

Chinese Regain Ground In Counter Attack Steers Drop First Bi-District Series Game 24 To 13

"Battle Orders"

In this instance the orders are for an advance along the entire national front in a united attack on "depression" by the American Legion and the Federation of Labor, with auxiliary forces. The objective is to find a million new jobs within thirty days for a million wage earners now unemployed. The National Commander has sent sealed messages to all post commanders.

MEET FRIDAY

The general committee of the Big Spring Legion post's unemployment relief campaign will meet at the Settles hotel Friday at 4 p. m. The campaign committee was in session Thursday afternoon outlining plans for canvassing the city to obtain employment for more than 450 residents of the city with families who are known to be in direct need of employment.

Leaders and trade union presidents with instructions how to proceed. But there is no concentration of the "zero hour." Perhaps watches will not be synchronized to a second, but there will be eagerness to be among the first in every city, town or village to win the honors in this new campaign. Each community is to be divided into districts and industrial units and an officered team assigned. The workers may be chosen from the community at large, but the Legion is directing their movements with the fullest cooperation of the labor unions. Every employer of labor is to be approached and asked to give employment to at least one more man. What has been done successfully in several cities—namely, Rochester, Munich, Green Bay—will be done on a national scale. In more than 7,000 cities volunteer local groups have been formed under State and regional organization—recruited from every walk of life. The national headquarters, at the Biltmore Hotel in New York, will serve as a clearing house for the field units, as well as a center of command for the entire field.

Here is another illustration of William James' moral equivalent of war: an activity in which soldiers and laymen alike may serve their country by performing disagreeable duties—even if they are not perilous—and making real sacrifices in order to restore unemployed men and women to hopeful existence. The Legion has the approval of the President in this campaign and goes to its "zero hour" next Monday with a fine zeal. Meanwhile the public is urged to be thinking of what it can do by way of new jobs for the jobless. If employment is found for the first million, by this effort the Legion will itself find a more grateful place in the heart of America.—New York Times.

Home Town Talk by Betty

A young mother, with three fatherless children to provide for, asked us to appeal for employment.

Further discussion of the problem of maintaining county roads in the Howard county oil field indicates that the most feasible plan at present is to oil the roads with the "cut" oil that is always on hand on the larger leases.

While county officials point to a good deal of work done on the main road through the field, and one of the best pieces of road machinery is kept down there practically all the time, a number of oil field lease superintendents continue to express dissatisfaction with road conditions.

Answer of county officials to this is that the only thing that will solve the problem for keeps would be the paving of the road. They declare that, with the heavy type of traffic that naturally passes over an oil field road, no dirt road through the field could be kept in good condition in weather as wet as that existing there at various times since November. They declare they have spent twice as much on the oil field road than on any other county road.

In addition, they say that all companies that agreed to lower pipe lines crossing the road, so that grading could be done and drainage opened satisfactory have not lowered the lines in many instances. Another practice that interferes with proper grading and opening of drainage along the road is that of leveling over the ditches on each side of the road for the purpose of allowing trucks to move across the road from lease to lease. When the ditches are thus closed water backs up in the road during rains, they say.

It appears that the best thing that could be done would be for some of the larger oil companies to donate sufficient oil for the purpose and for the county and the companies to work out some plan

Locals Show Worst Form Of Campaign

Second Game Scheduled Here Friday Evening At 7:30

By CURTIS BISHOP BRECKENRIDGE — The Breckenridge Buckaroos staged a dope upset here Wednesday evening to defeat the Big Spring High Steers in the first game of the playoff series for the championships of Districts 5 and 9 in a listless, unexciting game 24-13.

Led by "Nig" Spain and "Stubby" Wohlford, heroes of the 1931 series in which the Steers defeated the Buckaroos two straight games, Prince Shotwell's green-clad basketballers played circles around the spirited Howard County representatives, who put up their poorest exhibition of the season. Spain and Wohlford split scoring honors with eight and seven points respectively, and captured the major portion of the floor honors.

The few faithful Big Spring fans sat stunned into silence as the Buckaroos, the underdogs of the playoff, took the lead in the first two minutes of play and held a sizeable advantage throughout the game, leading 5 to 2 at the end of the first quarter, 10 to 8 at the half, and 18 to 11 at the beginning of the final period.

Hopper, Forrester, Reid and Flowers, veterans of the 1931 series and the "big four" of the local cage squad, turned in listless and disappointing performances, with what honors the Big Spring team might have gleaned from the contest going to J. C. Morgan, forward, and Elmer Dyer, who entered the game at the close of the third quarter.

