Demo Committee
Arranges For July 23 Vote

Places on the ballot were assigned to 44 district, county and precinct candidates by the county executive democratic committee in session Monday morning.

Announcing that places had been drawn for ballot arrangement, Grover B. Cunningham, chairman of the committee, said also that fees totaling $875 for county and precinct offices had been assessed.

All district offices, he said, carried $1 ballot fee, fixed by statute. Unopposed county officials were assessed a ballot fee of $50 while contested ones had to pay in $25 each. Only exceptions were the county superintendent's position, which drew $35 as an uncontested place, and the treasurer's race, requiring $25 each from three contestants. The difference in the two offices was due to salary variances.

Commissioners posts, all contested, had a ballot fee of $20 each. Justice of peace and constable had a $15 fee. Two precinct public weigher positions had $2.50 fees and the county surveyor was assessed a $5 ballot fee.

Candidates have until Saturday to pay their ballot fees, said Cunningham. Payments should be made to L. S. Patterson, secretary-treasurer of the executive committee.

The fees will provide for printing of ballots for both the first and second primaries, the chairman declared.

Official ballot with candidate names in the order they will appear on July 23 appear on page six of this issue of The Herald.

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80, good.

Public Works Projects To

Many Jobs Ready
To Start When FD
Signs Fund Bill

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Heads of five government spending agencies pledged today a quick start on the administration's $3,753,000,000 relief and public works program.

Their detailed outlines for hundreds of bridges, sewers and roads, schools, airports, low-cost housing developments, dams, harbors and flood control units awaited only the president's signing of the bill.

In addition, the agriculture department studied disbursement of parity payments to farmers growing wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice. Loans for farmers unable to get credit and subsistence grants for low-income farmers also are being arranged.

The five federal officials discussed their programs last night in a radio forum. Here is a summary of what they said:

Harry A. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator: The $1,325,000,000 paid to WPA workers will flow into trade channels in their living costs—$515,000,000 for food, $220,000,000 for rent, $150,000,000 for household expenses, and the rest for medical care, transportation and other items.

No Delay
Howard A. Gray, assistant administrator of public works: "It is our firm purpose to get to work on all public works projects as fast as we can so that large orders for materials and supplies will be placed without delay and so that benefit becomes to private industry before the builders start construction."

Nathan Straus, United States housing administrator: Through the slum-clearance and low-cost housing program, "slum dwellers will benefit by being given an opportunity for new and better lives; wage earners will benefit by being called back to productive jobs; taxpayers will benefit by a lessening of the burden on the slums to mean less disease, less juvenile delinquency, less crime and reduced expenses for hospitals, insane asylums, reformatories and jails."

Brig. Gen. John J. Kingman, acting chief of army engineers: "More than 100 flood control projects and more than 400 river and harbor projects, 75 per cent or more of all the money spent on such work goes for labor, either direct or indirect; and we have plans already prepared which will permit us to start work immediately."

Secretary Wallace: Through the ever-normal granary system, "the farm plan will safeguard consumers against shortages and extremely high prices, and protect the farmers against extremely low prices."

Powers Work Further
To Check Spread
Of Spanish War

By The Associated Press
Japan today notified the powers her war against China probably would extend far beyond its present limits while the major powers of Europe renewed efforts to prevent the spread of Spain's civil war beyond Spanish frontiers.

General Kaseki, Utagaki, Japan's new foreign minister, in a circular statement to foreign embassies and legations in Tokyo, warned neutral powers to withdraw their nationals and vessels from a vast prospective war zone extending roughly 700 miles inland from China's coasts.

Informed persons said the British government would consider possibilities of a truce in the Spanish war, while Britain's ambassador in Rome and Italy's foreign minister canvassed possibilities of putting into effect the two powers' April 16 accord without waiting for the war in Spain to end.

The French government was reported to have decided to send an informal diplomatic mission to the Spanish insurgent regime and it was disclosed France already had drawn their nationals and vessels from a vast prospective war zone extending roughly 700 miles inland from China's coasts.

18 Are Indicted
On Charges Of

Federal Grand Jury Acts After
First Broad Espionage Probe
Since War; Germans Named

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—Three indictments naming 18 persons were returned today by the federal grand jury which has been engaged in the government's first intensive espionage investigation since the World war.

The indictments were based on four weeks of closed hearings, during which scores of men and women were questioned, and several months of inquiry.

Two surprise witnesses—Johanna Hofmann, 26, red-haired hairdresser on the North German Lloyd liner Europa and Private Erich Glaser, attached to the army air corps at Mitchell Field—were called before the grand jury shortly before the indictments were returned. Each is now held in $25,000 bail on complaints alleging espionage activities. Neither had previously appeared before the grand jury.

The jury filed a conspiracy indictment naming 18 individuals, some of them German officials residing in Germany, and two substantive indictments, setting forth activities allegedly engaged in by the various defendants.

Lamar Hardy, federal district attorney, said the directing heads of the alleged espionage ring live in Germany and are connected with the government of that country. He said they operated through agents living here and also through crew members of ships plying between Germany and the United States.

Those named included: Mrs. Jessie Jordan, recently sentenced in England to a four year jail term.

Johanna Hofmann, hairdresser on the German liner Europa, who is in custody.

Dr. Ignatz Theodor Griebel, American citizen who fled to Germany on the eve of the spy inquiry.

Werner Hermann Voss, aviation mechanic, who is in custody.

Erich Glaser, U. S. army private stationed at Mitchell field, who is in custody.

Two jurors had been chosen when noon recess was taken. Ulise Adams and Wayne Green, ranchers, residing near Marathon in the rugged Big Bend country, were selected.

Capital Punishment
State's attorneys questioned each venireman examined as to his scruples on capital punishment.

Prosecutor Jackson said first witnesses to be called by the state would be Harlingen residents who will be asked to describe the efforts of the Black couple, San Antonio residents, to find a child to adopt.

Black, 25-year-old former filling station operator, was to be examined by a psychiatrist, Defense Attorney A. E. Owens said.

Black's version of the boy's death was that he toppled over the precipice accidentally while he was toasting stones.

The boy, son of Mrs. Bobbie F. Smith of Harlingen, had been placed in their care while an adoption plan was under consideration.

Investigators said a $5,000 insurance policy was issued on the boy's life, with the Blacks as beneficiaries, on May 27, shortly after the couple took charge of the boy.

While the main floor of the auditorium was filled and several sections occupied the stage, hundreds of others listened to the event over their radio.

