Father, Son Sentenced In Robbery Case

R. L. And Sonny Lamb Plead Guilty Here To Coahoma Store Holdup

R. L. and Alfred "Sonny" Lamb, father and son combination admittedly responsible for half a dozen West Texas robberies since early July, entered pleas of guilty in 70th district court here Monday morning and were sentenced to serve 25 years in the state prison for robbing a liquor store at Coahoma on July 27.

District Attorney Cecil Collings read statements made by both to officers at Guthrie in which they told of robbing the store. The father's story said they were traveling in a Plymouth sedan Sonny had stolen in Midland, that they picked up another man here, and drove to Coahoma where they decided on robbing the store.

Loaded Ten Cases
He said that he drove past, let Sonny and the other companion (under indictment here for the offense) out. After they had time to head up the occupants, he drove to the back and watched while 10 cases of liquor were loaded on a Sonny said that he and his companion held up Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gregg and took some money and liquor after tying the couple with belts and phone cord.

Both Gregg and his wife positively identified Sonny Lamb as one of the two men who came into the store with pistols in hand on the day of the robbery. Gregg said he was clubbed when he attempted to get a better look at the robbers. He said about 20 cases of liquor and $35 in money was stolen.

Sold Liquor
Sonny and his father, in their statements, said they took the liquor to Colorado where they sold it and split the money with the third member of the party three ways. On the stand, Sonny admitted to the robbery and said his father was with him. He would not say who was with him in the actual robbery, and would not say whether his statement in naming the man was correct.

He was released from the state prison only last July 3, he admitted. Since that time he and his father, according to their own confessions, have been engaged in a series of robberies over central West Texas and Oklahoma.

Last Monday the two were given sentences of 20 years and 15 years each at Guthrie after entering pleas of guilty. The fire sentences were on a robbery with firearms charge while the 15-year terms were for an assault to murder count in connection with the wounding of Pinky George, beer parlor operator whose place they robbed.

The two were to be taken by A. L. Barr, crime investigator of the department of public safety, and C. W. O. Hamm, state highway patrol, to Menard where they were to stand trial for murder. Judge Charles L. Klapproth ordered the pair into custody of the special officers.

They sat impassively through the trial, Sonny, 25 years old, constantly chewing gum. His father, 45 years old, thinner and taller, appeared interested in the proceedings but was silent except to plead guilty.

The jury was out only two minutes in arriving at a verdict. District Attorney Collings had recommended a 25-year term.

EXCELLENT TALENT TO APPEAR IN SHOW

Daily rehearsals of the Lion's club musical extravaganza and vaudeville show to be held in the City Auditorium the evening of December 5, are revealing an array of local talent far above the average, according to Doug Doan of KBST, directing the show.

Mrs. B. C. Arnold Moser, contralto, Hollywood Shoppe; Center Point Senneders, Co-Operative Gin and Supply company; Lola Mae Hall, singer, Southern Ice Company; High School Band, J. C. Penney's; and Glen Queen, for the Cunningham & Phillips Drug stores. All other acts who have not yet gone into rehearsal are urged to do so at once.

DEMAND SURRENDER OF CHINESE CITY

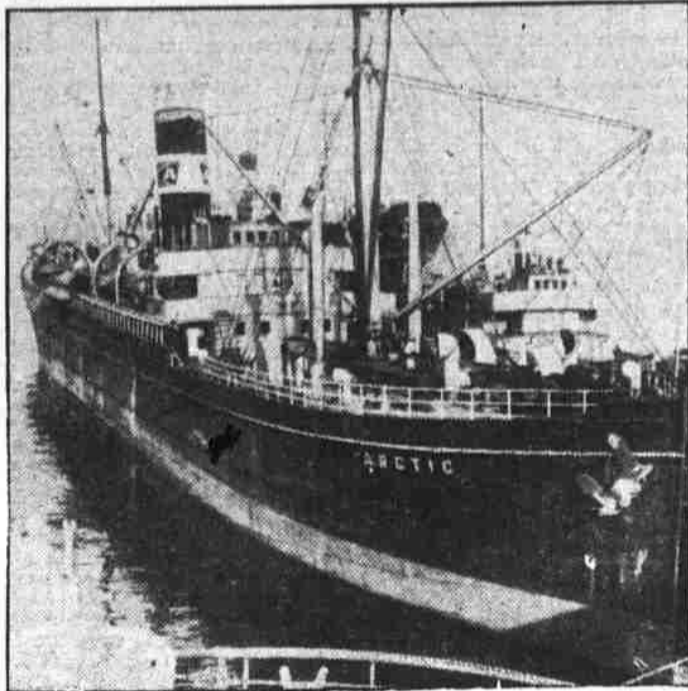

KALGAN, China, Nov. 30. (AP)—Irregular Mongolian commanders from the Chahar province have demanded the surrender of Pailing-miao within 24 hours. It was reported today by General Fu Tso-Yi, Chinese forces captured the city, and who declared he had refused the ultimatum.

President Arrives In Buenos Aires

To Make Opening Address At Peace Conference

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 30. (AP)—President Roosevelt reached here this afternoon for the opening tomorrow night of the 21-nation conference on peace which grew out of his initiative.

The cruiser Indianapolis, which carried the president on his 12-day trip from Charleston, S. C., docked amid cheers to a huge throng on shore and the whistles of hundreds of vessels in the harbor.

President Justo of Argentina, United States Secretary of State Hull and other notables greeted Mr. Roosevelt at the pier.

The president is to make the opening address at the Inter-American peace parley.

Work Is His Program

"Welcome Roosevelt" posters, worded in lyrical Spanish, were plastered over the city, and Argentine flags flew from every home.

For the last several days the Roosevelt program has been undergoing simplification, in part because Mr. Roosevelt wants to get in as much hard work as possible during his stay.

Mr. Roosevelt's cruiser was escorted by the United States Destroyer Phelps and seven Argentine warships.

Following a welcome from President Justo and members of the cabinet, Mr. Roosevelt rode with the Argentine president to the United States embassy in Palermo park.

The embassy has been converted into a miniature White House, with special telephone and direct cable lines already installed.

On Tuesday, President Roosevelt probably will spend the afternoon putting final touches on his speech at the opening inter-American congress ceremony, at 6 p. m. (4 p. m. eastern standard time).

NATION DECLARED IN NEED OF ADDITIONAL WEALTH, INCOME

DETROIT, Nov. 30. (AP)—William J. Cameron told a radio audience last night the United States needs a "crusade to create more wealth" as the solution to its unemployment.

"There is not in this country enough wealth or enough income," the Ford Motor company official said. "Even though you divided it equally—a process that would create more injustice than it cured—still equal division would at least prove to us that there is not enough."

Cameron, commenting that "recently propaganda claimed that two per cent of the people had gobbled up 30 or 90 per cent of the national wealth," asserted that "official figures" show "72 per cent of the nation's wealth is in the hands of the people."

Changes Planned In Programs Of Work Agencies

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (UP)—The administration plans to reduce federal relief spending at least 20 per cent next year by shifting its public work program from an emergency basis to a less costly means of fulfilling its objectives, the United Press was informed authoritatively today.

The new policy, made possible because officials predict relief rolls this winter will be 28 per cent below the depression peak three years ago, features these changes:

1. Revamping the Works Progress administration under Administrator Harry L. Hopkins in care for reduced need; curtailing WPA construction and stressing cheaper white-collar projects as skilled workers are called to private industry.

2. Tapering off of PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes' public works administration grants and loans to political subdivisions for non-federal buildings; possibly using WPA to finance regular government activities such as flood control, reclamation and power developments.

3. Continuing the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration, the latter under WPA.

The shifts were submitted in general terms to President Roosevelt reportedly receiving his approval because they will help him move the federal budget nearer to the balance line in the next 12 months.

The basic reason for the decision that relief expenditures next year could be held down rested in the fact that relief rolls are declining.

There were 5,316,000 families and single persons—more than 20,000,000 individuals—depending on the government for a livelihood in January, 1935, when need was greatest. The number dropped to 4,796,000 a year later.

Increased Employment
Increasing employment of jobs by business and industry during 1936 brought this confident prediction from Hopkins as he surveyed probable need throughout the nation this winter:

"I would think that we will go into January with 1,000,000 cases less on relief rolls in the U. S. (making a total of 3,796,000 families and single persons) below January, 1935."

The complexion of the relief rolls is changing, however, as privileged in their trades or with the best physiques. The result is that the nation's needy population lists an increasing number of aged persons.

Defends Hike In Oil Quotas

Thompson Says Other States Can Do So If Same Demand Exists

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30. (AP)—Col. E. O. Thompson, chairman, said after a preliminary interstate oil compact commission meeting today that there would be no break between the six participating states because Texas increased her December allowable 66,000 barrels daily over the federal bureau of mines recommendation.

Thompson said Texas had a legitimate demand and it would not be fair to her own operators to deprive them of the market; and that Texas had no objection to other states increasing their allowables under the same circumstances.

HOUSTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Big company executives and independent operators reached here Sunday were unanimous in supporting increases in the Texas allowables above the bureau of mines estimate for December and in deriding threats of an "oil war" emanating from Oklahoma and other midcontinent oil states.

"Oklahoma trying to jump on Texas would be like Mexico trying to jump on the United States, as far as who has the ammunition is concerned," one highly placed official remarked.

That Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the interstate compact commission, as well as of the Texas railroad commission, had done the "right thing" in boosting the Texas December allowables approximately 66,000 barrels above that for November and 66,000 barrels above the bureau's consumption estimate for the period and should "stick by his guns," was the emphatic opinion of all oil men queried.

"If they want a battle over cheap oil," declared one producer, whose opinion was echoed by others, they can have it, because we have the cheap oil, and they don't."

Willson Here As Manager Of Radio Station

Miss Dorothy Demaree Is Named Program Director For KBST

KBST's manager, J. F. Willson, was on the job today.

Willson arrived in Big Spring Sunday night to assume his position as director of the Big Spring Herald Broadcasting company's new 100-watt station which is scheduled to go on the air in a few weeks. He will supervise final studio and program arrangements preparatory to the opening of the station.

Willson, a former resident of Big Spring, was greeting old friends and making new acquaintances today, and looking over the studio and transmitter site facilities. The radio manager formerly was connected with the Texas Electric Service company and the R&R theatres here.

Willson comes here from Fort Smith, Ark., where he was manager of station KFPW. He has had several years' experience in radio work, having been connected with other southwestern stations prior to joining KFPW.

On his arrival in Big Spring, Willson announced the appointment of Miss Dorothy Demaree of Tulsa, Okla., as program director for KBST. Miss Demaree is expected to be here by the weekend to assume her duties, assisting Willson in arranging KBST's daily broadcasts. An able musician and experienced in radio work, Miss Demaree is at present connected with the Robert Boyce Carson music studios in Tulsa. She has been associated with station KVOO at Tulsa, and worked with Willson at KFPW. Miss Demaree also served as accompanist for Alice Joy, well known radio singer.

Govt. Claims Madrid Safe

Loyalists Read To Turn From Defense To Attack On Rebels

MADRID, Nov. 30. (AP)—Insurgent planes raided the capital twice today, bombing government lines in the University City section along the Manzanares river.

Fascist planes then wheeled back to their bases without attempting to bomb the city's center.

Failure to take advantage of "perfect bombing weather" for an attack on the heart of Madrid was taken as an indication that the back of the insurgent offense had been broken. Opinion was felt throughout the capital, and in formed circles said the government was considering turning its defense facilities into an attack to put an end to the city's siege.

"The initiative is now in our hands," the Madrid defenders declared, as bright sunshine made the capital again a clear target for fascist warplanes after a day of rain.

Socialist troops were reported attacking the Burgos front today, at northern Oviedo, in the Guadarrama mountains northwest of the capital, and near Talavera de la Reina—a fascist stronghold in the southwestern sector.

Advices from Gijon said Asturias miners, consolidating forces after steady advances in the past few days, were ready to march in vigorous offensive against the provincial capital on the Bay of Biscay.

HAD WORKED HERE
R. A. Marshall, Jr., victim of a Sunday night traffic crash in Abilene, was well known in Big Spring, having worked at the Radford Grocery company here for some time. Reared in Coahoma, he was graduated from the high school there in 1934. He joined the Radford company here, immediately following, working until he returned to Big Spring to work at Radford's last summer. While home for the Thanksgiving holidays, he came to Big Spring Friday to see friends.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Marshall, and a brother, Ralph, who is in high school at Coahoma. The father is connected with the Oliver Tractor company.

An Eberley Funeral coach went to Abilene Monday morning to return the body to Coahoma, where funeral rites will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Coahoma Boy One Of Two Students Killed In Crash

Three Others In Hospital After Abilene Mishap

ABILENE, Nov. 30.—Two students of Hardin-Simmons university were dead today and three persons were under treatment for injuries as a result of an auto collision in fog at a street intersection here last night.

The dead were Robert A. Marshall, Jr., 18, of Coahoma, a sophomore at the university; and Wanda Day, 18, of Anson, a freshman student.

Injured were G. A. Mahler, Jr., of Claude, a Hardin-Simmons sophomore who was driving one of the cars; his sister, Coma Beryl Mahler, freshman in the school; and Inez Lollar of Anson. The three were in a hospital here. Condition of the two girls was not serious, but Mahler, who suffered severe head and face injuries, was badly hurt.

At Highway Intersection
Fred Smith of Claude, another occupant of the same car, and A. D. Pylant of Coleman, driver of the second machine, were released from the hospital after receiving emergency treatment for cuts and bruises.

The mishap occurred at the corner of Pine street and Anson avenue, at the northeastern edge of the city. The intersection marks the crossing of highways I-A and 4-30. Mahler, apparently misjudged the intention of the other approaching car, in which Pylant was riding alone, and turned to the left.

Young Marshall and the Day girl were riding on the side of the car which was struck broadside and received internal injuries. The mishap occurred at 11:30 p. m. Marshall died at 3 a. m. and Miss Day an hour and a half later.

Heavy fog obstructed the vision of both drivers.

The group of university students had returned last night from their homes after the Thanksgiving holidays, and had started to Anson to pick up the luggage of one of the girls, expecting to return immediately to Abilene. Fred Smith, a friend of the Mahlers, had come from Claude to return the Mahler car, a new machine, today.

The body of Marshall was to be returned to Coahoma today, and the body of Miss Day was taken to Anson.

Funeral services for young Marshall, it was announced here, will be held in Coahoma at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Hardin-Simmons will send representatives to the services. A memorial service will be held at the student convocation at 10 a. m. Tuesday. University officials, expressing sorrow at the deaths, said both Marshall and Miss Day were able students.

Another Disappearance
Meanwhile at Brownsville, Santiago Saurez, Mexican consul, tried to solve the disappearance of two Mexicans in the same vicinity last Feb. 28. He asked officials at Villa Juarez, Mexico, to help find Guadalupe Salinas Garza reported seen with the men, Jesus Rivera and Reyes Ramirez, about the time they vanished. Saurez said he believed Garza could aid in the investigation.

Saurez previously had asked Texas rangers investigating the Blanton case to extend their search to include the other missing men.

The search for the Blantons shifted to the Yturria property after repeated attempts to find clues on the King ranch failed.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller, spokesman for the latest posse, said the villagers would not quit until "we get results."

Members of the households of the modest Blanton farm homes clung to a faint hope that the men would be found alive.

The brush fringe that marks the great King ranch can be seen from the Luther Blanton residence. It was across that fringe the two farmers went to hunt ducks on the forbidden property.

Alliance Held Equivalent To Arms Accord

England, However, Unwilling To Form 'Conflicting Camps' In World

(By the Associated Press)

France, Great Britain and Belgium have formed what virtually amounts to a military accord, informed Paris sources said today, interpreting the pact as signalling a new western European alliance.

While it was reported that French Foreign Minister Delbos would announce the accord Friday, returning Britain's assurance that the powers will come to each other's aid to repel unprovoked aggression, a statement of Foreign Minister Anthony Eden of England that his country was opposed to dividing the world into conflicting camps dampened French hopes.

League of nations circles expressed fears that Spain's appeal to the council against the fascist central European powers — Germany and Italy—would further embroil the international situation.

Russia disclaimed the need of any foreign aid. President Molotov of the soviet council made such a statement after the announcement that Russia's air strength soon would reach at least 100,000 pilots in answer to Germany's claim of 70,000 fliers.

Meanwhile, communist attacks against the government brought a new crisis in France.

Japan To Boost Forces To Equal Russia's

TOKIO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Japan, joined with Germany in a pledge against communism, made known today her desire to build quickly an army equal to that of soviet Russia.

The huge armament is necessary, the war office declared, to "prevent war and to hold Japan's lifeline on the (Asiatic) continent," against both China and Russia.

A pamphlet setting forth the war ministry's ambitions was avowedly intended to prepare the nation for large-scale increases in the country's armaments—almost half of the 1938-37 budget appropriation approved last week by cabinet was for armaments.

The army was given $205,000,000 and the navy $194,480,000.

Navy To Be Enlarged
Japan, through Admiral Osami Nagano, minister of marine, announced Saturday that the navy also will be enlarged as soon as parliament approves the new budget estimates.

The war office pamphlet asserted: "Consideration of the military strength of the Soviet Union and China shows that Japan's continental armaments, so important for national defense, are extremely inadequate. Both to prevent war and to hold Japan's life line on the continent, replenishment of military armaments is a matter of urgent necessity."

"The Far Eastern strength of the Soviet Union in time of peace is 15 divisions of infantry, 1,000 or so airplanes, divided into more than 100 air units, and about 1,000 tanks. In addition, the Soviets have constructed impregnable fortresses on the border and are in a position to pounce on Manchoukiao at a moment's notice, glancing across the frontier with the eye of a tiger. (Moscow said today her army has 7,000 airplanes.)"

JUDGE CONSIDERING FIRST TEST CASE ON JOB INSURANCE

BOSTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Federal Judge Sweeney took under advisement the first test case of the unemployment provision of the social security act.

