Dan Greenwood, J. V. Ogle Victims; Flames Fed By Distillate From Stove; Explosion Is Cited In Coroner's Verdict

Sudden, ravaging fire, fed by oil distillate and fanned by an early morning wind, today snuffed out the lives of two Big Spring men trapped in a small frame house on Highway 1 three miles east of the city.

The dead were: Dan Greenwood 38, boilermaker employed at the Cosden Oil corporation refinery; and J. V. Ogle, 65, formerly a yard foreman at the refinery.

Both the bodies were charred almost beyond recognition. Apparently unable to fight their way out of the swiftly-burning flames, the men had perished before help arrived at the scene.

The three-room house was leveled, only smoldering ruins remaining.

From accounts by neighbors, it was theorized that the fire broke out due to the spread of distillate that was used as fuel for a heating stove in the front room of the house.

After an inquest conducted this morning, Justice of the Peace J. H. Hefley returned a coroner's verdict that the two men had burned to death, with the explosion of a stove being the contributory cause.

Saw Flare-up Mrs. J. A. Hobbs, who lives next door, and who gave first alarm, said she saw a flare of fire which enveloped the front of the house. A few minutes previously, she had seen Greenwood light the stove. Flames spread rapidly and quickly razed the small structure.

The fire broke out shortly before 6 o'clock, at about the time shifts change at the Cosden refinery just across the highway, and there was no chance to summon help immediately.

Body Removed At Mrs. Hobbs' alarm, Joe R. Luton was the first to reach the blazing house. Pushing open the front door, he discovered the body of Greenwood on the floor, immediately in front of the door, but was unable, without assistance, to remove the body. Greenwood apparently was dead then.

D. B. Smith and W. L. Sandridge arrived at the scene almost at once, and assisted in removing Greenwood's body from the house.

Ogle was visiting Greenwood for the night, and no one in the nearby houses knew of his presence in the burning structure. His body, in a rear room, was not discovered until the house had been demolished. He was more severely burned than was Greenwood, and establishment of identity was difficult.

The cabin belonged to Greenwood, and was situated on Cosden property, in the midst of a group of homes of refinery workers.

Wife, Children Gone Mrs. Greenwood and two children had left the house last night, to spend the night in the city with her sister, Mrs. Lucille Cauble. Another son of the Greenwoods, was on a hunting trip. Friends were sent today to notify him of the tragedy.

Mrs. Hobbs and the men who first arrived at the scene said that no sounds came from the two trapped by the flames.

Smith and Sandridge said that the body of Greenwood was removed only with greatest difficulty, due to the smoke and intense heat.

"We attempted to enter this house after we had removed Greenwood's body," they said, "but the smoke drove us out. We knew that Mrs. Greenwood and the children were not at home, and had no idea that Mr. Ogle was in the back room."

House Total Loss The smoke and flames were driven toward the rear of the house by the wind, and the men said they believed Ogle had been overcome by suffocation, and thus trapped by the spread of the blaze.

Attempt to save the house was futile. Everything in it was burned to ashes.

Greenwood and Ogle had been together during the night, it was learned, and apparently the latter had decided to remain at Greenwood's home.

Sandridge said he saw smoke pouring upward from the house as he left the refinery, but at first thought it was coming from the chimney. He and Smith joined Luton swiftly when they learned the house was in flames. The distillate contributed to the rapid spread of the fire.

Greenwood had been employed at the Cosden refinery since March 3, 1930. Ogle formerly was on the payroll there, but had not worked since his legs were broken in a mishap at the refinery about a year ago. He received the fractures when a piece of pipe fell on him.

The bodies were taken to the Eberley Funeral home.

Duce Acts To Offset Effect Of Sanctions

Sale Of Meat Restricted To Cut Down Need Of Imports

(By The Associated Press) Premier Mussolini Tuesday put Italy on a six months' diet to fight economic sanctions applied by other powers in an effort to stop the East African war.

Effective Nov. 5, the sale of meats will be restricted to reduce the governmental use of paper and other supplies which are partly imported.

On the war front, Italians pushed 25 miles deeper into Ethiopia, and were halfway on their march from Adigrat to Makale, the mountain-pass gateway to the interior of the African kingdom. Small concentrations of Ethiopians scattered before the fascist advance.

New strength, meanwhile, was given the league of nations sanctions campaign. Twenty-four nations had pledged to keep the "buy nothing from Italy" boycott.

League officials said the task of putting Italian penalties in effect would be given to various committees.

An Italian official said the government was confident that many nations will scramble to supply Italy's needs after the sanctions program disrupts existing commercial contracts.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley

PAUL CRUME, writing in the Daily Texan, explodes the old theory of "the bigger they are the harder they fall." Quoting professors in the university physics department to prove his point, Crume points out that it is a law of physics that all bodies fall toward the earth at the same speed. He had it all figured out that Harold Griffin, 175-pound Texas center, would hit the ground with as much force as Primo Miller, 230 pound Rice tackle. Miller, he admitted, might make the bigger splash. On the other hand, Miller's air resistance might be greater, thus causing Griffin to out-plash him. While Miller's base is broader and possesses more stability, his center of gravity might be closer to the ground, affecting his stability.

THE UNITED Press advises that in eleven games last year, Rice played before 122,500 persons. In six games this season, Rice played before 107,000, compared to 79,500 for the same period last year. The total this year is expected to be 100,000 more than the total of 122,500 last year.

THE U OF TEXAS Longhorns are also drawing big gates this year. Attendance at the first three home football games for the Longhorns this year was 40,500, first three for 1934-35, 27,784. The Rice-Texas game last Saturday had nearly 27,000 attendance, the largest in seven years. That is the principal reason for the big hike this year. Others are better times, better early season opponents, and the new realization among southwest fans that football here is as good as any in the nation.

FROM THE MAIL BAG: Mr. Tom Beasley Sports Editor Big Spring Daily Herald Dear Sir:

I notice your left out mention of Woodrow Harris, tackle. Woodrow broke through several times to throw Plainview for losses. In my estimation, Woodrow Harris was the outstanding defensive player. "On the offense, it was Sam Flowers and Woodrow Harris that made the holes in the line for the ball carriers on their off-tackle plays. "My idea of a perfect backfield would be as follows: "Elspey" Jones, rb; Grey, fb; Coots, lf; Cordill, qb.

"Jones should have been in the backfield all the time. He can punt, pass and can carry the ball if given a chance. "As for Ford, he is a nice boy, but hasn't the power. "We have a good line, but some awfully poor blocking. I notice when Cordill receives a punt, nobody is there to block out one man. We should have a couple of good blockers when we return punts, but we never have since I have been here.

Yours truly, J. A. Smith.

