TEACHERS ARE GIVEN WARNING

President P. A. & M. C. Says He Knows Nothing of Firm Whose Representative Gave Him as Reference

Albert W. Fanning, president of the Panhandle Agricultural & Mechanical College at Goodwell, Oklahoma, has issued a warning to teachers relative to a bond salesman, who attempted to make sales with the statement that the firm was recommended by him. It is understood that several of the teachers in the Greenough school southeast of Liberal invested various sums up to as high as $250. This is the statement made by President Fanning:

"It has come to my attention that certain stocks or bond salesmen for a firm known as the Fidelity Bond and Savings Corporation of Denver, Colorado, have represented to teachers that I had purchased some of their bonds and that I have recommended that the teachers invest in their bonds. I have never met one of the salesmen for the Fidelity Bond and Savings Corporation nor do I know that there is a reliable firm by that name. I never heard of such a firm until about three weeks ago when a man who had purchased one of their bonds told me that he became suspicious of them and tried to find out about the reliability of the company. He said that he has not succeeded in finding anyone who knows anything about such a company and the letter that he wrote the company requesting a statement concerning their business, references, etc., was never answered.

Personally, I would not invest a dollar in a company that I know nothing about. My advice to teachers is that they make a thorough investigation and ascertain from a reliable source the standing of this company before investing any of their earnings in their stocks or bonds. If it is a reliable firm they evidently have some salesmen who are not living up to the ideals of the company when they are making misrepresentations in order to get business. I suggest that all persons who have purchased bonds from this company make an immediate investigation as to the reliability of the company. All is well if the company is all right. If the company is not all right, then the salesmen who have misrepresented the business should be prosecuted.

Please do not accept the statement from anyone that I am recommending that you purchase any kind of gold brick stock or that you give a note to some slick-tongued book agent for a set of books. There is plenty of time for investigation before you sign up.—Albert W. Fanning, President Panhandle Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Blodgett P. T. A. Will Observe Founders Day

The Blodgett Parent-Teachers Association will observe "Founders Day" February 5. Every member is expected to be present and help with the birthday cake. Visitors are always welcome. Rev. Jasper Bogue from Spearman, will be with us at this time and give us an address.

All those who have agreed to take a part are working hard on their part of the play. The Association is sponsoring. It is a comedy drama in five acts, entitled "Tony the Convict." It is to be given on February 20. Everybody come.

I. H. C. Centennial Celebration Big Success

The International Harvester Company Centennial celebration held in Spearman on Wednesday of this week was a great success from every angle. Spearman Hardware was host to the crew of the I. H. C. company, who came to Spearman and staged the big free show. Over 100 lunches were served at the store, an interesting moving picture program was highly enjoyed by a big audience and everyone was well pleased with the program for the day.

J. A. Ward was in town Tuesday to attend court and look after business matters.

TIME FOR PAYMENT SCHOOL TAX EXTENDED UNTIL MARCH 1

There has been much discussion about the time limit for payment of taxes in Spearman Independent school district.

You may construe the law as you like, but the time for payment of these taxes has been extended to March 1, without penalty attached.

This is the ruling of the trustees of Spearman Independent school district No. 1, P. A. Lyon, secretary, broadcasting.

The trustees made this ruling at a meeting held last night, merely to clarify matters, and to make the ordeal of paying taxes less painful. And may the holy angels guide and keep us.

"Colonial Tea" to be Given February 24

On Tuesday evening, February 24, at the Legion hall, a Colonial Tea will be given. Dinner will be served to those attending at a reasonable price. In addition to the dinner, a program will be rendered, the proceeds of which will go as payment on the new piano which has recently been bought for the public schools of Spearman. Everyone is expected to heartily cooperate in making this occasion a success.

High school pupils, grade school pupils and town people will assist in various ways on the program. Two minuets will be given, one by the high school children, the other by the grades. The minuet is the type of dance that was popular during the time of George Washington. It is a slow stately dance in triple time. The pupils taking part in the minuets will be dressed in Colonial costumes of various colors.

Aside from the minuets, there will be music of various kinds, as quartets, vocal, violin, and piano solos, a few readings, and songs will be rendered that were typical of that day and time, as "Just a Song at Twilight," "Out of the Dusk to You," "Can You Hear Me Calling Caroline." Singing will be accompanied by violins and piano. Singers will also be dressed in colonial costumes.

Folks, not only will you see and hear an entertaining program, get a dinner, all for a reasonable price, but you will at the same time be encouraging our pupils in musical education by attending this program. "There is no substitute for good and wholesome music."

Poultry Prices to Improve

(Texas A. & M. Poultry Dept.) Poultry and egg prices will likely be higher this summer and fall. The great surplus of cold storage eggs will have to be absorbed by April and by June, Texas will be short of infertile eggs. This condition will enable the wide awake producer to get a higher price for his good eggs. Supplies of eggs in the United States change so quickly that many of those who study the market are predicting a good sale of eggs and pullets next fall and early winter. The cheap price of eggs has enabled many city people to eat more of them than when the prices were higher, so the surplus is being used up rapidly.