The suit was brought by a stockholder of the Boston and Maine railroad who sought to prevent payment by his company of the insurance tax. The suit claimed the levy was not for the general welfare; was not uniform and was not an excise tax.

FIRST ENTRIES ARE LISTED IN CONTEST IN CONNECTON WITH VISIT OF SANTA CLAUS

Three young women were entered by as many firms today in the contest to select a "Mary Christmas" during the Yuletide celebration here Dec. 8.

They were Minnie Belle Williams, representing the Club cafe, Janis Lee Meador, representing La Mode, and Clarinda Mary Sanders, representing The Herald.

Other names will be entered by several merchants and will compete for the title which carries with it a gift from Santa Claus.

Entries will appear in the parade at 2:30 p. m. Dec. 8 when Santa Claus will be here with his sleigh and two live reindeer.

The winner of the contest will be determined by ballots to be carried daily in The Herald. Those ballots may be clipped out, the name filled in, and brought to the chamber of commerce office for tabulation. There is no limit as to the number of times a person votes. Ballots may be cast as many times as coupons are clipped from any copies of the papers. The accompanying coupon may be used

My choice for "Mary Christmas" is (fill in blank with one name only) _____

The winner will be honored by Santa Claus on the night of December 8, and all contestants will appear in the parade with him. Leave this ballot at the chamber of commerce office, or in designated boxes in cooperating stores.

Around And About Sports Circuit By Tom Beasley DEWEY MAYHEW'S Abilene Eagles will have a bi-district breather this week-end with El Paso high school... if past records are any indication, El Paso, because of a number of high schools, has never gone far in football. If everything runs true to form Abilene and Amarillo will meet in the state quarterfinals, and our guess now is that Amarillo will be favored, but not by a wide margin.

CHANCES ARE Amarillo sportsmen will make an attempt to "buy" the game, but the Abilene treasury is brim full and the Abileneans can do a little "cash talking" themselves.

FOOTBALL SUITS ARE PUT AWAY

Big Spring high school gridder, who completed their 1936 schedule with a record of five victories, four losses and one tie, have turned in their suits and will take to the hardwood next week for the basketball campaign. Football lettermen will probably be named this week. Head Coach George Brown said. He expects to letter eighteen or nineteen players. Most of the strong teams in the Oil Belt football race this season are losing their stars. The district champion Abilene Eagles will lose their star bell-juggers, Herman and Kimbrough, and the Breckenridge Buckaroos will be minus the services of Rector and Magness. The San Angelo Bobcats, who played the Eagles for the district title, will be forced to rely on hefty, experienced reserve material. All of the Bobcats who started against Abilene completed their high school football eligibility in that game. Ends and tackles will be weak spots in the Big Spring grid machine next fall.

CAGE PROSPECTS

With the return of five or six lettermen, Steer basketball prospects are considerably brighter than they were last season. Among the boys due to report to Coaches Brown and Brandon for basketball: Bigony, Howard, Wilson, Smith, Poe, Woods, Burrus, Rayburn and Williams. Bob Cooke, Sweetwater Reporter: First team: Billings (S. A.) left end. Joeris (Abilene) left tackle. Taylor (Sweetwater) left guard. Buck Sloan (Breck.) center. Bob Beam (Abilene) right guard. ADD SEPT—ROUND AND BOUT. HERE ARE ten rules of safety for hunters which, if followed to the letter, would probably cut down the number of serious, or fatal, hunting accidents which happen each season.

- 1. Never enter an automobile, boat, train, or bus with a loaded gun. 2. Never point a gun at any person even in jest. "I didn't know it was loaded" has become the fool's excuse at many an unnecessary funeral. 3. Never hunt with anyone you know to be careless. 4. Never load your gun until you are actually ready for business in the woods or field is time enough. 5. Never consider a rustle of a bush to be sure indication of game. Offer a human being may be passing along. 6. Never shoot too hastily. By doing so many an overzealous hunter has killed his best friend or best dog instead of the rabbit. 7. Never drag your gun under a fence with the muzzle pointed toward you. Put it through the fence, muzzle first, and lay it flat on the ground before you climb through or over the fence. 8. Never rest on the muzzle of your gun or place it on the toe of your shoe. 9. Never let the muzzle touch the ground, dirt or mud in the end of the barrel makes a firearm unsafe.

BROWN'S PAINT 'FOR RENT' ON CELLAR HOME

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (UP)—The St. Louis Browns, only team in the major leagues which never has won a pennant, looks forward to a particularly bright future in 1937. It's a cinch they're now going to break their record losing streak, and they intend to provide plenty of trouble for the teams that seek to keep them in the cellar. Now under new ownership, with increased financial backing, the Browns expect to take a new lease on life. The new syndicate, a group of 19 sportsmen headed by Donald Barnes, is reported to have an aggregate financial backing that runs into millions. At the American League meeting in Chicago which culminated in the sale of the Browns, the managers of the Hartridge loop also consented to allow the Browns to arrange a limited schedule of night games. Rogers Hornsby, manager of the club since 1933, and who had signed a new three-year contract former agreement which called for a share of the gate receipts and substituted a substantial raise in salary. His reported salary for 1936 was $18,000. The Browns now have a reserve fund of $175,000 with which to buy players, and with the wily "Trader" Hornsby in charge, may be sure of getting their dollar's worth. It was largely the smart trading by Hornsby, notably in 1935, that enabled the club to finish on the credit side of the ledger by a small margin. In 1922, the only banner season in the history of the club, a profit of $230,000 was realized. After Phil Ball's death, a tax report showed that in four years, from 1930 to 1933, he lost $324,000. The club has had a varied career and among its former managers was one of baseball's shrewdest men—Branch Rickey, now major-domo of the Cardinals. Rickey went over to the revamped Red Birds in 1915, after being with the Browns two years.

McLarnin Set For Another Ross Battle

Jimmy To Swing Leather With Barney For 4th Time

McLarnin looked good in giving the lighter Ambers a sound lacing as well as an artistic boxing lesson. "I guess the showing Jimmy made against the speedy Ambers proves that my boy is not too old for the fight game," Foster commented. "He merely needs more work than he has had in the past couple of years to keep his legs in shape."

McLarnin's fine comeback against Canzoneri and Ambers paves the way for a fourth meeting with Barney Ross. Ross was successful in two of their three encounters. First Ross won the welterweight title from McLarnin, lost it the second time they met and regained it in their last meeting.

Little things that brighten the life of a cartoonist on a dull Monday morning:

In the pile of press notices and assorted letters left by the mailman is a "thank-you" note signed "Ollie." It comes after a cent cartoon in which we had a drawing of Elmer Oliphant, one of the greatest lineplungers in football. Oliphant was a great football player at Purdue before he donned the moleskins at West Point, and wrote one of the most brilliant chapters in Army's gridiron history. His amazing deeds in the Army-Navy and Army-Notre Dame series 20 years ago won him a place among the Cadet gridiron greats of all time. The note carries an added thrill because Oliphant was one of our own boyhood heroes. Today Oliphant is an executive of a large insurance concern and, while the passing years have matured him, he still looks fit and capable of plowing through a line for a long gain.

Paul Dec, captain of the Manhattan college cross-country team, takes time out from his studies to write: "A note of expression of my sincere thanks for your kindness expressed in your recent drawing of me. This was one pleasure I had hoped for in a deep corner of my heart these seven years under Coach Peter Waters. Its fulfillment has been well received and appreciated; again—thanks ever so much." You're mighty welcome, Paul. Doe Develops

It is a pleasure to watch a boy like Dec develop into an athlete capable of leading his teammates in intercollegiate competition and to recall how, as a spindly-legged prep school youngster, he reported to Coach Waters with ambitions to become a track star. He had little to recommend him seven years ago. Weighing slightly more than a hundred pounds, he looked so frail that his coach ordered him to take cod liver oil for a while before attempting any sport as strenuous as foot-racing. One would hardly recognize the boy today—his athletic efforts have produced amazing results in his physical development.

CAGE MEETING SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

The meeting of the basketball managers, erroneously reported for Wednesday evening, will be held Tuesday night in the high school gym. Six or more representatives are expected to be on hand to elect a president and secretary of the organization and make final plans for the schedule.

The Sportsman By Larry Bauer

A little dabbling in statistics shows that rabbit hunting, next to fishing, has more devotees than any other form of outdoor sport. And it is in the money, too. The cost of guns, clothing, ammunition, licenses, etc., runs up. It has been said that more shotgun shells are exploded annually in pursuit of rabbits than are fired at all the theaters in the country.

BREED RABBIT

To thousands the lowly cottontail affords the only shooting available. The little animals are found near large cities and in populous countryside after all other game has fled. They are prolific and a reasonable dry spring always assures a good crop. Excessive rain during the breeding season drowns many young in the nests. Like ruffed grouse, rabbits are subject to cyclic declines.

