RR Commission Denies Rehearing On Gas Cost

Motions of the cities of Spearman and Perryton and gas supplier, High Plains Natural Gas Co., Canadian for rehearing of Railroad Commission decisions on gas-cost flow-throughs have been denied by the regulatory agency.

The Commission refused the motions during the Monday conference on Gas Utilities Division matters. Chairman John H. Poerner and Commissioners James E. (Jim) Nugent and Mack Wallace acted on the recommendation of Hearings Examiner Barry Schneiderwind.

The cities of Spearman and Perryton, in their motion for rehearing, claimed the Commission was without jurisdiction because of judicial appeal to issue an Aug. 28 order in which they purchased gas adjustment flowthrough allowed High Plains and the base gas cost for High Plains was increased. The PGA was raised from 90 to 95 percent and 86 cents per Mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas to 1.04.

High Plains contended in its motion that the Commission erred by not allowing the utility a 100 percent pass through of gas costs and that the Commission erred in failing to provide for recovery of the utility's gas costs which were unrecovered under the 90 percent PGA clause.

According to city manager Lenis Simpson, the city has two lawsuits pending against the gas company. The first is in District court in Travis County. This case is against the proposed 100% pass through by High Plains Natural Gas Co. While this suit was being appealed the Commission approved a 95% pass through by the gas supplier. The other suit is fighting the upcoming winter season transportation cost hike being asked by High Plains. The first suit is going to the Texas Supreme Court.

Simpson stated that the gas rate in the coldest weather last year was $2.12 mcf and he anticipates that it could possibly be $2.20 this season, and that total gas bills will probably increase 7 to 8% overall.

Research News Report

AMARILLO--Greenbugs have the potential of destroying either wheat or sorghum in the Southern Great Plains, under the right conditions. These light green aphids would do a lot more damage if it was not for biological control, by predaceous lady beetles and a small parasitic braconid wasp. According to N.E. Daniels, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Entomologist, greenbugs caused considerable damage during 1968 to sorghum in Texas and most states in the Great Plains.

In order to learn more about biological control, the life cycle of braconid wasps was studied in the laboratory at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland, by Louis Chedester, Research Associate who assists Daniels. This study was part of Chedester's thesis for his masters degree in biology at West Texas State University. Knowing the life cycle of the wasp would enable the researchers to develop a good pest management program for greenbug control.

Parasitized greenbugs were collected and reared in the laboratory at 68 degrees. Adult wasps emerged shortly and allowed to mate at random. The researcher chose eight females, and put each one in a glass petri dish. At the same time a healthy adult greenbug 1/16 inch in length was placed in each dish with a mated female wasp.

Shortly after the two insects were placed together the wasp thrust her ovipositor into the back region of the greenbug and laid an egg inside the body of the aphid. Two days later the egg hatched and the larva began to feed on the body contents of the greenbug. By the third day, the aphids coloration had changed from light green to yellow indicating death had occurred. By the fourth day the wasp larva had grown enough to completely fill the inside of the greenbug's body.

Microscopic examination of dead parasitized greenbugs, called mummies, showed that six days after eggs were laid, larvae transformed into pupae. By this time the mummies had changed from tan to dark brown. By the eighth day, the outline of the adult wasp could be seen through exoskeletons of mummies which had swollen to about twice the size of a nonparasitized greenbug. Adult wasps emerged on the ninth day after eggs were laid.

According to Chedester, this parasite is effective for controlling greenbugs on sorghum when it is 80 degrees during the day. Unfortunately they are not very effective against greenbugs on winter wheat, when it is cold or below 50 degrees. Other studies have shown that a single female wasp can lay 100 eggs a day for 10 days. This enables the wasp population to expand 1000 times in a single life cycle. The Scientist figures if greenbug populations in sorghum do not develop to destructive levels before a nine day life cycle is completed, the braconid wasp can keep greenbug population in sorghum to nondestructive levels.

To Spend Over $1M On Research

AUSTIN--The American Heart Association will spend over $1 million on Texas-based cardiovascular research projects during its 1979-80 fiscal year.

The organization's national component will spend $499,971 on 25 research projects in Texas, while some 50 grants totaling $618,976 have been awarded by the AHA's Texas Affiliate.

The $1,118,967 total is the most ever appropriated by the AHA for research in Texas and represents and a $90,528 increase over last year's total.

Texas institutions with research projects slated to receive AHA funds include: University of Texas Health Science Center, Dallas; Texas Women's University, North Texas State University and Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, Denton and Texas A&M University, College Station.

Others include: University of Houston, Baylor College of Medicine and University of Texas Health Science Center, Houston; University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston; Texas Tech University School of Medicine, Lubbock and University of Texas Health Science Center, San Antonio.

The AHA, a publicly-funded voluntary health agency, financially supports approved research projects related to the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of heart attack, stroke and other forms of cardiovascular disease.

Additional monies are spent for public education, professional education and community service programs.

IT'S A FACT!

Queen Elizabeth I of England was probably one woman who never wailed, "I have nothing to wear." The monarch's wardrobe contained over 2,000 dresses from which she could make her choice.

Americans may find their clothing choices getting smaller, according to the National Cotton Council. The Occupational Safety and Health Administration's rush to regulations--unless halted by the courts--will cost the industry over $2 billion and could well increase consumer prices of fabric and clothing.

