

Cut off Commission of Appeals; Vote for Larger Supreme Court

In 1875 when the present State Constitution was framed Texas had perhaps a million inhabitants. The new constitution provided for a Supreme Court of three justices.

In 1928 Texas had five and a half times as many people as in 1875. In property values—increases in which naturally contribute to litigation—the growth has been even more remarkable. From the $249,000,000 assessed values in 1875, the total has steadily climbed until its is nearly $4,000,000,000 or sixteen fold. Population and property increases, bringing human being into closer contact than when Texas was largely a pastoral State, have increased the possibilities of litigiousness by geometric rather than arithmetic progression.

But the number of Supreme Court justices remained the same—just three.

In other words with five and half times the population and sixteen times the property values and with the increased likelihood of litigation that comes from the growth of such factors, three Supreme Court justices are still striving—to the best of their ability, it is only just to say—to dispose of the vitally important litigation that ultimately must reach them for final adjudication.

It is virtually a matter of course that in spite of efforts to aid them through commissions of appeal, they are falling so far behind with their labors that citizens of Texas, vitally concerned in speedy and final adjuication of their legal controversies, are materially suffering.

That is brief is the genesis of the pending constitutional amendment to be voted on July 16 next and back of which is the strength of the Texas Bar Association and the Texas Press Association membership, together with the support of many thousands of other thoughtful citizens of Texas who believe in the axiom that justice delayed frequently means justice denied.

From the Texas of 1875 to the Texas of 1929 is a far cry. Today it is one of the greatest States in the Union in population and wealth; probably the greatest in its possibilities for future development. And the attainment of that development very many well informed and thoughtful Texans believe, is being delayed and hindered by an unsatisfactory court system out of which has grown a very general demand for court reform. One of the first and most essential steps toward that reform, lawyers rather generally agree, is the adoption of the pending amendment which would increase the justices of the Supreme Court to nine, abolish the Commission of appeal (with their six judges) and require the Supreme Court to remain in session continuously twelve months in the year instead of the nine months it is permitted to sit under the present constitutional provision.

Even in the constitutional convention of 1875 a strong minority, headed by John H. Reagan, was able to envisage the Texas of future years and insisted on a larger membership of the Supreme Court. But they were out voted and ever since Texas has been trying by one means or another to meet a situation that has grown constantly worse. An amendment in 1892 created the Court of Criminal Appeals, and authorized the Legislature to establish Courts of Civil Appeals, but it left the membership of the Supreme Court unchanged. The makeshift of Commissions of Appeals had been tried in the meantime and found wanting, but the same attempted method of relief was resorted to in 1918 with the Supreme Court docket became so congested as to make emergency relief imperative. But opinions of these Commissions are not binding unless and until approved by the court itself, which thus misses the oral arguments brought out.

No permanent relief, lawyers rather generally contend, can come from any other means than a constitutional amendment under which nine judges with co-equal authority, can handle the ever-increasing litigation that must go eventually to the court of final resort.

Today there are eleven courts of civil appeals, whose decisions may be taken to the Supreme Court for review; these courts in turn are fed by 253 courts and 106 district courts. And because of increased litigation there is constant effort to increase the number of civil appellate courts further to deluge the Supreme Court.

Confronted with a serious situation and impressed by the urgent need of action to protect the rights and properties of the citizens of Texas, the Texas Press Association has gone, by resolution, on record as urging the people to vote on this amendment—an action taken only after scrutiny of the entire amendment and inquiry as to its purposes and effect. Fearing that lack of interest of information might cause its defeat, the Press Association decided to ask its members to make a special and diligent effort to advise their readers of the amendment and to urge their vote in line with the Association's earnest desire to further the cause of court reform in Texas. ### DON'T BE A SNOB

"Be a snob," the graduates of an Eastern college were advised not long ago. "Be a snob, and marry the bosses' daughter instead of the stenographer."

Was ever a group of college graduates sent out into the world with such a fool advice?

A snob is one of the world's most pitiable objects. He goes through life with his nose high in the air, gaining nothing in the way of knowledge, of inspiration and of understanding from the general current of life about him. Prematurely satisfied with himself he becomes highly unsatisfactory to others.

In the lives of truly great men can one find evidence of snobbishness? Did Lincoln, loved throughout the world because of his intense sympathy for struggling humanity, ever show the slightest trace of a snobbish trait? Did Washington, who readily helped his suffering troops push heavily loaded wagon give anyone cause to believe there is value in snobbishness?

