EASTERN STAR WILL SPONSOR BIG CAKE CONTEST

EQUITY EXCHANGE TO PROVIDE THE BAKING PRIZES

SIMPLE RULES ARRANGED SO ALL LADIES OF COUNTY MAY ENTER

Spearman Equity Exchange, one of the very valuable grocery establishments of Spearman, will provide the prizes to be awarded in the second annual Reporter cooking school for a cake baking contest, the prizes and contest to be held the last day of the cooking school.

Surely the Equity Exchange is to be complimented on their loyalty in providing for this feature of the cooking school, which, on account of expense has been omitted from both the Pampa and Borger cooking schools.

The Spearman Eastern Star organization will sponsor the Spearman Equity and the Reporter in providing for the cake baking contest this year, and the membership of the organization will aid in every possible way to make the cake contest the most successful ever held in Spearman.

Eastern Star will receive the proceeds of the sale of cakes, and will be in charge of the sale and the method used. Last year the cakes were sold at the close of the school to the highest bidder. Probably this will be the method used this year, and the entire public are urged to attend and buy cakes at their own price.

RULES FOR CONTEST

Any citizen of the state of Texas is eligible to enter the cake baking contest. The only requirement for the contest is that Royal Banquet Flour, which is sold by Spearman Equity Exchange, and which will be used by Mrs. Thrift in preparing all her recipes, be used in cooking the contest cake. Can Buy Flour in Small Sack. In order that the rules of the contest will not work a hardship on the public, the Spearman Equity will arrange to sell Royal Banquet Flour in 6 pound sacks at a very modest price, thus those entering the contest can purchase a sack for a small sum, and not be obliged to buy one of the larger sizes of this truly splendid flour.

Royal Banquet a Prize Winner. Royal Banquet flour is a prize winner at several national contests, and will enable Hansford county cooks to do their very best in this cake baking contest.

Light Milling Co. Cooperating In Reporter School

Light's Milling Company, who operated last year in the cooking school by giving away several attendance prizes, will again cooperate in the school this year by giving several hundred pounds of light's best and Kansas Cream flour thru their local merchant, who handle this splendid flour. The announcement of their prizes are carried in Bryan and Son and the Suggery Grocery advertisements. Eight prizes will be given during the school. The Reporter management urges all who attend the school to take advantage of these attendance prizes. Be sure you get your stub of the attendance when you enter the school. Present this stub at Baggerly's and Van's and you will be registered for these two stores for the prizes. The contest will be handled the same as it was last year. 10 sacks of Light's Flour will be given away as attendance prizes during the cooking school.

BATTLE TO DEATH!

ALL-NIGHT FIGHT BETWEEN TWO JACK-RABBITS IS DESCRIBED

There was no two minutes of fighting and one and a half minutes rest, the way humans fight in the Coliseum, for two battlers out in the sand along the Canadian river a few nights ago. The two battlers in the sand fought probably all night, and at the end one was dead.

Stories coming to Borger indirectly from persons who saw the end of the fight are that two jackrabbits, one larger than the other, fought over an area of a hundred yards in diameter until the larger, badly torn, died, and the smaller, also badly torn, was scarcely able to leave the scene of the vicious bout.

Condition of the sand indicated that the animals fought many hours with determination that one should die. The loser passed out just as the first person arrived at the scene, and the victor hobbled slowly away.

Prospects Brighter For Midcontinent Oil Area

WILL LECTURE DURING REPORTER COOKING SCHOOL

'Bank Holiday' Has Had No Effect On Industry Generally

By Claude V. Barrow, Oil Editor, Daily Oklahoman. From every oil-producing state in the union came word Friday that the oil companies are doing business as usual and that prospects are brighter for a higher plane of business within the next 60 days.

Thus, it would seem that the "bank holiday" is not spreading to the major industries. Oil stocks joined in the upward trend of prices on the national exchanges.

Turning from that phase of the situation, the industry is found to be in a strong statistical position, and this is most important at this time, because statistics are the yardstick by which this industry is controlled.

Production Is Stable. stitute reported daily average production for the week ended February 25 as 2,291,600 barrels. The American Petroleum Institute compared with 2,082,650 barrels of the week before, and 2,082,150 barrels for the four weeks ended February 25. Daily average on Feb. 27, 1932, was 2,135,050 barrels, and on Feb. 28, 1931, the daily average was 2,100,900 barrels.

Peak production in 1931 was for the week ended August 22, when the total was 2,608,250 barrels; the low came during the week ended September 5, for 1,746,300 barrels. Peak for 1932 was 2,251,800 barrels for the week ended May 7, and the low was 2,104,000 barrels for the week ended July 2. The low for 1933 was 1,972,700 barrels for the week ended February 11, and the high was for February 25.

C. J. Todd, who is in charge of the Electrified Irrigation farm, will give a short lecture on insect control and gardening Thursday of the cooking school.

Mr. Todd, who is an honor graduate of A. and M. College, has made a special study on gardening and insect control, and prepared a master thesis on insect control while at the university. He has a notable collection of insects mounted which he will use in his lecture, and will no doubt give the local people a great deal of valuable information about their spring gardening.

Oklahoma City Will Use Scrip To Meet Payrolls

Scrip Bank Organized To Carry City Through Bank Holiday

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 4.—Oklahoma City's pay rolls for the week ending today will be paid in scrip because of the state bank holiday.

Organization of the Scrip situation is much stronger than statisticians of three major organizations had predicted for this period of the year.

Total motor fuel stocks on February 25 was 56,230,000 barrels for the United States; estimates on the bureau of mines basis puts the stocks at 57,340,000 barrels. This compares with the bureau of mines figures of 60,189,000 barrels on February 1, last year.

