Reprisals Threatened As Ickes Asks Companies To Aid Government

(By the Associated Press)

Italy today viewed with suspicion, and threatened reprisals against, the action of Secretary Ickes in asking American oil companies to withhold shipments to Italy.

Exports Watched The United States continued to keep a close watch on exports to the belligerent nations.

Secretary Ickes had called on the oil industry yesterday to obey the "letter and spirit" of President Roosevelt's neutrality proclamation by halting shipments to Italy and Ethiopia.

Acknowledging that he had no authority to restrain shipments of petroleum and its products, the oil administrator expressed a belief that loss of this export trade would not force prices downward.

The price of crude petroleum has remained around $1 a barrel, the figure prevailing before the supreme court NRA decision wiped out federal authority to control production.

Ickes' statement that American oil industries "ought to cooperate both in the letter and spirit with efforts of the government to prevent furnishing war materials to either of the belligerents followed several statements by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull aimed at discouraging such American trade.

The articles covered by the mandatory embargo on exports to either Italy or Ethiopia are strictly "implements of war." The president recently said he had advised a prominent shoe manufacturer not to accept an Italian order.

Battle Reported The first real fighting "on any scale" was reported today from Adis Ababa in the Womberta region on Nov. 12. Italian losses were placed at 300, while Ethiopian casualties were not given.

Ras Seyoum, beaten off at Aboro Pass yesterday, circled and attacked the Italian rear guard today but his army was repulsed after a hot skirmish.

A private airplane, James Mills, Associated Press correspondent in the war zone, flew over the southern front, reporting that there were no gas cases among the Ethiopian wounded. He reported there was an unbounded enthusiasm among the troops for their emperor.

State Loses In Cigarette Tax Question

War Results In Increased U.S. Exports

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22. (UP)—In a majority opinion, the second court of civil appeals held today that the state of Texas cannot collect the three-cent per-package tax on cigarettes shipped into Texas in interstate commerce and cannot increase a tax on the purchaser for its consumption of the cigarettes.

The decision was a victory for Gunn Mueser, who had sought to prevent the state controller and his agents from interfering with Mueser's business, that of taking orders from Texas smokers and shipping cigarettes from warehouses in Oklahoma to fill the orders.

Lava Pouring From Volcano

HIT O. Hawaii, Nov. 22. (UP)—The great Mauna Loa volcano poured flaming rivers of molten lava down the mountainsides today, after a brief lull last night by an earthquake which sent a huge tidal wave pounding along the shores of the island of Hawaii.

The volcanic eruption's red light was visible in Honolulu, 200 miles away.

State Official Confers With Farmers Group

J. W. Chapman of the state extension service was scheduled to confer with the water and soil conservation committee of Howard county's agricultural association here 3:30 p. m. today.

On the committee are S. L. Lockhart, Lee S. Proctor, D. S. Satterwhite, Jr., M. H. Ulmer, Ed J. Carpenter, J. O. Rossier, Ray Wilson, Lem Stallings and George White.

BACK FROM HUNT C. W. Cunningham, Harold Homan, James A. Davis and F. H. Caughlin of Fort Worth returned from a week's deer hunt in the Davis mountain area near Toyah.

The party was successful in getting one black tail. Mr. Davis bagging one on the first day out.

Supervisor For WPA Visits Here

C. P. Miller, traveling supervisor for the division of finance and reports, state WPA headquarters in San Antonio, inspected the district headquarters here Friday.

Only other development of importance for the day at the WPA district offices was the receipt of work orders for three sanitation projects in Howard, Martin and Midland counties. Telegraphic confirmation of these orders were previously announced here.

City's Plea Against Garlington Still Before Appellate Court

The eleventh court of civil appeals completed its regular decision day Friday when the court rendered a ruling on the City of Big Spring's plea for a mandamus to compel County Judge J. S. Garlington to name three special commissioners to appraise damages occurring to property owners by reason of highway routing.

The case was submitted before the court last Friday. It had been expected by some that a decision could be handed down today. There was no indication, a message from Eastland said, as to when the ruling would be made.

Meat Inspection To Start On Dec. 1st

Requirements of New Ordinance Must Be Met

All meat sold in Big Spring must bear the city inspector's stamp after Dec. 1. H. W. Leeper, city health officer, said Friday.

Requirements governing the sale, slaughter and inspection of all meat in the city must be met by that time, warned Leeper in an announcement that the recently enacted meat ordinance will be strictly enforced.

Dr. Otto Wolfe, appointed city meat inspector, will regularly check abattoirs and meat shops to see if requirements are being satisfied.

During the months of November, December, January and February farmers and stockmen may butcher their stock at home, under sanitary conditions, and bring the meat to town for inspection. There will be no charge for the stamp during these months. For the remainder of the year, however, butchering must be done at approved places and a small inspection fee will be charged.

Mrs. Hawk To Be Interred Here Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie B. Hawk, who died Thursday morning in a Galveston hospital, will be held from the Eberley chapel at 3 p. m. Sunday, with Rev. W. S. Garrett, pastor of the East Fourth Baptist church, in charge.

The body was to be shipped from Galveston Friday evening. Mrs. Hawk, 44, widow of the well known trainman who died April 6, 1934, had been in the hospital for two weeks.

Mrs. Hawk was born in Huntsville, Alabama May 9, 1891 and had lived in Big Spring for the past 25 years. Mr. Hawk died in 1934, about a year after he had lost a leg beneath the wheels of a train in the railroad yards here.

Surviving Mrs. Hawk are three daughters, Miss Arthur Hawk, Big Spring, Miss Marie Hawk, Dallas, and Mrs. Geneva Loving, Big Spring. She also leaves a brother, Fred Irby, and her mother, Mrs. G. A. Hensey of Los Angeles, California. Irby will arrive here Saturday evening.

Palbearers will be Doc Meadows, Walter Simmons, Frank Wilson, J. A. Glover, M. H. Morrison, and Charles Williams, Midland. Members of the Trainman's auxiliary, to which Mrs. Hawk belonged, will have charge of services at the graveside.

Burial will be in the New Mt. Olive cemetery beside the body of her husband.

Find No Trace Of Kingsford-Smith

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 22. (UP)—Renewed hopes of finding Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith alive dimmed tonight when an airplane failed to find him on Sayer Island, in the Bay of Bengal off Siam.

Hopes that the famed Australian flier was still alive were revived by the sight of flares on the lonely island.

Limits Action To A Censure For Official

Was Guilty Of Negligent And Indiscreet Acts, Report Asserts

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—The house of representatives today held that J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, had been guilty of acts "ill-becoming" to a state official, but not warranting impeachment.

Vote 73 to 59

Sitting as a committee of the whole, the house adopted, 73 to 59, a resolution that in effect censured McDonald for certain official misconduct, but stopped impeachment proceedings on technical charges.

"I have done no wrong," McDonald said. "Every cent of the department's money is accounted for. I feel I was entitled to complete exoneration."

After the committee adoption, the house then approved its report as a committee, 87 to 44.

Deserved Censure The resolution said it was the sense of the committee that McDonald "by reason of his negligent and indiscreet acts and conduct was deserving of censure."

Charges of official misconduct had been preferred against McDonald. Evidence in the hearing was completed yesterday and adoption of the resolution today followed attorneys' arguments.

The testimony was completed with McDonald cross-examined extensively by counsel for the house on details of his administration particularly on purchases of jacks and stallions. McDonald was the only defense witness.

The resolution stated McDonald had not been guilty of offenses of sufficient gravity to warrant adoption of articles of impeachment "but it is the opinion of the committee that said respondent has been guilty of acts and conduct that bring into disrepute the dignity of the office of the commissioner of agriculture, such acts and conduct being the result not of a wilful and malicious mind or intent but rather of ignorance or a lack of understanding of his official duties, or a lack of recognition of the dignity of his official position, or a lack of diligence in the performance of his duties."

GOP Starts Fund Drive

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. (UP)—Signaling the approach of the real fireworks in the 1936 presidential campaign, the republican national committee yesterday summoned its members to meet here Dec. 16 to choose a convention city and appointed 16 industrialists, bankers and lawyers to direct the drive for funds to fight the new deal.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher followed republican tradition in making the first move to draft convention plans. The national democratic organization probably will not act until January.

Headed by William B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid company, the republican finance committee was asked by Fletcher to help him raise money to oppose the "alien doctrines and maladministration of the new deal."

