Pat McGuire Hurt In Wreck Sunday
Billy Pat McGuire was seriously hurt in a wreck occurring between Waka and Fransworth. They were in Moorhouses' green 1956 Chevrolet. Jim was driving and with him were Billy Pat McGuire, Bill Moorehouse, Danny Jackson, and Hal Sampson. The boys were on a dirt road off the highway south of Fransworth and came upon the highway before they knew it. The car ran into the culvert knocking the end off it and turned the car over once. A preacher from Cactus, Brother Allen, brought Billy Pat into Spearman to the hospital. Jim Moorehouse accompanied Pat. Dr. Glenn Blaisdell said Pat had a slipped vertebra and suggested they take him to Amarillo. They left here about 3:00 Sunday and arrived at the North West Hospital in Amarillo about 6:00 P. M. It took the doctors at North West about one and one half hours to put the slipped vertebra back into place. Billy Pat was paralyzed for 4 and one half hours. His father says Billy Pat is doing just fine now but they don't know when he will be released from the hospital.

THIS AND THAT
Maize harvest does not seem to be very big at this end of the county. But what there is, is fine looking maize. J. C. Harris started early, and Floyd Turner is all through, but most of it is still green. Fred Womble has made several stalks, but still not ready. Right now the wheat farmers could use some rain, but the maize boys would like to wait.

The Gruver Motor Company are having their annual clean-up campaign. You can always tell when it is time for a new car to make its appearance. They clean and polish, and haul off until everything is spic and span. Then they unveil the new Chevy.

Since our last report the Fire Dept. has been busy. There was the big fire, when four hundred bales of hay belonging to Alvin Beasley caught fire. It was a long hard fight, but was finally out. Then there were two grass fires, and false alarm.

Lieut. Robert Fletcher left last Friday for San Francisco by air. From there he has gone on to Okinawa. We are glad he missed Formosa, but he's still a long way from home.

We understand that Larry Lowery, who is stationed in Korea has been in the hospital over there.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Winder were here for several days from their home in El Paso. They stayed with Mrs. Winder's mother, Mrs. Mary Fletcher. They visited with Bob and his family. We are sorry to say that Cecil is not at all well. Mr. and Mrs. Mae Mc Clure have also been visiting Mrs. Fletcher from their home in Norman, Okla. Mrs. Winder, Mrs. Mc Clure, and Gay Fletcher are brother and sisters.

Don't Name It
One of the nicest and most enjoyable social affairs this writer ever attended was the Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hix Wilbanks. We had a chance to visit with friends we had not seen for many years. Truly the Wilbanks are an outstanding family. We met either three or four of Mrs. Wilbanks sisters and one brother, who came to the celebration from Hollywood, California.

By request of the family we are not requiring the report of this 50th wedding anniversary until next week, so we will be able to print some pictures along with the report.

For the first time in almost 30 years the country editor attended a PTA meeting Monday night. We have our grandchild Stevie Hicks to thank for this most pleasant and entertaining evening. He felt sure that if I attended Mrs. Clark's first grade room would win the attendance prize. We lost that prize, but both grandson and grand-dad had a wonderful time. It seems remarkable to me how these kids such as Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Buzzard and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McClellan and Mrs. and Mrs. Jimmie Shieldknight have proved that there is plenty of progress and advancement in our day and age. If I remember right, the last time I attended a PTA meeting there was about a dozen old mess backs that acted like the world would come to an end if anyone dared smile. WELL it was different last Monday night. There must have been more than a hundred parents present for the business meeting and the excellent talk. The children went to the study hall for a movie and had a wonderful time. Our hats are off to the younger generation—of course there are a few of us older folk—but it is the planning and the working of the younger generation that makes PTA interesting and entertaining.

Ivan Cersena, the speaker for the Monday night program has been a prisoner of the Russians, and has been a citizen of the nations. He is a technical official at the carbon plant at Berger and makes these PTA talks some 15 or 20 times a year. His enlightening talk on the Russian educational system reveals the fact that the Russians are slave drivers in their schools the same as in their industries. The speaker gave the Russians credit for learning a great deal, but indicated they did not balance up this success with a well rounded development of personality.

