Former Reporter Publisher David M. Warren Donates $20,000.00 To M. U. School of Journalism

Printed below is a story from the front page of our regional newspaper, relative to David M. Warren, former publisher of The Spearman Reporter, making a donation of $20,000.00 to the Missouri University School of Journalism. Mr. Warren has been a friend of the present publisher, W. J. Miller, almost all of his mature life. He is well known in Hansford County, and liked by hundreds of Reporter subscribers. Here is the story.

COLUMBIA, MO. — University of Missouri officials have announced that a Texas publisher before his death gave $20,000 to be used for the 50th anniversary of the School of Journalism.

Dr. East English, dean of the journalism school, said the money was donated by David M. Warren Sr., with the provision that no publicity be given the gift during his life time. Warren died last January.

Warren attended high school Joplin Mo., and was graduated from the university's journalism school.

Warren ultimately obtained a major interest in a chain of newspapers in Texas and New Mexico, including the Amarillo, Texas, Daily Panhandle. He also founded the news-Herald at Borger, Texas. He served two terms as regent of the University of Texas, and was chairman of two banks at Borger.

In August, M-U begins a year-long celebration of the founding of the journalism school, the oldest in the country.

Important Wheat Referendum Set

COLLEGE STATION — Texas wheat farmers will help make an important decision when they vote June 20 in the national wheat marketing quota referendum, Searcy M. Ferguson, chairman, State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve quotas for the 1959 crop, Ferguson explained, the 1959 wheat program will include acreage allotments, marketing quotas (with penalties on "excess" wheat) and price supports at a minimum national average of $1.81 per bushel, or 75 per cent of parity.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, there will be no marketing quotas or penalties, but allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support. The price-support rate would be about $1.20 per bushel, or 50 per cent of parity, as provided by law.

Chairman Ferguson pointed out that wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments operate only in commercial wheat states — those with allotments of more than 25,000 acres. Texas has an allotment of 4,099,094 acres for the 1959 wheat crop.

Growers eligible to vote in the referendum are those who will be affected by the wheat quotas if they become effective. This, farmers who will have 15 acres or less of wheat for harvest as grain in 1959 and those who are taking part in the 1958 feed wheat program are not eligible to cast ballots in the 1959 wheat quota referendum on June 20.

CONVERTING MORE PEOPLE TO CHEVY!

This superbly fashioned Impala Convertible is making new friends for CHEVROLET faster than you can say TURBO-THRUST V8. Here's the car that puts you in a top-down, fun-hearted, go-places mood. And you couldn't go places in greater comfort or finer style!*

Once you've been infected by the sheer fun of driving this Impala Convertible, no other car can quite take its place. For here's a car made for people who enjoy zestful living. Whisking along with the top down holds that same extra something as cooking food in the open, dancing under the stars or just relaxing in a lawn chair—with only a cloud or two and the sweet smell of summer between you and the sky. It's not simply that this car is a convertible—for it is in truth much more than that. It is, for example, the only honest-to-goodness new car in its field—styled with Chevrolet's unique gull-wing grace. And it's the only one that offers the extra rigidity of Chevy's Safety-Girdle frame and the sports car response of the new Turbo-Thrust V8. Stop by your dealer's and see how nicely Chevrolet goes with summer. *Optional at extra cost

The only all-new car in the low-price field.

Guest Article
Do We Really Need Churches?

Many years ago Eastern newspapers carried advertisements inviting people to settle in a newly-founded middle-western town where churches were prohibited. It seemed that the town would prosper. The residents were relieved not to be plagued by church bells and pestered by long-faced religionists. This spiritual rebellion grew out of the atmosphere which existed in some sections of our nation in early days. Laws were passed which required citizens to attend church services, to have their babies christened, and to pay taxes to support the state-established church.

Baptist take a position between the two extremes of enforced religious activity on the one hand and churchless irreligion on the other. They believe that every community needs churches, that every individual needs to join a church and work for God through it. They believe as firmly that people should not be forced into church membership.

Into the churchless western town poured saloon-keepers, gamblers, and criminals of all kinds. Crime and disease and debauchery and violence spread like wildfire. As families began to move away, in terror of their lives, the leaders realized that the town needed a church. They sent out a call for help to organize one, and so saved the town.

Churches have the practical value of helping maintain decency and order in the community. But the main function of churches is far more vital. For one thing churches offer a way of helping make God known throughout the world. Christ was speaking to church members when he said, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me . . . unto the uttermost" (Acts 1:8). The church is God's evangelistic arm. Moreover, the church exists to provide means of nature and growth for Christians. This it does through worship, through Bible study, and through the administration of the ordinances of baptism and the Lord's Supper. The Church is God's own fellowship on earth.

Baptist believe that churches are spiritual institutions with a spiritual mission to show man the way to get rid of sin and to find peace with God through personal faith in Jesus Christ. First Baptist Church, 123 South Bernice, offers a well rounded ministry for all ages. A nursery is provided for babies while you worship. We extend a warm welcome to you to study, train, and to worship with us.