There is less dressed poultry in cold storage now by several million pounds than this time last year. A great many farmers have reduced their poultry flocks. These will have to be replaced, so pullets and broilers should bring good prices this season.

Farmers who raise their usual number of chickens this year will be well paid by their efforts.

Deaths

G. C. Bolton, 73, died at the home of his son John Bolton, in Spearman, Wednesday, February 4, 1931. Remains will be entered into the family cemetery at Pawnee, Oklahoma, leaving here this Thursday morning on the Santa Fe.

Mrs. Mary Compton died on this Thursday morning at 1:33. She was 74 years old. Burial will be had in Compton cemetery at Crowfoot, Texas.

Spring Tree Planting Campaign Is Now On

Another big tree-planting campaign is now being launched by the Spearman chamber of commerce. Last season more than 1,000 Chinese Elms were planted along the streets of Spearman. It was surprising even to those who planted them, that almost every little tree set out lived and made a remarkable growth. Those that had real careful attention made a remarkable growth and now are ready for a still greater growth during the coming season. Those who desire to plant trees this spring are invited to confer with the secretary or any official of the chamber of commerce. This organization has made arrangements to furnish trees at a remarkably low price.

Telephone Lines Reach Most Remote Places

Where is Muleshoe? We had thought it in West Texas until recently a headline appeared in the Muleshoe Journal, "State Telephone Company now building line from Muleshoe to Earth." Things move so rapidly these days that we are not surprised at anything. If some company starts stringing a line from the moon, Venus, Mars or Jupiter to earth, we expect to hear about it first in the newspapers. But digging holes in the atmosphere and setting poles in space is taxing the credulity of the most open minded person.—Hereford Brand.

Does sound queer, but Spearman, Perryton, Gruver and other north plains towns have a direct telephone connection with Lord.

WHEAT AND CATTLE DO NOT INTEREST STATE HEAD OF AGRICULTURE

It is very evident that the raising of cattle and wheat does not interest J. E. McDonald, the new state commissioner of agriculture, judging from the weekly news letter sent out by the department of the new board which seems to be a typically "Down State" make-up with West Texas and the Panhandle ignored as usual (with the exception of paying more than our proportionate share of the state taxes.) The new commissioner is described as a successful farmer from the rich cotton county of Ellis. Fred W. Davis, chief clerk, has for his outstanding accomplishment, the securing of a $500,000 congressional appropriation to fight citrus disease. J. M. Del Curto, chief entomologist, has developed a disinfectant which preserves germination qualities while protecting cotton from infection. W. A. Canon is a banker from one of the largest banks in the cotton county of Ellis. R. H. Fincher has had thirty-five years practical experience in gin work. R. V. Miller is a cotton seed expert. J. B. McClung, another executive of the department, is from Cags county in the extreme northeastern part of the state. L. L. Shaekelford, another banker from the Commissioner's home county of Ellis, will head the warehouse division. Other appointees mentioned are Judge R. M. West, Navasota, down in the southeast part of the state; W. E. Williams, another cotton expert; J. H. Burkett, bean expert; and M. S. Frazee, chief of the weights and measures department, who according to the letter, has spent his life on a North Texas farm. (Down at Austin, when you get north of Austin, you are in North Texas, they even place Dallas in North Texas).—Ochiltree County Herald.

J. H. Broadhurst Sells Barber Shop

J. H. Broadhurst sold the Green Barber Shop this week to Uel McCain and Curley Sparks. These two men have many years of experience in the barbering business and are truly professionals in their line. This shop is one of the most modern barber shops in our city and is situated in the building with the Spearman Chamber of Commerce offices. This shop in the future will be known as "Mack and Curley Keep-U-Neat Shop."

EX-SERVICE MEN SHOULD APPLY AT ONCE FOR ADJUSTED SERVICE CLAIMS

Attorney Jack Allen, service officer of the local American Legion Post, urges that all ex-service men who have not made their application for adjusted service certificates should do so at once, as there is a strong chance that these certificates will be paid in cash by legislation which is now before Congress. Mr. Allen has all papers necessary for the filing of these claims and veterans who have not received their certificates are requested to see him at once. It is estimated that World War veterans living in and near Perryton, would receive almost $200,000 if these certificates were paid in cash. This amount of money dumped into the trade marts of the Perryton trade territory would be a wonderful stimulant to business.—Ochiltree County Herald.

Attended Skelgas School Held in Amarillo

Sid Powers of Spearman Hardware attended a "Skelgas" school in Amarillo on Saturday of last week, conducted by C. B. Slimp of the Skelly Oil Company. The school was conducted at the Morrow-Johnson Hardware Company store, this firm being the district distributor for this new cooking, heating and lighting plant. Spearman Hardware handles this plant in Spearman and has already installed several of them in farm and ranch homes near Spearman. The "Skelgas" plant seems to be a correct and reliable solution of the problem of using natural gas in homes to be connected up to a regular system. Natural gas is used for all purposes to which it may be put in the usual manner, such as cooking, heating, lighting, refrigeration, ironing and other household work.

Carlsbad Cavern

The following lines were written after a visit to the Carlsbad Cavern this last summer. Those who have seen the beauties of the Cavern will appreciate the verse. Dr. James, whose address is 811 Kress Bldg., Houston, Texas, is a brother of our fellow townsman and surveyor, T. O. James.

