Says Rebate Must Go With Profits Tax

Otherwise, Corporations Will Die, Committee Folds

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Clinton Davidson, Washington representative of a private research organization, told congress today a 90 per cent excess profits tax would "cause corporations to die like flies in the post-war period."

Davidson, appearing before the senate finance committee for Fiduciary Counsel, Inc., of Jersey City, said his organization was convinced that failure to provide for a post-war rebate of part of tax payments by corporations under the pending revenue bill would cause great hardship. He said his organization served 40 "medium sized" corporations.

The treasury has recommended a 90 per cent excess profits tax with a 10 per cent post-war rebate but the house made the tax a flat 90 per cent without any rebate provision. Davidson told the committee that unless sufficient post-war employment was provided to bolster purchasing power there was likely to be a tremendous surplus of agricultural products.

For instance, he said, there might be a 5,000,000 bale surplus of cotton and a 2,000,000,000 gallon surplus of milk yearly.

Davidson estimated that employment in the automobile industry which now works 1,500,000 persons on war contracts, would slump to the pre-war level of 562,000 persons after hostilities cease. Senator Brown (D-Mich) challenged that estimate, declaring he believed the post-war demand for automobiles would keep employment at a high level.

Arrest Made After Rally Disturbance

STATESBORO, Ga., July 29 (AP)—A former candidate for governor has been arrested as the result of a disturbance yesterday at a Governor Eugene Talmadge political rally, in which a spectator suffered burns around the eyes.

The defendant, Robert F. Wood, was charged with assault and released on bond.

Chief of Police Edgar Hart said the charge grew out of the throwing of three cans containing an unidentified liquid, which bounced into a group of hecklers.

Wood, working for the re-election of Talmadge, was indicted shortly afterwards by a Bulloch county grand jury.

McAllister and his wife had been visiting in Lubbock with Mrs. Hinkel, his aunt.

Car Crashes Into Truck, Three Die

LAS CRUCES, N. M., July 29 (AP)—Three persons were killed near here shortly after midnight when their automobile crashed into a parked gasoline tank truck.

The dead were Mrs. J. R. Hinkel, 55, Lubbock, Tex., Robert McAllister, 22, Sacramento, Calif., and his wife, Emily, 20.

State highway policemen said they were en route from Lubbock to Sacramento when the automobile, apparently traveling at high speed, struck the truck.

McAllister and his wife had been visiting in Lubbock with Mrs. Hinkel, his aunt.

High Court Hears Plea Of Nazis For The Right To A Civil Trial

Marines, One From Texas, Honored

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Four marines have been awarded silver life saving medals for rescuing drowning persons, the navy announced today.

They included Private John B. Lippard, Littlefield, Tex., Lippard, born at Sudan, Tex., and now presumed to be a prisoner of war, dived overboard into shark-infested waters between the Manila breakwater and Cavite on April 28, 1941, to rescue a comrade who had fallen overboard.

Aleutian Air Activity Under One Command

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Creation of a unified command of all aircraft operations in the Aleutian Islands was announced by the navy today.

It said details as to command relationships and the exact location of headquarters could not be disclosed as they would be of value to the enemy.

The navy reported, however, that a naval officer now in the Aleutians area had been placed in command of the joint operations by naval and army aircraft.

The new system of operational control under one head which has unified commands in joint operations in Hawaii, Australia, the Canal Zone, the eastern Caribbean and the various sea frontiers will be effective in the Aleutians.

Dispute Puts Big Bands Off MBS Network

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The music of at least 15 big band dance bands is picked up from hotels and night clubs was off the Mutual Broadcasting System's network today as a result of a dispute between the American Federation of Musicians (AFM) and MBS affiliates KFRC in San Francisco and WARM in Scranton, Pa.

Mutual General Manager Fred Weber said last night AFM President James C. Petrillo had ordered the move without notifying the network and that the ban, stopping pickups of the orchestra of Cab Calloway, Tommy Tucker, Henry Buase and others, had been put into effect through local unions.

Petrillo offered no comment on the action, which followed a walkout of 12 union musicians in a controversy over wages and hours at San Francisco and a similar dispute at the Scranton Station. William Fabst, KFRC station manager, said the union demanded unspecified wage increases the doubling of the musicians' employment from six hours a week to 12.

Contents Car Was Bought From Singer

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29 (AP)—Lieut. Commander Maurice N. Aroff, the former naval procurement officer who swore Tony Martin into service as a chief specialist, will contend he actually bought the singer's $950 Studebaker sedan, but payment was deferred, Aroff's attorney indicated today.

The navy charges that Aroff asked for and received Martin's car as a gift in return for helping obtain Martin a naval petty officer's rating at a time when the entertainer was about to be drafted into the army.

Convicted Slayer Faces Firing Squad

SALT LAKE CITY, July 29 (AP)—Donald Lawrence Condit, state 25-year-old convict from Los Angeles, set in Utah's grim state prison today awaiting the hour to execute before a firing squad the robbery-murder of a salesman which left five children fatherless.

Tomorrow when the first rays of dawn break over the majestic Wasatch mountains, Condit will be led from his cell, blindfolded and shot to death by five riflemen recruited from the country.

Utah law put it up to the convicted man to choose whether he will be hanged or shot. Condit preferred the latter.

When the California man, whose record includes an eight-year police dossier and jail and reformatory sentences in California, was arrested more than a year ago, his 26-year-old blond wife, Betty, vowed she'd stick with him to the end.

And today, only a few hours before the scheduled execution, Betty was fighting for the life of her man.

Mrs. Condit consulted Attorney A. W. Watson in a last minute effort to stay the riflemen's guns.

But Gov. Herbert B. Maw visited the condemned man, then remarked that clemency would "only prolong Condit's agony."

FD's Wartime Proclamation Challenged

Counsel For Alleged Saboteurs Calls It Test Of Democracy

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Counsel for seven of the eight alleged Nazi saboteurs being tried by a military commission told the supreme court that President Roosevelt's proclamation denying them access to the civil courts was "totally invalid and unconstitutional."

This challenge of the war time powers of the chief executive and commander-in-chief was made in a brief in support of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

In effect, the defendants' army officer counsel were asking the court to take the prisoners out of the hands of the commission appointed by Mr. Roosevelt and let them be tried in the civil courts.

The request was made at an extraordinary session of the nation's highest tribunal convened on call of Chief Justice Stone. The state supreme court chamber was filled by persons eager to have a spectator's part in the unusual event.

The defense attack brought a reply from prosecution counsel headed by Attorney General Biddle that:

"Military trial for the petitioners endangers no traditional civil liberty. These German soldiers have already been given rights which no American would receive in Germany, and now ask for 'constitutional' privileges which we do not allow our own soldiers."

The two United States army colonels defending the prisoners, Cassius M. Dowell and Kenneth C. Royall, told the court:

"May we respectfully suggest that the instant case presents a real test of our democratic form of government and its judicial system. It is true but still true to say that the soundness of any system of government proves itself in the hard cases where there is an element of public danger. Such circumstances test the real ability of a government and its judicial system to protect the rights of an unpopular minority."

The defense disclosed that Justice James W. Morris, of the United States district court for the District of Columbia, denied yesterday an application of the petitioners for permission to present petitions for writs of habeas corpus.

The defense freely conceded that all of the eight accused attacked a school near Berlin and received instructions and directions for sabotaging manufacturing and transportation facilities but declared that all the petitioners had testified that they did not intend to commit sabotage.

