International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic:—Christian Living. Scripture Lesson:—Romans 1-3, 9-21.

1. I beseech you therefore, brethren by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service.

2. And be not fashioned according to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is good and acceptable will of God.

3. For I say, through the grace that was given me to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but so to think soberly according as God hath dealt to each man a measure of faith.

9. Let love be without hypocrisy. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good.

10. In love of brethren be tenderly affectioned one to another, in honor preferring one another.

11. In diligence not slothful, fervent, in spirit; serving the Lord;

12. Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing steadfast in prayer.

13. Communicating to the necessities of the saints, given to hospitality.

14. Bless them that persecute you; bless and curse not.

15. Rejoice with them that rejoice; weep with them that weep.

16. Be of the same mind one toward another. Set not your mind on high things but condescend to things that are lowly, be not wise in your own conceits.

17. Render to no man evil. Take thought for things honorable in the sight of all men.

18. If it be possible as much as in you lieth, be at peace with all men.

19. Avenge not yourselves unto me: I will recompense sayeth the Lord.

20. But if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head.

21. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

Golden Text:—Christ liveth in me. Gal. 2:20.

INTRODUCTION

"The apostle Paul has concluded a great exposition of Christian doctrine, the profoundest of the meaning of Christ's work for our salvation that any one has ever been privileged to write in the short space of eleven chapters. The first eleven chapters of the Epistle to the Romans may be considered the most important single stone in the whole foundation in the Christian thought. Upon this foundation Paul is about to build, in the remaining chapters, a superstructure depicting the proper conduct, the rich life that should mark everyone who, by Faith, has become identified with Jesus Christ. The Christian filled with knowledge of an eternal love, is told how not to dream, but to serve with all the mercies of God for his motive.

I Beseech You Therefore
Never once does Paul command his readers; his favorite word is beseech. By the mercies of God. These mercies refer to all the wonderful promises and truths recorded by the apostle in the preceding 11 chapters. Everything that we have in Christ we have because Jesus is rich in mercy and the apostle, about to unfold before his readers an ideal life loftier, holier, sweeter than any the pagan world would ever dream of, wants it clearly understood that such a life does not lead up to salvation in Jesus Christ but flows from a salvation already accepted in the human

Be Ye Transformed

And be not fashioned according to the world. The spirit of this pleasant age is absolute selfishness as contrasted with divine love. Its object is the gratification of the one true ruler of the universe. The life of the world so entirely different from that which comes from God that it is impossible for the true followers of Christ to be conformed to it. But be ye transformed. If I were to change Dutch garden into an Italian, this would be fashioning; but if I were to transform into a garden something wholly different, say a garden into a city, this would be a transformation.

Some Rules To Guide The Christian Life—Rom. 12:21.

In this part of the chapter the apostle turns himself to some direction concerning the normal and spiritual values. He sets out some definite rules that are to be followed in the Christian community. He begins with the specific principle of love that must rule in all life-relationship. It will solve all difficulties. One is reminded of the picture of love given by this same preacher in the 13th chapter of 1 Cor. That love is to be perfectly sincere, for hypocrisy or pretended love, is no love at all. It has depth of moral feeling consideration for others, zeal fervor, devoutness, helpfulness, fortitude under persecution, prayerfulness, eagerness to help fellow Christians by sharing all possessions and showing genuine hospitality.

Avoid that which is evil

He begs them to have a strong horror for evil. In any guise, evil is to be shunned and hated with positive hatred. The one who does not hate evil is not going to be good. The one who is dominated by love will hate evil.

Given To Hospitality

Of verse 13 Sunday and Headlam say: This verse contains two special applications of the principle of love, sharing with fellow Christians in need and exercising that hospitality which was part of the bond which knit together the Christian community.

Rejoice With Them That Do Rejoice.

Chrysostom says: It requires more of a high Christian temper to rejoice with them that do rejoice, than to weep with them that weep. For this nature itself fulfills perfectly; and there is none over him that is in calamity; but so heart-heated as not to weep the other requires a very soul, so as not only to keep from envying but even to feel pleasure with the person who is in esteem.

Do Not Return Evil For Evil

Another result of the principal of love is pictures in verse 17. Surely a Christian is above giving back evil for evil. It is easy to offend by dealing harshly with men's prejudices. He urges to be

Frazier Continues Indian Stories For Reporter

In June of 1860 Alvin Clark was killed a few miles northwest of Springtown.