W. W. Beeman, amesa, was chosen Saturday night to succeed Ed Raper, Plainview, as president of the organization which embraces 24 counties. He will hold office for a two year term.

Next year's convention will be held in Lubbock on June 17-18.

POLITICAL CRAFT
INQUIRY ORDERED IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, June 20 (AP)—A grand jury investigation of political graft and coercion charges against Governor George H. Earle and 13 others high in Pennsylvania democratic ranks was authorized today by the state supreme court.

The court named Judge Paul M. Schaeffer of Berks county to sit in the grand jury inquiry.

Most of the charges upon which the grand jury inquiry was asked were made in the bitter democratic primary campaign in May—many by former Attorney General Charles J. Margotti, an unsuccessful candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, who was fired by Governor Earle.

INQUEST HELD
SAN ANTONIO, June 20 (AP)—An inquest into the death of 4-year-old Marie Helen Salas of Edinburg was being conducted today by Justice of the Peace Raymond Gerhardt.

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—The stock market shot upward today, with the leaders gaining $1 to $5 or more in the first broad upturn in more than a month.

Buyers, taking 250,000 shares in the first hour, the biggest for that period since May 27, set a pace that carried the transfers beyond the 1,000,000 mark for the day.

The upward dart of prices hit a wholly unprepared Wall street. Week-end brokerage letters had been filled with gloom, but with the rush of buyers after the opening, sentiment quickly shifted to the cheerful side.

He died yesterday at his farm estate here after an illness of five weeks.

He listed these states as Oregon, Iowa, Kansas, South Dakota, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, California, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Maryland.

Tragedy Worst In

Milwaukee Line Passenger Hurtles
Into Flooded Montana Creek As Weakened Bridge Collapses

MILES CITY, Mont., June 20 (AP)—The bodies of seven persons were recovered today from the wreckage of sleeper B of the Milwaukee Railroad's "Olympian," bringing to 23 the number of bodies recovered from the train which early yesterday plunged into a creek near here causing the death of nearly 40 persons.

Railroad officials said the seven bodies were all that were in the submerged car, but that they believed there were two or three more bodies planned under the wreckage.

MILES CITY, Mont., June 20 (AP)—Custer creek, where the Milwaukee railroad's "Olympian" train crashed through a flood-weakened bridge early yesterday carrying nearly 40 persons to death, receded to only six inches in depth today and crews began cutting apart the tangled debris to reach one tourist sleeper where many bodies remained.

Heavy silt flowing into the sleeper while it was submerged forced workers to abandon attempts to raise it with cranes.

The all-steel construction of the train made this work difficult.

Coroner Stanley Guy of Prairie county, Montana, scene of the tragedy, the worst in recent years in American railroading, said he would delay his inquest until after recovery of the bodies.

The interstate commerce commission, however, began an inquiry. W. J. Patterson, director of the bureau of safety of the commission, said two inspectors, F. F. Engles and A. C. Murphy, were in Montana when the accident occurred and were ordered at once to the scene.

Carried Away By Flood
Sixteen bodies, 11 of them identified, have been recovered from the wreckage. Another, that of an unidentified woman, was taken from Yellowstone river, into which Custer creek flows, about 50 miles from the scene of the tragedy.

Porters told of seeing as many as five or six bodies carried away by the 20-foot flood that rolled down the creek channel.

The flood waters, which had carried out a 180-foot bridge just before the fast, air-conditioned train arrived at the crossing early yesterday, continued to subside slowly today.

Salvage workers said the receding water would permit them to dig the bodies from the submerged sleeper.

As the muddy water fell back from the windows of the half overturned car, witnesses said they could see the bodies of passengers, some still in their seats. Lights in the sleeper had burned early almost until dawn yesterday.

Dry A Few Minutes Earlier
A train hauler had reported Custer creek, 26 miles east of Miles City, almost dry just a few minutes before the train arrived.

But the flood water was running almost at track level when the racing locomotive pitched into the creek. Seven of the 12 cars behind it piled up in a jackstraw heap of rent steel.

Milwaukee officials said the train carried at least 155 passengers and a crew of 17.

With 17 known dead, 44 in hospitals, 37 treated for minor injuries, and 41 others reported unharmed, rescue workers were hopeful the total dead would not exceed 40. J. J. Osie, assistant general passenger agent for the Milwaukee railroad at St. Paul, was at the scene and estimated the dead would number 30.

Survivors and rescue workers agreed that many more lives might have been lost had not the more cool-headed passengers and crew members skillfully aided the fellows out of the water-filling cars.

Graphically relating how passengers escaped from his car, F. Woltz, Chicago businessman, declared that "everyone was quite calm, there was no hysteria at all."

"One end of the car next to us was in water and we holed to the people in that car that it was not sinking and to stay there as they'd be safe," Woltz said.

The Chicago man said two other men followed him out through a broken window.

"We pulled the people in the car from my window up to the top of the sleeper. Someone found a ladder and we put it from the chair car to the tender and people walked over the runs," Woltz related.

At the hospital, and at the Miles City morgue where relatives came to claim their dead, stories of tragedy and of heroism were told by the survivors.

Two-year-old Anne Lallas, whose mother was dead and whose father was missing, related how she tried desperately to keep her mother's head above the swirling water.

When the mother, Mrs. Thomas Lallas, fainted from shock, the small girl grabbed her hair and held her head above water for several minutes.

George, brother, nine-year-old, suffered a broken arm. Unable to comprehend the tragedy, he kept crying, "I want my mamma and daddy."

TRAIN WRECKS
RARE IN PAST
TEN YEARS

(By The Associated Press)
At least 1,120 persons have lost their lives in train wrecks in the United States during the last 10 years.

Yesterday's catastrophe at Miles City, Mont., recalled a similar accident near Ashabula, O., in 1876 when a train plunged into the Ashabula river, killing 60 persons.

Railroad officials pointed out that wrecks have been comparatively rare in the last 10 years with the development of modern equipment and signal systems and added care in inspections. The interstate commerce commission and the bureau of railroad economics reported their records showed only 10 fatal passenger accidents in railroad accidents in 1935-36-37.

Many of the disasters in the earlier days of railroads were caused by the collapse of bridges and trestles. Eighty-one persons were killed and 373 injured on Aug. 10, 1876, when a 16-coach excursion train plunged through a trestle and burned at Chattanooga, Ill.

