

Amy will explain farm program to daddy

Special-American Ag. headquarters, Spearman, Texas

Did you ever receive such a slap in the face as President Carter gave us Monday in his press conference?

You can just come to three conclusions:

1. He has not been reading the papers and has been ill-advised or had the facts misrepresented to him by his agricultural aides and Sec. Bergland.

2. He can't comprehend something that is very simple—the American Agricultural Movement proposal.

3. He is another Nixon who did not have the basic principles of truth and honesty.

A mailgram will be sent to his daughter, Amy. Maybe she can explain the situation to him.

American Agriculture is growing so fast we can't keep up. We at the local strike office call the Springfield, Colo. National Headquarters Office everyday and listen to the tape recording they have there. We record it on our tape recorder so we can all hear it and play and replay it until we understand it.

A farmer's wife in Springfield makes the recording. Last Friday's report to us that there was well over 800 strike offices in the U.S. Oklahoma alone has 184 offices. Last count we had in Texas was well over 100.

Write your Congressman Hightower and thank him for his help—also Senator John Tower, expressing appreciation for his assistance, also the other Senator from Texas—"What's his name"—Uh, Uh, Uh—O Yes, Lloyd Bentsen. He is against 100% of parity and needs a flood of letters to encourage him.

The movement at a meeting in Washington last week made a decision that we think will go over big. They have decided not to go for an all-out "No Plant" year—cut planting back to 50%—makes good reasoning to most. 100% "No Plant" might not have gained the support it needed, but if it had succeeded it would literally wrecked the nation. That's not what American Agricultural Movement is all about. We don't want to wreck or destroy anything—AND WE DON'T WANT TO BE DESTROYED!

Do you think a 50% planting is drastic—think about it? Analyze it. Maybe we can stimulate your thinking.

1. By planting 50% of what you planted in 1977 you will cut your expenses approximately 50%. Not exactly, but close.

2. Your production per acre will increase by 10%. You will do a better job on a smaller acreage—more efficient.

3. You will have more time to fish—or learn to fish, go visit the grandkids or in-laws more. Maybe an extra trip to the mountains or races or whatever pleases you.

4. Most of the estimates we have seen from economists are that our prices will rise in the market place by 80%—not quite double due to more demand. We can make a profit on this.

5. Foreign markets will strengthen.

6. Last Saturday at about 12:15 p.m. we heard on an Amarillo radio station a U.S.D.A. Economist report that if farmers did stick together and plant only 50%, that prices would go higher than the 100% parity prices the American Ag. Movement has requested. It's a sure bet that you will have a loss if you stay in the same old path. Think, analyze and we believe that you will join in the 50% plant campaign.

We have rambled quite a bit. The following information is from the Texas Farm Index of July 1972 which is the latest figures we have come up with.

land to supply its raw materials.

There are 2 million other people who work in industries that supply goods and services to farmers. Today each farm worker produces enough for 50 people.

If you have two employees—the three of you feed 168 people.

About 1 million firms that grade, store, process, manufacture, package and distribute foods await the farmers raw products.

In 1951 the farmer got 49 cents of the consumer food dollar. In the decade from 1962 to 1972, the farmers share dropped to a range of 36 cents to 42 cents of the consumer food dollar. Two-thirds of this time they averaged under 40 cents.

What does this bring us to. We are key people, real key people, without what you produce very little eating could go on. Ocean fish yes—could you stand a steady diet of this?

It appears that our "Great Leaders" in Washington, or some of them, can't hear the "cry in the wilderness." Maybe with this semi-dramatic movement of planting 50% they will get a message from their stomach that will be "loud and clear."

John B. Connelly, former governor of Texas and politically hopeful for something, got his little worth in at a cattle-men's meeting last week. He's against 100% parity and stated that, "13 million people starved to death in 1977". Who's to blame? We had food absolutely running over in this country. Production can't be blamed—maybe world politics. What's the use producing it if it doesn't go to where it's needed. So a 50% cutback won't hurt the rest of the world if they don't buy it. We didn't intend to write a book, but there is so much to tell you it's hard to find a quieting place.

Everyone save all junk mail envelopes and cards that have a prepaid postage in them—bring them to the strike office and we will stuff them full of propaganda and mail them at their expense. Don't overlook the postcards—we tape the message to the back-side.

O yes! One more thing!! Are you just drowning in sympathy—but can you deposit in the bank. The creeks and rivers are flooding with sympathy—we've had enough to last a lifetime.

460 attend banquet here

Frances Loftin -- Max Banks

Mrs. Ellsworth - son Alton

President of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce, Jerry Gee, closed out his year's service with a record attendance of 460 persons at the regular Chamber Banquet Saturday night in Spearman. This year's officers include: Jerry Gee, president; J. L. Brock, First Vice President; Frances Loftin, Second Vice President; Kent Guthrie, Treasurer; John Hutchison, Immediate Past President; and Gina McLain, President of the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The new 1978 officers include: Jim McLain, President; Gerald Heinrich, First Vice President; Jim Shirley, Second Vice President; Mike Garnett, Treasurer; Jerry Gee, Immediate Past President; and Gina McLain, President of the Women's Division. This group will head the Chamber this year in what promises to be the biggest and best year in Spearman's history.

1977 Directors for the Chamber include: Clark Miles, Tom Latta, Pat Dear, Karen Coustiss, Grady McCormack, Jim

Brown, Mike Garnett, George Young, and Dick Hudson. 1978 Directors for the coming year include: J. L. Brock, Pat Dear, Kent Guthrie, Grady McCormack, L. E. Thomas, Jr., George Young, Dick Hudson, and Eddie Martin.

Master of Ceremonies for the Saturday night banquet was Travis Angel, who opened the meeting with a welcome to all of the visitors from surrounding towns. The dinner, which was one of the finest barbecue meals ever served in the area, featured the "magic touch" of the king of barbecue, Preston Graham, and his group from the fire department.

