Rain Blankets Most Of West Texas

Precipitation Recorded In Drought Area

Most Of Howard County Receives Light Rain Wednesday Night

Long belated rains blanketed Howard county and West Texas Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Precipitation at the United States Weather Bureau located at the airport showed .39 inches in 7 a. m. and .02 fell after that hour. At the U. S. Experiment farm north of here 47 inches had fallen, indicating a heavier downpour northward.

Garden City, long without moisture and suffering a shortage of stock water, received a rain, though the amount could not be ascertained here.

At Ackerly, Lamesa, Tahoka and Fairview, it started raining at 9 p. m. Wednesday and continued intermittently through 5 a. m. Thursday.

El Paso was getting precipitation at 7 a. m., but it ceased there shortly afterwards. During Thursday morning rain fell at Sweetwater and points east to Dallas.

Although insufficient to insure moisture enough for planting and growing of ample spring grass, the rain did renew hopes of business men, farmers and stockmen who looked anxiously Thursday to over-hanging clouds.

WASHINGTON By George Durno

Spending—

An election nears. Congressmen are yielding to pressure for bigger appropriations.

Administration forces are trying to keep the program intact but prospects are that at least $200,000,000 will be added in federal pay and veterans' allowances. President Roosevelt doesn't wish to use the veto power but will do so if bonus or greenback legislation passes on a billion-dollar scale.

On smaller items he's expected to keep on good terms with Congress.

Backfire—

One outlet for distribution of pie is the PWA appropriation. Secretary Ickes' tentative estimate is getting bigger all the while and a bill calling for $1,500,000,000 or more is in the offing.

Hints are thrown out that Congress will have an opportunity to pile up campaign mate by voting a big appropriation to carry on the CWA in some form. Plans for CWA are meanwhile held in check—apparently to discourage bonus, greenback and other schemes to shell out cash by wholesale to the people. Until Congress can know what is planned for CWA after May 1 it hesitates to push inflation to the limit.

Chances—

When Secretary Ickes announced the other day that no project financed with Public Works funds could be named after any one—particularly a living person—told reporters he was merely taking time by the forelock. He said it was not the naming of any sewer project after a local politician that inspired the order.

Ickes neglected to tell the boys, though, that a few days before photographs had reached PWA headquarters of "Caraway Hall," now being erected at the University of Arkansas.

Bonus—

What with talk of immediate cash bonus payment filling the air again and CWA employees being tossed out of their jobs by the thousands, some of the more apprehensive administrators hid an "r" to the "g" recently to see whether they could detect advance sounds of another bonus march.

Emanuel Levine, who heads the Ex-Servicemen's League has already served notice one will be forthcoming if Congress doesn't pay off. (Federal agents and police regard Levine as a prime Communist organizer.)

Trek—

The answer is that everything seems to be quiet so far among marchers.

Governor Signs Two Relief Bills

AUSTIN (AP)—Governor Ferguson Thursday signed bills to issue additional state bonds for relief of unemployment distress, and to declare a moratorium against the forced sales of real estate in worthy cases.

Both bills became effective on signature by the governor.

Relief officials announced they would proceed without delay to sell the bonds to replenish relief coffers, which now virtually are empty.

The bond law provides for issuance of $7,775,000 in bonds.

The Texas bond commission has started discussions to arrange details preliminary to the sale.

Attorneys are working on forms for bonds and the state board of control is ready to order printing to be started at once.

Sale of the bonds may be effected on a week's notice.

Under terms of the moratorium law, district judges are empowered to stay execution of sales until February 1, 1935.

Dr. Wynekoop To Deny She Killed Rheta

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Alice Wynekoop, her slight figure robed in black, came to court Thursday ready to take the stand and deny she killed her daughter-in-law, Rheta.

The defense indicated, however, that the defendant might not be placed on the stand until Friday.

Numerous character witnesses might delay her appearance.

They joined two companions waiting in an automobile and fled toward Dallas.

AMERICAN AIRWAYS AGAIN PLAYS PART IN AN EMERGENCY

American Airways again played their part in an emergency Wednesday morning, this time to rush a lady passenger to the bedside of her dying husband.