On Sept. 27, 1923, a train went through a bridge into Big Muddy river near Casper, Wyo., killing 57 persons. Nineteen passengers lost their lives when a train plunged through a bridge into the Arkansas river at Salido, Colo., in September, 1926.

creek bank several minutes before it slid into the water with the others.

Seven Milwaukee railroad employees, who knew Custer creek as a ravine that usually carried no more than "a bucket of water," were riding the Olympian as passengers. They joined regular trainmen in helping out the survivors.

Mrs. Cain and Ed Hamm, brakemen, crawled over the twisted pile of steel cars, made their way to Saugus, a small station, and telephoned for help.

William Shearer, veteran Milwaukee engineer, said the railroad men were "chewing the fat" in the first day coach when the crash occurred.

The locomotive leaped the bridge gap with such speed that it landed on the west bank of the creek, carrying Engineer Frank Merrifield and Fireman H. E. McCoy with it.

Ellis Lund and Thomas Thoreson of Dawson, Minn., together helped "25 to 20" persons from another car.

"It was like a dream. I hardly know how I got out," Lund said later. He and Thoreson were in the smoking car, one end of which was crushed between two coaches in the creek bed.

"The first I knew it was as if we were going through air," Thoreson related.

"Then there was a terrible bump. I didn't know what happened. The water started pouring in. People in the other part of the car screamed and fought to get out," Thoreson said.

Two wreckers sent to the scene were unable last night to drag out the submerged tourist sleeper because of the depth of the flood water.

Most of the survivors and some of the less seriously injured continued westward yesterday on trains leaving Miles City.

The wreck was the first at the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul line in 30 years that cost a passenger's life.

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART

Rat Ramsey, likeable little Baron outfielder, was given his walking papers today which may be just the beginning of a series of like episodes here.

Good news, mabbe. From Jack Hutcheson, local baseball head, comes the announcement that the Barons may soon have a working agreement with a Texas league club. Hutcheson says the local ball team cannot hope to improve its standing without aid. Hutch contacted League President Milton Price in Dallas for strength and promise just that.

Jack said he hoped to peddle Johnny Soden to the Ft. Worth Cats this week, that he would pay a visit there within the very near future to send him along. There's little doubt about Johnny's worth. Despite the fact that Johnny was twice beaten by Clovis Sunday afternoon he is the outstanding prospect in this league and deserves a better chance.

Hutch hopes to have replacements by the time the team comes back to town Friday which will be good news to local baseball fans. They lost a couple of tough ones yesterday and that didn't set so well with everybody.

Incidentally, the best crowd of the season was on hand to watch the locals get the two shellacks. About 600 paid their way into the gate and, added to the Annie Oaks and the fence sitters that were on hand, about 800 in all witnessed the twin bill.

Frankie Jacot is taking bows today for his performance as an outfielder. In his showing Sunday, one would get the idea that he is a better outfielder than he is a pitcher.

The groundsman was placed in the garden when Rat Ramsey was brought in with the intentions of being placed behind the bat in the afternoon but, when Soden insisted that he be allowed to pitch both games, Al Berndt naturally had to be on the receiving end.

Al Sweet, alling outfielder, will be ready within a few days to take over one of the garden posts. If he lives up to the promise he showed in his first game he may help tremendously.

Manager Barnabe's experiments at trying to find a cleanup hitter have been an absolute washout thus far. He's tried every one but Joe Saportito in that fourth slot, and all have choked down more or less. Billy Capps was placed in that position Sunday and he failed to produce effectively. Harry Seibert, who had been up there for several days and who was moved back of Saportito for the twin bill, hit his stride again, collecting two doubles and two singles, for his afternoon's labor.

The defeat Doug Jones plastered on Morgan Neill, Odessa, in the semifinals of the Midland Invitational golf tournament, was sweet revenge for the local boy.

Doug was beaten in the semifinals of the Big Spring meeting last September by that same Neill.

Speaking of golf, the decisive golf by which Mrs. Theron Hicks, Odessa, was beaten by Mrs. R. E. Winger in the finals of the West Texas Women's golf tournament can be attributed to her grass greens. Mrs. Hicks, who was trimmed, 10 and 6, had been used to playing on sand greens.

BARONS TRY TO SALVAGE FINAL GAME WITH CLOVIS

Locals Beaten In Twin Bill, 5-4, 4-3

Johnny Soden Twirls In Both Ends Of Double Header

No longer can the Clovis Pioneers claim any rights to the WT NM league cellar. Sunday afternoon they had to go out and trample the Big Spring Barons in both ends of a twin bill, winning the first, 5-4, and the aftermath, 4-3, before a record crowd in Baron park and the locals took over.

The "iron man" performance of Johnny Soden proved fruitless. He hurled great ball in tossing 15 innings against the New Mexicans, giving up but one earned run in the opener, but he was doomed to be beaten. Three errors behind him all figured in the Clovis scoring. He left the battle in the eighth frame and gamely returned to twirl the second but he was to be repulsed there, too.

Sterling fielding on the part of Harrison and Beals, shortstop and second baseman, respectively, of the Pioneer inner circle, played a greater part in the Clovis victories than did the stick work. That pair came up with almost impossible chances at regular intervals throughout the evening.

Johnny limited the invaders to six base hits in the first set to but he surrendered two runs in the first frame and the locals never caught up. After Clovis had taken a 5-1 advantage in the sixth frame the Barons started bombarding the fence but it was too late. L. W. Jones, on the hill for the enemy, had just enough stuff left to outlast the uprisings.

One of the individual stars of the engagements was Frankie Jacot who patrolled right field for the Barons. Replacing Rat Ramsey in that garden lefty clouted out a circuit smash in the seventh frame of the first game, returned with a one run single in the nightcap and caved a possible home run smash by Jordan in the second tilt when he leaped high and swept the Pioneer slugger's drive off the fence in the fourth frame.

The Barons tried desperately to pull both games out of the fire by salping late. The tying run was on third in the ninth inning of the first game when Hobson popped to short left and the winning runners were resting at the corners when Jacot rolled out for the finish of the nightcap.

A feature was the sensational play of Catcher Stuart of the visitors. He tossed three Baron runners out during the afternoon. Only Bobby Decker, the league's leading base thief, managed a steal during the sessions.

Harry Siebert, whose big hat had heretofore been silent during the current home stay, snapped out of his doldrums to pace the batting parade of both teams. He slapped out two doubles and a single in the first game, returned with a burning one base blow in three trips in the aftermath.

The two teams were scheduled to go at it again this afternoon. Jacot was to be Manager Barnabe's mound choice.

