

CHARTER GRANTED GRUVER BANK WILL OPEN WITHIN SIX WEEKS

Paul B. Higgs, Walter W. Wilmeth and Hayden Hart returned the first of the week from Austin, where they appeared before the state banking commission for the purpose of securing a charter for a bank at Gruver. They report that they were successful in obtaining the charter, and that the bank will be in operation within a month or six weeks. A bank building was constructed and fixtures installed several months ago. The three gentlemen mentioned above, with Homer Allen and J. H. Graver, are the stockholders of the bank, which will be known as the First State Bank of Gruver. A meeting of the stockholders was held Tuesday, at which the following officers were elected: President, Paul B. Higgs; vice president, H. B. Hart; cashier, Walter W. Wilmeth. All of the stockholders are successful farmer-stockmen of Hansford county, and all except Mr. Allen have operated in the vicinity of Gruver for years. Mr. Allen resides on a farm one mile southwest of Spearman. Higgs & Wilmeth are also partners in the mercantile business, owning and operating the Spearman Hardware and the Gruver Hardware. This is the third bank for Hansford county, the other two being the First National Bank of Spearman and the Fidelity Bank of Commerce, Spearman. The First State Bank of Gruver will be a strong financial institution, and doubtless will enjoy a splendid business from the opening day.

Hudson-Essex Agency Now In Hands of Local Men

Clinton Wilson and Jack Dean report that they have secured entire and complete control of the Hudson-Essex agency for Spearman and the Spearman country, and have taken charge of the business. Mr. Wilson is a well-known young farmer of the Grand Plains country and has other business interests in Spearman. Messrs. Wilson and Dean have just returned from Amarillo where they completed arrangements to continue the business as heretofore, but on a strictly local basis. The business was formerly operated by John N. Stump & Company of Perryton and Jack A. Dean. While it was a Spearman enterprise, nevertheless a part of the profits were taken out of the county, and Mr. Dean felt that inasmuch as he expects to make Spearman his home, depending entirely on his locality for his business, a local man as partner would be a better proposition for himself as well as the community. The Reporter feels that the selection of a business associate Mr. Dean has done mightily well. Clinton Wilson is an enterprising, clean-living, ambitious young gentleman and will do his part toward continuing the Spearman Sales and Service as a going concern. While he aims on a large scale, he will be able to take an active part in the management of the business a great part of the time. Frank W. Thompson, a cousin of Mr. Wilson's, will again assume the management of the service department and is installing complete and up-to-date shop equipment, so that every need of the owner may be taken care of in their own shop. The first car-load of new cars will reach here the latter part of this week, and a big formal opening of the new concern will be held in the near future.

Sutton's Hog, Milk Cow And General Farm Sale

W. A. Sutton is canvassing the entire country this week with advertising matter for his big hog, cow and general farm sale to be held at his farm one mile north of the Spearman Equity Exchange on Tuesday, February 12. Mr. Sutton has an excellent line of hogs. They have proven themselves to be prize winners at practically all the fairs of the panhandle-plains country for the past 20 years. His milk cows are also good and can be found, and on the sale bills will be noticed a list of first class farm machinery, implements, furniture, household goods, etc. Col. E. Heriff will cry this sale and it will be clerked by the Fidelity Bank of Commerce of Spearman. Indications were that it will be one of the very best farm sales of the season.

Quite a Scare

Felix Tackitt, chief of the culinary department at Joe's Cafe, was scared to the middle of next week one day recently, when he walked out in front of his home in his car and found the milky bus was missing. An employee of the Jitney-Jungle next door was sent on an errand, and he led the wrong car. Felix had no complaint to make when the car was turned in a few moments, just as if it were never missing.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Russell left Thursday for St. Louis and Kansas City where they will do the springing for their store here. They expect to be gone about two weeks. Their children will visit with their grandparents at Liberal and Ochiltree.

Detrich Machine Shop Building An Addition

L. C. Detrich, manager of the Detrich Machine shop in Spearman, announces that he will begin the construction of an addition to his present plant just as soon as the weather will permit. The new addition will be 50 x 70 feet in size and will be constructed of brick and concrete, with concrete floors. Mr. Detrich is also putting in a lot more equipment of the newest, most modern type. This firm intends to be in shape to handle the tractor, combine, plow and other farm machinery repair work, when the great rush opens in the early spring.

Steady, Boys, Steady

Two automobile wrecks on main street—Thursday and another Saturday, should serve as a lesson to all. Spearman is no longer a country town, and without care is used by all drivers, auto wrecks are inevitable. No one was hurt in the wrecks of last week, but no one knows what will happen next time.

Jitney-Jungle Opening Was a Great Success

The formal opening of Spearman's first "walk in, grab a basket and help yourself" store, the Jitney-Jungle, was well attended last Saturday. This store seems to be starting off in great shape, and the managers state that they are mightily well pleased with the showing made so far. The Reporter stated last week that this concern was owned and operated solely by Dick Kiker. C. N. Oldham is a one-half-owner with Mr. Kiker in the business.

Senior Class Promises Good Show Tonight

Tonight, Thursday, December 31, the senior class of the Spearman schools will present a most amusing comedy entitled "Smile, Rodney, Smile." The seniors have worked long and faithfully on this play and announce that they now are ready to present to the people of Spearman and vicinity what they believe to be one of the very best plays ever staged here. They cordially invite their friends and acquaintances to see this effort, and confidently believe all will pronounce it worth while.

C. C. HOOD-PASSES ON

Pioneer of the Southwest for Over 40 Years Dies in Long Beach, Calif.

C. C. Hood, pioneer resident of Texas County, Oklahoma and Seward County, Kansas, died Sunday, January 13, Long Beach, California. Mr. Hood had made his home in California for a number of years. He underwent an operation for cancer some time ago and seemed to improve for a time, but recently he had been in very serious condition. Children of Mr. Hood who lived in this city were Fred W. Hood, district manager of the Panhandle Lumber Co., and Mrs. Charlie Sealey. Mr. Hood was well known to all of the old timers in this section, he having lived just across the line in the Grand Valley country for many years. At the time of death, he was eighty years of age. The following article is taken from the Liberal News: Mr. Hood, who is well known among all the old timers, homesteaded six miles north and three east of Liberal in 1885, being among the very early settlers of the county. When Fargo Springs was a thriving town he assisted at the general store operated by T. A. Vaughn. Mr. Hood later filed on land near Grand Valley, Oklahoma, which he still owned at the time of his death.