"In the case of two or more petitioners," the brief said, "this testimony was definitely corroborated by other evidence produced by the prosecution. All of the petitioners deny their guilt."

"Upon the conclusion of the training," the prosecution brief said, "the German government contracted to pay them for acting on See NAZI TRIAL, Page 8, Col. 5

More Enemy Aliens Arrested By FBI

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—The federal bureau of investigation announced today that it had seized 10 more enemy aliens, including Maria Schicht Kerling, wife of Edward Kerling, one of the eight alleged Nazi saboteurs on trial in Washington before a military commission.

FBI agents said the 10 aliens were taken immediately to Ellis Island.

Beer And Whiskey Taken At Colorado

A raid by Mitchell County Sheriff Dick Gregory, Deputy Nick Narrell and Cecil Hodges of the Big Spring Liquor Control Board office, netted six cases of beer and a small quantity of whiskey and wine at Colorado City Tuesday.

The officers said a man in a basement under the house raided broke approximately 28 bottles of whiskey and 15 bottles of wine, as the officers approached the house.

Charges were filed against Harold Letcher and Tom Mintz.

SS Troops Moved To French Coast

BERN, Switzerland, July 29 (AP)—German SS (Elite Guard) troops said to have come from the Russian front paraded through Paris today en route to new posts along the invasion coast, and German dispatches received here said Field Marshal Gen. Gerd von Rundstedt was revising his whole plan of defense against an Allied second front in the west.

The German press discussed details of the reorganized coastal defense at length, perhaps partly to offset agitation among the Allies for establishment of a second front soon. The National Zeitung of Basel described this as an intentional trickling of information in the hope of discouraging an Allied effort.

Nevertheless, practice maneuvers reported being held by the Germans in their channel ports seemed to some observers to be an indication that the Germans are concerned by the threat.

The German press assured the people of the reich that any second front effort could be beaten—but for the first time added that such an effort could be expected.

Jap Units Are Driven Back

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 29 (AP)—Allied patrols have driven strong and aggressive Japanese units back from advanced outposts they occupied in the vicinity of Kokoda, New Guinea, only 80 miles from the most advanced Allied base at Port Moresby, General MacArthur's Headquarters announced today.

From their newly occupied base at Gona Mission on the northeastern coast of the Papuan peninsula, the Japanese patrols have advanced 55 miles inland in less than a week and have clashed with Allied patrols near the small government station of Kokoda.

Troops of General MacArthur's command pushed back the invaders yesterday while Allied bombers in three different attacks smashed at the enemy installations and supply stores at Gona Mission.

Kokoda is a small town with an airfield, a rubber plantation and a few buildings. It is situated in hilly country and behind it the Owen Stanley range rises to a height of 8,000 feet and more. Port Moresby lies to the southwest on the other side of the range.

A headquarters spokesman said it still was uncertain whether the probing action of the Japanese was a mere patrol maneuver or the preliminary advance to an attack on Port Moresby.

Axis Shipping Losses Listed

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—The admiralty estimated today 7,184,760 tons of German and Italian shipping had been sunk, captured, damaged or interned, exclusive of United States action, since outbreak of the war.

Britain's navy and the war craft of her European Allies, excluding Soviet Russia, have sunk, captured or damaged 953,681 tons of axis vessels since the first of the year, the admiralty said.

These actions increased to 6,178,081 tons the total of German and Italian shipping sunk, captured or damaged since the outbreak of the war, it added.

That figure does not include losses inflicted by the Soviet navy, which the admiralty estimates at 750,000 tons, nor does it include 44 German and Italian ships totaling 256,079 tons immobilized in Central and South American ports.

Grass Fire Causes Widespread Damage

COLEMAN, July 29 (AP)—Approximately ten sections of fine grass, an automobile, a barn, fence and some livestock were destroyed in a spectacular fire that swept over several ranches between Voss and Valera late yesterday and last night.

Scores of ranchmen from over the south and west parts of the county used wet sacks to fight the blaze.

The fire was attributed to the careless tossing of a lighted match in the grass by a passerby.

Nazis Press Forward With 3-Way Drive

Railway Linking Oil Fields Is Vital Objective

MOSCOW, July 29 (AP)—The Russian defense of the Caucasus showed signs of stiffening today as the steadily reinforced German drive across the lower Don shaped into spearheads toward Kuchevka, Salak and the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad railroad linking the oil fields to central Russia.

A communique said the Red army was "displaying stubborn resistance" after being forced back in the Bataisk area, 15 miles south of Rostov along the main railway to the oil port of Baku. Kuchevka is a station on this line 45 miles south of Rostov.

The Germans also were meeting stiff resistance against a secondary thrust developing down a spur line angling southeast from Bataisk to the junction with the Tikhoretsk-Stalingrad railway at Salak, 100 miles southeast of Rostov.

Further up the Don, midway between Rostov and Stalingrad, the Germans battled fiercely under shellfire and bombing in an attempt to enlarge at least three bridgeheads on the south bank of the river in the Timlyansk area, where the Don flows within 35 miles of the last rail line between Russia and the Caucasus.

Investia, the government newspaper, said Russian airmen, some of them flying United States-made Alcobra fighters, had shot down 122 German planes in aerial combat over the north Caucasus and Don bend battlefields.

There were apparently three objectives—seizure of Caucasus oil, neutralization of Red navy bases on the Black Sea coast and dispatch of forces eastward toward the Caspian Sea and industrial Stalingrad, which already is menaced by German forces moving eastward in the Don bend.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said Russian resistance had stiffened since abandonment of Rostov, but demanded that commanders and soldiers show greater firmness in the face of the enemy. Fresh German gains were recorded in both the Bataisk and Timlyansk sectors of the Caucasus.

The communist party newspaper Pravda said every Russian man and woman should learn how to use a gun and "it is the duty of each citizen to be ready at any minute to join the ranks of the Red army."

(Possibly hoping to complicate any re-alignment of Russian reserves, German planes dropped leaflets over Leningrad declaring that the Germans soon would storm that city. Leningrad has been a northwestern anchor of the Russian front, besieged and under sporadic bombardments, more than 11 months.)

A communique acknowledged a Red army retreat in the Bataisk sector 15 miles south of Rostov, but said this came only after the Germans had moved up fresh troops. (The German high command asserted that Bataisk was captured Monday.)

Even while reporting the invaders had made another crossing of the Don in the Timlyansk region 120 miles northeast of Rostov, the bureau said Soviet bombers and assault planes alone—some from United States factories—had destroyed 36 German tanks and 106 trucks bearing infantrymen and munitions.

Attacked At Tobruk Reported Captured

CAIRO, July 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Lieut. Col. Max Gooler of Duluth, Minn., assistant United States military attaché in Cairo, was in Tobruk at the time of its fall, and was believed to have been captured.

Lieut. Col. Gooler, a native of Devils Lake, N. D., was sent to Cairo a year ago from the U. S. army infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. Previously he had been on duty at the Dallas, Tex., high school.

American Troops On The Gold Coast

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—British news agency, today quoted Lord Swinton, British resident minister for West Africa, as declaring in a broadcast from Accra, gold coast colony, "Americans are here with us."

"They are everywhere in this conflict. I have already experienced on operation and frank partnership with United States General Fitz Gerald."

Job And Baby—Mrs. Arthur Klammer (above) finished her night shift at the North American bomber plant in Kansas City and went to the hospital. An hour later, her five-pound-eight-ounce baby girl was born. The 19-year-old mother, whose husband is in the navy, wanted to go back to work the night the baby was born but her physicians said no.