Texas U. Swimmers In Action At Munny Pool

Headed by Coach Tex Robertson, the familiar mentor who brought the team here last year, the Texas University swimming crew arrived in Big Spring today.

At 7:30 o'clock this evening at the municipal natatorium the nine members of the squad, champions of the Southwest conference this season, will put on an exhibition of the swimming and diving feats that have made them famous throughout this section of the country.

Hondo Crouch and Harris McClamrock, free style sprint stars; Bill Buckingham and Jack Nendall, middle distance stars; Bob Tarleton, backstroke specialist; Wally Hoffrichter and Mike Sojka, breast stroke flashes; and Babe Papish and Billy Brink, divers, will be seen in action.

Of the team Sojka and Tarleton are the best known. Both are making serious bids for a 1940 Olympic team berth.

Robertson and the squad are in the midst of an exhibition tour through this section of the state and will head eastward from here toward Louisville, Ky., where they will compete in the National AAU championships.

The exhibition will be free of charge to the public.

Joe Louis Vows A Quick K. O.

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—The golden rule continues to pour down the box office, Mike Jacobs becomes boxer by the hour as he cracks "Plenty of tickets left" and the long-awaited return fight between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis for the heavyweight title is only three nights away.

Louis, the 24-year-old negro champion, still declares he will bat Schmeling's brains out in "not more than two rounds" as he does a final bit of loafing around his training camp at Pompton Lakes before motoring in for the weigh-in Wednesday noon.

Schmeling, the same maddeningly confident German who interrupted Joe's sensational career with a 12th round knockout two summers ago, winds up his preparation with four leisurely rounds of boxing at his high camp in Specular.

Says Grimes Has 1 Month To Land Job Before Babe Ruth Takes Over

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting For Eddie Bricks)
NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—One story is that Billy Grimes has one month to land a new job before Babe Ruth takes over the Dodgers' manager's job. It seems about every club but the Texas Avenue alley cats had a chance to land Johnny Vander Meer. . . . Bill Terry was practically begged to invest $2,500 in the kid back in '35. . . . The Dodgers fumbled their chance (leave it to the Dodgers). . . . The Red Sox wouldn't kick in 25 g's. . . . But the payoff is the Beebe had to take him from Scranton to realize something on a $2,500 investment.

And then shipped him to Nashville without so much as a look. . . . Sammy Baugh is thinking over a coaching offer from N. C. State. . . . That Mackey Dean deal looks slender every day. . . . Fy instance, the Cubs took Curt Davis into the pot along with that $185,000. . . . And all Curt has done so far is win six and lose two for the Cards. . . . Connie Mack says Swings' Sammy Chapman, his rookie wrangler from California, looks like Al Simmons when the Founding Polo first came up. . . . Patty Berg thinks 14-year-old Alice Daniels from Fort Worth is going to be the women's golf champ some day. . . . When Vander Meer finished pitching his second no-hitter, Dixie Dean's comment was "Ed like to see him lose 25 more of 'em—all against the Giants."

Heavyweight Joe Louis, who won the Harst national Amateur fight tournament, makes his pro bow on the Louisville-Schmeling card. . . . Mike Chicago 109, now fighting out of New York. . . . Cardinals show at home July 4 this year for the first time in four seasons.

Local Boy Is Victor Over Jim Smith

Wallops Neill In Semifinal Round, 7 And 6

MIDLAND, June 20.—Defeating Midland's Jimmy Smith, 5 and 4, in the finals here Sunday, Doug Jones, the Big Spring youth who in last week captured championship honors in the Claco meeting, carried the Midland Invitational golf crown back home with him.

Jones was very impressive in the final despite the high wind. Throughout his four matches he was 13 strokes under par.

He erased Morgan Neill, Odessa, in the semifinals, 7 and 5, Sunday morning while Smith was making the last round by triumphing over W. W. Hill, Odessa, 7 and 6.

Jones gained his first advantage in his final match on the par five second when Smith came in with a bogie. He ran his lead to two on the fourth when Smith experienced another bogie, ran into trouble with a bogie on five then captured six and eight before losing nine to make the turn two up.

They halved ten and Jones took eleven and twelve, then ran out the match with pars on thirteen and fourteen.

Their cards:
Par out 554 434 344-36
Jones out 545 444 334-35
Smith out 464 535 243-37
Par in 552 44
Jones in 453 44
Smith in 464 44
W. E. Thurman, Midland, master of the event, presided.

Up in the finals of the first flight while Sam Sain, Big Spring, captured honors in the second flight consolation.

Jimmy Walkup May Twirl—Halliburton Cementers In Town Tuesday

The respected Halliburton Cementers of Duncan, Okla., who long have been a fixture in the national semi-pro baseball picture, come to town Tuesday afternoon to battle the Foran Continental Oilers in Baron park and Manager Marion Forbes of the Oiler club is setting about to recruit the best material in West Texas to oppose the Oklahomans.

Forbes announced that he was trying to import Bailey White out of Odessa to play first base and was contacting other players of that vicinity.

Pitching duties will probably fall to Maxie Beard, the ace lefthander, who is pitching the greatest ball of his career at the present time. Beard may give the opposition plenty of trouble if his slants are up to par.

Texas Pros Throttle Challenge Of Simon-Pures In Tyler Duels

TYLER, June 20 (AP)—Texas' top professional golfers throttled the challenge of younger amateurs here yesterday to sweep the sixth annual Texas Cup matches, 11 to 4.

The amateurs were handicapped by the absence of six stars; the professionals had just emerged from a trying 72 holes over a soggy course in the Texas Open.

The pros built up a formidable margin in the morning singles matches, but the youngsters came back in the afternoon with flashes of brilliance.

Jack Munger and Dennis Lavender, Dallas boys, went six under Willow Brook's difficult 37-37-74 par, in their one-up win over Jim Demaret of Houston, winner of the Texas Open, and Levi Lynch of Dallas.

Jack Burke, Houston, and Henry Ransom, Bryan, professional, beat out Reuben Albright and David (Spec) Goldman, Dallas amateurs.

The pros took another double triumph when Sam Schneider, Corpus Christi, and Tony Butler, San Angelo, won over Arthur (Duck) Luce of Austin and Jamie Gough of Dallas, 2 and 1.

The professional team of Dick Gout, Fort Worth, and Ralph Morgan, Tyler, bowed to a couple of amateurs, Earl Stewart of Dallas and Billy Bob Coffey of Fort Worth, 2 and 1, with the amateurs chalking up six-under-par golf.

