BURLINGTON IS LOOKING TOWARD SPEARMAN

Much Activity In Real Estate Circles; New People Coming To Locate Here

Announcement by the Burlington System that a permit to construct new railway mileage from Spearman northward through Wellington, Shamrock and Pampa is being received from the Interstate Commerce Commission was received Saturday afternoon in a message to the local chamber of commerce and board of development from F. W. Williams, president of the Burlington System. The message came as a surprise to the one received from Mr. Williams recently in which he advised the local chamber of commerce of the Burlington's interest in the northern route.

The message follows: "The board of city development, Spearman, Texas, in implementing my message of the 5th our South Plains line now completed and in operation, we are ready to go forward with plan we had in mind for more than three miles northward through Wellington, Shamrock and Pampa, and applications are being prepared for filing with the Interstate Commerce Commission for such construction."

In addition to the above telegram, A. J. Fires, who has handled all interests for the Fort Worth Denver City Railway in this section more than 30 years and who has taken an active interest in construction of this line, received following message from J. H. Egan, general attorney for the Ft. Worth and Denver.

"Burlington people are now going forward with our plans for years standing to construct road from Childress northward through Wellington, Shamrock and Pampa. Mr. Williams is today vice chamber of commerce. I will visit Ft. Worth by Monday or Tuesday."—Childress Daily Index.

INTEREST HERE
Announcement from Mr. Williams, president of the Burlington System, that his company intends to build a northwesterly line from Childress was received in Spearman with glad acclaim. It will be remembered that about two years ago was surveyed from Pampa, Texas, to a point about ten miles west of Spearman. The surveyors claimed they found a suitable route to bridge the river, on the north side, and that the cost of the road through the rough Canadian country would be less than in any other they had found. An agreement was made at that time that Burlington would build a line through this country as soon as it completed its south plains line. It is now definite that the time has arrived, and definite action will be taken to build a railway from Childress northward through Wellington, Shamrock and Pampa. It would be a great boon to the wheat belt; would be an extensive and prosperous stock country, would run through the most productive oil and gas fields in the state and would be an asset to the state. It would be an asset to the state. It would be an asset to the state.

Crowds Attend Tri-State Singing Convention at Gruver
An estimated 800 to 1,000 people attended the Tri-State Singing Convention held at Gruver, Texas, Tuesday night. The crowd began to assemble at 10 o'clock in the morning, and a few songs by the congregational program was taken up by the resident Grooms. As usual, saw that the convention went through without hindrance. Twenty numbers were presented by the president announced that a picnic dinner was served at Gruver and vicinity. The regular business session, singing, was resumed, and adjourned until late in the afternoon, at which W. W. Hastings, re-elected president of the convention, presided. Other officers elected were: H. Frazier, vice president; Lucy Watkins, secretary; Nellie Fulbright, treasurer. The Tri-State Singing Convention will be held at year from last Sunday.

Selling The Twin City Tractor In Spearman

G. T. Leatherman and Alvin Payne have secured the agency for the Twin City tractor in Spearman. Mr. Payne is local representative of the firm and Mr. Leatherman is located at Perryton. They have opened headquarters in the Simpson building, just north of the Chevrolet plant. A car load of the Twin City tractors was received the first of the week, and Mr. Payne is now ready to make immediate delivery on same. He announces that a full and complete stock of parts and repairs for the Twin City will be kept on hand at all times in Spearman.

Another New Business Established Here

Allen's Tire Shop is the name of another new business concern in Spearman. This makes the fifth tire store for the Allen Brothers, who have been handling tires at Guymon for a number of years. They now operate stores at Guymon, Liberal, Elkhart, Perryton and Spearman. Lloyd Allen will have charge of the store at this place. He served his apprenticeship in the business at Guymon and Liberal. This firm handles General and Kelly-Springfield tires, and in connection with the tire sales business also conduct a general tire repair business. Their shops are equipped with the latest machinery and appliances for this kind of work. Allen's Tire Shop in Spearman is located with the Chambers Service Station, on north Main street.

Sheriff Wilbanks Warns Fast Drivers of Autos

"I take this means of warning the public generally that it is unlawful to drive any motor vehicle at a greater speed than 20 miles per hour in any town in Texas. We have had too much speeding in Spearman and unless this law is observed more closely in Spearman, the speeders will be dealt with as it directs. This law applies to not only Main street, but all the city limits." The foregoing is the sum and substance of the sheriff's notice to those who have been making a race course out of the streets of Spearman. Speeding is dangerous. Some of these days a child will be killed; or several people will be injured, perhaps crippled for life in an auto wreck. Why not slow down before this happens. What's the hurry anyway.

C. of C. Signs Committee Should Get Busy

The road signs committee of the chamber of commerce has a real task to perform if signs are placed in every place that travelers and tourists claim they should be. Many complaints are heard about the signs and markers on roads and highways leading to Spearman. Good signs have been placed at important places only to be torn down by smart alecks and others, through spite or just pure cussedness. At any rate there is much work for the road signs and markers committee, and it might be well to appoint another committee to see that the signs and markers are allowed to remain "put" after the first committee has finished its labors.

Headed toward Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston and Galveston would be bewildering. This vast empire is developing rapidly, and when Burlington officials make a thorough investigation, they will hasten the construction of the road.

H. G. Hastings and Hulin Vernon were business visitors to Amarillo Tuesday.
Leo Dacus has returned from New Mexico, where he spent a month or more for the benefit of his health. He is feeling much better now and is again at his post at the Morton garage.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campfield and the children are visiting with relatives in Centralia, Kansas, this week. Mr. Campfield, Santa Fe depot agent here, is off on a two-weeks vacation, and they expect to visit the Pacific coast country before returning to Spearman.
W. N. Clausen came from Iowa last week to accept a position in the clerical department at the Morton garage. Mr. Clausen takes the place in the Ford organization made vacant by the resignation of Don Rawlings, who last week moved with his family to Winooski.

Another Advertising Grafter Hits Hard

Another advertising fraud was worked in Spearman the first of the week. This time it was some sort of a church directory, similar no doubt, to the one pulled in Guymon a short time ago, and of which mention was made in the Reporter last week. As long as business men patronize the hum-bugs, they will continue to come here to work their grafts. These grafters pass the word along one to another whether a town is easy or difficult to be grafted upon. The Reporter refused to be a party to this latest graft pulled on the business interests of this town. We told the man who pulled it, to send his print in out of town, to Halifax or wherever he wished. We could have printed the little job in a few hours and perhaps could have made a small profit on it. But there is plenty of legitimate business and either we will let the latter go elsewhere and take to the grafting game or else we will stick to the legit, and let the graft game go. We have never printed a job for one of these bums without feeling that we were in a way responsible for our home concerns being robbed. The Reporter is off'en bums for life.