When Mrs. James B. Ford of Wilmington, California, was notified late Tuesday afternoon that her husband, James B. Ford, was critically ill in the Big Spring hospital, she boarded an eastbound American Airways plane for Big Spring. The ship was scheduled to arrive here at 4:43 Wednesday morning, but due to bad weather, the ship did not make scheduled time. At El Paso the plane took off for Big Spring, but was forced to return after the weather had closed in on them, making visibility difficult.

On learning of the serious illness of Mrs. Ford's husband, in Big Spring, airways officials ordered the plane to proceed that Mrs. Ford might reach the bedside of her husband.

The plane took off again, and though the weather was not so good, the ship arrived here at 6:30, about thirty minutes before Mr. Ford succumbed.

Home Rader, veteran American Airways pilot, and considered one of the most experienced and cautious, was at the controls.

President To Disclose NRA Plans Monday

Roosevelt's Address To Be Broadcast At 11 o'Clock Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt will disclose his plans for NRA in a personal appearance Monday before group meetings called by Administrator Johnson to hear complaints.

This was made known Thursday as criticism was received from a large number of persons who came here at the invitation of Johnson to air their view.

The president's address will be broadcast at 11 o'clock.

Some believed he will give his ideas for the future of NRA.

Man, Captured In Los Angeles, Is Wanted Here

Ed Davis Wanted Here For Robbing Collins Bros. Drug Store

Ed Davis, desperado captured Wednesday evening in Los Angeles and who was wanted in connection with the Kansas City Union depot massacre, is wanted here for the robbery of Collins Bros. drug store in 1929.

A companion of Davis, Frank Shelton, was taken here in connection with the robbery but Davis, captured from the Texas penitentiary, Davis was subsequently arrested in Oklahoma and sentenced for life to the state prison at McAlester. He escaped May 28, 1932 and a year four days later figured in the sensational prison break at Lansing, Kansas.

He has long been suspected as one of the perpetrators of the Kansas City Union station shooting in which four officers and a prisoner, Frank Nash, were brutally murdered.

Police who conducted the raid on an apartment where Davis, two men and two women were taken said they discovered things which led them to believe that Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd was in Los Angeles. Floyd fell under suspicion immediately after the Kansas City tragedy.

When arrested, Davis gave his name as Charles E. Joe. He carried two guns and was injured by an accidental discharge of a delective pistol when he sought to resist arrest. The desperado refused to make a statement, although he did admit killing an officer in Duncan, Okla. He denied any connection with the Kansas City massacre.

Charged With Offense Against 13-Year-Old Girl

Noel E. Boatler, principal of the Fairview School 20 miles northwest of Colorado, was indicted Wednesday at Colorado under a charge of criminal offense against a 13-year-old farm girl.

A grand jury convened Monday for a term of the 32nd district court returned the indictment Wednesday afternoon.

Boatler, 27, is being held in the Howard county jail for safekeeping.

He made no statement when informed of the indictment.

Previously he had told officers he did not wish to have an examining trial or attempt to make bond.

Complaining witness for the state is Lois Saunders, farm girl of the Fairview community and student of Boatler.

The offense is alleged to have occurred Friday when Boatler allegedly went with the girl to Midland. He was taken into custody there Saturday afternoon.

Boatler is to be arraigned before Judge A. S. Mauzey of the 32nd district court Monday morning. Conviction under Texas criminal statutes carries a minimum penalty of five years and a maximum sentence of death.

Officers here said they did not know when Boatler would be returned to Mitchell county.

Entire Spanish Cabinet Resigns

MADRID (AP)—The entire government of Premier Alejandro Lerroux resigned suddenly Thursday.

Reorganization of the ministry had been considered Wednesday night by the premier after two ministers had announced they planned to resign.

However, resignation of the entire cabinet, which was reorganized January 23, came as a surprise move.

Two ministers threatened to quit when the Catholic Agrarian party reached a decision to oppose government policies.

Thomason Urges U. S. Bollworm Aid In Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government was called upon Wednesday by Rep. Thomason of El Paso, Tex., to make provision for paying the cost of fumigating cotton offered for shipment in the area of west Texas under pink boll worm quarantine.

Thomason, in a speech on the house floor during consideration of the agriculture department appropriation bill, said administration officials had characterized their fumigation regulations as essential to protect the remainder of the cotton industry.

He contended that under that theory they should therefore assume the financial responsibility.