IMPORTANT GAMES IN S'WEST CIRCUIT THIS WEEK

Connie Mack's Action Mysterious Concerning Sale of His Big Stars

MUSTANGS, TEXAS TO DO BATTLE

Three Games, Two Have Important Bearing On Race

FORT WORTH, Oct. 29.—Conference play gets under way in earnest in the Southwest Saturday. Three games are scheduled, two of which have an important bearing on the conference race.

At Waco, Baylor and T. C. U., two of the three undefeated teams will tangle in the renewal of a rivalry that is one of the keenest in the conference. The game will be the 42nd between the two schools. The Bears will have the advantage of the home field and a homecoming crowd to cheer them on, but the Christians are convinced they can take them nevertheless.

It will be a battle worth seeing, certainly. Mustang and Longhorn will crash in Dallas. Texas will be out to take S. M. U., so that the ring of defeats for the two of them and Rice may be completed. If this happens, everything will be more or less back at scratch, for whoever wins at Waco is likely to drop a game to one of these three before the season is over.

Arkansas and A. & M. meet in Little Rock, with the Razorbacks now the favorite to take the contest. Since both elevens have lost both previous conference starts, the game has little bearing on the flag race.

Rice journeys to Washington, D. C., to meet George Washington in a game that is expected to be an easy one, except for the travel.

Mrs. Stalcup's Score Is Low

Six Golfers Play On Latson Trophy At Country Club

Mrs. Harry Stalcup, with a net score of 44 1-2, was low in play on the Latson golf trophy at the Country Club Monday. Six members of the Women's Golf Association took part in the matches, playing the front nine.

The golfers will complete play on the Latson trophy next Monday. Mrs. Theron Hicks is low with a total of 240 for six rounds.

P. S.—I forget to mention that Sam Flowers belongs in center. He can break up plenty of plays playing center, with the help of Harris.

HARRIS PLAYED a mighty nice game against Plainview. Fact is, the whole line performed in a very pleasing manner. They demonstrated that they can play when they want to. Harris was very mediocre at the first of the season, but he's snapping out of his lethargy and should go fine against San Angelo. We, too, believe that Flowers is needed badly at center, but with the loss of J. W. Coots for the rest of the season, the coaches tell us that Flowers will have to be used in the backfield.

GRIND OPENS FOR BOBCATS

Practice To Be Tough By First Of Next Week

On Monday afternoon, Nov. 11, West Texas grid fans will be jamming Big Spring, clamoring for seats to see a game that promises to be a real treat for the thousands expected here for the annual battle between the Bobcats of San Angelo high school and the Big Spring Hi Steers.

Obie Bristol, George Brown and Speedy Moffett, who comprise the local coaching set-up, gave their charges a rest Monday, but starting today with a fairly light drill they will apply the pressure until by the first of next week the grid grind will be a long, hard and steady one.

The loss of J. W. Coots for the rest of the season was a terrific blow to the local hopes. Just as he was reaching his peak, J. W. had a collar bone broken in the Plainview game. Grey, who showed an unexpected amount of speed and fine football headwork last week, will be counted on to take Coots' place.

Cordill will swing the quarter, Woodrow Coots a half, and Sam Flowers a half. Flowers is really needed at the pivot post, but the loss of J. W. Coots makes it almost impossible to put Sam back at center. Baker is not quite the pivot man that Flowers was, but the coaches believe maybe he will improve enough to successfully handle the job in the Cat fray.

A fine spirit displayed by the boys the past few days has aided the coaches to whip the boys into shape, and a satchel of tricky plays will be uncorked against Harry Taylor's team.

Taylor and his assistant, Tonto Coleman, started the Bobcat polishing Monday. From all indications, Taylor will probably have his boys fire a barrage of aerials. At times the Cats have flashed a fine display of laterals.

Jimmy Ford, youngster who played in the Steer secondary last week, is due to see more service there, the backfield mentor said Monday. Although slow, Ford may be used in a few running plays. He tosses nice short passes that hit the spot.

Ireland Produces A New Type Bootlegger

MONAGHAN, Ireland, (U.P.)—The Irish have kept bootlegging in its primitive state. Country bootleggers in the Irish Free State have kept busy lately making "boots" to deaden the noise made by cattle as they are smuggled over the border at night to northern Ireland.

On one occasion a posse of police captured a herd of 250 cattle, with their horns stylishly ensheathed in flannel boots, being smuggled across a mountain pass in Caledon. Inasmuch as this herd alone would have yielded $10,000 duty, it is believed that large financial interests are behind the smuggling.

CONCHO BOBCATS WILL SEEK REVENGE HERE ON NOV. 11

Since 1928, when San Angelo's rugged Bobcats beat the Big Spring Steers in an Oil Belt battle, the teams have met each year and the Conchoans have managed to get a shade advantage.

In the past six years, the Steers have won one, lost two, and tied three with the Bobcats.

In '29 the San Angeloans, playing at Big Spring, trounced the locals 14 to 0. In a desperate struggle a year later they frothed to a 6-6 tie.

In 1931 Big Spring had Tack Dennis, West Texas grid sensation who was playing his last year of school-boy football. San Angelo was playing in the Steer ballwick that year and the teams did everything but score, winding up in a 0-0 deadlock.

The Bobcats took the locals to the cleaners so to speak in the '32 encounter when they smashed the Eristowmen, 26 to 6, on the Cat grid. The Steers were listless and widely outplayed. Townsend and Morgan, in a running and passing combination, gave Big Spring six points.

Only a brilliant defensive stand here saved the Steers from defeat in 1933. The Bobcats were doped to win by from two to six touchdowns, but a desperate battle made it a scoreless deadlock.

A year ago the Steers wheeled into their own. They won the district title for the first time, defeating San Angelo, 14 to 6.

The Bovines would doubtless have run up a much bigger score had not Capt. Bob Flowers made a slip in the third period that gave the Cats a touchdown. Cordill scored the fourteen points for Big Spring.

San Angelo seeks revenge here Nov. 11. The Bobcats have run through a comparatively tough non-district card undefeated while Big Spring, potentially strong, has won only four out of seven.

The record makes San Angelo favorite. The Big Spring record: Big Spring 25; Pecos 6. Big Spring 14; Abilene 18. Big Spring 25; Austin (El Paso) 6.

Big Spring 9; Bowie (El Paso) 6. Big Spring 12; Fort Worth Poly 12. Big Spring 19; Cisco 7. Big Spring 6; Plainview 0.

The San Angelo game status: San Angelo 50; Ranger 0. San Angelo 44; Cisco 0. San Angelo 0; Breckenridge 0. San Angelo 18; Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) 7. San Angelo 20; Northside (Fort Worth) 6.

FD To Participate In Georgia Program WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt will participate in a Georgia homecoming celebration in Atlanta, Nov. 29, and his speech on that occasion will be broadcast, the Georgia senatorial delegation said today on leaving the White House.

