Snow Totals Two Inches On Saturday

Winter has let its presence be known throughout the State of Texas with a massive white blanket laid over everything exposed to the sky.

On Saturday morning, two or more inches of snow covered the ground throughout Bailey County, with an additional 3-5 inches predicted for the day on Saturday, and an additional 2-4 inches in the forecast for Sunday.

At presstime, only two accidents had occurred in Bailey County which were attributed to the road conditions.

DPS Trooper Lacie Kirk investigated an accident in the Needmore area on SH214 and City Officers investigated another accident at the 'Crossroads' with both accidents resulting from the snow packed roads.

National Weather Service issued a winter storm warning for a large area of Texas, extending from the Panhandle to as far south as the hill country. Moist Pacific air has been overrunning an arctic surface air mass, and is expected to add considerable more snow to the accumulation already on the ground.

NWS also posted travelers advisories for most northern and western sections of the state.

Driving was expected to be hazardous throughout the entire western part of Texas, as well as Eastern New Mexico.

Although no roads were closed, NWS issued warnings to discourage driving unless absolutely necessary.

An 80 percent chance for snow was forecast for Saturday, with snow expected to continue through Sunday.

Mullettes Lose In Home Gym

To Hornettes

Last Tuesday night, the Muleshoe Mullettes were downed by the Tulia Hornettes in the Mullettes home gym by a score of 64-38.

Tying for high scoring honors were Mary Norman and Debbie Isaac, each with 12 points; Meischelle Logsdon and Julie Sanders each had four points and Kristi Campbell had two points.

High rebounder was Debbie Isaac with 14, and leading with assists was Leonor Daniel, with four.

According to Duane Lloyd of Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association, the fifth annual "Irrigation and Agricultural Conference" has been set for Monday, January 14, 1985, at the Bailey County Coliseum. This meeting is sponsored each year by the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Bailey County Electric Cooperative Association.

Lloyd said the primary objective of this conference is to reveal any known changes that will affect the farming industry in the near future, as well as to bring any information to the farmer that will help him in making his management decisions for the upcoming year.

He added that the meeting is open to all area farmers, Ag businessmen, financial representatives, power suppliers, and other interested persons.

Registration for the conference will open at 8:30 a.m. The program will begin at 9 a.m. and will end around 2:15 p.m. There will be a free lunch served again this year.

"The program for the conference is a good one," said Lloyd, "and should benefit the dry-land farmer as well as the irrigation farmer. Some of the topics that have been interesting in the past are perennial weed control, surge irrigation, pump care and maintenance, electric rates, load management and many more."

"But the one thing that has concerned the farmer most for the past year is the USDA Farm Program for that year, and Danny Noble, Executive Director of the Bailey County ASCS office, will give a rundown of the 1985 Program at the conference this year."

Gifted Class

Still Need

More Symbols

Time is running out for the gifted and talented class at Mary DeShazo Elementary School to collect enough UPC symbols (the long lines with numbers below them,) from selected items from Proctor and Gamble to obtain a computer for the school.

They advise their drive is lagging, and they still need 'a lot' of UPC symbols in order to have enough by the February 28 deadline to obtain a IBMPCjr Computer.

Either take your UPC symbols to DeShazo Elementary, or call 272-3245 and they will be picked up.

Symbols can be from the following Proctor and Gamble Products:

Bounty Paper Towels; Citrus Hill Orange Juice; Coast Bar Soap; Crest Toothpaste; Encaprin Arthritis Pain Reliever; LUVS Diapers; Prell Concentrate Shampoo; Puffs Facial Tissues; Sure Solid Deodorant; Sure Roll-On Deodorant; Tide Laundry Detergent; Crush Carbonated Beverages; Jif Peanut Butter; Scope Mouthwash; Pert Shampoo and Liquid Prell Shampoo.

Trio Promoted At Local Bank

During Meeting

Directors of First Bank of Muleshoe announced that at their regular board meeting held December 26, 1984, the following promotions were made:

Linda Lutz was elected Assistant Cashier. Mrs. Lutz has been employed at the bank since 1979, after moving to Muleshoe from Stephenville, Tx.

Maxine Donaldson was promoted to Cashier. Mrs. Donaldson has been with the bank since 1968.