I never wanted to vote for anyone more than I would like to vote for Roy Whitteburg. He is everything I like in a man and he shone like a lot of Democratic ideas to be running on a darn Republican ticket. ROY I figure you are as right as can be about state rights, and when you run for an office on the Democratic ticket I aim to vote twice for you—but I ain't never voted for you—but if any of my friend ain't so narrow minded, you have my blessing to vote for Roy. You did burn down the votes you wasted on Ike. Ike is like Roy, he's a Democrat at heart, but when he got tangled up with the big Brass of the G. O. P. he was hamstrung and didn't do the South any good whatever.

Card Of Thanks
We wish to take this means of expressing our sincere appreciation for all the expressions of sympathy and kindness extended to us during our bereavement. The family of Claud Sheets.

Washington News Letter From Your Congressman Walter Rogers

HOW DANGEROUS IS AN ATOM BOMB?

The Soviet Union has the capability of attacking any target within the United States with nuclear weapons. Initial attacks will probably include sufficient nuclear weapons to hit all of our critical target areas, and less heavy raids will follow. Any of our cities can be substantially destroyed by one explosion from a bomb or missile. The enemy will probably aim its attack at the day-time centers of population within each city. Any city attacked will need a substantial amount of outside aid in most emergency. A warning time of only one hour is expected in case of an attack from bombers. In event of an attack by missiles the warning time will be reduced to only a fraction of an hour.

Studies on civil defense in the United States have identified 52 critical target areas with a population of 68 million people. Our air defense officials have described 170 standard metropolitan areas, each with a population of 50,000 or more. These areas contain 55 per cent of the industry of this country. An attack on the most important 50 of these 170 metropolitan areas would bring under fire 50 per cent of the population, 50 per cent of the key facilities, and 60 per cent of the industry of the United States.

The magnitude of such a catastrophe is obvious. For example, a single megaton bomb - a weapon of only one half the explosive power detonated by the United States at Eniwetok in 1954 - exploded over the middle of New York City would include in its three mile radius of total destruction a day-time working population of at least four million. Within this three mile radius all buildings would be totally destroyed and an expected mortality rate of 75 per cent would produce three million deaths. The remainder would be so severely injured that they could survive only if hospitalized immediately, a doubtful contingency when we consider the disruption and devastation surely to result from the blast.

Furthermore, within an additional seven mile radius of the explosion all buildings would be heavily damaged, and the most conservative estimates indicate at least 40 per cent of the remainder injured to varying degrees of severity. In New York City - there would be 900,000 additional dead and at least 600,000 injured.

A successful attack on the 50 most important urban centers in this country, containing 50 per cent of the population of the United States, would cause 15 to 20 million dead and 30 to 35 million injured. Such a casualty would produce unsurpassable medical problems. Under normal conditions a hospital requires five persons to care for one patient. But most hospitals and most doctors will be within the target area and will therefore suffer the same damage and casualties as the rest of the population. Essential life-giving blood transfusions for millions of casualties will be out of the question. The medical situation is further complicated by the almost certain disappearance of survivors open to a whole range of epidemic diseases caused by the destruction of water purifying apparatus, the breakdown of water disposal systems, and the spoilage of food from lack of refrigeration.

A city without electricity, with out fuel, without a pure water supply, without telephone exchange, without hospitals, without an effective government and police force, without a coordinate system of exchange of goods and services, without the operation of trained technical and managerial staff, such a city is not a city at all. It is only a rubble of concrete and steel, a jungle in which there is only the slightest chance for survival.

I do not claim the apocalyptic vision to predict the outcome of a nuclear war between the Communist bloc and the free world. Given the refusal of the Soviet Union to agree to an effective system for controlling atomic weapons and the determination of the non-Communist world to defend its freedom and independence, we have had no alternative but to arm ourselves with the most powerful weapons at our command. We do this in the hope that war can be prevented and that civilization can somehow continue to balance the two weights of terror on the precipice of survival.