Beside the placid Pecos, below the rising hills, The Capitol of Fairland your eyes with wonder fills. Long, long before a human appeared upon the earth, While reptile monsters held sway, These caverns had their birth. The King of all the Faries conceived of the grand design To build a vast emporium, immortalize his line. Now Faries eyes so keen and small are dazzled by the light, You often see them dart about, the darkest of the night. So subterranean strata were chosen for the site, Away from molestation and from the dazzling light. A million troops of Faries were ordered on the work, And truly they were toilers, for Faries never shirk. No picks nor chisels did they use to hew the stony blocks, But drops of fairy chemicals dissolved the solid rocks. They labored fast, those Elfins bands, then rested, danced, and sang; And many merry games they played, while laughter loudly rang. So as the years and ages passed their tiny grottos grew To mighty caverns deep and wide with arches strong and true. Then Fairy sculptors, numberless, renowned for wondrous skill With furnishings supremely grand the caves began to fill. Fine alabaster draperies they carved upon the walls And snowy spires and minarets and pillars through the halls. For mile on mile one travels thru this sculptured wonderland; Of staltic beauty of scenes sublimely grand. Stupendous labors, miracles, beyond all words to tell, Entranced, one feels as if in dream or dazed by magic spell. Now Fairy dwellers in these haunts we fondly say Admire the works are ever new.

Light Docket But Much Confusion Among Attorneys and Litigants—Need of New Court House Is Paramount Issue

German Grand Opera At Amarillo, Feb. 6-7

The presentation of the German Grand Opera company in Amarillo February 6 and 7, Friday and Saturday of this week, at the city auditorium is one of the most ambitious and public-spirited undertakings of recent years, local citizens declare.

The German Grand Opera company is claimed to be the greatest opera today. Wilbur C. Hawk and the Tri-State Fair Association are to be complimented on being able to book them for the Panhandle. The company is a large one with many famous artists. Foremost among them are Johanna Gadski, most famous of German sopranos, Max Roth of the greatest of baritones, Margarethe Baumer, Karle von Kullberg and newest of additions to German Grand Opera, Marie von Essen, Detroit German-American.

It is at the present engaged in a tour of American cities, its third in three years. Remarkable receptions have been accorded it in its seasons at Washington, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Denver, San Francisco and other cities where it has appeared. It is now in San Diego.

Amarillo is believed to be the smallest city in which it is to be presented. This will be the only grand opera seen in the Panhandle this season.

Never in the history of the Panhandle has such a grand opera with such a distinguished cast been presented at such moderate prices of $1 to $5.

A special train of six Pullmans and seven baggage cars of extra length are required to transport the vast equipment of this organization. An orchestra of fifty-six players, a technical staff of 18, besides a roster of 60 principals, including some of the most eminent artists in the world, comprise the personnel, which makes its headquarters in Amarillo for two days this week.

February 6, the opening night, the German Grand Opera company, will sing "Die Walkure." This opera is one of the finest and most famous of Wagnerian operas. It is the second of the Niebelungenlied, the "Ring" which includes four of Wagner's greatest operas. The second day, February 7, "The Flying Dutchman" will be presented in the afternoon and "Tristan und Isolde" will follow that evening.

Max von Schillings, the famous Berlin musical director and chief conductor of the company is assisted by two others, Carl Adler and Hans Bleichschmidt.

Mail orders are being received by Wilbur C. Hawk at the Globe-News office. Seats may also be reserved at the City Drug Store No. 1 in Amarillo.

Merchant's Auction Sales Are Growing In Interest

WHERE IT PAYS

Does advertising pay? No, says the man who sticks his ad in some time table or directory and expects people to walk around, look it up and by seeing his name break their necks to get to his store. The man who wants to get results out of advertising places his message in the home paper that goes to the homes of his prospective customers and the readers appreciate the paper enough to pay to get it. A real concrete example as to whether newspaper advertising pays or not was shown in the strike of printers in New York City when the newspapers came out without any advertisements. During that time business in the department stores fell off 50 per cent. A wedding announcement stuck up on a fence or a billboard might be read by a few but the same announcement in the local paper would be read by every subscriber. Don't put your light under a bushel, say the Scriptures. Put your advertising in newspapers that are printed for people to read.—Loveland (O.) Herald.

Mrs. Edward Blake of Oklahoma City, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Merritt, returned to her home Sunday.

That Hansford county needs a new court house was never more clearly shown than at the meeting of the district court of the eighty-fourth judicial district, on Monday morning, February 2.

Judge Pickens, District Attorney McConell, court stenographer Cross, all were present to begin the term of court, but were handicapped by lack of good and sufficient place in which to do business. Judge Pickens states that the business of a district court is tremendously important.

Every lawyer in north Texas, seems, has been in Spearman during the week, attending court.

The grand jury was empaneled and deliberated until Tuesday noon. This body found three true bills of indictment, all of which were liquor charges. The defendants are being tried today.

