BIG SPRING LAUNDRY
 —The Laundry Does It Best—

Represents A New Idea For West Texas

The Crawford Cafeteria—something new and different for Big Spring and mid-West Texas—will observe its formal opening today. In operation for some time, the cafeteria already has been visited by many patrons; but for today the management is extending an invitation to the public to see the new project in its entirety.

Completely remodeled along ultra-modern lines, the cafeteria not only will cater to those who wish to exercise a complete choice over their menus, but will offer a la carte service in its spacious and newly furnished dining room.

N. L. Peters was architectural designer of the Crawford improvements.

In charge of the concern is B. H. Roberts, long experienced in catering and cafeteria operation, assisted by a regular staff of 12, all experienced in their particular vocations.

Located in the enlarged space formerly occupied by the Crawford Coffee shop, the cafeteria features fine architectural appointments as well as quality foods. Wall lines are accentuated with chromium strips, the lights are of the tubular fluorescent type that give shadowless illumination, the tables and chairs of simplified modernistic design, the venetian blinds (to be installed soon) of aluminite, and services and all serving tables of stainless steel.

There are 36 tables—half for twosomes and half for foursomes—and also available is the banquet hall which has been refinished and is ready for banquet and party service. Air conditioning, of course, is in effect.

Manager Is Experienced As Caterer

Managing the food and catering department of a hotel is an old story to B. H. Roberts, new manager of the Crawford cafeteria, which is holding its formal opening today. Despite the fact that his age is only 22 years, Roberts has had experience in many of the outstanding hotels of Texas, and received his training in the finest catering departments.

Roberts comes here to join the Crawford staff from Lubbock, where for the past year he was catering manager for the Hotel Lubbock. Prior to that, he was with the Stephen F. Austin in Austin, and has seen service with the Rice at Houston and the Adolphus and Baker in Dallas.

Roberts said his department will make a specialty of catering to parties, and will be in position to serve teas, club luncheons and dinners, dinner dances, etc. The Crawford ballroom, connected directly with the cafeteria kitchen, has been extensively renovated. The Kiwanis club this week is returning there for its weekly luncheons.

In the years preceding the World war, annual remittances to Italy by Italian emigrants amounted to 20,000,000 pounds sterling, according to Dr. Paul H. Wueller of Pennsylvania State college.

HELP YOURSELF AND EAT at the Crawford Cafeteria where the patron simply selects foods that may appeal to a whimsical appetite at the moment. The dining room, part of which is shown along with a portion of the service counter in the left background, is equipped with 36 tables for foursomes and pairs and has airconditioning and tubular ceiling illumination equivalent to daylight.

CLEAN AND NEW is the kitchen of the Crawford cafeteria, equipped and arranged to handle quality foods in volumes to meet the demand. All kitchen materials are new and designed for more effectiveness and efficiency. Experienced help is employed in this department as in all others.

Personal Selection Of Food Held By A. J. Crawford As One Of The Attractions Of A Cafeteria

By A. J. CRAWFORD
 Many people have asked me reasons for opening a cafeteria, representing, as it does, a departure in food service for West Texas. We at the Crawford hotel cite for one thing: one's appetite is enhanced by seeing the food all prepared and ready to serve.

It is the difference between selecting an item by name from a piece of pasteboard and selecting it on sight from a glass display case. If you were going to buy a suit of clothes, a hat or a tie, you wouldn't select it from a price list; I venture to say you would want to see the article. I believe everyone likes to "window shop," not only for clothing, but for everything else they want and require. I believe this same desire applies to food.

And why would people in a town the size of Big Spring be expected to patronize a cafeteria? Well, they expect to obtain excellent food at all times; they can get the exact order that appeals to them seated themselves at a table and partake of their food before they could be waited on in a dining room; the same food will cost less, and the diner not only saves money but is completely satisfied with his meal.

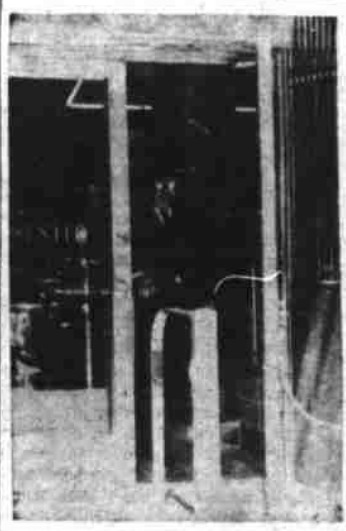

We are particularly proud of several installations in the cafeteria, which go to make it one of the finest places of its kind anywhere. The neon sign in front of the building is made entirely of plate glass and stainless steel, and is said to be the only electric sign in the country with no paint on it. The manufacturer of the sign has a patent on the type.

A lamp in our cold storage vault in the kitchen is a new Westinghouse invention which serves to preserve food, kill germs and keep the storage in a sanitary condition. It also has the effect of aging fresh meats, so that meat stored here are of the same quality in five days that meat in ordinary cold storage only attains in 28 days. And as to our "magic eye" door, an item that has been the source of most curiosity, I really believe some people have expected this device to say "Good morning," "Thank You, Call Again," etc. Seriously speaking, it is an unusual affair, worked by electric currents, hydraulic pumps, and such. I don't think there is any "magic" about the door, but it is one of the many added features we have included to make the Crawford cafeteria an outstanding place.

"HELP YOURSELF" IS SLOGAN FOLLOWED AT THE CRAWFORD

"Help yourself" once was a stock word in the famous West Texas hospitality, and it is once more in vogue at the Crawford Cafeteria. For that's just what the patron may do as he walks down the food line in the new establishment. Whatever is appealing to even the whimsical appetite, that's exactly what one may have. There's no taking this or that to get the other. Inexperienced cafeteria customers generally must overcome the failing or letting so many things dull restraint.