Thomason also urged support for his pending bill providing for the reimbursement, from government and state funds on a 50-50 basis, of farmers in his section for pest fumigation costs, which he said had been mounting for 19 years and would run between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

"Beloved," Feature Unit Of R&R Road Show Here Sunday

When the screen productions of the year are subjected to review next New Year, it is highly probable that among "The Ten Best" will be found the Universal epic romance, "Beloved," now the feature unit of a new R & R Road Show program which opens at the Ritz Theater Saturday at 11:30, Sunday and Monday.

This is a picture which literally has everything, according to the R & R reviewer. It has a tensely dramatic story, its sweeping background in a calvalcade of action such as has never before been seen in any other screenplay. It has beautiful music and songs sung by John Boles, the screen's outstanding singer; also a song sung by Bobby Arnat and still another, a Negro spiritual, sung by a double quartette of dusky Southerners. And a symphonic climax of unprecedented grandeur.

And it has a splendid cast, with Gloria Stuart opposite John Boles and supporting parts played by Albert Conti, Dorothy Peterson, Holmes Herbert, Lucille Laverne, Edmund Breese, Mae Busch, Richard Carle, Bobby Arnat, Morgan Farley, Ruth Hall, Lucille Gleason, Bessie Barriscale, that wonderful kid from "Only Yesterday," Jimmy Butler and many others. Victor Schertzinger, himself a composer, directed "Beloved" from a script by Paul Gangelin.

This, he explained, isn't a part of his routine duties but just a specialty sideline resulting from his intimate knowledge of the city.

BLOND GODDESS

A New Serial by Herbert Jensen

CHAPTER 34
It made Grahame feel clumsy and uncomfortably unwashed. He passed his hand over the stubble of beard on his cheek; he ran his fingers through his hair in an unconscious attempt to tidy himself. The girl smiled.

"They left me my compact," she said, still smiling.
Grahame chuckled, then abruptly his expression sobered.
"Have they told you...?"
While her smile was fixed, he noticed the clear blue of her eyes darkened.
"Yes," she said quietly. "I know. Is there any hope at all?"
The guards seemed very still. Although they were speaking in English he observed that some were pressing close, as if listening.

sides of the huge monument and were gathered about its base. As they pressed through the lanes made by their guards, they saw that the concourse was composed of both sexes, men in their breechcloths and sandals, in the women in their long cotton robes.

Some of the women carried young children upon their hips, holding older ones, solemn eyed little people, by the hand. A gain day for them, thought Grahame bitterly, like the Roman shows of old in the coliseums when men were caused to flounder in their own blood, for the glorification of a Caesar.
It was age-old, this business; it was only the conditions that varied. They mounted the eastern steps.

A drum began a sullen thumping.

Grahame's glance met the girl's levelly.
"None," he said distinctly. She drew a breath, flutteringly. Her shoulders straightened and her chin lifted. Then suddenly, as if by impulse her hand reached out and patted Grahame's wrist.

"Thank you, Frank," she said. "You came into this for me, didn't you? I can't say anything." The activity of her guards interrupted her. They were hedged through the doorway and into the early sunlight.

Grahame blinked his eyes at the shimmering glare. A few hundred yards to the left the serrated sides of the great pyramid alighted upward toward the temple-house. In the quiet air above, a column of smoke streamed straightly upward, then flattened as it touched some new atmospheric stratum.

Crowds of people hung to the

This side was clear of people, whether because of official mandate, or because the show would be more interesting on the side facing the pool of the cenote; at any rate, Grahame made a mental note of the fact.

As they topped the last of the steps he looked backward and toward the central space within the city. There, almost hidden by the long morning shadow east by a distant building was the airplane. It caught some of the sun's rays on its metal wings.

To Grahame, from the height at which he stood, it appeared like a tiny dragon-fly resting upon a distant stone. He felt the skin of his back crawl with anticipation. His thoughts skipped again to the possibilities of his getting it, and the probable chances of his taking off successfully.

Had the tires held their inflation? The stuff poor Juan had poured into the tank might not have been high-test gasoline. Perhaps Langton had left enough in the carburetor to rev up the motor until its heat would make an inferior grade good fuel.

