Senate Goes To Work On Farm Bill

Anti-Lynching Controversy Side-tracked For Time; New Trouble Looms On Wage-Hour Proposal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—The senate went to work on long-range farm legislation today after side-tracking the anti-lynching bill. As it did so, administration leaders—trying to push forward with the president's program on another front—abandoned hope of getting the wages and hours bill from the house rules committee. The committee has refused since last summer to let the house consider the labor measure.

CHARGED

George O. Schaefer, shown, was charged with murder at St. George, Utah, as an alleged accomplice of Charles Bosshardt who was accused of slaying Spencer Malan three years ago. Bosshardt married Malan's widow, who was Schaefer's sister.

BLIND OFFICER KILLS SISTER AND HIMSELF

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP)—A former army officer, maddened by the gathering darkness of total blindness, shot his sleeping sister dead with bullets through her "beautiful eyes" today, then ended his own life by slaying his throat with a razor.

Dr. John Horace Dancy, husband of the victim of the shooting, Dr. Naomi Dancy, 49, baby specialist, rushed to the bedroom scene of the tragedy and barely missed getting a bullet in the hands of Maurice Tribes, 43, the invalid former officer.

The husband's 70-year-old mother, also a physician, said Tribes, chambered by falling sight in his one good eye, shouted to his sister "You've beautiful eyes," then slayed her.

Dr. Naomi Dancy had dressed her brother's injured knee and had lain down for a nap when he entered her room.

The sound of a revolver shot and screams of Mrs. Dancy aroused the household. A maid found both persons in a dying coma with an army service revolver and a razor in the room.

One published account said Tribes showed a "strangeness" when Mrs. Dancy came home. He was said to have shouted wildly: "Naomi, you have beautiful eyes. They are glorious to look upon."

CASE IS TRIED

Case of Southern Underwriters versus Allen C. McDonald, suit to set aside award, was being tried Tuesday in 70th district court. The grand jury likewise was still in session, and was due to report either Thursday or Wednesday.

ETHEL BARRYMORE BACK ON STAGE, IN TIMELY PLAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ethel Barrymore walked onto the stage of the Guild theater last night, and thereby belied the most famous of all her curtain lines. That was her final speech of the play, "Sunday," years ago when she said, as the curtain fell, "That's all there is. There isn't any more."

Tax Revision Approved By Committee

Would Repeal Profits Levy On Smaller Corporations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—A house tax subcommittee tentatively approved today complete revision of the corporate tax system. It would involve repeal of the undistributed profits levy for all corporations with incomes up to $25,000 and retention on a modified basis for those with larger incomes.

For "Hardship Cases" The new plan, Chairman Vinson (D-Ky) said, will be "particularly helpful to the hardship cases—corporations needing money for the purpose of debt payment, plant expansion, to repair capital structure and the like."

The new plan would impose on corporations with incomes up to $25,000 an income tax of 12 1/2 per cent on the first $5,000 of earnings and of 14 per cent on earnings of $5,000 to $25,000.

Corporations with incomes in excess of $25,000, Vinson said, would pay a tax graduated from 16 to 20 per cent, the rates graduating according to the amount of profits distributed to stockholders in the form of dividends.

Same Revenue Estimates show, Vinson added, that these two sets of rates will yield the same revenue as the existing corporate tax law, making up for a reduction in the amount of taxes that individuals will pay on dividends.

Taxes on individuals, he said, should be lowered by some $60,000,000 under the new proposal.

POPE PIUS SUFFERS A SINKING SPELL

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 23 (AP)—Sources close to the Papal household said Pope Pius suffered a sinking spell last night but appeared considerably better today, following his usual medical injections.

The pontiff was critically ill just a year ago. He suffers circulatory troubles, which from time to time have caused him considerable pain, particularly in the legs.

Red Cross In Final Drive

Committee To Meet Tomorrow In Effort To Reach Goal

With only half its quota of $2,000 paid-in, the Howard county chapter of the American Red Cross is making every effort to speed up the final drive for funds to carry on the elaborate program planned for the coming year. Shine Phillips, general chairman, said Tuesday.

All quarters have reported with the exception of Garden City, Goshen, Forsan and Coahoma, therefore it will be necessary for all local contributors who have not been seen to make their gifts as rapidly as possible if the campaign is to close on the prescribed date on Thanksgiving Day. The campaign, however, will continue until prospective memberships are in, according to Phillips.

To overcome local laxity in contributing, a group of 20 persons has been selected to meet Wednesday morning with G. H. Hayward, campaign chairman, for the final effort to reach the established goal. It was announced Tuesday.

JOBLESS PAYMENT DATES SET BACK

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Deadline for payment of October contributions on wages to the unemployment commission has been extended to November 23, Orville S. Carpenter, director, announced today.

The extension was authorized because Nov. 25 is a holiday, he said. Similarly, the December deadline will be sent back to Dec. 28 since Dec. 25 is a holiday and the succeeding day falls on Sunday.

Break In Cold Weather Is Forecast

Snow Melting In Parts Of Texas After A Record Fall

A break in the November cold snap was indicated Tuesday, as temperatures in this area rose slowly and a forecast was issued for warmer weather Wednesday. Meanwhile, heavy snow which had blanketed the northern and eastern parts of the state was melting.

The West Texas sector missed the snowfall, but saw sub-freezing temperatures which included a low mark of 25 at Big Spring.

Deep East Texas still was receiving snow Tuesday. Six inches had been recorded at Rusk and the precipitation continued at mid-morning. Palestine had five inches and the weather bureau at Dallas reported it was still snowing there.

The official weather forecast predicted colder weather for South-Central Texas and south except in the Rio Grande valley, with prospects for warmer weather in West and North-Texas Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Waco reported a ten-inch snow which was melting rapidly. Elsewhere in North and Central Texas the November rarity of a heavy snow was fast melting into a jolly of mud and slush. Snowfalls continued at a few points, among them Temple, Tyler and Marlin, into last night, but most sections reported the flakes which drifted silently in early yesterday to surprise weathermen, stopped before the day ended.

Scattered parts of East and West Texas were expecting either rain or snow to continue.

Only South Texas was untouched yesterday by the fall which in most sections was beneficial to agriculture and range.

The fall varied from a bare trace to more than six inches at Marlin, where the heaviest fall in 12 years was recorded, and old-time weathermen had none go earlier.

At Temple the fall was the heaviest in November in 40 years. Fort Worth, with three inches, and Dallas, with 3, also noted records.

Weather

WEST TEXAS—Generally fair, warmer in west and north portions tonight; Wednesday partly cloudy, warmer.

EAST TEXAS—Partly cloudy, slightly colder in southeast portion, freezing in east and south portions, slightly warmer in northwest portion tonight; Wednesday generally fair, slowly rising temperature.

School District Sells Downtown Property

Money To Be Used In Retiring Debt On Stadium And Birdwell Land

School property cornering on Gregg and Fourth streets was marketed by the school board Monday evening on a bid of $8,250 cash.