National Football Picture

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. (U.P.)—Here's the major college football situation in a nutshell, at the close of October's warfare: East—Army, Temple, Princeton, Dartmouth and Syracuse unbeaten, untied.

Middle West—Ohio State, Minnesota, and Iowa unbeaten and untied in race for Big Ten title honors. Notre Dame and Marquette also with spotless records. Purdue victim of Carnegie in day's main upset. Kansas in lead for Big Six title.

South—North Carolina, only remaining big conference team neither beaten nor tied. Alabama making comeback. Southwest—Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor untied and unbeaten. Pacific Coast—California and University of California at Los Angeles, both untied and unbeaten.

South Display Star Gridders

Although the Rose Bowl champions have met defeat and have had a hard time with all their opponents up to date, the Alabamians still retain several stars who bid for national rating last year. Gone are Millard, Howell, Don Hutson, and Bill Lee from last year's great eleven, but Kay Francis, Riley Smith, and Joe Angelo are still around and all seem going things. Francis, the man, weighs 196, Angelich 162, 202. Both Angelich and the mail in the backfield, is a great blocker while back to direct the team in brilliant fashion he displays.

Most every major eleven that has thus far been a factor in the race for honors in the Southeastern conference can boast of at least one candidate that will have to be seriously considered for the mythical national crown.

Auburn, Louisiana State, Vanderbilt, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky, Duke and Tulane in the Southeastern circle, all can nominate at least one star that will have to be considered.

The Plainmen of Alabama Poly or Auburn as it is generally known, are enjoying a better season this year than in 1934 when they won only two games and among the lads aiding in the fight to regain the spotlight are Billy Hitchcock, a ruisman of the great Jimmy, and Joe Stewart. Hitchcock, a half back, weighs 185, while the signal calling Stewart tips the scales at 155. Both lads were prominent in the surprising early season victory over Tulane.

There is no team in the south that can boast of more stars than can Louisiana State of Baton Rouge.

At- and is Gynell Tinsley, at tackle is Justin Ruckas, and in the secondary is Jess Fathree and Abe Mickal. Tinsley and Mickal have been the hardest to stop. The Tiger wing, who weighs 185, is a great blocker as well as being adept at bringing in all sorts of passes with his big sky hooks. Mickal is usually on the tossing end of all those aerials.

At Vanderbilt, where Ray Morrison took his aerial circus, Willie Geny is a ranking end. Geny, weighing 197, made all-Southern honors in 1934 and is enjoying a great season this year. Grady played a big part in the Commodore's early season win over Mississippi.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Barron have returned from Bloomington, Anderson County, Texas, where they were guests of the latter's father, William T. Gilmore, who celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary Oct. 17. There were eight children present for the reunion. Mr. and Mrs. Barron on their return trip to Big Spring, spent several days in Austin and San Antonio, making the trip by automobile.

Mrs. Reginald Jarvis of Crane is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Patterson.

STEER FIELD IS INSPECTED

San Angelo School Men Here Monday Afternoon

Chester Kenley, San Angelo school official, accompanied by two board members, Emmett Cox and Ed Blanton, inspected Steer stadium Monday afternoon and conferred with local school authorities on arrangements for the Steer-Bobcat game here Nov. 11.

The San Angeloans asked for fifteen hundred reserved seat duets and predicted a record crowd of six or eight thousand spectators for the traditional battle. Ticket sale will start in San Angelo and Big Spring next Tuesday.

The present seating capacity at Steer stadium is three thousand, and it will probably be doubled for the Angelo game. Although complete arrangements have not been made as to seating, school officials expect to put seats where ever possible, surrounding the field. The pep squads and bands will be put in chairs along the sidelines to make room for cash customers.

After a conference with members of the local school board, it was decided to allow the San Angelo radio station to broadcast the game.

Tough Test For Baylor Bruins

WACO, Oct. 29.—Realizing that their real tests lie ahead of them, the Baylor university Bears settled down to heavy training Monday afternoon to make ready for the invasion of Coach Dutch Meyer's undefeated Texas Christian Frogs next Saturday afternoon. The tussle, matched between two of the three unbeaten teams of the Southwest conference, is Homecoming for Baylor.

Back on their home field Monday after a stormy season in Aggieland last week-end, which game the Bears copped 14-6, Coach Morley Jennings' Bruins took up their training duties with a smile after having run their string of victories to six for the current season. Two of these wins were at the expense of other Southwest conference elevens.

The Bears, in their role of dark-horse of the conference race, had little trouble subduing the "new deal" Aggies on Kyle field last Saturday by a touchdown margin. Trailing at the half as a result of the play of a second-string line, the Grizzlies came back strong in the second period to pass their way to the victory.

With the exception of two or three Bruins who received minor bruises, the Grizzly team emerged from that hard-fought battle in good physical condition. On Parry's giant tackle, got a bad lick on his injured ankle, while Masters plunging halfback, received a few bruises and shake-ups as a result of the fierce blocking and tackling of the Farmers.

'COTTON STATES' LEAGUE PARLEY

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 29. (U.P.)—The East Dixie and West Dixie baseball leagues faced next year's season today with their names changed.

At a meeting here yesterday of club owners, the East Dixie circuit's cognomen was changed to "Cotton States League," and the West Dixie members decided to call their league hereafter as "East Texas League."

Alvin Gardner, president of Dixie leagues for several years, submitted his resignation. Action was deferred until a future meeting. Gardner is president of the Texas two leagues voted to open their season April 22 and close it on Aug. 23. They will use the Shaughnessy pennant play-off plan.

New Supreme Court Home Draws Crowds

Throngs Present On Decision Days To Learn New Deal's Fate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — The principal attraction in the capital these days for the general public is that magnificent pile of marble on the hill which is the new home of the supreme court.

The crowds that throng the corridors, especially on Mondays when decisions are handed down, appear to be different from the usual run of sight-seers merely intent on inspecting Washington's newest and most beautiful building. The patient manner in which they stand in long lines outside the chamber in the hope of being admitted impresses an observer.

It is as if the crowd senses the fact that the next and most important chapters in the "new deal" drama are about to be enacted. The average person probably knows little about the details of what is in the offing. He has a vague understanding that the nine justices are about to do something eventful and significant concerning the "new deal."

And remembering the NRA show of a few months back, he wants to be on hand.

The main attraction, of course, is the Hoosac Mills case — better known as the case which will determine the constitutionality of the AAA processing tax. What the court decides here may be of even greater consequence than followed its historic decision invalidating the national recovery act.

There are, however, at least five other "new deal" test cases pending of the greatest importance. They involve such highly controversial issues as the authority of the federal government to tax for the general welfare, the administration's farm program and the electric power "yardstick."

