the Republicans are to make a serious threat at the Democratic New Deal.

Even should Republican sentiment prevail in this election, there is one hurdle to cross that President Roosevelt himself built. Young Bob LaFollette has been supported by the administration and vice versa ever since 1932. Perhaps FDR knows his deal can be beaten only by a man younger than himself and therefore took Young Bob into camp at an early date.

Democratic Committee railbirds say maestro Jim Farley is thinking about giving some of his brain-trustish colleagues in the New Deal a blackboard talk with dry Kansas as the case in point. If the lesson in political rudiments materializes Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Interior Ickes and Relief Administrator Hopkins are supposed to benefit.

According to the hard-boiled headquarters Democrats the New Deal missed out in the semifinals stage because administration idealists permitted Republicans to play Santa Claus. Senator Arthur Capner and Governor Alf Landon are reputed to have seen to it that Republicans headed virtually all federal government from interfering with their business. This would deprive the hot oilers of one of their most effective weapons.

The industry wishes the federal courts in Texas would make up their minds on this hot oil longer. One judge says he will no longer grant temporary injunctions to producers who want to keep the federal government from interfering with their business. This would deprive the hot oilers of one of their most effective weapons.

Well, sucks, might keep on with this stuff all day. You could write a book about that game, but you've got to quit sometime. Congratulations to Obie Bristol! Guess he wanted to win that game worse than any game he ever coached, and he did. He got the job done, and is Big Spring happy? It's funny how a football victory like that will pep up a town. It's about the best tonic you can find.

Well, be seeing you when we play El Paso, and Amarillo. But, don't forget, Steers, you've got to play McCamey and Colorado, and you can't win a game just by walking out there and yelling boo at the other side. But, poor Blondy Cross, I'm beginning to grieve for him myself. O solo mio!

The G. O. P. inner circle knew months ago it was going to take a beating in the bye-election just tabulated. Among others Ogden Mills warned all his colleagues to be prepared for a Democratic landslide. Republicans in the know have been pointing for 1936 only for publication. Since the Maine results they have been holding their horses for 1938 and 1940.

Well in advance of last week's election, political statisticians for the G. O. P. had prepared a most private chart indicating a mild recession in New Deal popularity this year and re-election of President Roosevelt two years hence. Then in 1938 is supposed to come a decided swing-back in the congressional election followed by a situation in 1940 that will make any Republican nominated a cinch for the presidency.

Though the statisticians were a bit off in their predictions for this year the Republican high command still banks on the rest of the projection. One man whose voice rises high in Republican councils has told his intimates it wouldn't hurt the party at all to elect a president in 1938.

As this seer sees it, the man who gets a White House lease in '38 is bound to be kicked out in '40 because heavy taxes and radical ideas will build turbulence among the public. He is counseling that in 1940 the Republicans can come back in power and stay there for a long time.

There is always one big "if" to this line of reasoning of course. Big business generally will play along with the Roosevelt administration so long as it keeps on a fairly straight road. It will have to do so for its own protection. But there is just a chance that FDR may lose the left wing while reaching for the right—without ever getting the right. Should this happen all bets would be off—and 1936 would become a very important year in the eyes of the fat boys.

Analysis of political trends since well before the turn of the century indicates that salvation of the Republican party would come quick-ly through reconstruction under the hands of the LaFollette brothers of Wisconsin. "Fighting Bob" LaFollette, father of the present mentors of the Progressive party, began writing platform for the Republican party many years ago. Each time he of-fered to run at a national convention he was booted down, but about twenty years later those rejected platforms successively were adopted without question and most of the elder LaFollette's early ideas are now law.

Complete realignment of Republican ideas fit those of Senator Bob and Governor Phil of Wisconsin would be heart-rending for many who have followed the G. O. P. banner but the political funerals of last week make such pain "so what?" Certainly something akin to this must be done if the Republicans are to make a serious threat at the Democratic New Deal.

Even should Republican sentiment prevail in this election, there is one hurdle to cross that President Roosevelt himself built. Young Bob LaFollette has been supported by the administration and vice versa ever since 1932. Perhaps FDR knows his deal can be beaten only by a man younger than himself and therefore took Young Bob into camp at an early date.

Democratic Committee railbirds say maestro Jim Farley is thinking about giving some of his brain-trustish colleagues in the New Deal a blackboard talk with dry Kansas as the case in point. If the lesson in political rudiments materializes Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Interior Ickes and Relief Administrator Hopkins are supposed to benefit.