Hereford Brand Is Sold To Nunn-Warren Pub. Co.

Effective May 1, 1929, The Hereford Brand and the Friona Star changed ownership, the properties having been purchased by the Nunn-Warren Publishing Company, with main offices in Amarillo. David M. Warren, of Pampa, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the company, and Attorney O. D. Thompson, of Amarillo, closed up the deal Wednesday, and the new owners took charge at once.

For the time being Mr. and Mrs. Seth B. Holman will remain with The Brand and lend their assistance to the new publishers until the force is reorganized and acquainted with local conditions. The composing room force is unaffected by the change. Archer Fullington, editor of the Panhandle Herald has been shifted here temporarily to aid with the street work until a permanent man is secured.

Mr. and Mrs. Holman purchased The Brand from B. F. Guthrie in October, 1917. A half interest was sold to Walter R. Steckman in 1919, and repurchased in 1926. The Star was acquired in December, 1926.

The Nunn-Warren Publications embrace a string of eleven papers on the Plains, and are affiliated with other groups of papers ranging from El Paso to Spearman. The organization is splendidly officered and organized, has had a world of experience, and has the resources and equipment to give Hereford a paper second to none in the Panhandle. The retiring owners express the belief that the two publications will grow and flourish with the rapid development of this field and will be a source of pride to the citizens of this community.—Hereford Brand.

Hazel Hurd Players Delight Big Audience

The Hazel Hurd Players made their second appearance in Spearman on the present six weeks circuit, Monday night of this week, presenting "Pardon Me, Governor." Pat Patterson, comedian extraordinary, played an important part and delighted the crowd. On next Monday night the splendid company will present "Putting It Over," by Larry E. Johnson. This is a great play and one that will be particularly interesting to Spearman folks. On Monday night, May 20, the Hazel Hurd Players will present "The Country Boy." This latter play is said to be the knockout of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gerber left Sunday afternoon for Pampa, to visit with relatives and friends and attend to business matters.

Floyd Young and Miss Thelma Taylor and Billie Williams and Miss Louise Helmick, all of Pampa, visited in the J. E. Gerber home Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Clogston left Monday for a two weeks visit with relatives and friends at Wichita. Mr. Clogston accompanied her to Gage, Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Phillips and children are in Abilene this week, visiting with relatives and friends. They will be away from Spearman about two weeks.

Joe Hays came from Los Angeles, California, Sunday and will visit several weeks in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hays of Gruver, and with friends and relatives in Spearman.

Billy Dixon Remains Will Be Moved

The remains of the late Billy Dixon, noted southwestern plainsman, scout and rancher and hero of the famous battle of "Adobe Walls" fought in what is now Hutchinson county, Texas, on June 27, 1874, will be brought back to Hutchinson county and will rest near the battle field.

Boy Scouts of the Adobe Walls council comprising troops in Borger, Pampa and Panhandle, will be in charge of the removal of the remains. Action on this was taken at a council meeting held in Borger when the council named a committee headed by J. D. Miller, to supervise the work. Miller told the council that Judge H. E. Hoover of Canadian, W. S. "Bill" Christian of Stinnett, Bill Bates and other old timers had asked him to arrange the details and also to ask the council to take care of the arrangements.

"We have completed the details of this removal," Miller said. "I have arranged for a hearse to go to Texline, where Billy Dixon is now buried and to have the body brought to Adobe Walls. An undertaker has arranged to supply the casket. It is our plan to have some of the scouts of the Adobe Walls council go to Texline the day before and escort the remains to this county. This will be done the day before the anniversary of the battle, June 27.

"An oil company has agreed to erect a flagpole on the site of the battleground. We will have a speaker's platform, a band stand and will arrange to have plenty of seats for the expected crowd.

"There will be but little expense, if any, to the scouts as the old-timers tell me they want to stand the expense of the moving of the body."

Miller was named chairman of the committee. Others chosen were: Judge H. E. Hoover, Canadian; Joe Coffey, Panhandle; T. D. Hobart, Pampa; Douglas Carver, White Deer; J. F. Weatherly, Panhandle, and J. C. Alexander, Phillips.

Battle in 1874

The battle of Adobe Walls was fought between a party of Buffalo hunters from Dodge City, Kansas, and a large party of Indians, Cheyennes, Comanches and Kiowas, June 27 to 30, 1874. The scene of the battle was a short distance north of the South Canadian river in what is now eastern Hutchinson county and about 75 miles from Fort Elliot, which was established as a result of the battle. Dixon, Andy Johnson, of Dodge City, W. B. "Bat" Masterson, Fred Leonard, who died recently at Salt Lake, and Frank Smith of Buffalo, N. Y., were in the party of 15 or 18 men who had gone to the location for Bob Rath of Rath and Linnbridge, Dodge City men who had a contract to supply buffalo hides.

The party arrived at the scene, where a couple of store buildings had been completed and several others started. The place was to serve as headquarters for the field work.

Early in the morning of June 27, 1874, a ridge pole accident served to arouse some of the men before the regular time to get up. This enabled them to see the approach of the Indians. Two men, sleeping under a wagon nearby, attempted to escape but one of them was scalped before he could get safely away from the wagon.

For three days the Indians, said to number from 500 to 2,000, besieged the two buildings in which the 15 white men and one woman, wife of one of the men were kept. Three white men were killed. The number of Indians slain was never learned, but it was less than 100, it was estimated.

Dixon, whose famous shot resulted in the killing of one of the Indian chiefs, made the shot on the last day of the siege. The Indians had more or less given up the battle and were staying out of ordinary rifle range.

A Record Shot

The fighters saw a party of Indians, headed by a chief in a war bonnet, on a hill nearly a mile away. Dixon, an expert with a rifle, was asked to try and see if he could hit the party.

Dixon selected a Sharp's 60 caliber buffalo gun and went to the top of the building. He took careful aim and fired. The chief was seen to fall from his horse and soon the party hurriedly left.

Later scouts reported the hills and canyons were bare of all Indians. David Strubling of Miami, a surveyor of Roberts county, Texas, later measured the distance and found it to be 528 yards. A month or so later the government established Fort Elliot in Wheeler county. This fort continued to guard

Litch Sparks Buys The Caldwell Farm

Litch Sparks, popular dairyman, recently purchased of Simeon Caldwell, 320 acres of fine farm land lying a mile west of Spearman on Horse creek. This is a fine little farm, conveniently located, and will make a fine addition to Mr. Sparks' dairy farm.