Cases Pending

Besides the Hoosac Mills case, involving the AAA processing taxes, there are five other "new deal" cases pending of great importance. They are:

1. The second processing tax case seeking reversal of a decision that such taxes must be paid with respect to wheat and corn products processed subsequent to the date of enactment by congress last session of the AAA amendment.
2. The so-called Ashwander case involving the Tennessee Valley Authority's constitutional right to sell electric power.
3. The so-called Ashwander case challenging the government's authority to exercise the power of condemnation for the purpose of acquiring privately owned land upon which to construct a slum-clearance and low-cost housing project.
4. The first cotton control act case involving the right to transport in interstate commerce bales of cotton on which the tax imposed by the act had not been paid.
5. The second cotton control act seeking to enjoin federal officials from collecting a tax on cotton grown by a state on a tract of land owned by the state.

Grateful for False Fire Alarm

BILLINGS, Mont. (U.P.)—Franksters who rang a false fire alarm here earned a gratitude of Fire Chief V. H. Cole. When equipment and men failed to arrive, an investigation was ordered and it was discovered that wire trouble had developed in the alarm system.

V. H. Flewollen Honor Guest For Pretty Hallowe'en Dinner In Celebration Of Birthday

Mrs. V. H. Flewollen was hostess to five couples Monday evening for a lovely Hallowe'en dinner party in celebration of the day being Mr. Flewollen's birthday.

The house was attractively decorated for the occasion. The centerpiece on the dining table was a Hallowe'en pumpkin filled with fruit. Orange-shaded globe; lent a subdued light, and nutcups representing "small pumpkins" furnished color notes at each plate.

After the dinner, the evening was spent in games and contests. Most amusing of these was guessing the identity of the guests from their by-pictures. A joke prize was awarded Mr. Flewollen for guessing the most correctly.

The table was laid for the following in addition to the honor guest and Mrs. Flewollen: Mr. and Mrs. R. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. House, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Croft and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cunningham.

Country Club To Give Dance On Hallowe'en Eve

Invitations have been issued to the members of the Country Club inviting them to a Hallowe'en supper dance Wednesday evening. The buffet supper will be served at 12:30 a. m.

Features of the dance include music furnished by the Jimmy Ross orchestra and a floor show at 11 o'clock directed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riegel. The dance will be informal, said the hostesses of the evening.

1st Baptist W.M.S. Plans Church Fete

All Circles Meet For Monthly Business Session

The Christine Coffee circle gave a missionary program Monday morning when the First Baptist W. M. S. met at the church for its monthly business and program session of all circles.

Mrs. Cornelison gave the devotional and Mrs. Creech Coffee was program leader. Assisting her were: Mmes. W. R. Douglass, E. Reagan, C. S. Holmes, W. D. Cornelison, J. A. Coffey and John C. Skillern.

During the business session over which Mrs. Layne presided the members voted to observe all-church night on the evening of Nov. 8 at the church. Mrs. J. A. Coffey was named in charge of the program and Mrs. L. J. Guley, decorations. On the invitation committee were: Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Herring and Mrs. W. D. Cornelison.

The circles and officers made their monthly reports. A delicious chicken salad plate with ice cream and angel food for dessert was served at noon to the following:

Mmes. W. R. Douglass, L. Layne, R. C. Hatch, J. A. Bode, C. S. Holmes, K. S. Eckert, R. E. Day, C. C. Coffey, Viola Bowles, B. Reagan, W. D. Cornelison, R. V. Hart, M. R. Gordon, Mildred Jones, H. P. Wood, H. H. Squyres, Herring, John C. Skillern, B. F. Robbins and E. E. Bryant.

Idle Art Members Are Guests Of Mrs. Fletcher Sneed

Mrs. Fletcher Sneed was hostess to the Idle Art Bridge club Tuesday evening for a club session and a table of guests.

Miss Robinson made club high score and Mrs. Jarvis guest high, for which she was awarded a pair of hosiery.

The guests were Mrs. Searcy Whaley, Mrs. Franklin Nugent, Mrs. Reginald Jarvis of Crane and Miss Lucille Rix.

Members attending were: Misses Veda Robinson, Imogene Runyan, Evelyn Merrill, Eleanor Gates, Emma Louise Freeman, Mrs. Kelly Burns and Mrs. Harold Lytle. Mrs. Burps will be the next hostess.

To Hold Food School

Dr. Rose Fraser Returns For Food School

Dr. Rose A. G. Fraser will open her second health-food school in Big Spring Monday, she announced upon her arrival from San Angelo Tuesday.

Dr. Fraser conducted a school in the Settles Hotel ballroom this summer that was one of the most successful schools ever held here at the summertime. She told the women of Big Spring then that she planned to return in November and to specialize in talks for school children's lunches and other problems that concern housekeepers in the fall.

Dr. Fraser is an M. D. with a successful and interesting work record behind her, as well as many years of experience in the practice of medicine in New York. She has been residing in the Southwest for several years.

East Ward P.T.A. To Stage Carnival

The East Ward P.T.A. will stage a carnival Friday evening at 7:30 at the school building. There will be a fortune telling booth and a popcorn booth with Mrs. Herring and Mrs. Terry in charge.

Mrs. Brooks will be in charge of a fish pond and Mrs. R. L. Glaser the children's play room. Cake, coffee and hot chocolate will be on sale.

Mrs. Roy Wilson will plan the program. Mrs. Sidney Woods is chairman of the carnival.

House Of Bishops To Meet In Texas

The regular meeting of the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church for 1935 will be in Houston on Nov. 5, 6 and 7 under the chairmanship of the Right Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D., presiding bishop of the church.

Such a meeting has not been held in Texas since November, 1923, when during the brief administration of the late Bishop Alec C. Garrett of Dallas as presiding bishop the house met in Dallas.

There are 140 bishops, including 10 foreign missionary bishops and 19 retired prelates.

The Right Rev. C. S. Quin, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Texas, which is the southeast fifth of the state, is host to the meeting.

Many of the bishops are preaching in various Texas cities while in the state, and the Episcopalians of this district are particularly happy to have the presiding bishop, the Right Rev. Dr. Perry, bishop of Rhode Island, visit North Texas on the invitation of Bishop Seaman, and preach in St. Andrew's church, Amarillo, on the morning of Armistice day.

The Right Rev. E. Cecil Seaman, D. D., of North Texas, with jurisdiction in 89 northwestern counties and headquarters in Amarillo, will attend the session of the house of bishops. He will preach on the Sunday before in Grace church, Galveston, and on Sunday following in St. Andrew's church, Fort Worth, in the morning and in St. John's, Fort Worth, at night.

