Preacher Saves Newspaper For Young Alabama Editor

It's quite a story. And Jimmy is quite a story, too. At 20 he was one of the youngest weekly publishers in the country. He was also at 23, as head of the Alabama Press association, probably the youngest ever to head a state press group. At 24 he was reported the youngest mayor in America.

When the war came along he volunteered as a private in the air corps and became a B-25 bomber pilot instructor. Democratic executive committee, and a rising figure in Alabama politics.

When I first knew Jimmy we were roommates together back at the boarding house of Mrs. E. E. Tydings in Columbia, Mo. Jimmy had come to the University of Missouri because it had one of the best journalism schools in the land.

But when Jimmy had his education he didn't stay away from home-as so many southern boys did. He came back home to the state of his heart.

He couldn't find a job. He heard the weekly Baldwin County Times was for sale here. His widowed mother mortgaged her home to raise the down payment. But to improve the paper more money had to be borrowed.

"I owed more than $12,000 before I was 21," Jimmy recalled. "The mortgages were falling due, and I had no money to tide me over." It was about this time a preacher drove into town in a battered car to hold a revival. He was tired and his suit had wrinkles. He even looked hungry, and Jimmy invited him over to his house for breakfast.

Some weeks later he received a letter saying:

"I am impressed with what you are trying to do in your town, and it occurred to me you might need some money." Recalling the meager appearance of

American Aid Boosting Morale Of All Italians

ROME - When one sees an old friend also be disclosed, however, that the Italafter a long separation, the plumper or ian government has already informed more haggard cheek, the receding or more auburn hair, fly to the eye. In the same way, when one returns to this enchanting city after fourteen months of absence, the change in atmosphere seems downright astonishing. In November, 1947, before this country could be sure of American aid, the members of the Italian government were talking about as cheerfully (and with good reason) as the Roman Senate must have talked when Alaric was at the gates. But now, the threatened Communist triumph in Italy is no longer possible and problems of foreign relations are the main preoccupation.

The problem of Italy's adherence to the projected Atlantic Pact is of course preeminent. And although this problem is being discussed in an entirely new atmosphere, the effect on the American observer is none the less to emphasize again the vastness of the new world responsibility of the United States. Last year only American aid could forestall internal catastrophe here. And this year admission of Italy into the Atlantic Pact will add another element to a new Mediterranean pattern in which the United States now has the role of a major

Until recently a policy of neutrality was strongly advocated by two highly diverse Italian factions-the Vatican, with its powerful influence on the Italian Right, and the Socialists of the Left, In the last weeks, it can now be disclosed. the views of the Vatican have changed. Nothing, of course, will change the puppet Socialist party of Nenni which is totally controlled by the Communists, But even the Socialists of the Saragat faction still have doubts about the Atlantic Pact which must be resolved at their fourthcoming party conference the State Department, voluntarily and on its own initiative, of its disposition to join the pact if invited to do so.

The conference's outcome is important because Premier de Gasperi is excedingly anxious to retain the Saragat Socialists in his government. If their vote is dverse, Italian adherence to the Atlantic Pact may be somewhat delayed. It can accepted by the Italian government.

At the conference of the Western Union powers in Paris, the British opposed such an invitation to Italy, on the ground that Italy's best contribution to a Western defense would be to remain neutral. French and American strategists argue, on the contrary, that the concept of Italian neutrality is imaginary. Western Union's planned defense of the line of the Rhine will be useless if the back door to France in the south is not secure. And if Italy is left undefended, any aggressor can simply advance down the Po Valley corridor and batter in the French back this view prevails in the present Washington talks about the Atlantic Pact, it may be expected that the fifteen divisions allowed Italy under the peace treaty will receive American arms and that in case of war, the great air base at Foggia will become available for use by our B-29's. This will be only one element, howevet, in the larger Mediterranean pattern already mentioned. Issues of strategy involved in this new pattern were the real cause of the foolish recent be-devilment over the Italian colonies. Very briefly, the desire for a powerful British base in the Eastern Mediterranean caused the British to obstruct the return of Cyrenaica and Tripolitania to Italy, while sheer anti-Italian prejudice seems to have been the source of the project for giving Eritrea to Abyssinia. A far more sensible plan is now in the wind. Britain will retain Cyrenaica and the British will build up their main base there, with ports at Benghazi and Tobruk, supply depots, air fields, etc. The Italians will at least be restored to a major share in control of Tripolitania and Eritrea, but joint basing arrangement may also be made in these colonies under the Atlantic Pact, And this scheme will be somewhat reluctantly