A cloud of incense wreathed about the heads as they were taken around the temple-house to the altar slab. It made Janice cough. It smelled like burning paint, with an under-odor that was like rank house, Ortega came. His hands were bound behind him, and two guards held him by the elbows. His, apparently was a pitiful plight.

The man's lips were flaccid with pain; coherence was lost in the jumbled sentences that tumbled from them.
"He lies! The boy lies! I tell you I am your friend. There is a mistake. I brought these people here for you. I have been your friend for years..."
One of his guards struck him across the face.
A drum began a flat, sullen thumping from within the temple. A figure suddenly appeared at the temple entrance. Grahame recognized the dark face of the abkin although the figure was strangely changed.

The abkin left the sacrificial stone, and approached Ortega. He held his hand above the Mexican's head, and released a small shower of feathers upon him. The big man winced as the downy particles touched him - quite as if they burned his skin.
The priest drew his knife and held it over the stone.
It happened suddenly. There were no preliminaries. Fresh smoke billowed from the temple door. Grahame heard a scuffling and an agonized cry that broke in a squeal.
He saw the bulk of Ortega stretched across the altar stone. The white tunic had been ripped from his breast, which gleamed upward.

A motorcycle rider questioned after a collision on a downtown Kansas City street told police there were so many bright advertising signs at the intersection he could not distinguish the traffic light.

They turned the corner of the house. Facing them, held by two armed natives, was Juan. The lad's face was pale. About his head was swathed cloth, stained with dirt and blood.

His eyes, however, flashed with anger and defiance; they glittered like fresh-chipped obsidian. The lips beneath his aquiline nose were a thin line of defiance. As he saw Grahame they relaxed in a smile.

"Buenos dias, Senor," he greeted. His lips parted. The rough palm of a guard smote the words back into his teeth. Juan's jet eyes brightened. He still smiled, although a thin line of blood welled at the corner of his mouth and spread downward over his chin.

"Goat!" The boy's eyes burned into those of the guard. The man's glance fell and he attempted no repetition of the blow.

"Senor," he continued in his liquid Spanish, as if there had been no interruption, "I have made you happier. I told them, when I was taken, of the sympathetic assistance that Don Raoul Ortega gave us. How he helped me hide, and made it possible for you to effect the escape of..."

"He lies!"

Grief

One good man who knows his way around Washington can cause a big industry a lot of grief. Take the case of John Frey who heads the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor.

Frey has just about succeeded, single-handed, in riving the shipbuilding industry ragged in the past few weeks.

A glimpse backstage may be amusing.

The shipbuilders have been screaming murder for months because their code calls for a 32-hour week while government navy yards run 36 hours. Workers prefer the extra four hours pay and the private yards can't get skilled labor.

Finally they prevailed upon President Roosevelt to submit the question to the National Labor Board for review.

Senator Wagner's agency designated a fact-finding committee of three to handle the job.

The committee in due course reported unanimously—that working hours in all shipyards should be 40 hours!

At this point Frey stepped into the picture with a healthy set of objections. Senator Wagner decided not to okay the 40-hour report and asked the committee to reconsider.

Browns were wrinkled again. The second recommendation came back for a uniform 36-hour schedule—what the shipbuilders were shooting for if they couldn't get 40. Their grief is gone.

Notes

The new treaty with Cuba is mildly taking shape . . . It will eliminate the Platt Amendment . . . Some Senate opposition to this feature is evident . . . "Brother Charles" Bryan stands to win as Senator from Nebraska . . . Republican insiders are fearful of losing in Ohio, Missouri, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Indiana and Connecticut . . . Several Governors are asking Congress to cut out some of the provisions of Attorney General Cummings' crime bills . . . They say these encroach upon state police powers.

NEW YORK

Straws

Recent straws in the Securities Act have cheer inside Wall Street tremendously.

The recommendation of the Advisory Council for the Federal Reserve Board that the Act be modified was very significant. It's true that the Council is composed of conservatives who would naturally lean that way but it's likewise true that their report would never have seen the light of day without an O. K. from high administration sources. Governor Black isn't issuing casual statements these days.

Whitney

Richard Whitney's efforts to defend his flock from the Fletcher-Fayburn bill have not been appreciated by the said flock as you might think. There is a widespread impression among brokers that Whitney has once more rubbed the Congressional fur the wrong way and that because of his intervention regulation is likely to be more stringent rather than less.