This newsletter is not intended for the purpose of frightening anyone out of their wits. It is for the purpose of furnishing factual information established after very careful calculation. It must be remembered that even though the Soviet Union does have the power first mentioned in this newsletter, the United States has equal power.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

Few people realize the terrible toll being exacted by traffic accidents in this country. Last year 38,339 human lives were lost because of traffic accidents. During the first 6 months of 1958, 18,240 people had given up their lives to the highways and roads. This pace for 1958 did reduce the total casualties for the year by some seven percent. However, the chances are that the annual number of fatalities will not be measurably reduced below 1957. One of the high traffic death months is yet to come. It is December. Unless the people become more alert and more vigorous in their efforts to avoid further fatalities, the number of traffic deaths for 1958 would very well increase over 57 to 60,000.

Last year $55,000,000 was lost in wages by person killed or injured in traffic accidents. Medical expenses of $150,000,000 were incurred. Eighteen million drivers were involved in 10,200,000 accidents.

Automotive traffic killed more people last year than all communicable diseases put together. What is to be done about it?

This is a question that has plagued every community, every state, and the federal government and it will continue to plague them unless some answer is found. It is true that percentage-wise the deaths and injuries have been reduced. That is, our population has been increasing and we also have more motor vehicles on the highways; yet there has not been a corresponding increase in the number of deaths. However, regardless of the number of automobiles on the highways and the number of people in this country, it is inexcusable that approximately 40,000 lives must be snuffed out each year in this manner.

The federal government has not taken any active steps concerning this problem because it was considered to be a matter solely within the jurisdiction of the states. And, it can be said that this was at least one facet of states' rights which the federal government had been willing to leave to the states. But the traffic toll continued to increase, and the federal government decided to try to be of assistance in solving it. The Congress created a Subcommittee on Traffic Safety to look into the problem. This was done in an effort to uncover some means by which the overall problem could be attacked effectively. We found, among other things, that there was a great deal of confusion with relation to the different laws, rules and regulations prevailing in the several states, as well as within the several communities within the states. Realizing that the matter rests primarily within the jurisdiction of the states because most of the traffic is intrastate, we did not make any effort to pass federal legislation to supersede and override the laws of the several states. The Congress did pass a law authorizing interstate compacts to be entered into, hoping that this would provide a means by which the states could work together toward a degree of uniformity in the laws, rules and regulations. This would serve measurably in helping to curtail accidents. I sincerely hope that the states will take some affirmative action under this compact authority. I have always been a strong advocate of states' rights, but I do realize that unless effective action is taken by the states, there will be a great clamor for the federal government to move in and adopt traffic legislation on interstate highways that would constitute a further encroachment on states' rights. Once this is done, it can be that further centralization of power concerning vehicles will follow. I have reference to title certificates, registrations, driver's licenses, etc.

The cause of eighty percent of the fatal accidents is being charged to the operators of the vehicles and only twenty percent to the weather, etc. The federal government already has the power to make certain requirements concerning standards to be met relative to vehicles being transported in interstate commerce but, being confronted with the figures indicating that defects in the vehicles themselves constitute only a small percentage of the cause of accidents, it would probably be assumed that safety legislation as to the vehicle itself would not be much aid in the solution of the problem. The point is that if the operator is responsible for eighty percent of the accidents, something must be done to effectively deal with that part of the cause. Some do not believe that eighty percent of the accidents are the result of the operator's fault, but that argument is really beside the point. What is needed is some action to halt the march of the Grim Reaper. Unless the states do take some action to provide uniformity in the operation of these vehicles, it can be expected that the people other instances. They will come to will do as they have done several Washington and demand that the federal government take over. It is for that reason I hope the states will act without delay.

Beef Cattle Like Their Shade

Research work in California indicated that additional gains may be obtained by the use of shade, reports U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman at the University of California. He points out that the shade certainly has some effect on the temperature of the animal. For best results, shade should be 16 to 20 feet wide, 10 feet high and whatever is necessary to provide for the number of animals to use it. The shade should be placed so that the head is usually required to be in the shade.