According to the hard-boiled headquarters Democrats the New Deal missed out in the semifinals stage because administration idealists permitted Republicans to play Santa Claus. Senator Arthur Capner and Governor Alf Landon are reputed to have seen to it that Republicans headed virtually all federal government from interfering with their business. This would deprive the hot oilers of one of their most effective weapons.

The industry wishes the federal courts in Texas would make up their minds on this hot oil longer. One judge says he will no longer grant temporary injunctions to producers who want to keep the federal government from interfering with their business. This would deprive the hot oilers of one of their most effective weapons.

Well, sucks, might keep on with this stuff all day. You could write a book about that game, but you've got to quit sometime. Congratulations to Obie Bristol! Guess he wanted to win that game worse than any game he ever coached, and he did. He got the job done, and is Big Spring happy? It's funny how a football victory like that will pep up a town. It's about the best tonic you can find.

Well, be seeing you when we play El Paso, and Amarillo. But, don't forget, Steers, you've got to play McCamey and Colorado, and you can't win a game just by walking out there and yelling boo at the other side. But, poor Blondy Cross, I'm beginning to grieve for him myself. O solo mio!

NEW YORK

By JAMES MCELLIN Real—Evidence is mounting that the new teamwork between financial leaders and Washington is on the level.

From the bankers' side there has been a decided pick-up in commercial loans the past two weeks—especially in the New York district. Insiders say this credit revival will continue to rise. Also the big banks are beginning to take a genuine interest in promoting the administration's housing program. Still further confirmation is given by the private remarks of responsible bankers that the treasury is practically free to write its own ticket on the terms and amounts of its next financing.

The bankers in turn are satisfied with the government's good faith as expressed in Senator Fletcher's statement that he can see no point to additional financial legislation at present. They realize the president can't say such things himself but they accept Fletcher as an authoritative though unofficial spokesman. It would be hard vital test day after tomorrow in a hearing involving an employee complaint against Clayton Mark & Co. The question of majority rule in collective bargaining is at stake and New York conservatives—both in and out of the steel industry—are deeply concerned about the outcome.

The steel board is expected to follow the example of the National Labor board in the Houde case by affirming the principle of majority rule. If so the courts will be kept busy. The steel industry will fight to the end its precious company unions and will refuse to recognize the authority of an adverse decision unless and until the U. S. Supreme court decides against them.

New York is getting leery of the plan to head off cash payment of the veterans' bonus by cancelling interest charges on bonus loans outstanding. They have a hunch that beneficiaries of farm and home loans would think it a swell idea and demand similar treatment for their own obligations. This would be duck soup for the farm folk. You can see why bankers aren't keen to have the subject brought up. They haven't yet digested what the election figures show on this question.

In the old days Wall Street market letters used to speak sagely of pool operations in this stock or that. It would be bad form to mention such things now since pool operations are outlawed. But they've unearthed a beautiful substitute phrase and refer profoundly to "imitative buying" when a flurry in a certain stock seems to demand explanation. They hope the rose is as alluring under its new name.

service has not been limited to aid in furnishing the actual necessities of life, but has extended to the equally important field of safeguarding public health and of training their neighbors in the proper methods of caring for the sick or the injured.

"At the same time the organization has continued to fulfill its obligation as our agency of relief for every community visited by disaster. "The Red Cross is looked upon as the representative of all of our people in times of distress. In order that it may continue its service to humanity it is highly important that we lend our support through individual membership.

"I hope every one who possibly can do so will respond generously to the Red Cross appeal. "FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President.

Froud of Triple Shot YOK, Neb. (UP)—J. J. Wells can do more with one shotgun charge than many Minnrods can accomplish with a whole box of shells. While hunting near Geneva, Neb., Wells fired at two ducks flying low over the surface and was gratified when he saw he had brought down both. He was astonished, however, a second later to see a large jackrabbit leap from the rushes and fall over dead. He investigated and found part of the charge apparently passed between the birds, killing the rabbit.

"Keep Fighting," His Advice ST. LOUIS (UP)—Discounting the ability of the League of Nations to settle differences between Japan and China, General Tsi Ting Kai, here of the Chinese army in the 1922 march of Japan on Shanghai, told members of his race at a meeting here that the only way to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute "was to keep on fighting."

The Search for VALUE

THE gold or silver miner does much work before his mine is on a paying basis. That's "development work." He carries on in the hope that soon he will come to the pay-streak and will have his reward.