Whirligig

Undercover men concede that Levine may be able to stir up something but they're fairly confident he won't get enough recruits to crowd any pedestrians off Pennsylvania Avenue upon arrival—if they get in.

Accused Of Killing

Formally charged with murder, John A. Cane, psychopathic war veteran, told Oklahoma City officers he would tell the "whole story" of killing his wife and three children at a picnic. (Associated Press Photo)

These Two Ring Warriors Fight Tonight For Heavyweight Title

TOMMY LOUGHRAN

PRIMO CARNERA

Tommy Loughran, the dancing ring master from Philadelphia, meets the giant Primo Carnera in a 15-round duel for the heavyweight championship of the world tonight at Miami, Florida.

Loughran, gaining increasing favor as a challenger, boxed brilliantly in his training workouts at Palm Beach, while Carnera developed his punches against undersized mediocre training partners.

SPORTS WORLD MOURNS DEATH OF JOHN M'GRAW

Here are three typical poses of John J. McGraw, for years manager of the New York Giants, whose death brought tributes from sports leaders throughout the nation. At left he is shown in a characteristic pose at the horse races in Havana, where he vacationed. But he was best remembered as the belligerent manager of the Giants (center), while the old-timers recall how he looked (right) when he joined the Giants 30 years ago. (Associated Press Photos)

CONTESTANTS—Primo Carnera of Italy vs. Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia for the heavyweight championship.

DISTANCE—15 rounds to a decision.

BATTLEGROUND—Miami Madison Square Garden stadium.

DIVISION OF PURSE—Carnera $7 1-2 per cent; Loughran 12 1-2 per cent.

TIME OF MAIN BOU—9 p. m. (Central Time).

REFEREE—Leo Shea.

JUDGES—Ray Latham, Colin McLochan.

Individual Must Lead Separate Spiritual Life To Aid In Growth Of Christianity, Says Rev. Yates

If the cause of Christianity is to grow, converts must lead a separate spiritual life from worldly things, Dr. G. L. Yates, revival leader, told his audience at the First Baptist church Wednesday evening.

Church

Nazi Primate Mueller has been set up as absolute Church Dictator. He can fire or transfer any pastor without appeal. The leaders of the opposition are either in jail or under control. The German church struggle isn't over by any means but it will be fought underground for a while.

Krupp

The 1933 balance sheet of the famous Krupp Armament works in Essen shows that Baron Krupp von Bohlen-Halbach made a shrewd investment when he financed the Nazis and helped Hitler to power. The Nazi policy of re-arming helped his business to such an extent that the number of workers employed increased from 45,000 to 60,000. At the same time the total amount of wages paid out decreased—thanks again to Nazi economic principles.

Segar

Gerhart Segar—former Democratic deputy in the Reichstag and Secretary-General of the German Peace Society—succeeded in escaping to France from the Oranienburg concentration camp where the Nazis had held him for ten months.

Annoyed

Berlin is much annoyed at Ambassador Luther's inability to impress our former Consul-General there—George S. Messersmith—on giving Congress a confidential report on German conditions. The Nazis figure that Messersmith's testimony has done their reputation irreparable harm.

Diamonds

The diamond market is exceptionally good at present. It held better through the depression than most high-grade bonds. Dealers say they hope the government doesn't find it out or maybe diamonds will be devalued next.

AGREEMENT REACHED

County commissioner's court reached an agreement with David Bailey and John Parrish for small tracts of right of way on Highway No. 1 west between the city limits and Wright addition.

Body of James B. Ford, 41, who has been engaged here in the installation of machinery at Cosden Refinery, was to be shipped Thursday at 11:45 p. m. for Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Ford succumbed here Wednesday morning after an illness of about one week. Peritonitis growing out of mesenteric thrombosis produced his death.

His wife arrived from California by plane only a short time before the end. Besides his wife he leaves one son and two daughters. Ford's parents reside in Philadelphia.

Ford To Be Buried In Philadelphia

The members of the Hyperion Club will meet, next Saturday as announced in the year book, but on Saturday week, March 10th, at the Settles Hotel for a Texas Independence Day program. Members of the Junior Hyperion Club will be guests of the senior organization.

