POST MORTEM

"It might have been". It might have been.

It's sure nice to have a newspaper to explain and alibi about the campaign just ended.

For those who were worrying about my weight on account of drinking all them malted milks . . . just ease your mind . . . I won the magnificent sum of one malted milk . . . My candidate Jimmie Allred did not have to go into the run-off.

Cliff Day did not get into the run off . . . It's a shame in my opinion that our county did not give him more votes. You boys of the Agriculture Protective association ought to come up and give me the money for the malted milk I lost on that race . . . and further more you ought not to induce a man to make a race without you worked harder for him than you did for Cliff Day. Thing it over.

The remainder of this column will be apologizing.

According to the terms of an election bet with Judge J. H. Broadhurst, it becomes my duty to apologize publicly because my candidate Curtis Douglass did not win the race.

TO JUDGE BROADHURST:—

Dere-judge:—
I wish I was big enough to forget and forgive I wish I could just say I'm sorry and sign off. But this is such a bitter pill that I am telling you to begin with that I think you are as tacky as you can be, and even if you develop trench mouth, acquire BC and have to wear a truss, not a word of consolation or sympathy will you hear from me. If the grasshoppers eat the corn and the wheat rots in your field and you Variety Smith tells about a fishing trip recently to the Pale Duro Creek. Mrs. Smith was using an improvised fishing pole and when she snagged a "big one", the pole broke. The cork and part of the pole went bobbing down the creek. The Smith children and Mrs. Smith were begging Claude to jump in and get the fish. He was a slacker, and refused, but his faithful dog realized he was on the spot and jumped in after the fish. The dog trolled the fish right up to the bank and turned the stub end of the pole over to Claude for landing the big one. YES you guessed it Claude let the fish off the line after all that trouble.

YOUTH AND POLITICS

At any given time, more than half of the people of the United States are considerably under 30 years of age. Somewhere between 25 and 26 years is more the average. Government statistics have figured the returns. From this some people argue that young voters hold the balance of power in national elections. That does not follow, however, for while all persons above the average age are voters only between 21 and the 26-year average can vote. Nevertheless, the fresh crop of new voters coming of age each four-year period is a factor of very considerable importance. If all of the 4,500,000 young men and women who reached the age of 21 since the election of 1932 could be influenced to vote the same way, Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Landon is to be elected in November. There is always about as much difference of opinion between young voters as there is among the elder ones. This year unquestionably more vigorous efforts are being made than ever before by the campaign managers of both parties to convince these new voters that their votes are safer in the hands of this party or that. It is all to the good. The earlier that political education begins, the better. We are inclined to think, however, that youth today is much more skeptical of political promises than the young folk used to be. We have no idea whether either party will succeed in winning to its side a considerably greater proportion of young voters than in the case in the past election. Both parties profess to be concerned with the future of the young people of today. That is quite natural and proper. All that the older people can do after all is to prepare the way for the young ones who will eventually step into their shoes. The youth of today will have to carry the load of government and of management of affairs tomorrow. Whichever way the election of 1936 goes, we can be sure that if those who will this year vote for the first time, don't like the results they will change the whole scheme of things in due course.

"WILD AND WHOPEE" TYPIFIES F. W. SHOW

Within the last few weeks the likeness of a rather scantily clad but buxomly beautiful young woman whose brief costume is adorned with stars presumed to symbolize

GALS AND HOSSES

Fort Worth Trade-Mark

the young lady . . . to say nothing of the horse . . . is calculated to make you Fort Worth Frontier conscious. With a costume rather more attenuated than is the custom in the cow country one might gather the implication that there is truth in the press agent's assertion, "you'll see more girls and more of 'em than any time since Cabeza de Vaca barnstormed from Buffalo Bayou to El Paso." Yes, there will be girls and horses . . . and more girls.

To add zest to Frontier publicity the slogan, "Wild and Whopee," has been coined. This, lest one surmise that the Fort Worth affair contemplates aught save entertainment. With hundreds of communities throughout the state celebrating along historical and educational lines Fort Worth is going in for giving folks a good time . . . and in a big way.

WILD WEST LIVES AGAIN

Wild and Whopee Days Enacted in Frontier Centennial

There probably is nothing new under the sun. Electricity existed long before Messrs. Volta, Edison, Marconi, et al, started to fuss with it. There have been wild west shows before . . . and successful ones. Before that of course there was the real wild west with an arena a million square miles in compass. Now comes a spectacle based on what has gone before but staged with such lavishness and consummate art that one might well believe the old west lives again in "The Last Frontier," one of the outstanding attractions of the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial.

When Billy Rose was engaged as director general of the Fort Worth Frontier, his first act was to set about organizing the biggest and most spectacular wild west exhibition of all time. Some advisors suggested that appeal of such a show passed with the demise of Buffalo Bill. To Rose the suggestion was no dice.