O'Daniel Facing An Explanation About Telegrams

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—When Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) returns here he will find an official senate committee waiting for him to explain his sending at government expense some telegrams held by a senate official not to be government business.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), chairman of the audit and control committee, said he had received complaints from the senate sergeant-at-arms office that the Western Union Telegraph company had billed the senate in an amount "well over $1,000" for messages sent by O'Daniel which the sergeant-at-arms said did not come within the rules on such communications paid for by the government.

O'Daniel must explain to the satisfaction of the committee why he sent the messages, said Lucas, or he will be asked to pay the amount.

The bills in question were sent to the senate for "book telegrams" exceeding 10 words in length, and for news messages to newspapers and radio stations. The so-called "book telegrams" are used "when the same message is being wired to numerous individuals, the sender supplying the telegraph company with their names and addresses. Available to the government at a comparatively low rate, the senators are supposed to hold the text of the message to 10 words.

Until a few months ago the "book telegrams" were allowed to run at greater length. Also, senators formerly were allowed to send regular news telegrams. This service was widely utilized by senators to get their views and activities published in hometown papers.

The regulations were changed to reduce the "book telegrams" to a maximum of 10 words and to eliminate the news messages. Lucas estimated that this has reduced the monthly government bill on telegrams sent by senators from $60,000 to $30,000.

The audit and control committee chairman declined to comment on the O'Daniel case except to say that the sergeant-at-arms office, noting the bills received on the Texas account were for news messages and for "book telegrams" exceeding 10 words in length, had referred the matter to his group and that he would ask O'Daniel to make an explanation.

Here From England, Food Is 'Beautiful'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—American food is "beautiful," says 21-year-old Heather Steele, who arrived recently from Surrey, England.

Miss Steele came here to marry Noel Merritt, tobacco company auditor, whom she met two years ago while he was serving as an air raid warden in Southampton. She was a member of the Women's Ambulance Defense Corps.

Miss Steele's first Atlantic crossing was made in a convoy of ships, one of which was torpedoed by an enemy submarine. She could not decide which was the more memorable experience—falling flat on the deck during the shelling or a five-day round of seasickness.

Congressional Runoffs Sighted In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 29 (AP)—Run-off elections in the senate and third district congressional races appeared certain today in the wake of Tuesday's statewide democratic primary.

Associated Press tabulations of unofficial reports from all but a few outlying precincts indicated John L. McClellan, 26, Camden attorney and former congressman, and Attorney General Jack Holt, 39, of Harrison, would compete for the senatorial nomination in the August 11 regular primary.

Totals from 1,735 of the 2,127 precincts gave Holt 47,891; McClellan 48,469; Congressman Clyde T. Ellis, Bentonville, 30,005, and Congressman David D. Terry, Little Rock, 24,678.

J. W. (Bill) Fulbright, youthful former University of Arkansas president of Fayetteville, and his fellow townsman, Supreme Court Justice Karl Greshaw, were top men in the third congressional district in which Virgil Willis, Harrison attorney, also competed. With 215 of the district's 285 precincts reporting, Fulbright had 6,877; Greshaw 5,737 and Willis 5,724.

In Terry's fifth congressional district, Brooks Hays, Little Rock, former Farm Security Administration official, apparently had a safe majority.

Its fame spread to Texas' veteran Senator Tom Connally, who asked if he might present it to President Roosevelt for service in the White House.

After meeting the phony Pearl Harbor hero, it was fun to meet the real thing yesterday in the person of LT. GEORGE S. WELCH, who spoke before the Rotary club. No one should have been fooled though last fall. The phony told all about his exploits, LT. WELCH was embarrassed when anyone referred to his bravery.

Women Train At Two Day Institute To Make Surgical Dressings

Local Red Cross Chapter To Soon Instruct Workers

Soon the local Red Cross chapter and nine other chapters in the district will be making surgical dressings for the army as the result of a two day institute for instruction which ends today at the Settles hotel. Conducted by Mrs. P. L. Reppert and Mrs. J. Frank Triplet, both of Amarillo, and both area supervisors, the institute trained 18 workers from the area.

Although it will be approximately a month before the chapters will be set up to instruct in the art of making surgical dressings, the trained workers will return today to their chapters qualified to in turn instruct women in their own counties.

Making surgical dressings is a job that takes accuracy, perfection and super sanitary conditions but the workers at the institute were easily mastering the requirements.

In a surgical dressing room, which must meet almost hospital requirements, the women may wear no nail polish, must keep their hair covered, wear wash dresses, be in a healthy condition with no colds, and they may neither smoke, drink nor eat in the room.

According to Mrs. Reppert, the army found it could only procure about ten percent of its needs in surgical dressings and asked the Red Cross to assist in making the dressings.

Here for the two day institute are Mrs. Reese Jones, Colorado City, Mrs. R. L. Beale and Mrs. E. T. Cardwell, Big Spring, Mrs. C. M. Godwin, Colorado City, Mrs. F.

C. Barron and Mrs. Clyde Ingham of Monahans, Mrs. A. N. Hendrickson and Mrs. Wallace Trapnell, Midland, Mrs. Noble Price, Mrs. Sam Jenkins, Lamesa, Mrs. O. J. Jensen, Barstow.

Mrs. R. E. Killmer, Pecos, Mrs. Bertha King, Mrs. Paul Agnew, Jr., Odessa, Mrs. J. P. Nelson and Mrs. Gerald Gordon, Snyder, the two area supervisors and Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, local Red Cross secretary.

The Red Cross organization will provide surgical dressings over a period of 18 months for the army.

Roosevelt Calls For Public's Help In Salvaging Scrap

Shortages To Grow Worse He Reminds

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Progressive shortages in essential supplies appeared likely today to bring more forcibly to every home what President Roosevelt termed the need of a greater realization of the seriousness of war.

Asking full civilian participation in a scrap salvage drive and warning of forthcoming shortages in many foods, the president said at a press conference yesterday that the situation had yet to be realized by many people in the country.

He declared that while there would be no general food shortage, many specific items available now would be lacking later. A current shortage of meats in some areas, he added, was symptomatic of conditions which will produce deficiencies of certain foods in the future.

The president attributed the lack of meat to the fact that the armed services have grown to about 4,000,000 men, with a greater consumption of meat than in normal times; purchase of more and better cuts by people with more money to spend, and arrival of the off-season for beef.

Describing the coming scrap salvage drive as an opportunity for every person to take a personal part in the war effort, the president called upon families to ransack cellars, attics and backyards for old metal, rubber and he urged that waste fats be turned over to meat markets.

The lack of raw materials, Mr. Roosevelt added, is in many ways a seriously limiting factor in war production. The more scrap turned in, he said, the greater the output of planes, tanks and guns.

The president said he still was scrutinizing the inflation problem but was not ready to announce his next step.

Asked the status of a bill congress passed last week to create a separate agency with power to increase production of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol, the president replied:

"The chances are it will get vetoed."

While asserting that he was planning an additional move regarding rubber, the president said he was not ready to disclose what it would be.

American women can reconcile themselves to sketchy hair-do's with the thought that there may be 160,000 more .50 caliber machine guns because we have stopped making hairpins and thus are making 16 million more pounds of steel available for war production.

Urges Caution Against Loss Of Security Cards

It's up to the worker himself to determine whether he is interested sufficiently to assist his government in saving money, time, white paper, and other valuable items used in the issuance of duplicate social security account numbers because it is the worker's fault if he loses or misplaces his number and must ask issuance of a duplicate, according to Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring social security board field office.