The land, 140x90 feet, was sold to Ted and Art Groehl, Big Spring. Proceeds from the sale will go to retire their indebtedness by the schools.

Price on the property was slightly better than the board's revenue from the sale of a 200x140 piece on the east side of the block to the federal government for a post office site.

The postoffice, embracing 29,400 square feet, sold for $18,500 while the piece sold Monday had only 12,600 square feet and sold for almost half as much.

To Retire Debts The school board plans to retire the $5,025 indebtedness on its stadium and $2,333 on the Birdwell property owned by the schools. Balance will be applied on the paying obligation to the city, leaving only about $1,000 to be cleared up on that score. Both the stadium and Birdwell indebtedness draws seven per cent interest annually.

None of the bids submitted for the $50,000 bonds to be issued by the district for new school buildings and renovation work was accepted. Most of the bidders held back since the state board has priority on the bonds.

Meanwhile, Haynes and Strange, architects, were pushing plans on the new school buildings for Big Spring and were attempting to complete them by the end of next week if possible. A letting, under terms of a PWA offer involving a grant of about $100,000, should be had in time for starting of construction by December 15.

Utility Firm In Breakup

Stone & Webster Getting Rid Of Operating Units

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Stone & Webster Inc., a leading public utility combination, moved today to divest itself of direct holdings in power operating units to avoid designation as a holding company subject to federal control.

Directors voted for distribution to shareholders of the top company its major holdings in the Engineers Public Service company—a large intermediate holding company controlling operating properties in 12 states, principally in the South, the Middle West and Northwest. They also proposed distribution of holdings in the Sierra-Pacific Power company.

In utility circles the Stone & Webster plan was described as the first by a major power combine for separation of operating properties since federal control became effective two years ago.

A meeting of Stone & Webster stockholders was called for December 16 to consider recommendations of the board.

Officials said the move was aimed to free Stone & Webster from financial control of its utility interests which would have brought it under regulations of the 1935 utility holding company act.

Engineers Public Service, which primarily would fall within control of the federal act, has important operating units in Virginia, Texas, Florida, Louisiana and Georgia, in addition to the Northwest.

Under the plan, Stone & Webster would be converted to a holding company with no direct operating units.

The divestment of operating units will be completed by the end of next year, it was said.

Stone & Webster said it would continue to own and operate the power generating units in the Sierra-Pacific Power company.

AMERICAN EMBASSY IN CHINA MOVED

SHANGHAI, Nov. 23 (AP)—United States Ambassador Nelson A. Rockefeller and members of his staff embarked today on the United States gunboat Luzon for the Yangtze river trip from Nanking to Hankow where a temporary embassy has been established.

Hankow, in Honan province, one of the three cities to which the Central Chinese government had moved under the threat of an advancing Japanese army, lies 280 miles by air southwest of Nanking and considerably further by way of the winding Yangtze.

Johnson left several aides at Nanking. While the ambassador followed the Nanking government on its withdrawal further into the interior, another United States gunboat, the Oahu, steamed to the assistance of Americans at Wuhu, Kiangkiang and other Yangtze ports upriver from Nanking.

A third gunboat, the Panay, was under orders to remain at Nanking.

New Study Of Tax Situation Also On Day's Schedule

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt called in some of his principal advisers today to discuss ways the government can aid business.

Secretary Morgenthau and Undersecretary Magill, treasury tax experts, were summoned first for a conference on latest treasury studies of taxes.

Meets Utility Groups Chairman W. Averell Harriman of Secretary Roper's business advisory council, followed the treasury officials.

A third conference was with Edward F. McGrady, director of labor relations for the Radio Corporation of America and former assistant labor secretary.

The afternoon was allotted to conferences looking to a settlement of the long-standing controversy between the administration and private power.

Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, a private utility operating largely in the South, was the first of several utility managers called to the president's study.

The president received all his callers in his study, where he is recuperating from the effects of an infected tooth, extracted last week.

Other Developments Attempts of the administration and republican congressional leaders to find ways of helping business resulted in these other developments:

1. Members of a house tax subcommittee showed sentiment for exempting a fixed percentage of corporation incomes from the undistributed profits tax.

2. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) offered an "opposition" program in which he said business should be "permitted reasonable latitude to run itself."

Vandenberg's Idea 3. House republicans, at the request of Representative Knutson (R-Minn) who opposes the levies, arranged to caucus on the question of advocating repeal of the undivided surplus and capital gains taxes.

Senator Vandenberg made 10 suggestions for improving economic conditions in a radio speech last night. His proposals were:

End business distrust of government, speed up balancing of the budget, substitute "incentive taxation" for the "punitive brand," amend the social security act and the Wagner labor relations act, abandon the wage-hour bill, curtail "executive despotism" with "without bureaucratic controls," adopt an "insulating neutrality," and abandon "all anti-constitutional activities and intrigues."

The removal from Socorro to Valencia county, sheriff's deputies moved swiftly, District Attorney John Barton Burg of Socorro county received information from Albuquerque police that Cassidy had been wildly in love with the beautiful Garcia girl, and according to a statement by a friend, had wanted to divorce his wife and marry her.

ONE DEAD, 25 HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Failure of a motorman to heed a warning signal was blamed today after a preliminary inquiry for the crash of two Illinois Central suburban trains which killed a young woman and injured 25 other passengers.

A six-car southbound train filled with workers homeward bound from the loop rammed into the rear of a string of empty cars near 82nd street on the far South Side last night.

The dead woman was Miss Bernice Inczarski, 25-year-old factory employe.

TRAIN IS DERAILED

MINEOLA, Nov. 23 (AP)—Several passengers were shaken up and a Pullman porter injured late last night when three cars of an east-bound Texas Pacific passenger train derailed.

At Dallas, officials of the railroad said a broken rail was responsible for the accident. The three cars bounding along the ties tore up 800 feet of track, they said, but traffic was resumed this morning.

Railroad officials said no one had been sent to a hospital as a result of the accident and they were checking further to determine the exact extent of injuries.

TRIAL NEARS JURY

PITTSFIELD, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP)—The murder trial of the Rev. C. E. Newton was in its final argumentative stages today and the fate of the Missouri minister was expected to be turned over to the jury by night.

State's Attorney Merrill H. Johnston declared he would demand the 51-year-old clergyman die in the electric chair for the hampering of his former Sunday school worker, Mrs. Dennis E. Kelly, of Paris, Mo., whose body was found in the Mississippi river last July 13.

'GOOD NEIGHBOR DAY' ALLRED'S IDEA FOR THANKSGIVING

AUSTIN, Nov. 23 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred wants Thanksgiving to be a "good neighbor" day. His proclamation setting aside Nov. 25 as Thanksgiving Day calls upon Texans to be "good neighbors in bringing the spirit of Thanksgiving Day to the home of unfortunate neighbors that they might share with us some of our material blessings."

SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

THE SPORTS PARADE

BY HANK HART

Willard Sullivan brings attention to the large two-column picture of Woodrow Wilson in the last Sunday edition of the New York Mirror... Cut lines read of the former Big Spring boy's football exploits with the United States Military Academy and what he intends to do against Navy next Saturday... Woody now calls Ozona home but is lived at Stanton, San Angelo and El Paso at one time or another... He was on that Texas Mines eleven that played the Texas Longhorns such a good game and then went north and almost beat Southern Methodist several years ago.

Among early arrivals to spend the holidays at home is Woodrow Harris, tackle on the 1936 Big Spring eleven... He is playing at the same position with Lon Morris Junior college of Jacksonville this year, the team that defeated Wesley Junior college early in the season... He's down to 175 pounds now, about 15 pounds lighter than when he played here, but he's due to gain it back in the spring.

Ole Cordill gained more yardage in the Rice-T.C.U. game Saturday than any two backs on the field, according to the statistics. He hoped for better than three yards per try and ran with the pigskin about 13 times during the afternoon while Ernie Lalin's total gain during the afternoon was minus two and Davey O'Brien's was minus one... Best T.C.U. backs on the field, if you believe the reports, were Spud Clark and Earl Clark, the ex-Breckenridge stars... According to Joe Hayden, poor blocking on the Owls' part accounted largely for the defeat. Ole turned in the longest run of the day, 15 yards, on his initial play from scrimmage...

Ray Ogden, who has witnessed the Longhorns in all their games this year, corresponds with:

"x x x I believe Weldon Bigony to be the most valuable all-around man on the team. He is certainly an all-district back. His punting is exceptionally good. He is the outstanding pass receiver in the district. He is without a doubt the best blocker and line backer I have seen in the district. As a runner in the backfield he is far better than average. The other man I think is all-district is Dopey Anderson at end. He is an outstanding pass receiver. On the defense he always charges with the result that I have not seen him out on more than four plays this season x x x He is the best blocking high school end I have seen in action this fall."

"RAY OGDEN."

Ed Walsh, Jr., son of one of the greatest pitchers of all times, died a couple weeks ago in Florida, Fla. He, at one time, had a promising baseball career but he just couldn't pull the string like his old man... Louis Madison and Jack Wilson, '36 stars of the Big Spring high school team, paced the Eastern New Mexico Junior college's Greyhounds to victory over St. Regis in Denver, Colo., last Saturday. The rounds won, 41-12... Incidentally, the Garretmen had their biggest game of the year, dropping a 15-0 decision to Altus, Okla., Junior college several weeks ago... They wind up the schedule with Silver City this weekend.

Howard Hart, Steer sub center, is out with an injured thumb and may not see action in the Sweetwater game Thursday... One team looks about as good as the other in the S.M.U.-T.C.U. clash Saturday from this side of the ring... The Frogs are going to be stronger in the center of the line but the Mustangs have the better ends and backs... The Purple will be looking for their first victory in four years over the Methodists...

'Pro' Bigony, Ross Callahan Place On Daily Herald's All-District Eleven

Moser, Ramsey And Beam In Secondary

Eagles Place Three Men, Bucs And Mustangs Two Each

By HANK HART

In presenting this, our first all-conference Three selector, we knowingly omitted the cousin from Milwaukee and the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi so don't feel hurt if we happened to forget the name of your favorite gragger. It's probably a bit of nonsense to everybody and we're open to argument.

In choosing the eleven men whom we believe most capable of wearing the mythical titles, we elected only from performance as we saw them. Selections of tackles may draw comment since neither of the Abilene goliaths succeeded in landing a spot; but there may not be as much argument there as in the backfield where plenty of nominees arise for only four positions.

Derace Moser of Stephenville naturally heads the entire poll as an all-conference half back. This 180 pound dynamo was the whole Yellow Jacket attack. He could punt, pass and tote the mail and was a better combination machine than any one in the conference. If all places were as easily decided as his there would be no drawing from the hat.

Fullback position goes to one of four juniors on the squad, John Ramsey, weighing 190 pounds, Ramsey "made" the Breckenridge team, propelling it to victories over Big Spring, San Angelo, Brownwood, Eastland, Cisco and Ranger.

Running along with that two-some comes Weldon Bigony, co-captain of the Big Spring Steers at half, and James Beam of Abilene at quarter. Bigony was the best defensive back in the entire district, could carry the ball when given the opportunity and was never stopped as a pass receiver. He could block and he did his team's kicking. Beam ran his team admirably, piloting the Eagles to a district crown, could run and pass. He, at 145 pounds, was the lightest man on the team.

Switching to the line finds Roland McAdams, Abilene, and Cecil Voss of Sweetwater at the wings. McAdams has good running mates in Pete Simpson and J. T. Bell but Voss grabbed the other position for his sterling style of play. Both Zolus Motley and George Proctor of the championship eleven had to take back seats to Riley Simmons, Sweetwater, and George Bagwell, Breckenridge, at the tackle positions. Simmons stood head and shoulders above all other candidates while the general all-around ability of Bagwell, a junior, landed him easily.

Angelino At One Guard George Davenport was the only San Angelo player to merit a place on the first eleven. He played at guard along with Ross Callahan of Big Spring. Davenport weighed 202 pounds and used all of it to a good advantage. Callahan, a fighting junior, tipped in at 185 pounds but he was not overpowered in any of the games in which he played. Ellis Vigen, Abilene, who was hurt during most of the season, was undoubtedly the stoutest center of the loop. His ability to diagnose enemy plays was marvelous and he was one of the best linebackers in the state.

Big Spring landed three men on the second team, placing Charles Ray Settles at halfback and Douglas Ray Beahorn at center and Gerald "Dopey" Anderson at one of the ends.

Rayborn was probably the greatest pass defense man in the conference. Only his failure to play in all the games kept him off the first team. Anderson's inability to catch a pass robbed him of his chance but he played second fiddle to no one on the defensive while the shifty Big Settles was best at his specialty. He simply could not do enough things.

Texas Jr. College Race Not Decided

Committee To Decide Champ In S. Texas

Court Rules It Has No Jurisdiction In Such Cases

BEAUMONT, Nov. 23 (AP)—An appeals court decision reversing and remanding a trial court's decision it had no jurisdiction to hear an injunction involving use of 12th grade players on championship high school football teams brought renewed hope to Port Arthur Yellow Jackets today.

The trial court had held it had no jurisdiction to hear the suit, which sought to restrain members of the interscholastic league from enforcing a district committee ruling barring 12th grade students playing.

The appeals court ruled the trial did have such jurisdiction, and remanded the case to the 16th district court for a trial on its merits.

Counsel for the district committee has 15 days in which to file a motion for rehearing in the appeals court.

Meanwhile the District 14 committee planned to meet in Houston Saturday and certify a district champion.