"As long as men live there is a certain glamour about the old days on the frontier that will never tarnish. Like the glimpse of a pretty woman the deeds of brave men always make folks buy tickets," declared the shrewd showman. "That's why I intend to deal as my top ace . . . girls and horses."

A special set, 263 feet wide and 167 feet deep, representing the plains and foothills, will serve as the locale for such stirring events as attack on the stage, rescue by rangers, battle with U. S. troops, a prairie fire and concluding with an old fashioned square dance with 160 couples. More than 1,000 Indians, cavalrymen, cowboys and cowgirls, singers and dancers are engaged in "The Last Frontier." Direction of the dynamic spectacle is in the hands of Verne Elliott, foremost rodeo entrepreneur and protégé of Buffalo Bill, and Edward Clarke Lilley, well known New York drama producer.

Masacree Of The Welch Children

I will give you a little sketch of the killing and wounding of Mrs. Welch's children by the Indians. Mrs. Welch lived on what is now known as the Will Billingsville place on the Clear Fork near Mrs. Alexander's.

About the 20th of March, 1862, Mrs. Welch sent three of her children to Mrs. Alexander's for a bottle of vinegar. After obtaining the vinegar the children started home. Lizzie Alexander, a pretty little black eyed and black haired girl about 10 or 12 years old was to accompany them for a short distance. The children has just gotten but a short distance from the house when they were attacked by six Indians. They first killed the oldest little boy by lancing or spearing him a number of times. They then lanced the next two several times, but both recovered. One Indian got off his horse and was running after Lizzie Alexander trying to catch her. The little girl screamed, "Run here mama and bring the gun." Mrs. Alexander lost no time. As she went out she reached overhead and got her double barreled shot gun ran to the ward fence leveled the gun on the Indian that was running after Lizzie and exclaimed Come here you and let my children alone or I will shot your heads off," and they left in a hurry. It was supposed it was their intention to capture the little girl and carry her off, but by Mrs. Alexander's thoughtfulness and good judgment she saved her little daughters from captivity and no doubt saved the other two children from being killed and scalped.

The Indians went from there to the Rock Knob, went to the top of it and then turned west and left the county without taking any more depredate. This direct community depredate has committed quite a number of depredate in the west part of the county this. The entire community thrown into great there being no organization protection of the county what few men there were badly scattered and poor. By the time the men get er all they could do was the trail until night and wait until daylight. They give Mr. Red Man a full run ahead of them.

After this little raid were more cautious. War being upon us, the county being pretty well of men, times got pretty ly. The people of today or can not realize what old pioneers had to contend with.

I have lost the where Lizzie Alexander. Her mother Mrs. H. C. Edwards who knew her.

WPA—

This new ruling eliminates the requirements calling for former relief status.
Mr. Long emphasizes the fact that the Texas Relief commission does not make the actual certificate. The only restriction other than that of need is in case of an illegal alien who is not eligible upon one thing only, that basis is education or the placement. The procedure that will be followed is that when a person in need makes application at the intake office all facts necessary to determine the applicants actual needs are developed. The information required is in detail. Following this a case worker makes a home visit to the home of the applicant obtaining such other information possible. Collateral visits to references given are also made. After completing this information an adequate budget is developed for the particular family in question. No two families even of the same size and same apparent conditions have the same requirements. For this reason trained workers are necessary for the handling of the applicants. After the budget is developed, income and resources are considered. From this information the need is determined. Applications are then either rejected or referred to the WPA. Whether the referral is accepted or rejected, the Texas Relief Commission has absolutely nothing to do with the actual placing of the applicant on a WPA job.
Texas quota on WPA at present is 81,000 persons, while there are 135,000 now certified. It is anticipated that an additional 50,000 will be accepted under the modified ruling. This makes a total of 185,000 eligible with only 81,000 available jobs. As there is practically no possibility of applicants obtaining jobs immediately and as some little time is required between the date of application and actual referral is completed the Relief Office are requesting that people do not rush to the Intake Office.
A meeting was held in Austin Monday and Tuesday of this week for an explanation of the new program. This meeting was attended by Mrs. Patton assistant administrator of District 16, Mrs. Perkins of Plainview of District 17 Miss Ziegenhals of Lubbock and many others.

Voice of the People

Dear Bill:
Show this to the boys and tell them they better get ready for a BIG fish story when I get back. According to this fish the kind you've been catching were minnows.
JOHN MORRIS

Now to explain the picture—The first thing that catches your eye in the picture is the beautiful lake, the trees surrounding the lake and the simply lovely flowers, and such a dear little boat, (just for one) but my so gaily painted then the rolling sand of the little beach. Now that you don't have the picture at all three men did have a fish about 30 feet long on their shoulders. A very poor composite picture because no man would have one hand on his hip carrying a fish that big.