Score First Breckenridge scored first. After two minutes of unexciting scrimmaging Forrester fouled "Nig" Spain, and the Buckaroo captain missed. Wohlford, however, was waiting for the rebound and he handled it perfectly. A wild pass by Flowers, who by his many of the evening, enabled Spain to dribble around the goal and shoot one over his left shoulder a few seconds later to make the score 4 to 0.

Morgan started the Bovines off on the second half with a beautiful shot from far back on the court that swished gently through the basket, but the burst halted when Flowers missed a charity toss that came as a result of Spain's foul and Wohlford broke even on a pair of shots when Morgan hacked as the Buckaroo guard was trying for a field goal. The period ended a few seconds later with the score 5 to 2.

Morgan sank his second basket in the first minute of the second quarter, and a beautiful shot by David Hopper that would have placed the Bovines in the lead rolled around the basket and finally decided in the negative. Wohlford took the rebound and started up the court, but a pass to Spain netted a tie ball. On the tip, however, the Breck captain tapped the ball to Todd and Northcutt broke under the basket to register a hook shot. Northcutt scored again a minute later as he took Carrigan's rebound and started up the line and sent the ball through the net to make the score 9 to 4.

Best Form The remaining three minutes of the half found the Steers displaying their best form of the evening. Hopper took the tip, one of the few times when Reid was able to out-jump Carrigan, dribbled two steps and sank a beautiful arching shot. Forrester scored from far back on the court to make the score 9 to 5, and Spain ended the tallying for the first half as he sank a charity try afforded him by Hopper's foul. Wohlford started the scoring in the second half with a long shot from back on the court, and Spain equaled his sensational play a few seconds later with a left-handed shot as he was dribbling away from the basket. Breckenridge called time out as Hopper handled. Forrester's rebound perfectly to make the score 14 to 10. The rest period must have done some good, for Shotwell's Buckaroos came back to increase their lead as Spain made good another opportunity from the free throw line as Forrester fouled. Wohlford took a tipoff about the free throw line and tallied, and Todd scored from the foul line as Hopper backed him as the Greenie forward was dribbling by him. Flowers scored for Big Spring when Northcutt was detected fouling under the Breckenridge goal.

Dyer went in for Reid at the beginning of the fourth quarter and Forrester shifted to center. Todd

His wire follows: "Am in hearty accord with Garner for President movement. I consider him the man of the hour and observe that sentiment in his favor is growing stronger day by day. Duties here prevent my being with you, otherwise would attend meeting. Best wishes for a happy and fruitful meeting."

Whitney Defends Short-Selling On Stock Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange told the house judiciary sub-committee that if there had been no short selling he was confident the market would have been closed several months ago, saying short selling was a necessary and useful practice, and that keeping the market open preserved a huge total of loans, based on securities that were liquid. Closing of the market would have devastated the entire banking system, he said, adding that a recent temporary ban had helped the market.

C. T. Watson was reported feeling better Thursday. He became ill suddenly Tuesday night and has been suffering considerably.

Banker Is Refused New Trial Bond Set

ABILENE—Motion for new trial for A. E. Pool, convicted in 42nd district court last week on a charge of unlawfully receiving deposits in the Abilene State Bank, overruled by Judge M. S. Long, who then passed sentence.

The jury assessed a six-year term against the banker, but under the state indeterminate sentence act six years will be the maximum and two years the minimum. The law provides that after serving the minimum sentence a defendant may apply for a general parole to the board of pardon advisors, and it may be granted, conditional on a good prison record.

The conviction will be appealed, attorneys for Pool said, and meanwhile he will be at liberty on the $8,000 bond fixed by the court.

The banker appears before Judge Long, meeting his bondmen in the courtroom and the instrument was quickly presented and approved. After shaking hands with a few friends Mr. Pool left for his home.

Plan To Evacuate Citizens Of U. S. Announced; Kai Shek May Lead Manchurian Drive

SHANGHAI (AP)—Hammered all day by terrific Japanese bombardment and losing some territory, the Chinese in the Kiangwan sector swarmed from their trenches in a surprise counter attack tonight, regaining nearly all of the ground they had lost.

The Japanese had thrown their full force into the fight northwest of Kiangwan, forcing back the Chinese first line in disorderly retreat. They practically surrounded the village and began shelling the Chinese second line, with planes dropping bombs.

The counter attack regained this ground and left the defenders still holding Kiangwan. It was reported two or three new Japanese divisions were due Friday or Saturday for a big drive next week.

Tokyo dispatches said the Emperor conferred with General Yoshinori Shirawawa. This was interpreted to mean he would replace General Kenkichi Ueyeda here, Germans evacuated their consulate in the Hongkong sector of the International Settlement, believing the Chinese were preparing to shell it because the Japanese headquarters are nearby.