"During 1895 and 1896 he served as county clerk of Seward county. He was with the OK Grocery here for a while and with the Enterprise Mercantile Company when his son-in-law, Leslie Longnecker, was manager. In this way he came to be known throughout the country and was always known as a man of high integrity and had many loyal friends.

"Mr. and Mrs. Hood moved to California several years ago and their last days were happily spent among the beauties of that state. Mr. Hood is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Ada Anderson of Shreveport, Louisiana; Mrs. Mamie Buzzard of St. Joseph, Missouri; Mrs. Cordia Brown of Long Beach, California; Mrs. Mildred Sealey of Perryton, Texas, and one son, Fred Hood of Perryton, Texas. One son died in childhood and a daughter, Mrs. Daisy Longnecker, died some time ago in California."—Ochiltree County Herald.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lackey who was brought in from their home in the Lieb community to the home of his mother, Mrs. J. F. Lackey, Sr., suffering with pneumonia, is reported better at this writing.

HELPFULNESS ONLY AIM OF SHORT COURSE

No Selfish Motives of Any Kind Involved in Plan of Holding Meetings—Large Crowds Will Attend

Before arranging for the agricultural short course, which is to be held in Spearman, at high school auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 4 and 5, in co-operation with the Agricultural Extension Department of the International Harvester Company, local committees sponsoring the meetings satisfied themselves that the lectures and motion pictures will be entirely educational in nature and not advertise the Harvester Company or any of its products.

This fact is amply substantiated by thousands of people and scores of newspapers in the many places where the meetings have been held. As indicating the value and purpose of the meetings, we quote the following from the Bamberg, S. C. Herald:

"Nothing has ever been held or shown in Bamberg which has been of more general instruction and information to the people of the country than the lectures and motion pictures presented here through the courtesy of the International Harvester Company's extension service. Hundreds of people attended the meetings during the two days, and it is safe to say that not a single person went away feeling that his or her time had not been well spent.

"Any of the several lectures given by the experts was worth a liberal admission fee to hear. In fact, there are few of us who have not paid well to hear something containing not a fraction of the information and inspiration these speakers gave to the people of Bamberg entirely without charge.

"The motion pictures shown are not to be confused with advertising films frequently exhibited, but were animated depictions of life on the farm and in the home. Special attention was given to modern methods, thrift, beautiful and attractive premises, as well as showing how these much-to-be-desired things may be obtained on any farm whose owner is ambitious to live better. Folks were made to feel like going home and taking a new start in life—real life in God's free air, where the possibilities for expansion, for elevation and for prosperity are endless and without limit.

"The work being done by the I. H. C. extension service is done to be appreciated by the people. Covering, as it does, all phases of home and farm activities, it is a genuine uplift service.

"The speakers easily class with any high-priced chautauqua lecturers ever heard here, and the messages they brought to the people surpassed anything else along this line that Bamberg has ever enjoyed.

"Throughout the course no mention was made of I. H. C. products, the only benefit accruing to the Company being that which is derived by all business concerns when communities are made more prosperous, healthier and happier."

"OLD WEST" STILL LIVES ON ARIZONA'S FRONTIERS

Days of the "Old West" have not passed forever. In the vast territory of the Painted Desert in northern Arizona, smoke still rises from the adventures of campfires and here and there in that vast and picturesque tableland, a lone Indian plodding his way to or from the Navajo reservation near Flagstaff, can be seen. Into this spot, one of the few remaining frontiers of white man civilization, a troupe of Paramount moving picture workers penetrated for the making of "Avalanche," Zane Grey's latest story of the romantic West. Otto Brower, newly appointed director, headed the troupe and Jack Holt, Baclanova, John Darrow and Doris Hill were in the company. "Avalanche," which will show at the Lyric theatre for two days, starting Friday, February 1, is a story of the old days of wagon trains and gamblers.

A REAL MUSICAL TREAT PROMISED FRIDAY NIGHT

The music lovers of Spearman and vicinity will have an opportunity to enjoy a real musical treat when the Stamps Quartette appear at the high school auditorium on Friday evening, February 1. This is a group of Texas vocalists under the employ of the Stamps Music Company of Chattanooga, Tennessee, whose usual occupation is making Victor records. They are well known to fame in musical circles, and are classed among the very best entertainers. Spearman is fortunate indeed to be included on this itinerary. Prof. A. H. Word and other members of the high school faculty who made the arrangements to have this splendid organization come to Spearman, are expecting a delightful program and sincerely hope it is well attended. They invite everyone to come out and enjoy a real musical treat. Admission, 25 cents and 50 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Trower have moved to Spearman from Morse, where Mr. Trower was manager of the Panhandle Lumber Company, and will make this their future home. Mr. Trower is in the employ of the Panhandle Lumber Company here. Earl Hicks of White Deer will have charge of the yard at Morse.

WELL ESTABLISHED BUSINESS SOLD

A. F. Barkley Sells Hansford Abstract Company to P. A. Lyon—Business Established in 1905

One of the most important business deals made in Spearman recently was the sale of the Hansford Abstract Company by its founder and sole owner, A. F. Barkley, to P. A. Lyon. The transaction was completed the first of the week, and Mr. Lyon is now in charge of the business. Mr. Barkley is making arrangements to devote his time to the hardware and implement business, having recently formed a partnership with E. C. Womble.

The Hansford Abstract Company was established by Mr. Barkley at old Hansford in 1905, almost a quarter of a century ago, and this concern has handled a large per cent of the deeds and abstracts to Hansford county lands since then. Mr. Lyon also takes over the insurance business formerly handled by Mr. Barkley, retaining the same Companies that have become so well established in this territory, and will continue to write all lines of fire, tornado, hail, automobile and allied lines.

The concern is a member of the Texas Abstractor's Association and the American Association of Title Men. It has recently handled the abstracts to lots in the towns of Gruver and Morse.

Mr. Lyon the new owner of this going concern, has been connected with the organization since 1914. He knows the business from every angle and states that it will be his constant aim and endeavor to render to the public the same efficient service which has characterized the firm under the management of Mr. Barkley for so many years.