Sherry Embry, who has been with the bank since 1974, was promoted to Assistant Vice President.

LOOKING SHARP--Don Paul Spring, left, and Eloy Flores, are two of the Emergency Medical Technicians who are operating the ambulance for West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe. They are shown in the uniforms they started wearing Wednesday morning. They are wearing navy blue matching jackets and pants with a light blue shirt, and emblems designating their EMT status.

SCAC Honors Hospital, Nursing Home Auxiliary

"We're the busiest bunch of little old, grey haired ladies that you ever saw," concluded Clara Lou Jones, president of the West Plains Medical Center Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary. Mrs. Jones had been giving a report of the auxiliary's activities in recent years at WPMC to the Student Community Action Association during a meeting at Leal's Restaurant.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Enrique (Berta) Muyschondt, who is also one of the 27 active members of the WPMC Hospital and Nursing Home Auxiliary, attended the meeting.

Mrs. Jones explained to the group of students, and sponsors how the auxiliary was organized in 1967, and currently have the 27 active members, who put in around 5,000 volunteer hours at the hospital and nursing home each year.

She said they are members of the Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries and is an auxiliary to a 30 bed hospital and 60 bed nursing home.

Fires Keep Department On 'Run'

After enjoying a year of only 100 fire calls in 1984, the Muleshoe Fire Department has started off 1985 with a 'bang.'

For the first ten days of the month, the fire department has had 11 calls, with five being to the same feedlot where most of the reports involved 'burning haystacks.'

Firemen have also responded to a vehicle accident, where the pickup burned; to wash down a service station driveway; a pickup fire on West American Blvd. and a burr pile fire at a cotton gin.

Adult Education Classes Resume After Holidays

Adult Basic Classes have resumed after the Christmas holidays, according to Elizabeth Watson.

She said classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7-9 p.m. in the Watson Junior High School.

The classes are for people who want to study to get their GED (High School Certificate); those who want to learn English; those who want to learn more skills so that they can advance in their jobs.

Three teachers are available to give instruction.

She explained that services to the hospital include having a beverage and magazine cart; Cont. Page 6, Col. 3

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek takes a look at 1985 this week.

Dear editor:

At the start of a new year it's customary to predict what the next twelve months will produce.

This is a difficult task as most of us haven't found out what happened last year. I predict most of us never will.

However, whatever it was, we got through it.

In 1985, I predict that Congress will meet. Any prediction beyond that is foolhardy. I predict that economists will look at the economy and predict, but the economy will do whatever it's going to do, and the economists will be off predicting something else. Few of them will bet their money on their predictions.

I have no prediction on interest rates, although I predict they'll continue to be charged.

I predict that Russia and the United States will meet to discuss arms control, and the results will be as exciting as armswrestling.

I predict the United Nations will vote on grave issues, with as little effect as a resolution by the P-TA.

I predict that the deficit will be whittled on one end and enlarged on the other.

I predict that most predictions, like these, aren't to be relied on.

Despite these off-brand predictions, I don't know of anybody around here who'd swap this country for any other on earth.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Girl Scouts
Taking Orders
For Cookies

"This year Girl Scouts in Caprock Council will experience a new concept in cookie sales," announced Mrs. Nolan Swain, president of Caprock Girl Scout Council. Customers will have the opportunity to place advance orders for the exact varieties and number of boxes they wish to purchase. Order-taking will be January 11 - 20. Girl Scouts will deliver cookies February 22 through March 3.

Chocollage, a chewy chocolate cookie bar, is the newest addition to the Girl Scout line of familiar favorites. Included in the cookie sale are trefoil-shaped Scot-Teas, Hoedowns, Savannahs, Thin Mints and Golden Yangles cheese crackers. All varieties are still $2.00 a box.

All proceeds from the cookie sale remain in the Council to help support seminars, workshops, and other troop and Council-sponsored activities. The funds will enable girls to participate in National Girl Scout events such as the Wider Opportunities program. The funds also help to maintain and develop Camp Rio Blanco near Crosbyton, a resident camp for the 18-county Caprock Girl Scout Council.