The GOP chairman said he did not "expect to raise a sum which can match the billions of the people's money the administration is now using in many flagrant instances for purely political purposes," but that he hoped to obtain enough to "defray the legitimate expenses of a straight-out fight against the new deal."

Political observers, scanning the list of appointments, predicted Fletcher planned a vigorous nationwide campaign to enlist leading bankers and industrialists in the new deal has failed and a republican should oust President Roosevelt from the White House in 1937.

Jury Unable To Agree In Johnson Case

Body Has Been Deliberating Evidence Since 7 P. M. Thursday

Firmly deadlocked, the jury deliberating the fate of John Johnson, 39-year-old Lynn county deputy sheriff, was still out at 2:30 p. m. today.

The jurors were reported to be standing 3 to 4 for conviction. In previous trials juries had to be dismissed when they could not agree, the last time standing 11 to 1 for acquittal.

After seven hours of arguments, the jury was given the case shortly before 7 p. m. Thursday.

George Dupree, special prosecutor closing for the state, made an appeal for conviction of Johnson for the killing of B. O. "Bunk" Best, Dawson county farmer, May 24, 1933. He especially stressed the wording of the court's charge concerning murder without malice.

The defense, headed by Tom Gerrard, had emphasized the reputation of Best and the circumstances surrounding the killing. Johnson, tall, clean-cut, blonde, sat in the court room most of the morning with Mrs. Johnson and their young son and daughter.

HARVARD AND YALE TO CLASH AT CAMBRIDGE IN FEATURE SKIRMISH

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Not all the nation's interest this week is centered around the undefeated and untied teams for along the eastern front, as well as in the midwest and the Dixie lands, there are several battles that stand out every year for their tradition and rivalry.

Such a game is the Harvard-Yale affair in Cambridge. Both teams have unimpressive records to date, but the clash is expected to pack them in with the Eli favorites in the betting.

B. H. McLAIN, formerly the storm center of the District 3 executive committee, but now of the Sonora sector, has rounded up a slough of figures intended to show the bad points of the Interscholastic League's 18-year age rule. McLain has mailed a copy of his findings to George Gentry, another school man who is bitterly opposed to the 18-year limitation. His table of figures showed that if the rule had been in effect through the 1933-34 school year, 30 per cent of all high school students would have been ineligible for athletic participation in one or more careers during their high school careers.

NEITHER of the two local junior grid teams, the Broncos and Devils, play a game this week-end. The Devils tentatively have a scrap booked with Kermit for next week.

INJURIES HAVE already begun to crop up in the Steer grid camp again. Nothing especially serious as yet, but young "Spikie" Henninger had a leg badly bruised in practice yesterday. Baker has been crippled for several weeks.

THE OLD wheeze about the football player who was so fast he could throw a pass and catch it himself is no longer a joke, according to an Associated Press yarn from Lincoln, Neb. It actually happened in the Oklahoma-Nebraska game recently, although the player who pulled the trick didn't do so by virtue of speed. A slippery ball was responsible. Woodrow Huddleston, shifty sophomore triple-threat back on the Oklahoma team, dropped back to pass. It was a wet, misty day, and as he started to throw the ball, it slipped from his grasp and went straight into the air. Huddleston caught it as it dropped and attempted to run, but was smothered by the Cornhusker forwards.

IT WON'T be long now until talks gets started on all-district selections. The coaches, according to a district ruling, pick the official team. Each coach turns over to the district executive committee his choice of an all-opponent team. The committee compiles the votes and announces the all-star eleven.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 22.—The record of past Texas Aggie-University of Texas Longhorn football games is as follows:

JOE LOUIS REALIZES FIGHT ROAD IS A VERY ROCKY ONE

By PAP (Associated Press Sports Writer) A day or so after Joe Louis had bombed Max Baer out of the heavyweight picture in such short order he dropped around to collect his money from Promoter Mike Jacobs, president of the Twentieth Century Boxing club. Before he left Jacobs' office he had exacted a promise from the promoter that he would have a fight a month.

It developed that the promise was easier made than fulfilled. With no one in sight at the present time to put the bomber to a real test and few heavyweights in the picture with even a remote chance of extending the hard hitting young negro, Jacobs had to fall back on the old trial horse, Paulino Uzcudun, for a starter. The battered Basque has been taking the heat the heavyweight division had to offer in the way of punches.

Schmeling for a battle in Berlin. It looks very much as though the giant former title-holder will not be available for a March date. No one but Louis and Jacobs will regret that to any serious extent. Retzlaff Returns. Jacobs has set the machinery working to line up a bout in the midwest for Louis with the rejuvenated Charlie Retzlaff as his opponent. Retzlaff signalled his return to the form he promised several years ago, when he was a several generation by slapping Al Lasky again and drubbing the very promising Ford Smith.

When Retzlaff first jumped into the spotlight on a string of quick knockout victories great things were predicted for him. But it turned out to be a mere flash in the pan. He showed he could handle it, but couldn't take it. He went "right hand crazy" and when he was called on to face men who could weather his first flurry of punches and hit back he folded. Perhaps he was rushed ahead too rapidly without being properly tutored. Whatever the reason, he dropped out of the picture for a while. Now here he is back once more—this time a wiser and no doubt better fighter.

FORD BOY GETS BACK IN LINEUP

All Of Practice Time Going To Polishing Of Offensive

Jimmy Ford, young man who was given a trial some three or four weeks ago in the first string Steer secondary, is again occupying attention in daily practice sessions at Steer stadium. Head Coach "Obie" Bristow said that he was giving Ford a chance at calling signals. So terrible was the offensive play against San Angelo that Bristow decided to risk making some radical changes. Giving Ford a chance at barking the plays was one of them. "It's just another experiment," Obie said. "I don't see that I can lose much."

Frog Flashes

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22.—How the Southwest conference does love its touchdowns! The 1935 season, up to the games of Nov. 22, had produced only eight field goals—and three of the 3-pointers were kicked Nov. 16. Coaches say the field goal has nearly been discarded since the rule on passing over the goal line was changed. The passing touchdown play, at least for Southwest eleven, is almost as good a bet as a try at goal, and the pay-off is twice as great.

ADVANCE—NOT RETREAT

A revolt against the liquor traffic in Texas is seen by Dr. J. B. Cranfill, who has written the following letter to the Dallas Morning News:

"State and national revolt against the criminalities of the liquor traffic eventuated in State and national prohibition, and history will soon repeat itself unless the sponsors of repeal, who inveighed against the liquor saloon and said they were for temperance live up to their pretenses. I knew at the time they never would live up to their declarations when they said they favored temperance because no mother's son or daughter of them ever made a temperance speech, wrote a temperance tract or voted a temperance ticket. They will go on doing like they have done—oppose every form of prohibition or so-called liquor control. It is evident that this situation at once upon Senator J. Ham Lewis of Chicago who, on Aug. 13, in the Senate chamber is quoted as saying:

"At this point I want to leave a word of warning. If these masters of the whiskey trust, if these manipulators of smuggling and outrage under the laws do not cease their evil performances, I warn them that it will bring back prohibition; but instead of it being a matter of to drink or not to drink it will be the issue of national morality. The teachers will be summoned; the preachers of the churches will be heralding the issue, and to these will be added the citizenship of America which puts above the mere profit which comes from the traffic the high morality of the Republic.

"Those who think that now, by the elimination of the prohibition amendment, they are licensed to continue the immorality, the vulgarity and the corruption, which they are inflicting in the great cities of the country and the States of the Nation, will awake to realize not only that they will be wiped out of existence, but that they will bring on the Nation an issue which will divide the people and set fury and flame to work in every locality of decency and honor in the Republic.

"This nation is not always to be played with, either by fools on the one hand or by a corrupt and immoral traffic. I have seen the and asphalt topping. The project will employ 326 workers from relief rolls and receives a $90,000 grant from WPA. The city pledged $37,000 as the sponsor's part in the undertaking.

officers and wineries will be required to report every 10 days and pay tax on all liquor handled. The tax payments will be deposited in a suspense account until tax stamps and licenses are ready.

Stamps will be sold to dealers in all counties, justice precincts, incorporated cities or towns in which the sale of intoxicating liquors has not been prohibited by valid local option elections.

Control board members said the temporary fees required will be ten-twelfths the amount fixed for annual fees. No person holding a permit to sell wine and beer by the drink may also hold a permit to sell package liquors. One person cannot be given more than five permits for package sales. Applications are to be made to the liquor control board, Austin.