Dr. Yates pointed out that "Abraham lived long and well and he died beloved," and drew the curtain on the last year of Lot's life. "No one had any doubt about Abraham when he died," declared the speaker, but the cause of Lot is far different. Abraham's descendants, he said, blast the cause of God; Lot's cursed it.

Carnera Leads As Favorite In Fistic War

Fifteen Round Bout Scheduled To Start At Nine Tonight

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—For no apparent reason other than to prove it can be done despite all obstacles, Primo Carnera fights Tommy Loughbridge tonight in defense of the world's heavyweight championship 15 rounds or less, wind and weather permitting.

The 255-pound Italian giant ruled a 3 to 1 favorite to beat the 185-pound American challenger and it was even money he would win by a knockout.

Doomed to financial failure from the outset by a combination of circumstances, the fight has been hit hard by several days of unruly weather. Rain damped the ardor, if any, of thousands who may have entertained an idea of purchasing tickets at a scale of $2 to $20.

Officials of Madison Square Garden of New York, promoting the fight, declared most of the 2,000 ringside seats at $20 each had been sold or reserved. Even so it was unlikely the net gate receipts would go far beyond the $50,000 mark. The attendance, cash and on the cuff, may not pass 25,000.

For a heavyweight title battle this would be the lowest "gate" in more than 30 years, contrasting sharply with the glamorous $400,000 fistic show that followed Tex Rickard's first invasion of this tropical resort in 1929.

Despite an extraordinary "build-up" for the popular and clever but light hitting Loughran's chances, insiders consider Carnera a sure thing to win, probably by a knockout inside six or eight rounds.

One of the things that reflects confidence in the outcome is the fact that plans already are pending to match Carnera with his motion picture rival Max Baer, for the big outdoor title fight of the year in New York.

Loughran's following is made up mostly of well wishers and patriots. The handsome Philadelphia, once holder of the world's lightweight title, has undoubtedly made a comeback. His record of several victories against stronger opponents as well as his training performances have been widely publicized in his favor. It may be that Tommy can contribute another startling upset to the string of surprises spread over the sporting premises during the past year but it's highly unlikely.

The title is about the only thing Carnera can save from the latest of his bizarre adventures. The grinning giant, already in bankruptcy, got some small change for knocking out Jack Sharkey for the championship last summer, defended the title against Paulino in Rome for charity and a medal, and now will be lucky to get training camp expenses for himself and the entourage here. Under the circumstances he might be glad to get rid of the heavyweight crown and go back to free lance work.

Tonight's fight is to go to an official decision by two judges and a referee, Leo Shea, all from Miami. The main bout is to begin about 9 p. m. (Big Spring time). It will be broadcast by a special hook-up with station WMCA, New York.

The basketball team of West Texas appears to be Lamesa's Golden Tornados, who repeated last week as champions of district No. 2 and who will enter the regional meet at Canyon this weekend as a heavy favorite in the following week in the state championship tournament. Lamesa was in the state tournament last year and in Britt, a forward who is back this year, landed a player on the all-state team. In capturing the district meet at Lubbock Lamesa had to win four games, and the team piled up 240 points or an average of 60 per game to retain the title. Exactly 100 of these points, however, were scored in a single game, the Tornado swooping down on Otton to win by a score of 100 to 26.

Chicago Has Improved Club To Put In Race

Manager Lew Fonseca Pulls Deals To Put White Sox On Top

By HANK HART

Looking nothing like he did several years ago when they fought for their position in the second division, the Chicago White Sox will take the field this year as one of the most improved teams in the major leagues. The purchasing department has not shown any act of selfishness, and Manager Lew Fonseca was allowed to dicker with whom he wished.

Lew realized he could not be of much use around first base this year and it would be rather handy to have an able substitute, so he put his lines out and sent his ivory hunters over the country. Meanwhile a big, jovial Italian, who plays ball for the sport and not for the pay checks, was cutting up in the Texas league. So Fonseca dickered with the Dallas Steers and secured the popular Zeke Bonura. When they purchased this Louisiana boy they got a colorful, good natured type of player who likes to play ball. While with the Steers Zeke led the league in home runs, first base fielding, and came within one point of being Ed Purdy for the bat leadership. Zeke was well liked in the minor league circuit, and the crowds followed him. He can attract the same kind of attention in the Windy City, and the Chisox could stand to be rushed at the gates by paying customers.