ON CONSUMER PRICES

The Carter administration's hope of holding the annual rate of inflation below a double-digit level dimmed in August as consumer prices were driven up once more by surging fuel costs. The Labor Department said consumer prices rose 1.1 percent in August, the eighth consecutive month with an increase near or above 1 percent.

mothers and babies

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS

When a child seems spoiled as a result of too much permissiveness, it may not be because you demand too little but because you are timid, feel guilty about what you ask the child to do, or even unconsciously encourage your child to be a little tyrant.

I certify that the statements made by me above are correct and complete. Faye Lynch, Editor.

Slave driver or not, your baby can enjoy this soft, comfortable romper of cotton, rayon and polyester that can really take him places. Imaginative designs like this for toddlers from Mothercare, retailing specialists for mothers-to-be, babies and children under five, are all machine washable.

A child knows when he is being naughty or rude—even when his parents try to close their eyes to it. He may feel guilty and want to be stopped, but if you do not correct him, he may behave worse and worse. If you gently firm up your discipline, you may be delighted to find that your child becomes not only better behaved but much happier.

Famed Pediatrician To Speak At PPPA Meet

Dr. Lendon H. Smith, known for his frequent appearances on the "Tonight Show", the "Phil Donahue Show", his easy to read books on child care, and his work relating to children's behavior and nutrition will speak in Amarillo on October 18 and 19.

Thursday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Smith will present a light-hearted lecture entitled "You Can't Fool Mother Nature". This presentation will emphasize how evidence is now accumulating to indicate that "we are what we eat". Dr. Smith will take the listener step by step through the neurological and biochemical pathway to odd behavior, allergies, and sickness in general. David Crockett Junior High School Auditorium will be the setting for Dr. Smith's first appearance in Amarillo. Admission to this event will be $1.50 per person.

The 11th Annual Meeting of the Panhandle Planned Parenthood Association will be held at 12:00 Noon on Friday, October 19, at the Hilton Inn Banquet Room. Dr. Smith will deliver the keynote address on the topic, "A Pediatrician Straightens Out The World". From diaper rash to acne, Dr. Smith will lead the audience to new options in dealing with children. Parents are not necessarily inadequate; this overview may allow the listener to laugh just a little more than cry. The cost for the Annual Luncheon will be $6.50 per person.

A pediatrician with 25 years experience, Dr. Lendon Smith has demonstrated a practical down to earth treatment methodology that answers many frustrating questions and helps remove guilt and anxiety. Many parents feel his relaxed, "let's make it fun" attitude allow visits to the doctor to be less traumatic. He has devoted much time to the so-called hyperactive child and has worked extensively with the underprivileged and alienated. He has found that many behavior problems and irritating childhood habits are the result of physiological and chemical imbalances rather than parental or psychological pressures. Dr. Smith's presentations are thought-provoking, but fun-filled: cheerful information is his motto.

Included in Dr. Smith's list of publications is his best seller, "Feed Your Kids Right" which will be on sale at each program.

Dr. Smith's visit is a joint effort of the Panhandle Planned Parenthood Association, the North Plains Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, Region XVI Education Service Center, Amarillo Child Care '76, the Golden Spread Association for the Education of Young Children, and the Junior League of Amarillo.

Invitations are extended to anyone who is interested in attending Dr. Smith's two beneficial and enjoyable commentaries. Reservations can be made by contacting the Panhandle Planned Parenthood Clinic, 604 W. 8th, Amarillo, Texas 79101.

CowBelles give schools a boost

The Calico CowBelles are back in the saddle again and this time they have herds of area students in mind.

The local CowBelle group, which is made up of members from Ochiltree, Lipscomb and Hansford counties, recently gave seven schools in the tri-county area funds to purchase additional supplies of beef for use in their home economics departments.

Each school was given $50 in beef certificates. These certificates are redeemable anywhere in the U.S. and look much like a check. The certificates are in $5 denominations, so a home ec department can spend a little or a lot.

Mrs. Byron Tevis is chairperson of the program.

Schools to be awarded the funds include Perryton, Gruver, Spearman, Booker, Follett, Darrouzett, and Higgins high schools.

Also included in the CowBelle beef education promotion are packets of brochures that tell facts about beef consumption and pricing. Each of the home ec departments received a small bundle of the brochures, which will come in handy in the classroom.

Going hand-in-hand with the CowBelle effort is a special film, provided by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, that deals with the cooking of beef.

The CowBelles are ambassadors of goodwill in the cattle industry. Their message is simple: consume more beef. Frequently members of the organization give talks on beef uses, nutritional aspects, pricing and the like.

"We realize that many economics departments are limited in their purchasing power," said one club member. "We hope the certificates will enable them to buy just that much more beef."

The keenest punishment is to ignore a man who tries to insult you.

That Energy Checked sign in a home assures you of energy efficiency that can help you save on utility bills. Since heating and cooling contribute up to 70% of your utility bill, the Energy Checked Efficiency Home features a central air unit selected for lowest operating costs for the amount of heating and cooling required. Ductwork is insulated, vapor sealed and airtight, to prevent air loss. And since extreme temperatures in attics can make central units work harder, attics are ventilated. If you want to write smaller checks for utility bills, look for the Energy Checked sign the next time you build, buy or remodel.