PAPER FROM CORNSTALKS

What is said to have been the first edition of any newspaper in the world to be printed on paper made from cornstalks was issued by the Commercial-News of Danville, Ill., one day last month. And it was an edition of 118 pages at that, using 25 tons of newsprint.

The paper was produced in Danville by the Corn Products Company, which has expended $750,000 in the erection of a plant and research laboratory. The process employed is based on that originated by Dr. Bela Bolos, a Hungarian, with subsequent modifications resulting from the labors of Dr. J. E. Jackson, an American industrial chemist.

While further research and experiment will be necessary to bring production of cornstalk paper to the level of that from wood pulp in cost the technical problems have been practically solved and fear of a future paper famine through depletion of forests has been eliminated.

How this new industry will benefit farmers of the corn belt is forecast by one of the men interested in the new process, who said:

"We can visualize in the years to come innumerable comparatively small pulp mills scattered throughout the corn belt, making pulp from cornstalks grown on millions of acres now non-producing."

Commenting on the matter, Secretary Jardine declared that with the rapid progress being made in technical and commercial procedures a new day is at hand when many agricultural wastes will become sources of profit not only to the farmer, but to the country at large.

NEWSPAPER FAILS

Fort Scott, Kansas.—The Fort Scott Morning Herald, a daily newspaper here, announced in a recent issue that its plant had been taken over by the mortgage holder and it would continue publication as a weekly newspaper, under new management. The paper said failure of persons here to redeem stock and failure to keep advertising pledges caused the difficulties.—News Item.

Ten lines tell a long, long story; of days of enthusiasm, followed by misplaced confidence, months of hard work, mental anguish, unkept promises, lost faith in humanity and financial ruin. Back slapping and loud hurrahs while the parade is passing furnish a certain amount of thrills, but after the parade the crowd goes home to turn to other fancies, and the Queen of May must return to her typewriter or ribbon counter. Starting a newspaper today requires financial backing sufficient to fully equip such an establishment and to meet unforeseen reverses. And that means gobs of jack. Ringing resolutions, trunks full of promises and baskets of praise never buy bread and butter. Boosting friends are ever ready with unbounded moral support, but are strangers when it comes to giving cash. Starting a newspaper in a town where one stands well in the community, is strong and has long been established, is sad and bitter experience.—Exchange.

It is remarked that we do not know what the new year has in store for us, but anyway we are sure of getting our tax bills.

There is some difference of opinion as to when a president should be inaugurated, but it is necessary to have the date early enough so he can throw out the first baseball of the season.

BARKLEY BUYS INTEREST IN WOMBLE HARDWARE COMPANY

BURNING WHEAT STRAW IS EXPENSIVE

"The statement has often been made that Southwestern soils are deep and rich and all they need, to insure abundant crops, is more moisture. There is considerable truth to this statement, especially when it is applied to new lands," says H. M. Bainer, Director, Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association. Continuing he says, "Unfortunately this statement does not apply to lands that have been cropped for several years. Analysis of such lands indicates that they have already lost as much as one-third of their original nitrogen and one-half of their original organic matter. Therefore, any attempt to get wheat straw or stubble out of the way by burning, destroys organic matter and is not only a wasteful but also an expensive practice.

"Careful estimates indicate that an average Southwestern crop of wheat will remove from an acre of soil, approximately 20 lbs. of nitrogen, 8 lbs. of phosphoric acid and 10 lbs. of potash. If this had to be replaced in the form of commercial fertilizer it would cost something like $4.50 per acre. But when the straw and stubble is worked back into the soil, it returns approximately one dollar's worth of fertility per acre, besides a greater value in the form of organic matter.

"There are only a few exceptional cases where burning of straw or stubble is justifiable and gives temporary relief, but in the long run, such practice is certain to prove detrimental. For best results all straw should be worked back into the soil as quickly as possible, but if this cannot be done, it should be piled where it can be left for rotting and returned to the soil later in the form of manure.

"Organic matter and nitrogen go together and when one is deficient the same is usually true of the other. Organic matter adds life to a soil, it prevents puddling, cracking, baking and blowing. Organic matter improves the physical condition of the soil, making it mellow, friable and easy to cultivate, it also assists in holding soil moisture."

MOVIES RAISE GRADES

Some interesting tests with a view to determining the benefits derived from supplementing ordinary instruction by motion picture films illustrating the subjects taught were recently made in schools in San Diego and eleven other California cities.

In all more than 11,000 children were tested, each school being divided into two groups, one of which received both book and film instruction, the other being taught through text books only. The test covered a period of ten weeks, at the end of which examinations were held.

Pupils having the advantage of the motion pictures made grades averaging 33 per cent higher in general science subjects than those who used books alone. This experiment appears to have been extensive enough to warrant the conclusion that the combined book-picture method is highly advantageous in such subjects as those mentioned.

Not only is this method beneficial to the individual pupil, but by reducing the number of failures in examinations, it reduces the number of pupils who must repeat courses, thus effecting a saving in expenses for school purposes.

The introduction of educational films is becoming widespread, and there is little doubt that they will become standard equipment for schools of the future.

EXCEPTIONAL QUALIFICATIONS

Employment Manager: "What experience have you had?" College Graduate: "Me, why I've traveled all over the world." Employment Manager: "Fine, we'll make you shipping clerk."

The still small voice of conscience also often appears to suffer interference from static or something.

WOMBLE HARDWARE COMPANY

A transaction of more than ordinary importance was reported early Monday morning. Messrs. A. F. Barkley and A. F. Barkley report the formation of a partnership, and the sale of a one-half interest in the Womble Hardware Company, stores at Spearman and Morse, by Mr. Womble to Mr. Barkley. The transfer was made as of January 1, and Mr. Barkley will henceforth devote his time and attention to the hardware and implement business. E. C. Womble who established the Womble Hardware here several years ago, and built it one of the biggest hardware and implement businesses of the north plains, will continue with his work as heretofore. Mr. Womble, prior to entering the mercantile business in Spearman, was a well-known and successful farmer-stockman of the Lieb community, north Hutchinson county. Mr. Barkley has been prominently identified with the business, educational and religious life of Hansford county for a quarter of a century, and is well known. He was the founder and sole owner of the Hansford Abstract Company and has dealt in abstracts and insurance for many years.