He also advises running shades north and south of sun will cover the entire area at least part of the day. The desired sanitary condition is desired over an east-west even though it allows some radiation.

Shade over water tanks will reduce the water temperature by three degrees F. The shade should run east and west and should be large enough to permit the stand near the tank for shade.

Thompson encourages others who do not have shade to consider building portable brush arbors. These may be on logs or other material and moved from place to place.

In 1957, makers of shade parts and accessories earned their advertising in progress by 141 per cent over the previous year.

Roughage Feeding Will Cut Dairy Costs

Increased milk profits may be received by feeding dairy cows all the good roughage they will eat, says A. M. Meekma, extension dairy husbandman.

Former H. D. Agent Is Honored

Mrs. Vivian Liner, (formerly Miss Vivian Vance, H. D. Agent for Hansford County), now Gaines County H. D. Agent since 1949 is one of four Texans selected to receive the 1958 Distinguished Service Award of the National H. D. Agents' Association. Presentation of the award will climax the activities of the Association's national meeting November 2-6 at Chicago, Illinois.

These honorary awards are made each year to home demonstration agents from the various states who have rendered outstanding service to the people with whom they work for period of 10 years or more.

Other Texas Home Demonstration agents named to receive the award are: Mrs. Janie Fletcher, Carson County; Mrs. Lilit Fleischner, Parker county; and Edna Prentice, Liberty county.

An Agricultural Extension Service employee for 13 years, Mrs. Liner served in Hansford county for four years before coming to Gaines county. Previous to that time she taught school in Stinnet and in Panhandle, Texas.

Especially recognized for her ability to combine the artistic with the practical, Mrs. Liner has worked closely with her co-workers, with adult leaders and families to develop programs in Home Demonstration club work and 4-H Club work that are geared to needs and interests of homemakers and families.

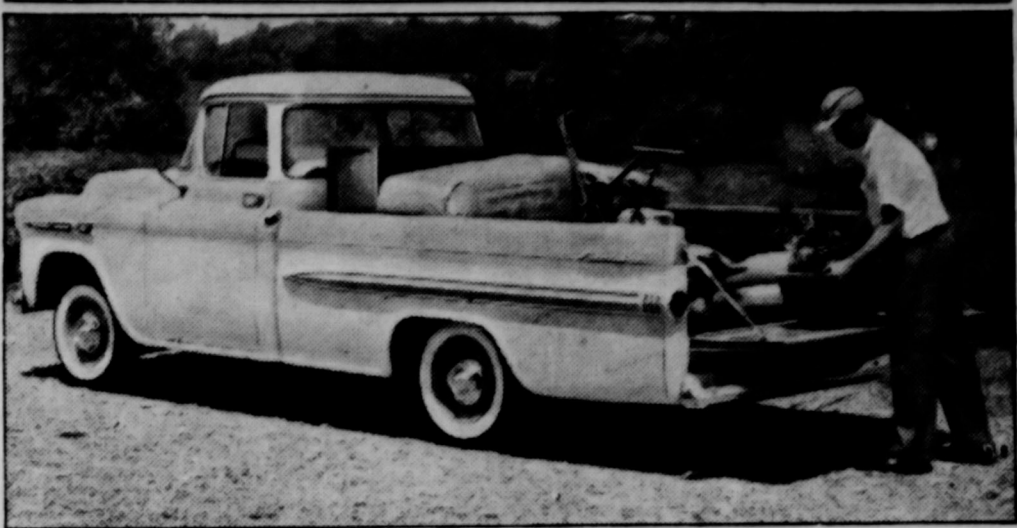

Her record shows outstanding work in the field of home furnishings, homestead improvement and clothing. As the population of Gaines county has become more settled, many new homes have been built in the county. Mrs. Liner, a homemaker herself, has trained leaders in home furnishings and management and given individual help to demonstrators interested in these problems.

Foods and Nutrition programs, clothing work, and family life topic receive year-round attention in the program. She has shown imagination and common sense in adapting information for use by mobile families as well as those who have lived in the county for many years.