Invocation for the evening was given by the Rev. Russell Pogue of the First Baptist Church in Spearman. The Women's Division of the Chamber awarded Emma Collins as the outstanding "member of the year."

After the Women's Division award was given to Emma Collins, the 460 guests adjourned to the auditorium where entertainment was furnished by Travis Angel and his choir members.

Rev. Don Windsor presented Mrs. Ethel Ellsworth with the Rotary "Employee of the Year" award. She is well-known and loved by everyone in the county. She works at Hansford Hospital where her smile and good deeds encompass the entire community.

1977 Chamber Pres. Jerry Gee welcomed the group to all of the banquet and discussed the many accomplishments of the Chamber for 1977; 1978 Pres. Jim McLain presented Jerry with an out-going and accomplished group for his fine service to the community.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of a Philanthropic Award to Max Banks, head of Baker & Taylor, for his many efforts and accomplishments in Spearman. Two numerous to mention, they include Little League, the hospital, the airport, and about every project known to the area.

Speaker Justin Wilson kept the crowd spell-bound with his humor and wit, and the final and big moment of the year was the presentation of the Citizen of the Year Award—to Mrs. Kenny (Frances) Loftin. It would be impossible to list all of the accomplishments that this woman has done for Spearman this year but the entire 400 people present gave her a standing ovation as she received her Citizen of the Year Award, presented by J. L. Brock.

Special thanks once again must go to all of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division for the banquet preparation and especially to Preston Graham and his group for the fine food! The barbecue and beans were prepared by the Spearman Fire Department. The meal was by the High School Cafeteria staff. The servers included the Spearman F.H.A. girls. Decorations were by the Women's Division. Beef was donated by J. L. Brock, Ralph Blodgett, Carl Archer, Baker and Taylor, and Consumers Sales Co. Potatoes were donated by Kent Guthrie. Beans donated by A-1 Automobile. Flowers were donated by Blackburn Flowers, Boswell Brothers Flower Shop, Callaway's House of Flowers, and

Murder Indictment Returned

An indictment for murder was one of the six returned against five defendants last week by the Hansford County Grand Jury for the 84th Judicial District Court in Spearman.

James Paul Starr, 27, of Houston and a former Spearman resident was named in one indictment alleging murder while intentionally causing injury and in another indictment for aggravated assault with serious bodily injury.

Starr is in Hansford County jail under total bonds of $15,000, bond of $10,000 having been set on the murder charge and $5,000 for the aggravated assault offense earlier. Starr remains in custody of the sheriff pending further court proceedings.

The indictments stem from an incident in Spearman in 1974.

Others indicted include: Harold Eugene Thomas, 31, of Lubbock who was named in a true bill for felony theft. He was arrested in Littlefield Jan. 30 and posted bond of $2,000 at the time he was brought before a justice of the peace there and advised of his rights, the charge against him and the amount of bond.

Juan Garcia, Jr., 36, of Gruver who was named in a count of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He has been released under $5,000 bond pending further court proceedings.

Travis K. Melton, Jr., 30, who was named in one count of felony theft. He has appeared before a justice of the peace in Berger and posted $5,000 bond.

Bobby Joe Barnes, 25, of Gruver who was named in one count for burglary and has posted $5,000 bond and been released pending further court proceedings.

Lynx teams win

The Spearman Lynx teams made it a clean sweep at Spearman gym Tuesday night as they won an important district 1-AA double-header over River Road. In the B girls game the Lynxettes won by a Keech - 9, Clark - 4, Greene - 8, Vernon - 5, Shields - 2, Ware - 6. This was a very important win for the Lynxettes who lost the first half to Panhandle and they must go undefeated in the second half to force a play-off with Panhandle to win the district.

In the boys game, Jones hit 23 points; Newton, 14; Barber, 11; Poole, 17; Friemel, 10; Reid, 6; Martin, 6; Sherwood, 4; and Shields, 8. The Lynx won the game by a 98-76 score.

The Lynx teams will journey to Canadian Friday night for a very, very important conference contest against the Wildcats. The Spearman boys, who won the first half outright, are in the driver's seat in the second half as they continue to score near the century mark. Actually the Lynx scored a big 35 points in the last quarter against River Road and had time to make the 100 mark, but lost the ball just as the game ended.

Plan to follow the Lynx to Canadian Friday.

Who's going to pay our oil bill if we bankrupt the farmer

In the federal fiscal year ending September 30, 1977, American farmers exported $24 billion of foodstuffs to help offset the staggering bill for oil imports. Yet, farm income, discounting inflation, is at its lowest level in more than 40 years.

BEAUTIFUL?

It all depends on whether or not you are a lobster-lover. To those who enjoy this succulent fruit of the sea, a lobster is a thing of beauty. To others, it seems incredibly ugly.

Beauty is "in the eye of the beholder," but, contrary to another old saying, it is not skin deep. True beauty often can't be seen at all. It is something you feel, something of which you are aware—not necessarily seen.

Beauty, for instance, surrounds you when you walk into a church. There is something in the atmosphere that you can't quite define. No matter what's been happening to you, in God's Home, you feel a sense of peace, of sanctuary.

Had that experience lately?

Perryton Family Services Center

by Jim Morris

Having lived in Perryton for almost six months, I feel I am acquainted with some of our community needs. There is a need for single adults to feel comfortable with assuming that role in a society designed for couples. Our greatest resource is people: the people of Perryton, working together, is what makes life here worthwhile.

will be comprised of people who have only three things in common: (1) they are over 20, (2) they are single, and (3) they have a desire to move their interest beyond the blueprint stage. I am planning to make the Family Services Center available for the initial group meeting.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

A few words about the objectives of the "Frankle" and conditions in farming that have led up to it.

