Rommel Puts New Forces In Conflict

British Claim Tank Assault On Water Hole Is Smashed

By The Associated Press Marshal Erwin Rommel was reported moving strong axis reinforcements into the bloody 11-day-old battle of North Africa today as the British announced they had smashed an axis tank assault on Bir El Hacheim for the second time in two days.

Bir El Hacheim, a desert water hole, is the southern anchor of a 50-mile British defense line stretched across the hot sands to the British headquarters said British and Indian troops struck from the rear to relieve the Free French and Indian garrison at Bir El Hacheim after the defenders had twice re-jected German demands that they urrender the key stronghold.

Front-line dispatches said Rommel was speeding fresh troops and tanks into the battle around Tobruk in an attempt to relieve pressure on a 9-mile corridor which axis forces had driven into the British main

Attack On Midway Farm Group Starts Conflict

WASHINGTON, June 5. (AP)-American and Japanese fleet units apparently were engaged today in one of the greatest battles of the Pacific as a result of the enemy's attempt yesterday to raid the strongly-garrisoned United States outposts on Midway Island.

Commenting on the communique issued at Pearl Harbor early today by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-inchief of the Pacific fleet, naval experts here emphasized that Nimitz had said "attacks on the enemy are continuing." This seemed to indicate, it was said, that the fight which started at Midway yesterday morning had continued for many hours with both American and enemy units maneuvering for advan-tage in what may be a crucial engagement determining the enemy's ability to strike at more vital points, including Pearl Harbor, the United States west coast, Alaska and even Panama Canal,

The action off Midway involved not only Japanese aircraft car-riers but battleships and heavy cruisers. As great as this force appeared to be, however, there re-mained a possibility that it was engaged in a diversionary operation and that a main force was developing an attack elsewhere.

It was the first time that Japancse battleships have been re-ported east of home waters. There was no immediate indica tion here whether a major portion of the enemy fleet was involved, but observers agreed that the presense of so large a force more than 2,000 miles from Yokohama indicated the Japanese were bent on reducing America's growing offensive power in the Pacific and possibly bringing the war within threatening distance of the west by cut a route over which aerial reinforcements might be moved to the Soviet armies in Siberia.

The Japanese grand strategy was still to be disclosed, and Washing-ton authorities could at best only cite the possibilities based on what has been announced to date.

2. Clear the way for a new and powerful attack on Pearl Harbor, or even the western U. S. coast and Panama, by trying to knock out aerial reconnaissance and in-terception forces which may be pased on Midway and Alaska

3. A new attempt to cut U. S. supply lines into the southwest Pacific by forceful attacks on the guardian islands south of Hawaii, after, the Japanese would hope, having diverted American forces into the north Pacific.

4. A knockout try against the bases from which Japan may be or may have been attacked, in-cluding past and future air raids on the Japanese homeland and submarine operations against Japanese shipping.

The relation of Midway and Dutch Harbor to any projected attacks anywhere on the North American continent arises from the fact that they flank the vast expanse of ocean over which an assaulting fleet would almost certainly move. Planes operating south of Dutch Harbor and north of Midway should be able to keep a fairly good watch over the 1,653-mile stretch of water between those

The U. S. Navel Air Training Station, Corpus Christi, Texas, is now the address of several well-known Texas coaches and sports figures. They have been inducted, with commissions, to give the last word in physical training to the hundreds of flying cadets of the Navy now in training there.

The Navy has arranged a very good program of sports for its trainees there, and "name" coaches of various games will be in charge. In charge of baseball and helping with football will be Lieutenant Marty Karow, late of the Texas Aggies coaching staff. As an assistant to Homer Norton, Karow has been with the Aggies through their recent parade of Southwest Conference championships and post season games.

Serving as a football coach for the Navy is Lieutenant, junior grade, Clyde Lee, formerly head mentor at Kilgore Junior College. where his gridiron elevens all but monopolized the Texas Junior College title. For five straight years they took state honors, winning 85 games out of 105. Last year Lee was one of the top three appli-cants from a list of about 60, which were under consideration for the head coaching post at Hardin-Simmons left vacant when Frank Kimbrough moved to Baylor.

From the baseball world Benjamin B. So Relle — sports fans known him as "Jelly" So Relle has been commissioned a funior lleutenant. So Rèlle was a star pitcher for the Baylor Bears several years ago, and later played for the Dallas Steers in the Texas league. Last season he hurled for the Toledo Mudhens in the American Association, winning 12 games and losing seven. He will assist the Navy in baseball activities.

The Dallas Rebels have played three successive extra-inning games and won only one of them. A double header requiring extra stanzas in each tilt is geldom seen, but that was the case when the Rebs tangled with the San Antonio Missions in the Alamo City Tuesday night. By winning both games by spine-tingling, one run margins, the Missions appear stronger than their present position in the standings indicate.

Paul Dean, the latter half of the St. Louis Cardinal brother pitching act "Me and Paul" of the early thirties, is making a very strong start for the Houston Bufin the Texas league. By setting the Fort Worth Cats down with a 3 to 0 whitewashing last night, he recorded his seventh victory of the season and appeared to be in top form.

There is occasion here for some conclusion-drawing to shed a bit of light on the vagaries of Hollywood and perhaps of actors. Mon-ty's film for Warner Bros. had him in one character, his film for 20th in another. Somewhere in the 15-odd miles between the two 'The Man who Came To Dinner" dropped his crust of meanness, like a worn-out coat, and took on the gentler raiment of "The Pied Piper," an outwardly crusty gentleman with a heart of gold-the sort of heart that leads him to guide a little band of refugee children through the strafing horrors of Nazi conquest in France.

Or to put it in the parlance of the trade, the Woolley "cam-paign" underwent a change to suit the new character. His daily association with bright children like Roddy McDowell and Clare Sandars may have softened the Whiteside heart -but let's cross that one off as highly improbable if not entirely fictional. And there's the one about the actor who lives his roles-but then Monty Woolley is not Paul Muni, so that's out.