Compare this miner to your reading of the advertisements. Not everything you read is of vital interest to you at the moment. But many thousands of others are reading. One finds a well-recommended suit or overcoat at an attractive price. That's a pay-streak for him. Another rejoices to find a sales announcement of coal, or coke, or furniture. Another wants the latest automobile or radio, and is mightily pleased to find the advertisement that tells all about it.

The advertisements carried in this newspaper are helpful in the business of living. They tell of equipment, appliances, things for personal and household needs. Take note of the things you now have in regular use. What first called them to your attention? It's likely that you first read about them in an advertisement. Other good values await your choosing in the advertisements in this issue.

Dr. Cluster Q. Smith To Be Installed As McMurry College President Soon

ABILENE—Formal installation services for Dr. Cluster Q. Smith, second president of McMurry college, will be held in the college gymnasium on Friday evening, Nov. 16, at 7:30 o'clock, with Bishop Hiram A. Boaz as the presiding officer, and such distinguished visitors present as the Governor-elect James V. Alfred.

Coming as the highlight of the entire four-day program on the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference, which will be in session here November 14-18, is the installation ceremony which will be conducted by Bishop Boaz, and at which time Dr. Smith will be formally inducted into his executive office, duties of which he assumed last July 1.

Dr. Smith left the presiding eldership of the Cleco district of the Central Texas Methodist Conference to fill the vacancy at McMurry occasioned by the death of Dr. J. W. Hunt, founder and first president of the college, on last March 17. Dr. Smith previously served for six years as the superintendent of the Methodist Hospital in Fort Worth. Educational work is not new to him; he has served as school superintendent, pastor, and business man. He holds the Bachelor of Arts degree from Southwestern, as well as the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. He was, at the time of his election as president, secretary of the Joint Commission of the Southwest System of Colleges for the Methodist church of Texas. He is an active Rotarian and past president of the Court of Honor of the Fort Worth Area of the Boy Scouts of America. He is active in the National Hospital association and the Texas Hospital association. He is at the present time an active member of the Board of Directors of the Methodist Hospital of Fort Worth, where he was formerly superintendent.

Presidents, secretaries and registrars of more than fifty colleges and universities of the state, and superintendents of all leading school systems of the state, will be in attendance at the installation services, for which Dr. Charles Claude Selecman, president of Southern Methodist University, only Methodist school in Texas that outranks McMurry in size, will be present to deliver the principal address.

The entire student body of McMurry, led by the Indian band under the direction of Dr. Everett M. Sheppard, the Wah Watawee drum corps, the football squad of one hundred men, the choral and glee clubs of approximately one hundred members, and cheer leaders will hold a brief pep rally at 7 o'clock. Following the pep rally will be a band concert.

Pursuant to the band concert, a processional made up of approximately one hundred and fifty individuals in academic attire, will march from the administration building to the gymnasium. Leading the procession will be Jim McKennis, marshal, followed by Dean G. C. Boswell and James E. Freeman, secretary-treasurer of the college and the Board of Trustees. The procession will also include the Conference Board of Education; the Board of Trustees of McMurry; led by H. O. Wooten and W. J. Fuller, past presidents; Bishop Boaz, Dr. Selecman, President Smith, S. M. Jay, president of the Board of Trustees; and visiting executives of colleges, universities, and public schools of the state. Representatives of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Nashville, Tennessee, will also be in attendance.

Music for the occasion is under the direction of Gypsy Ted Sullivan, dean of the School of Fine Arts of McMurry college. A vested choir of one hundred will proceed the processional to gymnasium.

The Reverend Joe Haymes, president of the Conference Board of Education will offer the invocation. The college choral and glee clubs will give a special anthem, "Unfold Ye Portals", (Charles Gounod) following which Bishop Boaz will conduct the installation and introduce the visiting representatives. The audience will sing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name", just after which Dr. Selecman will deliver his address. The benediction is to be in tableaux and will close the program.

College activities for the week will be climaxed with the McMurry-Southwestern football game on Donaldson Field, Saturday afternoon, October 17.

WE tell you that Chesterfield Cigarettes are made of mild, ripe tobaccos. We've told you about the paper—that it's pure and burns right, without taste or odor. We have said that Chesterfields are made right. The tobaccos are aged, then blended and cross-blended, and cut into shreds the right width and length to smoke right. These things are done to make what people want—a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better—a cigarette that satisfies.

You can prove what we tell you about Chesterfield. May we ask you to try them—that would seem to be fair enough.