Daily average crude runs to stills for the week ended February 23 were 2,120,000 barrels compared with 2,072,000 barrels of the week before and 2,201,000 barrels daily average for February last year.

TO ACT QUICKLY

CONGRESS TO HAVE EXTRA SESSION TO MEET CRISIS

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt and the "new deal" in government came to their high responsibilities today as he stepped forward to shoulder the burdens of the presidency.

In a momentous inaugural address, immediately after taking the oath of office today, the 33rd president told the nation he would ask for war-time powers, if necessary, to meet the national emergency.

Extra Session. He said he would call Congress into a special session to carry out his planned attack on the crisis, saying "we must act and act quickly," but he did not reveal when the session would be called.

He said, "There must be strict supervision of all banking, credits and investments; there must be an end to speculation with other people's money; there must be provision for adequate but sound money."

Garner Talk Short

First pausing for a few brief words of prayer and meditation, at a brief church service, the new leader rode cavalry-escorted along Pennsylvania avenue, where precedent decreed he should take the formal pledge of his obligation, President Hoover, weary after months of trial in the White House, rode beside his successor, bidding farewell to the honors and duties of his office.

Preceding Roosevelt, John Nance Garner took the oath of office as vice president at one minute past 12 o'clock. He assumed his duties in one of the briefest of inaugural addresses, delivered extemporaneously. Upon conclusion, the assembled company began a slow, ceremonious transfer to the plaza stand where Roosevelt took the oath at six minutes past 1 o'clock.

National Legion Chief To Speak at Amarillo

Great Meeting, With Cadets and Drum Corps to Welcome Him in Amarillo Plan for March 17.

Special to Reporter: Indianapolis, Ind., March 6.—One of the most important and largest meetings on the itinerary of Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, is scheduled for Amarillo, Texas, March 17, it was announced at national headquarters here today, following the definite acceptance by the national commander of the invitation to speak in Amarillo that night.

Correspondence with Texas Legion officials shows that Legionnaires will attend the meeting from Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, as well as from a large section of Texas adjacent to Amarillo.

Publicity regarding the meeting is being sent into the other states as well as to Texas cities. Tentative arrangements are for the National Commander to arrive in Amarillo possibly by airplane which he uses extensively in his travels. It also is the plan for him to be met on his arrival by the Amarillo School Cadet Corps and two drum and bugle corps. The arrival will probably be in the forenoon.

The Commander will attend as guest of honor and address a large meeting at the Municipal Auditorium where his speech will be broadcast by radio station W DAG, between 8:30 and 9 p. m. with the possibility that the entire evening's program will go on the air, if it is possible to obtain the time.

As an illustration of the treat the Legion fighting men of Texas have in store for them is the following editorial in part, taken from the Bangor (Maine) Daily Commercial of February 17, following the National Commander's visit and address in that city:

"Very refreshing it is to an address breathing such whole-souled Americanism as did that of National Commander Louis A. Johnson of the American Legion, delivered last evening in this city. There were found no weasel words, no paltering or faltering, but a downright, forthwith demand for the active enlistment of all good citizens to combat radical and anarchistic propaganda and the promise that a million men of the Legion will continue that fight as they have been doing, to their everlasting credit.

"Congressional strokes at the strength of the army and the navy in the name of economy, find no encouragement from commander Johnson, but quite the contrary; they find a two-fisted fighter who believes that the United States should be armed for defense and armed in accordance with its importance among the nations of the world.

"The Commander pointed out in words freighted with power, how dangerous to the future safety of the nation, is the policy that attempts to save a few dollars by crippling the military and naval strength already far inferior to our needs, but which the false economists and the pacifists would further weaken.

"The nation went to the uttermost limits of proper economy in its National Defense act, which provided but a skeleton army, to be strengthened in time of need by volunteer soldiery, that has received some training. But that was not enough for those who are willing to leave the nation defenseless. There has been cut after cut in defense appropriations with a present effort at another slash in the Britton five per cent reduction measure, which would occasion the taking out of commission of a score and a half of naval vessels, cut the personnel of navy and army and strike a grievous blow at our military efficiency.

"The American Legion is not a militaristic body, none know the horrors of war more intimately than the Legionnaires, but they are aware that armed conflict has not been banished from the world, and realize that the nation prepared for war is far less likely to be forced into international conflict than the nation that is inadequately equipped.

"Commander Johnson also handles without gloves the disease of communism and anarchy, whose disciples are preaching the overthrow of government, by insidious propaganda, if possible, by force if propaganda fails. At its Portland convention the Legion adopted a resolution asking Congress to appropriate funds and to authorize the Department of Justice to investigate and combat radical and anarchistic propaganda, and that is needed. The nation too long has suffered from gnawings from within from those diseased minds that would substitute violence for law."

BUDGETS

(By Flodell Batton)

A budget is the detailed plan of the use of resources, and the word is generally used to mean money resources only. Such a plan involves a knowledge of the resources, of the needs of the family, and an adjustment between the income and the out go. A thoughtful plan or budget helps greatly in the realization of one's hopes. It serves much the same purpose and securing good use of the income that the blueprint does in securing a satisfactory building.

The first steps in making a budget or plan of dividing the income is a consideration of past expenditures. The budget should be begun at least several weeks before it goes into effect. The first session must have a good, long, free evening given to it. Details must be discussed and the general outline made. The general outline frequently advised is food, clothing, shelter, operating expenses, and higher life. Personal expenses and miscellaneous may be added if the persons think necessary. The amount of money for these groups of expenditures and their relation in proportion of the income as a whole will show very wide variations with the income, size of the family and other circumstances, but every household will have expenses which will be changeable to each of these general groups. These constitute logical points for consideration in keeping accounts and making the budget.