Interesting questions related to problems in foods, clothing, family life and home management reach her office every day. To answer these, and reach as many people as possible, she used telephones, radio and newspaper, makes as many visits as possible, trains leaders and gives demonstrations. Along with this she finds time to help with many church activities, county and community civic programs and for on-the-job training and professional improvement.

A member of the Seminole Study Club, the Garden Club, American Legion Auxiliary, Square Dance Recreation Association, Home Economics Association and Home Demonstration Agents' Association, Mrs. Liner leads a busy life. According to her, it's a satisfying, interesting life, with no time for monotony.

THE CHURCH

(Matt. 16: 18)

Jesus at Caesarea Philippi asked his apostles who men said he was. They answered that some said John the Baptist, some Elias and others Jeremias or one of the Prophets. But Jesus was more personal. "Who do you say that I am?" Peter said, "Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God." Jesus told Peter that God had revealed this to him and that he would build his church, (not on Peter) but on the confession that Peter had made that Jesus Christ was the Son of God. The gates of Hell, Jesus said, would not prevail against it, and he would give to Peter the keys of the kingdom, the church. What he would bind on earth would be bound in heaven; and what he would loose on earth would be loosed in heaven. (Matt. 16:13-19.)

Keys are used to open doors. Jesus simply meant that Peter would open the doors to the church, which he did on the day of Pentecost when he preached the sermon recorded in Acts 2:11-40.

Just after Christ's resurrection he appeared to the chosen eleven whom he was soon going to send out on the great commission (Mat. 28:19-20; Mk. 16:15-16). He said to them, "Peace be unto you", and breathed on them and said, "receive ye the Holy Ghost: whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained" (John 20:21). By this he meant that the condition of pardon that would be taught by the apostles, guided by the Holy Spirit, when obeyed, would be the condition of pardon from heaven.

Most religious people today agree that there was just the one church at the beginning of the Christian age. In Jesus prayer for unity he prayed that his followers might be one, even as he and his father were one, that the world might believe that God has sent him (John 17:20-22). Then in I Cor. 1:10-13 Paul shows that division among God's followers is wrong.

If it were our dear Lord's desire that we should be one then, is it not the desire of Christ that true followers of Him should be one today, in faith and in practice? Should we not then be more concerned about finding the true church of Our Lord and striving to bring about unity among all religious people?

It is well for us to keep in mind that when we become members of the church built by our Lord, we become members of his body. In Col. 1:24 Paul said, "Now I rejoice in my suffering for your sake and fill up that which is lacking of the afflictions of Christ for His body's sake which is the church." Paul made a similar statement in Rom. 6:4-5 also similar in Col. 2:12 as well as Gal. 3:27. Now in the New Testament time he did not just pick out certain ones and say you are members of my church, but he laid down certain rules which a person must comply, if he would become a member of the Lord's church. Those rules may be found in your Bible as you read the cases of conversions as recorded in the book of Acts of the Apostles. One thing that was evident in all the preaching was that the gospel was preached and it was the same wherever it was preached. (Cor. 15:1-4). Being the death, burial and resurrection of Christ.

The true church is revealed in the Bible and people may become members of it today in the same way as they did in the New Testament times when it was first established. Surely there can be no objection to a thorough study of the Bible for it contains all that man needs to furnish him into all good works. (II Tim. 3:16-17). Paul said for us to study it II Timothy 2:15.

Highlights In Life Of Author Laura V. Hamner

Laura V. Hamner came to the Panhandle in 1891. She taught in Panhandle schools, she was postmistress of the Claude Post Office, she was the first superintendent of county schools in Potter County, and she organized the first writer's group in this area.

She lived a pioneer life... and she has written of pioneer lives. While she was teaching and acting as postmistress, she was writing. Long before her first book was published, she sold articles and short stories to newspapers and small magazines. And for 20 years before No Gun Man of Texas was published and adopted as a textbook, Miss Hamner collected material from men who were reluctant to talk... and she succeeded, against professional competitors, in getting her completed book accepted by the State. She presented her case to the Board herself... one woman, one author, competing with fifty men, fifty professional representatives from publishing houses. And she won.

