Texas Storms Take 4 Lives, Injure Ten

Property Losses Are Heavy In Scattered Westex Towns

By The Associated Press
Four persons were killed, more than 10 injured, and losses in livestock and crops were the toll of violent windstorms that struck three Northwest Texas communities Sunday while much of the western half of the state received beneficial rains.

Aged People Victims
The dead were L. F. Martin, 83, retired rancher, and his wife, Mrs. J. G. Davis, 65, and his sister, Mrs. Fannie Robinson, about 60 and blind.

Mrs. Davis, 63, was injured and the Davis' grandson, Jim Gabriel Dooly, 8, escaped injury when the Davis home at Ivan, Stephens county hamlet, was demolished by a twister that swept the countryside for two or three miles. A. I. Phillips, principal of the Ivan school, and Mrs. Phillips were among the more seriously injured.

Trees were uprooted and livestock was killed in an area 200 yards wide and four miles long near De Leon, Comanche county. Six homes were destroyed.

At Olney, Young county, where several houses were damaged or wrecked, repairs to power lines were completed early today.

Strong winds swept the Clarksburg area in East Texas, causing damage to farm structures and crops. No injuries were reported. Farmers in Red River county said young corn was flattened by the blow, which struck near midnight, but that accompanying rain was beneficial to cotton.

Rains fell generally over the Panhandle, accompanied in some places by hail.

Two Are Killed In Arkansas Tornado

ATKINS, Ark., May 23 (AP)—A tornado that swept through this central Arkansas section during the night killed two persons, injured at least five others and destroyed much property.

The dead were: Mrs. Barbara Schneider, 62, Austin. Dave Rankin, about 65, Austin. The twister apparently struck first in the Austin community, two

Court Rulings Widen Federal Tax Field

Levy On University Athletic Admissions Upheld

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The supreme court broadened the field of federal taxation today by upholding that the federal government can impose levies on athletic contests at state universities and on the salaries of employees of the New York port authority.

Justice Roberts delivered the 6-2 decision sustaining a federal admission tax on tickets to intercollegiate football games at the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

Justice Stone delivered another 6-2 opinion holding that the federal government could collect an income tax on port authority officials. The authority was formed by an interstate compact to operate tunnels and bridges between New York and New Jersey.

The port authority litigation had caused 25 states to file a brief with the court asking protection from "federal usurpation" and "the burden of federal taxation."

No Obstruction
"Expressing no opinion whether a federal tax may be imposed upon the port authority itself with respect to its receipt of income or its other activities," Stone said, "we decide only that the present tax neither precludes nor threatens unreasonably to obstruct any function essential to the continued existence of the state government."

The immunity, if allowed, would impose to an inadmissible extent a restriction upon the taxing power which the constitution has granted to the federal government.

In the admission-tax decision, Roberts held that immunity from federal taxation "does not extend to business enterprises conducted by the states for gain."

Justices Butler and McReynolds dissented. Justice Cardozo did not participate.

The majority decision reversed a ruling by the fifth circuit court of appeals holding such an assessment invalid on the ground that it burdened a state university.

ATLANTA, May 23 (AP)—A new chapter in this community's efforts "to yank out graft by the roots" will open June 1 when trial of the first of several officers accused of accepting bribes is scheduled.

True bills have been returned against six former Fulton county (Atlanta) deputy sheriffs, eleven Atlanta policemen, a convict camp clerk and the clerk's helper.

Govt. Moves To Quell Any Uprising

Cedillo's Air Base Bombed In Retaliation For Raid

MEXICO CITY, May 23 (AP)—The defense ministry announced today that Hipolito Cedillo, nephew of the rebel leader, Ex-General Saturnino Cedillo, had been killed with eleven followers in a clash with government troops yesterday near Lazpita, in southeastern San Luis Potosi state.

The ministry said Hipolito Cedillo was heading a rebel band of 150 men.

This group clashed with a column of the government's 35th cavalry regiment.

At San Luis Potosi, army fliers said they had bombed Ex-Gen.

LAREDO, May 23 (AP)—The Laredo Times said today three aviators of the forces of Saturnino Cedillo, rebellious former Mexican general, had been imprisoned at Nuevo Laredo after their arrest at the international bridge.

The three, Adolfo Pina, Enrique Frias, and Juan Frias, a mechanic had in their possession a large amount of money when they were arrested at immigration quarters on the Mexican side of the bridge, the Times said.

The raid was in retaliation for an attack made Saturday by a fast white plane on the field headquarters of President Laredo Cardenas at Villa Hermosa, three miles from the city of San Luis Potosi.

Four bombs dropped by the white plane exploded in an air field near the residence from which President Cardenas is directing military forces trying to crush the Cedillo insurrection.

The army fliers said they found Cedillo's hidden air base near a place called Santo Domingo, a point not shown on maps but which is believed to be in the rugged Huasteca region.

Raid On Village
Meanwhile, a rebel plane was reported to have bombed the village of Buenavista, near Ciudad Mier, spreading terror among the inhabitants and causing them to flee. It could not be learned immediately whether there were any casualties from the two bombs which fell in the village.

Ciudad Mier is the town in which General Cedillo, in his teens, organized his first rebel force to fight against President Porfirio Diaz.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS TO BE ON AUG. 27

AUSTIN, May 23 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred said today he probably would call several special elections for August 27, date of the second democratic primary, to fill legislative posts vacated by death or resignations.

One such position is that of Senator William R. Newton of Cameron (who died Saturday. Other places, the governor said, are those of Reps. Harry N. Graves of Georgetown, appointed to the bench of the court of criminal appeals, Bullock of Hyder of Lewisville, Chas. D. Rutts of Columbus, Byron England of McKinney, Samuel A. Jones, Jr., of Lufkin and Doyle Settles of Lubbock.

10,000 Chinese Reported To Have Surrendered Since Fall Of Suchow

By ELMER W. PETERSON
WITH THE JAPANESE ARMY IN CENTRAL CHINA, May 23 (AP)—The Japanese field command said today that 10,000 demoralized Chinese soldiers have surrendered since the fall of Suchow.