The Hughes vs. Hughes case attracting much attention and the best legal talent of the county hammered long and at times hot on evidence, law and what-nor. Spearman doesn't seem to be worried as to the outcome of the case but it did furnish much amusement for a day or so. The jury is hopefully doled as we go press.

LIBERAL RAILWAY PROPERTY GOES AT SALE FOR $34,000

The Kansas & Oklahoma road was sold at public auction at Hutchinson, Kansas, last day. Three bidders, the Rockland, an Oklahoma City man, C. M. Light, a prominent dealer of Liberal, Kansas, contended the ownership. Mr. Light was the winner, paying $34,000 for the road.

The K & O consists of eight miles of road extending from the Kansas-Oklahoma line south of Liberal, through the town of Woods, in Stevens county, Kansas. For the past seven and one-half years it has been in the hands of the receiver and during that time has depreciated to point where the courts have threatened to junk it.

It is the intention of Mr. Light and a number of business men who are associated with him in the purchase of the road to rebuild present line and extend it to the present terminus at Woods west to connect with the Santa Fe at Hugton, and also to extend eastward to connect with M. K. & T. at Fortran. Oklahoma thus giving it an outlet over the different railroads, it crossing Rock Island at Liberal.

Attorney Jot Horton, who resides at Borger, is here a week attending court.

Leslie Cook of the Spearman hatcheries, attended a meeting of hatchery owners and held in Guyton on this week.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR FEBRUARY 8, 1931

General Topic—Jesus the World's Teacher.

Scripture Lesson—Luke 6:27-42.

27. But I say unto you that hear, Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you.

28. Bless them that curse you, pray for them that despitefully use you.

29. To him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and from him that taketh away thy cloak withhold not thy coat also.

30. Give to every one that asketh thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

31. And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32. And if ye love them that love you, what thank have ye? for even sinners love those that love them.

33. And if ye do good to them that do good to you, what thank have ye? for even sinners do the same.

34. And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? even sinners lend to sinners, to receive again as much.

35. But love your enemies, and do them good, and lend, never despairing; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be sons of the Most High; for he is kind toward the unthankful and evil.

36. Be ye merciful, even as your Father is merciful.

37. And judge not, and ye shall not be judged; and condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned; release, and ye shall be released.

38. Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, shall they give into your bosom. For with what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again.

39. And he spake also a parable unto them. Can the blind guide the blind? shall they not both fall into a pit?

40. The disciple is not above his teacher; but every one when he is perfected shall be as his teacher.

41. And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

42. Or how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me cast out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

Golden Text—As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.—Luke 6:31.

Time—The Sermon on the Mount was delivered in midsummer A. D. 28, the second year of Christ's ministry. The Sermon on the Plain seems to be a condensation of the Sermon on the Mount.

Place—The Horns of Hattin, or Mount Beattitudes, about seven miles southwest of Capernaum.

Introduction

This lesson is a part of the Sermon on the Mount, of which Luke gives a much shorter form than Matthew (Chaps. 5-7). Both accounts, however, set forth the high ideals of character and standards of conduct which characterize subjects of the Kingdom of God. Two elements in the background of the Sermon's record account for his emphasis and assist in understanding the messages: (1) Jesus had just chosen the Twelve who henceforth would be with him and share in a peculiar way his experiences and the responsibilities of his mission. It's necessary that they should grasp the meaning of their task and what manner of men the apostles and ambassadors of Christ ought to be. (2) Already the enmity against Jesus and his followers was growing to large proportions. In these journeys about Galilee conflicts with the Pharisees were becoming more frequent. In Luke 15:17-28 the Pharisees accuse him of blasphemy. In Luke 6 their anger is aroused over his healing a man on the Sabbath. These were typical instances, and indicate that Jesus and the Twelve must encounter in increasing numbers and violence. And amid such experiences they must do their work."

Sabbath Observance, Luke 6:1-11. Our chapter of Luke opens with two incidents indicating our Lord's attitude toward the Sabbath. Around the simple requirements of the Fourth Commandment the Jewish teachers had, in the course of centuries, heaped up an enormous mass of rules and superstitions, till the day of rest and worship, intended to be a wonderful help and joy to men, had become a heavy burden.

In the case of the man with the withered hand which Christ restored in the synagogue on a Sabbath day, the scribes and Pharisees were watching him intently, for the law forbade the exercise of the healing art on the Sabbath. Christ's bold declaration that he was Lord of the Sabbath was to Jewish ears the most terrible profanity.

The Choice of the Disciples

Christ's night of devotion before the appointing of the apostles is one of the most significant of St. Luke's mentions of prayer; compare Luke 3:21, 11:1; etc. It emphasizes the importance of the step about to be taken. So it became natural to Christ's followers to pray before choosing the disciples. Luke's account of the sending of Barnabas and Saul on their pioneer mission (Acts 13:2, 3).—Lonsdale Rags, "The knowledge of Christ's death and resurrection was to be the most precious possession of the human race. How was it to be preserved and transmitted? The apostles were qualified to be trustworthy witnesses of fact. The transcendent fact that Christ died and rose again took place before their eyes."—Rev. Henry Latham.