Rise Of Latin Dictators May Add To Troubles Of Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON .- While we are worrying about troubles in Greege, Turkey, Iran and the back door of Europe, trouble is increasing in our own front yard -Latin America.

Foreign Minister Carlos Hevla of Cuba stopped in Washington to warn President Truman about these troubles last week, but couldn't get in to see him. Too much inouguration. However, other Latin-American ambassadors have talked to Truman prior to the inauguration and have received mixed reactions.

The president is worried about the increasing growth of Latin-American militarism, but in the case of Venezuela-which the U.S.A. recognized last week-he explained that we had to get along with the Venezuelan dictors because we had to get Venezuelan oil for Marshall plan shipments to Europe.

Also Mr. Truman showed signs of peeve at his old friend, expresident Gallegos of Venezuela for a statement made when he arrived in exile in Cuba to the effect that the Venezuelan revolt was the United States' fault.

Most Latin diplomats are inelined to agree that hasty U. S. recognition of the Peruvian military dictators did lead to the Venezuelan revolt. Nevertheless. Mr. Truman seemed considerably nettled over Gallegos' remark, even though he and President Gallegos traveled out to Bolivar, Mo., last year to unveil a statue of Simon Bolivar, and got to know each other quite well. At any rate more trouble is brewing in Venezuela, where the military are already at each other's throats. Also the Pan American union is now debating an embarrassing Chilean demand that the Venezuelan dictators release ex-president Bettencourt from jail.

The governor of New Mexico met the senior senator from New Mexico at Secretary of the treasury Snyder's reception the other day. They were polite but not pleased.

Thereby hangs the story of an election reversal as unexpected as anything predicted by Dr. Gal-

The Governor of New Mexico big, popular Tom Mabry, is a Democrat. The senior Senator from New Mexico, dark, bushybrowed Dennis Chavez, is also a Democrat. But they do not love each other.

Reason: Chavez was certain Mabry would not be re-elected governor last November, staked everything that New Mexico would go Republican. Furthermore, Chavez worked out a neat scheme whereby his brother Dave could be appointed to the United States Senate by a Republican governor, Chavez, ill for some time, last fall did not expect to live. And he wanted his brother to take his place in the Undoubtedly, Governor Mabry would have been willing to appoint Dave Chevaz to the Senate, but Dennis Chavez didn't give him a chance. He assumed the Republicans were sure-shot winners, and that a Republican governor Manuel Leian, would be in the saddle to do the appoint-

So Senator Chavez quietly let it be known he was for Lujan with the tacit undersanding that Lujan would appoint his brother Dave to the Senate if Dennis passed away. For a time the senator even gave the impression that he was also for Tom Dewey. Then came the election returns. Governor Mabry fooled Chavez and was re-elected. Obviously he is not now going to ap-

So a lot of people are betting that rather than have Mabry appointed his successor, Dennis Chavez will now fool his doctors. Hotly debated in Senate cloakrooms this week has been the question of whether the Senate small business committee shall continue as an independent body or become a subcommittee under the Senate Banking and Currency committee. One thing which the 80th Congress did well-despite all its other fault-was to operate a fearless forthright small ness committee. This was due in part to the astuteness of its counsel. George Meredith, and in part to the rambunctious belligerency of Senator Wherry of Nebraska who was loud and vocal in his championship of small business though his votes on the Senate floor sometimes were the other

Despite this good job, many democrats want to merge the small business committee-which has operated in its own rightand make it merely a subcom-

Part of this opposition is because the small business committee has stepped on too many bigbusiness toes. Part also is based on the fact that if the small business committee remains independent, it will be dominated by kindly, able Senator Jim Murray of Montana, a highly resepcted statesman, but who is expected to appoint his son as counsel and operate as a one-man committee. This criticism may not be justified but it exists. And it may influence the fate of one of the most important committees in the Senate.