Improving Farms

Much improvement is taking place on the farms near Spearman. Out west of town, for instance, is noted several new farm homes under construction and land being broken out. D. O. Reynolds of old Hansford is improving a quarter section adjoining the highway, and Carl Hull will improve a 160-acre tract in the same section. Soon the entire country will be broken out, with the exception of that very small per cent along the creeks which is too rough to be put in cultivation.

Mrs. Harry New and little daughter Anita, returned Friday from a two weeks visit with her mother at Joplin, Mo., and with a sister at Baldwin, Kansas.

Miss Anita Gilchrist came from Chicago Monday and is a guest of Mrs. Charles Chambers. Miss Gilchrist graduated from the Spearman High school last May and since that time has been a student at Chicago University.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Novock, Mrs. John Novock and Mrs. Frank Nespor, all of Yukon, Oklahoma, were here the latter part of last week looking over the country and attending to business matters. The Novock brothers, John and Joe, and Harry Shebeck, also of Yukon, have recently purchased land east of Spearman and are planning on moving their families here as soon as harvest is over.

Crawford Bros., Announce Big Farm Sale For Tuesday, May 14

Crawford Brothers, who have quite successfully operated a dairy and hog business in connection with wheat farming, on their lands eight miles southeast of Spearman for the past three years, announce a big farm sale for Tuesday, May 14. Their sale ad appears on another page in this issue. Crawford Brothers have some of the best milk stock and hogs in the Spearman country, and their farm machinery is practically new, and all in good shape. Their sale will attract much attention. Steffens & Littleton are the auctioneers and the sale will be clerked by the Fidelity Bank of Commerce of Spearman. The announcement of this big sale by Crawford Brothers came as quite a surprise to their many friends, all of whom know that the Crawford farms are stocked with mighty good dairy cattle and hogs and that their operations during the past few years have been most successful. However, they recently sold their farm lands to Harry Shedek of Yukon, Oklahoma, and now will have to seek new quarters. To those who are interested in good dairy stock, good hogs and good farm machinery, this sale will be a most interesting event.

Big Firm of Town Builders Will Sell Lots at Auction

The St. Louis Townsite Company is among the many really big concerns that of late are turning their attention to the north plains country. This company is soon to establish headquarters in Spearman. Representatives of this company, here recently contracted for the purchase of 80 lots located in the Reeves addition to Spearman, of C. B. Reeves, and within the next few weeks, so we understand, will sell these lots at auction sale. Mr. Reeves informs us that this company gets all the lots in the first two tiers of blocks in the Reeves addition, and that the remainder of the addition is not on the market at the present time. Mr. Reeves evidently believes in the future of Spearman, else he would not take this property off the market at this time. The Reeves addition to Spearman is a most desirable residential district. Some of the best homes in the city are located out there; several just completed and others now under construction. The St. Louis Townsite Company are highly recommended as town builders and developers. The company is interested in Dalhart and Clayton and is making things hum in these towns. Spearman is located in the most rapidly developing section of the great southwest, and there is no reason why this company should not be a big asset to the town in the development line.

THE DIFFERENCE

It is a thousand times more important to be interested than to be interesting.—Farm & Fireside.

The Spearman country is settling up faster at the present time than ever before in its history. Especially is this true of the fine, level country lying east and south of Spearman. This entire country is rapidly being put in cultivation. Big tractors are pulling sod plows in every direction and an immense wheat crop is coming on. New people are coming into the country from most everywhere, but principally from Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. They are attracted here by the low price of farm lands, the crop yields of the past few years, and the opportunity to own a farm all their own. The landlord proposition is irksome to the red-blooded young man who wants to get along in the world. It is quite noticeable that a great majority of the purchasers of farm land in this section are young men. Many of them were "over there" and during that unpleasantness they learned that they are really men, and can get along without the stereotyped instructions of a hard-boiled land owner. They know there is a home for everyone and they are coming out here to establish themselves as home-owners. Hansford county welcomes them with outstretched arms.

A Real Good Show Tomorrow Night

"Ducks," a three-act comedy-drama will be presented by the senior class of Spearman schools at the auditorium tomorrow, Friday night. "Ducks," is a real story of the old-time ranch life, which is interrupted by the development of the oil industry. The cast of characters includes some of the best talent in Spearman schools, and show-goers are assured a treat tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Finley and sons Evane and Billie were visitors to Borger Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Westerfield and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Duncan spent Sunday in Borger.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lowe and baby daughter spent the past week end in Guymon visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sid O'Keefe and daughter Miss Beatrice of Panhandle, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Nichols.

Miss Wilma Woodward and Joe Robaugh of Meade, Kansas, were visiting with friends and relatives in Spearman and Gruver, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jordan and son Leonard were up from the Turkey Track ranch Saturday attending to business matters and visiting with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Gossett of Raton, New Mexico, are visiting with Mrs. J. P. Gossett and son Hollis, of the Turkey Track ranch on the Canadian.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dumas motored to Amarillo Sunday to have their little son Billie Bob examined by a baby specialist. The baby is in no serious condition but has not been as well as he should be.

It Pays to Feed Grain To Heavy Producers

Pastures and other conditions are ideal for dairy cows during May and June, but even then it pays to feed some grain and protein supplement to the heavy-producing cows, according to C. E. Rode, dairy extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. It will keep them from losing flesh as fast as they otherwise would and will leave a lasting effect throughout the next lactation period. The grain ration that is fed may consist of two parts ground corn or barley and one part ground oats.

Cows that are producing more than a pound of butter a day should get a pound of this grain mixture for every four pounds of milk produced daily. Cows that are producing less than a pound of butter a day will get along nicely on abundant pasture alone. The grass is palatable and succulent and supplies protein, minerals and vitamins.

As the season advances the composition of the common pasture grasses changes and the grain mixture should be changed accordingly. One popular ration for a milking herd when grass is plentiful consists of 200 pounds each of ground oats and cornmeal, and 100 pounds each of wheat bran and linseed meal. Sometimes the cornmeal is cut in half and 100 pounds of barley hominy added.

One pound if fed daily for each four or five pounds of milk. A good ration for dry cows on pasture is three to eight pounds daily of this: Ground oats, wheat bran, and linseed meal, 100 pounds each; hominy, cornmeal or barley, 100 pounds.

AMERICANS STILL AIR-SHY ON LINDBERGH ANNIVERSARY

On the second anniversary, in May of Lindbergh's epochal flight across the Atlantic, Frederick L. Collins, writing in Woman's Home Companion, points out that in these two years Americans have remained air-shy while Europeans have developed air travel into huge industries.

"It would not be fair to imply that America lags behind all these scattered nations in the battle for supremacy of the air," continues Collins, "but we have been content to sit as spectators in the aviation theatre and applaud the performances of active players."