Little Manager May Talk Trade With Browns, Indians

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—James Joseph Dykes, the little man who likes big cigars, probably will come out of the approaching baseball meeting with enough free stogies to carry him through the 1938 season.

Genial Jimmy, who has never been accused of being a baseball "wallflower," apparently is going to be one of the most popular "delegates" to the minor league convention December 1-3 at Milwaukee and at the major league meetings here December 6-8. And the Chicago White Sox manager, with good reason, apparently is ready to have a big time for himself.

Fans Asked To Buy Tickets

Reserved seats for the Sweetwater-Big Spring football game, to be played Thursday afternoon in Sweetwater, will remain on sale through Wednesday at the high school according to George Gentry, principal.

All fans who are going to make the trip are asked to buy their tickets here since they may not be available in Sweetwater. A capacity crowd is expected by Sweetwater officials train tickets, which are selling for $1, is progressing rapidly and Gentry hopes to give railway officials assurance by morning that the train can be guaranteed.

If arranged, the Big Spring delegation will leave here at 12:30 p. m. Thursday and return at 9 p. m. The train will leave Sweetwater at 7:20 p. m.

LIPPY TO MEET SAILOR MORAN IN MAIN GO

Buck Lipscomb, the Hoosier schoolboy with an adventurous mind, will set about to circle a new map tonight in the main event of the Big Spring Athletic club and he may not cover much ground to do it.

The map he's going to inspect isn't rocky and it isn't easily accessible since it belongs to a bloke by the name of Sailor Moran who's been around longer than he cares to tell.

The pair get together for two hours or less in a best-two-of-three falls match and whether it is Moran who is "discovered" or the surly Indianan, himself, who misses out on Wednesday morning's breakfast it may be interesting.

Moran is sitting at the head of the table at the present time. He earned that rating by triumphing over such lugs as Jack Hagen, Don Rainey and Otto Ludwig and he has been no indication thus far that he intends to wait around for the second serving.

Because if some other team is picked it will clear the decks for the Sugar Bowl (rapidly becoming a major rival) to come up with Pitt vs. Alabama or some other such attraction.

Within a week two Broadway gossip columns have reported Lefty Gomez of the Yanks and the good-looking June O'Dea are arranging a friendly divorce... Harry Etchells, a shoe shop attendant in Manchester, Eng., won $1,000,000 in a football pool and flags were hoisted all over town in celebration...

You embryo fight matchmakers can earn $5,000 of Mike Jacobs' dough if you can get Lou Ambers to defend his lightweight title against Henry Armstrong... P. S.: Mike can't... Luis Angelo Firpo was an even better business manager than Jack Dempsey, Max Schmeling or Gene Tunney, but wound up flat broke... Both Dempsey and Tunney rate a million in any book.

It Is The Fighting Notre Dame Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP) Shure and they're still the "Fighting Irish" at Notre Dame.

And, according to the new student directory issued by the university here, the Sullivans are claiming most of the credit for the distinction. Twenty-nine Sullivans walk the pathways of the campus, not to mention a few extra O'Sullivans.

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Notre Dame will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the birth of Irish football Saturday at the Southern California game, at which members of Notre Dame teams from 1905 to 1910 will be guests. The Irish played their first game of football on Nov. 23, 1887, losing to Michigan, 6 to 0.

Eastern Bowl Team Still A Mystery

Fordham, Pitt, Villanova And Alabama Are Being Considered

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 23 (AP)—Who will oppose California's unbeaten football team in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day? That question brought lots of silence from university of athletic heads today, while guessing ran rampant.

If California's graduate manager, Ken Priestley, had any idea who would be the Eastern representative in the Pasadena classic, his only comment was "mum's the word."

It seems Priestley wants the Golden Bears, Pacific Coast conference champions, to oppose a team "with similar athletic and academic standards" as California.

OPPOSES TCU

BOB BELVILLE, Back

HENRY GUYNES, Back

These two boys may figure largely in the outcome of the Texas Christian-Southern Methodist football battle which will be played in Ft. Worth Saturday. At the top is Bob Belville, a 190-pound Methodist star who is a member of that starting backfield that has defeated Baylor and U.C.L.A. on successive Saturdays. The Mustangs also depend on Henry Guynes, lower photo, for that extra yard or two. Guynes hails from Ft. Stockton.

Ohio State Attracts Total Of 394,000 Thru Turnstiles

CHICAGO, Nov. 23 (AP)—Return to general circulation of what the boys call "gliding money" is reflected in football attendance and receipts for 1937 in the Western conference.

Receipts probably will exceed the $2,000,000 mark for the season just closed—the highest figure since the peak year of 1927, Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the athletics for the "Big Ten" said today.

PITT TOP RANKING TEAM AGAIN

Longview And Abilene Due Clinchers

Amarillo Need Only Sweep Lubbock Aside To Cop

DALLAS, Nov. 23 (AP)—Longview's illustrious Lobos and Amarillo's Golden Sandies, seeking their fourth straight title, are expected to lead 15 district champions into the Texas Interscholastic League football playoffs when the firing ceases Thanksgiving day.

The other winner will not be determined before Saturday when the question of Port Arthur's eligibility is discussed by the District 14 executive committee meeting at Houston. Port Arthur Monday had its claims to be heard in court over use of 12th graders upheld by the court of civil appeals at Beaumont.

Longview, outstanding favorite for the state title after a campaign that has seen Dandy Dick Miller and his mates smash all opposition, including Port Arthur, conqueror of Amarillo, has only to tie the comparatively weak Gladeview team to take the district crown.

Vernon is favored in District 2 but must down Electra to take undisputed honors. Districts where leaders can win championships with no more than the games are: District 3—Abilene, which plays San Angelo; District 5—Sherman, which plays Gainesville; District 6—Highland Park (Dallas), which engages Greenville; District 7—North Side (Fort Worth), which meets Paschal (Fort Worth); District 12—Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio), which meets Brackenridge (San Antonio).

Austin (El Paso) and El Paso high, both with spotless records, play for the District 4 championship. Robstown and Corpus Christi, each undefeated, meet for the District 15 title, and San Benito, upper bracket champion, and Mission, lower bracket winner, clash for the District 16 title. Temple can grab the District 11 gonfalon by defeating Waco. A loss would create a tie for the title.

'Four Aces' Again Are Winners In Bridge Event

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—The "four aces" were kingpins of the bridge world again today, so far as the Vanderbilt cup goes.

The 4,650 points lined up last night by Oswald Jacoby, Howard Schenken, David Burnstine, M. D. Maier and Sherman Sterns left Harold S. Vanderbilt's team far in the rear.

The only glory for Vanderbilt and his teammates, Waldemar K. Von Zedtwitz, Theodore A. Lightner, Charles Lochridge and E. Jay Becker was the fact that they led the champions by 60 points Sunday at the halfway mark of 72 boards.

That slim lead went off the books the start yesterday when Lightner's tardiness in reporting cost the Vanderbilts 100 points penalty.