The income whether in money or in labor belongs equally to both husband and wife or in trust for the family. The wife has just as much "right" to the money income as has the husband—and no more. Therefore marriage is a partnership in the interests of the whole family group, and the husband, wife, and children or apprentices should help in making the family budget. Each member of the family should work for the interest of the family and to make the most and best uses of the family income.

There are many reasons for making a budget. The chief among these are these. The necessities will be provided because considered first. Purchases will be made more wisely, since having been planned for, advantages can be taken of seasonal reductions and time may be allowed for finding the right article.

Purchases will fit together because planned together; Leaks will be uncovered and may be stopped; The standard of living will improve because the family life will be considered as a whole. If there are extravagances they will be dropped and real values will take their place of careless choice; More money will be saved because saved regularly and by definite plan;

Saving, planning for all necessities, choice of most worth-while luxuries; wise marketing, harmony in results, discovery of leaks, improvement of standards, recognition of real values may, any or all of them, result from the use of a carefully made budget. A well rounded life should include expenditure for necessities, saving, giving, spiritual growth, education, health, play, culture and social life. The family or individual which ignores any one of these must inevitably lose some of the abundance which life should hold in store for all. When we unnecessarily spend all for food, clothing or shelter, and ignore the demands of higher life or development, the budget is very unbalanced.

Few people know exactly what their standards of living are. Challenged by the question and given time to formulate them, most men and women would be able to express their standards vaguely. One reason for the difficulty which many families have in making ends meet is the fact that they have never made definite choices, but have drifted from one expenditure to another, suddenly finding themselves without money to purchase what seems to them absolute necessities, and obliged to go into debt to satisfy their needs. Making a spending plan involves a conscious choice between expenditures and should disclose to the family its failure or success in estimating values.

Mrs. Ihrig will use a Westinghouse ELECTRIC RANGE In Her Demonstration Tomorrow

See for Yourself how easy it is to cook Electrically

The happiest of "Happy Kitchens" are those equipped with electric ranges.

Electric cookery is cool, clean, fast, and automatic. There is no soot, dirt or excessive heat to make your cooking duties disagreeable. You don't have to spend all of your time in the kitchen either. Merely put the meal in the oven, set controls and leave until dinner-time. The electric oven turns itself on, cooks the food to perfection, then turns itself off. When you get home your dinner is piping hot, ready to serve.

See Mrs. Ihrig demonstrate the many advantages of electric cookery at the Reporter cooking school. An actual eye picture will tell you more than a thousand words.

Borger Celebrates Starterator On the New Chevrolets

Information coming to us from E. C. Carver, president of the Borger Chamber of Commerce, states that Borger will celebrate her seventh Birthday Wednesday in a big way, beginning at 11 a. m. Monday and continuing into the night.

A special program committee has scheduled a program of varied entertainment made up for the day. Several talented speakers will give addresses during the afternoon the feature address to be at 3 p. m. Then aside from the speaking there will be a mammoth parade at 1 p. m. headed by the Chamber of Commerce band. Various old-time contests such as greased pig chase, potato race, fat man's race and others will be held with appropriate prizes given to the winners. Everyone visiting Borger on that day are asked to register at the Chamber of Commerce offices where additional courtesies will be extended. An old fashioned street dance will be the feature of the evening's entertainment with other dances in the halls and shows at the theatres.

New to the automobile industry on the 1933 cars is the mechanism which makes possible starting the motor and accelerating it with only one pedal operation. This device is known as the "Starterator" on the 1933 Chevrolet, the first car in the industry to introduce it. The new development has a particular appeal for the feminine driver because it eliminates one more manual control to bother with; and it adds measurably to the safe operation of the car because if the engine should stall in traffic it may be restarted by simply depressing the accelerator without removing the foot from the pedal, the hands from the steering wheel or the eyes from the road ahead.

The Starterator linkage is so designed that when you press down on the pedal, the starting motor circuit is closed. The instant the engine fires, a vacuum is produced in the intake manifold. This vacuum operates a diaphragm mechanism, and thereafter operates as an accelerator only. The device is one more step toward the goal of creating a nearly automatic car as possible, Chevrolet engineers point out.

FARM AND FACTORY

There is a rapidly growing belief among farmers that the ultimate solution of our agricultural problems is going to come from a much more direct relationship between agriculture and industry than exists at present. For many years industrialists and scientists have been pointing out the necessity for a closer tie-up between farm and factory. Mr. Henry Ford has for years been preaching and putting into practice his idea that, instead of concentrating production in great industrial centers, big industries should have numerous small factories producing some part of the finished product so located that industrial workers could also be agriculturists, having their own land to fall back on for subsistence whenever industry was slack. This has always seemed to us like a sound solution of the problem of the industrial worker, but it does not go far toward solving the major problems of the farmer.

The utilization of farm wastes and surpluses for industrial pro-

One of the most important of all chemical substances is alcohol. Alcohol is easily and cheaply produced from a wide variety of agricultural products. In Iowa and Nebraska a beginning has been made in the production of industrial alcohol from corn, and experiments with a mixture of alcohol and gasoline for motor fuel have been fairly successful. In California the grape growers are beginning a similar experiment, producing alcohol from grapes which are unfit for shipment.

We think these are steps in the right direction. We are told that scientists and technologists are ready to show the agricultural and industrial world how to utilize everything that can be grown on the farm for industrial purposes. It is not difficult to imagine a coming era in which hundreds of thousands of small industrial establishments will be scattered throughout the agricultural regions, providing as many new outlets for the farmers' by-products and surpluses, and so stabilizing agriculture on a sounder basis than it has ever been.

As a general thing, there are just about as many hitch-hikers when you are going as when you are coming back.