The main objective, of course, is to raise a price for our product that is above the cost of production, plus enough to give the producer a profit comparable to that received in other kinds of business.

Other singles in our community have requested such a group to provide a sharing session to discuss the problems of being single.

Government's primary interest is to insure adequate and more than adequate supplies. It is as if the top management at General Motors was only interested in pleasing consumers at the lowest possible price.

TRAVELING TENT SHOW

On one of our weekly trips to town we noticed some men painting posters to the telephone poles and to the already covered sides of buildings.

All the way home they talked about Harley Sadler and the great show he had put on. It had been several years since they had seen him but they recalled some of the characters he portrayed.

show traveled from town to town with a big tent and about forty or fifty people--actors, singers, a band and workers with various other duties. They would play a town for one or several nights depending on the size. There was a huge white tent with drops painted in realistic looking scenes.

They were to play only one day in our town, it being a small one, so we went early in the afternoon to be sure we'd get a seat. The tent was set up on the vacant lot next to the VFW Hall.

It was impossible to see from where we were and hopeless of getting closer so Dad said we might as well go home. He promised that next time Harley Sadler came to town you could bet we'd be there early enough to get a seat.

CONDITIONS FOR GRAIN EXPLOSIONS--Conditions required for a grain explosion to occur include a combustible dust in a finely divided state, an external source of ignition, and an enclosed space to allow pressure buildup.

PREVENTING GRAIN DUST EXPLOSIONS--Grain dust can be prevented by reducing or controlling the dust and by eliminating sources of ignition, points out a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Blodgett To Speak At TVMA Meet Peggy's Pointers

Dr. Glenn Blodgett of the Hansford County Veterinary Hospital in Spearman will be one of the speakers featured at the 75th Anniversary Convention of the Texas Veterinary Medical Association. The convention will be held in Amarillo, February 5-7.

In discussing equine nutrition, Dr. Blodgett will cover basic nutritional concepts and their relationship to the horse with special emphasis on the youth, growing animal. The convention will focus on continuing education and will center around a series of meetings, seminars and panel discussions. More than 500 veterinarians and their spouses from throughout the state will attend the three day meeting. The convention is dedicated to Dr. Mark Francis, the first dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

Dr. Blodgett earned a BS degree in Animal Science from Oklahoma State University in 1971. He transferred to Texas A&M University, earning a second bachelor's degree in veterinary science. His Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree was awarded by Texas A&M in 1974. Dr. Blodgett is a member of the American Association of Equine, Bovine and Swine Practitioners, the Academy of Veterinary Medical Association. He is vice president of the High Plains Veterinary Medical Association.

January is good for sales, to help smooth the rough seas of a tight budget.

Watch this month for: white sales, storewide clearances, and furniture sales. It's important to understand why a price is reduced, and to know the difference between "Special Purchase" and "Markdown."

Either might be a good bargain, but the Special Purchase is usually merchandise bought from the manufacturer at a low price for a special role. A markdown is a lowered price on merchandise that has been in stock in the store through the season. Markdowns appear in storewide clearances.

Check clothing, markdowns carefully for flaws, missing buttons, belts, or stains—such as lipstick or make-up. (Make-up can often be removed by washing or dry-cleaning.)

Set a dollar goal for yourself when shopping sales, since wide buying means staying within your budget.

Also, comparison-ship the "on sale" item with another not on sale. It may cost less at another store.

ECONOMICAL WATER-HEATER 'BUY'
Buying an economical water heater depends on the type, size and warranty that best serve a family's changing needs—and the cost of different fuels in the future.

January water-heater sales can help, too.

Since water heaters can account for up to 22 percent of a family's total fuel costs, comparing different models and prices among several types of dealers is a wise consumer "shopping plan."

Compare prices and models sold by appliance dealers, contractors, plumbing firms and department stores.

DECIDING ON 'TYPE' DEPENDS ON FUEL COSTS
In deciding on a water-heater type, you may want to consider the entire energy picture—with its predictions about rising fuel costs—before buying.

In line with that, the energy efficiency of different types is important, too.

Gas costs are generally less now than costs, but some forecasts say gas prices may increase—even perhaps twice as much as electricity, so gas-heating costs may increase.

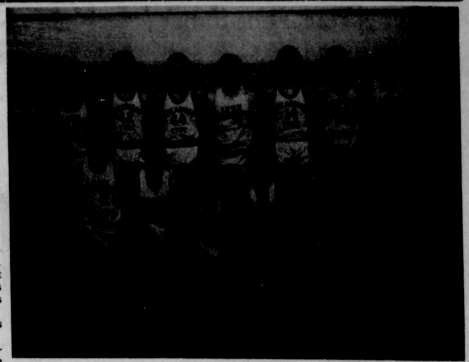

Gas water heaters are only two-thirds as efficient as electric water heaters, although present and lower gas costs make gas heating lower in cost for now.

Gas water heaters have a faster rate than electric water heaters, so a smaller gas water-heater tank is sufficient. That is important to know, because although gas units cost more per gallon than similar-quality electric units, buying a smaller gas-heated tank keeps purchase prices of both types comparable.

Consumers, then, face decisions in which they must weigh fuel costs now against fuel costs of the future.

In other words, all of the factors together could mean that for today, with present fuel costs, gas models are more economical to operate than electric models—but in the future, they might not be.

Finally, one other factor to consider is "look-up" cost for changing fuels on water heaters. Generally in replacing a water heater, a new one that uses the same fuel as the old one costs less initially, because it avoids the cost of installing a different fuel system, but that savings might be only a short-term cost cutter.

PLACEMENT DETERMINES 'SHAPE'
In deciding on which shape to buy—either a round or square, let placement of the unit in the home determine the choice.