And did the great artists, the great literary figures, and the great thinkers of all times feel superior to the ordinary folks with whom they came in contact? No—it was from the common people that they drew their inspiration. One cannot study and learn life and at the same time exhibit a lofty attitude toward those who may today occupy a humble position.

Furthermore it is unsafe. In this land of ours the office boy of today may become the president and general manager tomorrow.

THERE is a tremendous amount of satisfaction in being able to offer farmers in this vicinity the new Model "L" Case Tractor. Those who have seen it pronounce it years ahead of present-day tractors because it has all the best features of modern design plus additional features as well.

Now see what you think of the new Case. Its great power will astonish you, especially when you consider that the tractor weighs but slightly more than three draft horses. Its ease of handling, its three forward speeds, its short turning radius, its accessibility of all parts, its roomy platform, its adjustable spring seat—all these features and many more will instantly appeal to you.

Whether or not you are in immediate need of a tractor, it will pay you to investigate the new Case. Come in and get a copy of our new booklet that shows this attractive tractor in its natural blue-gray and red colors.

Revolutionized Wheat Farming

FAMOUS
Ohio

The need for a faster, cheaper, better method of preparing wheat land was answered when Charlie Angell developed the "One Way" Disc Plow on his own farm at Plains, Kansas.

His neighbors saw how it cut the cost of fitting wheat land by one-third; how it killed volunteer wheat; left the soil level for the combine and did away with all the other tillage tools the wheat farmer used. Demand spread and grew until it can truthfully be said that this Genuine Angell One Way Disc Plow has revolutionized wheat farming in the west.

We believe it is well to bear in mind this fact—the Angell "One Way" Disc is the plow that has revolutionized wheat farming, that is why we recommend it to you.

Advice is Given on

Storage of Wheat

"Give us better wheat; cleaner, brighter wheat. Such wheat not only is best for our trade but it is by far the most profitable for the wheat grower."

"Look at this," he said. "It weighs enough to grade No. 2 hard; but it's musty, out of condition. It brought $0.77 this morning. Some farmer lost 25c to 40c a bushel on it either by harvesting it while it was too green or storing damp and letting it heat."

of last year's wheat was docked in price because of improper care either during the harvest or afterwards. Be- tioned as a means of lessening the dan- ger of damaged, low grade wheat.

Don't start the combine until the wheat is ready to harvest. Don't get into the field when the dew is on or shortly after a rain.

Store your wheat in dry, well ven- tilated bins. Wheat dumped on the ground is graded down by tarnish, ground odor, bleaching, foreign mat- ter and mustiness.

By all means do not mix a load of damp wheat with dry wheat. If you do the whole binfull will be damaged.

periments this year in methods of storage on the farm. Special atten- tion is being given to methods of ventilating the bins so slightly damp wheat will cure without overheating.

THE SWEET POTATO

Sweet potatoes are either long and thin or short and chunky, and East- ern consumers prefer the short and chunky ones. This discovery led to research which resulted in an amaz- ing manifestation of man's knowl- edge of the soil and man's power to direct the shape of vegetable growth.

The New Jersey State Agricultural Experiment Station proved that the chunky variety of sweet potato will grow only in soil to which a fertilizer rich in potassium in relation to nitro- gen has been applied. On the basis of five years of experiment by Professor Schermerhorn, potato growers of New Jersey now have available a for- mula of fertilizer. Dr. W. R. Robbins further extended the work finding that short, chunky potatoes have a high percentage of protein, and long thin ones a high percentage of carbo- hydrates.

Specifications were given as to the ideal dimensions of the commercial long and two and a half inches thick, long and two and a half inches thick.

We are willing to wager that these specifications will be met. And there is something inspiring in the thought. Now that the farmer can guide the destiny of the sweet potato, there's no telling what he'll be able to do next.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Always drive fast out of alleys. You might hit a policeman. There's no telling.

Always race with locomotives to crossings. Engineers like it. It breaks the monotony of their jobs. It is al- ways a good test for your car.

Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use the horn because it might unnerve the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far.

Demand half the road—the middle half. Insist on your rights.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more ar- tistic. Often you can turn clear around.

Always drive close to pedestrians in wet weather. Dry cleaners will erect a monument to your memory.

Always try to pass cars on a hill when it is possible. It shows your bus- iness power.

Never look around when you back up. There is never anything behind your automobile.