American authorities announced a plan to evacuate all citizens if an emergency arose. The Japanese flagship, anchored off the International Settlement, took a Chinese threat to shell the Settlement seriously, the crew donning helmets and placing armor plates over various parts of the ship.

An instructor at Columbia, his alma mater, once said of him that he wrote the most powerful English of any man since Alexander Hamilton.

Judge Cardoso has been writing powerful opinions from the appellate bench of New York state for some years. National Puzzlers' League Drives Hard One; Answer Debated
NEW YORK (UP)—A four-letter word meaning "A Sicilian shepherd murdered by Polyphemus for love of Galatea" has plunged delegates attending the annual convention of the national puzzlers' league into a chilly atmosphere of raised eyebrows and bristling Phi Beta Kappa keys.

The question appeared to be whether the correct word is "Akie" or "Acla." The judges favored the "k" as used in the "Lang translation of Homer."

Such shining lights of the puzzle industry as Arthur (Queafnon) Haas, of New York; George (D. C. Ver) Kane, of Philadelphia; Robert (Dublow) Dupuis, of Verona, N. J.; Katherine (Kay) Schiff, of New Garden, N. C.; and J. H. (Wick O'Clinc) Wickham joined in the contest.

The race narrowed down to J. Van Cleet Cooper, New York puzzle editor; Miss Schiff and Dubois. All three were stuck on the Sicilian shepherd murdered by Polyphemus for love of Galatea.

Cooper put down "acia." Miss Schiff made it "aris" and Dubois wrote "asia."

When the judges announced the correct word "akia" protests arose. Cooper, who had finished first, stuck by his guns with "acia." The judge's clung to the lang translation answer.

BOY CRAZY

by GRACE PERKINS

SYNOPSIS: Buttercup hair and an impudent face win popularity for Hope Ross. A seat for fun and her father's money carry her through many adventures. Once she was a tomboy, but now, almost 17, she acquires a date-book and a sophisticated manner. The charm of dances and parties and a train of dazzled boys catches all her interest. Her mother says she is boy crazy, but her father chuckles and continues to sign checks. The person most annoyed by Hope's admirers is her sister Goody, a "model young girl" and unpopular. Hope's seventh birthday party includes so many acquaintances that it approaches a free-for-all. The crowd continues to gather on the Ross estate, and Hope wanders from guest to guest. She stays longest with Rusty, who wants her to marry him.

Chapter 3
A HUMAN BEAN BAG
Hope ripped open:
Oh, there's Max. . . You-hoo, Maax! . . . Sure, we'll dance. Isn't that a grand orchestra? They are going to play at Post Lodge this winter. . . .
Oh, don't hold me so close, Maax! You're crushing me flowers! Well, even if you do send some that will be tomorrow and I want these tonight. . . .
Papa Ross, his face shadowed by the visor of his Commodore's cap, sat on the railing of the broad white veranda, and gazed down on the party.

(Look at the way he watches her, whispered the weeping willow with a sigh. Such love can be unreasoning and blindly cruel. . . .)
(Yes, yes, chattered the brook shrilly, she's his baby, you know. She's his baby, and his world is wrapped up in her. . . .)
(She's boy crazy. That's it, breathed the late roses, the common, the asters and the huge bushes of golden glow. She's just boy crazy. . . .)

School was a side-line. A little planning took care of such an atrocious and insane slavery. Hope had been brought up by Frauleins and Mademoiselles, and in her childhood had traveled abroad, spending entire winters on the Riviera before the span of peculiar years that were known as the World war. Hence, Hope's ability in French and German were accepted matters, and English and history could be magnificently faked. Good old Maax could be counted on for mathematics, and one of the girls who longed to be in Hope's set obligingly did her Latin for her.

The autumn, then, was fairly free for more engrossing matters. Football games, and their proper sport costumes; and unforgettable trip to Yale for an afternoon in the Bowl, and evenings at Fraternity dances; shopping; theaters; Theatricals; divine week-end; walerable vocal lessons; and swell-elegant dancing lessons—all these things kept Hope busy from seven or ten a. m. until eleven or two at night.

An outstanding brace of important problems occupied Hope's mind particularly, however. Both problems involving the party at Placid. Whom to invite, when one only had the privilege of six couples—five really, since Goody had to be included.
Not that Hope disliked her sister. Far from it. Hope would have been glad of companionship at home, but all her varied advances had been sulky and a bit rudely snubbed. Hope had shrugged off Goody's sarcastic criticism with a flippant shoulder. It humiliated Hope that her sister, of all people, should liberally remain a dud! And she couldn't help grinning when Goody would stuff away chocolates and pastries and then walk because she had to amble to the women's department for dresses—or call in a seamstress to copy home hopelessly coy model in a size that would have caused its designer to faint.