Jacoby and Burnstine will have their names on the huge silver trophy for the fourth time. They won in 1931 with P. Hal Sims and Willard Karn before the aces entered as a team.

Fashion Editor Offers A Plan For Attaining Mature Suavity

MINK TRIM FOR CHIC For the suave chic of the woman of 30, Lilly Dache designs this sleek toque, combining soft brown wool with a band of mink. A throat-swathing scarf, rimmed in the same fur, hangs from the back.

(Ed. Note.—This is the first in a series of three articles on conservative selection of winter clothes.)

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK — Suave worldly fashions, largely inspired by the Duchess of Windsor, are the rule in the new winter mode.

Their coming has set a new mold for faces, figures and clothes. The picture of insouciant youth, at which so many women aimed for years, lost its spot in the fashion show when designers launched a form inspired by the clothes of the woman first in the news. It is slim, suave, figure-revealing—and worldly as a diamond brooch.

Women have come of age. The poised woman of 30—or more—holds the fashion stage.

More Time Shopping Every part of the mode is designed to "build her up." Dresses are cut in worldly simplicity, molding figures to show their curves.

Change Like that calls for thought. Fashion-wise women are spending more time on their clothes than they have since hemlines "dropped," for they know they cannot achieve the desired effect with a few hours' nonchalant shopping.

You will need to plot every clothes move you make, if you want to look right this year. Study yourself and the fashion rules followed by the world's best-dressed women.

These will be doubly useful in a particularly perplexing season, but they will serve as long as fashion lasts as a guide to the goal of true chic.

READING AND WRITING

By JOHN SELBY

'JEFFERSON, DAVIS: THE REAL AND THE UNREAL' by Robert McElroy; (Harpers; 2 Volumes; $8).

Robert McElroy's new two-volume biography of Jefferson Davis ("Jefferson Davis: The Real and the Unreal") may do service to the memory of that gentleman in one or two unexpected ways, chiefly this one—there was and is today a large group of southerners who resent Davis and belittle him quite as readily as the most rabid northern sympathizer.

Perhaps Professor McElroy's long range view is partly due to a physical circumstance. The author is, by birth, a Kentuckian (a lot of Davis' worst enemies hailed from that state, incidentally).

He has taught all over the Orient as well, and now he is professor of American history at Oxford. This considerable experience of other lands and peoples may have helped him see the woods as well as the trees in this excellent, tempered biography.

Dr. McElroy's Jefferson Davis is a man of resource and better than average intelligence. He is not a believer in slavery as a permanent institution; rather, he is in the group of what Dr. McElroy calls "patient abolitionists."

Dr. McElroy's Jefferson Davis is a man of resource and better than average intelligence. He is not a believer in slavery as a permanent institution; rather, he is in the group of what Dr. McElroy calls "patient abolitionists."

Though long and scholarly, this is one "big" work which reads speedily and easily.

First Breath Of Winter Brings First Breath Of Spring Styles

'All American' Furs And Frocks Shown In New York Show

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—The spotlight shined on American fashions last night with the strongest light it has ever focused on styles originated in the United States when the fashion group presented "fashion futures—American edition."

The all-American theme was chosen for the display in keeping with the use of America's achievement in fashion during the last 25 years.

The present of coming spring fashions presented seven higher costumes with furs, jewels and accessories worth a half million dollars. One hundred of America's prettiest mannequins paraded the outfits which varied all the way from California play clothes and costumes for air travel to negligees and formal evening gowns.

Traveling clothes featured slim wool dresses worn with straight flared top coats, plain frocks accompanied by plaid jackets and brown, green and mustard tweed suits. Crepe afternoon frocks generally clung to the slim fitted silhouette and were often worn with striking colored accessories.

Evening clothes were glamorous décollete and full-skirted. Sheer chiffons, crisp nubs and glistening satins in such hues as white, chartreuse, gray, wine rose and green topped with shimmering little jackets embroidered with shells or sequins were outstanding.

Stimulating Private Building

Of the various programs being charted with the design of bringing to an end the current business recession, none appears more significant than that drafted to stimulate private building. The program is important not only from a boost-business standpoint, but it is essential because of the need, in most parts of the country, for more adequate living facilities.

Associated Press dispatches Monday reported that President Roosevelt has in mind two major proposals. One was for authorization of loans from the RFC to mortgage companies organized to furnish capital for large scale housing projects. The RFC would match dollar-for-dollar funds put up for private capital. The other was an increase in the percentage of cost of a small home which may be financed through a mortgage insured by the Federal Housing administration.

The first plan would serve its purpose better in the metropolitan, congested areas, where slum clearance and provision of better living arrangements on the apartment style are needed. But it is the second plan which undoubtedly prove of interest to other areas of the country, such as our own, where private home construction is essential to continued growth and development.

Big Spring is one of many cities where housing facilities are insufficient to meet the demand. There are here, as in other places, many families who would like to build a home of their own if financing were a bit easier, even than the comparatively liberal program of the FHA.

Removal of families now renting into homes of their own naturally would release apartment and rent-house space to those groups who prefer to rent or who are forced to do so.

It was recently suggested at a housing conference in Washington that chambers of commerce or similar organizations determine for their own localities (1) the number of properties vacant; (2) the number of families added to the city in a given year; (3) the distribution of these families by income levels.

We believe that if such a survey were made completely and accurately here, there would be new evidence of the need and desire for more houses. If the 20 per cent down payment now required for FHA financing were changed so that 90 percent of the total amount could be insured by the FHA, there might be a bigger response to the efforts for more construction.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—"Senator" Ford is a "slow, thought-chewing" fellow whose droll remarks crack like a rawhide whip. Meeting with him is always an adventure for he is sure to come up with at least one aside that leaves you unstarved.

Such a moment came in a night club where the talk had turned to the winter styles in women's wear. After discussing the new Empire purple and commenting on ermine wraps trimmed with white fox, someone said: "Senator, what do you think of the ladies' hats this season?"

The Senator thought that over for a moment. "Well," he said, if you ask me, "I think it's Queen Mary's time to laugh."

Not long ago the Senator attended a dinner at which most of the guests were tycoons of the automobile industry. The heads of Buick, Ford, Oldsmobile, Cadillac, all the well known cars were there.

Eventually Senator Ford began to make remarks about this car and that. He tossed an uncompromising remark in the direction of Buick. A little later he began arguing against the merits of the Oldsmobile. The presidents of these organizations began to eye the Senator with a startled look.

Pursuing his militant attitude, Senator Ford climbed to his feet and began a vigorous and abusive denunciation of the motor industry, naming "flaws" and objectionable points in all of the favorite automobiles manufactured here. Then he bowed stiffly and walked out.

The tycoons were agast. They didn't learn until some time later that it was a gag—that the Senator was an entertainer commissioned to make just such a startling and unexpected speech.