A band of fifteen or twenty Indians passed through the county near the Parker and Wise county line, going west. They came to Day Branch, where they found Mrs. Frank Holden, Mrs. Mary Kerby and Negro Sang's mother doing the family washing. Near at hand were some horses and the Indians took them and passed on. A little further on, the citizens joined in an attempt and recaptured the horses.

Alvin Clark being upon the ground had some trouble mounting his horse. The Indians saw this and made for him. At last he was mounted and fled down the fence row, entirely cut off from his comrades, two Indians at his horses heels shooting with guns and bow. Finally Alvin reeled in his saddle and fell dead. He had already dropped both his guns in the fight. He was shot seven times with four arrows and 3 balls.

I think the Indians scalped Clark and then made their escape. It was about the 20th of March in 1862 that one of the children of Mrs. Welch was killed and two others wounded. Mrs. Welch was living on what is now the Will Billingsley place on the Clear Fork. She sent three of her children to Mrs. Alexander's a short distance away for a bottle of vinegar. Lizzie Alexander a girl of 10 or 12 years of age, accompanied them part of the way home.

The children had gone but a little way from the Alexander home when they were attacked by six Indians. They killed the oldest boy by lancing or spearing him a number of times and also wounded the two other Welch children but they recovered.

One Indian got off his horse and was running after the Lizzie Alexander girl trying to catch her. The little girl ran screaming for her mother to come and bring the gun. Mrs. Alexander lost no time as she went out the door she reached overhead and got the family Shot Gun. She leveled the gun on the Indian and exclaimed "Come here you-XAONI! and let my child alone or I'll blow your head off". And they left in a hurry. It was supposed it was the intention of the Indians to capture the girl and kill the other children.

careful on this point by taking thought beforehand to order our conduct so that it will commend itself as honorable. Love will prompt us to suffer long if necessary and take a great deal without constantly demanding our rights and our own feelings.

Coals Of Fire

Another maxim is taken from Proverbs 25:21ff. Paul urges Christians to get even with their enemies by feeding them. Imagine the surprise of an angry enemy who finds a steaming hot dish of food and hot biscuits served by the hand he is trying to harm. Such kindness will serve to heap coals of fire on his head. These burning coals may produce genuine repentance.

After this little raid the people were more cautious. The Civil War being upon us and this county was well drained of men. Times got pretty squally. The people of today do not or cannot realize what we old pioneers had to contend with.

James McKinney his wife and two of his three children were killed by Indians in the summer of 1863. One morning I had been sent out by my father to look for oxen. He told me to ride as far as the Mays mountain and if I did not see them to come back. It was on the way home that I saw the McKinney family by the

COST OF ELECTRICITY

FOOD prices have risen steadily from their depression lows. Today it costs you one-third more to fill your market basket than it did four years ago. Clothing, shoes and other items in the cost of living also have advanced in price. In fact, probably the only thing you buy that has not increased but actually decreased in cost is electricity—which costs the average customer of this company 20% less for the same amount of use than it did four years ago. While other prices have been going up, electricity has been coming down. Your electric dollar is worth more now than ever before in history.

WHAT'S TO BE GAINED?

PART OF THE duties of one WPA official, a photo of a bunch of cows, as said cows were grazing on the lawn of the state capitol of Bismark, N. D. In the course of human events this photo appeared in the various papers of the East under the caption, "Hungry Cattle From Drouth Ruined Ranges." This picture and the article accompanying it was immediately given a merry ha ha and organized razz, apparently by those who would not like for the New Deal Government to gain any credit for accomplishments. The Forgan N. D. paper denounced the picture as a "Fake" and then was compelled to admit that it was an honest photo, but that the cattle were not starved, but were dairy cattle that had invaded the capitol lawn to graze.

What's to be gained by all this ballyhoo? Certainly North Dakota cannot gain any favorable publicity . . . naturally the republican party will not be gaining in the conflict, since they had to take back water.

It appears to be the action of a political party that is grasping at a straw . . . they cultivate every excuse to find fault with the new deal government. If there are people in the East that doubt there were drouth ruined ranges and starved cattle during the past two drouths, then any agency of the new deal government could secure the evidece that would be convincing . . . even if the herd of cattle on the Bismark capitol grounds did happen to be dairy cattle that had received sufficient feed.