Take this Placid party, for example! Why should Hope have to sigh over Goody's presence? Visualizing how Mama would back up each pale-lipped complaint that Goody would be bound to make? 'Cause, who wants a wet blanket like Goody around with her prudish ideas?

Goody herself inspired the solution. Her soft-eyed humble admiration of Charlie Rand was nothing short of degrading in Hope's private little code. Everyone saw it! Everyone, that is, except Charlie, who moomed around Hope throughout the entire Fall, grateful for what small favors she cast his way.

Mama and Papa Ross saw Goody's infatuation, and became highly chirpy over the idea of a romance for their forlorn and neglected twenty year old spinster. Charlie was offered opera tickets on the nights that Papa Ross was too busy.

Hope dabbled in intrigue; delighting, merely for thrill, in treating Charlie exactly like a bean-bag to be tossed at will between Goody and herself. Deviling Goody into some exertion to appear charming and to act human while she teased Charlie, and cast a spell over him that caused him many a sleepless night.

"Oh, snap into it!" she shrugged at Goody's protests. "If you're not good enough to catch him now, you'll never be able to hold him. It's a fair game between us."
Suddenly, even Hope, with a stark little shock, realized the stark truth of Goody's enamored eyes. Her heart curled around the corners at the spectacle of Goody's awkward love-making.

So Hope erased herself quite neatly from Charlie's vision, whenever he arrived—leaving that young gentleman with hurt, grim lips and wounded, wondering eyes. Hope went further than that. She invited Rusty Crandall whenever Charlie was slated to appear, and openly flirted with him until his ears were red and his collar slightly damp; until he completely forgot the girl called Angel, who worshipped Rusty

Distribution In East Texas Is Behind Output

New Production Schedule Adopted; Wildcat Reports

East Texas distribution of crude oil for the week ended February 10 exceeded production 22,756 barrels per day, according to figures from authoritative reports.

Production in the East Texas field for the week ended February 17 was 48,088 barrels per day less than for the preceding week.

NEW PLAN IN EAST TEXAS
Humble, The Texas Company, Empire, Sun and other companies operating in East Texas, have joined the Magnolia's new plan of production, whereby daily production per well is reduced and each well is produced seven days per week, thus doing away with the Sunday shutdown plan. It is estimated that by producing the limit of 65 barrels per well daily the average production per well will be increased about five barrels per day.

HOBBS
Midwest's No. 11 State, northwest corner of section 4-19-38, gauged 17,366 barrels per day less 15 per cent water, on proration test. It also made 14,500,000 cubic feet of gas. Total depth is 1,175 feet.

ANDREWS
Fuhrman's No. 1 Eber, et al, section 24, block A-43, was drilling at 680 feet in red rock.

WINKLER
Sid Richardson's No. 1 S. M. Halley, section 25, block B-12, recovered tools and is running casing. Two strings of tools were lost at 2,810 feet, top of the pay and total depth. There is 300 feet of oil in the hole and the well is making a half million cubic feet of gas daily.

Fort Worth, Feb. 23, 1932.
At the risk of sounding a discordant note at a political love feast of the press and the politicians I'd like to inquire where Mr. Garner stands upon the important questions that must be correctly solved in order to restore permanent peace and prosperity to this sorely stricken land. If the office of president of the United States was only a bouquet to be handed out to friends I too would mount the Garner band wagon, but it is the most powerful office in our gift and its administration means weal or woe to the nation and to every man, woman and child in it.

Where does he stand upon the overshadowing, all important question of inflation or deflation? Where does he stand upon the question of the government's resuming its constitutional duty to coin money and to control its value?

Where does he stand upon the repeal of the control of money and credit by the Federal Reserve Board, and upon the repeal of the 10 per cent tax against state bank notes?

Where does he stand upon the restoration of silver at a fixed ratio to gold?
Where does he stand on the Patman bill to pay the debts due to soldiers in new money?
Where does he stand on a protective tariff?

Where does he stand upon the repeal of the 13th Amendment? He was described in one of the laudatory speeches at San Antonio as "the leader who knows the road to prosperity." He has not yet pointed out that road; nor has he defined his position upon any of the above important questions. If he is in fact an "honest to goodness" candidate for the presidency we are entitled to know where he stands.

Legion Learns Unique Toad Training Ideas

Since the announcement that there was to be a horned toad race and dance, merchants have been placing entries in the race and there has been growing inquiry as to how to train a horned toad to run. Many ideas and methods have been advanced and many are in use by various firms and individuals, hoping that their horned pony may bring home the blue ribbon.