The number of prisoners mounted rapidly as Japanese forces relentlessly pursued fragments of the routed Chinese army fleeing from the conquered central China railroad zone.

Flying over the Suchow area in a Japanese war plane, I saw a ghastly spectacle of desperate, shattered Chinese fighting for their lives in the Suchow trap.

The Japanese said they had narrowed the trap down to an area roughly 12 miles in diameter, centering on the Lushan hills midway between Suchow and Suhsien.

Passing over Suchow at 500 feet, it could be plainly seen that the Japanese were in full possession of that city, junction of the Lushan and Tientsin-Pukow railways. The rising sun flag floated over the city and it swarmed with Japanese troops, tanks and trucks.

Hitler Given A Powerful Warning

France, Britain Tell Him There'll Be No War

PARIS, May 23 (AP)—Informed quarters reported today that France and Britain had joined in warning Germany that Czechoslovakia could not be made the theater of a war like that in Spain.

France Would Fight
Informed persons said the British-French warning was delivered by Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, in one of his visits to the Wilhelmstrasse during the current German-Czechoslovak crisis.

France had left no doubt that she would fight any unprovoked aggression against Czechoslovakia.

Although the first of three consecutive Sunday elections of communal officials in Czechoslovakia had passed without a major incident, French officials viewed the situation as only temporarily relieved.

They insisted the crisis was far from ended.

If German arms were used to start a revolt of the Sudeten Germans, the French said, there would be a "million incidents" which might afford an excuse for Adolf Hitler to march into Czechoslovakia.

That, the French said, would mean war.

AUSTIN, May 23 (AP)—The railroad commission today ordered the shutdown of Texas oil fields on Saturdays and Sundays to be continued through June.

All fields except Rodessa, on the Texas-Louisiana border, have been closed on Sundays for several months, and a Saturday shutdown was added during May.

Considering the Saturday and Sunday closings, the commission estimated Texas' average daily production in May was 1,184,485 barrels.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission member, said this was a time for oil producers to proceed with the greatest caution.

Prompt Apology For Incident At Bridge
BERLIN, May 23 (AP)—The official Czechoslovak press bureau reported today that Germany had received a prompt apology for an attempt by Czechoslovak soldiers to blow up a wooden bridge linking the two countries across the river at Berhartstahl.

Foreign Minister Kamil Krofta delivered the apology yesterday in Praha to German Minister Ernst Eisenlohr even before the latter was aware of the incident, the press bureau said.

The Czechoslovak military command condemned the attempt as "unauthorized." The official German news agency reported yesterday that German gendarmes found fused explosives attached to various sections of the bridge.

Czechoslovak soldiers were said to have fled back across the border when two German frontier officials approached.

Begin Debate On Wage And Hour Bill

Controversial Legislation Again Before House

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The house broke its rules committee's prolonged blockade of the revised wage-hour bill today by voting overwhelmingly to debate the measure immediately.

This action ratified a petition signed May 6 by 218 members to force the legislation to the floor in spite of the rules committee's steadfast refusal to give it preferential status.

Debate was limited to four hours but leaders said efforts of a southern bloc to make the measure more flexible might delay a final vote until late tomorrow.

It was the second time wage-hour legislation had come before the house in the last six months. It rejected a somewhat different version last December during the special session.

FDU Wants Change
Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote in favor of bringing the bill to the floor was 322 to 73.

Today's debate found President Roosevelt and his congressional leaders in the unusual position of being keenly anxious for passage of the bill but opposed to its inflexibility.

In recommending such legislation, the chief executive told the congress there were industrial and geographical diversities which "practical statesmanship cannot well ignore."

The revised measure, however, makes no provision for wage variations between the north and south, or between urban and rural communities. It would establish a universal minimum wage for interstate industry, starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents at the end of three years. Hours would start at 44 per week and drop to 40 in two years.

Premier And Nazi Chief In Parley

Hopes Brightened For Averting A Conflict

PRAHA, May 23 (AP)—Konrad Henlein, leader of Czechoslovakia's autonomy-seeking Germanic minority, and Premier Milan Hodze met tonight in a preliminary effort to settle their dispute, which had brought Europe dangerously near the brink of war.

Troop Withdrawal
Henlein returned to the capital by airplane soon after reports were received that German troops were withdrawing from the Czechoslovak border. Hopes for averting a serious central European conflict were considered appreciably brightened.

His talk with the Czechoslovak premier was considered a preliminary to real peace negotiations between the Praha government and the 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans, for whom Henlein considers himself spokesman.

Feeling that a victory had been won prevailed in Praha, augmented by the conviction that but for the obvious determination of the Czechs to defend their territory at all costs and against all odds Germany's Adolf Hitler would have made another lightning move.

Determined Stand
Official circles and the general public expressed not only relief over relaxation of international tension but also pride that Czechoslovakia's determined stand had helped thwart Hitler.

The peaceful passing of yesterday's municipal election day momentarily eased Czechoslovakia's fear of war with Germany, but the question of how her 3,500,000 Germanic minority shall be governed remained unsolved and full of trouble.

Czechoslovak leaders gave Britain and France full credit for their intervention in the interest of peace, but there was widespread satisfaction over the Praha government's unhesitating employment of troops to maintain internal discipline and guard the republic's borders.

He has been associated with Sherrod Bros. for the past ten years. His wife and two children will accompany him here to reside.

Work is progressing nicely on the building on Runnels street which is to house the new business, and Mr. Sherrod expressed hope everything will be ready for formal opening about July 1st. The new firm will carry a complete line of hardware, electrical fixtures, air conditioning units, washing machines, radios and all kinds of home appliances.

DATES FIXED FOR PRESENTATION OF AIRMAIL BRIEF

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Representative South (D-Tex) said today he had arranged for a Texas delegation to appear before Second Assistant Postmaster General Harlee Branch May 31 or June 1 to press their application for an air mail route from San Antonio to Amarillo.

The proposed route would include stops at San Angelo, Big Spring and Lubbock.