The firm will be operated under the old name, "Womble Hardware Company." The formation of this partnership, consisting of two most able, energetic and four-square citizens, means much to Spearman, Morse and the entire north plains country.

CITY HOSPITAL UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Mrs. M. E. Bolton of Wink and Mrs. A. O'Connor of Dalhart were here the first of the week closing a business transaction whereby Mrs. O'Connor becomes manager of the City Hospital. Mrs. W. H. Black who has been managing this concern is now recovering from a severe illness, but is unable to continue the managing of the hospital. Mrs. O'Connor has been conducting a private hospital in Dalhart the past twenty five years, is a graduate nurse and without any doubt is well acquainted with this line of work. The hospital is being repaired and renovated throughout.

JITNEY-JUNGLE OWNERS PLEASED WITH OPENING

Everybody was invited; everybody was expected; and almost everybody attended the formal opening of Spearman's first Jitney-Jungle retail grocery store, according to Chas. E. Kiker, owner of the Jitney-Jungle franchise at Spearman, who Saturday opened their first store at Spearman.

Promptly at 9 a. m. Saturday morning the big red and green front store opened its doors, and from that hour until closing great crowds of visitors and shoppers inspected and approved the Jitney-Jungle System of grocery merchandising with its advertised and guaranteed claim of "Save a nickel on a Quarter."

The Jitney-Jungle System lays claim to have the most compact, convenient patented system of displaying merchandise in the world, a system where shopping is made easy and the great privilege of personal selection afforded every customer in such a manner as to make it time saving and economical. The Spearman store becomes a unit in the buying-power of the chain which is now feeding more than a million people in 14 states. With this combination of advantages the management claims to pass up to the public dividends in a way of the best in groceries at a price that is less.

Chas. E. Kiker and C. N. Oldham, owners, said: "The opening Saturday received approval even beyond our expectations. As improvements are made in merchandise business must progress, and in adopting the self-service cash system of grocery merchandising, we feel that we can better serve the public, and at the same time make them our partners and co-operators, paying them their dividends in price savings."

Attend the Short Course February 4 and 5.

THE SMALL BILL WILL STOP DIRTY WORK OF LAND GRABBERS

During the past week, President A. M. Bourland of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by E. H. Whitehead, Publicity Manager, has made a tour of West Texas towns in behalf of the Small and Woodward Bills now pending in the State Legislature.

Mr. Bourland declares the Small Bill which has to do with land title validation is one of the most important pieces of legislation to confront the people of Texas for the last half century. Many Texans who for forty years have thought themselves secure in the titles to their land, have recently discovered by modern instruments that errors are found which make vacant strips in the middle of many of the best farms and ranches in the state. Because of recent oil development in West Texas this land has been very alluring to land grabbers.

stream is any creek that is 30 feet wide, even if it is dry all year through. The beds of these streams revert back to the state if the land becomes valuable, as in case of oil discovery.

The Small Bill seeks to validate titles by the present owners, or to give the adjacent owners prior right to purchase the "vacant" land. The Woodward Bill would give the use of water in Texas streams for domestic and irrigation uses to municipalities prior to power companies for hydro-electric power, and other uses. The fight against power companies using the water in Texas when it was needed for drinking and other domestic purposes has engaged the West Texas chamber for over a year. Of several Bills in the Legislature now the Woodward Bill gives the most protection, according to Mr. Bourland.

Young, talented, ambitious and

 With H. E. Castleberry as editor and

PEANUTS GROW WELL IN TEX.

The war-time demand for vegetable oils brought the peanut crop in to prominence; prior to this time and demand the peanut crop was not important in Texas. In 1918 a crop of 7,117,000 bushels was reported, which far exceeded any crop grown prior to that year. After 1918 the crop fell off heavily, and now 2,000, 000 bushels is about an average crop.

 The principal demand at present is for shelled peanuts, which are used in the production of peanut butter, confections and for roasting. The culture of peanuts is adapted to the sandy soil of the state and fits well into a crop rotation.

SHE KNOWS WHAT SHE WANTS

Mrs. Newlywed: "Do you have your cow on pasture now?"
 Litch Sparks, our local dairyman:
 "No, Mam' we don't have 'em out this time of the year."
 Mrs. Newlywed: "I am very sorry Sir, but in that case I can't take milk from you. I insist on having pasturized milk."

SHERLOCK HOLMES COULDN'T

"After the ceremony Smith called at the home of his father-in-law.
 Shortly after he entered his mother-in-law struck him over the head with a rolling pin and his father-in-law took a shot at him with a shotgun.
 The police are of the opinion that the match was not approved by the parents of the bride." From an exchange.

"President Eelect Hoover won his reputation feeding the starving people of Europe," remarks Brannock Dodson. "But I'll bet he's going to lose it in some quarters when it comes time to feed hungry job seekers."

The Reverend Willis Lines 'Em Out at Borger

The following is a resume of an impromptu talk made by Rev. J. L.
 Willis, pastor of the Methodist church before the Lions club at luncheon in the Black hotel Thursday noon. The speaker attended the club as the guest of J. H. Doty.

"In one respect cooperation may be designated as the harmonious pursuit of two or more co-laborers toward the same objective.

"To make such a pursuit possible many steps are necessary, no one of which is in itself sufficient.

"Among the needed steps are the following:

"Similar purposes. Fundamental agreement in purpose is indispensable to effective cooperation. Also adequate dissemination of this oneness of purpose is requisite if diametrical opposition through different plans toward the same end is to be avoided.
 Furthermore, like purposes which are void of altruism fail productively, because avarice produces the motive and contention characterizes the resulting activities.

"Mutual interests. Common interests, based upon like purposes may become an adequate basis upon which to build a reciprocal altruistic plan of pursuit. Duplication and conflict in such unselfishness are nevertheless inevitable unless the participants agree to designated leadership with inviolated delegated powers.

"Correlated activities. Having agreed in purpose and having harmonized our desires we shall find our selves both willing and anxious to correlate our pursuits through inter-group representation. Such representatives are dependent upon a reliable but conceding constituency, who will forego personal interests for the good of the masses.

"Helpful cooperation therefore is correlated rivalry between two or more participants in an effort to increase efficiency, to minimize waste, and in behalf of universal advancement to celebrate in unison a victory pursuant to united efforts for togetherness."—Borger Daily Herald.