However one plan that is in use by the Firestone Service Stores is unique. Mr. Corley is training the toad and claims he is a winner. "Firestone Gum Dipper" is the name of the title contender and he is being put through his paces by workers there at the store.

Observers heard that Mr. Corley was using a rather unusual training method but it was yesterday before anyone got close enough to find out how the trick was turned.

In addition to the Firestone Store's entry the following were announced Thursday morning: by Big Spring Gun Club, "Blue Rock"; Planter's Gin company "Tax Assessor"; Hokus Pokus Grocery, "Hokus Pokus"; by Lone Star cafe, "John Garner"; by Piggy Wiggy stores, "Piggy Wiggy."

Sponsors of the derby announced that they needed more horned toads. Cash will be paid for those knees of many congressman, and about him as a possible presidential candidate.

In the past few weeks an actual distinguished look has come about in the man who formerly paid little attention to such things as clothes and how he wore them. He now affects a wing collar.

He rules the house with a hand even more firm than that of Longworth, and enjoys occasional references to his mastery from the floor.

Every day or two some member reminds the house that Garner is a democratic presidential prospect, but as yet Garner has never been in the chair on such occasions. He needs no reminders. The trophies and knick-knacks that flow in upon those in high place are beginning to clutter up his office—and Texas friends have got out an automobile tag, a brilliant yellow, that bears the inscription:

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Wednesday night, for want of something else to do, we went to Breckenridge. Later on in the evening we wished that we had stayed home. For the purpose of this 17-mile jaunt was to see a basketball game. We did enjoy the first quarter of the Breckenridge-Dublin girls contest. It was a very nice game. Breckenridge has a blonde-haired center that could play any position she wanted to on our club, and a guard that could be co-captain, student manager, and assistant coach.

We were very miserable all evening in the Buckaroo gym. For company we had only Bobby Campbell of the Breckenridge Americans and the old standbys, W. L. Thompson and Walt Smith.

Messrs Thompson and Smith, however, were not saying anything, which was something unusual, and Mr. Campbell was saying too much. However, taking everything into consideration Bobby is a very hospitable sort of person. He promised to introduce us to the blonde-haired center if we'd stay over and not mention the outcome of the game for an entire evening. He tried his best not to rub it in. But every now and then he'd chuckle, and if you haven't heard Bobby Campbell chuckling you don't know anything about art.

Reld and Hopper, it seems, were suffering from a recent illness in the Wednesday night contest, and were therefore unable to turn in their regular performance. But this information is not offered as an alibi. The Big Spring team just experienced an off night, and we for one believe that they'll make up for the lapse Friday and Saturday nights when they again tangle with Shotwell's Buckaroo. Their best performances are turned in when they are deep in the mire of defeat and have to pull the unexpected to come through. Confidentially we don't believe the Greenies are as strong as the Abilene team that the Steers defeated two straight in their own gym after dropping the first contest on the Big Spring court. Their defense is perhaps a little better, but their offense lacks a lot of being as good. Wohlford and Spain can make baskets from anywhere on the court and Todd is not so bad at the art of ringing goals from the center of the court himself, but those gentlemen aren't nearly so difficult to guard as were Messrs. Coppinger, Street and Smith of the Eagles.

The Breckenridge offense was admittedly clicking at almost its highest speed last night against a listless band of Bovines. During the evening they accumulated 24 points, and there were few misses or wild passes. Twenty-four points isn't liable to win the game here Friday night.

Big Spring, one learns from the state Intercollegiate League, has been transferred from District 4 to 3, or, rather, the district to which Big Spring belongs has had its numeral altered. Which, of course, is of little importance. Four or thirty-three it is all the same. But the shift made in the championship pairing is of interest. No longer will the representative of this portion of state football meet the winner of the Oil Belt and bi-district. Next year the opponent will be the winner of District 4, which is the territory around El Paso. Last year Midland defeated one of that district's strongest clubs 19 to 18 in a practice game, so you see it is quite a break.

The league has also ordered that no football games, class A or class B, be played before the last Friday in September.

Spring football practice is to begin in Big Spring in the near future, Coach Bristol advises. The Steer mentor, by the way, is not at all pleased with the new rules being passed enthusiastically by the national committee. According to Bristol the game is degenerating into more a pass and tag game. However, it is quite likely that Obie will enlighten his charges as to the actual meanings of the various regulations, and do his utmost to see that they do not disobey them. After all rules are rules.

Clabber Goes Modern

This Oldfashioned Dish Under Name of Cottage Cheese Has Deserted Kitchen for Dining Room

You never hear of clabber nowadays. It's too old-fashioned! Belongs to a rough pioneer age, like coonskin caps. Clabber has gone modern and now is served in deluxe salads under the name of Cottage Cheese, say all the cooks.