A few shots of booze will enable you to make your car do real stunts. For permanent results quaff long and deeply of the flowing bowl before taking the wheel.

Drive as fast as you can on wet pavements. There is always some- thing to stop you if you lose control—often a heavy truck or plate glass window.

New drivers should be shown how to crive fast in heavy traffic. It gives them the experience every motorist should have.

Always speed! It looks as though you are a man of pep even though an amateur driver.

Never stop, look or listen at rail- road crossings. It consumes valuable time, and besides, nobody believes in signs.—American Mutual Magazine.

THE FIRE MENACE

One of our exchanges points to the fact that a disastrous fire was caused by the careless use of a match that was thrown near a pile of rubbish. A strong wind was blowing and the match ignited the grass and soon the rubbish was burning. The result of the fire was the loss of a home and a garage and a new car.

Fire is always waiting for the op- portunity to call the hand of the care- less person who disregards the laws for fire prevention.

Fires may be prevented. But when a fire is once under headway, the result is loss of property and perhaps the loss of life. Every home and business house should have on hand fire extinguish- ers and every member of the house- hold should be taught how to combat fire.

Gas and oil stoves should be kept in first class condition and due care should be used in their use. Matches should be kept in safe containers and children should not be allowed to play with matches or set out fires. A cigar or cigarette should be dead be- fore being thrown away after it has been used. Dust rags and oil mops are also a menace and should be carefully guarded. A trash burner is absolutely necessary and no family should be in- sane enough to countenance burn- ing of trash in the open. This method of disposing of trash is so hazardous to life and property that no thought- ful person will use this means of dis- posing of refuse. In the business dis- tricts of a town open fires should not be allowed and Higgins has an ordi- nance prohibiting burning trash in the open on Main street, burners be- ing required.

Gasoline is a useful article and is so common that people become care- less in its use and then there is trou- ble. Gasoline should be used as if it was dynamite and should be handled with care.

If by chance your clothing becomes ignited, do not lose your head and run. This fans the flames and your life may pay the penalty. Quickly get the burning garments off and if pos- sible smother the flames with any- thing that may be in reach. Presence of mind and quick action may be life savers.

Plenty of exits should be provided in case of fire. Buildings should have fire escapes sufficient to enable the occupants to find ready means of escape in case of fire. And doors in all public buildings should be of such nature and so placed that they are not fire traps, but provide quick exit in case of panic that so often takes

How to Get the Most out of your land

YOU CAN HAVE the best land in the world and the best seed—but you won't get the biggest possible crop if your drill falls short in any one of several important essentials.

The Case Grain Drill does a prime job of planting because it delivers the seed accurately and deposits it evenly in the extreme bottom of the furrow. Even depth of planting means that every seed gets an equal start, permitting even growth and more uniform ripening.

The Case Fluted Force Feed Drill saves your seed and increases your yield. There are no skips—no bunches—no cracked or wasted seed. The Case Double Run Feed is equally efficient.

Get a Case Drill and rest assured you've got the one that will give you the biggest yield at the smallest cost. Drop in soon.

Many people are coming to Spearman and the Spearman country these days, expecting to make their home here. At present the population of Spearman is at least one-third larger than it is during normal times.

Numerous car wrecks are reported from various parts of the county. Some of them were real serious, but serious enough to emphasize the need of careful while driving.

A cold front temporarily shortly after they pass by, seemingly having plenty of time to waste. In their thoughtless haste they may cause the death of some worthwhile citizen, or possibly a child that has been sent by its mother on an errand.

The rains beginning Sunday night interfered with the harvesting of the greatest wheat crop in the history of Hansford county. Considering the fact that Hansford county has in the past harvested some of the greatest crops in the southwest, this is a saying a great deal. Wheat is making from 37 to 40 bushels per acre.

Sees Shorthand As Future Form of Written Communication in Business

Time Saving Trend of Modern Era Will Make Shorthand an Everyday Form of Communication, Predicts Noted Authority

JOHN ROBERT GREGG

The modern demand for speed in everything, getting things done quickly and for taking shortcuts to accomplish in minutes and hours what formerly required days and weeks, will eventually cause shorthand to become one of the principal mediums of business correspondence and personal communication.

This is the prediction of John Robert Gregg, publisher, internationally known as the father of the system of shorthand bearing his name. Mr. Gregg foresees the day when everyone will use shorthand as the average person today uses long-hand writing.

