Savings Continue To Increase

An encouraging economic factor is the latest report of both the Government and life-insurance companies, which shows that savings are continuing to increase. Figures released recently indicated that Americans are putting up as much, or more money this year than they did in 1933.

These savings go into U. S. savings bonds, into life insurance, bank deposits and other forms of savings.

The U. S. Treasury reports that in the first six months of 1934 it sold thirteen per cent more "E" and "H" savings bonds than it had in the first six months of 1933—a boom year. The Institute of Life Insurance has reported record purchases of new policies in the same period.

It is also reported that accident and health insurance policy purchases are higher this year than in 1933. The significance of these increases is to be seen when it is realized that personal income in the United States is definitely down from the record total of 1933.

The combined effect of these statistics shows clearly that the average American is hedging for a rainy day, and increasingly turning his attention to the future and his future security. In spite of the fact that there is more job security and Government-aid in this field than ever before, Americans are increasing their savings even while the nation's personal income total decreases slightly.

Dry Or Wet . . . Planting Of Winter Pasture Advised

College Station, August — If livestock could talk, they'd be asking for lots of good, winter grazing and promising more meat at lower costs.

Winter pastures, E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist, supply needed green grazing when summer pastures are dormant; provide vitamins and proteins; make possible a rest period for permanent pastures which improves their vigor; and mightily important right now, will cut the cost of wintering livestock. A study made in central Texas by the Experiment Station shows that without pasture the cost for supplemental feed for wintering a ewe went up about $10 and for a cow about $24. Trew recommends the planting of at least one acre for each animal unit on the farm.

From the standpoint of soil protection and improvement, winter pastures are a paying proposition. They provide cover for the land and prevent washing and wind erosion and the roots and residue add organic matter to the soil.

Regardless of moisture conditions at planting time, Trew says, plant. Dust the seed in if necessary for you'll be ahead when the rain does come. Those dry planting last fall, says the specialist, got earlier grazing and thus were able to save on winter feed bills. Don't fail, emphasizes Trew, to use fertilizer. If it doesn't rain, the plant food will be lost but can be used by succeeding crop.

The specialist likes to use a combination of grasses and a legume. The combination gives greater total production, the forage is higher in protein and minerals and the grazing season lasts longer. Generally, the small grains are oats, rye, barley and in some areas wheat, are the best for winter grazing. Italian ryegrass does well in east Texas, the Gulf Coast region and in the Blackland and Grand Prairie area. Vetch, crimson clover, Hubam and Madrid sweetclover are among the legumes which can be grown successfully in combination with the grasses. Trew suggests that the local county agent be contacted for information on the best combination for a particular area.

The legume seed should be inoculated before planting. The cost is small compared with the returns of more production and nitrogen-fixing bacteria on the roots of the plants.

Trew suggests that soil samples be taken from the area to be used for winter pastures and sent to a soil testing laboratory. He describes the dollar spent for this service "as the best fertilizer dollar you can spend." The analysis will show whether fertilizers are needed and if so, the type and amount required to make the winter pasture tops.

Finally, he says, why not use winter grazing crops to lower meat and milk production costs; cut labor requirements for handling the animals; and build and protect the soil.

A GOOD PROPHECY.

TOWNSEND, Mass. — After marrying a couple Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. Woodward, the minister who performed the ceremony 68 years ago said: "I hope you both live to be 100." Mr. Woodward died recently at the age of 100. His wife died a year ago, age 100.

DR. Glenn Dildine To Discuss Role of Junior Leader At 4-H Lab

College Station, August—Dr. Glenn C. Dildine will lead Texas 4-H Club members in thinking about "The Role of the Junior Leader" when the Texas 4-H Junior Leadership Training Laboratory gets in swing August 23 at Bastrop State Park. Taking part in the week's activities will be 115 4-H Club members and 30 adults.

Dr. Kenneth Ainsman, Education Department, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, will teach the group creative arts with a variety to meet individual needs.