After long years of working to support herself and her parents, after long years of hard work in perfecting her writing craft, Laura V. Hamner made her first book a bestseller... with all the school children of Texas... and with everyone interested in Panhandle history and the Panhandle's courageous pioneer settler, the "No Gun Man of Texas", Colonel Charles Goodnight. The book was published in 1935... a fine piece of research... and a fine piece of creative writing.

Even though No Gun Man of Texas was a rousing success... with the critics and at the cash register... Laura V. Hamner continued to work... hard... every day. There were accumulated from the long illnesses that preceded the death of her parents. There were debts incurred during the writing of the book. There were bills from the trips she made in getting the book published and adopted as a textbook. And... Laura V. Hamner, who had always worked, continued to work.

In September of 1938, Miss Hamner began her weekly column in the Globe-News, "Talks To Teens". The columns has a personal quality because Laura V. Hamner shares with her readers her impressions of places and people and poetry. And she calls upon her readers to share their experiences with each other, through her column. Her column may be about a poetry contest for children, or a small-town library which needs books... It may be about spring in Alabama... or a simple walk in an Amarillo park.

Three years after she began writing "Talks To Teens", Laura V. Hamner began her radio talks over KGNC. The first program was called "Light and Hitch" and the date was August 6, 1941. In the 750 plus broadcasts that have followed, she has talked about a fight to save a lovely woman's life during a blizzard in 1912... of town building with tents and dug-outs... of men's efforts to bring law and order into a rambunctious region... Christmas on the IX Ranch... the county seat fights between towns... prairie fires... a picnic in the shade of a fence post on the prairie... auctions... fence building... well-drilling.

Now there was the weekly Globe-News column to write... There was the weekly KGNC talk to write... there were magazine and newspaper articles to write... and now, in the mind of Laura V. Hamner, there was another book to write... the story of the short grass country. So there were more trips to take... more people to interview... more notes to make and check and discard. And finally, there were proofs to read.

In January of 1943, the University of Oklahoma Press published Laura V. Hamner's second book, "Short Grass and Longhorns... tales of grass, cattle, ranches and people of the Panhandle... and, most of all, tales of the 'feel' and 'spirit' of the Panhandle. This book sold out in a matter of months and now a copy often brings $20.00 if a buyer is lucky enough to find one.

Miss Hamner writes, in her Sunday Globe-News column and her weekly KGNC talks... alone about a quarter of a million words a year.

Of her work, it might be said that she has made a whole section of the country conscious of itself.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Graves, of Baker Hotel, had rooms full of company over the weekend. Mr. Graves brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Graves of Oklahoma City; and his sister, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Snow of Port O'Connor, Texas, were here. And their children, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Garys Beckie and Debbie of Manhattan, Kansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Narrel Wilson and Tim of Lubbock.

The tire and tube industry in 1957 increased its investment in newspaper advertising by 39 per cent over the previous year.

Passenger cars in the U. S. invested over 13 per cent more in newspaper advertising in 1957 than in the previous year.

Mary Stringfeller of Logan N. M. visited over the weekend with her mother Mrs. Lula Newcomb

When more than eleven million P.T.A. members open their annual Membership Enrollment month this October, they will be urged to "knock on every door" to find new members interested in advancing the welfare of children.

Some of those doors may open to the oldest dwellings in the Western hemisphere—stone igloo homes in Alaska, scheduled soon to become the nation's 49th state.

Here, as throughout the U.S., the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will seek to add some half-million new "parents, teachers or friends of children" to what is already the nation's largest voluntary service organization.

Mrs. James C. Parker, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the National Congress, cites "the dynamic potential of Alaska, our newest state," as "comparable to the spirit which has enabled Parent-Teacher associations to contribute so much to the welfare of children."

The variety and scope of P.T.A. activities in the 61-year history of the National Congress are reflected today, Mrs. Parker noted, in the everyday life of Alaskans, which ranges in spirit from the quite sophisticated to the "truly frontier."