A gadabout who attended the horse show informs me that, as usual, the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police have monopolized the attention of the ladies. It was their scarlet tunics that got them. The Poles arrived with a snappy team, and the Irish, Austrians, and Serbians were equally gallant and impressive. But the ladies just couldn't get over those big-rough-riding but smooth-talking Mounties who always get their gal as well as their man.

Penthouses are something of a drug on the market during winter in New York, when people have little use for terraces. A hotel impresario tells me that now is the time to get a good "buy," if one is willing to forego extravagant demands for redecorations. Most people who have enough money to rent penthouses are away for the winter, which explains perfectly why the prices are down. Come April, however, and it'll be a different story. The prices will practically treble.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

(Mr. Lippmann's column is published as an informational and news feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald—Editor's Note).

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF WASHINGTON

To attempt to read the news from Washington these days, let alone the news from Europe, Asia, Africa and South America, is rather like sitting down to breakfast and finding that the cook has gone mad. It is like finding that she has sent to the table all the meals for the next six months.

Even a very good appetite would be spoiled. No digestion would stand the ordeal, and no one would feel that it was right, even if the cook did not come storming into the room crying that if all the food were not eaten immediately it would spoil and the family would then die of starvation.

I have tried it. Reading two morning newspapers, avoiding with stern conscientiousness all the entertaining news about crimes and other people's troubles, all the civilized items about books, plays, pictures, music, concentrating heavily on what I may have to write about, I find that it takes me more than an hour to skim through the news. And that is just skimming, with no time to think whether what Secretary Wallace says about farm prices on the first page squares with the figures on foreign exchange and, say, gold movements on the forty-first page.

So, while the president may comprehend all the news from Washington, I should not suppose that many others do. One is driven, therefore, to simplify and generalize, though inevitably that means the airing of large opinions based on the most meager study. But since the most important thing for the ordinary citizen is to try to see the situation as a whole, rather than to set up as an expert on some phase of it, it is perhaps useful to simplify in order to generalize.

So considering only the current news, one may look on Washington as a circus with three rings, disregarding for the moment the freaks in the sideshows, the clowns and the acrobats on the flying trapeze. In one ring there is the show dealing with the farm bill and the labor bill, that is with the controversy over the curious attempt to use the power of the government to raise farm prices and industrial wages at the same time.

In a second ring there is the show about the revision of taxes, though at bottom the real issue there is whether the New Deal is to be the enemy or the friend of private business enterprise. And in the third ring we see Secretary Hull, the calmest, clearest, most patient and most persistent man in Washington, moving on to a trade agreement with the British Commonwealth of Nations as a device for persuading not only the government but all governments to relax their grip on, and to stop their meddling with, the buying and selling of goods.

In a rational world what was being done in one ring might be consistent with what was going on in the others, and the president as master of the whole show would be primarily concerned that it should be consistent. But Mr. Roosevelt has one set of principles when he is encouraging Secretary Hull, another set when he is backing the sponsors of the farm and labor bills, and still another when he contemplates the behavior and the grievances of corporation managers, investment bankers and other inactive republicans.

Yet if the confusion which has appeared in this first week is not to degenerate into pandemonium by next spring, it is most necessary that a moderate amount of consistency on basic principles should prevail. For as things are now, the right hand of the administration and the left hand are engaged in doing entirely contradictory things.

Thus the farm and labor bills are an attempt to do within the United States the very things which Mr. Hull is trying to reduce tariffs throughout the world. That means that he is trying to let men exchange the products of their labor more freely rather than to make goods dearer by making them scarcer and more costly to produce.

Mr. Hull's policy is a truly liberal policy, resting on the principle that to liberate human energy from direction by governments makes for freedom, prosperity and unity among men. Mr. Hull has hold of the elementary truth that to buy more cheaply goods that Englishmen can produce more efficiently is to benefit ourselves as well as the English, and at the same time to bring the two nations closer together in the maintenance of a civilized existence.

But compare this policy with that so clearly displayed by the legislation tangle in the House of Representatives over the farm and labor bills. What do we see there? We see a rather ugly sectional quarrel in which the cotton planters of the South want government intervention to make raw cotton the cost more and the cotton industry of the North wants legislation to make manufactured cotton cost more. So we have the farm bill designed to make raw cotton more

Hollywood Sights and Sounds By Robbin Coons. HOLLYWOOD—the movie stars who say they want to get away from it all—meaning pursuing fans—could take a lesson from Clark Gable, who really got it. Gable left here on vacation in a station wagon and old clothes. He took rifles but no razor. Passing through Salt Lake City he got a shave and was recognized. After that he dropped out of sight. Talbot Jennings, Metro writer, has a brother Charlie in Montana. Charlie used to be a peace officer but now operates a dude ranch. He knows hide-outs in the mountains. He tipped Gable to a few, later, tanned, 12 pounds lighter, the Hollywood atmosphere out of his lungs. He had a seven-week beard. Charlie Jennings tried to get a picture, but Gable always said he'd be back—on movie hero's—were unromantic. There isn't any picture. Too bad. Makes Good His Escape. Gable has hide-outs in Southern California, too. He spent two weeks on a non-advertising ranch in the hills above Santa Barbara. Another week went by at a little duck club near there which has only five members—Gable, E. J. Mannix, Jack Conroy, Sam Wood and Spencer Tracy. He was gone for 12 weeks—and his own studio didn't know where he was any of the time! Third Act Problem. Several years ago one of those mystery comedies that had been a stage hit was acquired for the movies. It has just been filmed. The other day the movie producer ran into the fellow who produced it originally on the stage. 'That's great stuff for the first