"Our aviators hold 20 of the 62 world records. Our factories produce the finest and fastest planes. Our cities vie with each other in the size and equipment of air ports. Our conversation is filled with tales of prowess, but as average Americans, we do not fly."

"The airport at Le Bourget, near Paris, where Lindbergh landed, has rightly become known as the Grand Central station of the air. Thirty thousand passengers use it annually. Ten thousand fly each way between London and Paris annually. More half of these are Americans, but they do not fly at home."

"In Germany there are so many airlines that they create a congestion problem similar to the radio wave length in America. One company has 120 planes in continuous service. Modern Italy, which did not have an airline in 1925, now claims third place among flying nations.

"England has developed airlines to connect its scattered possessions, and the biggest civil air route in the world is now being established by which it is possible to send letters from London to Delhi in seven days. One British company carries more than 60,000 passengers a year."

BOOST OUR BASEBALL TEAM

A local citizen asks, rhetorically, what a baseball team really means to a town. We are inclined to answer by asking: "What is a town without a baseball team?"

The season for America's favorite sport approaches—is here in fact, but there seems to be some indifference in this community to the prospect of having a good team represent the city. We feel that it is time for the community to shake off this lethargy. A ball team is of value to any community for the following reasons:

It provides good, wholesome amusement for a large portion of the town's citizenry.

It brings to the community much advertising. There are those who will measure the character of a community quite largely by the support it gives to a base ball team.

It sets up an athletic standard before the youth of the community. We hear much about the modern boy and girl that is not highly complimentary. If what the alarmist says is true, it is time that we devote much effort to diverting their attentions and interests to wholesome sports.

There are many other good reasons for advocating a baseball club in Spearman, but we feel that these advanced are sufficient to kindle a little more base ball enthusiasm in the community.

THE UBIQUITOUS FLY

Swatting the fly is a meritorious practice, but swatting the fly's breeding place is far better. The best way to swat the fly is to eliminate, in and about the household, the places where it breeds, and the best time for this work of elimination is at present. A little spring cleaning is worth more than a lot of summer swatting.

Exposed garbage and filth in general represent the most prolific fly-breeding spots. Millions of these germ-carrying, filthy, annoying insects can be produced from a small accumulation of rotting refuse. Owing to individual carelessness in this direction, countless flies are each year bred to spread their damage. There is no possibility of going far in the elimination of potential breeding conditions, for the fly's death dealing power is not exaggerated. It is probable that 40,000 deaths annually in the United States can be traced directly to infections brought by flies. Than the fly there is a deadlier obstacle to the reduction of the infant death rate.

The annual war on the fly must start early if this pest is not to spread in the spring, summer and fall to everybody. Housewives who do not relish fly-specked ceilings and flies in their iced tea will superintend an early clean-up and early erection of summer screens.

WAILS OF THE FAT

I want to reduce if I can, if I can indeed I'm gonna reduce! I'll leave off my food But it won't do no good Oh what! Oh what is the use?

My hips are too fat. I must remedy that My chin has grown into two. I exercise and dance, still I hope for a chance To find something that is new.

I've lived on a diet, 'till I could fight For meats and candies so rare. Old watery soup is not worth a whoop When there's cream and cake to compare.

I've thrived on potatoes and beans So long that I love them both dearly But I've cut them both out, I'm getting too stout The pounds are piling on yearly.

I kick and I walk, I roll and I twist! I play at golf like the boys. I've taken salts till it makes me waltz Still I keep my avoidrupois.

I read magazines that say leave off beans I won't even buy them no more. I do the barrel-roll, honest to my soul And I jump and bend till I'm sore.

I only reduce and make lines in my face Big roll of fat are still 'round my waist; I've worn rubber girdles only to sweat Those rolls of fat are still present yet And the pores on my neck look worse'n heck

I'm on my row's end, so I'm gonna begin To exercise and diet. For a starchy potato, I'll substitute a tomato Now I'll bet you I win this fight. —Margaret Locke Kirk.

AUTOS CHOSEN FOR LOOKS NOT PERFORMANCE IN 1929

That the good old days when automobiles were selected for what they could do on the hills and how long they would last have passed without being noticed, has been discovered by H. I. Phillips, humorist, who has just made his annual trade-in of what he thought was a pretty good car until the neighbors began to look condescendingly at it from the inside of their shiny new sedans.

"A few years ago choosing a new machine was a serious and important undertaking," Phillips writes in The American Magazine. Not so many years back a man had to be wary. It was considered proper precaution after becoming interested in a car, to look up owners of the same make and find out whether it would always run, how dependable it was in cold weather and whether it would go up hill unassisted.

"Performance was the big item. Body lines, trimmings and color were relatively unimportant. What a buyer wanted to know first of all was: 'When I go out in it, what are the chances of getting back?'

"Is it any good on the hills" was another leading query and it was the custom of all automobile manufacturers to compete in hill-climbing contests and fill the newspapers and magazines with advertisements of what their rattlers could do when driven to it.

"Today performance is taken for granted. The assumption, generally speaking is that all automobiles will do what is expected of them and that at no time will a man have to get out and walk back a few miles for a farmer an two oxen. In these modern days a buyer doesn't ask how good the car is, but, 'What other color scheme have you?' and 'Haven't you something more dazzling?'

JOBS FOR THE LOCAL BOYS AND LOCAL GIRLS

"Keep the Boy on the Farm." All of our readers have heard this slogan hundreds of times. A few years ago an intensive and extensive campaign along this line was waged throughout the agricultural areas of the entire nation. Economic forces have made it difficult to maintain this campaign, but the time has arrived for something similar to apply to communities such as Spearman. It may be worded thus: "Let's furnish employment for Spearman boys and girls in Spearman."

How to do this is the net question. Nor is it an easy one to answer. To furnish employment to the boys and girls of Spearman here in Spearman it is necessary for the citizens of the community to work together to promote the industrial and business assets of the community. We need new factories, we need more prosperous local business, we need to keep Spearman dollar circulating here in Spearman.

The ultimate goal of all our community promotion efforts should be to provide jobs for local boys and girls. The community needs the spirit and enterprise of its young people. It is unfortunate if we must lose our best young blood because there are no more local opportunities open to the youth of the community.