When Mr. Gregg published the first Gregg Manual in 1888, shorthand was studied principally by stenographers and "high-brows," for the system in vogue at that time employed geometric lines and curves which were extremely complicated and confusing. It was the extreme simplicity of learning these simplified systems which inspired young Robert Gregg to invent a system of shorthand which anybody could understand and which would be easily learned.

Gregg's idea took hold, not, he says, in a night, but he has driven people away from the old complicated systems and to make them realize that there are short-cuts even in shorthand. Today there are approximately 1,000,000 users of shorthand in the United States, with the number steadily increasing and John Robert Gregg, increasing his capital of $50 with which he...

But it over, is internationally known as the author of Gregg shorthand. This system has been translated into seven foreign languages and is taught in the public high schools of 1,115 cities and towns in the United States out of the 567 in which any form of shorthand is taught.

Five years ago Mr. Gregg succeeded in the land of the adoption, again turned his eye to England, acquired the largest and most powerful chain of business colleges in Great Britain, brought the teachers to London and taught them his system. He then sent them back to their schools to teach and preach the gospel of Gregg.

Mr. Gregg realized as early as ten years ago that the demands of modern business would require a skill simpler and more easily learned shorthand and at that time began compiling his new manual built around the words of highest frequency in the language and laying emphasis on the vocabulary of business. The new Gregg Manual, the result of ten years study and work, will be published in June.

Don't Choke Your Grain

Here's a drill with discs and tube boot so designed that it makes a wide, flat-bottomed seed furrow—one in which the seed is scattered out so each grain sprouts and the plants will stool out and make a heavy stand. This means big yields and is one reason why the Thomas Drill has proved a money maker.

A Community's Actual Enemies

It was with the courage of real heroes that a publication in New Orleans and one in Galveston printed editorials which pointed out those who are the actual enemies of a community; and what those cities found out about themselves is true of every other city in the land.

Here is what they said. The worst enemy that faces a city in its march of progress and advancement is not one that nature has placed in its path nor is it destructive propaganda that might be circulated by rivals or scheming individuals. The strongest enemy of development and growth of a community is one that lives and thrives among us.

They are simply the members of the community who adopt a passive and disinterested attitude towards the common welfare of the city—place selfish personal interest above all—and know nothing of what is going on around them. They do only what is required of them as citizens and avoid participating in community enterprises and community activity. The ordinary type even goes farther. He is the first one to utter bitter reproach and caustic criticisms if things are not done to suit his fancy, while he himself does nothing but voice epithets against those who are trying.

Such is the sum and substance of what New Orleans and Galveston think is the worst enemy to the community. What they think is what many others think and these thoughts of the many are not far from truth—full thoughts. The community's greatest enemy lives within the bounds of the community but we have grounds for rejoicing in that they are in the minority—yet, even minorities can do a lot of damage.—Exchange.

DISHWASHING TWICE DAILY FOUND TO SAVE LABOR

Washing dishes twice a day instead of three times, is the latest labor saving device for housewives. The principal was invented by a University of Chicago girl who received a Master of Arts degree for her study of dishwashing.

For six months the girl assiduously washed dishes. She had two helpers but not of the common kitchen variety. Instead, one held a stop watch and the other counted every movement made from clearing table to the final putting away of the last fork.

Various types of soap and methods of rinsing and drying were tested, but the most interesting conclusion had to do with the organization of the work.

It appeared that the quickest plan was to stack dishes for three meals and do them up at one operation just before lunch. Thus the day's dishes for a family of four could be cleaned and put away in twenty-two minutes and thirty-one seconds, using 1,015 movements.

As against washing up three times a day, 500 motions were saved.

The dishwashing experts declared that by the proper organization of the work, stacking up the dishes does not violate the ancient rules for neat kitchen and avoids the fatigue that comes to every housewife after each meal, thereby making them more pleasant occasions.

Another result of the new scientific interest that is being shown in dishwashing is the impending announcement of chemically compounded dishes that can be dissolved and disposed of down the drain and cheap enough so that new ones can be afforded for each meal.

AS TO KEEPING IN STEP

For almost ten years I have been going to a farm in the summer, and in driving back and forth each day I have watched the development of business centers in the many villages I pass through.

When a village center approaches prosperity and crude shacks are replaced with neat modern structures, I notice that most of the old merchants are pushed out and a new type takes over the business.

In some respects the transformation is tragic.