Samples of Texas soil from every district will add to Nature Study when the 4-H Clubs bring a bit of their native county soil to the lab. In charge of the group will be John Twining and C. W. Simmons. Mr. Twining is with the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas. Mr. Simmons is Farm Forester for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Sponsored by United Gas and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, lab attendance is open to three boys and three girls from each of the 12 Extension districts in Texas. Members will attend two other counties selected on a state basis from records of previous counties attending.

Floyd Lynch, State 4-H Club Leader, says the week will be an experience of young people and adults working together, cooperating and a cheering through organization and group action.

Miss Carolyn Sansing left last week to teach in Public Schools at Corpus Christi, Texas. Her sister, Tynelle Sansing who received her degree from Texas U. in June has accepted a position with the American Liberty Oil Co. in Dallas.

New Bulletin Released By A. G. Extension Service

College Station, August—Producers, processors and consumers of turkeys should find the information carried in B-234, Market Demand on Turkeys, of great value. The authors F. Z. Beamblossom and K. F. Schlamb, extension poultry marketing specialists, have outlined and illustrated with pictures the standards of quality for individual dressed and ready to cook turkey carcasses.

They point out that the aim of all producers and processors should be to sell turkeys with maximum quality and with as few defects as possible.

Consumer satisfaction is more likely when turkeys meet grade A quality requirements, they say. The bulletin is now available without cost, from the office of any local county Extension Service agent or by mail from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Blue tongue Vaccine Now In Production

College Station, August—A vaccine for bluetongue is now in production in four commercial laboratories. In addition to some deaths, this sheep disease results in severe loss of weight, impairment of fleece quality, stiffness or lameness, and screw-worm infestation.

Workers of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have made several contributions to the basic research on this disease. These include: (1) the first description of the disease in the United States in 1932, when it was called soremuzzle, (2) multiple isolations of the virus from Texas sheep, (3) preparation of an experimental vaccine against Texas strains, (4) confirmation of the South African work which incriminated the Culicoides gnat as a transmitter or vector, and (5) discovery that a certain new antibiotic renders the bluetongue virus ineffective when studied in test tubes and chicken embryos.

This work has been centered at the Sonoma Station and directed by Superintendent W. T. Hardy and D. A. Price, associate veterinarian.

According to Dr. C. M. Patterson, Extension Veterinarian, the vaccine now available commercially is a cooperative development by the USDA, the state of California, and private companies based on earlier work done in South Africa. Although it contains the live virus, it is intended to be harmless to sheep but should immunize them against the known strains in both Texas and California.

Now that a vaccine against bluetongue is in use, it will be important for the Texas workers as well as others.

You'll always be glad you bought a Chevrolet

(and now's a great time to buy one)

Isn't it great to hum along the highway in a car fresh out of the showroom? But how long will that new car pride and pleasure last? This is why it lasts longer if you buy a new Chevrolet . . . and why right now is such a smart time to buy one.

You'll stay proud of Chevrolet's lasting good looks
You won't find another low-priced car with the look of quality you see in Chevrolet. And if you like Chevrolet's looks now, you'll like it looks always. For there's fine design in those clean and smoothly curved lines (nothing "boxy" about Chevrolet!). Fine design like this, you know, always wears well—never really goes out of style.

You'll enjoy exclusive features for finer motoring
Chevrolet quality runs deep. There's more pride for you in the only low-priced car with the finer materials and workmanship of Body by Fisher. There's more fun for you in the highest-compression power of any leading more ginger car. (Higher compression means more ginger in the going and more miles out of the gas.) There's more safety for you in the biggest brakes and the only full-length box-girder frame in the low-price field. And there's more comfort for you in Chevrolet's smoother, softer Unitized Knee-Action Ride. Down to the last detail, Chevrolet's more finely built . . . it's even the only car in its field with Safety Plate Glass in all windows of sedans and coupes!

You save when you buy and when you trade
Even so, Chevrolet is priced below all other lines of cars. (That's possible because Chevrolet builds the most, and can build 'em to sell for less.) And at trade-in time, you're ahead again from Chevrolet's traditional higher resale value.