The most brilliant win of the day was that of Schneider over Lavender, state municipal champion to square the match at the 18th. Schneider clipped in a sensational eagle on the last hole. Lavender had a cinch birdie.

Two Good Games
It was the Babe some 28,000 Brooklyn fans were out to see. But they also saw a couple of good ball games as Forrest Fressnell's flinging and a slugging spurt that must have made the old Yankee clouter feel right at home gave the Dodgers a 6-2 opening triumph over the Chicago Cubs. Clay Bryant, stopped the hitting, however, giving only one blow up to the ninth, and the Cubs won the nightcap, 4-3. Vander Meer, who pitched close enough to give the Boston Bees a good scare when he let them down with four blows to win, 14-1. The victory put the Reds in a tie for third place, a few percentage points behind Chicago.

Water Problems To Be Discussed

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 20 (AP)—Arizona Colorado river officials said today they expected Texas representatives to attempt to link Rio Grande valley development problems with the flow of Colorado river waters into Mexico at a conference opening here Wednesday, but added their opinion the plan would be "unworkable."

The meeting of officials of Colorado river basin states was called by Gov. R. C. Stanford of Arizona to evolve a plan for protecting water rights of basin states in the face of preparations by Mexico to utilize water now going to waste.

Texas is interested in reaching an agreement with Mexico over use of Colorado river water in order that it may obtain concessions from Mexico in connection with the Rio Grande by extensive use of water from tributaries arising below the border.

Donald C. Scott, secretary of the Arizona commission, declared the Rio Grande and Colorado developments were entirely separate problems.

No Definite Plans Yet For Dirigible Construction

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—The navy is up in the air about its new $3,000,000 dirigible, for which congress voted $500,000 as a starter.

Under tentative plans the craft will be 650 feet long, 100 feet wide and will carry several planes. Officials said today the time and place of construction and numerous other details remain to be determined.

Start of actual construction awaits President Roosevelt's signature of a deficiency appropriation bill passed just before congress quit.

Several designs have been prepared, but the one to be used depends on the president and the navy's high command.

Several top-flight admirals frankly do not care whether the new craft is built at all. Some officials described Secretary Swanson as lacking interest.

Official statements and authoritative reports have established these facts and probabilities about the new airship:

Maximum cost, $3,000,000.
Maximum capacity, 3,000,000 cubic feet, compared with 2,250,000 of the Shenandoah, 2,470,000 of the decommissioned Los Angeles, 6,500,000 each of the Akron and Macon, and 7,000,000 of Germany's new LZ-130.

Fox-hunting has been a popular sport in England since 1750.

Aggie Meeting Is Held Here

Exes In Confab With Prospective A And M Students

Aggie exes met prospective Aggies in an informal get-together in Big Spring Sunday, outlining for them the features and advantages of Texas A. and M. college. A group of Big Spring A. & M. exes sponsored the meeting, which was featured by the showing of motion picture reels of campus scenes and football games in which Aggie teams participated.

A preliminary meeting, attended by about 50 from ten towns in the area, was held at the Settles. Later the films were shown at the Lyric theatre. E. E. McQuillen, executive secretary of the A&M Ex-Students association, and J. W. Rollins, member of the Aggie coaching staff, were here from College Station to make talks. McQuillen reviewed for the prospective students some of the outstanding features of the college, and Rollins spoke on the Southwestern Conference football outlook for next fall. Rollins discussed some of the plays seen in the football films.

A larger crowd of visitors was at the Lyric to see the pictures. Towns represented at the first session included Abilene, Colorado, Sweetwater, Snyder, Lamesa, Midland, Odessa, Vernon, Sterling City and Big Spring.

E. V. Spence was in charge of the session. Later Burke Summers, elected president of the Big Spring Aggie Exes, took the chairmanship. Herbert Whitney was elected secretary of the group.

Former A&M students present represented classes from 1905 to 1938. There were a score or so of this year's crop of high school graduates present from the various towns, these boys indicating they will enter the school at College Station this fall.

DON'T HESITATE TO ASK THEM

Voters who give all their attention to the candidates of men who are asking for the office of governor, and forget that the laws levying taxes and spending the money received from taxes are made by the hundred and eighty-one members of the legislature, are making a mistake.

The governor may, and should, recommend to the legislature the measures he believes ought to be enacted. He has the power to veto any law that he does not approve, but as far as actual making of laws he has only what influence the members of the legislature see fit to grant him. For that reason the voters should give attention to the men who are offering for legislative posts, and should learn before voting what each is likely to do if elected.

This is easy enough to ascertain. When the candidates ask for votes, either to individuals or on the stump, any voter is privileged to ask the candidate what reductions in waste and extravagance he proposes to advocate, and how he proposes to make the savings that are always promised. If the candidate has not a clear answer, he may fairly be looked on with doubt, for if he has no definite plans when he asks for the office he is not likely to acquire any after going to Austin and being subject to the pulling and hauling that goes on there.

Every legislator, from a city councilman up, should have a fair knowledge of national as well as of local problems in order to legislate intelligently and fairly, for the local individual problem makes up these of wider application. Where there are no unemployed individuals there could be no unemployment problems and so with all problems. Don't hesitate to ask the candidates for legislative places some questions, and don't let them hesitate or sidestep in giving an answer.

FLASHES OF LIFE

(By The Associated Press)
INDIANAPOLIS—Two "Good Samaritans" rushed John Casey to the city hospital for treatment of a cut lip he said he suffered as an unidentified man slugged him on a downtown street.

About an hour later Casey returned with a broken nose and another bruised jaw. This time he said the Samaritans who assisted him to the hospital had slugged him and robbed him of a billfold and a diamond ring, then threw him out of the automobile.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

WASHINGTON—Probably there are more gadget and gimmick collectors in Washington than any place else and a good reason is that the government supplies big offices and huge desks where gadgets can accumulate.

Where an ordinary $5,000-a-year executive in a business concern would have a desk only big enough for a telephone and a couple of cigar butts, the same executive in Washington might (but not certainly) have a glass-topped expanse the size of a backyard garden plot.

And how the mementoes and gadgets pile up. For instance, Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, has a nautical clock instead of a clock. It doesn't chime the hours but chimes "bells" as on a ship, so that instead of quitting work at 4 or 5 o'clock of a hot afternoon he knocks off at six bells, or maybe it is two bells of the second watch (this bell business drives you whooshy). On his desk is an anchor and the usual telephones and penholders a person has to put up with, but for the most part he keeps his desk swept up and holy-stoned.