We'll say it is and, furthermore,
 when the trees weep into the lake,
 the ducks ponder. Let us reiterate:
 If any member of the Borger Lions Club wishes to know the difference between the legitimate particularities of an Egyptian rhinoceros and the terrestrial geometry of Andy Johnson, then let him stand forward to the rear and like Romeo and Juliet, at the raising of the North Pole, exclaim in the words of Fernando Woodcock: "Nigger in the Woodpile: Farmer on the Fence." And that's that.

 "Jump on 'er when she comes by.
 Run'er down by the water tank, cut her in two and bring the head end up to the depot."
 Suddenly a shrill feminine scream was heard and the young lady was last seen going around the end of the depot at a speed that would have brought an expression of envy from an Olympic champion.

A HAZARDOUS ENTERPRISE

Sid Clark: "I see in the paper that a couple got married in an airplane. Rather dangerous, I'll say."

THE STORY OF THE TEXAS SONG

Doubtless no song has so urged the young men and women of Texas to lofty ideals, noble efforts and worthwhile achievements as the one entitled "The Eyes of Texas are Upon You," the air and words of which are almost as well known throughout this great commonwealth as "America," or "Dixie." The song has cheered and inspired young men and women in their class room, on athletic field and in their work in the great field of life after school days were over. The history of the origin of this song is interesting, and gives influence of words fitly spoken on appropriate occasion.

William L. Prather, president of the University of Texas, delivered a great lecture to the student body of the institution one morning, and at the close of his address he said: "And remember, young ladies and gentlemen, the eyes of Texas are upon you." The words of the President made a great impression on the young hearers and were repeated many times in the gatherings of the institution of learning. Finally a young poet wrote a song with "the eyes of Texas are upon you" as the refrain. Students sang the verses to the tune of "I've been Working on a Railroad," a humorous ditty that was then very popular. At first the song was considered very funny, but after the death of President Prather, the words spoken so earnestly by him began to be considered in a far more serious vein. The song lost its humor character, and students sang it in a more serious vein. Many have been inspired by it to greater efforts and achievements. What the great educator tried so hard to impress upon the students many years ago is retold every day in song, and the song has proved a fine inspiration to many lives. It is not uncommon for great throngs of people to rise and remove their hats when this song is sung or the air is played by a band.

Lesson — BY DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR FEBRUARY 3, 1929

General Topic—The Holy Scriptures.
 Scripture Lesson—Ps. 107:14; 2 Tim. 3:14-17.
 Ps. 107. The law of Jehovah is perfect, restoring the soul: the testimony of Jehovah is sure, making life the simple.
 The precepts of Jehovah are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of Jehovah is pure, enlightening the eyes.
 The fear of Jehovah is clean, enduring forever: the ordinances of Jehovah are true, and righteous altogether.
 More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and drop of the honeycomb.
 Moreover by them is thy servant warned: in keeping them there is great reward.
 Who can discern his errors? Clear thou me from hidden faults.
 Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; Let them not have dominion over me: Then shall I be upright, and I shall be clear from great transgression.
 Let the words of my mouth be acceptable in thy sight, O Jehovah, my rock, and my redeemer.
 But abide in the things which thou hast learned and been assured of, knowing of whom thou has learned them;
 And that from a babe thou hast known the sacred writings, which are able to make wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus.
 Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness: That the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work.

 David's life (Beecher) extended from B. C. 1092 to B. C. 1023. Paul wrote 2 Timothy A. D. 66.
 Place—David wrote his psalms in Jerusalem. Paul wrote 2 Timothy in prison in Rome.
 Golden Text—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.—Ps. 119:18.
 Introduction
 "The Bible is sometimes referred to as a whole library, or as a great literature. This is all true, but we should never lose sight of the Bible's unity, and on unfolding purpose: to reveal to men the mind, heart and will of God, that is, Jesus Christ; and that through him they should be saved. Thus the Bible is a most practical book: in its details, for the whole round of existence and in its supreme teaching, life through Christ. The term Guide Book may appropriately be applied to it—in a high sense of the term. There is the old saying, "The Scriptures are given to teach us, not how the heavens go, but how to go to heaven."
 The chart and compass still guides, O Christ, to thee."
 The Nineteenth Psalm
 In the first part of the Nineteenth Psalm, the psalm from which our lesson is taken, the psalmist sings of the revelation of God in nature, chiefly revelation of power; in the second part of the psalm, our lesson today, he sings of the revelation of God in the Scriptures, chiefly a revelation of holiness. This brings him naturally to the prayer for deliverance from sin and for such a character as will be acceptable in the sight of Jehovah.