TOWN TALK

Come on folks, lets take a walk down the street and see what the natives of the village are doing and get a line up on the latest scandals. Well, we don't have to go far to hear something unusual as well as amusing, for S. B. Hale was down town one morning last week before eight o'clock and was sweeping off the sidewalk in front of the Hale Drug store, and at the same time C. W. Smith of the Variety store was doing a modern version of the old fashioned job right out on the street. Surely there's some mistake about this, but that's what they told us. Let's stop in the drug store a few minutes, say, look, there's Lucille Beck and Charlotte Chester drinking malted milks again. How they can eat and drink so much and keep off the avoirdupois is more than we can figure out. They should make their method public for the benefit of their more unfortunate sisters. I met Henry Waldorp in the postoffice getting the mail for the McNabb Land Company. He said while Miss Opal Cline and H. B. Towe were arguing about who was going after the mail he slipped out and came himself. That reminds us that Mr. Towe has never bought us that Coco Cola he promised when we brought his car license from Hansford for him. But people will forget. Say, but isn't Miss Burran and Mr. Buchanan making the city hall ground look nifty. The Panhandle Lumber force and R. W. Morton garage must be trying to keep up with them, for one day this week we saw with our own eyes, D. W. Holland carefully watering a tiny lawn with nothing on it but a few rocks. But he says just a little time and it will be covered with the best grass in the Panhandle (Lumber yard, we presume).—And everybody is talking about the Hazel Hard Show Monday night. It was a wow—but you always expect to be well entertained when the H. H. bunch hits town.—And by the way, when you like anything why not let it be known; it's not going to hurt very many people's hands to clap them a little and that's a perfect way of showing your appreciation. Clap your hands. It's just a good sign of laziness or dumbness if you don't.—The First National Bank gang must be expecting something to happen for they sure have given the place a cleaning up. When we asked about it Mr. Gilmer merely remarked, "Spring cleaning applies in more ways than one." Guess he's about right at that, and maybe we should offer a prize for the best job of spring cleaning along the main drag. On second thought we might offer the beautiful pot plant that is struggling so hard for an existence in the Reporter shop, it is on display in the window.—W. D. Cooke casually informed us that he had been attending some outstanding social functions and that we had failed to give him the proper publicity. We have decided to investigate the matter but we will be willing to bet our last stick of chewing gum that his main social events are in the form of amusing his young grandson, Donald.—Dr. Gower incidentally remarked since his return from Louisiana, that he had noticed it was much nicer living in the county seat of Hansford than just merely living in Spearman.—And how!—Now, to tell the absolute truth, without precastigation, the main subject of conversation, since the county seat election and the Wichita Boosters visit, is fishing—and nothing but fishing. Folks just stand around on the corners and see who can tell the biggest fish yarn.—But that bunch of young people I ran into over at the postoffice were not talking about fishing, no sir, they were talking loudly and lustily about the big dance the American Legion is giving at their hall every Saturday night. Fishing is too slow for the modern American youth. They want speed and plenty of it, and fish won't hurry.

"Wild Orchids" Is Fascinating

The eternal triangle, as it has been so often called, is with us again at the Lyric Theatre. Wednesday and Thursday, May 15 and 16, revolving about Greta Garbo in one of the most powerful roles of the year: "Wild Orchids," the picture, bearing the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer imprint, in which Miss Garbo appears to such advantage, can truly be described as one of the most fascinating films of the season.

Miss Garbo plays with feeling and distinction as the neglected wife of an American business man who unwittingly drives her to the arms of another and unlabeled man. Lewis Stone, always a competent player, handles the husband's part with great skill, and Nils Asther, who seems one of the most promising young leading men, does splendid work in the part of a Javanese prince. Sidney Franklin, the director of this picture, has succeeded not only in guiding interpretations with ingenuity, but has also created a mood and background of romance for this tale of passion. The scenes of Javanese life are admirably handled. At the climax, which occurs during a tiger hunt in the jungles, he has brought his suspense to such a point that the audience grips the arms of their chairs in excitement.

Above all else, however, it is Greta Garbo's fascinating beauty and extraordinary playing which make this film one of those cinematic offerings which one can not afford to miss.

"LET SUN DO ITS WORST." SUMMER FASHION SLOGAN

Old sol isn't being given a bit of consideration in the planning of Summer fashions. "Let him do his worst," is the slogan that prevails in all the style centers and the designers go right ahead, producing sleeveless gowns and brimless hats. Accessories to Summer costumes also pay little heed to the sun, says Woman's Home Companion.

"With the sleeveless white sports dress, the smartest women will disdain the shelter of a wide brimmed sun hat and return to plain or printed silk kerchiefs twisted about the head for playing in the sun. Shoes are to be in keeping with this back-to-nature effect and will be very simple and gay. Sometimes they are merely flat-heeled sandals of brightly colored kid. Woven leather in two color effects or in sunburn tones is also smart," the article continues. "This is a season of color in usual combinations, in vivid bands and trimmings in two or more contrasting colors are very frequent and natural colored makes a pleasing background for these effects. Felt, however, is smart as it has always been in brimmed styles, occasionally combined with straw.

"Bags are casual in the extreme rough silk or colored linen and gingham are seen sometimes made by oddly shaped little parasols to avoid kaleidoscopic effect it is usually to match bags with shoes, which usually means brown and white or black and white.

Thimbleful of Protein Per Day Is Proper Diet For Baby Chick

"Had your thimbleful of protein today," will become the popular slogan in the poultry yard between baby chicks following the recent announcement by the poultry department of Purina Mills that a thimbleful of feed, high in protein, should constitute the chick's daily menu.

This new contribution to poultry nutrition knowledge came about unexpectedly and more or less accidentally, specialists in the department declare. "For generations," they say, corn and oats have been accepted standard rations for baby chicks. Corn and oats of course are high in carbohydrates and low in protein. These specialists began wondering about this corn and oat ration. They knew that the chicken before it was domesticated, fed while young on worms and bugs—protein. "What's wrong with nature's way of handling baby chicks? Possibly nature had some reason for this method that man has overlooked," they asked themselves.

A little study on the part of these scientific research men brought out the well known fact that calves receive colostrum, the cow's first milk, which is high in protein. The baby chick's first food, injected yolk, is 35 per cent protein. The baby chick doubles its initial weight in about twelve days consuming only about two and one half times its initial weight of feed. Since the baby chick consumes so little feed during those first twelve days—a thimbleful each day—is only reasonable to assume that much of this must be protein because the chick is at this time making heavy growth. All that it consumes is going to make bone, muscle, blood and feathers.

Delving still farther into this realm of nutrition—highly interesting study that it proved to be—they found that protein in the ration is a growth factor. Leave out protein and growth at once is halted. Add protein and growth is accelerated. A study of different animals revealed the fact that the rate of growth in animals is more rapid where the mother's milk is high in protein. These specialists found that the rabbit's milk contains 15.5 per cent protein. It requires only six days for the young rabbit to double its weight. The sow's milk is 9 per cent protein. It requires the young pig fourteen days to double its initial weight. The same facts were brought out in the study of the dog, sheep, goat, horse and man. The same was found to apply to the baby chick—a need of a high percent of protein in the ration from the very first.