You'll get a special deal right now
Right now, we're in a position to give you a deal of the year on a new Chevrolet. Come and let us show you how much you'll gain buying now!

He is sure, if there is any to benefit this area will be working to gain any and all the under the terms of his office has been working in the records in the State and working for better and better farm.

Don't Name It

IT'S ALL OVER—and we have a third term Governor. Let's forget the bitterness of the campaign and work for the future of Texas and America.

JUST WHEN THE FUTURE LOOKS THE DARKEST, from the standpoint of curbstone coaching, comes REAL RELIEF. The country editor has been coaching the Lynx and Greyhounds from the point marked X on our curbstone for the past few years. At one time we had ample assistance from such renown coaches as Rex Sanders, Eck Lee, John Bishop and Slim Cates. For the last few years these boys have fallen into the rut of indolence, and have virtually left the burden of winning football on the shoulders of the country editor. We are not getting any younger, but we hope we never get as old as the above name former experts on curbstone coaching. For all the good they have done the past 2 years they had as well been knitting garments for Korean children.

But—we are glad to announce that SONNY WINDOW, Jerry Gibner and a few other of the boys that seems like they had orta be back in football suits, that are ready to assist us in making winners of the Lynx team for the coming season. Chalmers Porter can be depended on for a bit of advice, and maybe he will find time to attend some of the curbstone sessions. With this new blood and crafty thinking aid is called a ing, we figure we can be of some REAL help to Coach Clabaugh this season, and we hereby order a meeting of all interested curbstone coaches to hold forth at the spot marked X in front of the Spearman Reporter office on the evening of September 8th, so we can do what we can to make the coming contest between the Lynx and the Canadian Wildcats a CONTEST. The country editor spent the best part of four days and nights in the Hansford county hospital last week. We had a belle-ache that was positively painful and excruciating—if we know what we are trying to say. Didn't have our temperature, any other symptoms of illness except a plain old belle-ache. Had to take 3 shots to keep us from groaning so loud that the rest of the hospital patients would not be deprived of rest.

It's exceedingly embarrassing to admit the facts in the case, but they say an honest confession is good for the soul. We admit that we ate too much, ate too fast, and perhaps was a little worried about the future of football and other important events which are coming up in the immediate future.

Poor old Doc Kleiberger is still worried about our gall. That's plum foolish. If I ain't got enough gall to take care of the situation, there ain't nothing he can do about it. If he had figured out we didn't have enough of the milk of human kindness in our system, might have tried to take some of his kindness pills—but for him to insist on us taking medicine to develop GALL, it's gone plum ruin his professional reputation—cause everyone that advertises in the Reporter knows I lack nothing in GALL, and the same can be said of the many friends a few of whom, read this column. TRY AGAIN DOC, but don't keep on trying to work up my GALL.

Seriously, we do want to thank a great many friends for their interest in our recent illness. Don't believe we located so many well-wishers as during the past week end when returned to work from the hospital. It was almost worth the pain of a belle-ache to learn that we had some friends interested in our health. We want to express our special thanks to

Pastor Bryant of the Baptist church for two visits and his prayer—and especially express our thanks to the brothers of the Hansford Masonic lodge for the beautiful bouquet that they sent to my room while I was in the hospital. We do express our sincere appreciation to Mrs. A. F. Loftin for the Wonderful bouquet of flowers she sent to the hospital room—and I want the world to know that Mrs. Loftin can grow the finest flowers of anyone in Hansford county—according to my books They were beautiful, and I cannot understand how they could grow so large and beautiful in this rough climate of the Panhandle of Texas.

HOW TO MAKE HOMEWORK Lighter
 IN THREE EASY STEPS

- 1 Get a table lamp measuring 15" from bottom of shade to top of table. Shade should be wide enough to spread light over work area and deep enough to conceal bulb from eyes.
- 2 Equip the lamp with a 150-watt inside frosted bulb (left) if lamp has a diffusing bowl; with a 150-watt white indirect bulb (right) if it has not.
- 3 Place the lamp 12" from front of desk or table and 15 inches to left of work center. For a left-handed student, place lamp at right.