"The ever-increasing number of requests for duplicate account numbers is creating a difficult problem," Adams said, "which involves loss in money and manpower, and until the worker makes up his mind that he will be more careful in safeguarding his account number, the situation will remain unchanged."

It was pointed out that very often a worker, when applying for a duplicate account number, fails to specify on the request form that he wants a duplicate instead of an original. "The obtaining of an original number by an individual who already has an account number," explained Adams, "means that individual has established two old-age and survivors insurance accounts—a situation which results in confusion, difficulty, and the possibility that the worker's future benefits under the federal insurance system may be jeopardized."

"A worker needs one social security account number which he should use throughout his working lifetime," Adams continued, "and by all means and under all conditions he should preserve the original number and safeguard it against loss. Such care protects the worker in his future claim for benefits, or his survivors in case of his death, and results in economy in the administration of the program."

Looking 'Em Over

—WITH WACIL M'NAIR—

Since politics have held the spotlight in Texas for the past few days, most Texans will remember a little phrase uttered by Senator O'Daniel in many of his speeches, including the one he made in Big Spring, which went something like this: "When the German people get tired of having thousands of bombs dropped on their backs every night, they are going to call in Hitler and stop the war." Well, that is as it may, right now Jimmy

Sox Advance With A Win Over Indians

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball is generally considered a "form" sport, but sometimes its form assumes the strangest shapes.
The Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals came to grips yesterday in what was expected to be a desperate doubleheader, with the National league champions striving to hold their seven-game lead and the Redbirds making what might be their last challenge.
So what happened? The two titans stumbled around for six hours and split the bill, settling nothing in particular.
Brooklyn won the first game, 7-6. A homer by Johnny Rizzo in the eighth inning decided the outcome.

The Washington Senators made seven errors but stopped the St. Louis Browns 5-4. The Browns, who had won 15 of their previous 18 games, were held to six hits by Alex Carrasquel, but had 14 men left on base.
The Boston Red Sox inflated their second place margin to two full games by beating the Cleveland Indians again 3-1 with all their runs coming on Ulysses Lupien's double with the bases loaded in the second inning.
At Chicago Lefty Ed Smith absorbed his 17th shellacking as the New York Yankees overpowered the White Sox 8-3 with Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Joe Gordon hitting home runs.

At New York the Giants swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 9-4 and 3-0.
In the second game Hal Schumacher pitched three-hit shutout ball to beat the four-hit hurling of Johnny Schmitz and Tot Pressnell.
The Cincinnati Reds took both ends of a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies 8-1 and 5-1. Johnny Vander Meer allowed only two hits in the opener. Ray Starr hurled a five-hitter in the second game to get his 18th victory.
At Boston Johnny Sain, making his first start for the Braves, hurled three-hit shutout ball for eight innings and then let the Pittsburgh Pirates tie the score at three all in the ninth. The Braves won 4-3 when Nanny Fernandez bunted with the bases loaded to squeeze across the deciding run.

Methodists Gain Share Of Title In Softball

With ABC-Lions and WOW taking a night of rest after the 15-inning marathon of Monday night, church league softball was the main attraction Tuesday, as First Methodist trounced East 4th St. Baptist 16 to 2.

The Tuesday victory clinched a first place tie for the Methodists, as they are now two games in front and only two more remain on their schedule. However, both other games are with Nolan Street Baptist, winner of the first half, and are expected to be close. In the only other church league game already played this week First Baptist defeated Nolan Street Baptist, 17-14.

Tonight ABC-Lions and WOW continue their battle for the city league crown into the third game of the playoff series. ABC-Lions won both earlier games, and if they should win tonight the playoff would be concluded.

In case WOW wins tonight's game, the fourth game of the series may be played as the second game of a doubleheader.

Raid May Have Been Made By 600 Planes

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 28. (AP)—Hamburg, Germany's greatest port and most heavily guarded city, was battered last night for the second time in three nights by the RAF with a runous rain of explosives and incendiaries in a raid perhaps again on a 600-plane scale.

The thunder of bombs in the already hard-hit submarine building center drove home air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris' grim promise: "We are going to scourge the third reich from end to end."

The raid, the RAF announced, cost 32 bombers—three more than the number of planes lost in the Sunday night attack which returning pilots compared in destructive force to the 1,000-plane bombing of Bremen last month.

The RAF statement that the Sunday night losses were less than five per cent of the total number of planes indicated 600 raiders participated then, and again last night if losses were on the same scale.

(The attack came only a few hours after the Berlin radio said 99 were known dead in Hamburg after the Sunday night raid and others still were missing in the wreckage.)

(The German high command said 45 raiders were shot down last night in the Hamburg area, and reported additional casualties and damage there.)

Meanwhile, Hurricane fighter bombers patrolling the German-held coast were said to have damaged a 300 to 400-ton steamer and a motor torpedo boat, and probably damaged three other vessels.

CLAIM 45 PLANES
BERLIN, (From German Broadcast), July 28. (AP)—Overnight British air attacks on Hamburg, mainly with incendiary bombs, caused damage to public buildings, heavily hit the railway station, and inflicted casualties on the civilian population, the German high command declared today, but reported 45 of the raiders were shot down.

It was the second raid on Hamburg in three nights.

Single British planes also dropped bombs during the day yesterday on western Germany and north German coastal areas, a communique reported.

German bombers meanwhile attacked airdromes, armament works and railway installations in central and southern England with success last night, the communique added.

Magnolia No. 1 Powell, wildcat deep test eight miles north of Station, drilled ahead Monday evening below 6,730 feet in black shale and lime after coring from 6,645-6,650 feet. The core returned two feet of black shale and lime.

The test is now less than 1,000 feet within its scheduled depth of 7,700 feet. Location is in section 18-35-1N, T4P.

Further to the northwest the Amos G. Carter No. 1 Walter Clear, labor 22, league 253, Kent county school lands, furnished another point of oil interest for Martin county. The test drilled ahead at 4,430 feet in lime and anhydrite.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Townsend and son have returned from Mississippi where they attended funeral services for her mother.

Mrs. Ray Hall returned home Monday from Richmond, California, where she has been visiting her husband. Hall is employed in defense work there.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Cavin of Roscoe were visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Coffman, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Brown and Mrs. C. C. Currie were in Colorado City Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral services for Mrs. Bob McNarry.

Arabic Prince In American Army

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—The Free French lost a prince of a soldier when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

That is true literally as well as figuratively, because Alfred H. M. Shehab, prince of the Arab kingdom of Grand Teban, had planned to join the Free French prior to the Jap assault last December, but volunteered with Uncle Sam when the United States was forced into war. He is enrolled in the officer candidate training school.

His Arabian name is Emir Fuad H. M. Shehab.

For the first time in 20 years, Australia's death rate exceeded 10 in a thousand. The death rate in 1941 was 10.17, against 9.75 in 1940.

Australia's population had increased from 7,068,889 in 1940 to 7,137,221 at the end of 1941.

4 Women Struck By Lightning

BALTIMORE, (AP)—Lightning struck down four women in a night storm and three lived to tell about it.

One was killed when a bolt struck a tree and surged along a wet clothesline as she stood in her yard near Westminster.

Two others suffered shock when a bolt hit an air-raid spotter post near Baltimore. The fourth sustained a possible skull fracture when she was struck while walking along a Baltimore street.

The U. S. has appropriated 145 billions for war since Pearl Harbor, about twice the total for all the other wars in our history.

Allred The Better Qualified Candidate

The selection of a man to represent Texas in the United States senate for the next six years is still yet to be made, and the voters must do it on August 22.