J. H. Greene of Big Spring, chairman of a West Texas committee supporting the application, is working with Representative South, Mahon, Jones and Maverick, whose districts would be served.

Highway Fencing Asked By West Texans As Aid To Curbing Crime

AUSTIN, May 23 (AP)—Recent unsolved murders in West Texas were cited today by a Culberson county delegation which asked the highway commission to fence highway 80, a transcontinental thoroughfare, as one factor in increasing the safety element on the heavily traveled road.

County Judge Burch Carson said lack of fences aided criminals who in several instances had preyed upon motorists in Culberson county. He specifically referred to the torture slayings of Mrs. Weston G. Frone and her daughter, Nancy, near Van Horn.

He said county officials since had received numerous letters in name by having corpses dumped quilting as to the safety of travel in the west West Texas area. R. L. Bobbitt, chairman, said the highway commission would "give every consideration" to fencing the road.

He added the highway department also had received many letters concerning advisability of travel through Culberson and other West Texas counties.

Speakers said fences were needed also to keep livestock off the road, adding stray animals caused frequent automobile accidents. However, they stressed original activities as the principal reason for fences, one delegate saying: "We have gotten a bad name by having corpses dumped quilting as to the safety of travel in out there."

A Questionmark

From Clovis, the question mark of the WT-NM baseball league, we hear dark rumors of a Black-out. The supreme test, said Manager Josh Billings, was on Sunday when the people of Clovis were called to support their ball club or give up organized baseball again. How they made out isn't known by this observer but it is hoped that the town will hang on until night baseball can be introduced.

The game has hardly been given a test there, Billings says he has been losing money since the beginning of the season and cannot afford to operate anymore.

Attendance is holding up in most of the other quarters. Big Spring is doing all right at the gate despite all reports to the contrary and the game is becoming more and more popular here. When night ball makes its debut, the game is expected to increase in popularity. Big Spring has always been a good baseball town and if the Barons are figuring in the WT-NM League fight at all within the near future, then President Jack Hutchison need not worry about the "take."

No arrangements have been made as to where the Clovis franchise would be moved if the show-down comes but Roswell may get the call. There have been rumors of Amarillo coming in but the Panhandle city is very quiet. Collier Parris, Lubbock scribe, said that he did not believe that Amarillo would go very well in this brand of ball.

The double defeat the Pioneers plastered on Hobbs Sunday may help Clovis a lot. The position of the outfit (sixth place) may have quite a bit to do with the attitude of the Clovis fans but then again it shouldn't effect the gate that much.

The proposition just hasn't caught on here yet.

Manager Billings, meanwhile, went on about his business of strengthening the nine. He released Henry Gior, pitcher; Dick Williams, third baseman, and William Pitts, outfielder, on his return to Clovis, adding two recruits and his earnest efforts were successful in snapping a losing streak.

Leading The Loop In Base Steals

Although the Barons have had more than their share of men caught trying to pilfer a sack or two, Manager Charles Barnabe, a firm believer in setting up a potential run, keeps on giving his men the steal signal at every opportunity. As a result, the locals are probably leading the entire loop in steals.

In the final game against Clovis Saturday afternoon, they swiped four basebats, Hurier Johnny Soden sliding home safely on one occasion.

Best Attack Of Entire Season

Greatly on the current road trip of the locals, is the terrific clouting that is being done. They were slowed up somewhat in the Lubbock double header but part of that can be attributed to the high wind. In the Friday game with Clovis they clouted out 23 base hits, including five triples.

A feature of the Big Spring attack in Friday's game was the steady rapping of Jerry Varrelman, reserve catcher, who heretofore had collected only one hit. Jerry clouted four singles.

Rat Ramey, who didn't show much here but whom local fans really believe is "the goods," broke loose in the Friday game with four for five, getting two triples and two singles while Hank Henderson was almost as good, recording four singles and batting in four runs.

The Lubbock crew has two week spots that must be filled before it can be counted. Pope Mize is not a capable rightfielder and Bob Mosel, first baseman, simply can't hit this kind of pitching.

Big Spring will be fighting for fourth place in the standings when Midland's Cardinals come to town Tuesday. Fincher Withers brings a stronger crew to town this time.

Either Cliff Neighbors or Tommy Warren is expected to start for Midland.

Local Course In Shape For Meet

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—One of the most remarkable things about this War Admiral-Seabiscuit match race at Belmont Park next Monday is the way all the elements place together to make it a natural clash of opposites. A Ziegfeld or a Rickard scarcely could have done better.

The more fanciful are comparing the two equine antagonists to Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, though it seems a little tough on the Admiral to cast him in the Dempsey role before he has swung a punch. Generally speaking, though, there is a similarity, and even the rival jockeys fit into the picture.

War Admiral is a spirited, high-strung hunk of horseflesh who likes to come out swinging and get it over with. Seabiscuit doesn't work himself into a lather about any horse. He feels, very sensibly, that the important thing is to have his nose in front at the finish.

Charlie Kurtsinger, who will ride the Admiral, is a lot like his famous steed. He's a chatty, cocksure little guy.

"Sure, I'm going to jump right out in front and keep going," he says, confidently, because I know War Admiral can outrun any horse on the track today. I hope Seabiscuit makes it close, though."

Red Pollard is different. He's a quiet and contained as Seabiscuit. An honest little cuss, Kurtsinger won't say that War Admiral is the best horse he ever rode. In fact, he ranks him third, behind Twenty Grand and Sun Beau. But he thinks the Admiral is a lot of horse and too much for Seabiscuit.

Jockeys Sure Of Victory

By HANK HART

LUBBOCK, May 23—The mighty men of the Texas Hub, Lubbock's WT-NM league leading nine, dubbed a 7-4 licking on Big Spring's corps of baseballers in the first game of a bargain bill before a large crowd here Sunday afternoon and then countered with a flurry of "money" licks and a typical Panhandle duster to take the nightcap, 6-3.

The Millermen did it the hard way, too. They had to come from behind with home runs barrage in the first game and then face Johnny Soden, the curve ball artist, in the seven inning aftermath.