I am thinking of a certain corner where a man and his family ran a confectionery, cigar, ice cream, newsstand, filling station, and school supply store. The place was dirty, the conduct of the store was shiftless; but the family was getting along well, making a fair living. The rent, I assume, was about $100 a month.

Houses went up in the neighborhood, a big school was erected nearby and a new two-way boulevard pavement was laid. The landlord decided to capitalize these improvements, so he announced that he intended to improve the building, and that the rent thereafter would be $300 a month. The merchant to the opportunity for himself was better than it ever had been. But to pay the higher rent and make a profit demanded enterprising merchandising. The shiftless occupant quit. He was unequal to the task. He moved on, probably to a dead corner, farther out in the country where the competition was less keen and dirty floors, dusty windows and general inefficiency were tolerated.

Meanwhile the new merchant in the old corner will likely develop a monthly profit of $350 for himself, or twice as much as the old occupant was able to make with a rent of $100.

Is this right, is this fair? Unfortunately there is no alternative. If people won't make the most of their opportunities they must be eliminated in favor of others who will. I have previously told the story of our country ice man who was irritated because his customers wanted so much ice that he had to work thirteen hours a day. He was disgruntled because he had to work so hard, and he was angry when we told him we used 100 pounds every day instead of 100 ounces every other day. Eventually many of his customers put in electric refrigeration and then a man with a two-truck mind offered people all the ice they wanted, and the mai with the one-truck mind, like the storekeeper, went further out into the country.

GOOD POLICY

Preaching is one thing; good business policy is another. Men find things to criticize in preaching; only a dumb-bell opposes the safe and sane business proposition.

If you study your newspaper as you should, then take note of the great number who are overtaken in crime, folly, and other wrongdoings. Set the number down in your memorandum-book each day for a month. The number will astonish you—and the sad total will be a shouting, thundering argument for right living.

There is absolutely no excuse for doing wrong—for it is the poorest business policy in the world; why? because it leads inevitably to disaster.

Take intoxicating drink, for instance. Over-indulgence, or, for that matter, taking it under any circumstances save under advice of a good doctor for illness—is a very, very poor business policy. Why? Because its victims are legion.

If cheating, defrauding and falsifying were not wrong morally, it would remain one of the worst business policies. Such an operator may apparently succeed for a time, but will surely be exposed in time, and bring sorrow to the perpetrator.

The price of a clear conscience is beyond doubt effort well expended. Compare with the dividends reaped, the clear conscience pays more than the best stocks on the market today. To maintain a spotless character and reputation is to have the best credit and backing in the world. Every man knows right from wrong by native intuition. Every man has been at the

ROCK ISLAND SANDERS CYLINDER DISC PLOW

Land may lie fallow for eighteen months, it may be grown solid with quick grass, sunflowers and weeds, and yet a Rock Island Sanders Cylinder Disc Plow will put it in shape for seed.

These Sanders Cylinder Disc Plows are changing tillage methods reducing planting cost and raising profits in the wheat belt.

The special curvature of the disc blades—the Sanders cup shape and the vertical set of the discs, which revolve together, reduce friction and move the soil in the same direction but about one-third far as the regular disc plow. The discs cut off vegetation the complete width of the ground. Sizes to cut from 6 to 12 feet wide, 2 to 12 inches deep, creating the seed bed that holds moisture. You'll notice the difference between the work of a Sanders and others.

BETTER HELP IN HOMES

Housewives are to a great extent solving the help problem by the employment of electrical servants that are never late on the job, never ask for holidays nor demand the use of the family car.

The amazing increase of electrical equipment in American homes is disclosed by the household research bureau of the makers of ABC electric washers, which finds that at the end of 1928 this equipment included 17,700,000 electric irons, 7,700,000 vacuum cleaners, 1,223,000 electric refrigerators and 5,735,000 electric washers.

There are nearly twenty million wired homes in the United States, where the field of usefulness of electrical energy is being more rapidly developed than in any other country.

American women have discovered that the employment of labor-saving devices in the home is a means of conserving their energy, health and beauty, besides making for true economy. These devices are banishing much of the drudgery which has formerly inseparable from house-keeping.

Some start a running account and then proceed to run away from it.

Many people could say all they think without making much noise.

Correct this sentence: I really believe our gas meter runs too slowly.

What a politician hear "with his ear to the ground" he broadcasts with a loud speaker.

Some evangelists get paid handsomely for bawling out their customers.