The only proper way to exercise the franchise which is one of the gifts of our democracy is to cast a vote in behalf of the candidate thought to be the best qualified man for the office.

On that basis, The Herald favors the candidacy of Dan Moody in the first democratic primary. Now that Moody is eliminated, The Herald, on the same basis, is happy to endorse and to speak a word for the nomination of James V. Allred, the man more nearly able to serve Texas in Washington in the way Texas wants to be served.

We repeat our viewpoint that the senatorial choice is closely bound with the fate of this entire nation in perilous times. Texas, nearly always ably represented in the national congress, needs its ablest representation now. We need a man who has an understanding of the drastic steps that must be taken to put this nation on an all-out war basis. We need a man—and he doesn't have to be a Roosevelt "yes man"—who will give our administration support on the legislation required to win the war. There is nothing that can cripple our Victory effort more than a divided leadership, and the senators carry a full share of leadership, along with administrative officials.

We need a man who has the background, the stability, the judgment and statesmanship who can help chart a course of permanent and honorable peace. Here, as we see it, is one of the gravest responsibilities that rests upon shoulders of any senator for the next six years.

While you may have differed with some of Allred's practices and policies while he served as attorney general and governor or as he campaigned—and we have differed with him—the pointed, inescapable fact remains that, of the two in the August runoff, he is by far the nearer approach to the calibre of man we want, and deserves, in the honored senate post.

We advocate his candidacy on that argument. We hope the supporters of Moody will join us in this second primary decision. We hope the majority of Texas voters can be persuaded to see the race in the same light.

Manhattan— Mr. Saroyan Is Backing Himself With Own Cash!

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—William Saroyan hasn't been kidding all these years at all. For awhile I thought his boundless faith in the goodness of human nature was a racket of some sort, but I'm darned if I think so any more. The guy means it. He's on the level.

I mean, if you remember his earlier short stories and plays you'll recall that most of the characters he created may have appeared a little on the barmy side, but they all had one great thing in common, to wit: People aren't really bad. Even in a desert some grass will grow. All days can't be dark and dreary.

Mr. Saroyan wrote about sad young women in waterfront dives and about barefoot messenger boys who rode their errands with their heads in the skies. They saw the daisy growing on the banks of the gutter but never the gutter itself.

Few people have believed in themselves so steadfastly as Bill Saroyan. He has said, "I am a great playwright," and meant it. He financed one of his own dramas, which critics variously called beautiful and terrible, and offered to refund any playwright's money at the box office if he didn't like the play.

Now he has announced his plans for this autumn. He will produce his own plays, with his own money (Boy! what faith).

"No actor in any of my plays is going to be paid more than $50 a week," he says, "but—everybody in the cast will share in the profits—if any. If there aren't any profits, I'll go back to work and earn some more money and pay off my debts."

It was "The Time of Your Life," one of Mr. Saroyan's first big time successes, that earned both the Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Circle Award—something no other play has done.

Saroyan's last play was a strange, unbelievable piece of make-believe called "The Beautiful People." This came closer to painting a picture—not of a set of characters or a way of life—but of Saroyan himself, for, as Saroyan believes—people are really beautiful and life is beautiful too. It was this drama that sent the critics reeling out into the night, mumbling strange names and shouting huzzas or gnashing their teeth. It was this drama that advertised your money back if you didn't like it. A few, not many, made their way to the box office and demanded the refund.

For the first opening of the new cycle of Saroyan plays there will be two—presented on the same evening. They will be "Talking to You," a brief thing in three scenes, and "Across the Board on Tomorrow Morning." They hope to ring up the curtain on Monday, August 17.

One of the wits around town has said in criticism of Saroyan that his people are unreal because they never die—and even if they do die they always go to heaven. If William Saroyan had anything to say about it—they would.

Estate Purchased For Cancer Hospital

HOUSTON, July 29. (UP)—The M. D. Anderson Foundation yesterday purchased the six-acre estate of the late Capt. James A. Baker for use as temporary quarters of the Texas State Cancer hospital and research laboratories.

The price paid, Rice Institute, owner of the estate under the Baker will, was $62,500, according to a joint statement issued by Rice and the Foundation trustees.

Use of the property will be donated to the University of Texas as temporary quarters for the cancer hospital and research laboratories until the permanent hospital plant can be built, the trustees announced.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

Chapter 39
Trapped

Joyce Murdock put down the telephone and went to the hall closet. She pulled out her tweed coat and a dark green felt hat that tipped up in the back and down in front. At the mirror she adjusted it, aware now of a feeling of excitement.

She slipped on her coat, went back to the desk, and picked up the rolled photographs. Mannish in cut, the coat had a deep inner pocket and she put the pictures there, buttoning only the lower buttons so as not to crush them. She inspected her handbag, stopped with her hand on the door-knob to see if she had forgotten anything, and went out.

Kent said he would bring the car around for her, and she found it parked between two others. She started for it, opening her handbag and taking out her keys. The doors were locked and she opened the right-hand one and pushed over behind the wheel, rolling down the window as she inserted the ignition key. When she reached over to close the door a man was standing there watching her.

"Oh!" Her voice caught on that startled cry and for an instant her throat stopped. Fear streaked through her and her body froze. She tried to find her voice again and it failed her and there was nothing she could do except stare.

Don Raeburn was standing with one hand on the car door and the other deep in his pocket. His topcoat was buttoned, the collar upturned. His hatbrim was low, and beneath it the swart, sharp-featured face was a paradox with its smiling lips and grim, metallic eyes.

"I have a gun here," he was very polite about it and his voice was as she remembered it, his pronunciation studied and precise. He moved the pocket of his coat so she could see the outline of the muzzle. "Please do not make any noise."

Unfinished Work
Curiously, his voice brought relief to her. She began to breathe again and her heart took up its beating. Warmth returned to her cheeks and only the thin line of her spine remained cold. He was waiting for me, she thought. Down the street or behind one of these cars. And now he's going to get in.

He sat down beside her, one hand on the gun. He closed the door and sat back.

"What do you want?" she asked, ashamed that her voice should sound so weak and inane.

"First," he said, "we will drive away from here, I think. I know you'll be careful."

She started the engine, worked her way out of the parking space, and with the job of driving occupying some of her attention she found it possible to think again.

"How long had you been waiting?"

"Not long. I was trying to decide what to do."

"You're taking rather a long chance, aren't you? With the police looking for you?"

"One has to take chances sometimes."

Joyce turned downtown. The thing to do was talk — and keep him talking—until she knew what he intended to do.

"What do you want with me?" she said.

"You told the police you saw me last night?"

"I was afraid you might."

"You saw me?"

"No, but I knew that you and the Stewart girl were friends. I was afraid you might have been in one of those cars along the street, but I could not wait to find out."

He hesitated, continued slowly. "That is unfortunate. But for you there would be no evidence against me."

Joyce swallowed and tried to keep her voice steady. "Wouldn't it be better for you to try and get away alone?"

"Please!" They were at an intersection and he reached over and turned the wheel. "We have gone far enough in this direction. . . . That is better. . . . It would be easier, perhaps, but my work is not finished."

"Oh," Joyce said, her heart sinking.

"And until it is I must make sure that you do not make it more difficult for me."

Nail Business
When Kent Murdock realized that Joyce had hung up on him a growing uneasiness began to eat away at his thoughts. He put down the telephone and reached for a cigarette, but even after he had lit it, he stood there, his face somber and his eyes dark with doubt.