Wedding Solemnized In Littlefield

In a double ring ceremony Saturday night, Sept. 15, in the First United Methodist Church, Littlefield, Kim Daniel became the bride of Haldon Lynn Messamore with the bride's father, Rev. Wesley N. Daniel, pastor, officiating and assisted by her uncle, Rev. Hugh Daniel of Quanah.

Parents of the couple are Rev. and Mrs. Wesley N.

Daniel of Littlefield, formerly of Spearman and Mr. and Mrs. A.W. "Scrub" Messamore of Sudan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white quiana floor length gown which featured a train, fitted bodice, and a sheer neckline with lace. The sleeves were tapered and featured lace cuffs. The veil was a floor length train with a lace border all the way around. She carried a nosegay of silk flowers, daisies, roses, baby's breath and yellow ribbon.

Something old was the bride's grandmother's locket. Something borrowed was her wedding gown, something new was a pair of earrings and something blue was the traditional blue garter.

Dana Daniel of Lubbock assisted her sister as maid of honor.

Bridal attendants were Debi Bryant of Dallas, sister of the bride, Sally Ocenwald of Abilene and Janet Hadley of Vernon.

The attendants wore floor length yellow quiana dresses that wrapped in front and featured cap sleeves. The gowns were fitted at the waist with a gold belt. They carried three roses with baby's breath, greenery and yellow ribbon.

Dan Messamore of Sudan, brother of the groom, was the best man. Grooms-men were Stanley Miller of Amherst, Kyle Martin of Canyon and Dusty Harmon of Amherst.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Daniel chose a floor length brown gown, belted at the waist. The groom's mother, Mrs. Messamore, wore a floor length rust dress fitted at the waist and featured a slit and three-quartered length sleeves.

The church was decorated with ten groups of three and four candles on the altar rail. A floral arrangement with five candles decorated the altar.

Musical selections were "Beautiful," performed by Kyla Howell, cousin of the groom and "Wedding Song," a duet sung by Kyla Howell and Holly Harmon. Margie Harmon, aunt of the groom, played the organ.

Gaye Woolley, sister of the bride, from Spearman, and Jacquelyn Miller of Amherst, cousin of the groom, registered the guests.

Sitting on the register's table was a flower girl basket that contained an arrangement of silk flowers. The bride had carried the basket in a wedding when she was five years old.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church immediately following the ceremony. Sisters of the bride, Thel Lemons and Beckee Kelp and the groom's cousin, Holly Harmon served.

After a wedding trip to Lake Brownwood, the couple are making their home east of Sudan.

The bride and groom both attended WTSU in Canyon and the groom was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha.

The bride attended Spearman and Littlefield schools.

WASHINGTON--Producers may continue to redeem wheat from the farmer-owned grain reserve at least through Oct. 31, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland announced today.

The Agricultural Marketing Service daily average adjusted prices on Sept. 28 and the mid-month price for wheat reported by the Economics, Statistics, and Cooperatives Service were above the $3.29 per bushel release level. The daily adjusted price on Sept. 27 was $3.72 and the mid-month price was $3.84. Storage earnings stopped for reserve wheat loans on June 30 in all states.

Since wheat was released from the reserve May 16, producers have redeemed 159.7 million bushels, 38.7 percent of the 413.2 million which were then in the reserve.

TU VIDA CONTRA MI VIDA

Los hombres muy hombres que tienen que matarse...

SUNDAY OCTOBER 14 AT 2 P.M.

Hightower Highlights

ALMOST 5,000 MILES OF AUTOMOBILE TRAVEL DURING the congressional recess for the month of August brought me into contact with people in every area of the district. I had hoped to visit in each of the 33 counties, but that task became impossible as the specific demands on my time from place to place took control of the schedule.

I am convinced that such congressional recesses, are very helpful to all the members of Congress. I believe that the conversation on the floor of the House of Representatives now reflects the concerns of the people at home.

The people I talked to are primarily concerned about the effect of inflation on their daily lives. The prices we have to pay for necessities increases the burden on everyone and is a disaster for low and fixed income people. The cost of oil and gas and various other aspects of the energy problem are also of major concern to the people in our district.

ON SEPTEMBER 12 I VOTED FOR LEGISLATION THAT would have provided for a peacetime registration program. Although the legislation was defeated 163-252, I am convinced the need exists. In the event the nation would have to mobilize its manpower resources the Selective Service System, as structured, could not respond rapidly, equitably and efficiently. Registration would identify and locate potential inductees. In so doing it would save 60 days in getting trained personnel into the field. Sixty days could mean the difference in winning and losing a war.

The legislation did not call for a draft. Before a draft could take place Congress would have to vote on a separate draft bill. It would have provided an insurance policy for national security. Like any insurance policy, it must be purchased in advance of the situation in which it is needed.

THUS FAR INTO THE 96TH CONGRESS, THERE HAVE BEEN over 8,200 bills and resolutions dropped into the legislative hopper. The House took over 450 recorded votes prior to the recess—including both roll calls and quorum calls.