...AND THE BEAGLE

sick rabbit will refuse to run when danger approaches. Prevention calls for the wearing of rubber gloves while handling rabbits, and washing the hands with a strong antiseptic solution after handling. If there is a skin eruption or small cut on the hands do not handle the rabbits at all. A great many men and boys shoot rabbits with small rifles when they find the animals "sitting." Such methods may lead to infection unless preventive measures are followed, as "sitters" are likely to be sick.

The better way, and the sporting way, is to kick the cottontails out, and if they scud through the weeds like a gray streak there is not much wrong with 'em. If you haven't spent a day afield with a pair of beagles you've missed something in the way of rabbit hunting. The way these little hounds give tongue on a frosty morning thrills any sportsman's heart. However, we've enjoyed many a rabbit hunt with farmer boy friends and their pot-hounds, some of which seemed to hunt by sight from the way they would jump into the air above the weeds and brush.

Texas-Porker Tilt Decides S'West Title

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—Football season is over in every part of the country except the Southwest and on the Pacific coast, where big things will happen over the weekend. Notre Dame, an in-and-out team all season, ends a somewhat hectic season by meeting the University of Southern California next Saturday, but the most important battle on the West coast will be the game in San Francisco between Santa Clara university, only undefeated and untied major team in college football, and Texas Christian, two weeks hence.

The boys from the Lone Star state have been defeated twice during the season and have been held to a deadlock twice, but, when their offensive machine gets to functioning, it's hard to stop. In Little Rock the championship of the Southwest conference will be decided when Arkansas, leading the pack by half a game, tangles with an improved Texas university team. The Porkers will be the favorites, however, to win their first official crown.

Southern Methodist, who tied TCU last Saturday, encounters Rice in Houston over the weekend in a toss-up game. Both teams have met numerous reverses but the game will be interesting. In Tyler, always a good football town, Texas A. & M. meets an inter-sectional foe in Chick Meenan's Manhattan scorpers.

UNLUCKY LEADERS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (UP)—There's another fine on the loose. He goes around stalking the leading ground-gainer of the year in the National professional league, Beattie Feather of the Chicago Bears, top star of 1934, was injured in 1935. And now Doug Russell of the Chicago Cardinals, 1935 leader, has been out with injuries most of this season.

Just Plain Football Wins For Quakers

RAMBLERS IN SERIES LEAD, 6-4

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—An inter-sectional rivalry of national importance, Notre Dame versus Southern California, headlines the last day of the 1936 football campaign next Saturday in Los Angeles. Majority of the country's leading eleven have packed away their moleskins, but the Notre Dame-Southern California tilt is due to be a real stand-out.

The series, although short-lived in comparison to the gridiron battles in the east or even the historic annual feud in the Western conference, probably has provided thousands with as many thrills and been as productive of splendid football as any. This will be the eleventh meeting between the Trojans and the Irish. Six times Notre Dame has been victorious and four times they have lost. Indicative of the fierce fights in the point score, while shows Notre Dame leading 122 to 119.

There are other inter-sectional games on this concluding Saturday. Temple, under the direction of Pop Warner, who held forth for years at Stanford, will return to the vicinity of Warner's old ballfield to meet Slip Madigan's St. Mary's eleven. Neither has enjoyed undivided success. The Owls, perhaps, have done better than the Gaels, which, of course, has no bearing on this week's result.

Manhattan, coached by Chick Meenan, journeys to Texas for a test with the Texas Aggies. Other outstanding engagements involve southwestern opponents, Southern Methodist against Rice institute, and Texas' ill-fated eleven against Arkansas. Last year the Mustangs, winners of twelve consecutive victories before losing to Stanford in Rose Bowl, whipped Rice, 30 to 0. Arkansas won from Texas Longhorns, 28 to 13, and apparently has the passing combination needed to duplicate this conquest.

Friday Georgetown at Miami (Fla.). Stetson at Rollins.

Saturday Notre Dame at Southern California. Texas Tech at Arizona. Texas at Arkansas. Elon at Catawba. Mississippi State at Florida. Orangeblomms at Florida A. & M. Claffin at Georgia N. & I. Washington State at Gonzaga. Fresno Teachers at Hardin-Simmons. Western Maryland at Maryland. Tuskegee at Morris Brown. Southern Methodist at Rice. Temple at St. Mary's (Cal.). Bowling Green (Ky.) Frogs Prepare For Game With Santa Clara

FORT WORTH, Nov. 30. — Texans have a national reputation as bronco busters, but that little group of Texans known as the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university are going to have a full-size rodeo on their hands when they take on the Santa Clara Broncos in San Francisco December 12.

Coach Dutch Meyer will start in tomorrow on seven days of intensive preparation for the California game. The Bronco tilt looms as the most difficult on the Frogs' 1936 schedule, as the Santa Clara outfit stands as the only major undefeated and untied eleven in the country.

The Frogs, though entering the game as underdogs, will be out to regain a place in the national football spotlight with a victory over the Broncos. While the Christians have won over Santa Clara the last two years, the victory has in both cases been by a narrow margin—two points in 1934 and four points in 1935.

THOMAS TOPS

Frank Thomas, Ala., Nov. 30. (AP)—is in his tenth year as a head grid mentor. His record is one of the country's best. Over the decade, his teams have won 77 games, lost 12, tied 4. In four years at C. H. A. T. O. G. Thomas produced two title teams. In 1933 and 1934, at Alabama, his teams won the Southeastern conference crown.

Disappointments In '34 And '35, Harman's Boys Get Going As Seniors

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Back in 1934 Coach Harvey Harman raised the hopes of Pennsylvania's followers with the band of sophomores he put on the gridiron. The youngsters promised great things. But, just as the dreams of Penn's loyal sons seemed about to be realized, something would go wrong and then followed the inevitable rude awakening. As sophomores, their football sins were readily forgiven. After all, Penn alumni figured, perhaps too much was expected of the youngsters who were being asked to meet their meager experience against that of seasoned veterans on opposing eleven. Pennsylvania could wait another year—then the fruits of victory would be all the sweeter.

As juniors, the story was pretty much the same. The team allowed seemingly safe leads to melt away. Victory slipped from Penn's grasp time after time. The old excuse of inexperience could hardly be advanced again. So, in time-honored fashion, Coach Harman came in for his share of criticism. The disappointment last fall was a severe blow to Pennsylvania's pride.

Alumni Moaned In view of what had happened in 1934 and had been repeated in 1935, Pennsylvania had little reason to expect much of the gridiron warriors this year. At least, the sons of the Red and Blue were not going out on a limb again with predictions as to how the Quakers were going to mop up in 1936. While they felt that sooner or later the team, potentially a powerful one, would click, they were not inclined toward optimism. Their worst fears seemed confirmed when Penn tossed away opportunity after opportunity against Yale in the Bowl and lost to the Bulldogs.

Even when Pennsylvania scored a well-earned victory over Princeton, the Penn supporters were not convinced that the sophomores of '34 had at last found themselves. Then the Quakers beat a strong Navy team. On top of that the team went out and soundly thumped Michigan in their inter-sectional contest while Penn men sat in the stands and rubbed their eyes in amazement. At last! The day had come.

As one Penn man put it: "I'd give anything to see that team play Yale again this season. I'd bet they'd bet 'em by three touchdowns. They've got what it takes—everything they lacked early in October."

Just Plain Football

Pennsylvania has been playing orthodox, old-fashioned style football.

The Quakers have faced a variety of football this season and, once they found themselves against Princeton, were well able to cope with anything tossed their way. It would seem logical to assume that the only thing the Penn eleven lacked in the past was confidence. In view of what happened on the many occasions when they let victory slip through their fingers, some sort of inspiration was lacking.

In recent games this season Pennsylvania has shown plenty of confidence in its ability. The Quakers have come from behind on occasions, and at other times they have scored early and protected their leads with determination. They know they can win, and they go about their business with a confidence born of performance. The sophomores of '34, a disappointment for more than two full seasons, finally found themselves and wound up their careers in a blaze of glory. To them must go the credit for writing a brilliant page in Pennsylvania's football history. Their recent deeds appear all the more brilliant following so many disappointments.

Parker Sets Baseball As His Next Goal

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Students at Duke university who have termed Capt. Clarence McKay (Ace) Parker of their football team as "Duke's ideal undergraduate" will tell you that "it's only the beginning for Parker." They will tell you that you've only heard of him as one of the greatest football players in Southern grid history (incidentally, they think he's the best in American football history) but that there will be years to come when you'll hear of him as one of the greatest of major league baseball players. They will tell you that "Ace" is a one-way athlete—one who can run 105 yards for a touchdown when the score is tied—one who can come up in the last of the ninth with one on, two out, his team one run behind, take two and hit one out of the park for the ball game.

Five-Teller Man

They will tell you that because they've seen him for years. They've seen him in room after room, they've seen him on the basketball park, they've seen him in the ball park, on the golf links, on the tennis court, in the swimming pool, on the cinder path.

They will tell you that he's one of the greatest all-around athletes in this country's history. Even the coaches of the various sports at Duke will tell you he could make letters in football, basketball, and baseball (he did that last year) and in truck, golf, tennis and swimming if time allowed his participation.