Business Is Transacted By Presbyterians

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met at the church for a business session Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Sam Baker, president, was in the chair. The circles and officers made their reports. The Christmas conference and the report of the Pres. Mex girls were highlights of this number. Attending were: Mmes. R. T. Pinger, H. W. Caylor, L. A. White, Frank Knau, E. L. Harrick, D. A. Koons, Sam Baker, E. C. Boutler, J. T. Allison, Guy Tamsett, Raymond Dunagan, A. A. Porter, Herbert Stanley, H. C. Slipp, Geo. Lee, B. V. Middleton, W. G. Wilson, Smith, Hal Farley, Tom Donnelly, H. G. Foonhee, T. S. Currie, L. C. McDowell, Ed Moser, O. T. Arnold.

PYTHIAN SISTERS
The Pythian Sisters announced a very important meeting Wednesday afternoon at the W. O. W. Hall at 2 o'clock. All members urged to attend.

Mrs. Cecil Reid Is Hostess To Friendship Class Members For Jolly Hallowe'en Meeting

Mrs. Cecil Reid extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the Friendship class of the First Baptist Sunday School Monday evening for a jolly Hallowe'en party that was also the class business meeting for the month of October.

The colors of black and orange were artistically carried out in the room decorations and in the atmosphere of the party was heightened by the appropriate costumes of the guests.

A fortune telling game vied with other contests suitable to the occasion.

During the business meeting the friendship pails were revealed. Delicious refreshments in the evening's color scheme were served to: Mmes. Erwin Daniels, Hugh Hendrix, L. A. Bryce, Elmer Dyer, Forest Underwood, E. B. Moorman, Gene Acuff, Vernon Mason, F. E. Lynn, P. O. Bishop, E. T. Chandler, J. B. Dean, Bob Phillips, Ira Powell, Bob Hatch, H. P. Keller, Richard Lytle, R. L. Gomillion and Miss Sidney Rose.

Duplicate Winners Are Announced; Class To Meet Next Monday Eve

Winners at the duplicate evening class at the Crawford hotel Monday night were Mrs. Tom Ashley and Mrs. Howard Houser who substituted for Miss Nancy Averitt and Mrs. W. H. Broughton.

Mrs. Ashley Williams, teacher, announced that the next evening meeting would be held one week from Monday night instead of two weeks, due to the conflict of Armistice day.

Chalk Young People Invited To Ranch

FORSAN, Oct. 29—Mrs. O'Bar Smith was hostess to a number of the Chalk young people Friday evening at the O'Bar ranch. Indoor games were played. The hostess served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, gingerbread boys and chocolate.

Present were: Elton Neely, Neil Manning, Raymond and Maxine Morelan, Seymour Ballard, Louise Holt, Kathleen and James Underwood, Bonnell Edwards, Jodie and Myrtle Distler, Lloyd Brown, Marjorie Moore.

Mrs. A. W. Page has gone to Dallas for a few days.

Mrs. Cage Is Honoree For Nice Shower

Circle Four Of Methodist W.M.S. Meets At Mrs. Croft's

Circle four of the First Methodist W.M.S. met with Mrs. L. W. Croft Monday afternoon for a social session. Mrs. Carl Williams gave the World Outlook report. Mrs. Lochridge and Mrs. Manion presented the third chapter of the study book.

Mrs. C. D. Cage, a member of the circle, who is moving from Big Spring to San Antonio, was given a handkerchief shower by the circle members.

Present were: Mmes. E. C. Master, Nabors, J. B. Sloan, J. A. Myers, Ida Rowland, Hugh Duncan, Carl Williams, C. F. Lochridge, Russell Manion, Cage and Miss Mattie Healey.

Circles Of E. 4th Meet Together At Church To Sew

The various circles of the East Fourth Street Baptist W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a combined session. Mrs. L. S. Patterson gave the devotional from Romans.

The time was spent in sewing for Buckner's orphans home.

Attending were: Mmes. Ira Martin, Temple Rodgers, Ira Cook, L. E. Craig, Ben Carpenter, G. R. Phillips, V. Phillips, Emma Lynch, H. C. Burnett, Anna Roach, W. A. Page, Alpha Byrne, W. S. Garnett, Joe Wright, L. Robinson, F. L. Turpin, W. O. McClendon, J. R. Richborough, W. T. Bolt, G. W. Adkins, R. A. Humble, H. H. Smith, Ennis Rainey, C. H. McGinnis, Cecil Floyd, Sam Moreland, D. W. Thompson, S. H. Morrison, D. W. Anderson, Mary and Gladys Cowling.

The circles will meet in their respective homes, the homes to be announced later.

Mrs. C. O. Priddy of Stamford is visiting her sister, Mrs. Curtis Head.

Here's Real Help In Avoiding Many Miserable Colds

Unique Medication Designed to Aid Nature's Defenses in Nose and Throat, Where Most Colds Start.

PROVED IN USE BY MILLIONS

In the exclusive formula of Vicks Vapo-rinol has been found a unique and successful aid in preventing many colds—winter's threat to our comfort and health. Vapo-rinol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It aids and stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages. Used in time—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—just a few drops up each nostril—Vapo-rinol helps to avoid many colds.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Vapo-rinol reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

For Fewer and Shorter Colds
Note to mothers—who guard the family's health: Vicks has developed, especially for you, a practical Plan for Better Home Control of Colds. This guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of Vicks Plan in each Vapo-rinol package.

Be sure to get your money's worth

It's your money. You've earned it. It will be spent. For fuel, clothes, furniture, food, all sorts of necessities... and if there's any left, for luxuries.

The way to make that hard-earned money go farthest is to purchase products of certain value. Products backed by well-known manufacturers. Products that are widely bought and used, that are carefully and painstakingly kept to high standards of quality, and that have been found over and over again to give full worth. Advertised products!

When you buy a watch or a rake, a set of china or a radio set that is advertised in this paper, you are buying a product whose maker is willing to talk about it, tell about it, put what he knows about it in print and sign his name to it. When you buy advertised merchandise by name, you get the utmost of purchasing value from every dollar.

Because it doesn't pay to advertise poor products, it DOES pay to buy those advertised.

AN INDUSTRY ON ITS TOES

Automobile manufacturers, like most of the rest of us, are not in business for their health; and if they are spending a lot of money in stepping up the pace of the motorcar industry, it is because they anticipate increased buying of autos. But the fact remains that the automotive trade has pointed the way in the uphill climb from Depression's depths, and for that deserves some recognition.

Industrial activity over the nation hit a new high for the year last week, because the car manufacturers were turning out new models in record numbers.

The auto show opens on Saturday of this week, when "bigger and better" cars will be shown. Many of the 1936 lines already are on display at local dealers—Big Spring has her share of them—and the automotive men are all set for a new season.

The time has come when the old model looks very shabby in comparison, and many of us are thinking about how we can manage a trade-in. The demand for automobile replacements is great, just as it is for replacement in scores of other lines. The motorcar industry is rising to the occasion, is ready to build and promote sales appeal.