The modern girl does the things her grandmother was dying to do, but didn't dare.

Some women seem to believe they have sufficient will power to gossip or leave it alone.

Experts say that business letters should have imagination and honesty. But the imagination is what makes some of them dishonest.

OF COURSE IT PAYS

In this day and time it would seem that about the most foolish question anyone could ask is "Does Advertising Pay?" But a great many local business men, if they do not actually ask the question give a negative answer by their actions.

There is a reason for their belief that advertising would not pay them, in many cases. Perhaps they have used a small advertisement now and then and because their business was not doubled over night were disappointed and concluded that it did not pay. In other cases the failure of advertising was due to poor and uninteresting copy, or an inferior medium. Again, it might be because the general reputation of the firm was not such as to give the public confidence in its merchandise.

Advertising will not make an unattractive, slipshod, or unreliable store prosperous. But if the merchant has the right goods at the right prices, displays them attractively and gives his customers attentive service, judicious advertising will be the very best investment he can make.

One tobacco company is spending $12,000,000 this year in advertising a single brand of cigarettes, and declares that its increased business has far more than justified the expenditure already.

Of course advertising pays, if properly done and provided the advertiser has the goods and prices to back it up.

Train your son in politeness and he may make a successful book agent.

NEW EDISON STAMP

Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Edison's invention of the incandescent electric light, a special 2-cent postage stamp will shortly be issued to honor the great inventor. The issue of this stamp is an incident of Light's Golden Jubilee, which is being celebrated in a five month's series of events which will culminate in a great testimonial to Edison to be held in Dearborn, Mich., next October.

The commemorative stamp is of regular size, printed in red, with a picture of the original lamp giving off rays of light, above which are the words: "Edison's first lamp." In the corners appear the dates 1879 and 1929.

When one observes the almost universal use of the incandescent light and other electric appliance which Edison's genius has given to the world it is difficult to realize that all these modern miracles have been wrought within fifty years, and that the man who made them possible is still living to receive the plaudits of his fellow citizens who enjoy these priceless gifts.

Perhaps no man ever lived to witness the fruition of his labors to such an extent as has Thomas Alva Edison.

THE NEW AVERY ONE-WAY DISC PLOWS

More Work and Better Work

A new and better implement of light draft and great strength that does a quicker, easier and more satisfactory plowing job—that is the New Avery One-Way Disc.

The New Avery is made in two sizes—10 foot with 18 discs, convertible to 8 foot with 14 discs, and 8 foot with 14 discs, convertible to 6 foot with 10 discs. The 20-inch electric heat treated steel discs, polished and sharpened, are mounted on heavy disc section bolts and are equipped with high carbon steel disc cleaners.

The convenient positions of the sturdily built hand levers and lifting quadrants assure a greater safety and ease of operation.

The "long radius" rear wheel construction provides for a wider and more accurate adjustment of the angle of the disc cylinder to the line of draft. This feature makes possible a working position in which the normal right hand swing of the cylinder is balanced against the soil pressure, thereby insuring steady, even work.

The turntable bearing on which the land wheel is mounted places the plow in transport position by bringing the wheels into parallel alignment. This reduces the width of the plow, allowing it to pass through a narrow farm gate.

Another special feature of the New Avery is the Universal Alemite-Zerk lubricated main thrust bearing with renewable cut steel bearing plates. Come in and see the New Avery and note its many superior features.

There is a full line of the famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, implements and Champion harvesting and haying machines

als With Problems

Of Dairy Feeding

This season of the year when pastures and meadows are still too short to be profitably grazed, is often a trying one for the dairy farmer. Under such conditions a more general use of home grown feeds, especially those which constitute a surplus or are marketable, would effect a considerable saving to farmers.

A bulletin entitled "Barley, Cull Beans and Potatoes as Feeds for Dairy Cattle," by C. F. Huffman and C. Boetzer from the dairy department of the Michigan State College reports the value of these feeds to Michigan farmers.

Potatoes can be introduced into the ration gradually, this bulletin says, and it is not considered advisable to feed more than 30 pounds of them per cow per day, though larger amounts have been fed with no ill effects.

Chopping the potatoes is desirable in order to eliminate the danger of choking. Feeding after milking prevents any undesirable flavors from entering the milk. It is reported that the butter fat produced from cows fed potatoes has a tendency to be salty. Feeding reasonable amounts of potatoes along with a good legume hay and a grain mixture containing a protein concentrate such as linseed meal to lessen this effect.