SAVINGS-LOAN INSTITUTIONS PROTECTED BY US INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—More than 1,300 private thrift institutions of the savings and loan type in 43 states in the past 14 months have taken steps to provide further safeguards to their 1,500,000 shareholders and depositors by applying for insurance under the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Over 51,030,000,000 of assets are held in the applicant institutions, of which 1,035, with more than $600,000,000 of assets, are already insured, protecting each of their $80,000 investors against loss up to $5,000. Only well-managed, financially sound associations are approved for insurance by the corporation.

In emphasizing safety for long-term savings as the main reason for investing in their institutions, in contrast to speculative profit or extremely high dividend returns with attendant risk, the executives of these associations also seek to reduce the cost of home ownership to the average family, and to stimulate greater building activity in view of the growing shortage of homes, by making long-term loans at correspondingly moderate interest rates. They believe that such protection to the savings of great numbers of small investors is the most effective way to develop lower home mortgage costs, by attracting a large volume of money at reasonable rates. More than $6,000,000,000 of resources are held in associations eligible to apply for such insurance.

Of the 1,035 savings and loan associations already insured, 481 are long-established building and loan associations, cooperative banks and homestead associations, 555 of which have converted into federal savings and loan associations. The remaining 544 insured institutions are newly organized federal associations.

Practically all associations which have applied for insurance are members of the federal home loan bank system, with access to its low-cost reserve credit facilities in expanding their loanable funds and assuring greater liquidity to the investments of their shareholders. Insured associations are local in character and under private management. Their long-term mortgage loan plans vary according to conditions in their own communities. Their interest rates on loans now range from 5 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent in the northern and eastern sections, and from 5 1/2 per cent upward in most other parts of the United States.

More WPA Jobs Made Available On New Projects

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 22. (UP)—Jobs for 3,336 workers from Texas relief rolls were authorized today as Works Progress administration headquarters here issued work orders on projects involving expenditure of $801,896 of federal funds.

Bulk of today's authorizations were received by the Waco district, where officials may begin 29 new projects employing approximately 1,500 persons. Largest of the individual projects was a street paving job at Cleburne, where 11 miles of city streets will receive a rock base

Mrs. Taylor Of Bonham P-T A Head

State Meet At El Paso Closed Session Thursday

EL PASO, Nov. 22. (UP)—Better standardized rural schools will be emphasized by Mrs. M. A. Taylor, of Bonham, Tex., who was elected president of the Texas congress of parents and teachers in convention here.

"Rural enrichment is my particular interest," she said. "I want the P-T. A. to cooperate with the state education department program for better standardized rural schools."

The convention ended yesterday. Mrs. Taylor has been interested in the P-T. A. work from the viewpoint of the teacher and the parent. She is a former kindergarten teacher. She is the mother of a daughter who last year was graduated from Texas university and now is a teacher in the Kilgore Tex., schools.

Mrs. Taylor has lived in Bonham for 24 years. She organized the first mothers' club there into a P-T. A. and was instrumental in getting the group to join the state congress. She organized the county council of Fannin county and served as council president, vice president of the district and then district president.

She was chiefly interested in health work and rural enrichment. Her program for rural enrichment, which included health measures, was sent to Alaska as an ideal plan during Mrs. E. M. N. Marry's administration as state president. Mrs. Taylor served as fifth state vice-president.

Members of the Texas congress of parents and teachers, presented six resolutions to the congress. The resolutions included:

1. A request that the United States congress reaffirm the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution and that the Texas legislature ratify it.
2. Approval of a concerted campaign by the P-T. A. units over the country for suppression of activities fomenting war, for a law removing profits from the manufacture of munitions, and for development of appreciation and friendliness toward other nations by American youth.
3. A request for laws preventing children from petty gambling.
4. Opposition to publicity placing glamor on crime.
5. Approval of a bigger state health appropriation.
6. Opposition to advertising of alcoholic drinks.

Monday Bridge Club Meets At Home Of Mrs. H. Williams

The Monday club of Forsan met with Mrs. Herman Williams in the Continental Oil company's camp this week. High score prize, two pictures, were given Miss Nelson. Guests were: Mesmes. S. B. Loper, M. M. Hines, Margaret Madding, M. L. Blackwelder, Bill Conger, Malcolm Green and Miss Eloise Nelson.

Mrs. Green will entertain next.

FANS GO TO GAME
A number of Big Spring grid fans left today for San Angelo to witness the District 3 conference clash in that city this afternoon between the San Angelo Bobcats and Sweetwater Mustangs.

Chalk Club Sponsors Mock Fair To Demonstrate Achievements

Chalk home demonstration club observed achievement day recently at the school building. The community cooperated with the club members to make it a community fair.

The club's pantry demonstrator displayed, here 322 jars of vegetables and fruits she had canned during the year.

The green vegetable booth included green and cured onions, mustard, radishes, green corn, carrots, cucumbers and three varieties of green peppers. Such fresh fruits as pumpkin, watermelon and figs were shown.

The club chose the tomato for its achievement day special and displayed four methods of canning that vegetable. These included: catsup, tomato juice, soup mixture, tomato and okra gumbo, green tomato preserves, ripe tomato preserves, hot chow-chow, mustard relish, sweet relish, sour relish, picadillo, tomato mince meat, chili sauce, canned whole tomatoes.

Canned goods were brought to the fair by Mesmes. Hutchinson, Barton, Chalk, Hargrove, Tillett, Harvey, Morelan, Funk, Neely, Roundtree, Houser, Green, Ruffen and Caldwell.

A special booth was devoted to a showing of recipe and menu files and cook books arranged by Mr. Schuessler, Mesmes. Harvey, Green, Tinley and Gilmour.

In the clothing booth were dresses made up by Mesmes. Ballard, Roundtree and Ruffen, coats by Mrs. Ballard, crocheted dresses by Mrs. Echols and Mrs. Funk.

In the quilt booth was a tufted spread made of hand-woven material over 100 years old brought by Mrs. Ballard. Quilts were shown by Mesmes. Green, Echols and Roundtree and spreads by Mrs. Houser and Mrs. Ballard.

Mrs. Gellman had many interesting and useful articles displayed in the handicraft booth. So did Mesmes. Funk, Rude, Echols, Houser, Chalk, Harvey and Morelan.

In the flower booth were chrysanthemums, roses, winter daisies, verbenas, excomb and such potted plants as ferns, water hyacinths, ornamental peppers and trailing ivy.

During the afternoon, coffee and cake were served to the following: Mesmes. Bob Odum, Chalk; Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Hollenhead, Hargrove; Mrs. Earl Kling, Ross City; A. J. Stallings, L. E. Lomax, Lomax; G. L. Echols, Ross City; G. E. Neely and W. M. Roundtree, Ross City; J. M. Hutchinson, Chalk; Albert Hoberitz, Chalk; C. J. Rippeot, B. D. Caldwell, O. A. ## Woodmen Circle Plan For District Session To Be In December

The Howard Grove 663 of the Woodmen Circle met this week instead of next week in order to avoid a conflict with Thanksgiving. The drill team in uniforms assisted in initiation and put on floor work. Five candidates were received and five applications voted on.

Plans for the district convention to be held here Dec. 13 were discussed. The district convention will bring such Woodmen Circle leaders as Mrs. J. E. Garner of Colorado, district head and Mrs. Treasie Goldsticker of Stamford, district manager, and delegates from 30 counties.

Drill teams from Abilene, Trent, Merkel, Sweetwater, Roby, Colorado and Idalou are expected to be on hand to assist in the work and to put on fancy drills at the public meeting to be held in the evening at Settles hotel.

Mrs. Mattie Dee Wren's name was drawn for the payment of November dues.

A sandwich plate and hot chocolate were served by the drill team to 38 members.

Hunting Party Is Back With 20 Deer

Carl Blomshied, manager of Texas Electric Service company, has returned from a deer hunt on the Capps ranch in Mason county. Blomshied was a member of Dr. G. T. Hall's party of deer hunters that brought back approximately twenty white tail bucks. Blomshied bagged a 13-point buck, one of the largest white tails ever brought out of Mason county. Mrs. G. T. Hall also bagged a seven-point buck. Mrs. Hall killed her first deer last season, and this is the second one. There were about twenty people making up the party.

chairman of the Texas Highway commission and an enthusiastic Horned Frog booster, will be the principal speaker at the homecoming luncheon Saturday noon.