ON THE WATER

Dere Miss Clariece:

You surely have a splendid basketball team, and I want to congratulate you and your team for winning the County Championship for the second successive year. However, I had fully planned to drink my buttermilk regularly out of the Championship cup for a year, and now that I can't do this I have decided to go on the water wagon. I hope you use Maxwell House, that is good to the last drop, as you mix your coffee in the Championship cup, and I even hope you will drink the last drop, cause I am warning you that this is the last year that the championship cup will be used for coffee.

CHINCHOW, March 4. (AP)—Japanese troops occupied Jeholo City, capital and last Chinese stronghold province of Jeholo, and immediately turned to the task of seizing passes along the north wall of China today. The Japanese entered the city officially at 11:30 a. m. after a battle with 3,000 Chinese forces outside the city. Many cannons and other armament and horses were captured from the defeated Chinese.

The Japanese asserted that in Jeholo city Chinese troops had murdered and that the capital was in the hands of General Tang Yu-Lin, Chinese Governor of Jeholo and director of its vast opium trade, is missing. Chang Tso-Hsiang and Wan Fu-Lin, who were sent to Jeholo to take charge of the defense by Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang, the principal war lord of North China, have defied orders and departed suddenly for Peiping, the Japanese reported.

A New Deal

All America and the world at large are waiting to see what this may bring and what our new President will accomplish. We are expecting some momentous changes for the better.

Yet in our enthusiasm let us not forget the importance of common things pertaining to our everyday life. Good Cooking embraces new methods, new combinations of ingredients, and the cutting down of household expenses will go a long way toward making anyone's "deal" better. And after our "new Deal" has become old, a "New Dish" will still be popular.

NOW, as always in the past we stand for any and all progressive community movement. We take this occasion to place our endorsement upon the Reporter Cooking School to be held at the Lyric Theatre in Spearman, March 7th to 10th, inclusive.

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) Fifty percent guarantee of bank deposits was said today by a high republican administration Senator to have been seriously discussed by Hoover and Roosevelt to aid the emergency economic situation.

CENSUS TAKEN IN TWO CASES

One census is being taken in the city by the school system. Another is being taken by the city under a recent decision of the city commission. There is no connection between the two. B. C. Shulkey, superintendent of schools, emphasized today.

The city's census, to determine population, length and place of residence, and whether poll tax payment has been made, is being taken by special order of the commission.

The school census is taken annually to determine the population of school age in the Borger independent district. It is on this census that state apportionment of money is made to the district.

T. C. McLaughlin and O. C. Thomas are taking the school census. They have reported some refusals to make reports to them because of confusion of their work with the census being taken by the city.

Inaugural Day Program Heard In City School

Borger high school observed inauguration day yesterday with an assembly at which there were talks by a representative of each class and music by the school orchestra, directed by W. B. Strain.

B. C. Shulkey, superintendent of schools, presided. In opening the assembly program he said it was typical of educational programs being given continually in the schools.

The "downtown" speaker was Joseph H. Aynesworth, who was given liberty by Shulkey to commend or criticize the program. Judge Aynesworth, in a talk lasting only a few minutes, commended and said such programs were the other talks were by Frank Selfridge, president of the senior class, on "Value of Extra-curricular Activities"; "High Points in Lives of Roosevelt and Garner," by Dorothy Reams of the freshman class; "Sportsmanship," by Roland Bialock, a sophomore; and "Citizenship," by A. GREAT POWERS PROVIDED FOR MR. ROOSEVELT the dying lame duck Congress swung through its last full day of life to a requiem of confusion—mostly in the senate yesterday.

(From Borger Daily Herald) WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) Amid a rackety hubbub and beneath intently-peering galleries,

Out of the welter, however, it voted Franklin D. Roosevelt broad powers to cut government expenses on his own initiative and at the end of the day had completed action on nine of the 11 annual money bills estimated to save $700,000,000 in the next fiscal year. The supply bills sent to the White House call for an outlay of $2,890,367,000 for operation of departments, in addition to $1,259,070,000 for the public debt. President Hoover has signed five of the nine measures he has received.

A final attack was launched on the government departments by Senator Borah (R., Idaho) in the Senate in a denunciation of their resistance to efforts of Congress to reduce cost.

ARE YOU ENVELOPED IN THE POLITICAL SMOKE SCREEN?

An aroused public in the State of Texas, who have joyfully and encouraged every governmental unit from city to Federal, program of expansion that has brought out per capita cost for government to staggering figures, are now bombarding state and local legislatures with organized propaganda for reduced governmental cost. Politicians, with trained ears turned earthward, hearing the mighty rumbling of discontent, have thrown up an all enveloping smoke screen to obscure facts from the vision of the public. Appear without giving much thought to the economic set-up of the state and studying the incoming and outgoing streams of state revenue. Brilliant minds all over the state have become engrossed in maintaining their own sectional institutions, and rather than budge on their selfish programs, would sacrifice state wide economies to their selfish points. This is exactly what was planned by the politicians when they threw out the smoke screen. For example, some of the legislators in West Texas are so intent on maintaining the two institutions of higher learning at Canyon and Lubbock, that we feel in predicting they would barter state wide economies for the privilege of carrying out their own ideas. By this we do not mean there is any logical or justifiable excuse to lower the standard of higher education at our two west Texas institutions. Far from it. In fact these brilliant minds are quite logical in their argument, and we endorse their ideas. The thing that is humorous in the whole situation, is the fact that the economies relative to combinations in state institutions of higher learning, abandonment of several state colleges and universities, and all the drastic measures recommended by the economy committee would result in such small percentage of reduction in taxation, that it would hardly be felt by individuals of the state. Did you know, you state leaders who are moving heaven and earth in your propaganda to influence the legislature in keeping in your pet University or your pet college, did you know that if all the institutions of higher learning in the state of Texas were abolished, it would not cost a penny appropriated for their administration, building, or maintenance, that the saving to the tax payer of the State of Texas would be barely nine percent of their state taxes? Can't you realize that you are just playing into the hands of politicians when you rave about this economy and that economy. You are just working yourselves into a frame of mind where you can be traded with in order that the revenue may be gained. It stands to reason that all the economies recommended by the Congressional committee, relative to the institutions of higher learning would not cut down the administration cost of these units more than thirty per cent. If this is followed out to the dot it would effect a saving to tax payers less than 3 per cent of their present tax. Of course if it is practical, and the sacrifice is not too great a saving of three per cent should be effected. But for goodness sakes, let's not center the public mind on such a miniature saving—in other words let's get out of the political smoke screen.