The Beautitudes, vs. 20-23

With the Beautitudes begins Luke's parallel to the Sermon on the Mount, and the question arises whether he is reporting the same or a different discourse. The scene at first sight appears different, and this is usually distinguished by calling it "The Sermon on the Plain;" for our Lord "came down" with the apostles from some height where he had been with them, "and stood on a level place" (Verse 17). But the Horns of Hattin, the hill to the west of the Sea of Galilee which is the traditional place of the sermon on the Mount, may be the place of the Sermon on the Plain also; for between the two "horns" of the hill is a level place on top of the hill sufficient to accommodate Christ's audience—a "plain" on a "mount." Luke's sermon is much shorter than Matthew's, twenty-nine verses against one hundred and eleven; but Luke may have omitted much of the Sermon on the Mount as not useful for the Gentiles for whom he wrote his Gospel.

Harsh Faultfinding Forbidden

"And judge not, and ye shall not be judged; and condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned." We are not forbidden to form opinions of others, for this is necessary in order to deal wisely with them. What is forbidden is censorious judgment, picking flaws, seeking out the bad in men in preference to the good, what has been called from Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress "muck-raking." This is all contrary to Christ's law of love. "The warm and sin is not in judging and condemning, but in judging and condemning without reason—carelessly, unjustly, ignorantly—condemning for the pleasure of condemning, condemning without mercy and without fear."—R. W. Church.

Generosity Commanded, v. 38

"Give, and it shall be given unto you, good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, shall they give into your bosom." "Bosom" is that bag-like fold into which the loose outer robe (then worn (mantle or shawl) fell, as it was thrown around in front over one shoulder. In this they often carried a moderate quantity of goods. Ruth, by taking off her mantle (veil), made it serve to bear a heavy load (Ruth 2:15).—Rev. George R. Bliss, D. D. "For with what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again." "A farmer once told his pastor that out of his few acres of ground he always set aside one acre to the Lord's use. The pastor asked, 'Which acre do you set aside?' The question came unexpectedly, but the farmer was honest enough to tell the truth, and replied, 'When it is a dry season, I select one up there, pointing to a field on the hillside; and when it is a wet season, I choose one down there, pointing to a field of very low land which lay at the foot of the hill. This is a true picture of thousands of professed Christians, who give God's service that part of their time and means that is left, after satisfying their own personal selfish ends.'—C. W. Bibb. Measuring thus to God, what measure of blessing can we expect from him?"

Practical Christianity—The Golden Rule, v. 31.

"And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." The world has a right to judge Christians by their fidelity to the Golden Rule. We must observe it in such matters as the prompt payment of bills and wages and all debts. We must observe it in kindly judgments of others and in gentle replies to harsh words. We must heed it in generous response to need and in liberal giving to good causes. We must heed it in our personal peacefulness and in our national evidence of war. We must be true to the Golden Rule in all our relations with servants, subordinates, assistants, children, the poor, the unfortunate, the weak, the stranger and the alien. We must put ourselves in the place of each one of these, and consider how we should like to be treated if we were they.

The Beam and the Mote, vs. 41-42

"And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?" The mote is a little chip or splinter, of wood like the beam. The beam is a rafter, a log. Why do you find fault with your brother for a trifling fault, when you yourself are guilty of a great sin of precisely the same sort? Jesus asks why men pay so much attention to the small faults of others and none at all to their own giant faults. He is all ways probing deep into our motives and revealing the hidden dangers. And here unearths a very prevalent situation. How many of us are guilty of the censorious spirit, always ready to criticize others, never considering our own sins?

As Christians we cannot fulfill our mission as long as we let ourselves go complacently on, disregarding our own character and careless about our conduct. Jesus says most emphatically that the prerequisites to service is casting the beams out of our own eyes. Without such self-correction we cannot show forth the love of the Lord's use. The pastor asked, 'Which acre do you set aside?' The question came unexpectedly, but the farmer was honest enough to tell the truth, and replied, 'When it is a dry season, I select one up there, pointing to a field on the hillside; and when it is a wet season, I choose one down there, pointing to a field of very low land which lay at the foot of the hill. This is a true picture of thousands of professed Christians, who give God's service that part of their time and means that is left, after satisfying their own personal selfish ends.'—C. W. Bibb. Measuring thus to God, what measure of blessing can we expect from him?"

The End of Christ's Great Sermon

As the Sermon on the Mount, Matt. Chaps. 5, 6, 7, ends with a parable, the Sermon on the Plain, Luke 6:17-49, ends with four—the parable of the blind guides and of the mote and beam just considered, and two others. There is the parable of the tree and its fruit, teaching that the results of a life cannot be different from the life itself, and the close is the same parable of the two foundations which ends the Sermon on the Mount, teaching that the only safe and enduring basis of a life is obedience to the commands of our Lord, Jesus Christ. What more adequate conclusion can any sermon have?

How To Produce Good Hatching Eggs

(By D. M. Reid, Texas A. & M. Poultry Department)

Good hatching eggs come from healthy, well fed hens. Cull out all sick or diseased birds from the flock, as these birds are often the source of eggs that do not hatch. It is reported that New York people like pale yolked eggs, but good hatching eggs have bright yellow yolks. Be sure that your breeding hens have a chance to eat green feed and see that they do eat it, even if you have to cut it and carry it to the pen.