 The Second Part of the Lesson
 The second passage is an appeal to Timothy to abide in the teachings of the Scriptures, which he had learned in boyhood, which revealed the true wisdom that leads to salvation through faith in Christ. The last verse sets forth the divine inspiration of the Scriptures, and their value for human life. The reference is of course to the Old Testament, the only Scriptures then in existence, but the New Testament, being a fuller revelation of God, is even more valuable.
 Variety in the Scriptures
 Our English word "Bible" is derived, through the Latin, from the plural of the Greek word for book. Thus while our word is singular, it represents a plural idea; the Bible is primarily a collection of books. This collection contains practically every form of literature: history, biography, poetry, oratory, fiction, drama, etc.
 Unity of the Scriptures
 One of the most remarkable characteristics of the Bible is the unity that runs through all its various books, notwithstanding the difference in authorship and the differing periods in which they were written. This unity justifies our thought of the Bible as one book, even though it contains many books; and this is one of the best evidences that it is not a merely human production, but came from God.
 The Bible Not a Book of Science
 The purpose of the Bible was not to teach science. The writers of the Bible know no science, in the sense in which that term is employed today. God could have revealed it to them, if he had chosen to do so, but there is no evidence that he did. The Bible writers used the language of appearance rather than that of twentieth century science. They had to use the language and the idea of their contemporaries in order to be understood. There has been a great deal of discussion of the first chapter of Genesis. Doubtless all will agree that the chief purpose of the writer was to declare that the universe owes its existence to God. That is surely a much more important fact than in the manner in which he made it. Interpretations of science vary as the years go on, but there can be no real conflict between facts. Both the theologian and the scientist should always be ready to welcome facts, from whatever source they come.
 The Bible Reveals the Nature of God
 The purpose of the Bible was to reveal the true nature of God. The fact of God is revealed in the natural world. Men have always believed in a god, or in many gods. But nature does not reveal the holiness of God and the love of God. The god of nature inspired men with awe by the manifestations of his power, but he never inspired with love by the manifestation of his grace. There was need of a higher revelation than could be afforded by nature.
 The Bible Reveals the Will of God
 The purpose of the Bible was also to reveal the will of God. His practical purpose pervades the book throughout. God's will is his nature in action. Because he is holy he wills that men should be holy. Because he is gracious, he wills that men should be gracious. Because he is loving, he wills that men should be loving. "He therefore shall be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect."
 Bible Reveals the Plan of Salvation
 The main purpose of God toward men is that they shall be saved from sin and brought into full fellowship with him. So the climax of the revelation in the Scriptures is the knowledge of the plan of salvation through Jesus Christ. He is the center of the Bible. No matter how much we know about the Bible, its profundity of thought, its literary beauty, its imaginative power; if we do not find Christ there, we have missed the heart of the book.
 The Sacred Writings. 2 Tim. 3:15
 "And that from a babe thou hast known the sacred writings." Paul did not hesitate, as so many scholars do to call the Bible "sacred." He did not put it on a parity with secular literature, but clearly recognized its unique and divine origin and nature. Paul recognized, the inestimable value of early training. As soon as a child is able to understand, he should be told the Bible stories and instructed in the Bible truths. "Philo, a contemporary of our Lord, says, "They are taught, so to speak, from their swaddling clothes by their parents, masters, and teachers, in the holy laws, and in the unwritten customs, and to believe in God."
 "Which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." There is a wisdom which is not "unto salvation," but has to do only with this world and the physical life. The Bible is profitable for time but also for eternity; it blesses the soul as well as the body; its chief benefit is the salvation from sin which it brings. Faith in Jesus Christ is the essential element in this wisdom. All our Bible study, in private or in the Sunday school, should have salvation for its main object.
 The Scripture Inspired
 "Every scripture inspired of God." "Inspired of God" is a single word in the Greek. The old translation, in-serting "is," is placed in the margin of the Revised Version, but the thought is virtually the same. Indeed, it may be regarded as a little stronger to assume the inspiration of Scripture, as here, than to assert it, as in the Authorized Version. "It is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness."

 "Holy Scripture teaches the ignorant, convicts the evil and prejudiced, corrects the fallen and erring, and trains in righteousness all men, especially those that need bringing to fuller measures of perfection."
 The Bible
 "When I am tired, the Bible is my bed;
 Or lonely, thronging friends I find
 When I am hungry, it is vital bread;
 Or fearful, it is armor for the fight;
 When I'm sick, 'tis healing medicine;
 Or lonely, thronging friends I find therein."
 I AM FIRE
 I am Fire.
 The smallest toddling infant may arouse me.
 Thousands of men and all science of the ages may not subdue me.
 I am Fire.
 Each year I consume in the United States more than $500,000,000 worth of property.
 I destroy the cottage of the poor and the palace of the rich.
 My flames sweep through the village and across the mighty city.
 Forests fall before me, and over the prairie I spread my blighting hand.
 I am Fire.
 Into my wake of destruction are brought each year in this country more than 8,000 babes and children. My insatiable appetite demands 4,000 women of your land each twelve months. Three thousand men you feed into my flames in yearly sacrifice.
 I am Fire.
 I scar, I maim, I ruin.
 Your orphaned children know me. Your widows fear my name. Your childless mothers dread my face.
 All over you and yours I have planted my curse.
 I am Fire.
 I make your people homeless. I spread destruction through your factories. I waste your resources.
 I burn your schools, your churches, your homes, your wives, your husbands and your children.
 I am Fire.
 I am dangerous more than dynamite, more treacherous than Satan; more to be feared than all your enemies upon the earth, you carry me about your persons, you strew me in your homes, you spread me over the land and water.

they would obtain a better perspective of real life in such cities.
 Said a young man who once departed to seek a visionary fortune in New York city, "I am going down to the big show." To which it could have been replied that when you visit the big show, you have to pay the big price. Also you get your toes stepped on in the crowd, you get separated from your friends, and then probably have to take a back seat where you can't see much of anything.
 In a friendly community like Spearman you have the chance to realize the best possibilities of which you are capable. Do good work in some occupation, and you earn a comfortable living. Show superiority, and doors of opportunity open to you, and the crowd is not so great that you can't squeeze through.
 And the intimate relations of a good wholesome town give you friendships that no dollars can buy, and which are better than the luxurious magnificence which the great city showers on a few of its more favored pets.

WAITRESS MADE RECORD

From a restaurant waitress and cashier's job to holder of the world's endurance record for women flying alone is quite a jump, but Miss Viola Gentry made it at Roosevelt Field, New York, one day recently.

Her record-breaking flight was not made under favorable conditions, either, as she flew in an open plane through rain, cold and sleet during much of the 8 hours 6 minutes and 37 seconds which elapsed between her take-off and landing.

Miss Gentry learned to fly at Curtis Field and had about 130 hours of solo flying to her credit when she made her successful attempt to set a new record for women. In order to finance her aviation schooling she had worked in a restaurant.

While her feat was not exactly an epoch-making one, it again demonstrates that women are not inferior to men in courage or ambition when they set their minds on doing something unusual.

MILLIONS FOR WORKERS

One of the greatest contributions to employee welfare ever made by a business corporation was that recently announced by the Eastman Kodak Company, which set aside $6,500,000 for insurance, disability payments and retirement annuities for its 20,000 workers in the United States and abroad.

This is in addition to the regular annual disbursement of wage dividends, which for the year 1928 amounted to nearly $3,250,000. The annual distribution of wage dividends has been in effect since 1912.

Under the retirement plan, male employees may retire at the age of 65 and females at 60 years of age, the amount to be received depending upon active salaries and length of service.

Many millions in bonuses were distributed to employees of other business concerns during the Christmas season, under various profit-sharing and bonus plans. All this is evidence of a growing realization on the part of managers that solicitude for the welfare of their workers is not only a worthy sentiment, but a dividend-paying investment as well.