HOW ABOUT REDUCING SALARIES

Again, we the dere pepul have raised a mighty howl about salary reductions. Our state legislature refused to reduce their own salaries, and candidly we do not blame them. It's too much to expect. If they are worth anything at all they are worth $10.00 per day, but the trouble is that this small pay does not attract the most competent brains of our state. But let us see what has been accomplished by our growls and howls for lowered salaries. To date the House has passed a bill lowering the salaries of Texas Rangers (all 35 of them), and a bill providing for a reduction of 25 per cent in Judges and district attorneys (all about 200 of them).

That, to date, so far as this writer can learn, is all that has been done toward our demand for salary reductions.

But, Mr. Taxpayer, did you know that if every Ranger, District Judge, State official of every kind, in fact if all state costs were eliminated, including judiciary, law enforcement, legislature and executive, the saving to the taxpayers would be less than ten per cent.

THAT'S THE SMOKE SCREEN

We, the dere pepul have concentrated all our energy and all our propaganda toward effecting economies in two departments of our state government which only account for about 18 per cent of our state expenditures. Both of these departments are essential. Neither can be abolished. It is logical to effect some economies here, but we will not get real TAX RELIEF from these two departments of government.

JUST WHERE DOES OUR STATE REVENUE GO?

Forty-one per cent of all state expenditures are for highways, thirty per cent for public free schools, and slightly less than ten per cent for colleges and universities. These three items plus confederate pensions, care and education of the blind and deaf and other wards of the state account for ninety one per cent of all state expenditures. The other nine per cent is spent for administration, judiciary, law enforcement, legislature and executive departments of the state government.

Face the issue squarely. These figures come from the comptroller of state and are correct. Thru our state government we collect over twenty eight million dollars annually from our gas tax and spend approximately forty million on our highways. That's what we did last year, and remember that the Federal government matched our state with expenditures that came from our pockets in the form of federal taxes—in fact bear in mind that we are now paying a Federal gasoline tax. Add to this the fact that a big slice of our county taxes are liquidated bonded indebtedness incurred to build highways, and consider that in many counties a road tax is levied to maintain lateral roads thru-out the county, and you have the picture of the cost of GOOD ROADS. Get this in your mind and figure out whether the good roads are worth the price. You are the judge.

Then get a picture of our public schools. The state of Texas collected a little more than twenty four million dollars in ad valorem taxes last year. A larger portion of this went toward maintaining our free public schools, but the free public schools cost us just shy of thirty million dollars. The state added a cigarette tax and other taxes in order that the school funds would provide $17.50 per capita for scholastic during 1931, yet sustained considerable deficit. Bear in mind that this thirty per cent cost of state expenditures accounts for the per capita allotment for scholastics, and does not account for the local school taxes that are collected to complete the operative costs of schools and cost of construction and maintenance.

of our taxes go for roads and free public schools. The writer does not necessarily indicate that they are not worth the money paid. It does seem though, that where the bulk of the money is spent, some satisfactory percentage of economy could be effected. Good roads are essential, public education is an inherited obligation of every generation. Both must continue, but the entire economic set-up of the farmer, the merchant, the builder and oil operators in Texas have been cut in half the past two years—the costs have been trimmed in proportion, while our schools and roads have increased from year to year.

The big point in this awkward expression of ideas is this: We are trying to effect economies in government to cause relief to a tax burdened people.

Simple arithmetic would show us that a curtailment of 15 per cent of our road program and 10 per cent of our public school program would effect about 22 per cent saving of our state and county tax bill. Our total income for state revenue last year was ninety six million dollars. We spent 70,000,000 of this money on roads and free public schools. Cut the road expenditures 15 per cent and we save tax payers six million one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Cut the public free school program 10 per cent and we save the tax payers over three million dollars, a saving of nearly ten million dollars, and mind you it didn't cost quite that much to operate our entire system of higher education.

In summarizing, we wish to bring to your attention the fact that our present state legislature is not seeking to effect any drastic saving, but are planning to plaster us with a sales tax to increase the revenue of the state so the roads and the public free schools, and other departments of state can go blistfully along their way spending maybe a hundred million dollars next year. The matter logically comes back to the tax payer. Are you willing to sacrifice some of the good roads, some of the features of free public school, some of the features of higher education and some of the features of the judiciary, executive law enforcement and other source expenditures of the state government. If you are, then let your legislature know. If you are not, then pay and pay and pay and keep quiet.

Last year the state of Texas spent ninety six million dollars of tax money and ended with deficits in many departments. If the state cannot operate in times like these where all other human endeavors are operated at a large per centage of reduction in cost, at the same schedule of expenditures of last year, then the legislature ought to give Texas back to the Mexicans.

OBITUARY

Ann Eliza Bostick was born September 1, 1840 in Boone Co., Kentucky. She passed away February 17, 1933, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Gilliam, in Ochiltree County, Texas. Her age was 92 years, 5 months and 17 days.

She, with her parents, moved to Panola County, Texas in 1840, was married August 15, 1866 to Harvey P. Forbes, who preceded her in death in 1917.