Ward Allen was running away and Joyce was going over to talk him out of it. What else had she said? And why did she want him there — and Fenner and Hestor? Although he could find no answer for this last, the impression, persisted that there was more to this request of hers than she had indicated.

He started along the hall, his irritation mounting. That there was some connection between her request and the mur-

A 'Beard' Man Is Expert In Movie Makeup And Is Paid Well For It

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Another side of Hollywood:

They call Carl Axelle the "beard man" in Perc Westmore's make-up department at Warner Bros. Not because of his own impressive 3-point Vandyske, but because beards are his specialty.

He can "grow" muttonchops, any shape or form of hair—on an actor's face faster than you can yell "Beaver!" He has a whiskers index including most of the wonderful facial adornments dreamed up by the male ego in years gone by, and today he was drawing on it to beautify a steady procession of characters for "Gentleman Jim," for in James J. Corbett's day in San Francisco the whiskers and hair-dos of the gents were mighty fancy.

Westmore "creates" the hair-dos and beards for the stars but Carl often is entrusted with the job of application. He has bearded Errol Flynn, but not for "Gentleman Jim." As the hero, Flynn won't wear a foolish looking muttonchop, however in keeping one might be.

A make-up artist, once he is "in" enjoys a pleasant side income. Hollywood Union scale for a journeyman make-up artist provides a minimum of $22 a day, or $140 a week time and a half for overtime, double time on Sundays. Our subject today, as a veteran and a specialist, probably does better than minimum, and he rarely has a working day off. Despite the high wage scale, however, there are many make-up artists who work irregularly and have a tough time of it.

Just as an actor is "typed" for roles, Axelle has been "typed" for beards. This cuts him out of decorating the lot's lovelier personalities, but Axelle always has enjoyed working with beards.

It was through beards that he became a make-up man. Swedish-born, he came to America in 1901 and shortly he was an actor. His first show was "The Shepherd King, a Biblical play and a very hairy affair." He made himself up to play two or three different banks.

Nason's eyes were veiled. "I'm afraid I don't follow you."

"Ward Allen was mixed up with the Nazis in Caragua. So was Perry Clarke. You represent the buyers of Mrs. Losado's estate—when she gets it. You do business with Nazis. Could it be that the Nazis want to buy that estate? Or would that be too coincidental?"

Washington Daybook—

Rules On Vacations

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The American Automobile Association officials here are in one of their perennial mid-vacation season dithers.

As if life weren't hard enough already for the AAA, they have been swamped with letters recently. The letters are two variations on a single theme: (1) Our neighbors says we are unpatriotic and are slackers because we plan to take a vacation this summer in our car; (2) Our neighbors are traitors on the home front; they are going to take a vacation in their car.

The AAA went into a huddle with the Office of Defense Transportation. They came out with an answer and, according to the AAA, an ODT approved ten-point program for vacation travel.

The answer is: "Limited use of the automobile for a vacation is not unpatriotic, PROVIDED that pleasure or social driving is curtailed."

Even with talk of automobile confiscation being bandied about all over the capital now, the government recognizes the necessity for vacations; is fully aware of the limitations on other forms of transportation; admits that all communications are NOT afflicted alike nor so situated that vacation grounds are within hiking distance.

The No. 1 point is the answer stated above. No. 2 is that aimless and useless driving of any car consumes rubber and gasoline needlessly and must be avoided for the duration.

3—Vacations, in the home, office and factory, should be planned to involve a minimum use of transportation, whether it's by car, train, bus or air. They should be staggered to extend beyond the normal vacation months and staggered to begin and end in mid-week as well as on weekends.

4—No vacationist should start out without a definite objective. "Roaming" is fun, but the old American habit of "we're just going to start out and go on from there" is not only a violation of wartime civilian ethics but is likely to end up an extremely costly business.

5—Don't take the long hops. It's pretty hard to find a city or a state that doesn't have vacation spots nearby and this is the season to do your vacation shopping at home.

6—Make all plans for accommodations in advance. Those who don't will find themselves sleeping in the park, or at least using up a landing place.

7—All vacationists traveling by car should check their routes to be sure they don't crash into restricted areas and have to detour. Those traveling by rail, plane or bus should be sure their accommodations are available all the way.

8—If your automobile vacations can't be made to fit into the ODT mileage budget plan (100 miles a month for all forms of personal driving other than going to and from work on war projects), figure out something else. That is, if you can cut that budget in half for three months, then plan a 150-mile vacation hop.

9—Even on vacation, never drive more than 40 miles an hour.

10—Apply the share-your-car plan to vacations for the family, relatives and neighbors.

If you obey those ten commandments of wartime vacationing, you can write back "Having a wonderful time," without any fear that you are unpatriotic or sabotaging the conservation effort.

Legion To Select Convention Site

SAN ANTONIO, July 29. (UP)—The executive committee of the American Legion of Texas will meet in Austin Monday to select a site for the state convention August 19 and 20.

Butch Won't Slither That Long Mile

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, (AP) — Residents of Anchorage's B street think nothing any more of a daily procession which includes Wanda Hallstead, a red wagon, a washtub and Butch.

Butch is a hair seal pup, rescued a month ago when Earl Hallstead found him lost from his mother and in danger of starvation. Hallstead turned the seal over to his 10-year-old daughter, who proceeded to raise him like any other pup—except that his diet is all fish.

There is only one rub. Butch has to have a daily swim. He declines to slither from the Hallstead home the mile to Ship creek. Hence the red wagon, the sloshing washtub.

as the common dandelion. The crop requires considerable handwork and is expensive to grow.

The root contains a gummy substance which is converted into rubber. The whole plant is dug at harvest.

In European Russia, where the plant is adapted, it produces up to 2,000 pounds of raw roots per acre, which yield 30 to 60 pounds of rubber. Sugars and other carbohydrates of the roots are used for the production of alcohol and other by-products.

Barbed wire used by Uncle Sam's fighting forces is vastly different from that used on American farms. Army and Marine barbed wire is much heavier and the bars, about three inches in length, are more vicious than ordinary barbed wire.

The Marine Corps pays fifty cents for each twelve yards, or 36 feet of this specially manufactured barbed wire. The Army and Marine Corps needs thousands upon thousands of feet for defensive warfare. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will insure sufficient quantity for their needs. Invest at least ten percent of your wages in War Bonds every pay day.

8,000 Gallons Of Water Missing

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., (AP) — The mystery of 8,000 gallons of water and where it went is still puzzling civil engineers at the Pennsylvania State College.

This miniature flood disappeared suddenly from the cistern tank, 10 feet square and 10 feet high, in the hydraulics laboratory in the basement. Containing 15,000 gallons of water, the tank mysteriously became half-empty one night. There seemed to be no possibility of a leak.

Mother Of Howard County Men Dies Just Short Of Goal Of 100 Years

Grandma Bishop is dead at 99 years—just five months and 11 days short of her cherished goal of 100 years.

Not many people here knew Mrs. Louisa Bishop, mother of two Big Spring men, but many knew of her because of her sons' devotion and efforts to spur her on to longer life. Mrs. Bishop died at her home in Middleton, Tenn. Tuesday afternoon following a critical illness of six days, and neither D. E. Bishop, Big Spring, nor J. A. Bishop, R-Bar could get back to Tennessee in time for the funeral Wednesday at 3 p. m.

In previous illnesses her sons had managed to inspire her to recovery, and J. A. Bishop in particular used a simple formula with remarkable results. He was forever sending his mother clippings about people older than she—and this seemed to have the desired effect. She kept alert to the end.