Table For Donkeys

So many donkeys have accumulated for President Roosevelt that he has set aside a special table for them, leaving his own desk free for an assortment of trays, letter openers, a vase of flowers and the prize of them all—a brightly turned but of a brass naval shell cut down to ash-tray size. A few other favored officials about the capitol have trays like it.

The nautical tone of the administration is reflected in dozens of congressional offices where members have clocks set in a ship's helm (steering wheel, to you).

Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas has a totem pole on his desk. He says it isn't a totem pole but instead is a PWA art project in wood, but we say it is a totem pole.

Nearly all the veteran senators have their walls decorated with the originals of political cartoons, sent them by the cartoonists. We haven't seen any displayed except those giving the member a boost.

Senator Capper of Kansas has a picture of his office with photographs reaching back to the first Roosevelt days.

And A Machine Gun

Senator Borah's desk is so piled with papers and books there is no room for anything except an ash tray, put there for guests. He doesn't smoke. He has a bronze bust of himself in his office.

Delegations are forever bringing in this and that, and it is a silver delegation which installed in the office of Senator Pittman of Nevada a huge silver disk inscribed with the ancient Aztec calendar.

Senator Copeland's office was burdened with a half dozen ship models in glass cases, not to mention the vase of red carnations from which he daily selected one for his lapel.

He has never seen a wine decanter on or near a congressional desk but some spirited beverages are nearby in many offices.

Among the shoddiest offices we recall are those of the famed White House brain trusters, Ben Cohen and Tommy Corcoran, and they are practically gadgetless.

Senator Sheppard of Texas has fought most of his public life for prohibition. But there is not a Carle Nation hatchet among his mementoes. Instead, as chairman of the military affairs committee, this peaceful-looking Senator has decorated his desk with samples of small arms ammunition and, honest to blazes, he has a Browning machine gun mounted back of his chair, tripod and all.

Man About Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The activities of Mr. Adolf Hitler in his endeavor to assemble the German minorities in European countries under the 3rd Reich, if successful, would present an interesting if complex situation in New York. For Gotham is the 2nd largest German city in the world. There are more Germans here than in Rome. And if Mussolini were to get the same idea and cluck to the Roman municipalities, we'd have another fine set-up of Fascists, clattering the elevators and the subway trains with black shirts. The Irish, as you may have heard, constitute a vast part of New York's seven millions, and if the Free State likewise started winning the Irish minorities away from Mr. LaGuardia and Washington, why, that would give the Spaniards an idea, which in turn might inspire the Russians to reach across the sea and do a little special controlling.

In the end it would amount to New York's being governed by about twenty nations. There are 40 or 50 thousand Frenchmen in New York. There are hundreds of thousands of Jews. Thousands of Poles, a lot of Scandinavians plus

Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—The changes time hath wrought startle some of the movie famous as well as their followers.

Here's another guessing game in pictures. Can you identify the people below from these portraits of 10-odd years ago? All those portrayed are more famous now than they were then:

1. She was getting her first taste of fame when she posed for this one. Today, she's enjoying plaudits for acting as well as for other talents.

2. She looked like this in the picture that gave her the first boost toward stardom, but she couldn't help the hat... it was a costume movie.

3. When he first came to Hollywood, they made him up to look like this juvenile. But he's really a first-rate character star.

4. This is a relic of the lady's brief career as a two-reel comedy star. She since has "exploded" her way to more substantial fame.

5. The lure in these eyes must have been directed at some stalwart hero of an early talkie. Today, the same eyes twinkle merrily and smartly.

OCTAGON HOUSE

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

Chapter 38
PUBLIC EYESORE NO. ONE
 "I had to hear the story of Rodney's pilot," Ascy told the Congressman, "before I could do anything. But you don't need to worry about making the Struts ad. Just stick all the blame on me, in the end, who knows but what you'll get a field house an' gym thrown in with the park? Elliott, I've just been thinkin'. I never did get a good look at the mural. I bust out laughin' so on my first view, I had to leave before I got to the parts with the local boys in 'em. You got pull enough to get me into the post office on Sunday?" Elliott smiled.

"Have I got pull? Ascy, I have a gold plated key, almighty own. If you want to get into the post office, we'll go to my house and get the key, and have a private view of Quannomet's Public Eyesore Number One."

"I'll trail you over," Ascy said. Elliott's house was a long rambling place with so many cells and additions that even an architect would have had trouble picking out the original Cape Cod half house that had been the basis of it all.

"My daughter's around somewhere," Elliott said. "I think she knows where the key is. Jean! Hey, Jean—where are you? Jeanie, you know Ascy Mayo, don't you? My daughter, Mrs. Dunn, Jean, where's that gold post office key, d'you know?"

"That thing?" Jean wrinkled up her forehead. "Teddy had it last. He was playing St. Peter and the Gates of Heaven with it—didn't you give it to him?"

"Well, yes, I guess I did," Elliott said. "But I need it now. Find it for me, will you?"

"Father, darling, when Ted plays with things, it's not the easiest thing in the world to find them on two seconds' notice. You shouldn't have given him the key, if you really wanted it intact. But I'll see what I can do. Maybe Della'll know where it is—"

Della, a slightly distraught looking nursemaid, admitted that she hadn't seen the key since the baby played with it Saturday morning.

"Maybe he swallowed it," Jean said, as though that were the simplest solution.

"Oh, no!" Della protested. "I'm sure he didn't. He hasn't swallowed anything for a week. Perhaps the little Westover girl would know. She was playing with Teddy—"

"Come, come," Elliott said. "Come, come! We've got to find that key! Really, Jean, I know I let Ted play with it, but I see no reason why the whole damn countryside has to use it as a playing field."

"Darling, climb down," Jean said. "I want that key! You go find it. Go shake the children by their heels. Stand 'em on their heads. Peer into their tonsils, if you want. But go find that key!"

"Sometimes," Jean said. "I wish you were a simple lawyer, Della, come on. We'll see if the Westover infant has any thoughts on the matter. What did they put in that mole hole, d'you know—"

"No respect, that's what," Elliott said. "They treat me like an elderly neighbor, the whole lot of 'em, and—"

"An' you love it," Ascy said.

"Well, yes, I suppose I do. Come on in, and we'll wait for 'em to find the key. It'll turn up. You can't lose things like that. I've got a collection of teeth I've been trying to mislay for years. I've often wondered, why do people think that Congressmen want teeth? I've got whole teeth and dog teeth and Indian teeth. All kinds. But would that stand me in a new upper set? Not on your tinfoy."