LURE OF GREAT CITIES

What will happen to the American people, if they continue to swarm into our greatest centers of population? Swallowed up in those teeming masses, their individuality lost, restless as the hurrying ants in some stupendous antheap, what becomes of their power of initiative, their interest in the tasks of citizenship, and in many cases, of their personal character?

Visitors to those teeming hives of population remark on the lavishness and luxury there observed. They say these big cities get more than their share of the nation's wealth. If such ones would venture down the shabby side streets and dingy alleys where masses of people live, many of them with less sun and air than a horse or dog would get in their home towns

CARE OF CALF OFTEN MEASURES COW VALUE

Prominent Dairy Authority Gives Advice on Proper Feeding of Calves

Although the cow is mother to the calf, the calf is also mother to the cow, according to C. W. McIntyre, Jackson County, Missouri. This is not quite the riddle it sounds, but is rather a new version of the old saying that the boy is the father to the man.

The care of the calf, as Mr. McIntyre points out, is very important to the future life of the cow and the profits in cattle raising can often be traced back to the calf's care and raising.

It is very important, he continues, that the calf receive the colostrum or first milk of its mother for the first two or four days. From the sixth to the tenth day, six to ten pounds of milk should be fed daily, but after the thirtieth day, one pound of milk for each ten pounds of live weight will be sufficient. Experiments show that the best results follow the feeding of milk at a temperature of 100 degrees which is just about body heat. The calf should be fed three times a day at first because its stomach cannot hold more than enough food for a nine hour-period.

The calf will begin to nibble after two weeks when a small amount of grain can be given twice daily. Later some alfalfa may be added to the ration.

Some grain rations for calves fed on skim milk are: corn, three parts, oats three parts, wheat bran one part and linseed meal one part; equal parts of oats, bran, corn, or ground barley; five parts of oats, one part of corn, three parts of bran, and one part of linseed meal. For a calf that is not fed skim milk this ration is suggested: two parts ground oats, one part bran, two parts corn and one part linseed meal.

ABSORBS ROAD SHOCKS; RESISTS SIDE SWAY

No feature of the new Ford car has been the subject of more enthusiastic approval than its riding qualities. To persons accustomed to riding in a car in the so-called light or medium weight class, the degree to which the Model A absorbs road shocks and resists side sway is little short of unbelievable.

It is possible to explain the new car's efficiency in these respects in a simple, non-technical way.

The transverse, semi-elliptic springs of the Model A are heavier, stronger, and more flexible than those used on any previous Ford car.

One of the chief essentials in riding comfort is a high proportion of sprung weight and a low proportion of unsprung weight. Sprung weight is all the weight suspended by the flexible ends of the springs; unsprung weight is the dead weight below those flexible ends. It follows that the higher proportion of unsprung weight, the more powerful and violent will be the road shocks delivered against the frame, body and motor of the car, and the more difficult to absorb.

Some semi-elliptic spring rest on their middle, or heaviest and thickest portions, below the line of sprung weight. Thus, the weightiest sections of the springs themselves form part of the unsprung weight, adding to the size of the "hammer" and the power of the blows dealt by the highway against the body, frame and motor of the car.

Ford designed transverse springs rest on their flexible ends, with their heavy mid-portions uppermost, in which position they form part of the sprung weight, or cushioned weight.

Aside from the question of weight, the transverse spring contributes again to the comfortable riding qualities of the Model A. The ordinary car is pushed forward by way of the rear axle and the rear springs—the rear springs actually serve as driving members! The front halves of these springs must therefore be made stiff enough to serve this purpose, and their flexibility, which enables them to perform their cushioning function, is reduced in a corresponding degree. Moreover, in order to be efficient driving members, their front end must be fastened firmly to the frame of the car. This means that the lengthening of the spring as shocks are encountered must be entirely to ward the rear, for only the rear ends of the spring can have a shackled and hinged mounting. As the spring flexes, therefore, the rear wheels are moved backward and forward, and neither a constant nor uniform wheelbase can be maintained.

In the Model A the rear springs serve a cushioning function only. The car is pushed forward through the torque tube and radius rods, which carry the thrust to a point well forward on the chassis. Both ends of the springs, therefore, are shackled and hinged, and all leaves are as flexible as their efficiency and cushioning members require. The flexing of the springs has no effect on the length of the wheelbase whatever.

In addition to the special spring design, the Model A Ford has as standard equipment a very fine type of hydraulic shock absorbers which adds materially to the smooth riding qualities of the car.

Our home town calls on us to take hold and push it along with our own efforts and muscle, instead of sitting on the fence and advising how it should be pushed.

The people who go away from Spearman to buy the same goods they could get at home for the same or less money, do not seem to value their own time very highly.

Short Course, February 4 and 5.

THE USE OF OUR TOOLS

We recently entered a new year. People used to make good resolutions at that date. The habit is out of fashion now, but it would be most appropriate if all our people would make one resolution that is very much needed. That is, that we will learn how to use properly the marvellous tools which modern science has given us.

Take automobiles. We need resolutions on them. This marvellous new tool abolishes distance, unites country and city, increases our ability to produce. And yet it inflicts fatal injuries on many of us, it lays hundreds of thousands of us up for repairs in beds of pain, it brings sorrow and financial loss. We have this wonderful new tool, but have not learned how to use it.

Take explosives and chemicals. The dynamite clears the farmer's fields. The chemicals revolutionize production. Yet these beneficial agencies became the tools with which men recently fought a most fiendish war. We have these marvellous tools of modern science but do not know how to use them.

Take airplanes. They are uniting distant cities and countries in bonds of friendship and business. But with this amazing new tool, the strategists are planning how they will bomb cities in the next "war," and annihilate peaceful populations with their non-combatant women and children. We have a perfectly marvellous new tool, but do not know how to use it.

Scientific achievement alone does not produce human welfare. If we gain technical more, but lack moral sense, fraternal feeling, and capacity for harmonious co-operation, modern science with all its marvels fails to bring us happiness.

Inspiring people with standards of conduct is quite as important as teaching their science. Let us hope that the schools of Spearman keep giving more and more attention to this side of life, and will teach our boys and girls not merely the tools of science, but how to use them to advance real human progress.