These findings on the part of these research men of course exploded the theory that baby chicks should not be fed a protein ration due to the possibility of what some term "protein poisoning." These laboratory studies showed that the baby chick is more apt to suffer from protein starvation than from protein poisoning.

These research studies definitely establish two facts. First that a baby chick can consume only a very limited amount of feed daily—one-fourth of an ounce or about one thimbleful. Second, that the baby chick's feed should be high in animal protein on the very order of feed that nature furnished all young birds in the days before civilized man entered an era of domesticating birds for his use. In milk products, meat scraps, wheat germ, alfalfa leaf meal and other ingredients these scientists discovered by experiment the feed exactly needed for the baby chicks.

Highly interesting is the fact that with this recent discovery of a better way to feed baby chicks that state experiment stations are verifying these truths. At Nebraska seven rations were fed baby chicks. The one containing 20 per cent protein gave the best results. The California station also in its experiments verifies the fact that a baby chick should be fed a high protein ration and one that is easily digestible. Even the most critical feel that this new discovery in baby chick feeding may be as far reaching and as important as the discovery some seven years ago of the keeping qualities of vitamin D in cod-liver oil when mixed with commercial feeds.

The old idea that baby chicks should be fed a ration of corn and oats alone is now a bit of theory fit for the ash can. What is true is simply this, that the baby chick with its small capacity for food and its need for protein feed can use only one-fourth of an ounce of feed, one thimbleful, per day. It should be high in protein. The popular baby chick refrain now will be, "Had your thimbleful of Protein today?"

ASTRONOMERS FIND USE FOR DESPISED HOUSE FLY

The much-swatted house fly, generally rated as the most worthless insect in the world, has found a useful job at last. He is helping astronomers, Dr. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institute has announced to a group of astonished congressmen in Washington.

Dr. Abbot, says Woman's Home Companion, told his hearers that without the house fly, the astronomers would never have been able to measure the heat of the stars, a process which is considered an important development in science. At Mount Wilson observatory, taking the temperature of stars has only recently been done successfully. "The heat was collected with a hundred-inch telescope equipped with an instrument made from the wings of a fly," said Dr. Abbot. "So delicate are the instruments that the wings of a single house fly are sufficient to make a dozen of them."

Dr. Powell, Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Specialist. Will be in Spearman, at offices of Dr. Gower, on Wednesday, May 29, 1929. Glasses fitted and tonsils and adenoids removed.

DEPENDABILITY, SATISFACTION AND HONEST VALUE

HOW TO KILL ANY CIVIC CLUB

Don't come to the meeting. But if you do come, come late. If the weather doesn't suit you don't think of coming. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and other members. Never accept an office—it is easier to criticize than to do things. Get sore if you are not appointed on a committee; but if you are, do not attend committee meetings. If asked by the Chairman to give your opinion regarding some important matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how things ought to be done. Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary; but when other members roll up their sleeves and willingly, unselfishly use their ability to help matters along howl that the association is run by a clique. Hold back your dues as long as possible, or don't pay at all. Don't bother about getting new members. That's the secretary's job. When a banquet is given, tell everybody money is being wasted on blow-outs which make a big noise and accomplish nothing. When no banquets are given say the association is dead and needs a can tied to it. Don't ask for a banquet ticket until all are sold. Then swear you've been cheated out of yours. If you do get a ticket, don't pay for it. If asked to sit at the speaker's table, modestly refuse. If you are not asked, resign from the association. If you don't receive a bill for your dues, don't pay. If you receive a bill after you've paid, resign from the association. Don't tell the association how it can help you; but if it doesn't help you, resign. If you receive service without joining, don't think of joining. If the association doesn't correct abuses in your neighborhood business, howl that nothing is done. If it calls attention to abuses in your own, resign from the association. Keep your eyes open for something wrong and when you find it, resign. At every opportunity threaten to resign and then get your friends to resign. When you attend a meeting, vote to do something and then go home and do the opposite. Agree to everything said at the meeting and disagree with it outside. When asked for information, don't give it. Get all the association gives you but don't give it anything. Talk co-operation for the other fellow with you; but never co-operate with him. When everything else fails, curse the secretary.

REAL ESTATE MEN SELL LAND FROM PLANES' SAYS SIKORSKY

Selling real estate from airplanes is one of the latest uses to which sky craft have been put, according to Igor Sikorsky, famous Russian master of the air, who since the revolution has settled down in America.

Demonstrating his theory that the amphibian plane, which can land either on water or land, is the most useful for commercial purposes, Sikorsky pointed out in the American Magazine that his proposed production for 1929 has been practically absorbed. Of the 100 amphibians planned for this year, the navy will receive 30. Realty men in the West where distances are great and development can be seen in their entirety only from the air, are the next heaviest buyers. A number of wealthy men have ordered the planes for use as private yachts. A Wall street broker has bought one for commuting purposes. The head of a national business has secured one to carry him to his scattered agents. Others will be used for transcontinental transport purposes.

MODEL A FORD IN STRANGE LAND

A new kind of machine was seen recently in Atoyac, Mexico. Natives of the Pacific Coast town viewed this modern invention with a great deal of curiosity. It was an automobile.

General Rafael Sanchez, commander of the State of Guerrero, drove a Model A Ford phaeton across country from Acapulco to Atoyac, over land so rough that none had made such a journey before. He sent this wire to Z. Martinez, Ford dealer of Iguala:

"For your pleasure please be informed that the Ford car I purchased from you is the first automobile that has ever reached this town, over a difficult country where there are no roads at all and the land is strewn with rocks and soft sand. Motor in perfect condition after terrible test. Small native towns along path regarded first automobile with positive wonder."

FOR SALE

Five acre tract of land located one mile east of Perryton city limits. On the land is a good five room stucco house with bath and water piped from well, good well and storage tank, water is also piped into the garage, and the piping system is arranged to irrigate large garden. Combined Implement Shed and Workshop

HERE is combined in one structure two much needed farm buildings, an implement shed and workshop. The entire building is 24 feet wide and 56 feet long, the workshop occupying a space 12 by 24 feet on one end. An unusual feature of this shed is that it can be built to any desired length that is a multiple of eight feet.

The workshop has a plank floor; other floor space is of earth. The roof is supported by trusses and there are no posts to interfere with implements.

We can obtain blue prints that make building easy and are prepared to furnish prompt estimates on the Long-Bell trade-marked lumber required. Let us quote you.

Lesson BY DR. J. E. NUNN

May 12, 1929

Topic:—The Early Ministry of Jeremiah.