Chopped-up green feed is a valuable addition to the laying ration of any flock of hens. If it is absolutely impossible to get green feed, it is wise to add 1 per cent tested Cod Liver Oil, but the green feed should be tried first.

Eggs with poor shells do not hatch readily, so it is well to see that your breeding hens have considerable mineral matter, especially calcium, in their ration. A shortage of calcium will give you poor shells and so, poor hatching eggs.

Feed your hens a good ration—be sure that they have plenty of green feed. Use Cod Liver Oil if it is impossible to get green feed and add plenty of calcium to the ration and you will have good hatching eggs.

FREEDOM FROM WORRY!

Being in debt causes more worry, more discontent, more dissatisfaction with life in general than any other one thing.

Yet, with but a small measure of forethought and a little planning of income, it is a simple matter for all to be free from this distressing condition.

We urge all who have, through sickness or any other reason, become involved beyond their means, to drop in for a confidential chat with their creditor. There will not be a single instance, we venture to predict, but can be easily straightened out and a satisfactory payment plan be arranged.

One View Of It

The biggest reason for reduction of wheat acreage is not because a group at Washington advises it, but because the Farm Board agencies have created a huge surplus, and the price of wheat will never again reach its natural and proper level as long as all world buyers know that such a big offering is available and can be dumped upon the market. That big surplus is responsible for the panicky world price the past few months.

If the farm board has spent all its money and crashes before the new wheat crop begins to be harvested in June, and if it will be compelled to dump some of its stocks on the market about the time the combines in the southwest are pouring forth their golden streams, just where will the price level go? And suppose the Farm Board succeeds in stemming the tide when the new crop moves this year, just where will we be next year? And, in the meantime, anticipating that reckoning period, will not world buyers have complete mastery of the price level?

It now appears the Farm Board is in such a bad plight Democratic congressmen are aiding its continuance in an effort to injure the standing of the Republican administration. This is only natural, and it emphasizes the reason why business should not be allowed to be mixed up in politics. Politicians appear to lose sight of business prosperity in their effort to juggle an advantage. We believe the Democratic party would gain considerable strength now if it would come out flatfooted against Government competition in any form, and unqualifiedly support the middleman as well as the farmer.

After stressing the point that unrestricted trading is a benefit to the grain producer, Pettey B. Carey, vice president of the Board of Trade, in a reply to Chairman Alexander Legge of the Farm Board, said that large volume of trading generally results in advancing prices and that no commodity is handling as cheaply or financed as easily as grain because of protection afforded by the futures market. Prohibition of short selling would nullify the functions of the market and a short seller is always a potential buyer as what he sells must be purchased, he said. Charges that grain exchanges make rules designed to favor themselves, is unfair. We design no rules to particularly favor anyone interested as the public is our customer, whom we aim to serve fairly. Markets merely reflect conditions and the sooner artificial measures are eliminated the quicker the existing depression will disappear, he said.—Grain Trade News.

Religion and Business

The churches and preachers should be the leaders in such a revival of honesty. Now is the time for them to preach the Ten Commandments and the golden rule. If each preacher would start a campaign to get all his congregation to pay their bills, as they would have others pay what is owed to them, this depression would soon be over. Too many people want to ride today, and too few are willing to haul. We all want the other fellow to pay us, but are we willing to make the necessary sacrifice to pay him? Yet before prosperity will return this sacrifice must be made, and the other fellow must be treated as we would have him treat us.

Why delay the return of prosperity? It is as easy to have good times in 1931 as it will be two or three years later. The depression will continue until we make the necessary sacrifice. If every community would have a religious revival there would soon be a business revival. A change of heart in one citizen makes a change for better business throughout the entire community. When 51 per cent of the people of any city make up their minds to pay their bills and give better service business conditions in that city begin rapidly to improve.

Watch Florida
As an illustration of such a movement readers should note what is going on in Florida. This was the first state to suffer from depression. Three years ago Florida went through what other states are now experiencing. Values collapsed, banks failed, men refused to pay taxes, towns defaulted on their bonds, and was a general attitude of "I won't try to pay." Money had come so easy during the preceding boom that people had forgotten the word, "sacrifice." Struggling had become a lost art. As a result, Florida lost its credit, citizens of the state could do business only on a cash basis, and affairs have been absolutely stagnant for three years.

Today one finds a very different attitude in Florida. Cities of the state—led by the churches, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs—are starting "golden rule" movements to clean up all back indebtedness and to trust the other fellow. A very interesting example of this is going on in Lake Wales, Florida—a city in the center of the state near my winter home. On January 1, 100 men formed a committee to make Lake Wales an A-1 city with an A-1 credit. The campaign started New Year's day with a great mass meeting at which all the ministers took part. The meeting was presided over by the president of the Chamber of Commerce, and messages were read from the governor and other prominent men. At the close of the meeting 100 certified checks for $10 each were put into circulation. These checks can be held only 24 hours by one individual. The checks can be used only by indorsement for the payment of debts. The committee member whose check pays the most bills will receive at the close of the campaign February 16 a loving cup.