Her father, Thomas Grantham, who died not many years ago, was born in 1790 when George Washington was president. Born in 1842, she was married when he was 13 (in 1855) before Abraham Lincoln was elected president. Her husband went off for four years service in the Civil War and she somehow managed to provide for the family and bring $900 in gold safely through the war by carrying it around her waist and finally burying it when it got too heavy. Even this did not convince her that it took a disastrous turn on a timber venture, which left her completely broke, to convince him. Mrs. Bishop got him started again by loaning him $5.

Mrs. Bishop lived alone in her little cottage on a knoll outside of Middleton and snuggled to one of her sons, Dr. Pitzer M. Bishop, she kept well by not taking his medicine.

Her daily routine was to arise at 4:30 a. m., try to light the kitchen stove and give up in disgust by starting a crackling fire in the old fireplace. She did her own cooking, kept care of her house and place, and until illness laid Christmas sapped her strength, milked the cow. She ate lightly but loaded her table for visitors.

In her lifetime she saw one movie—it was enough—keenly disliked radios and never tasted a banana because she "didn't like the smell of the things."

Eleven children were born to her and her husband, who died in 1922, and the eight survivors' ages total 570 years. They are Mrs. Susan Sain, 84, of Bolivar, Tenn.; and seven sons, W. A. Bishop, 82; A. T. 76; J. A. 74; John, 70; D. E. 66; P. M. 62; and the baby, C. G. 52. She has 51 grandchildren and so many great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren she lost count. Ten of her grandsons and great-grandsons are now in the army fighting the fifth war in which Mrs. Bishop had seen her country participate.

To her dying day she was unalterably two things—a Baptist and a democrat, the latter "because I know all about the Yankees and I'm still mad at 'em."

Moss Creek Fishing Date Now Aug. 15

In a double-barreled move, city commissioners Tuesday evening shoved back the opening date of Moss Creek lake for public recreational purposes and slashed the fees.

Instead of Aug. 1, the date originally set as an opening deadline for the city lake nearest town, commissioners settled on Aug. 15 (a Saturday) as time for allowing fishermen to wet their hooks in the lake for the first time.

Instead of fees of 50 cents for resident adults, $1.00 or non-resident adults and 25 cents for children, the commission agreed on a flat 25 cents per person charge for every individual, regardless of residence and age, fishing from the lake.

Press of work in installing water and sewer lines to the U. S. Army Flying School had drained the city of every available bit of manpower and thus made it impossible to install adequate sanitary facilities at the lake, a pre-requisite of the opening.

With the level of Powell Creek now down below suction head (if suction is broken), commissioners went into a serious and detailed study of the water situation. It may be that water will have to be drawn from Moss Creek, which possesses much more vegetation and therefore a "branchy" taste. The chief hope still lay in a timely rain shower to replenish the surface reserves and at the same time give surplusage from abnormal rain or shower to replenish the lake, it was hoped by officials that consumption would decline voluntarily until the crisis is passed.

Warns Against Misuse Of Tires

Warnings against misuse of tires were sounded Wednesday by Walter P. Wilson, secretary for the tire ration board, in an address before the Lions club.

The local board is bound by oath to report all gross misuses of motor vehicle tires, and in some cases it has been necessary to send such reports to Washington, he reported. In time, these complaints can and will be used as the basis for denying applications for new casings or re-treads, Wilson reported.

In one case, the board learned that a man got new tires for a pickup truck, immediately switched these to his passenger car and left forthwith on a vacation trip to the west coast. There have been several similar instances of abuse, and action will be taken in time on these, he indicated.

The public is learning and "surely will be aware in about six months from now that we are really in a war," continued Wilson, and this will help the board in its administration of increasingly limited supplies of tires.

Aside from the multiplicity of government regulations which must be followed, the commonsense rule is to "spread these tires where they do the most good" for the war effort, according to the secretary. He touched on details of classification of eligibility and spoke briefly on price controls.

Merchants should get bulletin No. 2 if they do not already have it and abide explicitly by it. He advised that any person has the right to demand to see the store's base inventory of prices, and to get a receipt for any purchase. And as in the case of tire abuses, Wilson asked that citizens cooperate by patriotically reporting price regulation violations.

Homes of night workers in Los Angeles, Calif., and Hartford, Conn., are marked with special flags, in order to insure traffic quiet for daytime sleeping of the "MacArthur Shift" workers.

"Food Will Win The War"—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard

By TOM MADDOX
Wide World Features

CAMDEN, Ind.—Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, not only preaches that "food will win the war"—he helps produce it on his fertile 380-acre Indiana farm. His father, Andrew Jackson Wickard, and his daughter, Ann, a Purdue University sophomore, are running the farm while he devotes himself to leading America's army of the soil in the greatest food production program the world has yet seen.

But the cabinet member man-of-farm near here once in a while, says Wickard, "it's no secret on the

On these occasions he slips into overalls and takes a turn at the chores himself.

Wickard and corn-planting time arrived together at "Fair Acres" this year. He promptly donned a pair of patched overalls, found his worn felt hat on the peg where he had left it, and jumped back in the harness he loves.

He climbed aboard a tractor to plant corn and soy beans—both crops vital to the war program. He fed the hogs. One day he drove his truck to Camden, his official home town, for a load of feed.

The corn and feed were for Wickard's 600 head of Hampshire hogs, from which he'll fill his pork production quota. The soy bean crop, substantially larger this year than in pre-war 1941, will go into plastics for airplanes and war workers' helmets, glues for the navy to use in laminating hulls and decks of mosquito boats, and oils, both edible and for paints.

He found his herd of Angus and shorthorn cattle were fattening nicely. Because repair parts are harder to get, he checked his two tractors and found them in perfect running order. The barns, too, were in tip top shape.

A full afternoon was spent with Daughter Ann in going over the books, so, he explained, "we know where we stand." Together they worked out next year's farm plan, checking off fields that will need ground limestone and planned crop rotation.

Mrs. Wickard, also, kept busy, during the three-day stay. She fed the chickens, baked a few of the secretary's favorite pies and packed a large, home-cured ham to carry back to their Washington home. Betty, the Wickard's other child, a 1940 graduate of Purdue University, also busied herself with light chores.

The corn planting done, the Wickards boarded a train for their 14-hour jaunt back to Washington. The secretary-farmer of "Fair Acres" had acquired a new coat of tan and a few aching muscles, but he felt more fit to resume his task of supervising the nation's food production program.

Said Wickard, "Food, good food and plenty of it is one of the best missionaries for democracy that I know. Let's have plenty of it to spread the gospel when the time comes, and let's tell Europe's millions meanwhile that we're ready to help them out—once they get rid of the Nazis."

Gliding Grows On You, Say Officers Directing Work

Wanna listen in on some interesting talk? Then pull up a seat while we plug in on some of the officers at the U. S. Glider school here.

What about this gliding business anyhow? Didn't like it at first, says Lieut. W. E. Grass, commanding officer of the school. He went from a 600 HP plane to glider training at Twenty-Nine Palms, Calif., and felt like he had been robbed.

But, as he says, "It grows on you, this gliding. You're up there on your own in hunting for thermals—it's either it or you."

And that's what the pioneers in glider training say. They much prefer fighting it up there with the elements than flying around with power. It gets to be an art and the best of a sort of bird instinct. Lieut. Grass' instructor was the national soaring champion, and "he could go up when the rest of us couldn't even get off. Boy, he could just feel it—feel it here."