At Woodrow Wilson high in Portsmouth, Va., he did make letters in football, basketball, baseball, track and golf. Jack Coombs Agrees But, getting back to this "only the beginning" stuff: He has been trailed by big league scouts since he came to Duke. He is said to be able to go into any big league camp and field the outfield with any of them. All he needs is a little brushing up on his hitting. He has a hard time hitting that curve ball—don't they all?

Take it from Jack Coombs, the former "iron man" of Connie Mack's great teams from 1906-14, who says: "He is a great competitive athlete. He has the fielding ability. He takes a nice cut at the ball. He may become in major league baseball as great as he has been in college football. He has the something it takes."

As for Parker himself, this modest, rugged gentleman and scholar, has two great ambitions: He wants to be an all-America football player and he wants to be a major league baseball player.

KERCHEVAL CAN KICK

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Ralph Kercheval of the Brooklyn Football Dodgers has set up a record they'd all like to see. Kercheval last year set a new standard for distance punting when he booted a ball that carried 91 yards in the air. He has averaged 46 yards in his kicks, all told. And he's scored more than 100 points himself. He'll retire at the end of this season.

SENIORITY TO BE CONTESTED

The next national election contest of importance will be that for majority leader in the house of representatives. He will be chosen by caucus of the democratic representatives, probably toward the end of the year. Already the lines are forming. The leading candidates so far are Rayburn of Texas, chairman of the inter-state and foreign commerce committee; O'Connor of New York, chairman of the all-important rules committee, and Rankin of Mississippi, chairman of the committee on veterans legislation. Other democratic representatives have either thrown their hats into the ring or have intimated that they are willing.

The chairmanships normally go by seniority, that is, to the majority members of longest continuous service. Seniority is occasionally disregarded when it would make the same member chairman of more than one important committee, or when certain sections, factions, or individuals must be appeased. Arguments can be adduced both for and against the seniority system. It may cause an important committee to be headed by a member with few qualifications. On the other hand, seniority means that a committee chairmanship is filled by a member with long experience. Experience is especially helpful in dealing with "plausible perennials"—innocuous-looking bills introduced year after year, only to be rejected each time for good cause.

The seniority system means that the South gets most of the important chairmanships in congress when the democratic party is in power. This is because southern democrats consistently get re-elected. The Southerners says they are entitled to the high posts from this very fact that the party can invariably rely upon their section of the country. Also, the South never gets the presidential nomination and is usually under-represented in the cabinet.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—One of the petty inconveniences of trying to keep up with the theatrical season are the postponed plays. They wreck your schedule and give your disposition the hives.

Like this:
A musical comedy is to open Friday night and advertises in the newspapers. You get your tickets. You collect a party and make reservations for supper. Then comes the postponement and there you are with a party on your hands. As for the play—it may open in a day, a week, or not at all.

At that, this annoyance is as nothing to the grief experienced by the owners themselves. One producer I know had a two day postponement last week and it cost him $5,000. This was for extra salaries, rent, and advertisements. And the line at the aspirin counter is getting longer. Five postponements have been announced in recent days.

Seeing Tallulah Bankhead calmly surveying a magazine emphasizes the emotional extremities of this versatile, complex actress. I recall an afternoon when La Bankhead was far from her serene self. She was being sued in some sort of civil action and the argumentative lawyers, red tape, and delays had her exasperated.

"Your honor," cried Tal'oo, "this case isn't getting anywhere at all!"
"Yes it is," replied the magistrate, "it's getting on my nerves, and getting on to 4 o'clock. That's when I go home!"

Pale and wan, Ruth Gordon staggered down the Queen Mary's gang-plank, too sea-sick to stand. Those 75-mile gales kicking up their heels in the Atlantic had this favorite actress on the ropes, but she rallied quickly and was chipper, if still pale, the next day. Usually a good sailor, Miss Gordon raced home to open rehearsals in "The Country Wife" but the cast had to get along without her that first day.

Noel Coward In Tights

It isn't generally remembered that Clifton Webb ever played straight comedy—or rather it wasn't until he went into "And Stars Remain." Most theater-goers remember him as a musical comedy star on the "Sonny" variety and have typed him as that sort of entertainer. Actually, his first genuine success was with Mary Boland in "Meet the Wife," a fast comedy that traveled more than a year on Broadway.

One reason why a tea company in New York has to change a wee bit more for its Oriental leaves is that it delivers them in a Rolls-Royce.

If you can't forget that J. P. Morgan once held a midget on his lap consider this phenomenon: Noel Coward, Alfred Lunt, and Lynn Fontanne once donned tights and rode down Broadway on an elephant.

Building boom fails to materialize
Construction not needed for employment pick-up.
Plant expansion not yet necessary.
Residential construction shows increase.

The Big Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Major defect in the business picture now is in building. The overdue boom in the construction industry has failed to materialize. The government has been spending a lot of money on it for these years, but has only succeeded in keeping it from complete breakdown. Private expenditures have not been stimulated to any extent comparable with the pre-depression era.

With general industrial production clicking along at 109 per cent of normal, building for November lags at about 55 per cent. It is the lowest of all the major trade barometers.

This is of tremendous importance because the bulk of unemployment now is in that industry. At least, in the absence of any real statistics concerning unemployment, most economists say it is in that industry. It means the current unemployment condition is not likely to be cured until the construction industry gets back into stride.

Causes

What has happened to the absent building boom is not a very deep mystery. For one thing, prices are high. That is, they are high in relation to wages and income. And there is not much chance that they will get any lower.

But that is not all. Other industries have not yet reached the point where plant expansions are necessary. Factory building for the last ten months amounted to $161,000,000, which was good only by comparison with the $90,000,000 of the same period in 1935. Commercial building for the same ten months' period amounted only to $204,000,000, and it was $140,000,000 for the same period last year. Office and store rents are not high enough and business prospects are not yet good enough to stimulate a general movement in commercial building.

Residential construction has done somewhat better. In the ten month period it amounted to $668,000,000, as compared with $394,000,000 for the first ten months of 1935.

Cures

But the demand for residential construction still exists, if the government surveys on the extent of the residential shortage are correct. Ample credit facilities exist. The present wave of wage increases and bonuses should, if continued, stimulate buying. Increases of the general price level during November tend to put the general price level more in conformity to building costs. All these factors suggest a continued steady improvement in the residential line.

Some slight sign of an increase in factory and commercial demand is discernible. The rayon industry, for one, has been running at capacity and is expected to increase its plant facilities. Increased earnings have also caused expectations of plant expansions in steel.

In the main, what is expected is a slow, smooth upward curve line, which may not reach pre-depression levels very soon.

It is a problem which the government could probably help more by encouraging a national belief in the certainty of business expansion, high wages and prices, than by the artificial methods which have been attempted.

Progress

Recognized national authorities have circulated information that the upward movement of building stopped in July and has not recovered since. This is not correct. The amount of contracts awarded each month since spring follows, in millions of dollars:
April—120
May—122
June—116
July—141
August—122
September—119
October—125.

Every building material line was up from September to October. Employment in the industry was

Bill Bassman Wed To Miss Lorene Grissom

Bill Bassman and Miss Lorene Grissom were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of Rev. Forrest Waldrop, Church of Christ minister, in the presence of a group of friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Grissom of Colorado where she has made her home until recently. After finishing high school she has been employed in the Colorado Hotel Coffee Shop.

Mr. Bassman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bassman also of Colorado, completed high school work in that city and made his home there until coming to Big Spring two months ago. Since that time he has been employed at Cunningham and Phillips street No. Three.

Friends present for the ceremony included Miss Thelma Jean Moore, Miss Mary Frances Robinson, Gus Armstrong, Porter Richardson and Joe Armstrong of Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Sewell of Wink, also Howard Simpson, Cecil Mackey, Miss Lula Mae Bassham and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bassham of Colorado. The couple will reside at 704 Runnels street.

LUBBOCK, Nov. 30.—The Allen Bros. Post of the American Legion has arranged a very interesting program for the five hundred legionnaires and auxiliary members that are expected here December 5 and 6 for the 19th district convention.

Starting with registration December 5, a full program of fun has been arranged that will be climaxed with a dance on the evening of December 5 at the Hotel Lubbock and a luncheon will be given at the Hilton for the visitors at 12:30 p. m. December 6.

Sunday visitors as well as local legionnaires will have an opportunity to hear the National Chaplain of the American Legion, Rev. Bryan H. Keathley, who will conduct church services at 11 o'clock.

Following the luncheon program, a business session will be conducted with C. B. Quant, district committeeman, presiding.

Department Commander Drury Phillips, and other ranking officials, of the state organization will be here for the convention.

Mrs. Ralph Houston to Speak at P.T. A. Meet

Mrs. Ralph Houston will speak to the members of the High School Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday on "The Possibility of Movies in Education" at the meeting scheduled for 3:30 o'clock in the library at high school.

A round table discussion will follow and all parents are asked to attend to take part.

CHORUS ANNOUNCEMENT

The choral section of the Music Study Club will meet at 7:30 this evening in the Crawford Hotel ballroom to continue practice on the music for the city Christmas pageant.