It all means that more money will be spent for new cars, and the addition of that much toward the upturn in business activity. In re-establishing the "spending circle" the auto manufacturers are unquestionably the leaders.

REMEMBERING THE CONSUMER

Few farm interests have had a serious quarrel with the policies of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in its effort to boost farm prices by curtailment of production, largely because prices definitely were advanced. The AAA has come in for much denunciation, however, from Mr. Consumer, who has viewed with consternation the steady climb in the price of the food and other articles he purchases.

Mr. Consumer, therefore, will welcome Monday's announcement that the AAA contemplates increasing next year's pork production by one-fourth to one-third; and will fervently hope that the increase will halt the rise in costs.

The AAA announcement came on the heels of a farmer-referendum in which producers voted by heavy majorities for continuance of production control. This result was no surprise. It was Al Smith, we believe, who asserted that nobody wants to shoot Santa Claus; and if AAA will play Santa Claus for another year, why shouldn't the farmer again hang up his stocking?

More to the point is that the plan to increase production so that an equitable price level will be reached—one that helps farm income without at the same time costing the consumer too heavily. The AAA would establish its value more fully if it can achieve this happy level. The consumer should have his little Christmas remembrance too.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—The real compensation for being a columnist in the world's busiest metropolis isn't always regarded as such at the time. One drifts through a welter of first nights, murder trials, interviews, and similar routine matters almost unaware that here and there a personality or a phrase is stenciling itself on the imagination to lie obscure perhaps for months before it comes zooming back, awakening the keenest of nostalgic pleasures.

Idling about the studio of Larry Thyme, the artist, on a recent morning I thought of this and then a host of observations, mostly made by outstanding personalities, came flooding back.

There was the time Grace Moore confessed her philosophy on the eternal feminine, in casual conversation at a party just after she had scored her first stunning success in pictures.

"For me, life begins at 7 p. m.," the damsel Moore said. "After work I always rest an hour and then don the most glamorous evening gown I own. Blue, black, and white are my favorite colors. I think every woman should spend a generous amount of time in front of her mirror. It's good for her."

Then there was the time in a Greenwich Village cafe when Geo. Biddle hailed the depression as the fuse to a real Renaissance in American art. "All vital schools of national art have accompanied national and economic crises," Biddle insisted. "It was the same with the great periods of Babylonian, Persian, Assyrian, and Chinese art." Shortly before this the tall, grey haired fighter for his cause wrote a letter to President Roosevelt which resulted in hundreds and thousands of artists being given employment on government assignments.

Not long after this I talked with Ernst Dryden, the Viennese illustrator, who looks to America as the ultimate savior of world culture. "It is traditional to speak of Europe as the cultural stronghold of the world," he went on in what seemed to me a singular vein for an European, "but to do so now is to air one's ignorance not only of this country but of continental Europe. America need not fear a comparison. Indeed, it will not be long before it has its own haute couture"—which last, I confess, sent me scurrying for the office dictionary.

Other moments that ring like bells include a September noon, when your weary correspondent was slipping out of the office, after an all-night assignment, for a shower and some much needed sleep. I had reached the door when the Simon Legree of this outfit barked my name. I went over

WASHINGTON

By IRA BENNETT

Tied—

Europe is waiting for a word from President Roosevelt that will give League of Nations the Dutch courage necessary to apply effective sanctions against Italy. The league hints that it wants Roosevelt to cooperate in boycotting Italy.

Roosevelt cannot accommodate the league without violating the neutrality resolution. That resolution forbids any discrimination between belligerents. It bans war commerce with them all. The league procedure, on the contrary, abolishes neutrality and proposes punishment of one belligerent as the aggressor.

Roosevelt is known to share his countrymen's opinion that Italy provoked this war. But his hands are tied. If he should go too far in encouraging the league boycott he would be promptly called to account by the millions who fight shy of entanglement with the League of Nations.

Coming—

What Roosevelt can do, without being unneutral, is to enlarge the list of war material to be embargoed. The built-up list would apply to Ethiopia as well as Italy—but its practical effect would be to hit Italy hard.

Export watchers say that stuff is going forward to Mediterranean markets in the usual volume. Strong commercial interests intend to go ahead, selling to Italy until they are stopped by Presidential action.

In view of all circumstances it is reasonable to expect another proclamation putting an embargo upon essential war materials.

Moving—

The commercial staff of the Italian Embassy is busy buying military supplies and paying hard cash for them. No difficulty is found in obtaining ship charters. British tramp steamers cheerfully undertake deliveries. The threatened league boycott doesn't become effective until Oct. 31—and it will not affect cargoes from the United States.

Italy's commercial attache, Romolo Angelone, is confident that no all-embracing embargo will be declared by the President. If he is right, the league embargo will switch to America huge orders that would have been filled in Europe.

No authority exists for an embargo on money transfers. Italy can pay for all its purchases.

Continuing—

Henry Wallace wins a famous victory! Corn-hog producers give him a tremendous majority of "ayes" on his question: "Do you want me to continue giving you checks for not producing?"

Senators have told Whirligig that "this referendum business must stop." But it goes merrily on—it's the law.

Only a Supreme Court crackdown or collapse of the New Deal can head off the system whereby Wallace obtains "legal sanction" from farmers for extending the corn-hog benefits for another year. If processing taxes disappear, Roosevelt promises revenue from taxes to finance the handout.

Fame—

Pennsylvania leads the states in preparing to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the formation of the Constitution. The patriotic and historical societies of that state have met to arrange a program for 1937.

The Constitution commission in charge of the national celebration is laying the groundwork for widespread observance of the anniversary. States will celebrate their ratification of the Constitution or their admission into the Union. Special commemorative stamps will be issued.

Sol Bloom, representative from New York, is director-general of the commission. He is planning a literary and dramatic output designed to make the Constitution as familiar as the history of George Washington, who was made famous by Sol.

Practical—

Gov. Allred of Texas hasn't given up the hope of enlisting Uncle Sam's pecuniary interest in a national gas pipeline from Texas to the East. Hundreds of millions of cubic feet of gas escape every hour in Texas, and it's a doggone shame that people in the East can't have it at cheap rates.

The present pipeline reaches as far as Detroit. What the Texans want is a public line that will supply the populous East.

If something effective must be forthcoming to take up the employment slack, why not a pipeline? asks the practical Texan.

to his desk. He looked carefully about. "Get down to the Greenwich police station," he ordered. "We have a tip that the Lindbergh story is about to break."

Hustling a cab, I streaked through town to the Greenwich Street spot where the gloomy station rests. Newspapers were pouring in from every direction. We fought and scrambled our way into the high court yard, now a-jitter with rumor and speculation, clamoring for news.

A few moments later the world was uttering a new name—a name it hadn't heard before but one which soon was to become a household word. The name of Bruno Richard Hauptmann!