Mad House
 At the end of the hour, Jean wandered out to the barn game room.

"Oh, here you are," she said. "Look! It's awfully funny. The Westover child let the little Lake boy have the key, and he says with bland finality that someone took it away from him."

"Come now, Jean!"

"That's true, Father. I won't go into the details of the game they were playing—"

"Well? The Lake boy or the someone, or what?"

"Don't be so impatient, dear. They were playing jail delivery, and the Westover child was the gangster in prison, and the little Lake boy was the mob that was going to get him out—"

"The youth of this country," Elliott began.

"Sh, dear. It took hours to make sense out of things, and I want to tell you while I still have things straight. The Lake boy went off to consult with Ted—Ted was the G-man who was foiling things, if that makes you any happier—and he left the key with his gun, over by the lilac hedge. And someone took it. The Lake boy was running off, and yellow, but the person beat it, and the Lake boy thinks he went off in a car. Lake didn't care tell anyone at the time. He just said he'd mislaid it, and Ted was so busy with his new croquet set that Ray brought him yesterday afternoon that he forgot all about the key. So there you are."

"It's a mad house, Ascy," Elliott said sadly. "Other people's houses run all right. Why can't mine? Here's a simple little key. Can it be found? No. It's St. Peter's key to heaven, it's the prime factor in a jail delivery. Babies teethe on it. And finally, strangers swoop out of my lilac hedge and snatch it from the mouths of babes and sucklings, or words to that effect. I ask you! What's the matter, Ascy? What did you say?"

"I said," Ascy told him, "that I wish you'd call up the post master, an' tell him to meet us over in Quannomet as soon as he can."

"What—oh, Jonah, you mean? All right, I'll call him. But you don't really think anyone took the key, do you? What ever for? Who'd have known what key it was?" Elliott sounded a little anxious.

"Wasn't there a public presentation of keys, on the day the office opened?" Ascy asked.

"Well, yes. It was a sort of incident in the opening. You know, sandwiched in after the soprano sang, and before the band had its fling. They gave out half a dozen keys, to the Governor and a Senator or two, and me—"

"An' plenty of people," Ascy said, "saw you bein' presented with it."

"Yes, yes, I suppose they did. But how would anyone know that the little Lake child was going to play jail delivery with it over by the lilac hedge the next afternoon?" Elliott demanded.

"What Are You Waiting For?"

"They wouldn't," Ascy said. "But if someone was waitin' around waitin' for the chance to swipe your key, I don't see but what they could swipe it from the Lake child with the greatest of ease. An' after all, it'd be easier to swipe from you than from the Gov'nor or the rest—when did they take the key, in the afternoon?"

"The early afternoon some time," Jean said. "Of course the children don't know the exact time. It's rather a wonder they remember the day. Look, I've been thinking—is it right to go strewin' post office keys around in any such loose fashion? I thought the interior of post offices were like altars, sort of sacred and all."

"They're just keys to the front part where the mural is. But look here, why would someone steal the keys from Jonah? From the post master? Why should they pick on me?"

"I wouldn't know," Ascy said tactfully. But it occurred to him that it would be far simpler to swipe a key from this easy going household than from the Quannomet post master, who took himself and his job with great seriousness.

"Oh, this is all a lot of nonsense!" Elliott said. "I don't believe anyone took the key. Probably we can find it if we get out rakes and scrape around. I don't think anyone wanted to steal the key. I don't believe that they did steal it. I—what are you waiting for, Ascy?"

He continued before Ascy had a chance to protest that he was not delaying the expedition.

"What are you waiting for? Let's get over and get into the place and see if anything has happened. But of course it hasn't," he added, as though he wanted to convince himself on the point. "Of course not. The child made up that story. No one took the key—my key! My key! If someone has got into that place with my key—hurry up, Ascy! But it's nonsense. They wouldn't dare break into the post office—"

"They wouldn't be breakin' in," Ascy pointed out, with a grin. "They've got a key."

"Well," Elliott said, "I'm sure there's some law that covers it. Defacing government property—oh my God! This means still more headlines for Quannomet! Ascy, can't we keep it out of the papers, don't you think?"

Half an hour later, in the front part of the Quannomet post office, Ascy answered Elliott's anxious question.

"Nope," he said. "I don't think you can keep this out of the headlines. This is too complete." (Copyright, 1938, Phoebe Atwood Taylor.)

Women Scientists Push Off On Daring Trip Through Grand Canyon

By MURLIN B. SPENCER

GREEN RIVER, Utah, June 20 (AP)—Two feminine botanists, no exponents of the theory women can do anything men can, joined four male scientists today in preparation to "push off" on a dangerous river expedition through the rarely-traveled Grand Canyon.

The party hoped to get their equipment packed and their three boats launched in the Green river here before noon. Southward 120 miles the boats, drifting into the turbulent Colorado river, will slip into the lonely mile-deep rapids that lead 500 miles and perhaps 30 days beyond, into Lake Mead behind Boulder Dam, Nev.

"The fact I'm going indicates I think the trip's feasible," said freckled-faced, tanned Lois Jotter, 25-year-old University of Michigan botanist.

Added her fellow faculty member, bespectacled Elzada Clover: "I want it understood I don't think woman can do everything man can do. You remember the river never before has been botanized—that is the big thing."

No woman ever has successfully negotiated the trip, although several men have survived it.

Other members of the group are Norman D. Neville of Mexican Hat, Utah, guide; Eugene Atkinson, University of Michigan zoologist; W. C. Gibson, San Francisco artist, and Don Harris of the U. S. Geologist Survey.

OVER 4,500 DEAD IN AIR ATTACKS

CANTON, June 20 (AP)—Chinese officials declared today 4,505 civilians were killed by Japanese air attacks in Kwantung province during the nine months from August 31, 1937, to June 7.

The nine-month toll, they reported, also included 8,355 civilians injured and 5,027 buildings destroyed in the South China province.

HONEYMOONERS ON CAMPOBELLO ISLE

CAMPOBELLO ISLAND, N. B., June 20 (AP)—Another pair of honeymooning Roosevelt found refuge today on this Canadian island where the president spent much of his youth.

John Roosevelt, fourth and youngest son of the president, and his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, followed the course taken a year ago by Franklin, Jr., and Ethel du Pont Roosevelt, in coming to the seclusion of the president's rambling cottage.