One of the outstanding accomplishments of a Howard County woman is that of cottage cheese making. She is Mrs. Ches Anderson.

Only three cows are milked, on an average, throughout the year. These three cows earned for Mrs. Anderson in 1930 almost $800. Most of this came from cottage cheese and the remainder from butter and milk.

In 1931, Mrs. Anderson sold as much cottage cheese as in 1930, in spite of the fact that the population of this city suffered a great decrease; but she reduced her price in competition with the dairies and so did not earn as much as she did the previous year.

Today her three cows are producing all the cottage cheese the town eats. The cheese is attractively presented at three of the leading groceries. The demand for this is so great that Mrs. Anderson no longer makes butter. She sells her cream to the same groceries that market her cheese and with the amount she puts into cottage cheese, it takes all she has, sometimes leaving the family a little short.

This is one of the most profitable ways of marketing milk, but the work, although not hard, is continuous and none of Mrs. Anderson's competitors, in town or elsewhere, have lasted long.

Demonstrating this cheese at the market has made it popular and has identified it with the very attractive woman who makes it. Cottage cheese, says Mrs. Anderson, has replaced in popular fancy, the old time clabber. It is really nothing but clabber with the whey drained out.

During these demonstrations, Mrs. Anderson makes it into salads with fresh onions and green peppers, or with tomatoes, or pineapple and it secures new friends with every taste.

most to see that they do not disobey them. After all rules are rules.

Re-Alignment Of Grid Plan Is Announced

This District, Now No. 3, To Meet El Paso Area Winner

The winner of the San Angelo, Big Spring, Sweetwater football district this year will tackle the champion of the El Paso circuit in the district battle instead of the champion of the Oil Belt.

The Texas Intercollegiate league class A football districts have been re-numbered and several shifts have been made for the championship bi-district matchings, schools officials have been notified.

The districts have been re-arranged in the following fashion: Amarillo, district 1; Abilene or Oil Belt, district 2; San Angelo, Sweetwater, Big Spring, district 3; El Paso, district 4; Wichita Falls, district 5; Sherman, district 6; Fort Worth, district 7; Dallas, district 8; Greenville, district 9; Tyler, district 10; Corsicana, district 11; Austin, San Antonio, district 12; Houston, district 13; Beaumont, district 14; Corpus Christi, district 15; Harlingen and the Rio Grande Valley, district 16.

There have been no changes in the lineups of towns in the 16 circuits. The district champions are to meet in bi-district championship games in numerical rotation, district 1 versus district 2, district 3 versus district 4 and so on down the line.

District 3, last year numbered 4, is composed of San Angelo, Big Spring, Sweetwater, McCamey, Colorado and Midland. District 4, this circuit's bi-district adversary, is comprised of the far Rio Grande and El Paso schools.

Officials of this circuit will endeavor to induce the intercollegiate league to underwrite expenses of the districts 3 and 4 bi-district titular game. It is believed hardly possible the bi-district conflict will draw sufficient money to defray traveling expenses of the visiting team whether it be the district 3 city.

It was announced the league has ordered that no football games, class A or class B, non-titular or conference play, be staged prior to the last Friday in September.

Spring Housecleaning Means Returning Books Due, To City Library

Many people in town are holding out books that are overdue at the City Federation library, announces Mrs. B. T. Cardwell. The library has been very lenient in the past about this matter and Mrs. Cardwell asks now that the books be returned this week. After this week, a severe fine penalty will be imposed.

These books should be returned not alone for the sake of the reading public but to get them in time for the classification of the library and the re-checking that is now going on.

Anyway, it's a good time to clean house. And what's a bigger nuisance than a borrowed book?

A. A. Engineer

OTTO E. KIRCHNER

Otto E. Kirchner, co-designer of the nine passenger Pilgrim ship of American Airways as well as the plane which Commander Byrd flew over the South Pole, has been named consulting and advisory engineer in a representative. Mr. Kirchner was here recently on an inspection tour. Previous to his connection with American Airways, Mr. Kirchner was an aeronautical engineer for Ford, Fairchild and the U. S. Government. While identified with the Ford Motor Company Mr. Kirchner designed the wings for the plane Commander Byrd flew over the South Pole, the trip requiring a gasoline capacity of nearly twice the normal amount, and at the same time an ability to clear the 16,000-foot antarctic mountain range. With the government Mr. Kirchner devoted much time to the development of aeronautical instruments and for a time was assigned to the dirigible Los Angeles as technical expert. While with Fairchild he participated in the preparation of the Meers and Collier ship that went around the world in 23 days, which record remained intact until recently smashed by Post and Gatty. He also prepared the ship that rescued the German cross Atlantic flyers who were grounded in Canada.