Back to school means back to home study for the youngsters. Plenty of good light is needed to prevent eye-strain and fatigue that lead to poor grades.

Give your children the advantage of good light for home study this easy three-step way. Then watch how their attitude toward their homework improves.

Washington News Letter From Congressman Walter Rogers

August 27, 1954 TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT:

ATTENTION CATTLEMEN

Not long ago, a gentleman came into my office and wanted to discuss Alaska beef producing potentialities with me. He knew I was from Texas, and he saw the Hereford hide on the wall so, no doubt, he concluded that he would have a willing ear. About the time the conversation got started, the bells rang and I had to leave him in order to get to the House in time for that day's session. He promised to write me a letter about it, and sure enough he did. It is very interesting, and I wish I could put the entire letter in this paper, as I know you cattle people would enjoy it.

This man, his wife and four children, have been growing and marketing farm products since 1942. The father went up in 1941 to Alaska, and the family followed the next year. He tells me that they are meeting with great success and want to expand.

He tells me that there are several islands involved that are warmed by the Japanese current and sheltered by the Alaskan peninsula. That only occasional snowfalls occur and quickly disappear so that the cattle range out and thrive unsheltered in the wild state all the year around. The average winter temperatures are 20 degrees to 42 degrees Fahrenheit, and the average summer temperatures are 33 degrees to 54 degrees F., with three degrees F. the coldest recorded and 80 degrees F. the highest recorded. He also says that from July through December, the natural range grasses furnish beef carcasses able to compete with beef shipped in from the states, and that with minimum of expense, grass silage can be provided to enable furnishing beef fit for market all the year. There is an ample constant flow of fresh water, and the beaches are rich in salt and mineral, and very little fencing is needed. There are no predators or poisonous weeds on the islands.

The main market centers are Fairbanks, which serves about 37,000 people, and Anchorage, serving about 90,000 people.

He wants to interest some other operators in this project so that the operations can be measurably expanded and will be glad to go into detail with anyone who might be interested. He will be glad to send full data concerning the weather, soil and grass analysis, market volume and prices, references, etc., or will make a personal visit to discuss the matter in full.

If anyone wants to go into the cattle business in Alaska, I will be glad to give you this man's name and address. I never saw him before he came into my office, but was impressed by his love for cattle and his apparent knowledge of Alaska.

Everyone seems to be getting water conscious. I was in company with several other members of Congress and a United States Senator recently surveying a project, the purpose of which is to create a means of reducing the salt contents of water so that it can be used for human consumption or industrial or irrigation purposes. If such a process is perfected, it will not only be a boon to mankind, in so far as the use of sea water is concerned, but would be a tremendous benefit in the inland sections of all countries where you might have underground salt water. Certain projects we have that in the Panhandle. The problem to solve is to develop the processes that are now known so that the cost of the sweet water produced will not be prohibitive. Of course, it is anticipated that other means of reducing the salt contents may be discovered or accidentally stumbled upon. In any event, the project itself is in its infancy, and may be some time before the fruits of this research will be realized. However, it is well to note that this program is closely knit to another program that was started and developed during the World War II that provided fresh water from sea water for many of our boats.

The U. S. Navy is presently engaged in a Save Water Campaign that, I understand, is getting remarkable results. The August issue of the "Navy Conservationist" treats this problem at length and does a splendid work on it.

However, they did leave out one item that I think gives a clear picture of what a great resource water is. I have reference to an experience the Navy had in the Virgin Islands. Those islands have no water supply other than rain water. In order to catch and conserve this, they concrete the sides of huge hills, and in many instances, mountains, and put a catch basin at the base of this concrete slab. Their underground water is all blackish and therefore, when it fails to rain they just do not have any source from which they can obtain their needed water. Not many months ago, they were stricken by a drought, and the Navy put one of its war ships in the harbor at Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas Island, and proceeded to produce fresh water to supply the reserve of the island. Without this supplemental supply, the then Governor of the Virgin Islands advised me, the situation would have become very dangerous.