Paying Debts Without Money
The bankers of Lake Wales estimate that in six weeks, the circulation of these checks will pay up back indebtedness at the rate of from $1,000 to $2,000 per day and at the close of the campaign by far the largest part of these back debts (mortgages, unmaturing bank loans and other indebtedness excepted) will be paid. The checks read: "This check is acceptable as payment for any indebtedness incurred previous to December 1, 1930 for merchandise, labor, insurance, rent, fertilizer, pal and state governmental agencies are now thoroughly well organized and manned to execute such improvements with practical dispatch, once the improvements are authorized and provision has been made for financing them. The many thousands of men who would be directly employed by speeding up construction would not be the sole beneficiaries. The increased amount of materials that would be used in these projects would make necessary the employment of many other thousands. Workers must have equipment as well as materials with which to build, they require additional food and clothing and there must be men employed at the source of supply for these needs. Thus, a material increase of employment in one field brings about an increase in other lines of employment.

Business by the Babsonchart now registers 27 per cent below normal compared with 11 per cent below normal at this time a year ago.—Copyright 1931, Publishers' Financial Bureau.

CITY ENGINEERS SHOW BUILDING ECONOMY NOW

Immediate construction of needed public improvements may be done now or in the near future to decided advantage because of low material and construction prices and plentiful and efficient labor, according to a statement issued by John W. Reid, president of the American Society of Municipal Engineers.

Mr. Reid points out that since most of the money spent for public improvements goes for labor that accelerated construction would furnish employment for large numbers of workmen and would tend to restore public confidence.

President Reid urges each member of the Society to lend every reasonable encouragement and aid possible in the acceleration of needed public improvements of all kinds. The American Society of Municipal Engineers is composed of city engineers and heads of municipal improvement departments of several hundred leading cities. Because of the character of their positions they are well qualified to assist in such a program.

Construction of sewers, water systems, pavements, county and state highways, grade crossing eliminations, schools and other public buildings are suggested by Mr. Reid as the major improvements whose development at this time would contribute largely to relieving the present economic situation. and state governmental agencies are now thoroughly well organized and manned to execute such improvements with practical dispatch, once the improvements are authorized and provision has been made for financing them.

The many thousands of men who would be directly employed by speeding up construction would not be the sole beneficiaries. The increased amount of materials that would be used in these projects would make necessary the employment of many other thousands. Workers must have equipment as well as materials with which to build, they require additional food and clothing and there must be men employed at the source of supply for these needs. Thus, a material increase of employment in one field brings about an increase in other lines of employment.

"There is little doubt," states President Reid, "that all citizens and taxpayers would approve programs contemplating only necessary improvements, since most communities have been striving for some time to catch up with requirements in the class of improvements named."

Municipalities that have allowed present business distress to interfere with the progress of their improvements can not take advantage of three important factors. Low prices of materials have given today's dollar greater buying power. There is a plentiful supply of efficient and experienced labor and construction prices are down. Taking advantage of these factors will accomplish a twofold purpose. Cities have an opportunity to economically bring their improvements up to date and at the same time furnish much needed employment to many thousands.

HOGGING THE LANDSCAPE

Road-hogging is bad enough, but hogging the landscape is even worse. This fact is recognized by the American Institute of Architects, each chapter of which will take part soon in the movement to abolish billboards along the public highways. Every member of the institute is urged to do all in his power to abate this insighly nuisance.

As a rule, the modern architect is a man of esthetic ideas. He has come a long way from the period of the ugly East Lake facade, the gingerbread gable and flaring final. Billboards were not objected to in those days and did not stare at the traveler every turn of the Highway, as do now.

Today there is great increasing resentment against hogging of the landscape by billboards. From a cultural point this is an encouraging sign. It denotes that the barbaric board age is passing and that will not be very long before mode of destruction of beauty will cease.—Los Angeles Times.

For Oldest Home Furniture

Science Institute Seeks For Exhibit During World's Fair

A mohair-covered chair in your home? If so, you are two hundred and fifty years richer for it. A reporter is in receipt of a letter from the Household Science Institute, Chicago, asking for the oldest piece of upholstered furniture in the United States. The Institute says there is a possibility of finding it in this section. The sought furniture or its non-use at the present time is important, providing it is in condition. The owner of such a piece will be awarded a reward of fifty dollars and the piece will be exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago.

The Institute's offer is a desire on the part of Grace Gray, its director, to ascertain the longevity of mohair. An innumerable pieces of upholstered furniture and mohair have been seen many years of service, it is claimed. Deliberately injured no one has yet been found of a fabric ever wearing out.

Of this section who may have something of old communicate with Miss Gray, Household Science Institute, 110 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, giving the address of the piece they have in mind. Information concerning age, condition and other pertinent data. Mrs. Gray will be glad to make arrangements for shipping it to Chicago. She does not tell just when she discovered that mohair is a silky fleece of the Angora goat, made exceedingly durable fabrics. But down: mohair fabrics are made of goat hair and have always been used as rare and valuable.