Jacot, staked to a one run lead as far along as the seventh inning in the opener, pitched a home run ball to Al Carr in that mill, then made the same mistake with Pope Mize in the eighth. Both blows were high pop flies were caught by the strong wind and went sailing over the right field barrier.

In Bad Way
The Baron southpaw maneuvered himself into a bad position in the opening inning when four successive bingles, two of them of the scratch variety, and a long fly enabled the Hubbers to shoot from the rail with a three run advantage.

The Barons collected their bearings in the third, however, scoring three runs and then went out ahead in the fourth by counting a single tally. In the fifth third, Berndt worked Bill Terry, Lubbock twirler, for a pass, went to second on Jacot's blow into right field and scored on "Double" Decker's single past Shortstop Gedzius. Hobson grounded to Mosel who tried for Jacot at the plate but the left-handed slid in safe for the second run. Henderson grounded to Gedzius who nipped Hobson at second but Siegbert dropped a Texas League behind second base to score Decker. Saporito, after doubling to begin the fourth, scored on Harkey's base hit.

CATS TRIM OILERS TWICE TO GIVE MISSIONS GOOD LEAD

By The Associated Press
The San Antonio Missions, winners over the Houston Buffs in two straight games will be the second place Tulsa Oilers dropped a couple games to the Fort Worth Cats, held a comfortable margin in the Texas league race today.

The advantage of John Grodzicki's wildness to win last night's game, 6-3. Grodzicki walked nine men.

By scores of 2-1 the Cats took the Oilers into camp. In the opener Jack Reid outpitched Max Thomas.

In the nightcap T. Paul Le Blanc, bested George Miletad.

The Dallas Steers lost both ends of a double-header to the Oklahoma City Indians, both scores being 3-1. The loss dropped Dallas into sixth place below Fort Worth.

At Beaumont, Dixey Trout, Beaumont pitcher, stopped the Shreveport Spicars 3-2 in the first game, but Jim Brin came back to defeat the Shippers 3-1 in the second game.

Beaumont and Shreveport are tied today.

36 Compete In Exhibitions Sunday

Mrs. G. I. Phillips And Frank Stacey Win Low Gross

The team of Frank Stacey, Midland, and Mrs. G. I. Phillips, Big Spring, won low gross and the duo composed of Sammy Sain and Mrs. M. H. Bennett won now net in mixed foursome matches played over the country club Sunday.

Thirty six competed despite high winds that handicapped play. Of that number, five had come here to get acquainted with the local layout, preparing for the Big Spring Women's Invitational golf tournament which begins Wednesday with the qualifying round. Mr. and Mrs. Stacey, Mrs. Mobley, Mrs. Sonny Hartrider and Mrs. Elton Dozier, all of Midland, and Mrs. and Mrs. Theron Hicks of Odessa were on hand.

The local course is in good shape for the weekend meeting and qualifying figures of a year ago are expected to be bettered.

Miss Elinor Jones, due in Tuesday, was expected to practice over the 18-hole sand greened layout before qualifying day. She posted an 88 for her qualifying round last year and expected to do much better this time.

Many other West Texas stars are expected to arrive in time for practice rounds Tuesday. Mrs. R. E. Winger, Ft. Worth, was slated for arrival tomorrow morning while stars from Lubbock, San Angelo, Abilene and Clovis, N. M., were due in later in the day.

Bees Win Seventh In Row

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

If the durable arms of the veteran fingers hold out, Boston's Bees are going to give the Red Sox a run for their customers in one of the best baseball cities in the big leagues. Likewise they're going to give a lot of other National League clubs an argument about the pennant situation.

It's strange enough to see both Boston clubs up there in third place in their respective leagues, but the Bees' current winning streak bids fair to become a real sensation, overshadowing various other events of importance that took place yesterday on one of the busiest Sundays of the season.

The Bees, competing Chicago's Cubs, 2 to 3, in an eleven-inning mound duel between Lefty Mill Shoemaker, this year's 31-year-old "rookie," and Clay Bryant. It was their seventh straight.

Largest Turnout
The Bees, however, had to share the headlines with such matters as the biggest turnout of fans since the opening day, a total of 184,887; the New York Giants' hitting comeback; minor injuries to Cleveland's Bob Feller and the New York Yankees' "Iron Horse" Lou Gehrig; old Ted Lyons' 20th American League mound victory and Ruth York's game-winning homer with the bases full.

Shoffner manager to earn Boston the biggest type, however, when he not only pitched seventh-inning ball but singled home the winning run in the eleventh.

The biggest crowd of the season and the two injuries turned up in Cleveland, where $2,244 saw the Indians increase their American League lead by trouncing the Yankees, 8 to 3. Feller, after pitching one hit ball for three innings, retired when he began to feel twinges in the back muscles he strained two weeks ago. Gehrig pulled a charley horse in the sixth and retired, but teammates expected him to start in consecutive game No. 1,993 today.

Methodists Oppose Baptists In Game For Top Position

Softball teams of the First Methodist and First Baptist churches will do battle on the Munny diamond for the leadership of the Church softball league.

Each team has recorded two victories to date.

The Methodists will rely on either Bobby Savage or Howard Hart for box duty while the Baptists will use H. C. Burrus on the mound.

The game was scheduled to be played Friday night but was postponed due to high school activities.

The game scheduled for Tuesday evening has been postponed until Wednesday due to the graduation exercises of high school students. Recreational Director H. F. Malone announced.

Two Berths Remain In Davis Cup Play

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Only two berths remained to be filled today in the quarter-final round of the European zone Davis cup tennis competition, with Italy leading Poland in their match for an upper-half bracket and Yugoslavia leading Great Britain's inexperienced combination in their second-round match in the lower half of the draw.

Giovanni Canepa defeated Poland's Josef Heczel to give Italy first blood in singles yesterday, and Giorgio De Stefani of Italy was leading Ignacy Tloczynski, 6-4, 1-3, when rain halted play.