Despite all of this activity only 62 pieces of legislation have cleared both houses and been sent to the White House. 61 of these have become law. Obviously, there is a great deal of work left to do. Many pieces of legislation, both good and bad, are in committee where they may never see daylight. Others are waiting to be placed on the agenda so that those who favor or oppose the issue may make their final arguments, and vote.

JUST BEFORE THE RECESS I TESTIFIED AT A HEARING regarding the 1980 census and the effect this will have on the rural areas in our district as well as the rest of the country. The Census Bureau wants to send a long form to every other household in towns or areas having a population of 5,000 and under.

As I testified, it is my belief that with the expertise that we have in this country, the Census Bureau should be able to pick a sampling of communities nationwide to receive the special form, ask for the cooperation of the residents, and get the statistical information they need without such tremendous expense and inconvenience to such a large number of people.

The committee on Post Office and Civil Service has promised further investigation into the possibilities available to us. I will keep a watchful eye on further development and hope that progress will be made in a positive way.

I AM CO-SPONSOR OF HR 2727, WHICH WOULD CHANGE the method of establishing import quotas on beef. This piece of legislation has been tied-up in the Ways and Means committee in the House since March but was finally reported out on July 6. I expect the House will vote on this legislation early this Fall.

LATEST REPORTS AS TABULATED BY THE BUREAU OF CENSUS and researched by the Library of Congress show Texas ranking third in population (behind California and New York), fourth in personal income (Illinois took over third place in this category), fourth in federal tax payments (still behind the other three) and third in federal outlays.

Texas paid 5.74% of the total federal tax burden in the fiscal year that ended on September 30, 1977 and received 5.18% of the federal outlays during that same period. Texas' tax payment was $20,000,963,000. While the Federal outlay was $20,196,087,000—somewhat more than we actually donated to the cause. Military bases on Texas soil contribute to the excess amount, probably more than any other factor.

Our state gets a fair return on our tax dollar, all things considered. Each year we see monies funneled back into our state through grants from the various departments in our government, low cost loans provided through the Small Business Administration to help people rebuild their homes and businesses after a natural disaster. Other assistance is offered through the various farm programs that benefit not only farmers but the general agribusiness community.

BOB DAVIS OF AMARILLO WILL JOIN MY STAFF OCTOBER 1 as a new assistant working in the district and headquartered in Amarillo. Bob succeeds Lee McMurtry who resigned May 31 to accept employment with SOWECO, Inc. and is now living in St. Louis, Missouri.

Bob, who is 44, graduated from Amarillo High School in 1952, then attended Amarillo College prior to graduating from West Texas State University in 1956 with a degree in biology. He has done post-graduate work in psychology and English.

He is married to the former Rose Ann Conty of Amarillo. They have three sons, Kirk, 22; Todd, 21; and Craig, 20. He has served Amarillo civic interests as a member of the board of directors of the Downtown Kiwanis, as a member of the Speaker's Bureau for the United Fund, and as an active member of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Workshop Set On Teaching

Maxine Marshall, director of training, will be at Fampa Monday, Oct. 15, to lead workshops for volunteer children and youth workers such as Sunday School teachers, Scout leaders, 4-H leaders, County Agents, etc.

The training will begin at 7 p.m. For more information and transportation call Sue Woolley, 659-3121.

Study will be on "The Other School System" which consists of twelve 30 minute televised programs on different aspects of teaching in church schools, preschool programs, day care centers, and community service agencies, such as scouting, Y programs, 4-H, etc. The programs are designed for persons who are concerned about the education of children and youth. Chiefly, these are volunteer teachers, group leaders, and parents who have an interest in furthering the moral and spiritual development of the children and youth in their care.

Unlike many other teaching programs, this series recognizes that there are important differences between professional teaching and volunteer teaching. Some of our most important and long-lasting teaching, namely, the moral and ethical values that shape our lives, takes place in volunteer settings and depends heavily on the willingness of volunteer teachers, leaders and parents. Yet, studies reveal that most volunteer teachers receive less than 2 hours of formal instruction per year in how to teach, and many receive none at all. Also, it has been discovered that the closer training is brought to the people, the more people who will take part in the training.

Let Pat Walker help create a new you.

S. Nelson is perhaps one of the more spectacular examples of the stunning results that may be attained through Pat Walker's Figure Perfection Salons International. Read what she has to say about the program that has benefited millions throughout the world over the past 26 years:

"I hated myself fat, and every new year I promised to really get with it and lose; however, it never happened. Finally my doctor advised me, tactfully, to stay out of his office until I decided to lose weight. He just couldn't help me. Out of desperation, not believing, I called for a courtesy treatment at Pat Walker's.

This was the turning point in my life. With a loss of 51 pounds and several inches, I began to enjoy my life with my friends and family, especially my three grandchildren. The Pat Walker program gave me a positive approach to everyday living."

How's your approach to life?

Now the national director for Pat Walker, Ms. Nelson firmly believes the program can upgrade the life outlook of the overweight as surely as it makes them slimmer, trimmer, more confident of their appearance—and themselves.

Rotary

MMW=NR+HE+T was the formula for success Ron DeVoss gave in a film shown by John R. Collard, Jr. to the Spearman Rotary Club Monday noon in the garden room of the Cattleman's Restaurant. The title of the film was "Free Enterprise".