To this union seven children were born, Mrs. S. J. Black of Aztec, New Mexico, Mrs. M. J. Powell of Oklahoma City, Mrs. Frew Cawthon of Amarillo, Mrs. Alice Gilliam, C. E. W. H. and J. F. Forbes of Ochiltree County.

The family came from Stone-wall to Ochiltree County in 1901.

At a brush arbor camp meeting in 1877 she professed religion and united with the Cumberland Presbyterian church and remained a loyal christian until her death.

Besides her seven children she is survived by 25 grandchildren, thirty nine grand children and a host of friends and acquaintances.

Even though 56 years have passed since the Lord spoke peace to her soul her conversion was just as real as it was that day.

Death claiming her companion several years ago, being one of the greatest valleys through which one must pass, even this, with many other trials never could separate her from the love of God through Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Even though her last few years were mostly spent in a chair her mind was ever on the Lord and his promise is to keep in perfect peace all whose minds are stayed on Him.

A divine love in her heart for all people, always greeting friends and loved ones with a holy kiss. Another commendment of our was kept as she prayed without ceasing.

She sang "Amazing Grace" a few hours before she passed away, and requested her grand daughter to sing "Nothing But the Blood of Jesus" if she passed away.

Her testimony was given to Mrs. W. A. Schubert, a neighbor and afterward repeated to her daughter, Mrs. Gilliam. This we find in God's holy word, 2nd Timothy, 4:6-8. For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand.

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course. I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord the righteous judge shall give me at that day and not to me only but unto them all that love his appearing.

So being a faithful mother in bringing her children up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and ever letting her light shine before men today all are glad to see her good works and glorifying our Father which is in Heaven and the scripture found in Revelation 14:14 is fulfilled: Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth. Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours and their works do follow them.

The funeral services were conducted by Sister E. A. Greever and Bro. I. N. Traylor. The pallbearers were: W. A. Schubert, J. A. Bruce, E. A. Greever, R. A. Fuller, D. B. Pearson and Bob Wilson.

Texas Week Is Set Apart

The legislature in its recent September session adopted a resolution setting apart Texas Week. Since Texas Week is the calendar week in which March 2 comes, is on Thursday this year, therefore Texas Week begins Sunday, February 26, and ends Saturday, March 4.

Texas Week offers to our people so many opportunities for making better citizens that everyone in this great commonwealth will do well to observe this occasion. The proper observance of Texas Week this year, and again in 1934, 1935 and 1936 will certainly help us to make the Texas Centennial Exposition what it deserves to be. There are many ways by which Texas week can be observed. What a Texan can do has been well set forth in the following essay written by Lowell Crozier:

The Spirit of Texas

No country in all the world can boast of more illustrious founders, or more honest purpose, of nobler aims, and neither can there be found more daring patriotism than that which made Texas free. Mighty Rome pursued her war against the barbarians; English Puritans took up the sword with righteous fervor; and the Greeks laid down their best manhood at Thermopylae—but these seem insignificant when compared with that supreme sacrifice paid at the old Alamo.

Indeed Texas has found her glory on the battlefield. But the history of Texas is not told by the battle of Goliad, the fall of the Alamo, nor even General Houston's victory on the plains of San Jacinto. The separation from Mexico was not won by the sword alone; the foundations for a new State were laid when the first settlers put foot on Texas soil. Those pioneers thought adventurous and daring, set out to establish a new civilization upon the foundations of homes, religion, and free public schools.

On these foundations our fathers and mothers transformed a barren wilderness into a land of plenty. In the place of savage wigwams they built homes, schools, and churches. They have given us the heritage of a vast empire extending from Louisiana on the east across the sandy plains one thousand miles to the west; from the Gulf on the south to the panhandle on the north; a land with more inherent wealth than any spot on the globe. These constitute our heritage.

That pioneer spirit which conquered the wilderness west of the Sabine—that undying loyalty of the Alamo—that fervent patriotism which inspired our troops to victory at San Jacinto—these will lead the battles of the Texas of tomorrow. This yields more power than all the armies of Mexico, and will win for us greater victories than any ever won on the field of battle. It will build great cities and make our rivers, streams of commerce and power.

This same spirit will take up the tools of mechanics and erect schools and universities. It will harness the latent powers of our land, develop industry and build factories, and insure for us all the economic security that our natural resources command.

In our enthusiasm for industrial advancement may we not forget those ideals which lie at the very root of our civilization. The past has left us incomparable material blessings but far greater is our heritage of mind and heart. We might become a people of pomp and power but without the strongholds of home and religion our efforts for progress would be more than mere mockery. The ideals that build civilization are never earned in the workshop of labor, nor are they won through the blood shed of battle. These ideals, now, as always, are taught at a mother's knee. Therefore, the social welfare, the sag of idealism and the perpetuation of that deeper spirit must be borne by the womanhood of our state.

Let us immortalize that pioneer spirit which has characterized our romantic history under six flags by including it in tomorrow's dream. With hearts inspired with memories of the past—with minds enthused with hope for the future let us write for the Texas of tomorrow, the legend of a Greater State.—Lowell Crozier.

International Sunday School Lesson By DR. J. S. NUNN

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 12

And the apostles gathered together unto Jesus; and showed him all things, whatsoever they had done, and whatsoever they had taught.

31. And he saith unto them, Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a while. For there were many coming and going, and they had no leisure so much as to eat.

32. And they went away in the boat to a desert place apart.

33. And the people saw them going, and many knew them, and they ran together there on foot from all the cities, and outwent them.

34. And he came forth and saw a great multitude, and he had compassion on them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd: and he began to teach them many things.

35. And when the day now was far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, The place is desert, and the day is now far spent;

36. Send them away that they may go into the country and villages round about, and buy themselves somewhat to eat.

37. But he answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred shillings' worth of bread, and give them to eat?

38. And he saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, five, and two fishes.

39. And he commanded them that all should sit down by companies upon the green grass.

40. And they sat down in ranks by hundred and by fifties.

41. And he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake the loaves; and he gave to the disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all.