State Inspector Entertained By Engineer's Wives

The Lone Star division No. 90 Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers entertained the inspector of Texas auxiliaries, Mrs. R. E. Tierce of Fort Worth, Thursday.

The auxiliary of the United States and Canada are inspected the year before convention, which is held in Cleveland, Ohio every three years, said Mrs. Tierce.

The local auxiliary held a morning session at the V. F. W. hall followed by a luncheon at the Settles hotel in the visitor's honor.

On the committee for arrangements were Mrs. C. J. Redwine and Mrs. Charles Koberg.

Present for the luncheon were: Mesmes. Tierce, P. H. Coburn, C. J. Redwine, Lamar Smith, Max Wiesen, W. C. Bird, R. L. Rogers, R. Schwarzenbach, D. S. Orr, L. L. Freeman and Charles Vines.

Green Eye Lashes Newest Style Decree

Your lashes should be a wonderful Botticelli green these fall and winter evenings when you saunter forth in your rich Renaissance hued gowns, fashion decrees. If you're hazel-eyed or even gray-eyed, green mascara will bring out the hidden green lights in your eyes and give you the stunning, exotic air that belongs to this season's richly dramatic clothes. If you've tried black, blue or brown, you'll know how smooth and lustrous and altogether satisfactory a creamy mascara can be. And you should have a marvelous time playing around with the new and daring green for evening glamour. It's perfect for brows as well as lashes—used discreetly; and it makes a satisfactory eye shadow over a dab of cream or oil. Green nail polish and ivory-tinted face powder are recommended as complements.

TES Advertising Director Visitor

Paul Harmon, director of publicity and advertising for the Texas Electric Service company, with headquarters in Fort Worth, was a business visitor in Big Spring Thursday afternoon. He was a guest of Carl Blomshied, district manager of the company. Mr. Harmon, well known in West Texas,

Tropical Valley In North, At End Of Rockies, Established As A Myth

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 22.—(U.P.)—Another romantic Arctic tradition—the reported existence of a tropical valley in the Liard River area of the Northwest Territories—has been shattered.

Returning from a 4,000-mile flight in the Far North, Dr. Charles Cammell, Deputy Minister of Mines in the Canadian government, reported the valley was a myth.

Dr. Cammell made the trip, which started at Prince Rupert, B.C., and ended at Edmonton, to inspect the work of several geological parties working in the mineral areas of Canada, B. C., the north arm of Great Slave Lake and Veaveridge, Athabaska Lake, in connection with Canada's Far North gold hunt.

Among the important geographical discoveries made during the flight is the settlement of the question of what becomes of the Rocky Mountain north of the Liard River. The question has intrigued geographers for years.

Dr. Cammell said the mighty Rockies, which run northward from the United States through Canada, drop out of sight in the country north of the Liard and that they do not blend with the Mackenzie Mountains, which are a separate range springing up in the Arctic country north of the tree line. He said the Rocky Mountain range gradually sinks to rounded knolls north of the river.

Trapper Started Story The story of the tropical valley was originated by a trapper named Tom Smith, who said he had found a valley dotted with hot springs and palm trees. Smith was drowned while returning to civilization with his daughter, Jane, with a boatload of furs. Miss Smith escaped and came to Hay River, where she died last year, refusing to describe the mythical valley.

Dr. Cammell found Smith's cabin, with the roof fallen in and decaying. It was situated near a number of hot springs, with lush vegetation springing up from the sub-irrigated soil in the midst of a grove of spruce and poplar trees. The vegetation grew several feet, high, he said, but there were no palms.

Dr. Cammell attributes the rank growth to the sub-irrigation of the soil from the hot springs.

Famed Figure In Western Novels Now In Pictures

One of the famed characters of Western stories, Clarence E. Mulford's "Hopalong Cassidy," is brought to life in the picture by the same name which plays at the Lyric Friday and Saturday. William Boyd, veteran actor, plays the part.

In creating the role of Cassidy, every effort was made by the producers to make it correspond to the figure in the novels so well known to thousands of Mulford's readers. "Hopalong Cassidy" deals with the exciting adventures of the courageous "Hopalong" and his two range-riding pals, in the days of the old lawless West. How "Hopalong" and his buddies round up a desperate gang of rustlers and avenge their crimes makes for real Western melodrama. Playing with Boyd are Jimmy Ellison; Paula Stone, daughter of

Sylvia Sidney Film At Ritz

Is Star Of 'Mary Burns, Fugitive,' Playing Today, Saturday

Sylvia Sidney, the efficient actress who has made many successful pictures for Paramount, returns to the screen in a new swift-moving drama, "Mary Burns, Fugitive," which is offered as the feature at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday.

With the feature will be presented a new episode of the "March of Time," the novel and popular dramatization of the day's news.

The comedian, Fred Stone; Robert Warwick, Charles Middleton and Kenneth Thomson.

"Mary Burns, Fugitive" provides Miss Sidney with a part in which she is capable, and the story is one packed with adventure and romance. The star appears as an innocent girl, drawn into crime by chance and then hunted by the law and pursued by a former gangster sweetheart.

The supporting cast includes Melvyn Douglas; Allan Baxter, a newcomer to the films; Peri Gilpin, Brian Dunlevy and Wallace Ford.

Miss Sidney is in love with Baxter, unaware that he is a public enemy. Escaping from stolen bonds, Baxter is almost caught at Miss Sidney's restaurant. He leaves the girl who is caught with the bonds and sentenced to prison. She escapes, gets a job in a hospital and falls in love with Douglas, a patient.

While she seeks happiness with Douglas, Baxter's henchmen and the law both are hunting the girl, and how she finally emerges from this difficulty provides the film's climax.

Nitro Explodes As Ward Well Comes In Unexpectedly

ODESSA, Nov. 22. (SpI)—An oil well located in Ward county, 25 miles southwest of here, owned by the California Oil company, blew in unexpectedly Wednesday night, ignited, and set off two truck loads of nitroglycerin nearby.

Preparations were being made to shoot the well with the nitro when it came in. Oil workers reached safely before the explosion.

Let's Talk Turkey For The Holidays

New Ways Of Dressing And Preparing, Stuffing Festive Bird

By MARIE LOGAN

Let's "talk turkey," because it is always an interesting subject for conversation as Thanksgiving approaches. And, because that bird must look just as festive as the occasion and taste "fit for a king," we dress it carefully inside and out.

We fill it with stuffing so deliciously flavorful and rich that after the first mouthful the resolutions we made about sending our plates back for "seconds" are forgotten.

There are any number of stuffings that one may use and, as the painter said, "It's all a matter of taste. Suits you, suits me." Some women, I know, use two kinds of stuffing—filling the turkey half full of the one kind and the remaining space with the second kind.

New Englanders, Southerners, Northerners, Westerners all have their favorite stuffings. But here's one made with pork sausage that everybody likes, because it blends so perfectly with the turkey flavor.

Sausage Stuffing
(fills a 14 to 16 pound turkey)

1 pound pork sausage
5 cups toasted bread crumbs
1-3 teaspoon pepper
2 medium onions, finely chopped
1-3 1/2 teaspoons salt
1-3 teaspoon sage
1 3/4 cup chopped celery

Combine all the ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Now we shall suppose that Mr. Turkey has come from the oven, stuffed with goodness and browned to a turn. How shall we "dress him up" for the table? Small molds of cranberry jelly on top of pineapple rings arranged around the edge of the platter; a border of small cinnamon apples stuffed with cream cheese and nuts; canned pears tinted a delicate green, the cavities filled with glossy black stuffed prunes; small orange baskets filled with cranberry sauce; each is attractive and will permit you to express your artistic temperament with complete license.

And now, "the day after!" That platter of bones and those scraps of meat spell cold turkey. It may not have the same appeal as it had on Thursday, but I have yet to see anyone spurn Escalloped Turkey with Macaroni. It's especially nice if served with hot baking powder biscuits, plenty of butter, and currant jelly.

Escalloped Turkey with Macaroni
1-2 box elbow macaroni
1-2 to 1 cup diced turkey
1-2 cup buttered bread crumbs

Milk
Butter a baking dish or casserole, and cover with a layer of cooked elbow macaroni. Spread a layer of meat over this, then a layer of macaroni, and repeat until the dish is nearly filled. Combine the left-over gravy with enough milk just to cover the contents of the casserole. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over the top and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for one-half hour.