In the mind of the writer there is an organized minority of the people that are determined to wreck the new deal government. Thy do not have hopes of doig this at the forthcoming election . . . but they will continue using every means apd method available, right or wrong to bring criticism on the national government, until they have accomplished their end.

Money . . . it appears will accomplish a great deal. The writer can remember when prohibition was very popular, and opponens would not have dared bring the issue to a vote. An organized minority with plenty of money began a concealed campaign to poison the minds of the people on prohibition. Some of the most talented writers of the era were selcted the most enticing publicity was distributed and the results, we repealed prohibition.

And the moneyed interests that are fighting so hard to discredit the government of the "Forgotten man" will also find this same swing of the pendulum will re-estate the new deal government after the people have returned to a rule of Hooverism. However, the change that will take place will not be so orderly and regulated as the present change. The world is being poisoned with mis-government ideas. So far the U. S. has kept clear of such intanglement. . . but just so sure as the new deal government is defeated, and the old order of conservative rich man government goes into office, we as a nation are sure to become fertile ground for the seeds of discontent that has m'ade facism and communism and the red government the popular government of many billions of people.

BRANDING DANGEROUS CARS

the cars of motorists convicted are painted with drivers. It is said that this practice, newly started has caused an appreciable decline in dangerous driving, as motorists naturally want to avoid the embarrassment and publicity the emblem gives them.

A great many thousand American motorists should have their cars so branded.

The worst class of offenders consists of those who push the throttle to the floor-board as soon as they get out of sight of a traffic officer. Excessive speed—and their are times when 15 miles per hour is excessive—is responsible for more deaths than any other driving violation.

Passing on hills and curves and "meandering" through traffic are also potent causes of death, injury and destruction. On a myriad tragic occasions a driver has tried to save a needless minute—at the cost of a life.

Driving on the wrong side of the road jumping traffic lights, passing at intersections—are practices dear to the heart of the dark angel. They help keep our morgues and hospitals full to capacity.

Yes, it might be a good idea to adopt the branding practice in this country. A suitable emblem would be a SKULL and CROSS-BONES!

NEW LIGHT ON CHAIN STORES

As a result of investigation into the chain store situation made by the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Bureau of the Census, new light has lately been thrown upon the extent and effect of chain store operations.

It develops that while the number of independently owned retail stores increased by 46,000 between 1929 and 1933, the number of chain stores decreased by 6,400 in the same period. Chain stores, it is reported, do about 25 per cent of all the retail business of the nation. In the grocery and food field they do about 5-6 of the total volume of business. Their prices to consumers the Trade Commission reports, are about 8.1 per cent below those charged by other retailers.

Another interesting figure the average wage made by a chain store employee is about $1,097 a year, and the wage of an independent store is about $947.

On the vexed question whether chain stores take money out of a community; in grocery stores all of the money outside of salaries and expenses goes to the wholesale house from which he buys.

It is also pointed out the average salary of a chain store manager is as large as most small retail merchants make in profit.

And that's the story of the chain store, based on these government reports.

IF YOU DANCE, YOU MUST PAY THE FIDDLER

An editorial article catching the attention of the writer was apparently written with intention of finding fault with the state administration. The article compared expenditures of the present administration and those of a previous administration, and brought to light the astounding fact that the expenditures during 33, 34, 35 and 36 would amount to as much as ten million dollars more than the previous administration.