THE NEWSBOY SHOWS HOW

If you watch newsboys selling their papers on a city street, you see a big difference between boys. Some are quiet little fellows who lack the push and assertiveness to call out their papers. They do not attract enough attention to sell many of them.

And then there are those who go at their job with all their might. They jump out in front of you to catch your eye, they call out news events reported in their papers. The streets resound with their cheerful and ringing cries. People like to buy of these little hustlers.

It is about the same in the world of trade. The business concern that does not believe in advertising is much like the boy who never calls out his papers, and is apt to come out about the same. The business man who advertises vastly increases his sales, like the active kid whose lively cries win your interest on the street.

THE INCOME TAXPAYERS

About now some 3,000,000 people are receiving a billet-doux from the old gentleman with the striped trousers, inviting them to fuss up about their incomes, and come across with that little tax. Some of these folks, instead of heartily rejoicing that they come in this favored class, are quite crabby about it.

After tearing their hair and making steen different blots on the old gentleman's formidable looking document, some of them get mad at Uncle Sam. But if it were not for his government that protects their stocks and bonds they would not merely be unable to pay that tax, but they would probably have no money for their beefsteak and potatoes.

Then there are about a hundred million less favored folks, who are never annoyed by any such invitations to pay up. Many of them are sore because their earnings fall below the tax-paying class. But time spent in finding fault about it gets them nowhere.

Miss Opportunity, they say, knocks once at every man's door. Those who do every job work thoroughly well, who are always studying now they can do it or something else can better, stand a chance to hear her roused to sleep.

That charming lady is reported to be frequently seen around Spearman. Don't make so much noise lamenting your hard luck, that you can't hear that gentle knock, which bids one wake up and get busy and go to work bundling a nose on income tax street.

Old age insurance is advocated. But if it comes into use does one imagine that the ladies can ever be induced to make a claim?

Through chemical treatment, it is announced, trees will soon be made suitable for human food. Now what's the poor waitress going to do when you call for a steak.

Airplanes are to be brought within the reach of the man on the street, says a magazine article. That will probably break up the monopoly that the automobiles have held in that line for some time.

Our feet are made to walk with along the path of progress, and not primarily for kicking.

AN INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Advertising is an investment. As such it should be regarded by every intelligent business man. The man who invests five or ten dollars in advertising and expects to double his money in twenty-four hours is doomed to disappointment, for such investments exist only in fairy tales.

Advertising is an investment, that always pays a good interest yield on the money so invested. In addition it enlarges the capital value of the business advertised considerably more than the amount of the investment.

If you feel that there may be some truth in what we say, Mr. Merchant, give it a trial. But don't invest $50 or $100. Invest at least $500, just as you would if you bought some stock or bonds. Then devote some attention to the preparation of advertising.

At the end of the year if you don't realize at least $80 in profit from this investment and if you sell your business for at least 10% more as a result, then we'll give every cent of the money you put into advertising.

Has anybody ever offered you a better investment than this?

KNOWLEDGE IS EDUCATION ONLY WHEN IT IS PUT TO WORK, SAYS MOBLEY

The greatest art is living a wholesome life and being able to support a wholesome standard of life.
 Knowledge is a very essential thing, but a greater thing is the use of knowledge.
 Knowledge, alone, is not education. Education is knowing how to use your knowledge.
 Those who stand out among us are those who know how to use their knowledge.
 Education is simply a tool. Its value is the use made of it.
 No amount of school training can make a boy accomplish much unless he uses what he knows.
 We always admire winners, but a winner is only a man who puts what he knows into action.
 It is not, What you do know? It is, What are you going to do with what you know?
 No one can give us knowledge. No one else can use my knowledge. If anyone uses it, it is his knowledge.
 A little knowledge used is better than a lot of knowledge not used.
 The one who handles big things began by using what he knew about little things.
 I do not believe that opportunity comes but once. Often we do not recognize it however.

A GOOD HOBBY

The editor heard of a successful business man recently who spends his spare time collecting old hinges. What looks like nothing more than old pieces of scrap iron to most of us is a priceless treasure to him. In his den one may see an enormous collection of old hammered bronze and iron hinges, some from old cathedrals and castles, others from historic dwellings, and others that have nothing more to commend them than mere age.

"A ridiculous hobby," one may say, but is any hobby ridiculous? Doesn't a hobby keep one interested in life, alert to one's surroundings, and prevent leisure from becoming a source of boredom? We feel that it does, and for this reason we are recommending to our readers a hobby that we feel to be worthy of consideration.

This hobby should take the form of an active interest in community affairs. Make the promotion of the best interests of Spearman a matter that absorbs the spare time that now hangs heavy on your hands. Be ever on the alert for new ideas and plans that may well be put into practice locally for the improvement of our city. Develop a pride in the city as it is and a belief in the future possibilities that may become realities.

Here is a hobby that will enable you to have a lot more fun out of life. Here is one that will make your home surroundings seem more pleasant, your business and social contacts more interesting, that will give life greater zest and significance and convince you that you are living in one of the finest little cities on the face of the globe.

in building up the commercial and industrial fabric of the state and nation.

MAKING POULTRY PAY

Whether laying hens are profitable or not depends largely on the care given them, although breeding is a fundamental requirement of good layers. But even the ordinary hen will show her gratitude for good treatment by a greatly increased yield of eggs, according to a poultry expert, who says:

"Take the average farm hen, feed and house her poorly and she will lay only about 70 eggs a year. Give her a chance on good feed in a good house and she will produce 140 or more. But take the same hen and breed her to a pedigreed egg-bred male and the pullet resulting will produce from 150 to 200 eggs a year if properly cared for."

Under ordinary conditions it is not advised that the average farmer try to raise his own males for breeding purposes, because of the great amount of trouble involved, as well as skill required in breeding. It is less expensive and far more satisfactory to buy high class cockers from professional breeders.

Poultry raising is one of the most profitable of farm activities if properly conducted, but haphazard methods will result in failure as in every other undertaking. The main thing is to have good hens in the flock and treat them right.

A young man called at the Post-office Confectionery rather excitedly the other evening, so we have been informed, and asked:

"Can I see that book I had last week?"
"Must have been rather interesting," remarked Barney Sparks.
"No not that, but it's got my girl's phone number in the cover."