Cooked spaghetti or egg noodles may be used instead of the macaroni in the same manner.

And for the final stand, true turkey lovers vote strongly for turkey soup. In this way every last morsel of meat clinging to the bones may be reclaimed. Over the bones pour just enough water to cover. Place on the simmering burner for one hour. Remove the bones. Bring the broth to a boil and cook one-quarter cup of rice quickly in it. Season with salt and pepper. Serve with wheat. Or, if you prefer, make great fluffy dumplings as a sort of crowning glory for the turkey's farewell.

Of course, there are variations of turkey soup. If, for example, there is as much as half a cup of meat left over, it may be used to make a most excellent Turkey Bisque, an ideal luncheon soup, since it uses milk as its base.

Turkey Bisque
Heat turkey and milk together in top of double boiler. In the meantime, melt butter and add flour, blending it to a smooth paste. Add turkey broth gradually, stirring to keep it smooth. (The turkey broth may be made by simmering the bones in water.) Let come to a boil. Add to milk and turkey in top of double boiler. Season with salt and pepper. Top each serving with a spoonful of whipped cream or with a dash of paprika, or with a little minced parsley.

Another soup that comes in for its share of flavor is Turkey and Tapioca Soup. After the broth has been prepared from the turkey carcass, add one-quarter cup of minute tapioca for every quart of broth and cook until tapioca is clear, about 30 minutes. Then beat two egg yolks and add them to one-half cup of milk. Add the milk and egg mixture to the soup and heat, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with minced parsley.

The Sportsman

By LARRY BAUER

Although sportsmen have been tapping Alaska's wild animal supply for years, big game there is holding up very well, reports Frank DuFresne of the Alaska game commission.

In "dollars-and-cents" terms the commission places the value of big game—fur-bearing animals and game birds at $38,000,000. And that is big money in any man's country.

It is well to remember that several species of waterfowl are on the protected list this year. Quoting from the latest federal regulations, they are: Snow geese in Florida and all states north thereof bordering on the Atlantic ocean, Ross's goose, wood duck, ruddy duck, buff-breasted duck and swans.

These birds were given protection to save them from extinction. It has been illegal to kill wood ducks for years and they are showing some signs of a comeback.

Last year some sportsmen and stamp collectors had trouble buying duck stamps, but the law has been amended so that the stamps may be sold at any postoffice and to any person. They cost $1 each. Proceeds go to provide refuges for waterfowl. Last season's sale approximated $650,000.

The stamp is required to be carried on the person of any individual over 16 years of age who is hunting waterfowl. The stamp is not required for those who hunt woodcock or mourning doves. It is necessary for the hunter to validate the stamp by writing his signature across the face in ink.

The taking of a 12-pound muskie in the Little Tennessee river recently was reported to us by Atlanta friend. This will be new to some of the boys who thought this fish was found only in the north.

The Everyman's Bible class will have charge of the assembly program following the class period. The special feature at that time will be a talk on "The First Thanksgiving," by George Gentry, principal of the high school, and superintendent of the Bible school at First Baptist church.

At the Christian Endeavor services the members of the official board will be invited guests and observers. A full attendance of the men is urged by the pastor.

The evening worship hour will be largely given over to a singing as a means of getting acquainted with the 200 new hymnals. The pastor will bring his message in sections as the singers take periodic rests. Interesting special may be introduced from time to time. A warm welcome is always extended to the stranger within our gates.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN
There will be no church services Sunday at the First Presbyterian. Sunday school will be at 9:45 a. m. and young people's meeting at 7 p. m.

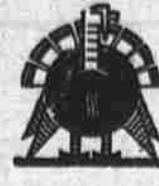

C. and Bill Moore, veteran anglers, had been trying for the fish for a long time. McConnell was a lucky fisherman who landed the muskie. The mouth of the fish showed it had been hooked several times but always escaped.

An old wildfowl and fisherman writes: "Take your temperamental black bass: Frogs are good today—worthless tomorrow. Flugs are favorites, then a wet fly. The secret of fall fishing, regardless of what the experts recommend, is in the versatility of the man who holds the line."

M. L. Annenberg of Chicago, Miss G. Blase of New York City and Miss Violet DuPont of New York City were overnight guests at Hotel Settles Wednesday, en route to Fort Worth and New Orleans, where they will go aboard boat for New York City.

WINNER OF FIRST OLYMPIC MARATHON MAY RUN AGAIN

ATHENS, Nov. 22. (AP)—Spyros Louis, winner of the Marathon-to-Athens race at the first Olympic games in 1896, may come out of retirement to participate in the relay races from Mount Olympus to Berlin, featured on the 1936 program in Germany.

The 65-year-old "man of iron," now living out his years as an inspector in the village of Amaronis near here, plans to run one kilometer in the race somewhere in Greece.

His participation in the 1896 race, he explains, began as a joke, but he was the only one of 70 competitors to finish the 42-kilometer run, timed at 2 hours 55 minutes. He ran in an old pair of slippers which, by the time he arrived in Athens, were considerably the worse for wear.

"On Good Friday, 1896," Louis explained, "I went to Marathon for a trial run. I had made no attempt at diet nor had I undergone any training, trusting to my own vitality. We set off from Marathon, and after running for a considerable time I got a cramp, but managed to carry on and finish with the trial."

"On Easter Sunday I set off for Marathon in company with all the other competitors, about 70."

"On the day of the race we were examined by a doctor, and I was passed as fit. It was bitterly cold. My number was 17 and I was last

Garner Party On Way Home

Official Group Is Due To Land In Seattle On December 15

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 22. (AP)—America's congressional delegation to the recent inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth sailed for home Wednesday to the accompaniment of a 19-gun farewell salute to Vice-President John Nance Garner.

A few of the party of approximately 50—the largest official group ever to make the 20,000-mile round trip—remained here, including Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. His wife was confined to Sternberg military hospital with a digestive disorder.

Speaker Joseph Byrne of the United States house advised the five-day-old government to live within its means "in order to establish its credit like a new business."

After Garner declined to be interviewed, Emil Hurja of the democratic committee, handed out a statement over Garner's signature saying:

"The business house of the islands is in good order with its budget balanced and its finances in good shape. Expenses have been pared down almost entirely because of the business-like administration of Frank Murphy as governor general.

The party, aboard the President Jefferson, is due in Seattle Dec. 15.

Mexican Workers Threaten Strike

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22. (AP)—The Mexican Workers' organization today threatened a general strike unless the government orders immediate dissolution of the nationalistic "gold shirt" organization.

The workers said the gold shirt organization was responsible for an armed clash before the national palace yesterday when two persons were killed and 47 injured.

Alderson, Boykin Win Hunt Honors

L. H. Alderson and Ross Boykin must carry a rabbit's foot when they go deer hunting.

In a party of nine, Alderson was the only one to bag a buck. His had nine points and dressed well over 100 pounds.

Boykin was in a party of six and got the only buck for his crowd.

Teddy's Grandson Free Under Bond

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22. (AP)—Cornelius Roosevelt, grandson of the late president Theodore Roosevelt, and his classmate, Peter de Florez, pleaded innocent Thursday of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

They were accused of assault on a policeman and a newspaperman with air pistols. The two were released on bail of $500 each, and the cases were continued until Nov. 26.

Seek Method To End Gas Wastage

AUSTIN, Nov. 22. (UP)—Search for a valid method of ending natural gas waste in the Texas Panhandle continued as the Texas railroad commission heard testimony on conditions.

Former orders prohibiting the production have been stricken down by the courts. Such orders included a requirement for ratable taking from all gas producers.

Testimony that such ratable taking is necessary to prevent both gas and oil waste was heard by the commission.

H. M. Stalcup, vice president of Shelly Oil company reviewed the history of the field from the time natural gas was developed in an effort to find oil. He described the development to date as "a grand riot of wasteful production" and predicted that unless the waste is stopped not only will recoverable gas be diminished but that an oil field "greater than East Texas" will be ruined.

He estimated the waste at more than a billion cubic feet daily. "No other instance of waste in history would get to first base in comparison with it," Stalcup said.

Farmers Want To Aid Government In AAA Hearing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. (AP)—A group of corn belt farmers today asked permission of the supreme court to file a brief supporting the government in the famed Hoosac Mills case, a suit expected to decide the constitutionality of AAA processing taxes.