Round units are most popular and fit many areas, but a square shape might fit in a kitchen cabinet, for example.

MATCHING 'SIZE' TO FAMILY NEEDS
Consider the home's present water-heater size and whether it meets family needs—and look ahead to future needs, such as changes in family size and more or fewer hot-water demanding appliances.

Remember, a too-large water-heater size will waste fuel and money.

For a family of 1-3 members, most experts recommend a 30-40 gallon gas unit or a 50-gallon electric unit.

For a family of 4-7 members, consider a 50-gallon gas unit or an 80-gallon electric unit.

For a family with more than seven members, consider a 100-gallon gas or electric unit.

COMPARING WARRANTY INFORMATION
Compare the length of warranty periods offered by different manufacturers. Also make note of the parts—and labor costs—that are included or excluded from a warranty.

Most manufacturers provide a one-year warranty against tank leakage with a 10-year limited warranty for defective parts.

SAFETY CONSIDERATIONS
For safety, any gas unit should carry the American Gas Association's certification symbol.

Also, an electric unit or an oil-fired heater should bear the Underwriter's Laboratory (UL) seal.

Economical water-heater "buys" depend on your family needs—and fuel costs.

Hungarian Folk Ballet To Perform

The Hungarian Folk Ballet of Budapest and Gypsy Orchestras on its second tour of the United States will perform in the Berger High School Auditorium February 3 at 8 p.m. This is the third presentation of the Tri-City Community Concert Association's 1977-1978 program.

The folk ballet is the number one company of Hungary and has been popular on tours of Europe, Africa, Asia and Russia. The performances in Moscow were acclaimed by Pravda as follow: "In Tchakovsky Hall they offered many national dances, each with its own individual color and feeling. The soloists were especially fine in original and colorful choreography. The musicians offered first rate performances."

The company was founded twenty years ago by Istvan Molnar who is also the director. The dance creations preserve Hungary's rich and varied past with its present. Dances are reconstructed from the folklore of the wandering Romany Gypsies, of the embattled past of the rugged Magyars. Mr. Molnar thoroughly covered the countryside to record on film and tape the dances and music that would otherwise die as the modern world moves in. He is an outstanding artist of the Hungarian People Republic and strives to keep his company number one.

The members of Tri-City Community Concert Association obviously are in for a fast-paced evening of entertainment direct from the exotic city of Budapest. The famous Hungarian Czardas, the recruiting dances, the dancing horsemen in competition, the comic and romantic scenes of rustic village life are all important elements of the presentations.

Real gypsy music is rarely heard outside of Hungary. The middle-Eastern waltz of the clarinet, the haunting, zither-like sound of the cimbalon and the indispensable gypsy violins demonstrate that gypsy music is all about.

The Hungarian Folk Ballet of Budapest and the Gypsy Orchestra comprise one big production of color and excitement and excitement from beginning to end. It's all a fast-paced, unforgettable show!

Members will present their membership cards at the door of the auditorium in order to attend all concerts.

In the girls competition, Spearman opened up with a 51 to 27 victory over Panhandle on Jan. 26 and on Friday morning came on to beat River Road 48 to 41 and advance into the finals.

In the boys play, Spearman opened up Thursday night with a 74-49 victory over Miami and advanced to a Friday afternoon session with Sunray which Spearman took 54 to 35 to go into Saturday's finals against Panhandle.

It taking Consolation honors, the Canadian girls bowed to Sunray 35 to 52 in the opening round, went on to overcome a Spearman team 40 to 37 in Friday play and then went out to win over Panhandle.

Canadian boys lost to Sunray in the Thursday opener 53 to 40 before returning to the floor Friday to measure Miami 74 to 45.

In going to the third place slot, Miami girls Thursday outshot a Spearman team 38 to 35 before Friday's outing against Sunray which they dropped 39 to 36. In the final meeting, Miami wound up with 24 points to 20 for River Road.

Dalhart boys bested River Road 40 to 20 in Thursday play before losing 52 to 39 to Panhandle in the Friday morning meeting. A 35 to 34 victory Saturday over Sunray left the Wolvespurs in third.

In commenting on Spearman teams, it was noted that David Ortega, with 22 points turned in a good performance at center.

For the girls, Kenda Burke netted 25 points from her center play.

1977--Weatherwise

AUSTIN -- Too cold, too hot, too dry and too wet characterized Texas' weather during the year 1977, an analysis by the Texas Department of Water Resources' division of Weather Modification and Technology reveals.

An extraordinarily cold and wet winter gave way to a scorchingly dry summer.

The late winter and early spring rains ceased abruptly in May giving way to a prolonged period of above average dry weather culminating in moderate drought over nearly half of the State.

The year was not "typical" in several respects. No tropical storm made landfall in Texas, although Hurricane Anita did give the Lower Valley appreciable rains before it crossed Mexico's coast. For the second consecutive year, the State witnessed another strange event -- the Trans-Pecos region received rain, albeit in small amounts, from a hurricane that struck Baja California.

At least three-fourths of Texas received below-normal rainfall. When averaged over the year, significantly drier-than-normal conditions prevailed in most of the Low Rolling Plains, the Edwards Plateau, and the northern half of East Texas. A sizeable portion of the Trans-Pecos and North Central Texas also sustained appreciable rainfall deficits. The driest weather in the State occurred from the Permian Basin of west central Texas eastward into the northern half of the Trans-Pecos; in these areas, rainfall totals barely exceeded half of the usual yearly amounts. Other very dry regions included the extreme northeast and the northern and triangular areas founded by Waco, Austin, and Houston. Annual totals ranged from about 68 to 79 percent of normal in these regions.