Faber Lost

Although losing a veteran in Red Faber, the White Sox pitching staff received a boost during the fights where no one is a real champion will be staged at Miami tonight. Tom Loughran, who has been knocking around in the ring for a long time and is just now getting his chance, will try to run away from the mastodon of the resin—Primo Carnera—meanwhile socking Primo while in full flight. No one has taken this fight seriously and if Loughran was, in some way, the victor, it would shock the sporting world something awful.

Backers of the Cosden Invitational Basketball tournament are to be staged here March 9 and 10, have mailed invitations to fifteen teams. They are: Christoval Bats, Rankin, Knights of Zocah, Col-Tex at Colorado, Andrews, Coleman, Alpine, Veribest, Water Valley, Stanton, Midland, Roby, Breckenridge Y.M.C.A., Bronte, and Roscoe.

Any other teams desirous of participating in the tourney are requested to get in touch with D. H. Reed at the High School or "Spike" Henninger at Cosden Refinery. A two dollar entrance fee must be paid by Tuesday March 6. Drawing will be held the same day at the high school at 4 p. m. Not more than one college player may be used on a team. However, any number of high school players may be used. First games will be played in the high school gymnasium Friday night.

The result of the heavyweight fight may be obtained tonight by calling the Herald at 728.

Indians Look For New Boys In Loop Race

Pitchers And Catchers Open Training Work-Out March 24

OKLAHOMA CITY, (UP)—The Oklahoma City Indians were looking for an experienced catcher and right-handed pitching strength today as they prepared for their second Texas league season.

Training begins March 24, when pitchers and catchers have been called to report. Other players come into camp April. Luther (Red) Harvel, outfield-manger, is expected to arrive about March 20 from his home in Cambria, Ill. He has been working out there for several weeks.

Going into their second year of stiff competition in the Class A circuit, the Indians from Owner John Holland on down were firmly convinced of the need for speed and high quality baseball if they are to finish high up in the standings. They were cellar holders last year.

Prospective Players

The prospective roster includes 22 players, divided as follows: two catchers, both rookies; eight pitchers, five of them southpaws; eight infielders; four outfielders. Contracts went out several weeks ago and were coming in with signatures at a steady pace.

"This is the smallest number of players on our reserve list in years, but after all I guess its quality and not quantity that counts," said James Humphries, secretary-business manager.

Bennie Tesmer, regular catcher for the Indians last year, was not among those invited to sign. A successor with experience is being sought. Those now on tap are Seldon Fant and Alex Coleman, who were with the club last year as reserves.

Tesmer, though a veteran with American association experience, apparently was not fast enough for the Texas League company into which he was thrown when the Indians deserted the old Western League a year ago this winter.

Though the Philadelphia Athletics are expected to supply the Indians' need for right-handed hurlers in return for Benton, Kennedy and Matuzak, stars of 1933, Humphries has signed a couple of youngsters who may stand up well. One is Casey Jones, Oklahoma City University, who has been a collegiate sensation both as a pitcher and hitter. He is 21, weighs 185 and is 6 feet one inch tall. Valle Leves, Marietta, Okla., is the other promising youth.

Youngsters Signed

Humphries also has signed George Dorman, 19, Wheeler, Texas southpaw because of the youngster's imposing Texas Oil Belt league record in semi-pro play. Dorman turned in 89 strikeouts in eight games and hit more than 400.

A seasoned infielder is in prospect, with Willie Windle at first, Willie Bancroft at second, George Binder at short, and Hugh Williamson or Ben Hassler at the hot corner.

Ground-keeper Sam Lapsley began work on the diamond two weeks ago and it is in good shape for the training season. The Indians' park is so spacious and the side-walls are so far out it is doubtful that even with the new uniforms "lively" ball that there will be any over-abundance of home runs hit here.

Okla. State Club may be the only Sooner State Club in the league. As February ends, the Tulsa Oil-park through sale of a long-term season tickets at $100 each, plus a loan from a civic-project finance corporation.

The franchise may go to Wichita Falls, a former member, as Tulsa's manager has vowed he will not conduct a season in the present Oil-park, which is seven miles out and was built as a rack track.