The same bulletin deals with the feeding of cull beans to dairy cattle. Cooking the beans renders them more palatable, but due to the greater cost and inconvenience ground beans are usually fed. When combined with a good roughage little or no other grain is necessary except for cows producing more than 30 pounds of milk per day. When ground beans are fed a good grain ration to accompany alfalfa hay would be 200 pounds ground corn or barley, 200 pounds ground oats, 100 pounds cull beans, 25 pounds linseed meal, 5 pounds salt.

THE USEFUL HOBO

In the minds of most persons, the terms hobo, tramp and bum have practically the same meaning. But this idea is wrong, according to M. Leinen, agent for a large New York employment company, who declares that he has hired as many as 133,000 Bowery hoboes for railroad work in a single year, and says they were "a fine bunch of men."

Mr. Leinen described the difference between the three classes mentioned somewhat as follows: A hobo is a traveling worker; a tramp is a traveling non-worker; a bum is a stationary non-worker. While the three intermingle in the large cities during the winter, and the classes are not strictly defined, when the opportunity comes the hobo is willing to work, while the others are not. Hoboes travel from place to place seeking reasonable employment, such as harvesting, railroad and other construction work, as common laborers, so they fill a real place in the country's economic system. While they are not always exemplary in morals and conduct, they are honest and industrious, as a rule. And they have a sense of pride as well. The hobo wants to be known as a hobo, and he is insulted to be called a tramp or a bum.—Exchange.

ABOUT YOUTH

You don't hear so much nowadays about "flaming youth" and its sins as you did a short time ago. In case you are still a bit worried about the erring younger generation, however, you might listen to these remarks from the Rev. Charles R. Brown, D. D., dean emeritus of the Yale Divinity School, who has seen the new generation at close range for a number of years.

"I have no sympathy whatever with this wholesale decrying of the tendencies of youth," says Dean Brown. "The young people are not everything that is great and grand and good, neither are they the last word in total depravity. They are mixed like the rest of us. The wheat and tares grow together in that soil which is warm and rich and fertile beyond measure, according to the seed sown!"

That seems to us an excellent size-up of the situation. It is a good antidote for the dolorous wails of some of the discouraged graybeards.

DR. JECKYL AND MR. HYDE

We know intimately a man who is interesting because everywhere you may find many others like him. He is the very soul of courtesy and good breeding until he steps behind the wheel of a car.

But let him feel the pull of a powerful motor, the thrill of speeding at the touch of the accelerator and good manners leave him like rats deserting a sinking ship.

Furiously he roars down the center of the road, forcing others to the edges of the ditches. He swoops down upon slowly traveling cars, roars past without warning and then curses the other driver, man or woman, for heedlessness.

In the traffic he is a most disagreeable person—crowding by a group of waiting cars and forcing his way in near the head of the line. He crowds upon pedestrians as though he had sole title to the highway.

Discourtesy marks his every act in a car. Who can tell us why this is?

We overheard a friend advise that the place to find parking space on Sunday is near the church.

Senator Smoot wants the government to censor false and fraudulent advertising. That would be rather hard on some successful politicians, wouldn't it?

BOASTFUL MALES DROWN; WOMEN SWIM IN SAFETY

Twenty-two times as many men as women drown each year, according to figures for New York beaches compiled by Nita Sheffield, noted teacher of swimming. "It's the disposition of men to strut that causes so many of them to lose their lives," says Miss Sheffield.

"During the past year 466 New Yorkers were drowned on the various beaches near the city," she continues. "Of these only twenty one were women. As a rule there were about an equal number of men and girls on the beaches. Yet any life guard will say that he is called upon to rescue at least a dozen men to one woman."

"This simply indicates that the average male cannot resist the temptation to strut a bit in the water. On the other hand, if a woman is bent on showing off, the chances are that she will choose to do so on the beach, where she and her new bathing suit are safe. It's perfectly natural for a man to enjoy demonstrating his strength and skill in the water before his wife or his sweetheart. The trouble is he often gratifies his instinct to show off by swimming further than his strength or skill warrants."

FAR FROM THE IDEAL

This may be the best of all ages, but much remains to make the world the ideal place we can dream about in moments of leisure.