NEW YORK

By JAMES McMULLIN

Irony—

New Yorkers in close touch with Europe say the inside feeling between Britain and France is much more bitter than appears on the surface. The British are secretly convinced that Mussolini wouldn't be nearly so stubborn if he hadn't been getting surreptitious moral support from Premier Laval. They virtually accuse Laval of double-crossing them and are bringing all the private pressure they can which isn't very effective—to squeeze Laval out of his job and have anglophile Edouard Herriot replace him.

Laval and his ministers are well aware of this and naturally resent it. Moreover they don't like the idea of being forced to tailor their policy to fit British requirements. They feel they have been strong-armed to make a British political holiday. If it weren't for the ever-present Hitler menace they would love to tell John Bull to go peddle his fish elsewhere.

Ever since the World War—until recently—England has been working quietly for some sort of Franco-German rapprochement. Keen observers now see such a rapprochement as a distinct possibility.

But ironically—if it comes—it will be essentially anti-British and will have been brought about primarily by the rising tide of French antagonism to British.

Careful—

Financial sharps note that Laval has a weapon at hand that could hurt the British a lot—John Bull gets too rough with him—an embargo on French gold exports. This move has been discussed before—mainly as a measure of internal economic defense. But if an embargo should be declared in the next few weeks the primary motive will be to make trouble for England.

Such a step would have wide im-lications. Britain has been able to manage her currency successfully because she could keep it in any desired balance with the gold franc. She could do so no longer if the franc were detached from gold. An embargo would be tantamount to devaluation. The franc would drop in the world markets and sterling would rise—which is the last thing the British would like to see happen.

You might put it that the French government has the power to upset the entire British monetary policy of the past four years. The sterling bloc—which has given Britain an immense world trade advantage—might disintegrate rapidly if the pound were to lose its gold franc compass. So it behooves Stanley Baldwin & Co. to be careful not to ride their neighbor too hard.

Irked—

Utility leaders are feeling quite cocky these days. They are supremely confident that the Baltimore court will decide the American States Public Service case in their favor and rule the holding company law unconstitutional. But impartial observers doubt that all this cheerfulness is justified. They point out that the government wasn't officially represented in the defense—and is therefore hardly likely to accept the test as conclusive. Moreover, the Supreme Court might give weight to the government's contention that the case was framed against it.

New Dealers are privately irked about this "collusive" attempt to get the judicial nullification of the law. Their attitude bodes no good—if the law is eventually upheld for the bright boys of the Edison Institute who thought up the ingenious angle of excluding the government from participation in the suit.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, with a touch of pride in the energy of his charges, said the windows were saved from destruction only by placing boards over them. These are removed only when the children make their "personal appearances" for tourists.

The girls next discovered the electric light plugs on the floor and spent much time trying to stuff toys in them. The fuses were saved only when Dr. Dafeo ordered the plugs raised six feet from the floor.

The high cost of replacing dishes and glasses broken when the girls hilariously hurled them to the floor was worrying the staff until silver mugs and unbreakable plates were substituted.

The babies are in perfect health and are showing rapid physical and mental development, Dr. Dafeo said. All the quintuplets soon will be walking without assistance. Yvonne, Cecile and Annette already are "poking around by themselves," Dr. Dafeo said, and Maria and Emilio get about by holding onto a nurse's finger.

Dionne Quints Reaching The Age Of Mischief

CALLANDER, Ont., Oct. 29 (U.P.)—The Dionne quintuplets, 17-months old Monday, have arrived at that playful age when they think it is great sport to throw blocks and toys at the windows of their private hospital and listen for the tinkle of breaking glass.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, with a touch of pride in the energy of his charges, said the windows were saved from destruction only by placing boards over them. These are removed only when the children make their "personal appearances" for tourists.

HIGH COURAGE

Chapter Three OLD NURSE

"You wouldn't understand," Rob answered, evasively, and turned Anne's attention to a canvas bag before which they had stopped. "Here's where we begin. They weigh the fish in here, then send them through that chute there where they're washed and cleaned, sealed, headed and washed again. . . let's forget Neuman." He pulled at her arm, and Anne, smiling at the two high-boated fishermen who stood waiting to learn the total of their catch, moved on. "Sharlee was at the office when she recognizes." Anne stopped and turned towards Rob Crocker, her dark eyes steady as they surveyed him. "You snob," she said and walked away; walked blindly away towards the first exit she saw, and not until she had passed through and found the gale whipping her jacket about her, did she realize she was on the narrow ledge which ran along the western side of the cannery.

As troubled as the waters which swirled below her, she stared down at them. What was the matter with Rob, with her father, with everybody? They all seemed to be ready to snap at the slightest provocation.

Could it be that there was trouble brewing between her father and Anne impulsively rushed into the waiting arms.

I drove in," Rob went on, "she invited me up to dinner with the family—"

"How did she know we were in town?"

"Seems your father telephoned Lee at some unearthly hour last night. As you folks haven't a car here, suppose we all drive up from the hotel in mine?"

"All right," Anne paused because they had entered the cannery proper, a great silver grey room where machinery whirled and roared. She watched as a huge fish went into an "iron chink" to reappear severed in sections.

"Will there be anyone there, excepting us?" she asked as they moved on.

"Just the Farleys."

Anne hoped her quick grimace of distaste hadn't been observed by Rob. She turned quickly to where a woman in a green and grey uniform watched a machine which deftly took a flat piece of tin, cut it, twirled it into a cylinder and passed it on.

"Here's how they're packed," droned Rob, in a flat uninterested voice.

They had paused beside another machine which was carrying empty cans along a groove, filling them with matched sections of fish, and passing them on. The woman who guarded this glanced up as they stopped, and suddenly her serious stolid expression changed to one of radiant recognition.

"Nikki?" she cried, looking at Anne. "You must be mistaken," Anne paused, Nikki, the name strummed at some dim chord of memory.

"Nikki?" repeated Anne, then "Of course, that's what my nurse used to call me." She looked at the woman a second time, then impulsively rushed into the waiting arms.

"Rob," she cried, "this is Tecla, Tecla Soriki, who took care of me the first six years of my life. It's been ages since I've seen you, Tecla, not since I was ten. What are you doing here?"

Tecla Soriki's face lost its radiance as the mild blue eyes encountered those of Rob Crocker. "I work," she answered stolidly. "You will stay in Astoria for a while?" she asked.

"A couple of days at least," Anne answered, "we're stopping at the hotel, you'll come up and see me won't you?"

"Yes," agreed the woman. "Maybe I tell you some more stories," she added, and Anne noticed the blue eyes were twinkling with mischief.

"Will you? I've never forgotten those you used to tell. Remember the one—"

"Anne, we'll have to hurry," Rob interposed.

"I know," she agreed. Then to Mrs. Soriki, "when will you come up? Tonight, I'm going to have to go to the Leo Farnsworths for dinner."