A few scattered areas received wetter-than-normal weather. Rainfall totals up to one and a half times the normal annual amount were reported in a narrow band stretching across the Panhandle region of the High Plains. The area extended from Galveston, as well as the Lower Valley, received slightly more rain during the year than usual. Much of North Central Texas and the Low Rolling Plains recorded two to three times as much rainfall in March; Mineral Wells, with nearly eight inches of rain, experienced the wettest March in the 42-year history of the weather station there.

April was wet, with the State receiving far in excess of the typical amount for the first full month of spring. Numerous flood watchs and warnings were issued in the central third of the State. With 6.62 inches, Brownsville had the wettest April in more than 100 years, and San Angelo's 5.10 inches marked the wettest April in that plateau city since 1922.

In May, the rains left, with only August being near-normal; August being typically dry, only provided momentary interruption of a continuing and worsening trend in drought. December was the driest of all months.

Austin typified the fate of many Texas cities in reporting the driest summer since the drought of the 1930's. When rainfall totals for September were tallied, nearly half of the State had sustained the driest September since the infamous drought of the 1950's. Totals from 10 to 25 percent of normal were common in more than half of the State.

Two to three times the normal amount of snow fell during the winter in the northern halves of North Central and East Texas. An atypical feature was the very heavy snowfall accumulations -- a foot or more -- which occurred in parts of the Middle Red River Valley. Elsewhere, snowfall totals were near or only slightly below normal for the year.

Unlike the fall of 1976, when record-breaking snails dumped the South Plains in early November, the autumn of 1977 passed with virtually no snow or ice.

A torrid summer, in conjunction with near-normal temperatures in the spring and autumn, neutralized the effects of a bitterly cold winter, such that mean annual temperatures at most points in Texas during 1977 were within two degrees of normal. With daily temperatures averaged over the year, slightly-warmer-than-usual weather occurred over the northern two-thirds of the State north of a Presidio (Trans-Pecos)-San Angelo-Waco-Inh line. Slightly cooler-than-normal weather occurred extensively on a band from Southern Texas across South Central Texas to the Upper Coast region. Mean daily temperatures for most livestock and citrus production. He said the Japan's opposition party is selling farmers that the best way to increase rice production is to reduce beef and wheat imports.

"At the time when the Japanese government is encouraging our farmers to produce more livestock, the United States government is encouraging Japan to accept greater imports," the spokesman said, "and that creates a political time-bomb for us."

Hightower told the Japanese representatives that he understood their problem, but that he could offer little encouragement.

"Farmers in my own district are striking at this very moment," Hightower said, "because market prices for their products, particularly for wheat, are below what it costs to produce them."

He said the best way to increase market prices for United States farm commodities was to expand the world market for them. He said he had great difficulty explaining to agricultural producers in his district why Japan could not accept more American agricultural imports when any of his constituents could walk into almost any store and purchase products made in Japan.

Hightower told the Japanese that he had confidence in Bob Strauss, the President of the International trade negotiator. He said Strauss was a long-time friend who completely understood the problems confronting farmers in his district and throughout the nation.

"I understood what you are telling me," Hightower said. "It is an extremely complicated problem, a problem shared by both nations, but I believe that the good will from both sides of the Pacific can be put down and negotiate a satisfactory balance."

observing stations in the Lower Valley were near normal. No portion of the Lone Star State escaped freezing temperatures during the first three months of 1977, while the summer was belatedly hot. Summer temperatures averaged one to three degrees above normal. The most memorable aspect of the summer other than the prevalence of drought was the extraordinarily hot temperatures observed in most regions in September -- an unusually late spell, making it one of the hottest in memory.

In general, readings at or above the central mark were much more numerous than in 1976, and the number was significantly greater than that observed during a "normal" summer. Temperature extremes for 1977 were -8 degrees at Lipscomb (High Plains) and 114 degrees at Pecos.

If the long-range outlook provided the National Weather Service is an indication of what Texans may expect early in 1978, no improvement in the worsening drought conditions that highlighted the end of 1977 is in the forecast. The forecast for the winter of 1978 calls for a continuation of drier-than-normal weather in all portions of the State. However, the three winter months of the new year are not likely to be as cold as the record-breaking spell experienced early in 1977. The extended forecast predicts that West Texans may expect warmer-than-usual weather, while the eastern half of the State is due to have near-normal temperatures.

Hightower ASC Dollar Highlights

(Washington, D.C.) -- Congressman Jack Hightower told a delegation of Japanese agricultural leaders Thursday afternoon that the United States must continue to pursue a strong and expanded agricultural export policy.

The delegation, including four members of the Japanese Diet and representatives of the Japanese Embassy, met with Hightower in his Washington office. They requested the meeting because of the Congressman's membership on the House Agriculture Committee.

The spokesman is Secretary General of an organization composed of some 200 members of the Diet who are concerned with Japan's agricultural industry.

The Japanese spokesman, speaking through an interpreter, told Hightower that increased imports of United States wheat and beef had changed the eating habits of the Japanese people. He said a growing number of Japan's population is eating bread and beef and that the demand for both is growing at a dramatic rate. The result has been a significant decline in the nation's centuries-old mainstay of its agricultural economy -- rice production.

The Japanese representatives strongly emphasized that the increased wheat and beef imports from the United States translated into major political problems for the Liberal Democratic Party, the majority party of the Diet.

They said the Japanese government is encouraging farmers to convert from rice to livestock and citrus production, but the farmers were reluctant to change. "We have been growing rice for more than 3,000 years," the spokesman said, "and farmers are wary of the market uncertainties and different technologies involved in

Wilderness Education Offers Program

Wilderness Education, a program emphasizing safety, skills, and conservation, conducts both a Discovery Program for boys 12 to 14 years old and a Cool Mountain Program for those 15 years and older. Based in Leadville, Colorado, Wilderness Education is a Colorado non-profit organization.