ENTER OR EXIS without effort at the Crawford cafeteria, for the doors of the establishment are operated automatically with approach or departure of a customer. It's all done with the "electric eye" which sets door mechanism in operation when a beam of light is broken.

The Molly Maguires was the name of a secret society in Ireland in 1843.

Attractiveness And Efficiency Combined At Service Counter

Service tables in the Crawford Cafeteria combine the features of modernity, utility, and cleanliness without subtracting any from attractive display.

Salads are maintained in a special refrigerated compartment and are transferred to a surface frosted tray as they are needed. Other foods are kept in a long stainless steel steam table which keeps them kitchen fresh and piping hot. The beverage box keeps drinks at the bracing "ice cold" level.

Jeannette Barnett, Ruth Sparks and Stella Flynn left Saturday for San Angelo to attend the annual formal "Bosses Banquet" to be held at the Cactus Hotel by the B. & P. W. club. Meta Meadow, state president elect, was present and was introduced by Lallah Wright, chairman of the state membership committee. Miss Barnett was also to attend a district president's meeting Sunday morning before returning here.

Well Rounded Program

Based on developments to date and with the actual convention dates nearly three weeks, it appears that the 22nd annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce parley here May 16-18 will be one of the best balanced programs the regional conclave has had in years.

First of all, the WTCC is taking care of weighty matters of economic concern to the section. Competent speakers have been invited to address the assembly on subjects pertaining to vital resources such as oil, farming, livestock, industry and discriminatory freight rates.

This year, however, the WTCC is going further than fighting for material rights and benefits. Its leadership realizes that all the bountiful resources of the region would go for naught were it not for people and the ability of people to utilize these resources by wise applications.

WTCC officials are wise enough to know that many things being fought for now will not come within the time of those who are now in the front ranks. The ultimate consumption of dreams and plans must come at the hands of boys and girls of the region.

Thus, it is appropriate that this year the WTCC stresses youth in a gigantic All-Youth parade of Boy Scouts, 4-H club boys and girls, Future Farmers of America, Girl Scouts and many others in addition to the standing youth features for My Home Town speakers and sponsors.

As host city Big Spring should be proud that this year has been chosen to pay respects to West Texas' greatest crop—its boys and girls. Big Spring ought to be proud to show its appreciation of that fact through the first gesture of respect: in reaching its pre-convention registration goal of 1,600. Until that is done, none can rightfully say that the city is doing its job as host.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

Chapter 14 MAUD "What shall I do about it all?" Brenda asked Hugh Saltus. "Must you do anything? Better not, little Brenda. Trying to help other people gets you into the devil of a mess sometimes. I knew a man once, he went on deliberately, 'who tried to do something to help another person—something that cost him quite a bit of time and trouble, to say nothing of money—and the reward he got for it was to lose the affection and respect of the—the only person he cared a single whoop for in this rotten old world!'"

Jack Stinnett Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—If you think official Washington had any inkling of A. Hitler's Scandinavian blitzkrieg, think again. When the news came, President Roosevelt was in Hyde Park; Secretary of State Hull in Atlantic City; Swedish Minister Brostrom and Finnish Minister Procopo were attending a banquet in Philadelphia; Danish Minister De Kauffmann vacationing in Charleston, S. C. Only Norway's Minister Morgenstjerne was on the diplomatic firing line when the newsmen descended on mass.

The state department's first breathless moment came when word flashed around that both Hans Thomsen, German embassy charge d'affaires and Mr. Morgenstjerne were in the halls of the battered, old-fashioned department of state building. Their meeting would have provided a severe test of diplomatic etiquette. They failed to meet—state department officials started breathing again.

Scene: Map department of the Library of Congress. Cast: Col. Lawrence Martin, chief of map division. Your correspondent.

Col. Martin: Let me give you a third-rate headline. You know that town in Norway the Nazis nazis, I call 'em, not nazis—look yesterday? Y. C.: You mean Hell.

Col. Martin: Here's the headline: Nazis Get Hell. Curtain.

If you've never heard an old story put in reverse by real-life facts, here is one: Over at the U. S. Marine barracks, a score or so of the boys in blue were patting little pastebord oblongs in hip-pockets of their jeans and counting the days until they could exchange them for one good seat at the opening baseball game of the season.

Then somebody died—somebody pretty important—a naval captain and that left a squad of the boys in blue out on a limb. Men at the Marine barracks officiate as a guard of honor at all marine and navy funerals. And this particular funeral was set for the afternoon of the baseball opener.

The parade of boys to the sergeant-major's office TRYING TO GET OUT OF GOING TO A FUNERAL TO GO TO A BASEBALL GAME was endless. One excuse: "My dress uniform is in the cleaning shop." The hard-hearted sarge's quick-witted reply: "Okay, Private Jones, we'll detail Private Craig to the guard-of-honor and you'll walk Mr. Craig's guard duty. You don't need a dress uniform for that."

The fact that Boston beat the Nazis 1-to-0 hasn't stopped the boys yet from demonstrating what it means to cuss like a marine.

There's nothing like the news you get in Washington. The war in Europe clutters the front pages. The war of the presidential candidates and the battle of the elements in the United States takes all the space that's left. But the dauntless interior department biological survey issues the breath-taking bulletin that "Peanut" and "Mudcut" out in Monroe, Mich., finally got what was coming to them.

Albert "Peanut" Lazette and Henry "Mudcut" DuBay had, it seems, been shooting whistling swans. It may have been good shooting but it was plenty bad business. "Peanut" got 30 days and $400; "Mudcut" got six months, suspended, with three years probation. A feud-mad neighbor turned them in.

What I want to know and can't find out is what in Sam Hill you do with a whistling swan once you've shot it?