The exit of Chiang Kai-Shek recalls a famous photo taken in the White House garden of Chiang's brother-in-law, T. V. Soong, together with President Truman, and the then secretaries of state, war and Navy-Edward Stettinius Henry L. Stimson and James V. Forrestal.

The photo was arranged by exbraintruster Tom Corcoran, attorney for the Chinese government, through his close friend, Forrestal, in order to strengthen Soong's hand in China and make it appear that he was the bosom friend of the President of the United States and his highest cabnet members.

The photo worked wonders. "Face" (we call it prestige) means everything in China, and Soong came back to Nanking ace-high with everyone. Also, it strengthened the position of Chiang Kai-Shek. He and his family were considered to have the 100 per cent support of the U. S. government.

It was at about this time that General Marshall went to China as special ambassador, and used all his persuasive powers to get Chiang to take other leaders into his government, form a coalition cabinet. But Chiang refused. He had various tokens, such as this photo, to make him think he stood well with Marshall's superior in Washington.

Such are some of the intricacies of Chinese diplomacy.

Note-Tommy the Cork is now one of the most active wire-pullers to keep in office Jim Forrestal, the man who helped arrange the miracle-working photo.

Pleasant Porter, one of the last chiefs of the Creek Indian tribe in the Indian territory, is perhaps the only man who ever confused the War department by assuming the title of "General" and winning his point as a result.

Many years before there was a railroad in the Indian Territory, the Secretary of the Interior sought to force the Creek Indian nation to do a certain thing that the tribe considered against their interest. Accordingly, Chief Porter took steps to prevent it.

The next move of the interior chief was to issue a statement, carried in all the Indian nation's newspapers, and widely circulated throughout the Indian Territory, that there was an "uprising" of Indians ir the Creek nation. Soon thereafter the War Department was called on to send two companies of soldiers from Fort Reno to the Indian nation.

There was no insurrection. Chief Porter kept his own counsel and one night the Indians discovered the army troops bivouacked without pickets.

Silently the Indian "militia" surrounded the commanding officer, captured him, his entire two companies, together with all the officers, approximately 250 men. Chief Porter ordered long poles cut which were set in around a trench to

Truman's 'Bold New Plan' Remains Vague, Shadowy

True, there is plenty of talk here about out the Marshall plan. And government officials have been asked about it. They're vague, too. The reason:

The "bold, new plan" President Truman mentioned in his inaugural address doesn't exist in detail. Now it's up to his lieutenants in the government to draw up such a plan.

This may seem startling: The president confidently mentions a plan which hasn't been worked out.

But, if you remember, that's just the way the Marshall plan for helping Europe started more than a year and a half ago. The then Secretary of State Marshall made a talk at Harvard June 5, 1947. In it he suggested vaguely that if the European countries wanted further American help they should figure out a program for getting it." Mr. Truman's "bold, new plan" didn't

Since this country doesn't have any long-range, world-wide plan for stopping communism, sometimes it has to play by ear and do what it thinks necessary at any given time. And although the Russian communists have a long range plan-or hope-for making the world communist, they, too, shift their strategy. They'll try this, that, or what they can to win in the end. Joseph Stalin has made it clear that the main goal of communism never changes but it's strategy changes to fit new problems.

And a democracy is in the same spot: improvising, changing, trying to drum up something that will work.

pect, remark with the wisdom of hindsight that in the month of January, '49, Asia produced two events which changed the course of world affairs.

The reference, of course, is (1) to the collapse of nationalist China before the Red rebellion, and (2) to the birth of an association or oriental nations under leadership of India.