MMW is man's material welfare. NR is natural resources. HE is human energy. T is for tools.

In the world today we are fighting a war of freedom versus slavery. 80 % of the world today is under some form of bondage. We should not let people in poverty bring us down to their level but we should continue to achieve and generously reach out to those less fortunate and work to bring them up to our level.

Two per cent of the people in the USA work the farms and we feed over one-fourth of the world. In socialist countries about fifty percent of the people are on farms and cannot even feed themselves. The Russian Ukraine is the richest grain land in the world but it has become less and less productive under socialized agriculture until we now have to sell them grain to feed their people. We make human energy productive by giving them better tools.

The fundamental principle upon which America has achieved success is to reward people for productivity. Ownerships of the tools determine productivity. When the tools are owned by the state productivity goes down and the tools wear out sooner. When the tools are owned by the individuals, they become more and more productive and the tools are better taken care of and last longer.

When those can and will achieve they can help take care of the hungry of the world, they can share out of their abundance to lift the standards of the world.

When the nation owns the tools it isn't long until they own the people and industry gets less and less productive. There is no incentive to work. Personal freedom is lost and people become slaves to the state. Soon taxation destroys the source of revenue. We are engaged today in a war to keep our American freedoms.

Visitors were Andy Kennedy of Baker, Louisiana; Urie Potter of Pueblo, Colorado; and Alton Ellsworth of Spearman.

Members present were Jim Benson, Eschol Blankenship, J.L. Brock, Roy Bulls, Archie

Burrus, Durane Castleberry, John R. "THE MUPPET MOVIE" OPENS 10-10 AT THE LYRIC THEATRE

The Muppets, the fabled characters created by Jim Henson, will make their motion picture debut in "The Muppet Movie," opening Oct. 10, at the Lyric Theatre.

Presented by Sir Lew Grade and Martin Starger, "The Muppet Movie" tells how Kermit the Frog was lured from his southland swamp to Hollywood by the dream of "making millions of people happy" and how he met the other Muppets along the way.

The comedy with music also recalls the first romantic encounter between Kermit and the divine swine, Miss Piggy.

Produced by Henson and directed by James Frawley, "The Muppet Movie" features virtually all of Henson's characters from the largest (Big Bird, who stands some nine feet tall) to the smallest (Squirmy the Worm). Included are Fozzie Bear, the Great Gonzo, Sweetums, Bunsen Honeydew and Dr. Teeth and the Electric Mayhem. Heading the human cast are Charles Durning as Doc Hopper, a fast-food tycoon who wants Kermit to front for his latest franchise — french fried frogs legs — and Austin Pendleton as Doc's wily assistant, Max. Among the movie's fifteen guest stars are Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy (in their final screen appearance), Milton Berle, Mel Brooks, James Coburn, Dom DeLuise, Elliott Gould, Bob Hope, Madeline Kahn, Carol Kane, Cloris Leachman, Steve Martin, Richard Pryor, Telly Savalas, Orson Welles and Paul Williams.

The Jim Henson Production was written by Jerry Juhl and Jack Burns, with an original musical score by Paul Williams and Kenny Ascher. Martin Starger was executive producer and David Lazer was co-producer. "The Muppet Movie" has been rated "G" by the M. P. A. A.

Wear Goggles For Farm Safety

Everyday farm chores that can result in sudden, blinding accidents can usually be circumvented simply by wearing safety goggles, the Texas Society to Prevent Blindness (TSPB) notes in connection with Farm Safety Week, July 23 through 31.

Working with agricultural chemicals, particularly anhydrous ammonia fertilizers, is dangerous and always necessitates wearing goggles, TSPB Eye Safety chairperson Bobby Williams said.

"Ammonia is so dangerous because it penetrates the eye virtually on contact, and total blindness can result as soon as in 10 to 15 seconds," Williams added.

"In the event such an accident occurs, the eye should be flushed with water for at least 15 minutes," he said, "and then medical help should be sought at once."

Under no circumstances should ointments or salves be used, since they tend to seal ammonia into the eye and might only increase the damage, Williams continued.

Wearing goggles and taking other common sense precautions can also prevent blindness that could be caused by other farm accidents, such as a strand snapping when stretching barbed wire, he said.

To acquaint the public with the dangers in using anhydrous ammonia, TSPB has a 16-minute movie, "For The Rest Of Your Life," which it will loan without charge to interested groups.

The movie and informational pamphlets, including "Blinding Facts About Eye Safety On The Farm," are available by contacting the TXPB at PO Box 13400, Houston, TX 77019, or at 713-526-2559.

TXPB is an affiliate of the National Society To Prevent Blindness. The parent organization, established in 1908, is the oldest voluntary health agency nationally engaged in preventing blindness through service programs, education and research.

While fishing, the AFTMA Sport Fishing Educational Foundation suggests following these safety rules:

- Always fish with a companion.

- When walking on ground near the water, step carefully. Moist tufts of grass often give way or conceal deep holes.

- Use caution when wading in water and don't hop from rock to rock.

- Wear shoes or sneakers to avoid cut feet.

- Carry a first aid kit.

- When fishing from a boat: - Don't overload the boat and take as many life preservers as there are passengers.