The gesture is slightly to the rear of the hips. But that sense of feeling is what makes a real glider. Lieut. Clem L. Swagerty, commander of the students, listens with interest. That sounds like lots of action, and Lieut. Swagerty has gone in for activity. During his time at the College of the Pacific, he played under the grand old man, Alonzo Stagg, and helped him with his grid coaching for two years. He was with Stagg when he returned to his old stomping grounds at Chicago university and gave the Windy City team a 31-0 licking.

Yes sir, nobody like Alonzo Stagg. "The pre-gliding training at Big Spring is so good that all of a recent class of graduates solved the gliders almost immediately," says Lieut. Edmond L. Brown, a Big Spring boy who graduated in the first class and who spent several weeks at advanced glider school in Wickenburg, Ariz.

Lt. Brown stopped here Wednesday for a brief visit, and was enjoying his alma mater and renewing old acquaintances. He told of one glider flight in which he stayed aloft for three hours and reached an altitude of 8,000 feet. He estimated that he could easily have traveled 200 miles in any direction on this flight.

Be Careful About Those Marriages, British Girls Told

LONDON, July 29. (AP)—A warning against ill-considered marriages of British girls to American or other foreign soldiers in Britain was issued today by Dr. George Bell, the Bishop of Chichester.

He advised parish priests before accepting marriage notices to obtain written assurance that the prospective bridegroom was unmarried and of sound character.

Plans Mapped For Brotherhood Meet

District leaders for Baptist laymen, together with District Missionary W. C. Harrison of Odessa and other ministers, met Wednesday at the First Baptist church to map plans for the second annual Baptist Brotherhood encampment here in August. The goal is 500 men this year. Last year the opening program drew 200 men from the district. Dr. W. W. Melton, state executive board secretary for the denomination, will be the principal speaker for the occasion.

TAKEN IN CUSTODY
Calvin B. Huit, a runaway from the state school of correction at Gatesville, was taken into custody here Tuesday by city police. Agents from the school arrived Wednesday morning to return the lad, who is a Big Spring boy.

THE WAR TODAY: Caucasus Stalemate Would Hurt Hitler

By De WITT MacKENZIE
Wide World Analyst

We know if Hitler can smash the Russian army and make conquest of the Caucasus and Middle East, during the few remaining weeks of good fighting weather, he will have acquired resources and strategic advantages which will give him a tremendous, and perhaps unconquerable, strength as over-lord of Europe.

That's the prize for which he is said to be prepared to sacrifice a million young Germans. And if you believe—as he does—in trafficking with the devil, then the price isn't too high. What are a million or even ten million youth as compared with an empire comprising all Europe—and maybe far more?

We know, too, that if the Russians can muster the strength to halt the invaders where they now are, we shall have the fuel for the devil on the roaring fork as the devil can hope to get him in the long run.

But what happens if the Nazi leader is only partially successful? Where will he stand, for instance, if he succeeds in cutting Russian proper off from the Caucasus and Middle East, and its lifeline to the Persian Gulf, but fails to secure those resources for himself?

Things might turn out that way. This isn't to say we must abandon hope that the Reds can stop the Nazi rush before it has gone much farther. Still, there's no use blinding ourselves to the fact that the mighty striking power being shown by the Germans may enable them at least to threaten a barrier across the mouth of the Caucasus.

However, it's one thing for Hitler to establish such a barrier, and it's quite another for him to fight his way down the Caucasian isthmus to Aladdin's lamp. Soon the great, level plain of the northern Caucasus will give way to the mighty mountain range which reaches across the Black Sea to the Caspian. There are routes along the coast, but they are narrow and it's hard to believe that the Reds couldn't defend them.

So let's say the Nazi chief has struck a nasty blow at Russia by establishing this barrier but is himself blocked from fresh resources. What then?

Well, viewing the question through the eyes of experts who have analyzed all aspects of the situation, we can say that Hitler's strength will deteriorate vastly that of the Allies increases vastly. This is so because the war already has run two years longer than Hitler expected, and he is getting to the bottom of the huge supplies which he piled up over several years in preparation for war. There is no way of replenishing those supplies unless he can break through to the outside world for them.

Only the other day British-American agricultural experts in London stated that the Germans this winter will face the most serious food situation they have experienced since the war started. The reich and Nazi-controlled Europe will harvest a crop 15 to 20 per cent below normal this year, and the deficit may exceed even that.

The horny hand of hunger rests heavy on the continent. Not only are supplies terribly low, but there has been widespread destruction of the means of replenishing them. Germany is better off than most, because she has plundered the conquered countries, but the lean cows have devoured the fat and the seven years of plenty are gone.

Even worse, from Hitler's standpoint, is his need of oil. He must have that not only for his fighting machines but to keep his war industries going. And other supplies are needed.

Suda Bay On Crete Bombed

CAIRO, July 29. (AP)—Allied heavy bombers attacked the vital axis supply harbor of Suda Bay, Crete, at dusk yesterday while land operations on the El Alamein front were confined to patrol activities in the northern sector, general headquarters announced today.

The communiques reported heavy bombers of the allied air forces took part in the attack on Suda Bay which almost certainly meant United States bombers participated.

United States bombers and the RAF together attacked Tobruk again Monday night.

The port of Matruh also was raided, as were axis repair shops at Gadi, between El Daba and Fuka.

Yesterday long-range fighters and light bombers for the fourth consecutive day operated against coastal barges in the Egyptian-Libyan frontier area, sinking one and probably another. These barges were well-armed but were guarded only by one Italian fighter plane.

The repeated attacks on Suda Bay may be explained by reports from Turkey and elsewhere that the axis constantly is ferrying troops and supplies into Crete for transfer to the Egyptian front.

Here 'n There

Capt. and Mrs. Preston R. Sanders were here visiting friends and relatives Monday. He has been stationed at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., at a hospital at El Paso and now is enroute to New Jersey to assume his duties at Fort Hancock.

Go easy on the water and you can have a home-made air conditioner at little or no expense, says Mrs. L. D. Mundt. By using a piece of wire, a water hose was hung against the top of a window screen and a tiny trickle of water allowed to spread over the screen surface. Result: Air that feels like a breath off the Atlantic. But be stingy with the water, or it might blow on the floors.

War is steadily drawing off the manpower down at the State National bank, which has lost four hands—three to the military and one to defense work. Chester Cahney, recently promoted to the rank of staff sergeant, is stationed somewhere in Hawaii. Wendell Parks and Fred Haller also are in the service and E. C. Bell is in defense work.

Picnic and swimming party was held at the city park Tuesday for altar boys of St. Thomas Catholic church of Big Spring and of the Midland Catholic church. Seven boys from Big Spring attended with the Rev. George Julian and three boys from Midland with the Rev. J. J. O'Connell.

At the rate of "progress" being registered Wednesday, city officials hoped to have the 12-inch steel water line to the U. S. Army Flying school installed no later than Friday. The pump, however, remains to be installed. The army reservoir now has concrete columns poured and is ready for the wooden covering to be placed. A ditcher put into action on the three-mile sewer line made 250 feet of ditch in hour's test run Tuesday.

Types Of Builders Are Described In Revival Sermon

There are two kinds of builders, said the Rev. I. W. Justice, evangelist for the Church of the Nazarene revival now in progress at 4th and Austin streets in his message Tuesday evening.
One builds on unconfessed sins, deceit, and false living while the other builds on the solid bedrock of Christian character. The two may look so much alike that only the tests of life can truly show them in their true colors, said the Rev. Justice, but the day of reckoning will reveal the true and the false. Services continue daily at 9 a. m. and 8:30 p. m.