Battle Of Shanghai As Reported By News Cameras

TYPICAL SCENE FROM WAR TORN CHAPEI

This scene from the Shanghai battle front shows the effects of the Japanese bombardment during the heavy fighting there. In the foreground are the ruins of one of Chapei's principal buildings destroyed by the shelling and fire that followed.

FIRE BURNS GOVERNMENT WHEAT

Fire and two explosions destroyed the head-house of a big grain elevator which was the Kansas City subsidiary of the National Grain corporation. About 100,000 bushels of farm board wheat burned, and total loss was estimated at $500,000. Firemen are shown extinguishing the blaze.

FLAGSHIP AND COMMANDER IN DASH TO SHANGHAI

The cruiser, Houston, shown here, flagship of Rear Adm. Montgomery M. Taylor, commanding the Asiatic fleet, and seven destroyers rushed from Manila to protect imperiled American citizens in battle-torn Shanghai. The Houston has a complement of 53 officers and 512 men. Adm. Taylor (left) and his aides, Capt. F. J. Fletcher and Lieut. Comm. Q. C. Moore, Jr., are shown below.

AMERICANS IN DANGER IN THIS SHANGHAI AREA

The first order in 32 years sending regular American army troops to China was written on a scratch pad. Leaving the White House conference where the decision was reached to send soldiers, Secretary Hurley and Gen. Douglas MacArthur went to the former's office where they quickly drafted their orders. They were handed to Maj. Gen. Van H. Moseley, who, using one finger at a time, carefully typed out the instructions, and they were dispatched by wireless.

This striking air view shows part of the International Settlement in Shanghai, China, where foreign residents have been endangered by fighting between Chinese and Japanese. The winding river shown is the Soochow.

JAPANESE FIGHT FIRES SET BY RETREATING CHINESE

This striking view of the nature of warfare in the far east shows Japanese troops extinguishing a fire set by retreating Chinese to part of a bridge at Laoshakow, where the southern branch of the Chinese eastern railroad crosses the Sungari river, 83 miles south of Harbin, Manchuria. The bridge was repaired and the Japanese moved on.

TERRORIZED CHINESE LEAVE DEVASTATED CHAPEI

This picture from the Shanghai battle front gives an excellent idea of the fighting there. These Japanese marines are shown during the Chapei battle firing from behind their sandbag street barricade.

Here is a Chinese mother and her brood being trundled on a wheelbarrow into the international settlement in Shanghai after guns from Japanese warships began the bombardment of the Chapei section.

NANKING, WHERE JAPANESE SHELLED CHINESE FORTS

This panoramic view of the south gate bridge and adjacent territory in Nanking, China, gives a graphic idea of the physical nature of the city which became a new center of international interest when Japanese forces shelled it and landed troops there. Chinese officials already had moved the capital from Nanking to Hankow.

Sounds Warning

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, foreign minister, warned the powers that unless hostilities in Shanghai were halted, Japan probably would call upon its army to back up naval forces which have been held in check.

Japanese Navy Head

Admiral Prince Hirooyasu Fushimi is chief of the Japanese naval general staff in charge of the marine force which shelled Shanghai.

U. S. MARINES MAY SEE ACTION IN SHANGHAI WAR

Members of the fourth regiment, United States Marines, shown here on duty in Shanghai, may be called into action if the situation in the Chinese city menaces lives or property of Americans. These marines have been guarding the power plant which furnishes lights to the International Settlement.

 opened the play by fouling Morgan, but the Big Spring forward missed. Todd came back immediately to intercept a pass almost under the goal line and dribbled half the length of the floor before attempting a long shot that dropped in with a gentle swish to make the score 20 to 11.

From then on out the game was far from exciting. Forrester took a short pass from Morgan and sank a nice shot from just to the side of the foul line to make the score 20 to 13, but Spain retaliated with an overhead shot and Todd added insult to injury by scoring after another long dribble to end the night mare 24 to 13.

 for spreading the oil over the road.

State highway department crews Wednesday were reported placing rock in the holes worn deep into highway nine south of town along low places. If the state will haul some of the caliche that may be found alongside that highway at frequent intervals, and spread it over the low stretches a lot of the grief traffic has been dealt during recent rains could be stopped.

We have at hand a statement contained in "The Takeoff," published by the Mid-Continent Map company, concerning oil roads. It follows:

Advocates of more and better oil roads for Oklahoma are finding pleasure in the fact that Southerners of the recent Galveston-Winnipeg auto expedition were afforded an opportunity of traveling over oil roads in oil-449 in 1930.