Alaska's Congress of Parents and Teachers, which became part of the national organization in 1967, today faces problems which can be compared, Mrs. Parker pointed out, with those recorded over the years in tiny American communities or in its largest cities. For it is a land where:

—School youngsters may ride for miles in a dog sled to a crowded, poorly-heated quonset hut, or walk across the street to a modern, several story building.

—Where accountants, school

"Home is the child's first school," explains Mrs. James C. Parker, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, whether it's in Point Barrow, Alaska, or the continental U.S. Here, Chicago school children examine picture of Eskimo family standing under arctic aurora outside their far north home. In proclaiming October as P.T.A. Membership Enrollment month, Mrs. Parker points out that development of P.T.A.'s in Alaska, soon to become the nation's 49th state, parallels the organization's pioneering days in this country.

teachers and government workers regularly make trips "back to the bush" to hunt and fish for food for their families—and store it in modern freezers.

—Where the airplane is the accepted means of travel between cities, but where the number of sled dogs is increasing.

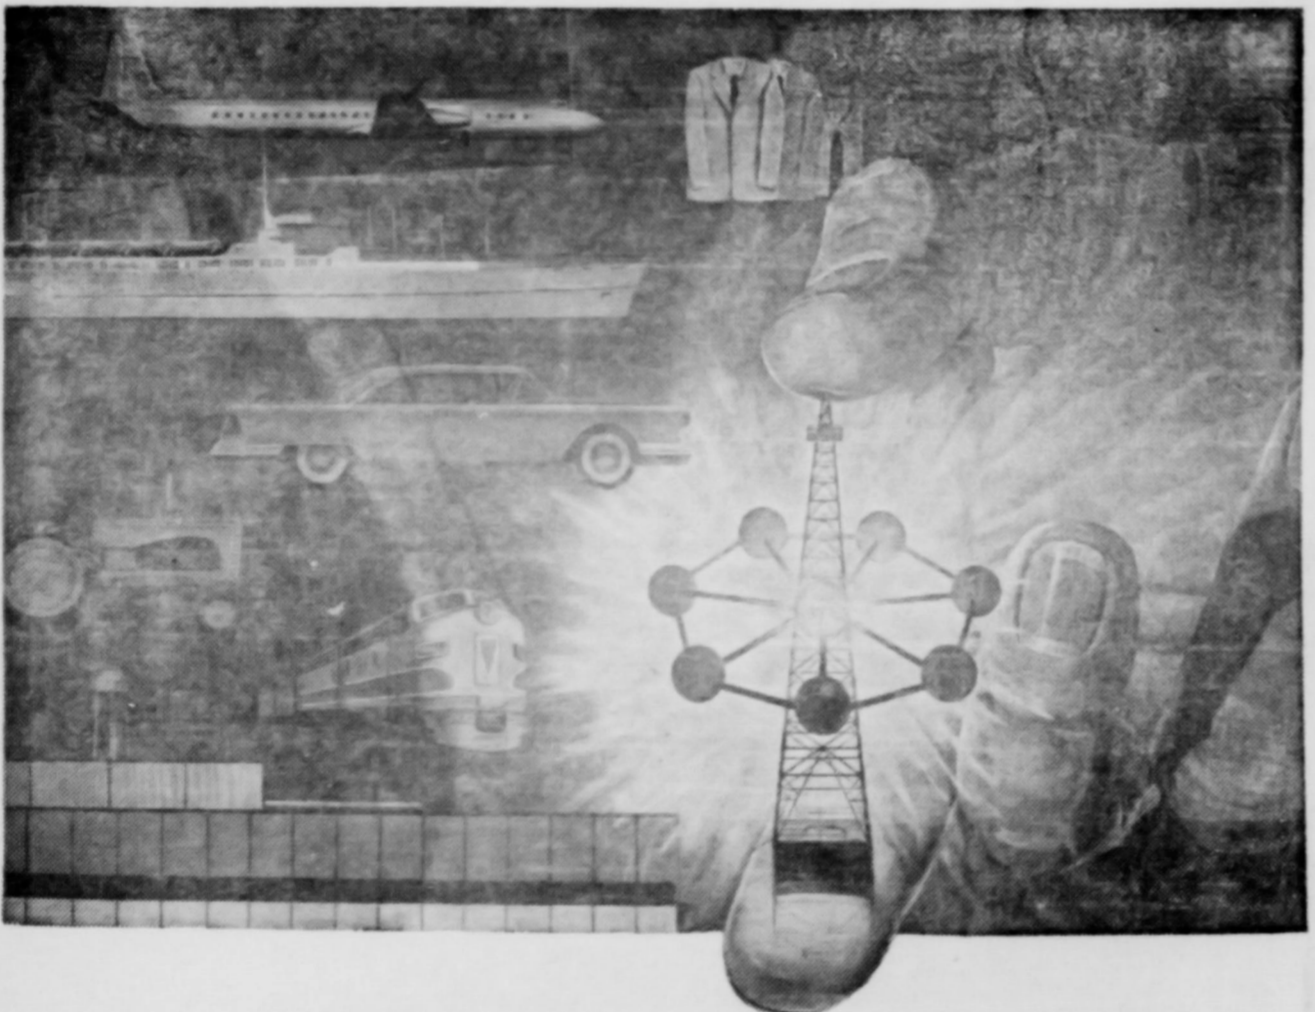

—Where teachers in schools with large Eskimo or Indian populations must teach a second language—English—to many of their charges, while other schools, especially those on U.S. army bases, maintain typically American libraries, theaters and bowling alleys as part of their recreation program.

Aims of the National Congress membership month will apply equally well in this dynamic new state, Mrs. Parker pointed out, as in its member organizations throughout the continental United States, in Hawaii and on American military bases in Europe.

"For the primary purpose of the P.T.A.," she explained, "is to safeguard children, to build for the future in such a way that in every community the lights of home may always shine out."

In designating October as the period for membership enrollment, she called upon "every parent-teacher member to knock once more on the door, and at the heart, of every American, so that all of us, working together, may make America the best possible home for all our children."

PETROLEUM—basic to the needs of our time