42. And they all ate, and were filled.

43. And they took up broken pieces, twelve basketfuls, and also of the fishes.

44. And they that ate the loaves were five thousand men.

Golden Text.—The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.—Matt. 20:28.

Time.—The death of John the Baptist, March A. D. 29. The feeding of the five thousand, April A. D. 29.

Place.—The feeding of the five thousand near Bethsaida, on the northeast shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Introduction
After his second rejection at Nazareth and the agitation over the death of John the Baptist, Jesus was desirous of conferring with the Twelve over what they had done and taught on their first independent tour of evangelism in southern Galilee. He therefore called with them from Capernaum across the Sea of Galilee to an unshaded spot on the northeast shore. But crowds followed him around the northern end of the Sea of Galilee, and he landed on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee.

from a difficult position when we may be sure they had been pressed constantly by throngs of inquirers after truth as well as by those in search of healing, and they were weary in body and mind. "For there were many coming and going," John 6:4 tells us that the Jews' great feast, the passover, was at hand, and all roads would be full of pilgrims going up to Jerusalem as commanded by the law. "And they had no leisure so much as to eat." Their only chance for rest was to go where there were no people. "And they went away in the boat to a desert place apart." v. 32

The Multitude Followed Jesus
The disciples crossed the lake in a northeasterly direction from Capernaum, to Bethsaida-Julias (Luke 9:10) at the northeast corner of the lake, near where the Jordan entered it. This Bethsaida was a village which Herod Philip had rebuilt and enlarged not long before this, naming it Julia after Julia, daughter of the Emperor Augustus. South of it is the narrow green plain of Butaiha, the scene of the miracle now to be described. To that place the multitude ran, around the north end of the lake.

"Give Ye Them to Eat." v. 37
Jesus is unwilling to send the people away with their wants unsatisfied. But before he draws on his own boundless stores, he makes his disciples reckon up what they can do. "And he saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see." The Eastern loaf is a flat cake, much smaller than our loaf. "And when they knew, they say, five and two fishes." It was Andrew, the discoverer among the apostles, who found a lad with five fishes used as a relish for the bread. It was doubtless the lad's luncheon, put up by his careful mother, and all he had to eat, but he gave it gladly, at the Master's call. "Some of us may be like the lad with five barley loaves, we may possess few things, very little money, or influence or talent. Let us not despise what we have, but use it in God's service."

Jesus Multiplies The Lad's Food Supply. v. 41
"And he took the five loaves and the two fishes." Our little possessions and talents is never multiplied until it is really surrendered and is taken up into Christ's hands. "And looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake the loaves." It was the common custom among the Jews for the rather than to ask God's blessing on each meal, and Christ took the place of father to all that multitude. But though this was a common custom, there was something distinctive in Christ's manner of observing it, for he was recognized after his resurrection, by the two disciples at Emmaus through the way he asked the blessing at the meal, Luke 24:30-31. This custom should never be omitted in a Christian household.

Jesus Teaches Economy
"And they took up broken pieces, twelve basketfuls, and also of the fishes." This was in obedience to Christ's command "Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.—John 6:12. He could easily repeat the miracle, but he would teach a lesson in the divine economy. There is no waste in nature. The law of conservation runs through the universe, and he would have it embedded in the souls of his followers. We are not to be prodigals of time or strength or money or any other good thing.

Aid in a Sore Emergency vs. 45-52
So tremendous was the impression made by this great miracle upon the people that they were for taking Christ by force and proclaiming him a king (John 6:14, 15) What army could withstand his army, which he could feed at a word? But Christ, the Prince of Peace, at once dismissed the crowd, bidding his disciples get into their boat and go back across the lake, while he himself slipped away among the hills and spent the night in prayer. But one of the sudden storms so common on the Sea of Galilee came up and with all their toiling at the oars against the wind the disciples had gone only halfway back by six o'clock the next morning. Our Lord, from his mountain retreat, knew their peril and went to them, walking on the water—one of the most surprising miracles. The disciples were affrighted as he approached, thinking that it was his ghost, but he hailed them with his characteristic greeting, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."

It was then that Peter made his bold attempt to walk to Jesus on the water, but his faith failed, as the waves rocked up and down and only Christ's outstretched hand prevented him from sinking. Then when Christ got into the boat, with Peter, the wind ceased. Hoover fished Monday off the coast of Florida but had no luck. Has the Atlantic gone Democratic, too?

Local Banks Won't Tolerate Foolishness

It looked for awhile Friday and Saturday that Spearman bank officials were going to miss their opportunity to go fishing during the holidays given them by the financial moratorium declared Thursday by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, when they refused to close the doors of the banks here. They had plenty of money, had spent their vacation, the gas bill was paid and everything was just "hunkadory" and they couldn't see anything in this foolishness of Ma's, so they just stayed open, but when President Roosevelt, the kingfish, said close early Monday morning they just closed up like the rest of the banks on Thursday.

Money for Retirement of Nation's Debt

A plan for retirement of the national debt, thereby saving an asserted billion dollars a year, by issuance of $20,000,000,000 in new money to redeem outstanding government bonds has been advanced by W. D. Ambrose of Fort Worth.

His statement follows: Our Government owes around $20,000,000,000 in Liberty and War bonds. These bonds are carrying around 3 1/4 to 4 1/4 per cent interest. This amounts to about $1,000,000,000 a year in interest alone, which is a terrific burden by itself. Also in paying this interest it makes these bonds a frozen loan, under present conditions, as no one will turn them loose because of the interest.