GRID ELIGIBILITY DISPUTE CARRIED TO THE COURTS. BURKBURNETT, Nov. 23 (AP)—The arrival by air mail here today of a family Bible from New York, and the appearance of Mrs. S. J. Blair of Camden, N. J., mother of a disqualified Burk Burnett high school grid player, caused District 10-B officials to grant a rehearing of the gridster's ineligibility case, set for tomorrow. John Pershing Foch Blair, the two acts," said the movie man, "but the third act takes a terrible drop." The stage producer got to thinking. "Say," he said, "what script did you use? You know the third act—then it clicked." The movie man groaned, but was too late. The picture had been finished—from the original script. Proving that Hollywood is still gridster whose disqualification forced the undefeated and unrowned Burk Burnett champions to forfeit their season's glory, was declared over age by the committee last week at his second hearing. Mrs. Blair will testify that her son was born on Sept. 5, 1915, and the Bible will be presented as proof, with the date recorded. Burk Burnett retained legal counsel to present its case at the Wichita county courthouse. SURGEON DIES. BALBOA, Canal Zone, Nov. 23 (AP)—Dr. Alfred Birch Hertz, faucher and chief surgeon of Panama hospital, died last night at the hospital after a long illness. EAT AT THE CLUB CAFE "We Never Close" G. Two's Company by MARGARET GLION HERZOG. Chapter 47. FEARS AND WONDERINGS. "I have told your mother that she has merely strained a heart muscle, and must rest it for a while," Dr. Fellows explained to Nina. "She must not be alarmed about her condition, you see, because she should lie as quiet as a mouse for weeks...but if she worried and fretted over herself, it would not do her the good it should." "I see, I'll stay with her all I can, Doctor, and try to keep her calm and cheerful..." "After a week or so there will have to be more tests made, but for the present she must stay in bed." Nina said: "Is it—dangerous?" And he answered thoughtfully: "It could be, but your job is to keep it from reaching an advanced stage...though I'm bound to say, it has progressed rather rapidly, as there were no alarming symptoms—other than fatigue—a late spring, when I recommended that she take the cruise..." "Dr. Fellows, you tell me honestly—how she is getting along, won't you?" "Yes, my dear..." "I'll have a right to know." "Of course, my dear..." Nina was over at the 74th street house within the hour. "And what," she inquired, "is the matter with you, my love? Are you not to know...? A hangover? Are you not last night, honey?" "No, it's just one of old Dr. Fellows' little jokes, baby. He says I've strained a muscle round my heart...or something silly. I imagine he wants me to stay in bed a week...but I have no intention of doing him, of course!" "Honey looked rebellious and obstinate in her great ornate bed, but there were faint blue shadows under her blue eyes...reflections, as they were called, and once or twice she'd say her wince a little, as from a sharp pain." Nina saw that it was going to be a job keeping her mother there in a bed, and she said: "Well, you'd better be good and do what he says, darling..." David's Skeptical Look. She was so full of laughs about Honey, when she returned home that her own problems were forgotten; but when David came in, and she spoke to him about her mother...they all came back again. "...and I'll have to be over there a lot, David. She loathes staying in bed, and Dr. Fellows says she simply must. If I'm at the house every day...right there—where I can talk to her when she's restless..." It was then her own problem came back. David had glanced at her, with a peculiar skeptical look in his eyes, and then walked over to the mantel. "Nina realized what was the matter at once...if it was anything...if she wasn't just imagining things. It could look as though she were manufacturing an excuse to be near Richard. David could think that it was ridiculous for Nina to have to hover constantly over her mother to keep her in bed..." She said quickly: "You don't know Honey as well as I do, darling. She's awfully bad about admitting she's sick. Why, I've seen her get up and start fussing round her room, when the nurse was out, and she was near to pneumonia, one time, really! She's an infant, and you've simply got to watch her." Had she said enough? Too much? This weighing her words and David's...this interpreting his every look, was intolerable. It would be too much for her soon. He said: "Well—watch her then, of course, Nina." And after a minute: "I'm frightfully sorry. Is there anything I could do?" "Run in and see her sometime. Kid her about her important-sounding ailments...she's not to worry." So David did run in, the very next afternoon, most unexpectedly; and as luck would have it, Honey had just gone to sleep. Nina was coming down stairs with her hat on, to go on an errand for her mother...and Richard had just come in. He was standing at the foot of the steps, with his hat still in his hands. It looked for all the world, when Bridget held open the front door for David, as though Nina and Richard were just on their way out together. As a matter of fact, that thought had very probably been in Challenger's mind, when he saw his stepdaughter dressed for the street...but it certainly wasn't in Nina's. She had avoided him studiously, all the morning, and had begged for a cup of tea at Honey's bedside, rather than have lunch with him, alone. Nina said to David: "Oh, hello, darling! What a shame Honey just went sound asleep, 10 minutes ago... You were sweet to come, but I hate to wake her." David was looking from one to the other. "Afternoon, David," said Richard. "Hello," and to Nina, "Too bad, I'll run along, then." He turned toward the door. He didn't ask her if she were going out—though he must have seen that she was, and if he hadn't thought she was going with Richard he would certainly have suggested walking a few blocks with her, since he had the time. Since he didn't suggest it, Nina had to. "I was just going to an errand for Honey. Walk a ways with me, darling?" "Sure," David agreed, and held open the front door. Nina went through it with the barest nod for Richard...and afterwards she wondered if she had seemed too cool. Suspiciously cool. Would David think...? The Apartment Situation. That's what the days were full of now: fears and wonderings. It seemed to Nina that, at the height of her infatuation for Richard, she had never appeared so guilty as now...when all she wanted was to be rid of him, to make a fresh start. There was something very funny about it. Wasn't there a play about a man who wasn't caught for the crime he did commit, but was hung for one that he didn't do? She really prayed, sometimes, that David would come out and accuse her, or make a real row, so that she would have to tell everything. That was what she longed for—yet, even now, she wasn't sure enough that confession would be the right thing. She was afraid that some of her fears were merely figments of her overwrought imagination. David didn't do anything that you could put your finger on. He just didn't seem as close. He seemed to want to have people at home, more than he used to—Cordelia, Jack... Even Jane, the model, and Bill... and of course, Grace. It didn't seem to be enough seeing her all day at the salesrooms. And about the apartment, he had given up the idea of hunting for a new one. He came home about the third day of Honey's illness, and showed Nina a floor plan of an apartment on 63rd street. "A fellow in the office—Melton—may want to sublet for a year, on the first of the month... he's going out west, and his place has another year to run. It can see, and he'd be willing to let it for $50, if he could use the servant's room to store some of his things..." Nina grew enthusiastic. She floor plan was awfully attractive. "Sounds like a simply marvelous chance, doesn't it, sweetheart?" "Yeah," he agreed. "But Melton's not absolutely sure yet... what do you say we let it ride for a few days, till he makes up his mind? We still have nearly three weeks of our month's notice." "Heaven! Only 10 days since he had journeyed up to Tarrytown with Richard... and hated his life and—found himself, and fallen in love with David? It seemed like 10 years!" So David had apparently dropped the idea of hunting further. For several nights running, Nina asked him: "What about the apartment, darling? Has Melton made up his mind yet?" "But Melton didn't seem to be able to care... and David didn't seem to care." He said: "Plenty of time yet... at first, Nina thought it was just masculine restlessness about household arrangements. She thought he didn't realize what a big job it was to move, and then, gradually, another thing thought crept in. Was putting it off, deliberately? Was it possible that maybe he didn't want to go on with her? Oh Lord, what should she do? Everything seemed to be coming at once, Honey's illness, the decision about moving; worrying, wondering about David. Nina was frantic. And Grace, too, what about her? Was Grace trying to turn David against her—Nina was falling in love with her?" (Copyright, 1937, Margaret Herzog) Nina dashes to Atlantic City answer to Richard's call, tomorrow.

Report Made On Glasscock Water Survey

Shows Findings On Well Tests In WPA Project

Men Are Such Old-Fashioned Creatures

AUSTIN, Nov. 23—The board of water engineers and the United States geological survey announce the release in mimeographed form of the records of wells obtained by the Works Progress Administration ground-water survey in Glasscock county. Copies of these records are available at the offices of the board of water engineers at Austin, and of the United States geological survey, Washington, D. C.