Both of the above programs are limited to a maximum of ten students per session which lasts one week. Specific dates are included with the application and the cost for each session is $110.00 which includes food, equipment and instruction. Fishing license and cleaning charges are extra.

Wilderness Education conducts most of its expeditions in various sections of the Sawatch Range in the San Isabel National Forest outside of Leadville. This wilderness terrain affords the backpacker the opportunity to experience some of nature's most outstanding scenery: alpine meadows, mountains, ponds, lakes, streams, and miles of forest. Climbs up Colorado's highest peaks, Mt. Elbert (14,433) or Mt. Massive (14,421) are included in most sessions.

The objective of Wilderness Education is to organize back-packing expeditions which introduce the outdoor adventurer to the challenges, pleasures, and responsibilities of taking to the wilds. As more people seek that beauty, solitude, and challenge that the vast outdoors offers, a greater environmental impact is being felt. We are constantly abusing the very environment which we came to enjoy. As we experience the wilderness, learn its flora and fauna; fish its streams; explore its boundaries; climb its peaks; and appreciate its beauty we must insure its conservation and preservation.

Toward this end, Wilderness Education offers a program in which the students learn the basic skills in safety, conservation, map and compass, fly fishing, cooking, plus many more skills with which one can safely enjoy back-packing without leaving any impact.

Wilderness Education's objective is to heighten the participant's awareness and understanding of his environment, of himself, and of their inter-relatedness.

Further information and applications can be procured from Wilderness Education, Box 1182, Leadville, Colorado 80461; 303-486-3781. This is a golden opportunity to become acquainted with colorful mountain country this summer.

Heart to Heart Talk

Cardiovascular diseases account for about 52 percent of all deaths in the United States, more than from all other causes of death combined. Heart and blood vessel diseases cost the nation $26.7 billion annually (a cost of dollar bills 2,100 miles high), including lost income in payment for medical care. Yet, there is also a very positive side.

There has been a 21 percent decline in the under-65 cardiovascular death rate since 1950. The development of the heart-lung machine 20 years ago made it possible for surgeons to work inside the heart, and last year, an estimated 50,000 people had heart operations using this machine. As a result, children who might not have lived are growing up, and adults who were cardiac cripples are prospering.

In 1960, medical scientists perfected cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, and we were able to begin teaching how to restart hearts and restore breathing for "dead" people.

Thousands of victims of cardiac arrest have been brought back to life.

In 1965, with the development of a wide range of electronic monitoring devices, hospitals began installing coronary care units. Today, more than half of the nation's 7,000 general hospitals have coronary care units, and many have reduced the heart attack death rate by 15 to 30 percent.

And in recent years, an array of new drugs has given physicians effective tools to control most forms of high blood pressure, thus lowering the patient's risk of premature heart attack and stroke. Additionally, the identification of early warning signs of heart attack and stroke has enabled many persons to get medical assistance earlier and thus, improve their chances of survival.

Yet, last year in the United States, over 100,000 persons died needlessly of heart attack simply because they did not seek medical attention early enough. The average person waits three hours from the first sign or symptom before seeking medical attention! If each person responded immediately to the symptoms and placed himself under competent medical surveillance within one hour after the onset of symptoms, needless deaths could be prevented with existing medical knowledge.

The organizational structure outlined in this story is designed to help prevent premature death and unnecessary suffering in your community by controlling cardiovascular diseases. In many instances, these diseases can be prevented if, for example, people know and heed the warning signs of heart attack and stroke and if people are familiar with the risk factors and avoid smoking, excess weight, improper diet, lack of exercise and high blood pressure. Early detection through blood pressure clinics can prevent many needless deaths, and training in CPR can help keep people alive until they receive medical attention.

Sauce originally meant salted food.

The Big Big Day

Even for a "rigged" game when the winner is in the script, basketball fans will turn out by the thousands to see how it's done.

That was what happened at Colorado State University in Fort Collins, when director Lamont Johnson put his actors and non-actors on the court of Mobly Gymnasium for the big scene in "One On One".

"One On One", which opened Wednesday, February 2, at the Lyric Theatre, is the new Warner Bros. motion picture about campus love, a hard-headed coach and hanky-panky in the college sports system. It stars Robby Benson, who plays basketball and acts, and it was produced by Marty Hornstein who produced Colorado State Officials that he needed a full house for the climactic game between mythical Western University and equally mythical Tech.

It came off with all the thrills, action and color of a true-to-life N.C.A.A. basketball battle.

Mobly Gym is an impressive, electronic sports arena seating 8,000. To fill the seats on a cold Saturday morning in October, the producer arranged for special admissions, including free lunches and door prizes (among them a new Datsun automobile). He wanted to keep the crowd happy for the eleven-hour filming day.

Given the material inducements, as well as the opportunity to participate in a making of a major motion picture, a crowd of more than 6,000 students and townfolk were on hand for their crucial "atmosphere" roles. Even with the Colorado football team playing Air Force and the telecast of the first game of the World Series, early risers arrived at Mobly two hours before the 8:30 call.

It is nice to report that the crowd performed efficiently, cheering loudly as the school band and cheerleaders generated the proper hysteria. It is also nice to report that the right team won.

Deeply rooted family ties in his home town of New Braunfels instilled in him a strong sense of integrity, a respect for hard work, the unique strength of our free enterprise system and a concern for helping others develop their full potential.

After successful careers in higher education, ranching and business, Krueger entered his first political race in 1974 for U.S. Congressman of the vast 12th District. The politicians gave him no chance. The people elected him. And re-elected him by one of the widest margins in Texas political history. Once in Washington he quickly emerged as a new national leader and was voted the Most Effective Freshman Congressman.

Bob Krueger, since 1973, has called himself an "Independent Democrat," independent of power politics and narrow partisanship. He listens to every viewpoint. Then he votes, not just for what is politically popular but for what is best for the people of our state and nation.