CATS TRIM OILERS TWICE TO GIVE MISSIONS GOOD LEAD

By The Associated Press
The San Antonio Missions, winners over the Houston Buffs in two straight games will be the second place Tulsa Oilers dropped a couple games to the Fort Worth Cats, held a comfortable margin in the Texas league race today.

The advantage of John Grodzicki's wildness to win last night's game, 6-3. Grodzicki walked nine men.

By scores of 2-1 the Cats took the Oilers into camp. In the opener Jack Reid outpitched Max Thomas.

In the nightcap T. Paul Le Blanc, bested George Miletad.

The Dallas Steers lost both ends of a double-header to the Oklahoma City Indians, both scores being 3-1. The loss dropped Dallas into sixth place below Fort Worth.

At Beaumont, Dixey Trout, Beaumont pitcher, stopped the Shreveport Spicars 3-2 in the first game, but Jim Brin came back to defeat the Shippers 3-1 in the second game.

Beaumont and Shreveport are tied today.

Local Course In Shape For Meet

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—One of the most remarkable things about this War Admiral-Seabiscuit match race at Belmont Park next Monday is the way all the elements place together to make it a natural clash of opposites. A Ziegfeld or a Rickard scarcely could have done better.

The more fanciful are comparing the two equine antagonists to Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, though it seems a little tough on the Admiral to cast him in the Dempsey role before he has swung a punch. Generally speaking, though, there is a similarity, and even the rival jockeys fit into the picture.

Mrs. G. I. Phillips And Frank Stacey Win Low Gross

The team of Frank Stacey, Midland, and Mrs. G. I. Phillips, Big Spring, won low gross and the duo composed of Sammy Sain and Mrs. M. H. Bennett won now net in mixed foursome matches played over the country club Sunday.

Thirty six competed despite high winds that handicapped play. Of that number, five had come here to get acquainted with the local layout, preparing for the Big Spring Women's Invitational golf tournament which begins Wednesday with the qualifying round. Mr. and Mrs. Stacey, Mrs. Mobley, Mrs. Sonny Hartrider and Mrs. Elton Dozier, all of Midland, and Mrs. and Mrs. Theron Hicks of Odessa were on hand.

The local course is in good shape for the weekend meeting and qualifying figures of a year ago are expected to be bettered.

Miss Elinor Jones, due in Tuesday, was expected to practice over the 18-hole sand greened layout before qualifying day. She posted an 88 for her qualifying round last year and expected to do much better this time.

Many other West Texas stars are expected to arrive in time for practice rounds Tuesday. Mrs. R. E. Winger, Ft. Worth, was slated for arrival tomorrow morning while stars from Lubbock, San Angelo, Abilene and Clovis, N. M., were due in later in the day.

Keller Slated To Take Over Hill Duties

By HANK HART

Withers To Bring Better Team; Strength Has Been Added

Marvin Keller, whose arm went "haywire" as the WT-NM league season opened a month ago, will get a chance to show that he has entirely recovered Tuesday afternoon when he takes the mound against the Midland Cardinals in Baron park in a game beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

Keller has been working diligently in an effort to get back in shape and appealed for reinstatement on the Barons' staff. President Jack Hutchison said he would be returned to take the place of Pat Stacey, right-hander, who is in Hobbs, N. M., for treatment of his ailing flipper.

The Cardinals, despite the fact that they are still resting in fifth place in the league standings, will bring a strong team to Big Spring in an attempt to win their first game of the year in Baron park. Manager Fincher Withers has plucked several of the weak spots in the lineup, putting new material at short stop and third base.

The Cards' pitching selection will probably be either Cliff Neighbors or Tommy Warren.

Johnnie Goodman Routs Robert Montgomerie; To Meet Billows

TRON, Scotland, May 23 (AP)—The United States Walker Cuppers, buffeted around by a gusty north-west wind, made a good start today in the British amateur golf championship, but three other Americans were eliminated in first-round matches.

U. S. Amateur Champion Johnny Goodman, of Omaha; Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Charles (Chuck) Koops, of Detroit; Marvin (Bud) Ward, of Olympia, Wash., and Team Captain Francis Outmet, Boston veteran, all came through to victory.

The triumphs for Goodman and Billows assured them meeting in the second round tomorrow. Goodman defeated the New Yorker in the 36-hole final of the American championship last year.

The three Americans who were eliminated were Bobby Dunkelberger of High Point, N. C.; Charles S. Munson, Jr., of Fairfield, Conn., and Yale university, and Arthur V. Rogers, Jr., of Winchester, Mass.

Goodman routed Robert Montgomerie, 7 and 5, while Ward turned back Israel Edmond, 5 and 3.

Billows eliminated Raymond Quiter, 3 and 2, and thus earned the right to play Goodman in the second round.

Brides Of 1938 Are Seeking Novelty In Their Wedding Costumes, Long Trains And Short Veils

By ADELAIDE KERR, Fashion Editor

Brides of 1938 are seeking novelty in their wedding costumes.

Dressmakers who have gowned some of the year's most famous brides say they never knew a season when so many tried to be different.

It's largely a difference in accessories and attendants' costumes, however. White or ivory gowns, trains and veils will still be in the lead when those glamorous wedding pageants begin to move down flower-banked aisles this June.

But there is news in the way in which that traditional wedding paraphernalia is handled. Shoes, gowns of silk net, tulle, marquisette and lace are in favor this year, though a number of the most fashionable spring brides have clung to the satin.

One Set Above Another Many are inspired by period silhouettes—the lines of the Gibson Girl's high necked frock or of a Winterhalter belle's off-shoulder gown. Their skirts are often very full and frequently numerous— one set over another. One of the newest white net gowns has little silver love birds tacked to the second skirt so that they shimmer through the net.

Trains are very long and veils short, unless a bride insists on a train-length veil for an elaborate church wedding. Even those are generally topped by a short one, however, so that the bride may have that airy, flattering fluff around her face.

Color lends novelty to this year's wedding pageants. A number of June brides will walk to the altar in gowns of pale pink or pale heaven blue with attendants costumed in the same shades. A Boston bride chose mist gray tulle for her bridal gown and dressed her attendants in vivid American beauty fairs.