Girls participating in the order-taking sale will be eligible for such awards as tote bags, posters and patches. Top sales awards will include camp scholarship toward resident camp fees or Council events. These awards are given to girls who sell 180 boxes of cookies, and 120 boxes, respectively, silver appointments.

Mrs. Swain noted that the most important part of the Girl Scout cookie sale involves the girls themselves. "For most Girl Scouts, the sale is their introduction to the world of business. It is a special opportunity for them to learn how to market and deliver a product, be responsible for money, and plan how to use their troop's share of the proceeds."

"The cookies are made of the finest ingredients," said Mrs. Billy Hall, Cookie Sales Committee. "When ordering Girl Scout cookies, why not order extra boxes to put in the freezer to have on hand year-round."

Featured on each cookie package will be photographs and descriptions of Girl Scout troops participating in the various activities which appeal to their interests. Also on each package is nutrition information.

Again, Hightower says "No" to nuclear dump

(AUSTIN)—"I don't care if the U.S. Department of Energy has narrowed its sites for the proposed high-level nuclear dump to nine square miles or nine square inches. We don't want it anywhere in Texas," State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower says.

The DOE, which earlier designated a 300-square-mile area in Deaf Smith County and a 190-square-mile area in Swisher County as potential storage sites, has unexpectedly narrowed the possible locations to nine square miles in both Panhandle counties, without advising affected landowners.

"DOE can play by the rules, or they can break the rules," Hightower said of the federal agency's continued push to select a site before the site-selection process is finalized. "We at the Texas Department of Agriculture remain committed to keeping the nastiest stuff known to mankind out from underneath some of the most valuable agricultural land, and one of the most precious underground water reservoirs in our state."

"It's our soil, our water, our farms and our people they are risking. The people of the Panhandle have spoken loudly and clearly: They don't want a nuclear dump in their backyard. We'll fight this crazy idea in the Panhandle, in Austin and in Washington—and we'll win."

Reportedly, the other sites still under consideration are in Washington, Nevada, Louisiana, two in Utah and two in Mississippi.

A member of TDA's Natural Resources Division has been in the Panhandle, gathering more information on DOE's two proposed Texas sites and meeting with groups who are opposed to the nuclear dump.

Keeping Crops Profitable: 3 Number three in a series of informational bulletins.

A longer selling season can yield a higher selling price.

Your crop farming profits are set by three factors...

1. Volume produced (yield)
2. Production costs
3. Selling price

Improving profitability requires careful attention to each.

Most crop growers conclude that selling price is the factor they can do the least about. This should not be true.

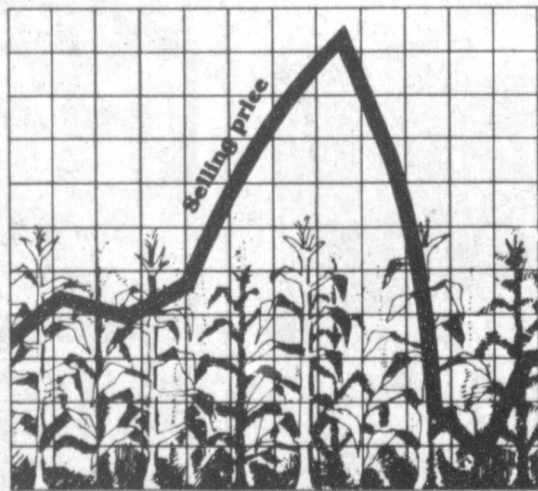

Having a crop marketing strategy is just as important as having a production strategy.

Crop prices, as the graph shows, typically are lowest at the time crops are harvested. And, the records show that two-thirds of the grain sold off the farm is sold in the bottom third of the yearly price range.

Expand Your Selling Season.

The best crop marketing strategy is one that lets you lengthen your selling season. For most crops this can be at least 18 months.

Opportunities to market a crop most profitably occur from the time a crop is planned until the end of the post-harvest storage period. The longer the selling season, the better your chance to realize a higher selling price.

Jan. Feb. Mar. Apr. May June July Aug. Sept. Oct. Nov. Dec.

Establish A Target Selling Price.

A good marketing strategy requires the establishment of a target selling price at the time a crop is planned. This price is easy to establish if you have (1) a yield goal, (2) a profit goal and (3) an accurate estimate of production costs.