"Yes," nodded Tecla, "my Milna, she waits 't'able there, tonight."

"I'll be glad to see her, and Orvi, how is he? You know, Rob, her son Orvi was only two months older than I and he used to boss me."

"Anne," Rob caught her elbow in a firm grip, "if you intend to make the rounds of the cannery and return to the hotel in time to dress—" her fiancé? Luke had certainly been unpleasantly surprised at finding Rob in Astoria. He hadn't felt full confidence in Rob, or he would have told him his destination, and wouldn't have warned her to say nothing of their intention to visit the fish traps.

"Anne," Rob had wheeled through the door and was holding her in his arms. "Anne dear, forgive me. I've been upset all day. Yvonne calls me and tells me you've left town on some mysterious trip, then I reach the office and with worried piled high comes the call from here telling of trouble among the fishermen.

"No trace of your father, and nothing to do but jump into the car and race down here, and you know that road. I reached here just in time to see you try to drown yourself—"

"I know, Rob," Anne agreed generously. "I know, because I've felt the same way, all day long. Suppose you take me to the hotel, now, and we'll finish this four tomorrow."

At the hotel, Anne found her mother still distraught from the experience of the afternoon. "I lived a thousand years before that young man grasped the cable and swung out to save you," she declared. "Did Rob thank him?"

Florida Maps Plans For A Record Year

Winter Vacationists May Number 7,500,000 This Season

By DAVID SHOLTZ
Governor of Florida

(Written for the United Press)
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 29. (U.P.)—Florida is on the verge of its greatest winter.

From every source of reliable information, and from the thousands of letters that are pouring into this state to make hotel and house reservations and other arrangements for life through the winter, this statement is borne out.

Never before has the state been as well equipped for the influx into the nation's winter playground as it is now. Every facility for taking care of winter visitors has been gone over and placed in readiness. Hotels and apartments—under strict supervision of the state hotel commission—have been rebuilt and reconstructed for winter residents and tourists.

Public opinion has been aroused within the state, to such an extent during the past two or three years that gouging of tourists and visitors is virtually a thing of the past.

Retaining its fame as a winter playground for the wealthy, Florida more than ever this year is a haven for visitors of lesser circumstances. Prices are on a par with those in other states.

Every angle of the business of tourist entertainment may honestly be said to be under the watchful eye of some supervising body—a body that is more than ever watchful to see that the visitor gets full value for his vacation dollar.

This year, more than ever before, Florida is joining forces to keep out the panhandler. Undesirables that have, in previous years, stalked the streets to the discomfort of visitors and our residents, will be turned back at state lines this year to give guests what they deserve—a safe and un molested period of pleasure and recreation.

7,500,000 Visitors Expected
Conservative estimates last year were that more than 5,000,000 persons spent at least part of the winter here.

My estimate this year, and a conservative one, is that fifty percent more visitors and tourists—or approximately 7,500,000 persons—will take advantage of Florida's facilities during the coming winter.

This estimate has been made after careful investigation of the most reliable sources.

To the people of Florida, this means increased prosperity and justification for their pains and labors in providing a welcome for guests. To the guests, it means

Commitment Of Pierson Boy To Asylum Delayed

AUSTIN, Oct. 29. (U.P.)—Commitment of Howard Pierson, 21, confessed slayer of his father and mother, to an insane asylum may be delayed for several days.

The jury verdict that he is insane, given in District Judge C. A. Wheeler's court late Saturday, will have to be made into a formal transcript for filing with County Judge George Matthews. Commitment will be by Judge Matthews on the transcript from the district court.

Commitment must be to one of the several state asylums. The Austin state hospital likely will be designated. The commitment may not mean immediate transfer from the Travis county jail where the former college youth has been confined since the killing of his father, Justice William Pierson of the state supreme court and his mother, Mrs. Lena Pierson, April 24.

After commitment the transfer will not be made until the state board of control has room to accept a patient of his type in the asylum.

Pierson received the verdict without comment. Physicians say he is even more fixed in his delusions than he was at the time he took his mother and father to a lonely country road on pretext of showing them an Indian grindstone, shot them down and reported a highway robbery after wounding himself in the left arm.

Rev. W. G. Bailey Made Presiding Elder Of N. Mex. District

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bailey, of Stamford, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, spent Monday night in Big Spring visiting friends here.

Mr. Bailey has been transferred from Texas to New Mexico as presiding elder of the Albuquerque district. He plans to leave Stamford next week for Albuquerque, where he will make his home.

Chairman Of Flower Show Thanks Public

The general chairman of the Flower Show, Mrs. L. E. Eddy, wishes to thank the members of the Garden club publicly who co-operated with her so splendidly in making the 1935 Flower show the biggest event of its kind in the club history.

Registration of guests in late afternoon was much greater than anticipated. The club expected 200 and entertained more than 500 at the flower show. Many of the guests joined the club and others announced their intention of attending the club which will be held next Tuesday. The place will be announced later.

Mrs. Eddy said the co-operation of the committees working under her was responsible for the success of the show. She thanked also the Big Spring Motor company for use of its show rooms, and the flower-growers, who brought down plants and cuts flowers for exhibit and those who arranged the tables.

Ford Offers New Medium-Price Car

DEARBORN, Mich., Oct. 29. (U.P.)—The Ford Motor company has announced its entry into the medium price field with a private preview of the new 12-cylinder Lincoln Zephyr.

Of advanced conception, both as to engineering refinements and streamline appearance, the new companion car to the custom Lincoln will be first shown public in New York Nov. 2.

While price of the new machine was not disclosed, it was reported to be in the $1,500 range. The new offering places Ford to the first time in competition with manufacturers in each price class.

The company now builds the V-8 in the lowest price field, the Zephyr and the custom Lincoln.

In favor of Rawlings but on the second in favor of the anti-sales bloc.

Opponents of the instruction predicted that pension payments would not be possible without a sales tax while Poage asserted the only issue was determination "if you want a sales tax in the conference report."

Senator Tom Deberry of Bogata interpreted the house contingent as favorable to the levy and urged the instruction against possibility the senate contingent likewise would favor it.

New Flower Shop
Will Be Opened
Here Wednesday

A new Big Spring establishment, the ABC Flower Shop, will make its bow to the public Wednesday, when a formal opening will be held at the new firm's home in the Douglas hotel building, at 308 Runnels street.

The "open house" will start at 2:30, and Lewis Christian, manager of the shop, is inviting the public to visit the place. A flower will be given as a favor to each visitor.

Associated with Mr. Christian in the enterprise is Jack Asher. The shop has been repainted and redecorated, equipment has been placed and all will be in readiness for the formal opening Wednesday, Mr. Christian said. He said the shop will have in stock cut flowers and pot plants, and will do designing work.