The farmers in their pleading said they were "vitaly concerned" in the case.

WATCHFUL OLD ENGLAND

While the world kept its eyes turned toward the activities of Dictator Mussolini and his fascist legions in Africa, it seems that the sly Japanese were going quietly about the business of bolstering their interests on the Asiatic continent.

A movement for an "autonomous state" was started, whereby five of China's provinces would be grouped in a new nation. The move has—or had—Tokyo support, since Japan obviously would like to have the "autonomy" as a buffer between the puppet state of Manchoukuo and China.

But the move now has taken a setback. And why? Because that potent fellow in world affairs, John Bull, has done some more diplomatic maneuvering.

It has been England all along, you will remember, who pushed the efforts for peace in Africa, who promoted the league sanctions program and who is causing trouble for Mussolini's empire-building program.

And now it is England who is exerting her influence to maintain calm in China. Press reports have mentioned "English pressure" in slowing up the Japanese move, and it also has been reported that Japan would like to keep Britain in an amiable mood until the naval problems are settled.

Thus John Bull continues to wield his influences. Many of his actions may be selfish, since there is a great empire to be protected; but John Bull also is honestly interested in the cause of world peace. Further, he makes his interest a practical one.

If hostilities are brought to an end in Africa through an agreement, and if the Chinese situation is prevented from becoming more than a political and diplomatic move, the world's thanks may go to watchful old England.

NEW YORK—It is not a development of the last few moments that Mayfair has gone over to the carrioca. This has been the favorite dance of debutantes since it was imported several years ago from the half-world of the Havana waterfront.

What makes this such a singular paradox is that in Cuba the upper levels of society will have none of it. Spawned in the low dives of the island, it prospers there like a strange, exotic flower. In its native surroundings, the carrioca is far more sensuously violent than portrayed even by the movies. Here it is known only in a modified version.

Interestingly true is the fact that the carrioca here has had a definite imperceptible influence on the tempo of dance orchestras. Most of the better impresarios have experimented with and featured those seductive airs of the Caribbean, and now there are any number of clever bands which play them exclusively.

Perhaps it may amuse you to know, too, that cognizant of its status in Cuba, almost never is it seen in the cheaper dance halls of New York.

It isn't necessary to have read Cervantes or to know anything about art to enjoy those murals in the Sert room at the Waldorf, newest of New York's exclusive supper rooms, although all 15 of them represent moods from the exploits of Don Quixote. (Note: Being no paint oracle, this department can only pass along the expert opinion of recognized critics.)

But even a gazelle realizes when it is pleased, and that is what those murals do to one—they please.

The Sert room, as you probably know, is named after Jose Maria Sert, the Spanish artist who created the murals. Sert himself was a Barcelona boy who went to Paris in his early twenties and made good. Then, several years ago, the Waldorf management sent representatives to Paris to discuss these murals and commission him. He knocked them out in two months, and they'll probably be adding to his stature two centuries from now.

As for that critical opinion I was going to pass along, Sert approached his theme "with the potency of a Michael Angelo and the daring of a Goya (wish I could think up things like this), together with more than one reminiscence of the great Venetian colorists like Veronese and Tiepolo."

All of them are 14 feet high and they vary in width from 6 to 22 feet. Sert has been mentioned in the New York papers recently on another subject, one which is calculated to heighten interest in his dynamic work. It was his villa that Prince Alexis Mdivani, divorced husband of Barbara Hutton, had gone just before his romantic career ended violently in a traffic disaster. The Prince was Sert's brother-in-law, and was rushing away from that lovely Spanish retreat, at the princely speed of 90 miles an hour, when his car turned over and he was all but decapitated.

When repeal first arrived the Ritz was the only New York hotel featuring a bar exclusively for men. Now there are four. However, the Ritz has another bar where men aren't allowed unless accompanied by a feminine guest.

That newsboy in Times Square has imagination. He exalts attention by screaming: "Extra: Movie star marries new boy for his money!"

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the last two remaining members of the famous original brain trust is now definitely on the way out.

Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture and resettlement administrator, expects to resign. He has a chance to become American observer at Geneva, possibly with the rank of ambassador. He may spurn this, however, and return to his old professorial chair at Columbia. In any event, he is determined to get out. And with Tugwell's passing, passes a unique and in many ways most tragic experiment of the new deal—the brain trust of the Roosevelt administration is written, the brain trust probably will be given more credit than discredit for the achievements of the new deal.

But it had two great and glaring defects—in personal equilibrium under the spotlight of public office and in practical executive ability to carry out ideas.

Professor Moley was a victim of the first. He could not stand the spotlight. Tugwell fell a victim to the second. He is anything but any executive. Had the brain trust been content to remain in the cloistered background, its members would still be powerful today.

Only one man out of the original group—Charles Tamm—followed this course. Behind the scenes he is still quietly functioning.

Friend of Roosevelt
Few men in the administration are closer to the president than Rex Tugwell. He still is Tugwell's departure is self-elimination. He feels that he has become a liability rather than an asset. And he is right.

The tragedy—from Tugwell's viewpoint—is the fact that he became a liability fighting ferreently for the new deal cause. He was carrying out orders. His chief trouble was in getting himself too far out in front.

First tactical error was when he authored the pure food and drug act. He wrote the bill at the president's direct command. The president directed a revolutionary bill, and Tugwell gave it to him. His reward was a storm of criticism such as few officials have ever received and still remained in office.

Tugwell did not consider this an error. Friends who remonstrated that he was making himself a target got this reply: "Well, somebody's got to be the fall guy. That's what some of us are here for. The skipper can't come out and sponsor this bill publicly. His can't afford to be defeated. But I can."

The pure food and drug fight, together with his liberal writings, branded Tugwell the leading radical of the new deal. He became the easiest target for the opposition to fire at—and they kept firing.

Resettlement Birth
For a time the firing was so heavy that the president sent Rex to Europe during the 1934 congressional campaign, to get him out of the public eye.

But Rex came back immediately after elections with a new idea which was to put him back in a more dazzling spotlight than ever. In Italy he had seen Mussolini's resettlement projects. In Germany he had inspected the work colonies of Hitler.

So he went to Warm Springs last November to sell Roosevelt the idea of rural resettlement in the United States. The cotton sharecroppers of the south, he emphasized, must gradually be transferred to other crops or industries. Also the wheat farmers of the drought stricken Northwest. Also the coal miners of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. And so on.

The president fell for the idea. Professional Inefficiency
From this there evolved the most unwise, idealistic, heterogeneous agency ever spawned by the new deal.

At present Tugwell is employing a staff of 12,000 to put 5,012 people to work. They draw salaries of $1,750,000 monthly while workers on the projects get $300,000.

It should be noted, of course, that originally Tugwell was saddled with a staff of 15,000 taken over from other agencies. Also, much of his work is planning for the future. It was known in advance that many of his projects could not get started for one or two years.

Nevertheless, the fact remains that Tugwell's resettlement administration is one of the most notoriously inefficient in the new deal.

Glaring example was the establishment of a model settlement at Beltsville, Md., only a few miles from the nation's capital. It was Tugwell's pet project.

Before the site finally was selected, Tugwell's men took options on more of the Maryland and Virginia countryside than the areas of Baltimore and Washington combined. Finally Beltsville was selected. Maps were made, streets laid out, a school, theatre, community house

Feed Bringing A Low Price

Yield This Year Is One Of Largest In History Of County

With perhaps the largest feed crop in the history of the county on hand, farmers are facing lowest prices since the drought of two seasons ago created a near shortage.

Maize, selling at $24 to $30 a ton last year, finds a ready market at $8; to $10 now. Bundle stuff goes readily at 3 cents. Many farmers will lay it down at this price.

Very few farmers do not have enough feed to suffice their needs. Most of them have a big surplus.

A big item entering into the local picture is the widespread use of tractors. The greatly increased number of tractors in service combines with the cotton acreage reduction campaign to create a feed surplus.

Feed is usually planted on rented acres. Instead of using this feed to feed to work teams, farmers have to market it since tractors demand a more combustible fuel than grain and fodder.

It is estimated by close observers of the farming situation here that 175 more tractors are in use in the county than a year ago.

Vealmoor News

Construction is progressing on the new stacco church building at Vealmoor. The structure already adds to the appearance of the community.