JAPANESE TROOPS MOVE INTO CHAPEI STREETS

This unusual picture shows Japanese troops in the narrow streets of the Chapei district of Shanghai, China, which they occupied despite terrific fire from the Chinese defenders. The invaders are constantly on the alert for orders to "move up," and on guard against native snipers who made their advance extremely hazardous.

'Constitution' Turns Back To Galveston

HOUSTON (UP)—The Frigate Constitution put about and returned to Galveston yesterday because it was feared the ship's masts were too tall to clear power lines across the ship channel at deepwater, 10 miles from Houston.
 A telegram to the port commission said engineers will measure the height of the wires and the masts before the vessel attempts the passage. The port commission was advised that normally the masts would have a two-foot clearance but due to flood waters from the San Jacinto River the masts could not pass under safely.

Tom Green County Man Gets 12 Years

ABILENE—After deliberating exactly three hours, a 42nd district court jury yesterday found George Hill, Tom Green county turkey raiser, guilty of murder with malice and assessed a 12 year penitentiary sentence.
 Pleading Self-Defense
 From the witness stand Hill had pleaded self defense in his trial here for the fatal stabbing of John R. Kiser, San Angelo dairyman, last June 10. The case came to Abilene on a change of venue from San Angelo, where Hill's 24 year old son, Alva Hill, was convicted in that district court last fall of murder without malice in the slaying and assessed five years in the penitentiary.

Bill Murray Terms Garner 'Weak Sister'

MARION, Ind. (UP)—Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, in Marion to continue his Indiana tour, dismissed other Democratic possibilities today with a few words each as he sat in a hotel room sipping his breakfast cup of coffee.
 Here's what he said of the others:
 Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York: "He hasn't got the ghost of a chance."
 Alfred E. Smith, former New York governor: "Same as Roosevelt."
 Rep. John N. Garner of Texas, speaker of the house: "He's a weak sister."
 Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Maryland: "He is too all-fired lazy—a man who spends two hours at his office in the morning and all afternoon at the country club."

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission denied the application of the Winter Garden Belt Railway to construct a new 70-mile line in Dimmit and Maverick counties, Texas.
 The proposed route was from Asherton via Carrizo Springs and Eagle Pass to Quemada. The petitioners estimate the line would cost $2,000,000.

The commission said it did not agree with the "optimistic" estimate of the business such a road would have. It said that if the road were needed, it should be constructed by one of the lines now serving the territory.

HOPE ROSS was a fool in most matters. Her flippant, senseless conduct amused, irritated and outraged family and friends, depending on how Hope felt. When she barely had emerged from the pig-tail stage, she was labelled "boy crazy" (and correctly).

CHICAGO, Ill. — Following the announcement that power companies and manufacturers of electric ranges are pledged to a 3-year program, involving an expenditure of $12,000,000 for advertising and promotion, comes the statement that gas utilities and makers of gas ranges will parallel the educational campaign with one of their own. The keynote was sounded in an address delivered before the Manufacturers Section meeting of the American Gas Association by W. Frank Roberts, President of Standard Gas Equipment Corp., New York.

Referring to the fact that gas ranges of today are far advanced over those made just a few years back, Mr. Roberts said, "Here is a situation demanding immediate action. The manufacturer of gas appliances, as well as the utility whose chief income is derived from the sale of gas, must together recognize the obligation imposed by this move on the part of the electrical interests. We must re-emphasize the superiorities of cooking with gas and point the way to a public bewildered by conflicting claims. It is far from our thought to eliminate the electric range. This youngest of electrical appliances will have a definite place in some homes. But the vast majority will always consider cooking-with-gas as the ultimate modern method. For gas is cleanly, intensely hot and far more economical than any other fuel, especially when used with modern ranges such as we will release for general display within a short time." It is said that this manufacturer has pledged many important gas utilities to a program designed to substitute gas as the modern economic cooking fuel. Meanwhile, Big Business watches with interest the battle between David, the youngest electrical appliance and Goliath, the strongly entrenched gas range.

Local dealers report that their cash registers are ringing up sales for Oxydol, the all-purpose household soap with 50 per cent more suds. Local newspaper advertising has begun.

Local housewives reading their favorite newspaper will be told the simple yet remarkable facts about saving in time and in wash-day energy which the richer lasting Oxydol suds afford.

A very timely note of economy has been injected into Oxydol. The package is still the familiar blue and orange—but it is now larger. Each tiny grain of this efficient soap has been expanded to dissolve instantly and do more work. And nine out of ten old users of Oxydol have voted for the improved product in this larger package.