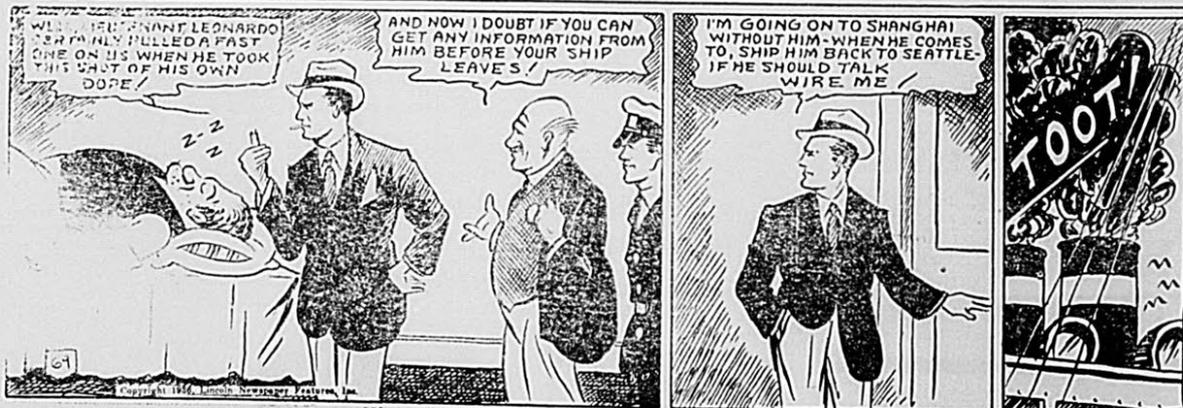

The casual reader will feel alarmed. But the article failed to tell of the immense relief bonds voted and being liquidated by the present administration . . . It failed to tell of the added cost of collecting cigarette and whiskey tax . . . It failed to tell of the added cost of paying and administering the old age pension account. The facts are, that considering the many more demands on the present state administration . . . and these demands were made by the majority vote of the citizens . . . the record instead of being one to discredit is one of astounding efficiency and economy.

fast as they grow to manhood and womanhood. The wages which they could earn as tenants or laborers had become so much less than they could earn by going to America that the emigration was equal to the entire increase of adult population in the rural districts. To stop this emigration, which was draining Denmark of the best of its rural population, a Country Life Commission was appointed in 1894, whose object as officially announced was to devise a plan by which, on favorable terms, parcels of land can be made available for rural workers."

When the act of 1899 was passed, the conservative element in Parliament forced a limitation which would allow purchase of not more than five acres. They feared a labor shortage and desired that the holdings be so small that the holders would still have to obtain work as hired hands in addition to laboring on their own farms. The homesteader was required to make a down payment equal to ten per cent of the value of the land buildings and livestock. The interest rate was fixed at 3 per cent and the maximum loan was 3,000 kroner, equal to about one thousand dollars.

Five years later, farmers had gained more power in the Danish government and were able to have the loan maximum increased to 5,000 kroner. They gained still more power by 1909, when they succeeded in having the maximum increased to 6,500 kroner. By this time, it was generally agreed that the purpose of the act should be to encourage holdings large enough for workers to become self sustaining on their own farms. A few years later the maximum loan was again increased, this time to 8,000 kroner, or about $2,500.

The chief objection by the conservatives when all this legislation was being enacted was that the government was undertaking too large a financial risk. But this fear proved entirely unfounded. During the twenty five years after passage of the act of 1889 the Danish government financed the purchase of 11,451 farms. During that entire period the total loss to the government from failure of the clients to meet their payments was only $9,085 which amounted to only 35c for every $1000 which the government had advanced.

Danes Struggled For Many Years To Win Farm Purchase Law

Denmark has been quoted many times as an example of a nation that changed its farmers from tenants to landowners and thereby built itself a remarkable prosperity. Now that the Resettlement Administration is pioneering a movement in the U. S. by which tenant farmers may be enabled to become owners, it is worthwhile to note that the farmers may be enabled to become owners with government aid. When Denmark's present land policy was initiated by the act of 1889, some sort of change had become imperative, just as it is in the United States today. In Denmark it was so bad that farmers were leaving the country as then tell your boys to sit back and listen . . . Let Judge Hoover from Canadian start the ball rolling, then pick up Judge Ewing from Pampa, and so on down the line . . . and the first thing you know every community in the entire Panhandle will think they did all the good that is accomplished at the said meeting . . . and if it turns out . . . not so good—then every speaker from various cities will think that the other fellow did the harm . . . and as a result, nobody will be blamed. NOW here is my suggestion you round up all the windjammers that you can find from Amarillo and bring them down to the radio station, and we will give em all the time they want (at your expense) introducing the program to be presented over the radio by the Hansford county delegates. Tell em they have got to get rid of all their oratory for the next year right there in one session. Every time an Amarillo introducer takes up fifteen minutes, I'll put up a Hansford county speaker that will take up 15 minutes on a program. . . How about it?