Today our wheat farmers are actually suffering because nature has been too bountiful, has given them too large a crop. To appreciate fully what their financial distress must be, we need merely recall the wheat prices that prevailed before the war and compare them with the cost of the things the farmer has to buy. Machinery, clothing, building materials and all the thousand and one other items that enter into farming costs are from 60 to 100 per cent above the pre-war figure. Wheat today is actually below the pre-war market at 40 or 50 cents per bushel in 1913 the distress of the grower could have been no greater than it is today with wheat below a dollar.

And yet, at the same time, thousands, yes millions of human beings are facing starvation in China because there is a shortage of food stuffs.

How can there be a real overproduction of any article when men in other parts of the world are dying for lack of it? That question can be answered only by the assertion that the world is still a bit out of joint from an economic standpoint.

ADVANTAGE OF THE TIMES

was talking to a friend in the city who has made a merchant. We were in the old days, how difficult it is to get a new order and how the very crest of the writer observed not advantageous, and good roads mean much to the man like you. They are right and mostly so. "The past year was the best in the history of our store. It is true, many people find it easy to drive to nearby shopping centers to do their buying. In the olden days that trade would have remained right here. But remember it is also easier to draw trade from distant areas.

"In years gone past we recognized every face in the store. A stranger was something decidedly out of the ordinary. Today we find our place filled with people from twenty, thirty, and some times sixty and seventy miles away.

"These may be difficult times for the old fashioned merchant, because the conditions that produce him are gone. But these are quite satisfactory times for the man with imagination and willingness to receive ideas."

This man's store and methods might well serve as the subject for a lengthy editorial dealing with a great diversity of subjects such as service to community, advertising policies, and sales methods. But we have a single idea to emphasize here. If business is bad why blame the town or general conditions. Perhaps you are merely failing to keep pace with the times.

THE CHIEF AIM OF EDUCATION

Broadly speaking, the aims of education may be taken in two distinct branches, or divisions. One of these is the education from the purely cultural viewpoint, and the other from the practical standpoint.

The cultural education would be the education in which the chief end is satisfaction of one's self; the disinterested love of inquiry and idealistic devotion to things of the mind in science and art. This type of education was prevalent a few generations ago, and still prevails to a certain extent in Europe. The class that seeks this type of education is that one which has a definite, superior place in society; they are not confronted, either with the necessity of wage-earning.

Education, and educational institutions have of late taken a turn toward the practical. Education, in place of being for the rich alone, is coming into the reach of the common people. With the ever increasing opportunities in this line, the common class is rapidly entering our universities and colleges. Needless to say, this class is taking with it its ways of applying and regarding things. It is looking at education from a practical standpoint.

It is this practical standpoint that must be dealt with. Since by necessity and through no fault of their own the new class is chiefly concerned with the obtaining of a livelihood and a career it is natural that this background, this atmosphere, sombre though it be, is carried into their scholastic work. The schools have shifted their curricula to meet their demands. On the campus of almost every educational institution may be found professional schools of business or commerce, of teaching or journalism, or even technical work in one of the many branches of science.

In the past the studies were liberal. The courses were more exclusive. They both belonged to the predominant leisure class. By their command over the political situation, they were able to secure a wide horizon, and attain a dignified outlook on life. Their positions, socially, were secure. The common people were just common.

In keeping with the change in the educational procedure, the cultured class has shifted. In fact, there is no longer a cultured class. Through the influence of the practicals, and their own inclinations, this class has been reduced to a leisure class. They are easy to find in our present life.

If one looked for the reason for this change in our institutions of learning it would be found in the economic changes of the last few generations. With the decline of the cultural class, and the advent of the practical, it is logical that such a change take place.

Now, it is evident that the chief end of education is the ability to make a living and to make a name for the person in question. So, at present at least, the chief end of education is the practical applications of education.

need for such an attitude has long since passed. Too many of our citizens have failed to put a good veneer over the mental attitude that dominated the cave dweller. Too many of our own acquaintances here are always looking for the nigger in the wood-pile. Whenever an idea for community betterment is broached, they wonder where they are scheduled to come out, and coldly they draw back into their shells for fear someone will get the best of the deal.

Let a man advance a proposition for trade extension here in Spearman, and many merchants who are bound to benefit will wonder "who's getting his out of it."

That this attitude stands in the way of unified effort locally to make the town more prosperous and more pleasing as a home environment goes without saying.

All we can advise here is, "Throw off that mental legacy given you by the cave dweller. Times have changed. A suspicious attitude toward others and toward new ideas will cost you ten dollars for every dollar it saves."