John and Anne got the privacy they wanted after the tumult of a fashionable wedding at Nahant, Mass.

John said he and his bride would remain here a month before going to Quebec City to board the Canadian liner Lady Somers for a West Indies cruise.

Texas Army Posts To Share In New Federal Funds

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—

The war department said today it would spend $4,113,200 of the spending-lending funds provided by congress on housing construction at Texas military posts.

The funds will come from the Public Works administration and Public Progress administration allocations, according to General A. O. Seaman, chief of the construction division of the quartermaster's office, and will finance projects over and above those provided in regular war department appropriation measures.

Work on all the projects should begin by August 15, he said, and in most cases will be pushed to completion by March 30, 1939.

Plans for all structures have already been prepared by army engineers and advertisements for bids are expected to be issued early in July.

Minnesota. Maine Vote

Primaries Being Held In Those Two States

PORTLAND, Me., June 20 (AP)—Maine's electorate chose in a biennial primary election today party designates for major and lesser offices at stake in the Sept. 12 general election.

Leaders of both major parties agreed voting probably would be lighter than the 1936 primary total of 120,000, despite a wordy and often bitter campaign between Gov. Lewis O. Barrows and State Senator Roy L. Fernald, of Winterport, for the republican gubernatorial nomination.

Former Gov. Louis J. Brann, seeking a third term, was unopposed for the democratic gubernatorial nomination.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 20 (AP)—Leadership of Minnesota's dominant political party—farmer-labor—was at stake in today's state primary election.

Governor Elmer A. Benson sought renomination for his second term on the farmer-labor ticket against his most outspoken critic, Hjalmar Petersen, former governor and now a member of the state railroad and warehouse commission.

Benson, who succeeded Petersen as governor in 1937, has the endorsement of the state farmer-labor convention and has been a supporter of President Roosevelt's new deal program.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Eberly and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Batten have returned from a fishing trip on the Llano river. They reported excellent luck. They returned Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper and daughter, Sally Anne left Sunday for a vacation trip to Galveston and Houston and other South Texas points. Dr. Cowper's father of Raleigh, N. C., who has been here several days, accompanied them.

W. T. Johnson of Merkel, former resident of Howard county, having resided in the Knott community, was a visitor in Big Spring Monday morning. He is visiting his sons, W. M. and S. T. Johnson at Knott. Mr. Johnson left Howard county in 1921 for Merkel, where he has been residing since.

Japan

closed her Spanish frontier to shipments of arms from Soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia which formerly crossed France en route.

Renewed Nazi persecution and a new communist purge—the former apparently designed to drive Jews completely out of Germany's business life and the latter to enforce bolshevization of the Soviet Russian army—also figured prominently in today's world news.

In the world's two wars, Japanese air and land forces sought to smash a Yangtze river barrier to the drive on Hankow while the Spanish insurgents paid a high cost in lives for slight gains in their drive on Valencia.

After a Sunday virtually undisturbed by anti-semitic manifestations, Jews found that in at least one part of Adolf Hitler's capital they were forbidden to buy food in Arya shops.

On the other hand, Jews arriving at their places of business—those that dared to open—found that night vandals invading the center of Berlin had left no Jewish shop or nameplate untouched by red paint to designate non-Aryan concerns.

It was probably the worst wave of anti-semitism since Hitler came to power five years ago.

Russia's army organ, Red Star, reported Moscow was "cleaning out despised hangers-on of enemies, politically doubtful people and those incapable of solving the task of bolshevizing the army." The disclosure followed reports of a purge of communist leaders in the Ukraine.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Bobb spent the weekend at Camp Waldemar, Hunt, Texas, where their two children are in summer camp.

STORM REHABILITATION WORK IN COUNTY MAKES PROGRESS

From 12 to 15 families of the storm struck areas of Howard county have been rehabilitated by the American Red Cross in the past week under the direction of Anne McMahan, field representative of the national Red Cross, according to a report from her Monday morning. Twenty families affected by the wind squalls and flood waters have already registered with others coming in every day.

Miss McMahan says the work is clearing up nicely in the county and she expects to finish the last of the week so she can go to Clyde to assist victims of a tornado there recently.

Rehabilitation of the Stanton storm victims is being conducted by Myrtle Montgomery, of the national Red Cross reserve who began work there Monday assisted by the Rev. McPherson, Martin county Red Cross chairman.

Heaviest losses in the county were in the Knott community where a number of families have been helped. Several people from the Forsan area have also registered.

Local chapter of the Red Cross of which Shine Phillips is chairman, and Miss McMahan started aiding families within a short time after the high winds and floods hit this section.

The national organization is providing food, shelter, clothing, household furniture, medical supplies and hospitalization of victims when aid is needed. Any family in the county needing assistance is asked to register with the chapter this week. An office is being maintained at Cunningham and Phillips Drug, No. 1.

Stores Damaged In Vancouver Rioting

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 20 (AP)—Three downtown riots in which crowds of unemployed shattered store windows, fought police and besieged police headquarters, brought provincial authorities hurrying here today for an investigation.

Two officers and 25 jobsless required hospital treatment after the disorders yesterday. A trail of broken windows, involving 39 stores and the postoffice, lay in the wake of the riots.

The latest disturbance came following departure of a delegation of 100 for Victoria to interview government officials. Scores of those left behind stormed the post office building, hurling rocks and smashing six windows. They dispersed at request of their leaders.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Rested and in gay mood from a week-end cruise down the New England coast and up the Hudson river, President Roosevelt plunged today into a mass of work—mostly concerned with bills passed by congress in its closing days.

The president called immediately for secretaries upon his return to his family home here.

He said he would see Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London, either here or in Washington before the latter returns to his post, but gave no hint of the subject of their conversation. Kennedy arrived in New York today on the Queen Mary.

The president was not decided whether he will leave here for Washington Wednesday or Thursday night.

BARROW'S

She says "Please" and "Thank you"

The alert, courteous voice of the telephone operator is known to all who use the telephone. To the little old lady in the shawl, the man in the big house on the hill, the tiny tot of six, the words are the same: "Number, please" and "Thank you". Like all those who work for the telephone company, from executives to office boys, the operator's aim is more than just giving fast, accurate, dependable telephone service, at a reasonable price to you. It is to serve you in such a manner that you can say, "They're nice people to do business with."

SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

Nearly 16,000 of the 25,000 employees of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company are women. They are your friends and neighbors... living in every section of the Southwest.