Men members of the chorus are urged to be present.

Question About CARDUI HOW IT HELPS WOMEN

"WHO TAKES CARDUI?"
Women who are run-down, weakened, nervous, from not getting sufficient strength from the food they eat—Thousands and thousands have found that Cardui increased their appetite, improved their digestion, thereby promoting better nourishment and the consequent strengthening of the whole system.

And women who have suffered from functional pains of menstruation have found that, by taking Cardui just before and during the periods, this purely vegetable acid-tive and antispasmodic seemed to save them much discomfort. This action of Cardui is highly esteemed because the relief credited to it comes in an entirely beneficial way. Cardui is purely vegetable, nothing in it to be afraid of—adv.

Reading And Writing

By John Selby

Robert Neumann's "The Queen's Doctor" should begin with "once upon a time." For in a world generally credited with constant change, one thing alone remains secure. It is the hold of romance upon our weak minds.

So with the new Neumann book, it is the story of Frederick Struensee, who already had made a reputation for daring surgery and clever doctoring when, through one of those national bargain sales, the baby-faced Caroline Matilda of Christian VII, King of Denmark. After the ceremony little Matilda was taken in state to her young husband, who was eighteen by the time she arrived.

Young Christian masked a considerable capacity for liquor and women behind the superciliously assumed dress of a scholar. Nevertheless, when he rode out to meet Matilda, he found her so childishly charming that instead of the formal greeting dictated by custom in such royal matters, Christian simply put his arms about the girl and kissed her. Later, on the formal wedding night, Christian was more himself. He got very drunk, and led the entire court, assembled for a royal ball, in a great rout which took everybody through every room in the palace, including the royal bed chamber.

There is little use telling Mr. Neumann's story in advance, even though the fabric itself is public property, and has been so for a century and a half or more. It is enough to say that Struensee went to Copenhagen from Altona, hard by Hamburg, and was made physician to the king, and in turn made the king the vassal of the physician. Struensee was a believer in the principles of Rousseau, and at once introduced some reforms. Unfortunately, he also made himself the queen's lover.

So there was a cabal, an insane king, a banished queen, and a pair of pitiful executioners. So the end of a curious episode in the history of a disintegrating kingdom. So, a generation later, the sequel, which was the capture of Copenhagen by an English fleet. The author has not often over-dressed his material.

"The Queen's Doctor," by Robert Neumann (Knopf).

Organization Meeting for Y. W. A. to be Held This Evening

Young women interested in the organization of the Y.W.A. are urged to attend a meeting this evening at the First Baptist Church basement at 7:30.

Mrs. J. J. Strickland is in charge of this work and stated that young women of all denominations are invited to take part in this work.

Law To Maintain Labor Standards Is Being Pushed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (AP)—Officials who seek to obtain more widespread observance of labor standards like those embodied in the old NRA are considering asking congress to expand the scope of the Walsh-Healey act.

This law, which became effective Sept. 28, provides that certain firms doing business with the government must comply with specified labor standards.

At present the law applies only to contracts which exceed $10,000.

Its sponsors argued that one of its principal accomplishments would be to protect manufacturers who desired to continue NRA standards despite the inactivation of the National Recovery Act. They said that without the law, such firms would be at an unfair disadvantage in competing for government business with companies which slashed wages and lengthened hours.

Under the Walsh-Healey law, employees must receive "prevailing wages" and work no more than 40 hours a week when producing materials, supplies or equipment for the government. Other provisions bar child labor and call for healthful working conditions.

STATE GETS FUNDS FOR NEW PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The social security board granted $84,875 to Texas today to cover the cost of administering the state unemployment compensation law from November 30 to December 31.

The Texas grant was the first since the board approved the Lone Star State's law November 5. The Texas statute became effective on October 27.

Barefoot Habit Urged

BOSTON (UP)—Children should play barefoot on soft ground during the formative period, according to Dr. Fred T. Reis. Speaking before the Massachusetts Chiroprody Association, Dr. Reis said hard floors and pavements cause foot trouble in later years, and that no foot appliance can replace outdoor play in bare feet on yielding surfaces.

Doctors Study Strange Case Of Child Who Cannot Stop Talking

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 30. (AP)—Doctors pondered today the strange case of four year old Emmie Wilson, who can't stop talking.

He has chattered almost without pause for two weeks — day and night—talking of home, childish desires and his mother, Mrs. May Wilson, of Munford, Tenn.

There have been several consultations, but on the hospital chart the line for the diagnosis remains blank.

"Emmie was brought to the hospital ten days ago," his nurse said. "He hardly has stopped talking since, although he shows some improvement."

The youngster suffered a slight paralytic stroke two weeks ago, she said. It affected his face. One eye remains open and one side of his mouth is drawn.

"He never sleeps during the day," the nurse said, "and only four or five hours at night. All during his waking hours, he talks."

"He keeps asking us to close the door in his room, even when it's already shut. And over and over he asks that his mother 'bring a biscuit from the pantry.'"

He alternately is rational and delirious as fever ebbs and then mounts again. His once sturdy body has wasted until he weighs only 20 pounds and eight ounces.

Mrs. Wilson, seriously ill at her home, has been unable to be with her child.

CRUDE PRODUCTION SHOWS A DECLINE

HOUSTON, Nov. 30. (UP)—National crude oil production declined sharply last week, averaging 37,525 barrels daily lower than the previous seven-day period, the Oil Weekly estimated today.

The national daily average production totaled 3,912,750 barrels compared with 3,950,575 last week. The reduction was reflected by sharp declines in Oklahoma and California, the magazine said.

Oklahoma's average of 568,125 barrels daily was 25,500 lower than the previous week. Flow of California wells was cut 23,000 barrels daily to a total of 562,000. Kansas dropped 1,900 to 165,400 and New Mexico's decline was 100 barrels to a total of 83,500.

Production in Texas was increased 12,200 barrels for a daily average of 1,154,000. Louisiana also increased its production by 2,975 barrels to a total of 234,275 daily.

The national average was 142,450 barrels above the figure recommended by the U. S. bureau of mines.

FOODSTUFF TO BE SENT TO ALASKA IN NEXT FEW DAYS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (UP)—Secretary Ickes said today the first boatload of foodstuff for maritime strike-bound Alaska would be carried by a government boat leaving Seattle about November 26.

He also said that negotiations had been completed with the Alaska Packers association for chartering the 75-foot ship Arctic for a second trip.

The first vessel to carry food to the territory since the strike began will be the Bureau of Indian Affairs' 800-ton boat, the Boxer. The larger Arctic, now at San Francisco and being unloaded by union longshoremen under a special agreement with the government, will be made ready to carry 3,000 cubic feet of cold storage cargo to Alaska by December 5.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter 41
ELSA'S NEW IDEA
"Bassett is hiding him," said Lawson. "It shouldn't be difficult to find out where Bassett doesn't amount to much. I can suggest a couple of easy ways of finding out where Mahony is. Either send some of your men to pretend to join Bassett's crowd, and pass on any information they can get hold of, or capture one of Bassett's men and knock him out of him till he tells you where Mahony is. Now get on with it. As an arrangement to get to put your backs into it, I'm offering a thousand pounds for the proofs of Mahony's death."

He rose from his seat, nodded curtly to the men sitting round the table, and left the room, satisfied with the impression he had created.

He re-entered his waiting car and drove back to his house. There he was told that Elsa Little wished to see him.

She was waiting for him in his study, and her face looked pale and worried. He smiled at her.

"It's nice of you to come and see me," he said. "Inspector Kennedy told me about your interview with Mahony last night. That was a clever idea, and it seems to have had the desired effect. It can only be a matter of days, or even hours, before the police catch him."

"Yes, I know," said Elsa rather faintly. "That—that's what I've come to see you about. You see I don't want them to catch him."

"You don't want them to catch him?" echoed Lawson in a voice of genuine astonishment. "But... why, what's happened. Only yesterday you were dead keen on bringing him to book for your uncle's murder."

"Yes, I... I know," said Elsa. "I thought he had killed my uncle then. I don't think so now."

"I'm afraid I don't understand at all," he said.

"It's rather difficult to explain," answered Elsa. "I know I laid a trap for him last night, and he fell into it in a way. That talk of Terence Mahony had with me last night has convinced Inspector Kennedy that he killed my uncle. But I'm convinced now that he didn't kill him."

"Isn't that enough for you?" asked Lawson.

She shook her head.

"No. You see, I was in the room with him, watching his face, noticing his expression. I'd never had the chance of really talking to him before. I'm certain he was telling the truth when he said he didn't kill my uncle."

"I see," said Lawson.

He walked to and fro for a few seconds, frowning thoughtfully. This change of mind on Elsa's part was quite unexpected. He could not see that it mattered much.

"I don't see that you can do very much about it," he stated.

"I must do something about it. I can't let them hang him," said Elsa passionately.

She hesitated.

"I was wondering if I couldn't help him to get out of the country for a time—to go somewhere where the English law can't touch him," she went on. "Then, while he was away, I could get private detectives and people to work to prove him innocent."