Capitol Hill has gotten very quiet for the moment. The few of us who are left here are trying to catch up with our mail and other chores, but most of the newspaper people seem to be having quite a bit of trouble finding news. When Congress shuts down, the news correspondents up here have to dig about twice as hard for stories.

I hope to get loose here some time around the first of September or shortly thereafter. The family was a little upset at me because we did not get to spend the summer in Texas, but they all understand that the late adjournment of Congress makes it almost impossible to get them down there and back before school starts. When the Rogers tribe starts across the country, what with having to stop at every filling station, it takes about five to five and one-half days to make the trip each way. That doesn't leave much time to say hello to your friends when you only have about 15 days for the entire trip.

I was looking at the August 20th daily statement of the U. S. Treasury and thought of the old story about the fellow who asked the other one what he would do if he had all the money in the world. The reply was that he would pay it on his debts, as far as it would go. What made me think of this was that the balance on that particular day was $5,954,371,980.02. I had just finished reading about the national debt being 274,000,000,000.00 and the debt ceiling being raised six additional billion. The fellow in the old story was being funny, but he was just before his time.

Don Southard of Pampa, came by the office this week. He is in Washington attending the Capitol Radio School.

Walter Rogers, M. C. 18th District, Texas.

THIS and THAT

Around Gruver

This is going to be a short column. The big news is that we are sowing wheat. Already one or two are through sowing wheat and are waiting to see if they get a Maize crop. The next highest news is that school is open, and getting settled down to business. The Chamber of Commerce is working with the city on getting sidewalks paved all the way from school to town. This is a much needed project, and will add to the safety program. Kelly Garrett, and Aubrey Peddy are working on this with the City Commission. Art Evans is chairman of the School Committee, and they will have some announcements to make soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lowe have just returned from a trip to Hualahuila, Arizona. They were visiting their son George (Buddy) and his wife and baby boy. Visiting their grandchildren will keep them busy this fall, as they hope to visit Betty Jean and her family soon.

Oscar Cross is home and is doing just fine. After a visit to the doctor this coming Saturday he hopes to have the bandages off his eye, and be able to use it. We hope so too.

Young Bruce Ayres is following in his fathers foot-steps in earnest. The other day he fell on a drill and broke both bones in one arm, just above the wrist. The only thing that is worrying Bruce is that he will have to postpone football for a while.

We are glad to have Uncle Joe and Lawrence back home. We hope that the heat will subside, so that Uncle Joe can stay with us for a while.

We told you last week that Tommy Ambrun had a new son, but we did not know all about him. He is red headed, and goes by the name of Johnny Linn. Nothing to do with Uncle Jay. He is grandson to Claud Beck. The man who grows flowers on the school house lawn.

By the way have you noticed how nice the school house lawn is looking these days.

The Maupin family had a reunion late at their home in Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. John Williams and their children, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Maupin went from here.

Blanch Taber is still missing from the Post Office. But Doris Pinkerton and Mattie Layton have things under control.

We inquire about Coy Holt from time to time. We are glad he is improving, but it will be some time yet before he can be about. We saw Mrs. Holt in town the other day, with her sister Mrs. McBride, but did not get to speak to them.

Mary Fern Terry replaced Roy Neely in the office at the M and B Grain Company. Mrs. Neely has transferred to Lubbock where she will attend school. Alvino Richardson replaced Mary Fern at McClellan Grain Co.