Now if the Government owes $20,000,000,000 whether in bonds or money, it makes no difference except the bonds are carrying interest, and therefore not in circulation to try and make some interest.

The solution is this: The Government to issue money, say over a period of four years in the amount of $5,000,000,000 a year and retire with this issue one-fifth of the outstanding bonds as a whole, from each and every one alike.

In four years we have this money, or (Liberty money) all back in circulation trying to make more. The Government has not increased its debt in any way and has saved the people $1,000,000,000,000 in taxes. It is imperative that we get this relief if the Government is to pull through.

Now to retire this over a period of 20 years a $1,000,000,000 a year as the taxes come in with this money. The money is destroyed and taken off the market, the same as the Federal notes are now. Now in saving this billion in taxes a year, we are also able to pay a billion that we save and with it paying the national debt off in 20 years.

We have not inflated any money. Government did not go another nickel into debt, stopped the rich from living off of government tax exempt securities and they are forced to put the money into trade channels to make interest on their money, and have given a two billion relief in taxes a year to this great country, and one of the greatest things and given the people who need it, some money to start back living again.

KANSAS CITY, March 7.—The Wichita Henry's, thrice winners of the National Basketball championship, hurdled the first barrier in the '33 meet last night by eliminating the White Cigars of Joliet, Ill., 28 to 14. The champions displayed a fine defense and did not extend themselves, evidently saving strength for the bitter battles to come.

GUARDED BANK OPENING PLAN OF TREASURY

AUTHORIZE ISSUANCE OF SCRIP AFTER FRIDAY

WASHINGTON, March 7. (AP)—The treasury today authorized guarded reopening of the nation's banks and issuance after Friday of clearing house certificates, or scrip, to be used in the place of money.

The scrip would be based on sound assets of a clearing house and similar associations, and be prorated among creditors or depositors.

A regulatory condition made it revocable if found inconsistent with a broader plan being considered, but so far undisclosed. Another banking regulation was expected in some quarters, which would permit depositors to withdraw one-third of their deposits.

ELECTRIC COOKERY IS BETTER COOKERY

Electrical Kitchens ARE Happy Kitchens

The woman with a completely electrified kitchen is a happy woman indeed. And why shouldn't she be? Her electric food-mixer takes the arm-ache out of dough-mixing, potato mashing and kindred duties. Her electric range cooks meals to perfection without smoke, soot, heat or even watching. Her electric percolator makes coffee in a jiffy without special attention. Her electric refrigerator makes it asy to serve crisp salads and frozen deserts. And when the dishes are cleared away after a meal her electric dishwasher makes short work of them.

There's no question about it. Electrical appliances cut down kitchen hours and provide more time for leisure. Are you taking full advantage of the ease and comfort that electricity can bring your home?

FALSE ECONOMY OF CHEAP FLOUR POINTED OUT

The homemaker who buys an inferior grade of flour for home use, with the thought of effecting a small economy in her budget, is finding that she is not only in the long run, not making a saving, but creates a dissatisfaction with her baking that is difficult to overcome. This is the testimony of countless women who have been trying just that.

It is impossible to make a good product unless good materials are used, and heavy bread, soggy biscuits and coarse cakes are the fate of the woman who does not use first class ingredients in her home baking. The ploy of it is that when cheap flour is used, the total cost of the product is actually higher than with a high grade flour, so that the mistaken homemaker loses all the way round.

For every pound of plain flour used costing, let us say, 2c the baking powder added to it will cost 3c. On a barrel of self rising flour costing perhaps $4.35, there will be a saving of $2.61 or 38 per cent of the cost of the same flour, for which baking powder must be bought. Of course, if the cheap-possible baking powder is used, it will cost less, but that is ill-advised economy because inferior baking powder does not contain the valuable calcium and phosphorus found in the pure monocalcium phosphate put into self-rising flour.

Many tests have been made to compare the total cost of all ingredients in baking pound cake, cup cakes, sponge, layer and angel food cakes, as well as pie crust using first a high grade of flour and then a low grade. In every instance, the cost of the baking was appreciably less when the high grade flour was used.

Still further saving may be made in home baking by the use of self rising flour, a high grade flour with the baking powder and salt already added in scientifically correct amounts and so thoroughly mixed with the flour that fewer eggs are necessary in order to obtain the same fine results. A standard recipe calling for four eggs can be used with only two eggs if self-rising flour is utilized.

But probably the greatest saving is in the use of self-rising flour.

vantage in the high grade of self-rising flour is the satisfaction that comes to the homemaker who uses it. No high quality baking product can come from the use of an inferior flour. One must have a flour in cake baking that will produce these qualities as that made with the finest, whitest particles of winter wheat from which the highest grade of self-rising flour is made.

Likewise, the color of high grade flour is an asset in good baking. The desirable color in pie crust and white cake is one of creamy whiteness and this is only possessed by the highest grade of self-rising flour.

PLEDGES TO "UNDERSELL" MEANS TROUBLE

Is it wise, is it feasible, is it sound business for mail order houses, department stores or any other business concern to proclaim that come what, come may, they will undersell everybody else? R. H. Macy & Company have incited periodic outbursts of mercantile trouble in New York by such advertising. Now a fire war has been precipitated, avowedly because mail order sellers are committed to underselling everybody. Harvey Firestone, fighting head of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, who has invested millions in establishing his own retail outlets for tires, decided to meet price slashing by mail vendors—a perfectly understandable and reasonable attitude.

Surely economic conditions are disturbing enough without aggravating them by vicious price cutting wars, wars which inflict loss all round. It isn't easy to understand why any one merchant or manufacturer should arrogate to himself the "privilege" of always under-cutting everybody else. Obviously, if two strongly entrenched organizations were each to proclaim that it would undersell every competitor the fight logically would continue until both were giving away their goods for nothing or less than nothing.