Lawson was on the point of telling her that her idea was quite impracticable, but suddenly checked himself. The glimmerings of an idea had suddenly occurred to him.

"I don't care how much I spend," went on Elsa. "Surely there could be some way of arranging it?"

"It might be possible," admitted Lawson cautiously. "But it would be very difficult. To start with, how would you get into touch with Mahony?"

"I don't know," said Elsa in a hopeless tone. "That's the trouble. I don't see how I can get into touch with him."

"Personally, it has never occurred to me to doubt Mahony's guilt," he stated. "But then, if he's innocent, I don't want him to hang."

He shrugged his shoulders slightly and smiled.

"In any case, if you believe he's innocent, and it will make you unhappy if he's hanged, I'm willing to do my best to help him," he continued. "Let's consider how you can set about it."

"To begin with, we've got to get into touch with him. That man Bassett will most likely know where he is. The best thing you can do is to see Bassett and try to arrange a meeting with Mahony."

"And what shall I say to Bassett?" asked Elsa. "Shall I just tell him I want to help Mr. Mahony to get abroad?"

"I don't think I should do that," answered Lawson.

He paused again. This business needed thinking out very carefully.

"As I say, I don't like Mahony, but from what I've seen of the fellow, I don't think he'd consent to go abroad," he went on slowly. "If he's a fighter, and, whatever the consequences, he's the sort of man to stay here and fight things out to the end."

"Then what am I to do?" asked Elsa hopefully.

"The only way will be to take things into your own hands and send him whether he wants to go or not," answered Lawson. "In other words, Shanghai him. Stick him on board a ship with instructions to the captain not to let him out till he's well out of harm's way. I think I can help you in that."

"You mean kidnap him and put him on board a ship?" asked Elsa in a horrified tone.

"Exactly," said Lawson.

"But... that would be rather treacherous," objected Elsa in a protesting tone. "I don't think I should care to do that. I've led him into a trap once; I hate the idea of doing it again."

"I know exactly how you feel about it," said Lawson sympathetically. "It may not seem very nice to trick him into meeting you again and then have him kidnaped and hidden out of the way, but for his own sake, it's the greatest service you could possibly render him."

His voice was very persuasive, and there seemed to be good sense in his arguments.

"I suppose you're right," admitted Elsa hesitatingly.

"Of course I'm right," replied Lawson. "You get in touch with Bassett and let him know what happens, and I'll make all the other arrangements."

"Very well," agreed Elsa. "I'll do that."

Elsa's interview with Bassett was arranged with an ease that surprised her. The interview took place in the small front sitting-room of a house in Brixton. Acting on her instructions from Lawson, Elsa would tell Bassett nothing except that she had a communication of the greatest importance to make to Mahony.

"What's it about?" asked Bassett.

"I can't tell anybody except him," answered Elsa. "I must see him myself. If I can't see him I shan't tell anyone what I have to say."

She looked at Bassett defiantly. She hated the thought that Mahony was banding himself with people like the man in front of her.

"All I'm asking you is to give my message to him—tell him that I want to see him," she went on urgently. "I'll pay you for doing it if you like. How much do you want?"

Fatty Bassett did not answer for a moment. He merely looked at her. Then he spoke.

"I'm a crook," he said. "I make my livin' dishonestly. I expect you know that, don't yer?"

Elsa hesitated for a moment. She was not sure how to answer. And Bassett's cold, unwinking glance, fixed on her face, made her feel a trifle uncomfortable.

"Well... I suspected you were," she answered rather weakly.

"An' now I'm tellin' you I am," went on Bassett. "An' now you know you've come to the right person, don't yer? Because when one of you Society people wants something dirt ydone, they always pay a crook to do it for them."

Elsa flushed indignantly.

"But I don't want anything dirty done," she burst out. "How dare you suggest such a thing. My only reason for wanting to get into touch with Mr. Mahony is to help him."

Bassett went on staring at her with shrewd, hard eyes. He did not want the same thing to happen as when Mahony had last met her.

"Of course, money is money," he went on in a business-like tone. (Copyright, 1936, Hugh Clevely)

Bassett capitulates, tomorrow.

TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL HIGHER LAST MONTH
AUSTIN, Nov. 28. (UP)—Traffic deaths during October totaled 396, statistics released by the driver's license bureau of the state department of public safety revealed here today.

Bureau officials said October's total was nine more than October, 1935 and an increase over September of this year. It was expected that the November death rate would be even higher. Reason given is that October, November and December traffic is heavier than other months. This is caused primarily by the holiday season and football traffic.

In addition to persons killed, 1,322 of those involved in accidents were seriously injured, the bureau said.

Pedestrian fatalities topped the October list with 52 deaths. Head-on collisions accounted for 27; angle collisions, 22; losing control of car, 26; rear end collisions, 12; driving while intoxicated, 4; failure of mechanical safety appliances, 4; grade crossing crashes, 9.

Other causes included: skidding, sidswiping of cars, driving on wrong side, speeding, sleepy drivers, hitting livestock, failure to make a curve, blinded by lights, and falling from cars.

A. J. Crawford of Carlsbad, N. M. plans to return here this week from Dallas after several days visit there on business. He visited here Sunday.

Lacy Tea Cloth

By RUTH ORR
Pattern No. 396
We've all grown so used to the phrase "jiffy knit" that it will probably soon find its way into our dictionaries. But there doesn't seem to be any similar one that applies to crochet. If there were such an expression, we'd apply it to this. It's one of those delightfully quick, yet effective patterns that are probably the most satisfying things you can do. If you turn your hand—with a crochet hook in it—to this pattern, you'll have a lovely lacy tea cloth before you know it.

It is crocheted in No. 20 mercerized crochet-cotton and measures 27 by 33 inches.

The pattern envelope contains complete, easy-to-follow block-and-space diagram; also what crochet hook and what material and how much you will need.

To obtain this pattern, send for No. 396 and enclose 30 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to cover service and postage. Address Big Spring Herald, Needlework Dept., P. O. Box 200, Station D, New York, N. Y.

Rocky Peaks 'Grow' As US Revises Chart

Survey Corrects Error In Sea Level Baseline Measurement
DENVER, Nov. 30. (UP)—A "growth" in Colorado's loftiest mountain peaks has been recorded during recent surveys, with Mount Elbert, highest of them all, showing a 4½-foot increase.

Reason for the "growth" was explained by the Denver division of the U. S. geological survey.

Government engineers found that Mount Elbert, near Leadville, is 14,451 feet above sea level, and not a mere 14,420 feet as previously recorded. The new altitude estimate for the famous peak was based on a more accurate sea level baseline, engineers said, and came much closer to giving its correct altitude.

Two Peaks Unchanged
Mount Massive was "up" 14 points, with the new survey revealing an altitude of 14,413 feet, instead of the old estimate of 14,404 feet. Mount Harvard and Elberta Peak, the third and fourth highest mountains in the state, respectively, remain unchanged on the official elevation chart at 14,399 and 14,340 feet.

The geographical engineers set the altitude of La Plata Peak at 14,340 feet, an increase of eight feet in elevation over the old official figure.

'Strip Act' Star Really Stripped—Of Jewels She Tells Police Worth $25,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (UP)—Gypsy Rose Lee, the shapely burlesque who went from Minsky's burlesque to mink and "the Follies" in one season, performed the most expensive "strip" act of her dazzling career today—approximately $25,000 worth. So she says.

With a gun poking into her back, in the deserted lobby of the apartment house where she lives just off Park Avenue on the East side, the crinkly-haired brunette stripped off her jewelry in record time, as one of the six bandits snatched.

"Too bad, Gypsy... we wouldn't do this, but we're broke. You'd better let us have it..."

Hands trembling, so nervous that rings that had resisted soap and water removal treatment slid off easily, Gypsy told police she gave up:

One gold pin, valued at $600, not insured.
A 60-carat star sapphire ring, insured for $4,200.
A 15-carat bracelet, diamonds and sapphires, insured for $10,000.
A marquise diamond ring with blue and white stones, insured for $8,000.
A $1 bill taken from her mink muff.

Gypsy's first coherent thought was that the six thugs must have known her, might have dated back to the days when she was the strip-tease queen of Minsky's burlesque, for they addressed her familiarly, calling her "Gypsy." She did not recognize them, though, she said.

Race Of Supermen Forecast

The new survey showed there are 51 peaks in Colorado with an elevation of 14,000 feet or more.

Shipments Of Stock Lower

Figures For October 15 Pct. Under Last Year, Report Shows
AUSTIN, Nov. 30.—Shipments of Texas livestock to the Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during October were considerably below those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Total forwardings amounted to 5,623 cars, against 6,637 last year, a decrease of nearly 15 per cent.

Cattle shipments totaled 3,536 cars against 4,755 last year, a drop of 19 per cent; calves 1,226 cars, against 1,374, a decline of 11 per cent; sheep, 473 cars against 720, a drop of 33 per cent; and hogs, 388 cars, against 188, an increase of 106 per cent.

Shipments of Texas hogs to Los Angeles were more than fifteen times as great as during October last year while a moderate increase occurred in shipments to Fort Worth.