- Balance the boat equally with people and gear.

- On large water areas, take a radio for weather reports.

The following precautions should be taken if a thunderstorm approaches: - Take shelter in a car or bus if possible.

- Avoid trees, especially isolated trees, which are liable to attract lightning bolts.

Fishing is a safe and enjoyable sport if these basic safety measures are taken. For information on youth fishing contact: Bob Bluth, AFTMA Sport Fishing Educational Foundation, 2625 Clearbrook Drive, Arlington Heights, IL 60005, phone—312364-4666.

Panhandle Nobility

by Myra Hargrave McIvain

In the late 1870s word spread across England of the fabulous return of 33 to 50 percent on investments in American cattle ranches. The Earl of Aberdeen and The Baron of Tweedmouth established the "Rocking Chair Ranch" in 1883. Courting dreams of a vast English estate and of riding about watching the cattle multiply, the two "cattlemen" bought 235 sections in Collingsworth and Wheeler Counties, 14,745 head of cattle, and 359 ponies. They laid out Aberdeen as headquarters with a ranch house, corrals, and a store.

The Panhandle didn't take to the high-minded notions of the English. West Texans considered themselves equals whether they owned an extensive cattle ranch or only one steer. The English could not rid themselves of their Old World attitudes regarding master and servants. They called cowboys "cow servants" and were promptly labeled the "Nobility Ranch."

John Drew, the manager hired to run the ranch, got along well with the men and knew cattle, but he wasn't "scrupulously honest". Soon, even men who were always fair in cattle dealings began openly rustling from the Rocking Chair, apparently with Drew's knowledge. A general attitude prevailed of "do it to" the highfalutin English. Then, the loss of cattle began appearing in reduced profits. Additionally a feud developed in 1890 between the settlers and squatters of southern Collingsworth County who wanted Pearl City to be the county seat and the Rocking Chair faction which laid out Wellington for that purpose.

By 1891 the herd was so reduced that the entire range had to be searched to produce two carloads of calves for market. The reported 14,000 head proved to number only 300. Ranch owners tried to bring charges against Drew but community anger at the English made it impossible to impel a jury. The ranch was sold in 1895 and all that remains is the name of Wellington and the Rocking Chair Hills in the northern part of Collingsworth County. The Texas Historical Commission has placed an OFFICIAL TEXAS HISTORICAL MARKER for the ranch in a roadside park on US 83 about eight miles north of Wellington.

Field Survey Of Water Wells

An intensive field survey of water wells in the High Plains area will begin in October, conducted by personnel of the Texas Department of Water Resources. Purpose of the survey will be to obtain measurements on the depth to water in the aquifer from land surface, with one measurement for every 10 square miles.

The survey is a part of a multi-state study to evaluate the vast Ogallala Aquifer.

TDWR personnel will work in the field gathering and recording depth-to-water measurements from wells included in a statewide network of observation wells, and will also attempt to obtain additional measurements from wells not in the network. Measurements are made by lowering a steel tape down the well's casing until it is in contact with the water in the well, observing and recording the depth to the water, and retrieving the tape. The process requires only a few minutes and care is taken not to disturb anything in or around the well.

According to a TDWR spokesman, the department has received warm cooperation from the many well owners throughout the High Plains in its effort to document changes in water levels through its annual measurement program in the statewide network of observation wells, and is seeking and confident of receiving the same cooperation from well owners whose wells are not in the network but who will be visited during the coming fall and winter months.

Cooperating in the program are the High Plains Under-ground Water Conservation District No. 1 in Lubbock, the North Plains Ground Water Conservation District No. 2 in Dumas, and the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3 in White Deer. Each district will be responsible for measuring wells in its area.

Counties included in the study area are Andrews, Armstrong, Bailey, Borden, Briscoe, Carson, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dallam, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Dickens, Donley, Ector, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Glasscock, Gray, Hale, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hockley, Howard, Hutchinson, Lamb, Lipscomb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Moore, Motley, Ochiltree, Oldham, Parmer, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman, Swisher, Terry, Wheeler, and Yoakum.

USDA Proposes Tax Change For Conservation Fund

A new law which will help the High Plains of West Texas deal with its decreasing underground water supply in coming years took effect Monday, according to Water, Inc., President Jerome W. Johnson.

The law sets up the procedure for the creation of the Ogallala Water Import Authority of Texas, the legal entity necessary to contract for and distribute imported water throughout the High Plains region, Johnson said.

Although the law went into effect Monday, that does not mean a water district will be created immediately. Under provisions of the law, an import authority can be created with approval of area voters only when a source of water for import is "contractually available."

"This law is important to the High Plains because it establishes a statutory basis for water importation and it helps insure that the people of the High Plains will have local control over their water matters," Johnson said. "Much of the credit for this law must go to the members and directors of Water, Inc., who have worked for more than a decade for this type of law as a means of insuring a prosperous future for the region."

Water is vital to the High Plains economy because of the importance of irrigated agriculture. According to Water, Inc., statistics for 1977, 51 percent of the land planted in cotton, grain sorghum, corn and wheat, the area's four major crops, was irrigated. However, that irrigated acreage produced 69 percent of the value of those four crops.