Oil and natural gas have powered most of the great technological advances of modern times; petroleum hydrocarbons have transformed the dreams of inventors into the realities of engineers . . . Today, in the United States, oil and natural gas provide about 75% of the country's energy requirements; and large quantities of oil, available for production beyond immediate need, are necessary to the national security.

An obvious example is the gasoline that powers our automobiles; another is the diesel fuel burned by post-war railway engines. But do not overlook electric power plants, the airplane, whether jet or propeller driven, factory power plants, farm mechanization, and the revolution since World War II in home heating devices. Oil provides the energy that moves the trucks, airplanes, ships and tanks of our Armed Forces.

But petroleum as a source of energy is only part of the story. In the past two decades, the petrochemicals have supplied the country with a vigorous new industry: already most of our rubber is made from petrochemicals . . . the ubiquitous plastics derive from petroleum products . . . paraxylene, a petrochemical, is the raw material for one of the most useful of the new fabrics. In this area, wonders never cease; the petrochemicals contribute more each year to the efficiency, comfort, and convenience of modern living.

Thus, oil's progress has made other progress possible all along the front of American industry . . . Petroleum is the American resource that is basic to the needs of our time . . . that is essential to our national security.

The Humble Company, established in 1917, has developed with the industry.

Humble's exploration activities extend from Florida around the rim of the country to California, Oregon and Washington, and beyond to the new State of Alaska . . . The Company is a leader in the production of oil and gas in the United States . . . Humble Pipe Line Company is a public carrier transporting not only Humble's oil but that of many other companies and independent producers to Gulf Coast terminals . . . Baytown refinery is one of the nation's great manufacturing plants . . . And Humble is a marketer in the Southwest, supplying the needs of motorists in modern service stations.

The Humble Company believes strongly in research, maintains two outstanding research facilities, and annually budgets considerable sums for this activity . . . Humble research has made substantial contributions to the discovery, production, and utilization of petroleum.