Although total shipments of sheep were sharply below October a year ago, forwardings to points in the East north central states were almost three times as great as a year ago. A similar situation was noted in September.

Receipts of livestock from out of state points totaled 1,845 cars, against 1,169 cars last year, an increase of nearly 60 per cent. Most of the increase in cattle receipts was from Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico; and in sheep and calves from Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Aggregate shipments of all classes of Texas livestock during the first ten months were 48,813 cars, slightly below the 49,954 cars shipped during the corresponding period last year.

Time will take courageous cognizance of vast changes and the imperative needs evolved by these changes. The president "holds to his faith in NRA fundamentals," Creel says, and adds that "the abolition of child labor and sweatshops, together with establishment of standards for minimum wages and maximum hours are still Roosevelt objectives."

In order to apply for enrollment the applicant must be between the ages of 17 and 29, either be on or eligible for relief.

Beware Coughs That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Personally Speaking

Mrs. L. E. Coleman and son, Fred, have returned from a ten-day visit to Mrs. Coleman's sister, Mrs. Joell Cates, in Harlingen, Texas. They reported steady rainfall during their stay in the valley.

R. C. Sanderson left Monday afternoon for Abilene, where he will remain a few days before continuing to Fort Worth.

Apprentice Farmers Likely

HALIFAX, N. S. (UP)—Hundreds of jobless Nova Scotia youths may become "apprentice farmers" under a new "back to the land" scheme being considered by the government. The youths would be placed on farms for periods ranging from six months to one year.

Roper Wants Action To Prevent 'Boom'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. (UP)—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper today asked vigilant action under new laws to prevent a runaway stock and business boom.

He said new laws contained controls to safeguard against unhealthful economic expansion and urged special attention to securities and exchange laws in view of fast rising markets.

"Experience has shown us that for safe progress our economic system needs to function as a coordinated and well-balanced whole," Roper said.

"During this administration machinery has been established whereby safeguards are provided against speculative financial excesses. In order to guide safely and wisely the business expansion under way, vigilance in the administration of present laws, especially the securities and exchange laws, must be exercised."

New Move To Trim Surplus Funds Seen

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. (AP)—Anticipating another move early next year by the federal reserve board to cut the surplus supply of loanable bank funds, the First Boston Corporation expressed the view today that such action "need have no actual effect on money rates."

The investment banking house in a letter to customers, also called attention to possibility of "book-keeping balance" in the federal budget by the end of the present fiscal year and cautioned against paying high premiums on federal obligations maturing after September, 1937, in expectation of getting privileges for subscription to new issues.

Under a balanced budget, the corporation noted, the government may have to pay off in cash part of its maturing debts.

The letter set forth the belief the reserve board would act by ordering another increase in reserve requirements of member banks, similar to its order last August for a 50 per cent boost in the deposits members must keep at the reserve banks.

CHIEF OF STAFF IN THE WAR SUCCEEDS

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Nov. 30. — Col. George S. Goodale, chief of staff of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry during the World War, died at his home here last night. He was 65 years old.

Colonel Goodale had been seriously ill for two years.

He began his army career in the early 1880's as a member of the Colorado national guard. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1896 and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Big Spring Hospital

Edith May Nabors of Lenora had a major operation Sunday.

Mrs. K. R. Stanton of Menfene was in the hospital Sunday for minor surgery.

Peggy Ellis of Stanton underwent a tonsillectomy Monday morning.

Mrs. W. J. Andre of Los Angeles, injured several days ago in an automobile collision on the east highway, was able to leave the hospital Monday. She and her husband will continue to their home by train.

ELLIOTT SUFFERS SEVERE EYE INJURY

J. D. Elliott, owner of the Elliott Ritz and Lyric drug, was in Dallas today undergoing treatment in the hope of saving the sight of his left eye.

The eye was punctured by a wire which whipped around when cut while a sign was being hung Saturday morning. Doctors feared he would lose sight in the eye, and possibly in both eyes.

Mrs. Elliott accompanied him to Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cobb have returned from Temple, where they have been visiting for the past ten days. While there Mr. Cobb closed a deal purchasing a three-section ranch near Killian, Bell county.

FEDERAL FUNDS DUE FOR AGE PENSIONS

AUSTIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—Orville S. Carpenter, director of old age assistance, said today he expected early approval of the application of $800,000 in federal funds and planned to issue interest-bearing warrants for December pension payments.

The federal social security board meets Tuesdays and Fridays in Washington. "Due to the emergency," the board may take up the Texas application tomorrow," Carpenter said.

Higher Prices On Turkeys Expected By Christmas Time

GONZALES, Nov. 30. (UP)—Turkey raisers who battled with buyers for better prices during the Thanksgiving market are reading their fan mail and letting their birds fatten during the lull before Christmas buying begins.

Hundreds of letters poured in from all parts of the Nation during the controversy in which growers accused buyers of price-fixing and asked federal investigation of what they said was a uniform market.

Buyers replied that heavy supplies of turkeys had determined the 12-cent pound price.

The present price is 10 cents per pound and many growers here say they will hold out, possibly until Dec. 15, hoping now for a raise to 12 cents or better.

"We are hoping the Department of Justice will do something for us before mid-December," E. L. Walters, owners of one big flock, said.

"I am going to stay at home with my turkeys until Dec. 15 at least." Others said if they did not get a better price they would hold out many hens for breeding purposes.

RESERVE FLIER IS KILLED IN CRASH

MENLO PARK, Cal., Nov. 30. (AP)—A. S. Gregory, 42, reserve army flier and San Francisco newspaper man, was killed here yesterday when his plane crashed and burst as he apparently tried to negotiate a forced landing.

The low wing, single motored plane burst into flames when it struck in a vacant lot about two miles from the state highway. Witnesses said Gregory apparently was looking for an emergency landing spot.

The flier took off from Oakland airport, about 35 miles northeast of here, in the reserve army plane. He was a captain in the organization.

Gregory, who was on the staff of the San Francisco Chronicle, is survived by his widow, living in the bay city.

FIRST OF NEW STYLE TRAINS COMPLETED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30. (AP)—The first two new seven-car light-weight steel trains for the Burlington railroad was completed Saturday at the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company shops and taken to Washington for exhibition.

The new trains will replace the original Burlington Zephyrs which have been in service between Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul, on Dec. 15. The Burlington company plans to place eight of these trains in service, the Budd company said. All will be built by the Budd company.

TRUCK STRIKES CAR, TWO ARE KILLED

PALO PINTO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Marvin Fitzgerald, 21, of Brad, and Henry Eleuby, about 40, of Merkel, were killed instantly at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night when a truck collided with an automobile on Highway 81, eight miles from Brad.

Miss Ellene Rhodes, 23, school teacher, who had been attending the State Teachers' convention, in her home in a serious condition at Fort Worth, and was returning home, is in a serious condition in a Mineral Wells hospital, as is her uncle, Erby Slemmons, of Brad.

Forsan Buffs Favored In Water Valley Meet

Brady Nix's Forsan high school Buffs have been doped as pretourney favorites for the annual Water Valley Class B basketball meet Dec. 12.

The Buffs, winners at Garden City last year, and runners-up in the regional meet at Abilene, play a smooth, effortless game, and the rigors of tournament play have little effect on them. An invitation has been mailed to the Crews high school team, who beat the Buffs out at Big Lake, and in regional play last year, and if Crews comes to the tournament, it will be worth driving miles to see them and the Buffs settle an argument which has almost reached the proportions of a feud.

Although Water Valley trimmed Forsan 25-12 in an early season tilt yet the old injury jinx, which dogged them last year, has popped up again, and there is some doubt that they will be in condition to go very far in their own tournament.

THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD LOOKS BETTER SINCE WE PAVED WITH CONCRETE

"I wish we had put concrete on our streets long ago. Aside from being the best to drive on, it keeps itself clean, looks better, and has made our neighborhood more desirable. Property values are up."

That's not half the story. Your own experience tells you that concrete helps you to drive safely; that it effectively checks skidding; that its light grey surface helps you see at night.

And concrete saves you money because it is moderate in first cost, low in upkeep and long lasting.

Be guided by your experience and observation. When your streets come up for paving—insist on concrete.

Suppose YOU had to write an "ad" for the world's FINEST and FRESHEST cigarette . . . wouldn't you do it something like this?

Well, I certainly want to say a mouthful about that extra jacket of Cellophane. With these double-wrapped, Double-Mellow Old Golds I never get a stale or funny taste because of dryness or dampness or something.

Oh, Boy—just sniff that FRESH fragrance! A fresh Double-Mellow Old Gold even feels different. Not crumbly or kind of soggy. It has a full, even feeling.

And get this! You don't have to smoke a whole pack of Double-Mellow Old Golds to know they got that what you call double-mellow, prize crop tobacco rolled into 'em. That means the finest aroma, flavor and taste-appeal, brother!

After my experience with fresh Double-Mellow Old Golds I can't put a match to any other cigarette, because no other cigarette can match "Double-Mellos." (How'm I doing?) But smokin' is believin'! Suppose you try 'em for yourself!