In addition to the impact on the area economy, irrigated agriculture on the High Plains makes significant contributions to the national and world food markets. Without supplemental water to augment the declining Ogallala aquifer over the long run, those local, national and international contributions are threatened.

When created, the authority would cover all those counties in Texas which overlie the Ogallala aquifer, except for Crosby, Garza, Dickens and Borden counties. In all, more than 40 counties in a region extending from the Oklahoma border in the Panhandle to Midland and Ector counties would be affected. Additional counties could seek annexation into the authority.

"The next step toward the creation of an import authority," Johnson said, "is to secure a source of supplemental water. Since Texas does not have enough water within its borders to meet its projected needs, the water must come from another state."

Already some informal talks with Arkansas officials have been fruitful, Johnson noted. Eventually, an importation project may be regional in scope because Eastern New Mexico and Western Oklahoma face water problems identical to those of neighboring Texas.

"This law reaffirms the seriousness of our water plight and reflects the seriousness of our efforts to do something about it," Johnson said. "The law will be helpful in discussions with other states. While it may be several years before a district can be created, this will let people know that when the time is right, we on the High Plains will be ready."

The import authority bill was passed by the 66th Legislature and signed by Gov. Bill Clements in late May. The statute officially became law Monday, 90 days after it was signed by the governor.

"Much work remains to be done before water importation becomes a reality," Johnson said. "Nonetheless, we are pleased with what has been accomplished up to now and we believe that future developments may come more rapidly because of the solid foundation that has been built with this import authority law."

According to the AMA, beer can make hair easier to set if used in the final rinse.

Texas Oil Production Declines

AUSTIN--Texas Railroad Commissioner James E. (Jim) Nugent says new oil and gas discoveries are not coming close to replacing the amounts of energy being used from Texas reserves. "Because Texas has provided the bulk of domestic production for many years, our supplies and reserves are greatly reduced," Nugent said.

"Since 1973 Texas oil production has declined from 1.25 billion barrels per year to an estimate of less than one billion this year," the Commissioner said. During that same time, natural gas production has slid from 9.3 trillion cubic feet to less than 7 trillion cubic feet, according to figures computed by the Commission. "This is a startling decline which threatens Texas' position as the leading energy state", Nugent added.

Nugent, who recently met with President Carter and other national energy policymakers, believes the nation, and especially Texas, must do more to encourage discovery and development of domestic energy sources. Nugent said he believes alternate energy sources must be developed with all deliberate speed, but he emphasized that "oil and gas will be our primary energy sources for the foreseeable future."

While the Texas Railroad Commission has no jurisdiction over gasoling supplies and prices, the Commissioner assailed the high crude oil prices recently adopted by OPEC countries which supply almost half of our crude oil. "Our dependence on foreign oil endangers our national security, weakens the dollar and makes us a target of international blackmail," Nugent stated. "We must do everything possible to become more self-reliant in energy production."

Nugent, who has served on the Railroad Commission since January, has conducted extensive research on the Texas energy situation, much of which he has been using in recent statewide speaking engagements. He previously served 18 years as a state representative from the Texas Hill Country area, and was speaker pro-tem of the House when appointed to the Railroad Commission.

Texas Forest Fires Lowest In 10 Years

The number of forest fires and the amount of acres burned this year in Texas have been the lowest in more than 10 years. Last year's record was the highest in 10 years.

Fire fighting agencies and organizations would like to think their fire prevention and educational programs were effective—that people are finally listening to the messages of Smokey Bear.

However, reduction of fires this year was not the result of Smokey Bear's public service announcements and posters. Mother Nature deserves most of the credit. All regions of Texas received above average rainfall this year; even the arid regions of West Texas reported record rainfalls. But more importantly, the rains came at the right times.

In the forest region of East Texas, early spring is normally the worst fire season. In March 1978, more than 700 wildfires were controlled by the Texas Forest Service. This year only 55 fires were reported during the same 30-day period.

Why give the credit to the weather and not the people? Data collected by volunteer fire departments and compiled by the Texas Forest Service indicate that the primary causes of wildfire are still the same—debris burning, railroads and smoking. More significantly, the percentage of fires caused by these careless acts are constant. Careless debris burning still causes more than 50 percent of wildfires, whether there were 200 fires or 2,000 fires.

Since 98 percent of all wildfires are caused by human carelessness, Fire Prevention Week, October 8-14, is an appropriate time to repeat fire prevention messages—especially concerning the primary cause.

Debris or trash burning is not illegal in most unincorporated areas, but the repercussions of letting a trash fire escape are traumatic. A burned structure can be rebuilt with a few months, but it takes decades to re-establish trees and forests.

According to the revised Texas Penal Code, a person who lets a trash fire escape onto and cause damage to another person's property can be charged with a misdemeanor with a maximum fine of $200. Property damages also can be sought in civil court.

Most trash fires are unintentional. Many people are not aware of safe burning practices and they burn at the wrong times with too few precautions. Smokey Bear says people just don't use common sense.

Some suggestions from the Texas Forest Service to insure that trash fires don't create wild forest or range fires are:

—Burn only in the morning or the early evening. Usually the humidity is higher and the wind is lower during those times, so conditions are less conducive to a fire gaining momentum if sparks from your trash fire escape.