Whether advocating a strong national defense, better health care or less government when it comes to our daily lives, more fiscal responsibility, a strong agriculture or a sound and productive energy program—when Bob Krueger takes a stand he is a tough, intelligent fighter for his beliefs.

The people of Texas need more than a vote in the U.S. Senate—we need a strong, independent voice of leadership. With your help Bob Krueger can be that leader for Texas.

Farm Lease Seminar Well Attended

A regional seminar conducted in Spearman Friday, Jan. 27, at the County barn was well attended with some 98 farm owners and tenants in attendance to hear Dr. Ray Sammons, Area Economist-Management with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, present the difference between the conventional one-third - two-thirds lease and an optimum farm-share lease. Hansford County Agricultural Agent Garland Stewart has requested the audience was composed of landlords, tenants and their spouses from such communities as Elkhart, Kan., Goodwell and Guyton, Okla., Booker, Amarillo, Dalhart, Dumas and other points in Texas. Dr. Sammons is in Annouments prior to the meeting that the economic situation is creating new difficulties for farm renters, especially in the area of credit, and farm owners need to look carefully at the differences in profit that can be expected from leased or rented farmland and from land that the farmer owns.

The seminar included presentations on four sections as well as a question and answer session. The sections were concerning principles, the problem, inequities and figuring equitable leases. The entire seminar was primarily concerned with the matter of obtaining a maximum net income from the cultivation of wheat.

The basic principles set out were to try to maximize net income, obtain all needed resources rather than limit net income and develop, maintain and conserve all long lasting resources. It was noted in this section that local custom is not a good idea. It further was noted that leasing arrangements usually cover a large area and that farms differ, the arrangements usually start under different farming practices and cost-price relationships and that government programs change.

In section two, identified as the problem, the amount of water to apply through furrow irrigation for the highest net return and the economic level for watering wheat were discussed and an irrigated wheat production curve was utilized as an illustration.

In touching on the inequities, dealt with in section three, an illustration of the 1/3-2/3 lease inequity was utilized. It also was noted the illustration would fit for all yield stimulating inputs such as seed, fertilizer, herbicides, insecticides, irrigation expenses and harvest expenses.

In this category, the example for irrigation costs per acre inch were set at $2.50 with $2 set for gas and $0 for repairs with an assumed price of $2.25 per bushel for wheat.

Section four was devoted to figuring equitable leases with an illustration of how to figure an equitable share lease agreement. Lease principles should include the use of everything to get maximum net income, the acquisition of all needed resources (if not owned by renter or landlord), and long lasting resources such as water and ditches should be used by being fully developed, sufficiently maintained and adequately conserved.

As incentives, it was suggested that each variable expense such as seed, fertilizer, chemicals, irrigation fuel and harvest should be shared in the same percentage as crop is shared, income from each enterprise must be shared in the same proportion and income must accrue to its contributor even if several years after expenditure.

A copy of the information utilized by Dr. Sammons was left with Stewart and can be obtained by contacting Stewart if additional information is sought.

Analysis of 1977 Weather

AUSTIN -- An analysis of 1977 weather in Texas completed by the Weather Modification and Technology division of the Texas Department of Water Resources cites several unusual weather events.

The frequency and intensity of dust and windstorms provided uncommon and memorable characteristics of 1977 weather in Texas. Hurricane-force winds whipped giant clouds of dust throughout the western third of the State in February and then transported the precious topsoil eastward, darkening skies and reducing visibility to less than one mile from Wichita Falls to Lufkin.

Twenty injuries and an estimated $665,000 in damages were sustained to real and personal property in the El Paso area alone. Tractor-trailer trucks were blown off the highway at Guadalupe Pass (Trans-Pecos), and low humidity accompanying the high winds in North Texas prompted the issuance of fire-danger advisories.

A second severe dust storm preceded the invasion of a snowstorm into the High Plains region in March. One-fourth of the winter wheat crop, having an estimated value of 25 million dollars, was destroyed in the High Plains, and property damages of one-quarter million dollars were sustained in the El Paso area. The dust moved eastward into other sections of the State and reduced visibilities to one mile or less at many points. A third dust storm pounded southern portions of the High Plains again in March, building up sand drifts as high as 10 feet near Littlefield.

Very high rains deluged much of North Central and East Texas in March. Flash rains caused the worst flooding in the Dallas-Fort Worth area in 20 years. Three drownings and property damage in excess of one million dollars were reported in Tarrant County alone. In Arlington, 200 homes were flooded, and six water-damage occurred to Six Flags Amusement Park.

Tornadoes were not as numerous during 1977 as during the previous year, but considerable destruction resulted, none less from several of the "cyclones" when they struck at random in various parts of the State. One of the most costly tornadoes of the year struck near downtown Houston on December 13, leaving one man dead and causing at least 37 reported injuries. The violent "twister" touched down at mid-morning and travelled along a 500-foot path for five miles, snapping three-foot-thick pine trees, crushing mobile homes, and ripping off roofs of other homes in the Houston metropolitan area. It was also one of the most bizarre tornadoes of the year, for it struck during one of the least active months of the year for tornadoes.

Two tornadoes struck Monahans (Trans-Pecos) on April 19, destroying a hospital, convalescent center, and more than three dozen homes. No deaths resulted from the storms, although nearly a score of people were injured. Another damaging tornado hit the community of Quail (Low Rolling Plains) on May 16. Damages totalling nearly three-quarters of a million dollars were incurred from the storm; the Quail school and cafeteria, three homes, and ten vehicles were totally destroyed. On the following day, a one-half mile section of Plainview (High Plains) was struck by a tornado which damaged a school and more than two dozen homes.