Lesson:—Per. 1:6-10; 20:6.

Then said I, Ah, Lord, behold, I know not how to be a child; for whomsoever I shall command they shall not be afraid of me; for I have said unto them, Behold I have said unto me, Behold I have said in thy mouth:

I have this day set thee nations and over the kingdom up and to break down stroy and to overthrow, to plant.

And it came to pass, when I had made an end of all that Jehovah had commanded me to speak unto all the people, that the king of Judah said unto me, Thou shalt surely die, because thou hast prophesied in the name of Jehovah, saying, This land shall be desolate, without inhabitant, and all the people which are gathered in the house of the king shall be taken, and they shall be taken in the new gate of Jerusalem.

And when the king said unto me, Jehovah hath said, Thou shalt surely die, because thou hast prophesied in the name of Jehovah, saying, This land shall be desolate, without inhabitant, and all the people which are gathered in the house of the king shall be taken, and they shall be taken in the new gate of Jerusalem.

And when the king said unto me, Jehovah hath said, Thou shalt surely die, because thou hast prophesied in the name of Jehovah, saying, This land shall be desolate, without inhabitant, and all the people which are gathered in the house of should attempt to proclaim divine truth he would be brought into conflict with many worldly minded priests and prophets of the day. Jeremiah was certain to embroil himself in many perils if he should set himself in opposition to the current of the times. He was timid and shrinking. He was not practised in public speaking. For him to be a prophet seemed an impossible task. He joined the long line of divinely appointed leaders—Moses, Joshua, Saul, Isaiah, Jonah, Paul, Mark, many more—who have "kicked against the pricks," heavy and dangerous work marked out for them. For all such, God has the same answer that he gave to Jeremiah.

"I Am With Thee." v. 8
"Be not afraid of them; for I am with thee to deliver thee, saith Jehovah." Twice at least, later, the same precious assurance came to the prophet, Jer. 1:19; 15:20. He was assailed by many powerful foes, and was often in extreme peril because of his unpopular teachings and his bitter condemnations of wickedness; these promises must have been a wonderful comfort to him through all his ministry. Our Saviour has given the same glorious assurance to all his faithful disciples: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world"—Matt. 28:20.

The Book of Jeremiah, Chap. 1:1-10
The opening verses of the Book state the contents of the Book, the author, and the scope of his prophecies, i.e., from the thirteenth year of the reign of Josiah, through the reign of Josiah's son Jehoiakim, and to the end of the eleventh year of the reign of Josiah's son Zedekiah, up to the captivity of the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the fifth month of that year. Jeremiah next gives us the words of Jehovah to himself, declaring that before his birth he was chosen by the Almighty to be "a prophet unto the nations." That he had been divinely chosen before his birth for a special work must have been of some comfort to the potential priest, facing a great but cheerless task. His commission is a remarkable one. He is set over the nations "to root out, and to pull down, and destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant." Jer. 1:10. He uses four verbs denoting the policy of breaking down and only two of building. No other prophet has been confronted with such a program. Thus we see the young son of the priest of Anathoth called out from his obscurity and thrust forth into the midst of the sin and strife and opposition of kings, princes, judges and people of the nation.

Jeremiah's Solemn Warning. 6:10
Jeremiah is uttering a warning to his own city, Jerusalem. He is prophesying the coming of a terrible foe, a messenger of God's wrath upon the wicked city. But he has uttered the warning before, and no one has heeded. To whom, he asks, shall he now address it? All ears are turned toward evil suggestions, the people cannot hear the advice of God's prophet. "Jeremiah here and in the following verses pours out such a torrent of wrath as only a sensitive soul patient to the last limit of endurance, can do. He feels himself possessed to an unendurable degree of the divine anger." He bids himself pour it out to the people, for he can no longer contain it. He will send it forth as a blazing, blasting stream. It shall overwhelm old and young alike, husbands and wives and children together. Jeremiah feels that he has done his best; nay, that God has done his uttermost, and that it has all been perfectly useless.

Jeremiah The Weeping Prophet
The first verse of this chapter is one of those that gave Jeremiah the title of "the weeping prophet." "Oh that my head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people!" Then follows Jeremiah's prayer for some refuge from the plotters and the wicked men around him; some refuge, no matter how lonely and barren, if only desolate, landlordless Khan in the wilderness, a mere enclosure, with no food and but the poorest shelter. At any rate, he would be free from the lies and treachery that surrounded him in Jerusalem.

Jeremiah's Public Preaching. 26:1-6
Jehovah sends the prophet on a great feast day, when people from all the surrounding country would be crowding about the Temple, to deliver a message to the assembled multitude. Not one word was to be kept back. The king might issue an order to have him executed, but he must deliver the message. He declared to them that their obduracy would compel Jehovah to make their beautiful sacred shrine as complete a desolation as the site of Shiloh, which for five hundred years had been in ruins.

The Effect of the Message. 26:8-9
We can imagine something of the fury and consternation which was manifested by the hearers. It seemed like the height of impertinence to say such 'blasphemous' things about the temple. He found himself in the midst of a veritable whirlpool of excitement. It is a thrilling experience which the prophet undergoes. The princes rush down to the temple to find the infuriated mob ready to commit murder. They hastily constitute a court of appeals and the prophet is given a trial.

Jeremiah's Defense. 26:12-16
Jeremiah said, "Jehovah sent me to prophesy against this house and against this city all the words that ye have heard." This is the only answer that any faithful speaker for God can make when his utterances are criticised. Thus spoke Amos in the old Testament: "The Lord Jehovah hath spoken: who can but prophesy?" Amos. 3:8, and thus spoke Peter and the other apostles in the New Testament: "We must obey God rather than men" (Acts. 5:29).

"Now therefore amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of Jehovah your God." Here is no faint-hearted preaching; Jeremiah is threatened with death, but he valiantly repeats the exhortation that brought him into court. "But as for me, behold, I am in your hand; do with me as is good and right in your eyes." "Jeremiah recognizes the legal right of the tribunal to execute him, and confronts the prospect without theatrical defiance on the one hand or abject cowardice on the other, but with a serene expression of his willingness to accept the verdict his judges pronounce.

"Only know ye for certain." It was Jeremiah's duty, as a preacher of righteousness, to warn his hearers of the terrible guilt they would incur in slaying him; this much of a plea he would make, more on their behalf than on his own. That, if ye put me to death, ye will bring innocent blood upon yourselves, and upon this city, and upon the inhabitants thereof." Thus Gamaliel warned the Sanhedrin that in condemning the apostles they might be fighting against God (Acts 5:39). Thus Pilate's wife warned him, because of her dream, to have nothing to do with the condemnation of Jesus, for he was a righteous man (Matt. 27:19). The verdict was: "This man is not worthy of death; for he hath spoken to us in the name of Jehovah our God." "So Jeremiah was snatched from his enemies—delivered from that most terrifying of all dangers—the fury of a fanatical mob."