Mrs. Colon Thompson and little son, Carroll, were guests of her brother, Nolan Kelly, over the weekend.

Mrs. Bert Massengale is in the Lubbuck sanitarium, recovering after an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Gertrude Broils and Mrs. Polly Halle of Albany are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Caldwell.

The Outsiders' play practice has been postponed for a few days, since residents of the community are busy harvesting the crops.

A new lighting system has been installed by Porter Hanks in his store.

Mrs. Curtis Zant of Roswell, N. M., is here visiting her sister, Mrs. J. L. Buckalew.

Miss Lou Ellen Weaver visited in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Loy Smith, last weekend.

Mrs. Abe Ray Coffey spent the weekend in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Good Graves.

Violence Flares In Ohio Strike

AKRON, O., Nov. 22 (AP)—Strike sympathizers clashed hours of violence at the Ohio Insulator plant in Berkrton Thursday by driving 50 guards inside the factory with a barrage of rocks and bottles.

Tear gas bombs, and streams of water from fire hose were used before the mob finally was forced to retreat.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

Chapter 21
BREAKERS AHEAD

Anne awakened early the next morning, but even then found the two older boys just leaving, and with them John Neuman.

"Nikki," he said, "will you run up to the house with me a moment?"

Together they climbed the stairway, to stand at the top, wind whistling about them, tuning the orchestra, blowing clouds until they floated along the horizon like balloons.

"I forgot to tell you I'd stored your things in our basement, and sent the truck on to Portland. I imagined we'd have more room than Tecla, and I knew the house wasn't ready for them, yet."

"That was nice of you," Anne assured him, and waited. He hadn't called her up to tell her just this.

"Nikki, I talked to the fishermen last night. I don't like to bother you so soon, but do you happen to know whether Luke reached a decision on the fish traps?"

Anne was able to answer this promptly. "As far as he was concerned, there was no decision to make. He didn't know until he reached Astoria, that there was a change in his method of running things."

"He talked to Uncle Lee, Tom Farley and Rob pretty straight. He said he'd always kept faith with the men who'd worked with him, and always would. Why, what has happened?"

"Crocker came down a few days ago. I believe he returned the morning before you came here."

Anne nodded, and a sharp pain cut through her at the memory of the day of his return, proving she was still able to suffer at mention of his name.

"He said he was now in charge of things and he intended running them in the modern way. That whoever brought his haul to the weigh-in first would make the sale, trap or fishermen."

"However, the men say they're forced to wait until the trap barges are cleared, even though the fishermen are there first."

"It doesn't matter so much now, as the cannery can use everything brought in, but with a good run I'm afraid there'll be trouble."

"But John," Anne seemed as unconscious of calling him by his first name as he had been of calling her Nikki. "Knowing this so far in advance, can't they sell to other canneries?"

"That isn't so easy. We've more fishermen than necessary, about like every other line of business. Of course the number of boats is controlled by the government, but even at that, without proper distribution of boats serving designated canneries, some fishermen would have to suffer."

"Naturally none of the men working in harmony with other canneries is going to step out and give the old Farnsworth fishery their place."

Suddenly Anne remembered the letter from Judge Kellogg. He said there had been something in the will concerning the fish traps. Surely, with Luke's views on the subject, it would have been an order to give the fishermen preference.

Anne spent the morning writing to Judge Kellogg. She sent him a signed blank check, asking him to withdraw the money from her home bank and deposit in another under the name of Nikki Nielsen, enclosing the new signature. She told him in detail of her plans, then asked him to please try to restrain the will, especially that part dealing with cannery operations.

Lisa returned from town soon after lunch with samples of everything from wall paper to roof paint and Anne, surprised at her sudden interest, forgot the past for several blissful hours.

Together they went to the old house, opened the door with their own key and looked upon it with possessive eyes. This they would do, and this. The big room would be papered in buff to brighten the many grey days. The windows would be curtained in dull plaid crash. The kitchen would be done in yellow and black. Anne chose pale rose and silver for her room and Lisa, after changing her mind twenty times, decided upon a paper that carried the entire color spectrum.

"With plain green net window curtains, though, I'll probably feel like a fish in aspic."

But cleaning came first, to make way for the house-raising next day. This was a new experience to Anne, and by sundown she discovered an amazing number of muscles she hadn't realized she possessed.

"The bath will steam out the arches," Lisa prophesied as they made ready to go to the Finnish bath house, each with a basket containing feather soft towels, soap, powder and fresh clothing.

Arm in arm they strolled down the twilight smothered street. To Anne, who had stayed close by the house since her arrival, there was a feeling of adventure in going even to Union Town. There was little danger of meeting anyone she knew, or of anyone recognizing the curly haired girl in one of Lisa's old coats, and yet the throng of cars along the highway, which cut through the business section, confused her.

She drew back into the shelter of Lisa's shadow as a coupe pulled up close to the curb, laughed when she thought that the car was Rob's, then set her lips in a straight line to hold the cry that rushed to them.

The car was Rob's, and seats beside him, her face clearly revealed by the match Rob was holding for her cigaret, was Sharie Farnsworth.

The match went out. Sharie suggested into the curve of Rob's arm and they drove away. Anne, still silent, followed Tecl Mena and Lisa into the steam bath.

Anne had heard of Finnish bath. She knew there were steam rooms where one sat upon wooden benches, while key water played upon hot rocks until the room was smothered in steam, and scented with the aroma of cedar boughs softened by steam and water brush like fiber.

At Tecla's insistence she sat at the lowest tier where the steam to which she was unaccustomed would not stifle her. But she was stifled. (Sharie in Rob Crocker's car; in Rob Crocker's arms? What did it mean?)

Anne experienced a Finnish house-raising tomorrow, for the first time.

Jury Will Renew Investigation Of Gambling Charge

FORT WORTH, Nov. 22. (UP)—Investigation of alleged gambling at Top o' Hill Terrace on the Fort Worth-Dallas pike, will be reopened by the Tarrant county grand jury here next week.

Fred Browning, owner, and four others, recently were "no-billed" by the jury following a raid by state rangers who confiscated $8,000 worth of gambling equipment. The jury gave "not sufficient evidence" as the motive for its action.

District Attorney Will Parker announced re-consideration of the case today after a telephone conversation with L. G. Phares, director of the state public safety commission in Austin.

Parker said he had obtained the name of an investigator who had visited in the place on two occasions prior to the rangers' raid on it. The informer will be subpoenaed by the grand jury to appear before it Tuesday morning Parker said.

Champions To Enter Double Heart Rodeo

Crosby, McClure, Holder
Among Entries For
Weekend Event

SWEETWATER, Nov. 22—World champion rodeo performers, having finished competition in Madison Square Garden in New York and Boston will compete in the first annual fall rodeo to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Double Heart ranch, ten miles south of here.

Written and telegraphed assurances that they will compete in the events have been received by Ollie Cox, Double Heart rodeo producer, from Bob Crosby, Jake McClure, Everett Shaw, E. Pardee, John Bowman, Ralph Bennett, Clay Merchant and Ray Mathews, the season's outstanding calf ropers.

Other calf ropers regarded as outstanding and who have been accepted from among the numerous entries are: Jack and Earl Sellers, Del Rio; Buck and Jess Goodspeed, Oklahoma; Allen Holder, Midland; Amby Gamblin, Oklahoma; Breezy Cox, Arizona; Clyde Burk, Oklahoma.

Women riding champions who have entered the competition are: Clara Thompson, winner at London last year; Vaughan Krieg, winner in the recent New York show, and Lucile Roberts, leading American cowgirl of the past two or three years.

Trick Riders Coming
 Louis Tindall, outstanding trick rider, and Dirk Griffett will appear in trick riding roles. Griffett will attempt to ride the well known Pumphrey bull.

Four outstanding rodeo clowns will entertain during the three days. The clowns are Jasbo Fuikerson and Jimmy Nesbet, featured in the past several years in the New York rodeos, and John Lindsay and Dick Griffett.

This is the first time such a large group of top hands have been brought together for competition in this section of the state, Cox said. "All of those to participate in the events are generally conceded as champions in all sections of the United States. So, to determine who of the top ten is best, such a meet was planned both for attraction and to settle a long argument."

LEGAL 'RIGHT TO DIE' SOUGHT BY NEW SOCIETY IN ENGLAND

LONDON (UP)—A public society which will seek to legalize the "right to die" for persons suffering from an incurable, fatal and painful disease is being formed in London.