For the crops you're planning to grow, establish a target selling price now. You have up to a year and a half to get it sold.

Get more information.

Your Agrico/Crop Care dealer can help you make crop farming more profitable. He is a specialist in developing fertility and crop protection programs for high crop yields. He knows crop production costs and the planning required to guide good marketing decisions. After all, keeping crops profitable is what we're here for.

WHY DOES THIS 4450 COST $6,816 LESS THAN THE LAST ONE WE SOLD?

It's simple. This tractor is equipped to keep initial cost low, but still deliver John Deere efficiency and productivity.

Quad-Range... now the standard transmission for 4050, 4250 and 4450 Tractors equipped with exclusive Caster/Action mechanical front-wheel drive... costs less.

Ordering standard gauges and an analog (dial) tachometer also saves money. Specifying the standard seat suspension system saves still more. And ordering offset cast rear wheels with 6-ply-rated tires on 96-inch axles cuts cost even further. In addition, this tractor was ordered without the popular, but optional, front fenders and dual electric horns.

That's the sum total of differences, but the differences total $6,816... a tidy sum. See us for more details on the right way to order a new 100-hp 4050, 120-hp 4250 or 140-hp 4450. You can still get the best... but for less.

Four-point water conservation plan for Texas announced

(AUSTIN)--Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has proposed a four-point water conservation program for Texas agriculture "that will cost a tiny fraction of previously-proposed water schemes, yet will conserve trillions of gallons of water for our state over the next decade. From the standpoint of Texas' long-term water needs, from the standpoint of Texas agricultural producers, and from the standpoint of our limited state budget, this proposal is better than a water witch.

"The secret is to get more efficient use of Texas' existing water supply," Hightower told the State Legislature's Joint Committee on Water Resources. "As things now stand, agriculture consumes 72 percent of the water used in Texas. Rather than spending hundreds of millions of dollars to develop or import more water for the needs of agriculture, it is far cheaper--and much more practical--to help individual producers squeeze more use out of the water already available to them. If they can get more 'bang' for each drop, it saves them money, and it saves precious water for other uses.

"By making it financially feasible for individual producers to purchase and implement water conservation equipment and practices, we can save--in a single decade--upward of 20 percent of the water now being consumed by agriculture. We're talking about the possibility of saving 650 billion gallons of water every year. At a cost of $8 million to $10 million a year, we can really make a difference in a short time.

"The Water Plan which is submitted to the next session of the Legislature must be flexible enough to deal not only with the problems confronting farmers on the High Plains, but also with livestock producers in Southwest Texas, with non-irrigating farmers in East Texas and with producers in the Rio Grande Valley. Our water shortage is not a regional issue, it's a state-wide concern, and conservation of our existing water resources is the key to finding answers.

"What the Texas Department of Agriculture is releasing is a water proposal that meets the needs of all of Texas agriculture, yet it also meets the demands of urban people and conservationists. It was developed by TDA's Office of Natural Resources after months and months of grassroots consultation with farmers, water conservationists, members of the Legislature, other state agencies and concerned individuals. It's been checked out with Governor White, Lieutenant Governor Hobby, Speaker Iwies and Senator Montford.

"While the state can address problems of urban water use by working with the municipalities and water districts that supply homes and businesses, only 30 percent of agricultural water is obtained through comparable irrigation districts. Generally speaking, there are no central pipelines running to farms and ranches. To really address agricultural water, conservation must involve individual producers.

"Unfortunately, Texas agriculture remains in very serious economic trouble, and few producers can make these conservation investments entirely on their own. Investments in conserving water and land resources are cheaper than developing new supplies. In today's economy, absorbing the entire cost of conservation programs is impossible for those producers who most need the assistance. That is why TDA is proposing a program of state financial incentives and technical assistance: to encourage farmers to invest their own money in conservation and to facilitate the projects we need to save our land and water resources for the future."

Hightower, while not commenting at length on other sections of the White-

Hobby-Lewis proposal, did say that it is important to clarify the language in the bond finance portions of the plan. As it is now written, it is unclear whether water districts which serve irrigators or small rural water corporations would be eligible for financial assistance.