A HOME COMING

You never know how much unhappiness rubs elbows with you on the street. Most of us move behind a veil that keeps us from seeing what is going on right beside us. Once in a while, though the veil breaks for an instant—and then we get a look at the cruel, tragic things that happen.

Motorists driving out of Cleveland,
O., the other day on the road to Pittsburgh passed a rickety old ice wagon drawn by a mangy old horse.
In the wagon were a bale of hay, two bushel baskets full of oats and a crate of live chickens. On the seat sat an old, shabby man, holding a little white puppy in his arms.

His progress was painfully slow, and if any of the motorists gave him a second thought at all it was only to berate him for clogging the road. Yet every driver who passed him would have stopped to offer help if they had known the facts.

The old chap—he was past 65—was on his way to his daughter's farm, in western Pennsylvania. It was his last journey; once he reached the farm he would settle down to spend the rest of his life resting. He was very tired.

He had planned to join her for a long time. But he hadn't been much of a success, and he hated to go back, empty-handed, to be a burden to her.

So he had spent the past winter in Cleveland, trudging the streets to do odd jobs, saving every penny so that he could take something with him and make the home coming look better.

The wagon, the horse and the few possessions in the wagon box were his gifts. Neither wagon or horse amounted to much, but they could be used; besides, he could ride to Pennsylvania in them and save carfare.
The hay and oats would help too, and the chickens surely would be gladly received. Then, just to show that everything didn't have to be utilitarian, there was the puppy—a white, wringly little terrier that any farm family would be glad to have.

So the old gentleman drove towards his home, in a drizzling rain.
A few miles out of Cleveland he met disaster. There was a steep hill, very slippery. The tired old horse couldn't make the grade—and presently horse, wagon and all slid downhill, skidded off the road and went into a ditch. The wagon was wrecked and the horse was killed.

An hour or so later a suburban police officer found the wreck. The old man was sitting on the broken wagon, still holding the puppy in his lap, crying.

It takes a little bit of the sting out of it to learn that the policeman wasn't one of the hard-boiled kind.
He led the old chap to a nearby town, and dug down in his pockets for money enough to pay his fare to the Pennsylvania farm. The town's business men took an interest. They bought the wrecked wagon, the chickens and the feed for rather more than they were worth—and so, finally, the old chap continued his journey, still holding the puppy, and with money in his pocket.

We brush against situations like that every day, without recognizing them. Once we find out, of course, we're ready enough to help. But couldn't we be a little more eager to find out.—Exchange.

Chevrolet Sets Up

New Production Record

Detroit, May 9.—Exceeding by approximately 10,000 units its best previous monthly manufacturing record, the Chevrolet Motor Company in April established a new all-time monthly production record with an output of 157,137 cars and trucks.
April was the second consecutive month during which Chevrolet set up a new all-time monthly production mark. March being high 147,273 units.

The sensational April achievement brings Chevrolet production in the first four months up to the record total of 511,837 units as compared with 477,967 for the corresponding period of 1926, of a gain of more than 33,- 000 units over the best previous corresponding period in the company's history.

The most significant feature of Chevrolet's manufacturing performance during the first four months is the fact that during that limited period Chevrolet built more six cylinder cars than any other manufacturer has ever built in an entire year.

Co-incident with the announcement of this latest Chevrolet production achievement was the indication that in response to the greatest demand Chevrolet has ever known, May will see another all-time monthly record established. Tentative schedules arranged for the current month call for a May production of 160,000 cars and trucks.

Sixteen giant factories located at strategic points from coast to coast are now working with all the speed consistent with Chevrolet's precision manufacturing methods to accomodate the greatest Spring business in the history of the company.

CIGARETTE HEROES

It is our opinion that the American public is becoming sick of the fake advertising that is foisted upon this country in the shape of purchased testimonials favoring cigarettes and patent lotions. The brilliant rescue by able seamen of men at sea was turned into a mockery recently by the instant appearance of advertising telling what an important part a cigarette played in the heroic rescue. Recently one of America's most beloved automobile racers scornfully rejected a cash offer to write a testimonial saying that he noticed most of his friends smoked a certain brand of cigarette. The man himself did not smoke.

Mystic Power of the Moon Reflected in June's Gems

By PAULINE

"You may have riches, I'm content with less. Fame is not vital To me, I confess. You may have them both— I'll take Happiness!"

IF you were born in the month of May the emerald is your birthstone, and, according to ancient wisdom, the wearing of this gem should bring you your heart's desire, for it is the emblem of true love and happiness.

The emerald belongs to Venus, which is also the ruling planet of many May people, but because of its pure, deep green color, symbolical of early spring and eternal youth, its vibrations are on a spiritual plane rather than the material one usually associated with this goddess. Not only does it favor love in its most sacred, idealistic form, but at one time it was popularly supposed to turn pale at infidelity, as is shown in the old verse:

"It is a gem which hath the power to show If pledged lovers keep their truth or no; If faithful, it is like the leaves of spring, If faithless, like those leaves when withering."

Besides its sensitiveness in this respect, the emerald was also credited with the power to foretell events, being greatly cherished by all the early Magi for this purpose. In fact, it was claimed that they could do nothing with their magic if an emerald, with its acute sympathy with the occult, were in the hands of the opposing side. Hence, it became known as the "Gem of Intuition," and as late as the seventeenth century an emerald device was in fashion having much the same properties as the modern ouija board.

This consisted of an emerald ring which was held suspended over a water-filled bowl, the edges of which were marked by letters of the alphabet. As the string swayed back and forth in the hands of the operator, the emerald hit various letters, thus spelling out the answers to questions. Such a bowl, easily constructed at home, would make an interesting novelty for a May birthday party, featuring in the color scheme of the table decorations and favors, the emerald birthstone.

Prized by all ages, the emerald, which is the most distinguished member of the beryl family, has always been extremely rare, and incidentally, a flawless emerald is considered a phenomenon, since the stone is soft when it is taken from the earth and hardens only by exposure to the air. Perhaps it is just as well for this day's emerald addicts that for centuries several emerald mines known to the ancients, including the famous mines of Cleopatra, were lost, for the demand for this gem in recent years has been such as to tax these re-discovered sources of supply to the utmost. Emeralds still come from Egypt and the once-lost Indian mines of Bogota, but the Ural Mountains of Russia have lately become the chief resource of jewelers.