Canning time is here

Yes, canning time is here, it has been here for several weeks and it may be that you have already filled your stock of fruit jars carried over from last season.
It will be more economical to can and preserve your winter's food this year than ever. Direct relief will be cut off by the first of November. There will be no more food orders to be brought out. Work relief goes into effect instead and you will be given cash instead of food orders. Your saving on eatables this winter will mean that much more money to buy the things you want and have been deprived of since the beginning of the depression.
Start in now to practice thrift and preserve a goodly portion of the winter's food supply. There is an abundant supply of fruits and vegetables that may be had at little cost to you now.

FORECASTING THE ELECTION

An important phase of every Presidential campaign is the number and variety of efforts to forecast the result of the election. Ever since politics began to be our general national sport, the taking of "straw" votes before election day has been one of the most exciting elements of the game.

This year every known means is being used in the effort to determine in advance whether Mr. Roosevelt will be reelected. Taking "straw ballots" on railroad trains is one of the old familiar devices, more often indulged in for pure amusement than for any real value in predicting the outcome. One method which has proved surprisingly accurate in some recent campaigns is that of sending scouts to the motion picture theatres to record applause or lack of it when pictures of the candidates are thrown on the screen.

The most reliable forecasts of recent years, however, have been those based on actual polls of large number of voters conducted by newspapers and magazines. The surprising accuracy of the polls conducted by the "Literary Digest" is well known. We understand that the Digest will send out twenty million "straw ballots" this year. A Newcomer in the field the American Institute of Public Opinion, operating through a syndicate of daily newspapers, will test out its "cross-section" or sampling method for the first time in a Presidential election.

So far as the rural and small-town vote goes, however, none of these has reflected the future more accurately in the past than the poll conducted by the weekly newspapers of the nation in co-operation with Publishers Autocaster Service. This poll, which registers the presidential preference of millions of voters in every part of the country, is now being taken. With it and the rest of the polls already referred to, it may easily be possible to foretell by mid-September whether the White House will have a new tenant in 1937, or renew the present lease.

FORT WORTH BANS GYPS

Transport Lines Offer Low Rates to Frontier

A glorified excursion, sans ant-infested lunch boxes, stalled motors and rooks on every corner, awaits the wide-awake this Summer.

Railroads and bus lines are bending over backwards to make things possible and pleasant for Frontier visitors through the Summer.

There's no need in backing an unwilling family chariot out of the garage and bracing it all the way in. Besides that, highways may be uncomfortably crowded unless your machine is knee-actuated, free-wheeled and streamlined.

Transportation lines are certain of their heaviest traffic in years this Summer, but they're not taking the customer by the heels and shaking out his pockets.

There'll be schedules from all points in the United States, and today, 10-day or 30-day excursion rates for cities within a 24-hour radius.

Main point is that instead of paying more to get the biggest single show in the history of the entertainment world, you'll be paying less.

Same way with buses. Customary rate is a round trip for the double-way fare less 10 per cent. Those who are smart and intelligent and fun-loving enough to come to the Frontier Centennial will get a round-trip for a fare and one-half's worth.

In addition to paring down the rates to meet the pocketbooks, transportation operators are increasing schedules, adding equipment, installing air-conditioning.

Once you get here, Fort Worth will treat you right.

Duck into any restaurant and you can purchase chicken and dumplings for the same price as ever. Ask for a breezy southeast hotel room and you'd never suspect it could be rented for twice what you're paying. Souvenirs, necessities, clothing and entertainment will wear the same old price tags. The staggering features of the frontier show itself can be seen for a ridiculously low tax.

"We're just square-shooting, that's all," says a Fort Worth spokesman.

Hansford County polled more votes Saturday than in any other previous election.

Mrs. Paul Pittman is in Spearman this week visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Luther Matthews.

Edwin Reed was in Perryton Sunday night.

Ray Platt was a business visitor in Perryton last week.

Robert Satterwhite was in town Saturday on business.

THE COLUMN CONDUCTOR Says...

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to door at no extra charge.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

What Makes the Wheels of Jumbo Go 'Round

Artist's Conception of the Innards of Billy Rose's Spectacle

Billy Rose's circus-musical comedy-drama-revue-extravaganza "Jumbo" will be seen to advantage during its stay at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial than during its season at the New York Hippodrome. True nearly a quarter of a million dollars was expended making the Manhattan playhouse habitable for the elephantine spectacle.

But the "little of cow town way out west" has gone the big town on the Hudson one better. A complete circus amphitheatre has been constructed, the first to be devoted exclusively in over seventy years. Designed and supervised by Albert Johnson it represents an investment of $1,000,000, over a third of which is allotted to electrical equipment and another $100,000.00 to