Prior to 1881, when and Louis B. Goddard of Maine, perfected a process of manufacturing mohair as largely confined to France, where it is made by hand. Especially in mohair velvet or velveteen for short, as an upholstery fabric. Years of hard day-out service leave the pile unmarred, its colors fresh and undimmed. Unless one willfully cuts or burns it, it is as nearly indestructible as any woven material can be. This is due largely to the fact that all the rub and wear comes on the top ends or looks of these pile fibres, whereas in smooth surfaced materials the rub comes on the sides of the individual fibres. Also, because the mohair fibres are smooth-surfaced, the dust and dirt do not easily collect on them and usually a light brushing is all that is required to keep mohair fresh and clean. Housewives' fear of moths has been ended by the recent perfection of a mill mottoring process that makes mohair fabric immune to damage by these pests.

Aside from its use in furniture, mohair velvet is the favored fabric used in the upholstery of automobiles, railroad cars in the making of fine rugs, robes, draperies, clothing and many other articles.

Poultry and Eggs Are Cheap AND WILL REMAIN CHEAP ALL YEAR 25 Per Cent Cheaper Than Last Year THEN DON'T PAY OVER $3.50 PER HUNDRED FOR ANY CHICK FEED BUT, it is not economy either, to kill half your chicks to start them living on maize, corn, wheat or some other 10 per cent or 12 per cent protein feed when nature starts them living in the shell before they hatch on an 18 per cent protein feed. This chick needs a balance of animal and grain proteins along with bone-building minerals, such as Charcoal, Bone-meal, limestone and Iodized salt. Dried buttermilk is also a great help to chicks, furnishing a high grade of animal protein which along with the meat scraps in feed, completes the requirements for animal protein. Cod liver oil is a very essential addition to a feed for chicks that do not get plenty of sunshine, and the early chicks never do. You can get all these, and other necessary ingredients, 14 in all, in the proper percentage for the nourishment of the chick. And the price has been reduced to meet the price of your poultry and eggs. All our customers were well pleased with results from our chick feed last year at $4.50 cwt., and will be agreeably surprised to hear that we will sell it this year at $3.50 a hundred pounds. SNIDER'S CHICK STARTER Made by Snider Produce Co. Oldest Produce Firm in Hansford County We now sell our Laying Mash at $2.50 and our Dairy Feed at $2.00. relative to the Welfare Association turning down one applicant. It was due to the fact that I did not deem the applicant a dire need. The chairman got most of the blame, but the fact is, that he cannot do the decision alone. It takes three of the executive committee to pass on applicants. So I am no more to blame than the other two of the executive committee for non help in this case. We don't let church or political affiliation enter—the need and worthiness of the applicant are the requisites to secure help. So if you were disposed to feel critical toward the chairman and the others we hope this will be self explanatory.

CONSIDER THE "COFFEE COCKTAIL"

The Travelling Man Invented It. Society Adopted It, And Now Everybody Wants It!

PSYCHOLOGISTS seeking some new and interesting problem to solve might spend a few diverting hours pondering the marked increase in popularity which that fragrant beverage brewed from the coffee bean is now enjoying.

Is today's prestige the normal reaction from the series of attacks which faddists and commercial concerns with interests inimical to the coffee planter have launched in recent years? Or are other factors responsible? Could it be, for instance, that the "smart sets" dictum to serve "coffee cocktails" for the morning eye-opener has percolated to the general public and been generally appreciated? Or has the scientist and the family doctor taken a quiet hand in the game and squashed a few superstitions?

Cocktails on Trains

A seeker for the truth, with limited scientific inclinations but much interest in the reactions of the human mind on every day appetites, recently broached the subject to the dining car steward on one of the crack limited trains. He put it very tersely. Pointing to the small but steaming cup of coffee that had been placed in front of him before he was even given the breakfast menu, he demanded: "Why?"

"Well," said the steward, after a quick glance which assured him that the cup was not going to be sent back, "most people seem to like it. We have been doing it for several years. I think we got the idea from the regular travelling men, most of whom want their coffee mornings before anything else."

"How about society people?"

"Oh, they like it, too, only we usually serve it to them in their drawing rooms, just like the 'coffee cocktails' at a house party. They are nothing but demi-tasses, you know, only served piping hot. And they do seem to have a 'kick' that helps to start the day right."

That coffee has a "kick" and is a stimulant is one of the charges made against it by its enemies, but both doctors and scientists agree that, properly made, it also provides aromatic volatile oils which have a helpful effect on many people. Furthermore, as usually served at breakfast, it has the beneficial effect of getting a warm liquid into the stomach.

With the American people, who are probably the greatest race of individual experimenters in the world, the question of whether coffee is good for them or harmful in its effects has probably been decided by the great majority—and by personal experimentation. Moreover, it would seem that most of them consider that its advantages outweigh its disadvantages.

Coffee Gaining Popularity

Anyway, the chain of coffee shoppes that now extend from coast to coast is being added to daily, and hotels of the better class are keeping step with the dining car stewards and adding "coffee cocktails" to their breakfast service. And as a final symbol of the renewed hold which coffee has taken upon the American palate, the housewife of today is experimenting with all the new types of drip coffee pots which were placed on the market recently, immediately after the scientists at the Institute of Technology decided that dripped coffee contains a minimum of caffeine and tannic acid, and a maximum of flavor.