Fair Pink To Deep Rose Warren Parling's bride selected heaven blue satin frocks and apple blossom bouquets for her bridesmaids in contrast to her own ivory satin gown, while a white-robed bride from the South put her attendants in frocks which shaded from palest pink to deep rose.

More innovations are noticeable in flowers, says Irene Hayes, who has designed the wedding bouquets for some of America's most beautiful brides. This year color adds spice, garden flowers are combined with hot house blooms and both are handled in intriguing ways. Bouquets are not so large and almost no foliage is used.

One recent New York bride carried a bouquet of parchment roses rimmed with iris petals, another a white tulle fan covered with orange blossoms and a third a bouquet of lilacs and orchids fringed with tulle.

Regardless of novelty, however, most of this year's brides strive for one result in their wedding costumes — an effect of demureness and youth.

READING AND WRITING

THE FORBIDDEN GROUND, by Neil H. Swanson; (Farrar & Rinehart; $2.50).

"The Forbidden Ground" is Neil H. Swanson's new historical romance. As he himself told this writer some months past in Baltimore, the book was written as relief, in the interstices of research and work on a much more ambitious project. Mr. Swanson does not take "The Forbidden Ground" very seriously as history. He even confessed how the map used for the front end papers was prepared. It seems that it was sketched on some Baltimore Sun copy paper, and the paper was thrown on the floor, walked on, folded and refolded. Then it was photographed, and the result was a map which showed its age unmistakably. Or seemed to. So although there is a lot of perfectly sound material in the book, its author does not want it judged on historical ground, but as a romance. And as such it is a first rate job—perhaps even more readable than its predecessors, and certainly more light hearted. Not that all the story is gay; there are serious difficulties, murders, treacheries, hardships and so on. But the author is far enough away from the serious implications to play with them, as it were. It does something very pleasant to the text. The story begins at Detroit—spelled De Troit throughout the novel. The British have been for some years in command of what once was a French post, and in this time the American Revolution has begun. Detroit's value to the British (as formerly to the French) is the fur trade. Because this has real value the British intend by one or another means to control it, and are seizing every small pretext to squeeze out the French who still have trading posts and routes. Besides, the British are nervous about the Revolutionists. In spite of the difficulty of an attack on a post so far west as Detroit, the attack is feared.

Such is Mr. Swanson's background. Against it he draws a picture of manly struggle, struggle less manly, and a first rate love story. The woman Merrily is a genuine creation, and so is Baril MacGregor, who plays opposite her in the piece. The narrative is peppered with fully realized characters, and nervous with action. It is fast and absorbing reading.

Nothing Ahead BUT THE BAND In This Parade Of SHOWMANSHIP

The band always leads the parade. That is as it should be. But right behind the band comes the features—the highlight of the parade. To be the feature of the Parade of Showmanship, a radio station must be eternally "on its toes," so to speak. During the past week Station KBST is happy to have presented a group of programs unexcelled even by the networks with their millions in human interest and thrills. In this advertisement are depicted scenes from three of these "shows"—programs that cause the spotlight on radio stations everywhere to be focused on

Your Radio Station KBST 1500 Kilocycles

Station KBST would be amiss of its duty should it not express its appreciation to those individuals whose wholehearted cooperation during the past week made possible these SHOWMANSHIP programs. The staff members of YOUR Radio Station are deeply grateful to Bob Schermerhorn for the unstinted time, effort and expense to which he went to aid this station in its portion of the promotion of Air Mail week; to Postmaster Nat Shick; to the American Airlines staff at the Big Spring Airport, to the Federal Communications Commission and to all others who cooperated so generously, we are indeed grateful. To the individual, unfamiliar with rules, regulations and technicalities, the short-wave broadcasts from Bob Schermerhorn's plane Thursday perhaps are regarded in a matter-of-fact manner. But so difficult are they that few stations ever attempted them. To radio station staffs everywhere, those broadcasts were regarded as "really something."

To Spanky McFarland, who brought laughter and entertainment to thousands of listeners; to Bob Wadlow, the "world's tallest man," and to the many others who made the past week an outstanding week in SHOWMANSHIP for KBST, again we say: "Thank You!"

And to our listeners everywhere we pledge anew our determination always to provide the best programs humanly possible.

In the meantime keep a-listenin' to... KBST ...the showmanship station

VOTERS FOLLOW THEIR OWN MINDS

Pennsylvania democrats — and believe it or not, there's a lot of them in the Keystone State — have made plain that they want no part of parcel of John Lewis and his CIO in their political affairs, even though so eminent an adviser as Jim Farley urged that the Lewis controlled voters be given a break.

The result is gratifying on at least two counts—that the CIO is not approved and that the interference of a holder of a high Federal office, a member of the president's cabinet, is not allowed to tell voters what to do. Advice, when asked, is properly given but voluntary advice is seldom relished and almost never followed.

Pennsylvania four years ago elected a democratic governor, the first in forty-four years. They may be unable to repeat this year, but at least they will go down in defeat, if they fail, with the knowledge that they have refused to make a deal with a disturbing element. There are times when expediency is above expediency and this becomes to be one of such times.

Federal interference in state affairs is always resented, at least in election matters. The states may be willing to accept Federal money for internal improvements and to relinquish many of their old-time rights to the central government, but it is rather clear that they are not ready to take advice from Washington on the choosing of their state officials, and this is a most commendable attitude.

JUDICIAL POWER IN THE BUREAUS

Court power would be confined to review of rate making and regulatory orders of Federal agencies if Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture has his wish, and perhaps purpose, if his expression at a press conference recently is to be taken seriously. And judging by other radical things the secretary advocates, he is extremely serious in his belief that this should be made law.

The secretary professes to see that the courts are taking over the rate making and regulatory functions of the administrative agencies, and in his mind an agency established by the congress has equal or greater rights than the courts provided by the constitution. His assertion that the acts of the agencies are "the will of the people" and that they are thwarted by "tortuous legal maneuvers and delays" may be correct as to delays, but his statement that the acts of the agencies are the will of the people needs some proving.