Copies may be consulted at the chambers of commerce at Midland and Big Spring; at the Midland county library, Midland; and at the high school libraries of Stanton, Big Spring, Sterling City, Big Lake, Rankin, and Garden City.

This release on Glasscock county contains 50 pages, giving records of 223 wells, drillers' logs of 22 wells, logs of 53 test wells, and partial chemical analyses of 290 water samples. The locations of all wells, springs, and test holes listed in the release are shown on a map in the back of the release.

Funds for this project were allocated by the Big Spring office of the Works Progress Administration. The field work in Glasscock county was started on Jan. 15, 1937, and completed on May 21, 1937. Joe W. Lang, a geologist, was project superintendent.

The chemical work was directed by Dr. E. P. Schoch of the bureau of industrial chemistry of the University of Texas. Samuel F. Turner of the United States geological survey was technical director and W. O. George of the board of water engineers was assistant director.

This project is part of a statewide inventory of water wells started in 1935 being conducted to obtain information concerning existing wells, to ascertain the quantity and quality of water they yield, to put down test holes in areas where no wells or few wells exist, and to compile and publish information thus obtained.

BAND, PEP SQUAD TO MAKE TRIP TO SWEETWATER

Special $1 rate for fans to the Sweetwater-Big Spring game in the former city Thursday was assured Tuesday by the announcement that the school board had voted to send the pep squad and band to accompany the team.

The rate was dependent upon securing 75 tickets, but the band and pep squad bloc will more than surpass the requirements. George Gentry, high school principal, urged people to buy their tickets in advance to prevent overcrowding Thursday when the train leaves. Equipment will be ordered on the basis of advance ticket sales and cannot be furnished to meet last minute demands, he pointed out.

DEFICIT FAR BEYOND FDR'S ESTIMATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Figure on the red side of the government's ledger for this fiscal year were bigger last week-end than President Roosevelt's deficit estimate for the entire twelve months.

The treasury's daily statement for Nov. 20, issued today, showed a net deficit for the 1938 fiscal period of $700,945,979, with more than seven months to go. The president predicted the excess of spending over income would be $695,245,000 for the year.

The treasury, however, has three large tax collection dates ahead and hopes these collections will keep the deficit at a figure no larger than at present. The dates are December 15, March 15, and June 15, when income tax installments are due.

LEGION MEETING TO BE AT LAMESA

District convention of the 19th area of the American Legion will be held at Lamesa on Dec. 4 and 5, it was announced here Tuesday.

J. M. Wilson, district commander, said that all ex-service men were urged to attend the gathering. It is the nearest district gathering for ex-soldiers here this year.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS OF ABOUT $100,000

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23 (AP)—Fires in two South Louisiana cities late yesterday and last night caused damage estimated at $100,000.

At Morgan City the opera house which had been converted into a moving picture show, burned along with five dwellings with a loss fixed by firemen at $50,000. Thirty patrons were in the building. None was hurt. Cold weather and a high wind hampered the work of firemen.

Flames that spread rapidly from an overturned kerosene stove caused $50,000 damage to the uncompleted Swift and Company packing plant at Lake Charles. The stove was used to heat a tarpot.

Negress Is Slashed, Another Jailed

Eva Bradwell, negress, was held in the city jail Tuesday in connection with a cutting scrape which sent Margaret Mason, negress, to a hospital with serious injuries.

Margaret was slashed badly about the chest Monday night after an altercation which offers said had its inception at the Dreamland Cafe, night spot for blacks. The cuts carried into the pulmonary cavity.

Erma Robinson, negress, shot by a stray bullet Saturday night, was released from a hospital Monday. She was shot when a bullet, said to be fired by a drunken Mexican, carried through a wall and struck her in the back of the thigh as she was entering her bed.

The Mexican fled, officers said, and no trace of him had been found Tuesday.

Outside Interests Blamed For Strike

DETROIT, Nov. 23 (AP)—Charges that "paid provocateurs" acted in the Pontiac, Mich., wildcat strike were voiced today as steps were taken to make the newest peace in the automobile labor field a lasting one.

Unidentified outside interests seeking to drum up business for labor spy organizations were blamed.

The United Automobile Workers of America, whose international leaders succeeded in halting the unauthorized strike at the Fisher Body plant of General Motors corporation yesterday, promised an investigation of the charges.

Aldea of Homer Martin, union president, said the inquiry will be carried out along with the U.A.W.'s preparations for a grievance hearing next Monday and renewed efforts to negotiate another agreement with General Motors.

The hearing, before Willard E. Hotchkiss of Chicago as arbitrator, will carry hopes that a permanently peaceful means for adjusting disputes will be arrived at, union officials said. The Fisher strike came virtually on the first anniversary of the outbreaks of strikes which ultimately paralyzed the industry last winter.

TO CONTINUE SALES OF WINDSOR BOOK

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 (AP)—Frank C. Dodd, president of Dodd, Mead & Co., publishers in this country of "Coronation Commentary," said today the book would continue to be sold.

"That has nothing to do with us," he said when questioned whether the victory of the Duke of Windsor in his libel suit against the author and English publishers of the book would affect its American distribution.

In England yesterday, Geoffrey Dennis, author, and William Heinemann, Ltd., apologized and paid substantial damages. Lord Chief Justice Hewart denounced the alleged libels as "foul and cruel" and "almost" deserving of a "horse-whipping," and hinted at possible criminal prosecution.

STUDYING PETITIONS FOR NEW ELECTION DATE ON LIQUOR

Order for the liquor election on Nov. 30 was withdrawn Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners court with the submission of new petitions by leaders of the dry forces.

The new petitions, worded in accordance with the statutes, ask for a vote on "all alcoholic beverages," a term applied to include beers as well as hard liquors.

With checking of names on the petitions against the poll lists to be done, it was probable that the new vote might not be called before late Tuesday evening.

MOBILIZE WORKERS IN CANE FIELDS

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 23 (AP)—Governor Richard Leche, meeting with sugar planters and labor officials, ordered today an emergency mobilization to the cane fields to save the state's $10,000,000 crop of sugar cane.

"Due to the unusual and prolonged cold spell," the governor said, "the sugar crop will suffer a great loss if the cane isn't windrowed within the next ten days."

Sub-freezing temperatures throughout the cane belt over the week-end killed cane buds, the governor explained, halting growth of most of Louisiana's largest crop of sugar cane in history.

SAYS FARM MEASURE WILL HURT SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Ralph W. Moore of Granger, Tex., master of the Texas state senate, denounced the senate farm bill today as "destructive to the South."

"It will cost us our foreign trade, as it restricts our cotton production."

"It will reduce our income by half and will not permit a diversified program on the farm."

He said he believed it impossible to administer the bill.

QUEZON ILL

MANILA, Nov. 23 (AP)—Manuel Quezon, first president of the Philippine commonwealth, was stricken with appendicitis today, but doctors described his condition as "good" after an emergency operation which climaxed a brief illness.