Inauguration of the society is to be followed by a campaign for public support, while a bill which would give individuals the right to choose death under certain circumstances is to be introduced into the house of lords.

Highly influential medical men, churchmen, legal experts and politicians have promised their support to the "Voluntary Euthanasia Legalization Society," as it is called.

Fewer Failures Recorded In State

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.—The number of commercial failures in Texas during October was substantially below that of the like month last year.

"We are asking," Dr. Millard explained, "that sufferers be allowed to choose between a quick painless death and a lingering one. We are asking for the 'right to die' but we are not asking for the 'right to kill' which is a very different proposition."

Famous Surgeon Leader
 Then a few days ago a physician, described as "a kindly family doctor," was quoted as "confessing" that he had taken the lives of five patients at scattered times, one a newly born baby doomed to imbecility, the others adults afflicted with incurable ills.

The new movement to legalize quick death is headed by Lord Moyrhan, famous English surgeon. Members of the medical council and executive committee include such personages as Professor Julian Huxley, the Earl of Lisowel, Lord Denman, former governor general of Australia, and Lady Denman, chairman of the National Federation of Women's Institutes.

Formation of the society is credited largely to Dr. C. Killick Millard, former medical officer of health for Leicester.

A number of eminent churchmen, including Dean Inge, have signed a statement that what is proposed is not contrary to Christian principles, supporters of the plan said.

Kingdom Of Tonga Modern Utopia; Wealth, Poverty And Debt Unknown

SYDNEY, N. S. W. (U.P.)—From her realm of a hundred tropic isles Queen Salote of Tonga, last independent state in the Pacific, has come to visit Sydney.

Queen Salote, who succeeded her father, King George Tubou, II, was crowned in 1917, when she was only 18. Since then she had distinguished herself by deep religious principles, wisdom of governing and powers of oratory. She was educated in New Zealand and speaks English fluently.

Although retaining the customs of her people, the queen conducts her palace, where she lives with her consort and family of three on strictly European lines.

There is no poverty and no wealth in Tonga, for it is run on a communal, tribal system. The law insists upon the strict observance of Sunday, and nobody is allowed to work or play on the Sabbath.

Financially, the kingdom is sound and Tonga has no national debt. Tonga is proud of its schools and boasts that each of the 20,000 inhabitants can read and write.

Bike Parade To Be Staged At 2 p. m. Saturday

Bicycles decorated in varied fashion are expected to appear Saturday afternoon in the Big Spring "bike parade," sponsored by the Montgomery-Ward store as a part in a nation-wide event promoted by the organization.

The parade is scheduled for 2 p. m. and entrants have been advised to gather at the Ward store by that hour.

The event is open to all, the only requirement being that those planning to participate register at the Ward store before the event.

Prizes will be offered for the best decorated and most novel bicycles, with places to be determined by local judges. A bike luggage carrier, headlights and batteries, speedometer and electric horn will be included in the prize list.

which lends the money, with the opportunity of eventually owning and controlling the credit institution.

"As time goes on a larger amount of farm credit will be extended through these farmers' institutions and a smaller amount by the government. Farmers do not own stock in the emergency lending offices. As agricultural income improves the need for emergency loans should cease and the permanent cooperative institutions continue to provide an increasing volume of credit on terms and at rates of interest suited to the farming industry."

First Votes Are Against The New Deal

Gets Only 46.72 Percent Of Early Ballots In Magazine Poll

A majority is voting against "the Roosevelt new deal to date" as shown by the first returns of the Literary Digest's current 10,000, 900-ballot poll on the administration's acts and policies which will be published in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

The initial returns include 40,053 votes from five states in the south and west.

The tabulation of the early balloting shows 53.28 per cent voting "no" and 46.72 per cent "yes" in answer to the question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?"

A previous poll on the same issue conducted in the late spring of 1934, to practically the same voters, revealed a national sentiment of 61.15 per cent for the new deal to 38.85 per cent against it. This was a larger percentage of popular approval for the president than the 59.15 per cent of the official Roosevelt-Hoover vote he received in 1932.

Two of the five states, Georgia and Oklahoma, from which returns are published this week, give a majority vote for the new deal while the other three states of Iowa, Kansas and Missouri, in the farm belt, register outright disapproval.

Roosevelt's "other home state" of Georgia shows 70.38 per cent of the first 3,947 ballots tallied voting in support of his policies.

Iowa with 17,756 votes now tabulated, shows 41.16 per cent for the new deal as compared to an approval vote in last year's Literary Digest poll.

The tabulation shows that the new deal popularity has declined in Kansas since 1934 to 44.57 per cent in the current poll. Missouri so far returns 11,779 ballots of which 48.82 per cent are for the new deal. Both states voted for Roosevelt in 1932.

The returns from Oklahoma show 52.06 per cent of the 2,353 votes cast so far supporting the new deal.

Farmers Own Stock In US Credit Units

Agencies Have Made Great Progress During The Past Two Years

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—More than three quarters of a million farmers individually own stock in the permanent cooperative credit institutions under the farm credit administration, according to a statement made here this week by its governor, W. E. Myers, at the annual meeting of the association of land-grant colleges and universities.

In addition to nearly 650,000 farmers with loans through the cooperative-federal land banks and over 200,000 in the production credit associations, the 1300 farmers' marketing and purchasing associations which own stock in the banks for cooperatives have over a million members.

"The total number of voting stockholders in these cooperative institutions has doubled in the two years since the 12 federal land banks became a part of the farm credit administration and the 566 production credit associations and 13 banks for cooperatives were set up," Myers said.

Office Removal Halted By Court

AUSTIN, Nov. 22 (UP)—District Judge W. F. Robertson Thursday enjoined removal of headquarters of the state board of pardons and parole from Austin to Huntsville.

The removal was advocated by Gov. James V. Allred and authorized by the 44th legislature. It was the subject of conflicting suits.

W. R. Smith, Austin tax payer, sought an order against the removal saying it would cause $16,000 annual needless expense by separating the board from records it must frequently consult. Atty. Gen. William McCraw sought an order for

Social Register Makes News By Dropping Barbara

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (UP)—The social register of New York has kept intact its record for always providing a good story, by dropping Barbara Hutton, the Countess Haugwitz - Reventlow from the 1935 edition now in the mail to subscribers.

Why the Woolworth heiress was not included was not disclosed by the mysterious board which rules the destiny of the publication. Some observers, doubtless inspired by malice, have hinted that a good named dropped now and then creates considerable publicity.

In the 1935 edition Countess Barbara appears as Princess Alexi Alexandri. The fact that she discarded the somewhat dubious Georgian title for the authentic lineage of the Danish nobleman may have caused her elimination. Or it may have been because she intends to spend much of her time abroad.

Report Autonomy Move Is Resumed

(By The Associated Press)

The plan for an autonomy in North China remained static Friday, although the movement was reported in Shanghai to be still fermenting.

Chinese national government officials were nervous over indications that negotiations between North China officials and Japanese officers had been resumed.

Peiping reported that over 3,000 Japanese troops were massing at Kupelkow, 70 miles north of Peiping.

Be sure to get your money's worth

It's your money. You've earned it. It will be spent. For fuel, clothes, furniture, food, all sorts of necessities... and if there's any left, for luxuries.

The way to make that hard-earned money go farthest is to purchase products of certain value. Products backed by well-known manufacturers. Products that are widely bought and used, that are carefully and painstakingly kept to high standards of quality, and that have been found over and over again to give full worth. Advertised products!

When you buy a watch or a rake, a set of china or a radio set that is advertised in this paper, you are buying a product whose maker is willing to talk about it, tell about it, put what he knows about it in print and sign his name to it. When you buy advertised merchandise by name, you get the utmost of purchasing value from every dollar.

Because it doesn't pay to advertise poor products, it DOES pay to buy those advertised.

CARDUI

Eased Pain

Cardui is a medicine for such conditions as described below by a lady who used to take it.

"I took Cardui for pain and cramping, also for a run-down condition, and I found it eased the pain and built up my nervous system and helped the weakness," writes Mrs. E. D. Carrell, of Hillsboro, Texas. "I would have nervous spells that would unfit me for my work. I took Cardui and I would get all right. I was never without it when needed."

Functional pains and nervousness at monthly periods often go away when better nourishment has been provided. Cardui relieves certain pains, increases the appetite and improves digestion. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