The Briley Family Has Heard Anvils For Over A Century

In talking with Bert Briley, I find that his grandfather was in a half century in the blacksmith shop. So did his father. And Bert himself, has put in a half a century in the shop. I find that the Briley family could celebrate a sesquicentennial a three generations in the blacksmith shop.
We find the blacksmith was important in the skill of making tools. Blacksmiths made the tools so others could do the work, and make a progressive and a better world to live in.
Consider Bert Briley, a local blacksmith, who repairs our broken tools or makes new ones. To say nothing of the brands for the rancher. The blacksmith has prevented many killings and lawsuits by confronting ranchers with his branding irons.
Bert's grandparents came from England, probably on the Mayflower. There is a long line of history behind the Briley family, as craftsmen and blacksmiths. His father and grandfather made the shoes and nails for horses. It took all day and part of the night to shoe one horse. They did that work from 25 to 30 cents. That money would buy from five to ten bushels of corn. Probably 20 dozen eggs. Neighbors would keep the blacksmith supplied with fish for the rest of the year if he would shoe their horse. He was welcome to all the fruit he would come and get.
Bert was giving me the genealogy of the long line of blacksmiths, that would run back before steam was ever harnessed, and Bert has lived to see it almost come obsolete. His forefathers have seen all the inventions, from "the crude" way of transportation down to the modern Jet planes. There is a connection link that runs back to England, in the Briley family. His grandfather, hammered out the anvil the rifle guns and the spark that fired the gun. He saw the progress of the canyon ball rifle.
The only history that Bert gave me of his ancestors was that it dated a century and a half of three generations in a blacksmith shop.
Bert has inherited the skill and energy that has come down through a long line of useful blacksmiths. The mantle that on his father's head from his grandfather's skill of making useful things also fell on Bert's head. Mr. McCormick was a country blacksmith that worked at the cross roads, where farmers would gather on rainy days. One generation take up the torch where the other one laid it down. It never goes up in void service.
I landed here in the west over a quarter of a century ago and my brother said, "I want you to visit Bert Briley's shop, it is the cleanest shop you ever saw." Bert keeps the cleanest blacksmith shop I have ever seen. I have been in them all over the different parts of the U. S. I have never visited Bert's shop go down and see what a neat and nice housekeeper he is. He has a place for everything and everything in place, orderly and systematic.

Three generations saw steam come in and Bert has seen it go out.
Some people are more interested in reading history than they are in making history. Every farmer progress in this country and other countries are a representative of the work that Bert the blacksmith has done something to make it possible for the farmer to till the soil. Bert is in his last sixties is still going strong he seems as active as he did a quarter of a century ago, when I first met him. There is an old saying, there is always somebody that can step in and fill the other man's place. Where are the youngmen of today who are learning the blacksmith trade? Who will take Bert's place, and keep the village blacksmith going on in Spearman? When we break anything that can be fixed in a blacksmith shop we run down and Bert will fix it as good as new. Jiffy. If Bert stays here as long as his grandfather did or great grandfather did, he will be hammering out valuable things on the anvil for the next generation.
Time and space will not permit me to say the things about Bert Briley as one of the most valuable citizens to the business and economical world, that I would like to say. He has served his day and generation in helping to bring prosperity to this western country, and made this one of the most prosperous countries in the world. Long live the memory of Bert in the minds and hearts of the people in Hansford county and surrounding countries.

What I have failed to say to express my best regards to the blacksmith was said long ago by Longfellow in his great poem "The Village Blacksmith".
Bert Briley's hobby is fiddling. His grandfather was a violinist and his father conducted a home talent band.
When Bert lays his hammer down for the last time and hangs his tongs on the anvil block, and his fire burns down to a glowing ember and he turns the key on the old lock, it will be a fitting finale to his successful career as the village blacksmith.

Cotton farmers are urged to consider their harvest incomplete until all stalks have been either cut or shredded and plowed under. Early destruction of stalks is an effective and cheap control of devastating cotton insects.
Deferred-rotation grazing is the best means of rangeland recovery. In a properly balanced livestock program, pounds of meat produced per acre not the number of head to the acre are the real objective.
The war on cattle grubs is on. Few common insects are as costly to the state's beef producers and dairy operators. Rotenone sprays, dust and dips give practical control.