Viewing these developments at close range it looks as though the two may be the fuel which will heat the melting-pot of Asiatic destiny. And that's a matter of vast concern to the western world,

Whether the Red ism can overrun and dominate all China remains to be seen. It's a titanic task. Communist success would mean that China had become a Russian base from which to conduct the

By a curious twist of fate we have the coincidence of the parley of asiatic countries in New Delhl. Fifteen nations attended this meeting at the invitation of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of the Dominion of India, and four other states sent observers.

Thus was born an Asiatic bloc under leadership of India. The guiding spirit in this move is Nehru, who bids fair to become the dominant figure in Asia.

This For comprises nations representing more than half the population of the globe. Where is it going to stand as regards the communist world revolution? What will be its attitude towards Russian domination of China?

Here again we are dealing with a question which only time can answer. However, I believe there are grounds for hope that this bloc will work with the western s.orld-provided the western world will sure the members of our water tor Carl Gray had directed that trainees working on "live" tobs be paid trainee salaries by their respective states after Feb. 1. The salary would be in addition to the government subsistence:

Georgia congressmen had protested, saying southern states could not afford the trainee pay. Gray yesterday told Congressmen from Texas, Georgia, and North Caroina that he would allow the trainees now enrolled to continue under their present status "pending action by Congress or adverse opinon by the attorney general, whichever comes somer."

Oil Imports To Draw Fire

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 27 48-Protests against heavy imports of foreign oil are expected to be made at a meeting of oilmen from about 17 states here today and tomorrow. It is the quarterly meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America. The meetings usually attract executive members and state vice presidents from 17

Speakers at tonight's banquet will be Rep. Ed Gossett (D-Tex) and Russell B. Brown, general counsel for the association from Washington, D. C. They will discuss proposed legislation in the 81st Congress affecting oil production. Also expected to be brought under close scrutiny by the association are the steel situation and the proposed uniform measurement of natural gas. A bill to implement the natural gas proposal has

Doctors Say That Mothers-To-Be Should Have Meat In Diet

It's a fact! Doctors say that mothers-to-be should include more meat in their diets. The most important function of the body during pregnancy is to build tissues. Meat contains the right kind of protein for this work - protein which also keeps the mother's body in good condition. In addition to high quality protein, meat contains iren and other important minerals

Keep the Temperature Low The secret of cooking a rib roast to juicy tenderness is to use a low over temperature of 325 F. Low temperatures are best for cooking shrinkage and less loss of juice. Rib roast cooked rare or medium is juicier than well-done meat,

Use a Meat Thermometer A meat thermometer, which can be purchased for a reasonable sum, is the most accurage way of determining the degree of doneness of a roast. The "minutes-per-pound" method is not entirely accurate as does not take into consideration the difference in long, rangy roasts and small, chunky ones. An important rule to follow in using a meat thermometer is to be sure the bulb does not touch either bone or fat.

Please-No Water, Cover or Flour! Water should not be added to the rib roast before or during cooking. The roast should not be floured, nor cooked with a cover. The less tender cuts of beef such as pot roasts, flank steaks, etc., are the ones which should be cooked by braising (with added moisture and with a cover). Flouring a roast tends to scorch the meat. Although the drippings from an unfloured roast do not make a deep colored gravy, rich brown gravy may be obtained by browning flour in the drippings.

Preparing the Roast Wipe meat with a clean, damp cloth. Season with salt and pepper. Place roast fat side up in an open roasting pan. A rib roast does not need a rack as the bones from a natural rack. Roast in a preheated, moderately low oven of 325 F. Insert a meat thermometer through the outside fat into the center of the thickest muscle (not touching bone or fat). Time Table for Rib Roast Internal Minute

Rare 140 F. 22 to 26 Medium 160 F. 26 to 30 Well Done 170 F. 33 to 35 The above table for minutes-perpound is for meat taken chilled from the refrigerator.)

After the meat has been cooked, place it on a platter and garnish either with a few simple carrot flowers and parsley or a more elaborate garnish of orange slices and cranberry jelly. For the rest of the meal serve creamy, whipped potatoes with gravy, frenched green string beans, fruit and nut gelatin salad, assorted relishes, and chocolate pudding pie.