—Do not burn on dry, windy days, especially in the winter or early spring. These are highest fire danger periods. Many radio and TV stations and newspapers carry an advisory, the "Outdoor Burning Guide," as part of the daily agricultural weather forecast from the National Weather Service. This burning guide was developed by the Texas Forest Service to advise people when it is unsafe to burn trash or do other outdoor burning. If in doubt, check with your local fire department.

—Burn trash in fire-safe containers. Commercial models made from metal are available, but an equally effective container can be constructed with cinder blocks or an old oil drum. The important feature of any fire-safe container is a screened lid to prevent burning pieces of trash from escaping.

—Before burning, clear an area down to bare soil five feet around the container. If burning trash drops out of the container, it won't touch flammable material.

—Place your trash burner at least 50 feet from houses or other buildings. Also, after vegetation dies in the winter, cut all dead grass and remove leaf litter from around houses and outbuildings.

—You can't get rid of everything by burning. Some trash is even dangerous to burn. Do not burn aerosol cans, unknown chemicals or glass containers—they can explode in intense heat.

—When you burn, always stay with your fire until it is out. Have a garden hose handy, or at least a rake or a shovel.

—Last, if you're planning to burn a large pile of trash or brush, let your neighbors know. It saves them a lot of apprehension and possibly, the fire department a false alarm.

If these few suggestions are followed, perhaps the number of wildfires could remain the lowest for another 10 years—without the aid of Mother Nature's protecting rains.

Consumer News

WASHINGTON—October should be an excellent time for consumers to take advantage of heavy supplies of broilers, pork, apples and onions, according to marketing specialists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

During the first two weeks in September, broiler wholesale prices in nine major cities averaged 42 cents a pound, nearly seven cents less than a year earlier and below the point at which many producers break even with expenses.

Pork prices are now at break-even levels for most producers. Production is expected to be at record levels during October.

Consumers will have a wide choice of apple varieties. This year's crop is forecast at slightly bigger than last year's. Production of Red Delicious will be up five percent and will represent about 36 percent of total production. McIntosh and Rome Beauty are the next two leading varieties, production slightly below last year but still ample.

Onions are expected to be plentiful and at reasonable prices.

As of mid-September, the rest of the October supply situation was seen as follows. "Plentiful" means more than enough for requirements. "Adequate" means enough to meet normal needs. "Light" means not enough to meet normal needs.

Beef will be adequate. Production rates are expected to average 10 to 12 percent below year-earlier levels.

Turkey, plentiful. Supplies are expected to be 18 percent above year-earlier levels.

Eggs, plentiful, with output 3 percent above last October.

Milk and dairy products, adequate. Milk production is declining seasonally but is expected to continue above year-earlier levels.

August butter production was 2.4 percent above August, 1978, and American cheese production was 11 percent higher. Nonfat dry milk production in July was lower than a year earlier but much closer to 1978 levels than at the start of this year. Commercial stocks of nonfat dry milk on Aug. 1 were 30 percent above last year.

Fresh apples and fresh grapes, plentiful. Fresh Bartlett pears and winter pears, adequate. Fresh cranberries and fresh oranges, adequate. Fresh grapefruit, light. Fresh lemons, light but supplies should begin to increase. Major canned fruits, applesauce, cling peaches, pears and fruit cocktail, adequate. Canned and frozen citrus juices, adequate. Dried prunes will be adequate.

Potatoes, adequate. Frozen potatoes, plentiful, with stocks 13 percent above year-earlier levels. Onions and sweet potatoes will be plentiful.

Processed vegetables, adequate with some items plentiful. Canned beans, sweet potatoes and tomatoes will be plentiful. Frozen snap beans and sweet corn-on-the-cob will be plentiful. Frozen broccoli and spinach, adequate.

Peanuts will be plentiful and almonds and pecans, adequate.

Rice and dry beans will be plentiful and dry split peas, adequate.

Solution To Gas Problem

FORT WORTH--Gasoline rationing in various areas across the nation last summer was designed to help solve the energy shortage problem. But, in the opinion of Texas Christian University chemist Henry C. Kelly, that very imposition and subsequent discontinuation of gasoline rationing has created a serious problem.

"Through such a course of events there is a serious danger that many Americans will interpret what appears to be the relief of a short-term crisis as the absence of a long-term crisis," noted the inorganic chemist who has held grants from the National Science Foundation and research awards from the Robert A. Welch Foundation.

Convinced that a genuine energy crisis does exist, the chemistry professor believes it will probably be necessary to mobilize the nation to meet and overcome the crisis. "To do this," he said, "the people must have confidence in their local, state and particularly national government and be able to believe what they are told. Only then will they be willing to make sacrifices for the common good. Once deceived, they will be all the harder to convince...hence to mobilize."

Dr. Kelly, whose research studies have been widely published, was among TCU faculty members and students participating in a recent two-day consideration of "Cultural Revolution: Taking The Crisis Out of Energy" sponsored by the University's Honors Program.

"If the 'shortage' of gasoline in the Summer of 1979 was largely contrived in an effort to elevate prices," he said, "then neither the companies responsible for it nor the government that permitted it have done this nation a favor. Rather they have severely damaged their credibility at a time when it is most needed.