It will be a sad day for this country when power is given the various bureaus and commissions created by the congress to make rules that have the effect of law without recourse to a constituted court, where proceedings are conducted according to well established rules of evidence and procedure. The effect of this would be continual repetition of the action of the commission investigating radio, which refused to hear rebuttal testimony from the radio people, intended to disprove some of the findings of the commission.

No court will deny a hearing to both sides of a controversy, no matter what the controversy may be, whether over property rights of human life or liberty. And no commission or bureau should be allowed to make rules affecting the property or person of anyone without that person having the undeniable right to a hearing in a court and adjudication by a court.

HENLEIN IN LONDON—III

It is admittedly difficult for an American to criticize British foreign policy, because for twenty years this country has been the world's moral mentor, and often common scold.

Except for Mr. Hull's trade policy, which has had a clear line, our foreign policy has largely consisted of affirming moral principles, and at the same time making it clear that we would do nothing whatever to see that those moral principles were enforced unless American interests were specifically involved.

Now, the very people who have supported our own isolationism are hugely indignant when Great Britain adopts something of the same attitude. The people of the United States would undoubtedly like to see Fascism checked in this world, and when Great Britain shows a disinclination to check it at the possible cost of war, our very isolationists grow indignant and begin to tell Great Britain what she ought to do.

This attitude on our part undoubtedly arises from the unconscious thought that British institutions are seriously threatened by the increasing victories of Fascism, while ours are not. This is, I believe, a supreme illusion on our part. Specifically, the triumphs of Fascism in Spain will, without the shadow of a doubt, have repercussions on the whole Spanish-speaking world, and the most important outposts of that world are in South America. If a victorious Franco goes into cahoots with the Germans and perhaps the Italians to exploit that world, with the political and economic devices which Fascism has so ingeniously perfected, our trade with South America and our influence there will be seriously affected, and the Monroe Doctrine, which is our only consistent and traditional foreign policy, will be challenged.

The American attitude toward Europe consists in the comfortable belief that all countries and notably Great Britain are trying to trap us into an alliance—that "England expects every American to do his duty." That we may some day wish somebody else to do his duty by us never seems to cross our minds.

Having said these words about our own ostrichism, one can with better grace regard the ostrichism of Mr. Chamberlain. Great Britain is rearming. The object of that rearmament is Germany. The British population does not start in its beds if an automobile backfires in the streets because it fears that a Russian bomb, or a French bomb or a Czechoslovak bomb has exploded, it starts because it fears a German bomb.

It is not the fear of Russia or Czechoslovakia that has led Mr. Chamberlain into making the most uncompromising military alliance with France that has ever existed in history. It is the fear of Germany. The British military policy is based on the assumption of a possible war with Germany. But this does not seem to be the assumption of the diplomatic policy. For while arming for war, the Chamberlain government is apparently working toward setting up a new Holy Alliance, a tax tyrannical, which will, it is fondly hoped, maintain peace, and which will strengthen at the same time the only potential enemies.

The internal political results of this dual policy begin to be apparent. The Chamberlain government is deeply unpopular. The British people, while called on to sacrifice themselves to arm England, begin to wonder for what purpose they are arming her. When they think of defending England they think not only of English soil and the British Empire, but of those British institutions associated with the words freedom and democracy.

Once they think that the defense of these things is being abandoned they wonder why he so zealous to defend. The political disaffection is being shown in the by-elections. In the House of Commons there are complaints that the rearmament program is going along too slowly. There is difficulty with labor, and the Labor party indicates why this is so: white labor is being asked to be prepared to defend democratic England, the British government is selling out democratic principles in all directions in the hope of maintaining peace.

While it is rearming it is making every conceivable concession to the only powers that threaten peace, and each of these concessions strengthens those powers. The argument is made that Britain is not yet prepared, and that some day in the future, with more airplanes and other weapons, she will be able to take a firmer stand.

But meanwhile Mr. Henlein feels it quite in order to go to England to try to get British support for pressing the Czechoslovak government into greater concessions to the German Nazi movement, despite the fact that if Henlein gets what he wants, Czechoslovakia will be delivered over, either to serious internal strife or to becoming an aid and abettor of Germany.

These are the moral principles which we are affirming. The people of the United States would undoubtedly like to see Fascism checked in this world, and when Great Britain shows a disinclination to check it at the possible cost of war, our very isolationists grow indignant and begin to tell Great Britain what she ought to do.

A Germany that can depend upon the neutrality of the Czech army, and that can get across to the grain fields of Hungary and the oil and mines of Rumania, will be an enormously strong enemy and an extremely uncomfortable and dominating friend.

And, as it happens, Czechoslovakia has right now more troops, airplanes, and equipment than Britain can train, build, or buy, in any foreseeable future, and has announced that she will use them if her sovereignty is threatened.

The only thing that might persuade her not to use them would be if she were deserted by everybody. Even then, she might use them. And in that case even the peace-at-any-price policy of the British, would prove to be futile.

The Czechs are among the most realistic people in the world. They are passionately quiet patriots, who marched half-way around the world in the last war to fight on the allied side for their national freedom. At that time they took a very long risk. Right in the heart of the German orbit, they joined the allied cause at the moment when it looked weakest. And it is by no means certain whether they would have waited and worked three hun-dered years for independence, they will give it up without a fight. And if Czechoslovakia is turned into another Spain, there will be a great many people who will march more than half-way around the world to defend her cause. Mankind as well as God love those who help themselves.

So, if Britain writes off Czechoslovakia, she has no guaranty of peace, but barbers away arms that she might use.

It may be that Great Britain has written America off her books as any potential source of help in a crisis, but it ought to be put on the record that the Chamberlain policy has brought British stock to an all-time low among the people of this country, and that French docility to that policy has had the same effect on the attitude of Americans toward France.

This country has no love for the British empire. We do have affection for certain British institutions which the British people are still prepared to defend. They are the most powerful bonds that unite the two countries. But I don't think the country would ever fight in any showdown on an English sympathetic to Hitler or in any way waiting and worked three hun-

A great many Americans who were in favor of the embargo on arms to Spain, because they believe that Great Britain and France were ready to enforce genuine non-intervention there, feel that we were sold out, and became unwittingly the ally of one side in the civil war.