As in most years, fierce thunderstorms intermittently dumped very heavy rains and damaging hail in various sections of Texas, particularly during the spring. Jourdanton (Southern) received 8.54 inches in one 24-hour period, baseball-size hail pelleted Charlotte (Southern), and three inches of rain fell in 30 minutes at Mountain Home (Edwards' Plateau). Torrential rains raised the level of the Devils River by eight feet in just more than one day, and Interstate Highway 10 near Kerrville was nearly blocked by logs and stones transported by the high water. Five-inch rains were measured in the Miami-Canadian area of the High Plains region causing the Canadian River to crest at over eight feet. Softball-size hail pounded the community of Alton (Low Rolling Plains) four days later, while persistently heavy rains of as much as six inches caused highway, creek, and river flooding in parts of both the Low Rolling and High Plains regions.

Property Assessments On Rise

How much have property values increased in Hansford County in the last ten years or so? What has been the effect of the rise on the local tax situation?

According to a government survey, just released, the assessed value of property that is subject to local taxes has gone up substantially in period. The increase is placed at 36 percent.

The survey, which covers every section of the country, was conducted by the Commerce Department as part of its "1977 Census of Governments."

As a result, preliminary data is now available on the 86 million pieces of real and personal property that are listed on the tax rolls of local communities throughout the nation.

Their assessed value, for local tax purposes, is over $1,177 billion. Ten years before, when a similar survey was made, it was $442 billion.

In Hansford County, the government's figures show, the assessed value of taxable property is close to $42,797,000, as against the former total of $31,518,000.

In general, the net assessed value, after allowances for exemptions, is the base against which the tax rates are applied. Usually, however, it is well below the true market value of the property.

Related to population, the tax base in Hansford County is equivalent to approximately $6,900 for every man, woman and child in the local area.

Elsewhere in the United States, the average is $5,060 per capita and, in the State of Texas, $2,930.

The survey shows that the property tax continues to be a major source of local government financing in the United States.

However, while it is producing record amounts of revenue, $54.9 billion in fiscal 1976, compared with $25.2 billion ten years ago, it is playing a diminishing role, according to the new findings.

It is currently accounting for 81.2 percent of all local funds that are raised through taxes, as against 86.6 percent previously. Gaining in importance, on the other hand, in efforts to meet nationwide demands for property tax relief, has been expanded revenue sharing by the states and the Federal government.

In 1810 there were 366 newspapers in the country.

Program Needed

Most everyone is now at least vaguely aware of low farm prices and farmer unrest. One man and his organization in the area, however, have a little different approach to the problem. "Doc" Williams and his staff have been conducting marketing short courses in the area throughout the past year. "The idea," according to Williams, "is to teach farmers and ranchers how to extract more money from the market through use of the futures market and hedging." Farmers, according to Williams, can do a great deal for themselves through improved, modern marketing techniques.

Historically, says Williams, farmers have spent 99 percent of their time being good farmers and going broke at it. One of the reasons is that they are spending so little time and effort on the business end of agriculture and on marketing. TARA, Inc., a private research and educational firm in Lubbock, is extending its educational efforts to all forms of marketing, including timely cash selling, programs of distributing sales through the year, contracting and use of government loan programs, as well as hedging. "The time has come," according to Williams, "for planned marketing programs with as much emphasis on intelligent buying and selling as on production." Marketing, he says, can make the difference between profits and losses.

Hedging techniques require special attention. "It generally is not possible," according to Williams, "to acquire an understanding of all important aspects of hedging through magazine articles or pamphlets. One day seminars on the subject, we find, often add to the confusion that already exists about futures markets. There are so many stories and misleading and erroneous ideas about futures and hedging," Williams says, "that it is almost unbelievable. Hedging is one of the few legitimate ways of taking some of the price risk out of agriculture, of increasing the net price received from farm products and of increasing farm income. And that," he adds, "is what it is all about."

The TARA staff conducted six marketing short courses in the region last year. These, according to Williams, were highly successful. "Many farmers," according to Williams, "made enough through hedging to save their farms and some even bought additional land."

Williams continues, "We proved that farmers and their wives can understand futures markets and can learn how to use these markets to their advantage."

"One man's fault is another man's lesson." H. G. Bohn

Our Heritage of Faith

notes from Faith Lutheran Church

The strength of a church depends on its construction. If it is to endure all the storms that are hurled against it, if it is to remain and stand strong and solid throughout time without crumbling, and if it is to attract people to the warmth, peace, and comfortableness which lies within no matter how cold and how strong the wind blows outside, then all the individual members which make up the church must fit and work together to form one cohesive structure being firmly grounded on a rock foundation.

This church, of course, is not a building but is the people who belong to it. They are held together as one, not by mortar, but by the Holy Spirit. The rock on which the church is founded is Jesus Christ.

Those who make up the church need to have their roots in Christ. From Him they should get their strength and support in life. But in order for the church to be effective it must allow the Spirit to pull it together and to hold it together so that it can withstand the storms of life and time and be a place of peace and comfort. The Spirit can only do this as we hear and listen to God's Word, as we remember and receive the sacraments, and as we participate in prayer and in the life of the church.

In order to encourage and enable more participation from the members of Faith in the life of the church, Faith is using a committee structure to do the work of the church. Each confirmed member is on a committee in which he can employ his imagination and talents and be involved in making decisions and in doing the work of the church. The Worship and Evangelism Committee will meet after the Morning Worship Service this Sunday, February 5 at 10:30. On Monday, February 6, the Education Committee will meet at 7:30.

If you have no church which you regularly attend we encourage you to come to Faith. Morning Worship at Faith is at 9:30, Sunday School is at 10:30, at 7:00 Sunday nights is a study on Matthew's Gospel, and instructions in the Christian Faith are on Tuesdays at 4:30 for 8th graders and Wednesdays at 4:00 for the 7th graders.