Of course, there are circles in the United States who, though they might prefer to preserve democracy, provided it can be kept sufficiently antiseptic, are so scared of Communism that they prefer Hitler to Stalin, and, like their British brethren, hope that Hitler will eventually "clean up the Bolshevik menace" or that Germany and Russia will spring at each other's throats and weaken themselves in war. But these circles are small.

Nobody is afraid of Russian armed aggression against any democratic western power, and what sympathy there is for Russian Communism derives from this fact. If it becomes clear that Russia is the only country on earth that will defend small democracies while great democracies are prepared to bargain them away, then heaven help the great democracies!

The only advantages which the dictatorships possess today derive from the clearness of their policies and from the fact that the imaginations of their leaders encompass a wider range of possibilities.

The failure to comprehend the dictatorial mind is the greatest weakness of democracy. Democratic governments cannot wholly accept the possibility of war. All the dictatorships accept it with complete realism. That is their strength, and not the fact that they are better able to fight. They are not.

The dictatorships do not weaken themselves for the sake of maintaining peace. They strengthen themselves at the risk of war.

The fascist powers do not put any limit whatsoever upon their possible expansion. Hitler dreamed in 1924 of making Germany the sovereign of the continent of Europe, and there is not the slightest reason to believe that he has ever abandoned that dream or ever will abandon it unless it is perfectly clear that he can't realize it.

The dictatorships shrink before no methods, nor do they dream of asking for universal rules to apply to themselves as well as others. They will arrest and condemn to death any foreigner who attempts intervention in their internal affairs, but they openly announce a policy of intervening in other countries' internal affairs.

And at not a point do they meet organized unequivocal opposition. On the contrary, and because of the hope of maintaining peace, they receive collaboration.

Hitler did not annex Austria until he was perfectly sure that nobody was going to oppose him. He got the equivalent of that assurance, as far as Britain was concerned, from Lord Halifax. I doubt whether Lord Halifax openly gave that assurance, but he certainly conveyed to Hitler the impression that Britain would be disinterested, and unless things are going on of which we are not informed—for pre-war secret diplomacy is on again with a vengeance—the same impression is being conveyed to Hitler regarding Czechoslovakia.

The effect of all this is not only to fill fascist powers with a sense of arrogance, but what is much worse, to fill the democratic countries with a sense of defeatism. They are vastly overrating the actual power of the dictatorships, and vastly underrating their own, and by this fact they are contributing to making the fascist least a

Chapter 14
ASEY IN DISGUISE

Asey walked back to the kitchen door and yelled for Jennie. "Where's Syd's truck?" "That old thing? Down in the back garden. He was gettin' loam." "He won't need it today if he's quohoggin'." Asey said, "I'm goin' to take it. An' where's my old paintin' overalls an' coat?"

"Asey Mayo," Jennie said in desperation, "you can't wear them in public! They're all torn, so torn I didn't even mend 'em."

"Jennie," Asey said, "you roust out my paintin' overalls, an' my coat. An' that cap."

"Not that cap! Oh, Asey, you can't go out wearin' that cap! It'll make you look like Uncle Corry!" Asey shouted. Uncle Corry, one of the family's blackest sheep, had died in the drumkard's home.

"Go long, Jennie," he said. "I'm supposedly not workin' on this case—an' don't you dare tell a soul I am, hear me? Less you want Pam Frye in jail! If I go in my car, with my ev'nyday clothes, they'll bother the life out of me."

"You're goin' to disguise yourself!" Jennie said. "Oh, I see. I didn't understand."

"I'm goin' disguised as Uncle Corry," Asey told her with a grin. "An' you don't bustle, I'll get real props, like a bottle of gin for my hip pocket. I sort of think that people won't pay much attention to me, in that outfit, an' with Syd's truck."

When he reappeared in ten minutes, Jennie freely admitted that she had never seen the like in all her born days, never.

"Look here, woman," Asey picked up a cap from the table, "this ain't the one I mean. This is my nice clean new one. I want the old dirty one that says in red letters 'USE PILLY'S PAINT—DO YOU!'"

"Asey, please!" Asey roared in his quarterdeck below until Jennie, to stop the noise, reluctantly produced it.

"I'll make you look just like a convict, with that funny visor. You use Pilly's Paint—you know right well that you do no such thing!"

Asey laughed. "Then that makes it more of a disguise than meets the eye, don't it? Anyone that knows me knows I don't use Pilly's Paint, an'—oh, let it pass," he added hurriedly, noticing her expression of bewilderment. "Let it pass!"

Jennie eyed the Colt he inserted in a shoulder holster under his painting coat. "If you was settin' out to see anyone but Nettie Hobbs," she remarked, "I'd say for you to leave that thing behind. But she deserves a gun poked at her! What're you waitin' for, why'n't you get started?"

"Sore about The Murar?" "Glasses," Asey said. "I'm't there an' old pair with gold rims around someone's? They belong to someone or other. You find 'em while I get me the rest of my trappin's."

PARENTS OF SLAIN GIRL WILL HELP ACCUSED YOUTH

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Donald Carroll, Jr., went on trial on a charge of first degree murder today cheered by the promise of aid from the parents of the sweetheart he is accused of slaying.
 Fred Mattiesen, father of the pretty 18-year-old blonde typist whom police say young Carroll shot to death March 24 in an unfilled suicide pact, joined with the boy's parents in an attempt to save him from punishment.
 "My wife and I will testify at Donald's trial for him," he said. "He was like my own son."

Mrs. Mattiesen termed the death of her daughter, Charlotte, "a tragedy of adolescence" when Donald was arraigned April 7, she put her arm around his shoulder to console him and told him to "keep your chin up."
 District Attorney Charles F. Sullivan said the youth, a brilliant New York University student, told him he and Charlotte had decided on a death pact as "the only way out" when they discovered she was pregnant.
